Winds Delay Record Flight Of Orlando Balloonist

BEDFORD, Mass. (UPI) — Pushed by changing winds out over open water, Orlando balloonist Joe Kittinger drifted today off the coast of France but his flight controllers say he still is within reach of completing the first solo trans-Atlantic balloon crossing in record time.

Kittinger early today drifted at a 3-mile altitude 325 miles west of Bordeaux, France, in the Bay of Biscay — "a little further from land than last night," a flight spokesman said.

"The winds blew him south and that lengthened his flight over water by about 300 miles," said flight spokesman Jim Mitchell. "By some quirk of fate, he's gone over water as far as he possibly could before touching land."

Mitchell said it has not yet been determined where or exactly when the balloon will touch down because that is a factor "based on the balloon's conditions, the weather and the wind, Joe's health and the terrain."

Despite the setback, the balloonist — who left Caribou, Maine, Friday night aboard his 10-story high "Balloon of Peace" — was reported in good spirits and fit, Mitchell said.

"He's determined to make it," Mitchell said from a ground control station in Bedford, which tracked the flight by radio relay. "He's riding what we call a 'free balloon' and all he controls is the altitude. So he's strictly riding the winds. That's part of the attraction of ballooning, but it's also part of the scourge."

The helium-filled balloon, which Sunday raced across the Atlantic on a fast-moving weather system at speeds of up to 75 mph, has slowed to 30 mph, Mitchell said.

But he said the 56-year-old balloonist, a former Air Force test pilot and Vietnam POW, still is within reach of completing the crossing in record time.

Mitchell said Kittinger's progress compared with the 137 hours it took the late Maxie

Anderson and his crew on the Double Eagle II — which made the only previously successful Atlantic balloon trip in August 1978.

There have been five previous attempts to balloon across the Atlantic solo, but all were unsuccessful and two of the pilots were killed.

Kittinger had been waiting for more than a month for the weather and wind patterns to be favorable for his departure from the United States.

When he left Friday, he was cheered on by 1,000 people singing "God Bless America" as the majestic ball soared into the sky.

FDIC Suing Freedom S&L To Divest 6 ComBanks

Freedom Savings and Loan Association is being sued by a federal agency to divest itself of the six ComBank commercial banks acquired by Freedom in April, 1983.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. approved the acquisition conditioned upon Freedom achieving a specified level of capital by Dec. 31, 1983.

Robert M. Klingler, chief executive officer of Freedom and formerly chief executive officer of the six ComBank offices said, "Good faith efforts have been made and continue to be made to raise additional capital."

"Freedom's operating results are improving in line with our projections, and we believe that as our improvement continues we will be in a position to raise additional capital," Klingler said.

Klingler said the action by the FDIC is "extremely unusual and difficult to assess. We don't understand the reasons for nor the purposes of the FDIC's action."

He said the six ComBanks no longer exist, making divestiture impossible.

"The charters were relinquished upon the merger into Freedom 18 months ago. Even if there were merit to the FDIC position, which we plan to contest, we don't know how we would divest six banks that no longer exist. The assets and liabilities of these entities have grown and changed dramatically and the functions have been merged with Freedom. We are regulated by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the state of Florida and not the FDIC."

"The deposits acquired by Freedom in the acquisition are now insured by the FSLIC and not the FDIC," Klingler said.

Obeying The Sign

The sign says: "No Stopping Or Standing." The first prohibition applies to motor vehicles, which 13-year-old Sara Nelson obviously isn't. The second, however, is aimed at people so Sara, being the dutiful Sanford Middle School student she is, sits. State Will Help Pay Baby Delivery Costs For Poor In Seminole

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

For years, pre-natal and post-natal care has been provided for poor women in Seminole County, often for free, with doctors receiving nothing for their services.

And many of the women who received such aid made no arrangements in advance for their babies' deliveries, walking into the emergency room at Sanford's Central Florida Regional Hospital (CFRH) when the time came and hoping a staff obstetrician would deliver their children.

That will change for women in the county health department's pre- and post-natal program beginning Oct. 1.

The state has allocated $69,000 to expand the health department's "Improved Pregnancy Outcome Project" and to pay at least a stipend to the obstetricians who take care of deliveries for indigents.

Doctors who deliver the babies will be paid $231.80 each, about one-third the amount they would receive from a private patient. Some 170 women are expected to have their doctor bills paid from the fund for the deliveries in the new fiscal year, according to Dr. Jorge Deju, the county's director of health and human services.

Deju said the special funds will also be used for another maternity clinic at the health department and some additional laboratory services.

Of the 260 mothers who had pre-natal and post-natal care at the clinic from July, 1983 to July, 1984, Deju said 135 came under Medicaid and doctors who assisted with the deliveries were paid $231.80 for each delivery. Doctors were not compensated at all for the remaining 125, he said.

Meanwhile, CFRH administrator James Tesar said about 600 babies are delivered annually at the hospital and about half come into the hospital without physicians.

"It is obvious this new money is not going to take care of all of them, but it is a help as far as the physicians are concerned," Tesar said.

The hospital may be paid under Medicaid, by the county for indigent patients or we may not be paid at all," he said, adding the hospital is "writing off" — not collecting — payments for 40-50 percent of the hospital costs of the maternity wing. The problem is compounded by the fact that CFRH is the only facility in the county which offers maternity care, he said.

"The major problem, however, has been with the physicians. Obviously, every time an obstetrician on call responds for an indigent delivery, it is infringing on his private practice," Tesar said. "From their standpoint, they are paying high liability and high malpractice premiums and this type of thing might not be worthwhile."

Some may think it might be better to establish in some other community where they don't have this problem dumped on them," he said.

To illustrate the costs to the hospital for indigent mothers, Tesar said in 1981, the hospital billed $335,000 for obstetrical services and received $178,000 in payment. In 1982, the billings for obstetrical services totaled $555,000 and $337,000 in payments were received.

"Physicians run into the same problem. Obstetricians end up doing a lot of free care and pediatricians have the same problem. When an obstetrician takes care of a mother, a pediatrician has to take care of the baby," he said.

Deju said about 30 percent of all the women from Seminole County who deliver come through the health department.

The good news, he pointed out, is that infant mortality in the county is declining.

In 1978, the infant mortality rate in the state was 14 deaths per 100,000 live births. In Seminole County, the rate was 15.1.

The Florida rate in 1983, however, had dropped to 12.3, but in Seminole County was 8.4.

"I like to think a great deal of the reduction here is related to more and better health care being provided through the Seminole County Health Department," Deju said.

Economic Growth Found Uneven In Third World

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The World Bank says the overall global economy improved in fiscal 1984, but it said much of Africa, Latin America and southern Europe suffered "economic hardships more severe than in the year before."

The World Bank made its assessment Sunday in a report analyzing the economies of developing nations as of June 30, 1984.

The 233-page report said world trade did not respond to a resumption of growth in the industrial countries, commodity prices declined, and there was mounting concern over the ability of Third World countries to pay off their huge foreign debts amid a "renewed increase in international interest rates."

But, the study said, as the American economic recovery gains momentum and spreads to more industrial countries this year, there should be "an expansion of developing countries' exports and increases in commodity prices."

"In turn, rises in commodity prices are likely to lead to an increase in imports by developing countries and in rates of growth."

The report noted, however, that despite the growing recovery in industrial countries last year, led by the U.S. boom, economic growth in the developing

Snooping From Your Own Home

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A joint legislative committee plans to offer a bill next spring that would allow people to view Florida public information records without leaving their homes.

For instance, the bill would allow someone with a home computer to call the county property appraiser's office, connect the telephone to the computer and read the appraiser's records.

"The public record says, by God, you have the right to inspect, but what happens when the records are in Tallahassee?" said Ed Levine, staff director of the legislative committee.

State Sen. George Stuart, D-Orlando, committee chairman, said legislators are trying to change the law to allow agencies to charge fees for remote access to their computers.

Bandmaster Bob Maguire expects contributions to total between $3,500 and $5,000. The uniform fund previously was at $8,500 and the goal is to raise $21,000 by Oct. 1. Other events planned include a bowling tournament at Bowl America Saturday, 3-9 p.m., a skate-a-thon, and a candy sale.

AIDS Would Jeopardize Nursing Home Insurance

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford-based insurance brokerage, along with an Atlanta insurance company, have informed the state that they probably would cancel the insurance of nursing homes if those facilities accepted AIDS patients.

Although Crump London Underwriter, 1st Street, Sanford, does not insure any nursing homes in Seminole County, vice president Gary Sanborn said his company does insure about 15 facilities in the state, most in south Florida.

Nursing home are set up primarily to handle the health care needs of the elderly, Sanborn said, and introducing an acquired immune deficiency syndrome patient into that atmosphere would present a hazard that was not considered when the facility's policy was written.

"A nursing home by design is not set up for handling AIDS. It's set up to handle the elderly and insurance coverage and prices are based on what they are set up to do.

"This is a new topic," he said of the deadly, highly contagious, viral, blood disease, which is transmitted primarily through homosexual contact. "When you have a new exposure on an existing risk it becomes a factor when writing an insurance policy. Today it's AIDS tomorrow it could be something else," Sanborn said.

Although the situation has yet to arise, Sanborn said that if and when it did, his company would consider the situation and might cancel the nursing home's insurance or raise its premium rate, because of the increased risk to the elderly patients. Crump London Underwriters and Interstate Insurance Group of Atlanta, both recently notified the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services that they are no interested in insuring nursing homes, which might be ordered by the state to accept AIDS patients.

Generic Drug Bill Could Save Consumers $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans who need prescription drugs may save $1 billion in the next 10 years through legislation waiting at the White House for final approval from President Reagan.

The bill, which would make lower-priced generic drugs more widely available, was given final congressional approval by the Senate last week on a voice vote.

In addition to making generic drugs more readily available, the bill encourages more new drugs by authorizing longer patents on new medicines.

Generic drugs are cheaper but chemically similar versions of brand-name drugs.

"American consumers will save $1 billion in the next 10 years in lower prices on prescription drugs," Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said. "Older Americans stand to save the most, since they are the largest group of pharmaceutical consumers in the country."

"Many of the cheaper drugs are specifically for victims of arthritis, heart and circulatory problems — problems of old age," Hatch said.

Sponsors of the bill said some drugs could soon become available at cheaper prices, including generic versions of Inderal, a widely used blood pressure medicine, Valium, a tranquilizer, and Dyazide, a diuretic.

The bill has the support of the pharmaceutical and generic drug industries, labor, consumer groups and the administration.

The president is expected to sign it.

Generic drugs, sold under their chemical name, cost 50 percent to 80 percent less than brand-name drugs. The shift to generic drugs depends heavily on doctors; physicians can specify on their prescriptions whether a pharmacy should use a generic version when filling the order.

But hospitals, organized health plans, Medicaid and the military are expected to reap immediate and large savings.

A major feature of the bill directs the Food and Drug Administration to make broader use of its fast-track procedures for approving generic drugs. FDA now only uses that procedure for drugs approved before 1962.

Volunteer Lauded

Herb Friedberg, right, accepts a plaque from Altamonte Springs Police Chief William Liquori as the top volunteer of the year in the city's police department. Friedberg is a real estate broker. Friedberg and other departmental volunteers were honored at a luncheon Friday.

Man Who Tried To Shoot Woman, Policeman Convicted Of Assault

A Sanford man whose gun misfired twice when he tried to shoot a woman and a police officer has been found guilty of aggravated assault.

Eddie Lee Bailey, 30, of 612½ Cypress Ave., who was originally charged with attempted murder, was also found guilty of resisting arrest with violence.

According to prosecutor George Wallace, Bailey faces a minimum mandatory incarceration of 3 years for the assaults and resistance and could receive up to 4½ years in prison when sentenced Nov. 16 by Seminole Circuit Judge Robert McGregor.

Bailey was charged after a dramatic confrontation May 12 in which his intended victim and then the responding police officer heard the heart-stopping click of a gun's hammer fall when a gun misfired.

According to court records, police officer M. W. Reaves responded to a disturbance where shots had reportedly been fired at 5:35 p.m. on May 12. After he arrived at 89 Monroe Terrace, Sanford, he entered the home of Joan White, 30, and discovered Ms. White was being held with a gun pointed at her head by Bailey.

Reaves reported that Ms. White appeared frightened and was struggling to get away. Bailey yelled, "You're going to have to kill me, 'cause I'm going to kill this...." the police report said.

The officer drew his service revolver and ordered the man to drop his gun. Bailey screamed again that he was going to kill Ms. White, according to the officer. Bailey then dragged her into a bedroom.

Reaves followed the pair and said Bailey was holding Ms. White by the hair with one hand and held the gun to her head with the other.

"I saw him pull the trigger and heard the hammer fall," Reaves said. "The gun, however, did not go off. I knocked the gun out of Bailey's hand."

Ms. White ran from the gunman and bumped into the officer. Bailey recovered his gun and the lawman grabbed Bailey's wrist and attempted to subdue him.

"I yelled at him to stop, that he was under arrest," Reaves said. But Bailey shouted back that he was going to kill Reaves and kept pointing his gun at him. Reaves reported.

The pair struggled and Reaves said he had a fingernail pulled off in the fight. Bailey pointed the pistol at the officer and pulled the trigger. Reaves said, but again the gun did not fire. Bailey twisted away from Reaves and fled. The officer chased him but he got away. Bailey was arrested May 14 at S&H Fabrication and Engineering, 2660 Jewett Lane, Sanford, where he worked.

Man Acquitted Of One Charge, Convicted Of Another

A Sanford man acquitted of robbery has been found guilty in a related incident of violating his probation for a 1978 burglary.

David Lee Anderson, 26, of 104 McKay Blvd., was found not guilty Sept. 6 in the court of Seminole Circuit Judge Robert McGregor of a April 21 armed robbery at an Eagle Family Discount store, Fairway Plaza, Sanford.

Anderson, however, was judged guilty of violating his probation during the alleged April robbery and was sentenced to 15 years by Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr.

The legal problems of Anderson began on June 1, 1976, the day he burglarized a Sanford home at 2008 Lily Court and took two rings, according to court records. He was sentenced to 15 years divided into 5 years prison time and 10 years probation.

On April 21, Anderson was arrested in connection with a robbery at the discount store but was found not guilty by a six-member jury Sept. 6. A week later, Anderson pleaded no contest to violating probation by allegedly robbing the store.

While the hearings stemmed from the same incident and appear connected, they are actually separate issues and have no bearing on each other, according to a spokesman for the State Attorney's office.

The reason why Anderson was found not guilty of robbery but guilty of violating his probation is because of a difference in the burden of proof needed to sustain a guilty verdict in each legal action, the spokesman said.

The burden of proof standard needed to convince a jury that a robbery was committed is higher than the burden of proof needed to convince a judge that a probation agreement was violated.

Florida To Go With Ad Slogan For Sixth Year

By Susan Postlewaite
UPI Business Writer

MIAMI (UPI) — Florida will go with the same ad slogan this winter that it has used for five years: "When you need it bad we've got it good."

Some people mix up a few words here and there, but the point is "they know it's Florida" when they hear the slogan, said Phillip Schwartz, executive vice president of Mike Sloan Advertising Inc., which created the catchy phrase.

The ads show people riding an airboat in the Everglades and ballooning. They also show traditional Florida pursuits such as snorkeling.

"When people up north see the airboats, and the snorkeler going through a mass of fish, it's fabulous. They're freezing and it's fabulous," said Sheila Goodman, advertising representative with Metropolitan Publishers.

Schwartz said the $3.6 million ad campaign is aimed at luring tourists to Florida. The slogan has become "a valuable property" owned by the state of Florida, said Schwartz.

"An advertising campaign should not be changed arbitrarily," he said.

He said the slogan has the same kind of recognition that the Bahamas has after sticking with "It's better in the Bahamas" for 15 years, that Virginia created with its 15-year-old "Virginia is for Lovers" and New York has with its 10-year-old "I Love New York" slogan.

It is difficult to measure the impact of an advertising campaign, but Schwartz said the fact more people are coming to Florida, staying longer and visiting more parts of the state indicates that advertising in general is working.

Dean Gaiser, director of the division of tourism, said he expects 40 million visitors will come to Florida in 1984, a slight increase over 1983 when 38.9 million came.

The campaign was unveiled at the Governor's Conference on Tourism at the Miami Airport Hilton last week.

Gov. Bob Graham told the conference that Miami needs to cultivate an image of an "adult tourism center," without casino gambling, to lure back visitors. He said he favors increasing the state's tourism budget, currently about $4.5 million per year.

South Florida lost two tourist attractions in the past year — the Serpenterium and the Miami Wax Museum — but gained one, Six Flags of Atlantis, a water slide attraction in Broward.

Despite cold weather in January, resort tax collections increased in the first quarter.

Dade County, where tourism has been sluggish since 1980, is beginning to bounce back. Resort tax collections reached $1.2 million in the first three months of 1984, up about 2 percent from the first quarter of 1983. Actual expenditures by the visitors were up 27 percent, to $1.2 billion.

Nerves And Anxiety Can Cause Physical Symptoms

Dr. Lamb

DR. LAMB — My doctor says I have nerves and anxiety. He put me on some nerve pills. But I didn't think nerves could cause you to feel this way.

My chest hurts off and on and my stomach rolls and makes noise and makes me feel sick. I sometimes have trouble breathing. When I have chest pains, I'm sure I'm having a heart attack, but the doctors says no.

DEAR READER — Yes, nerves or anxiety can cause all of your symptoms and many more. Your trouble with breathing may mean you are hyperventilating, meaning overbreathing. That is common with anxiety.

That does not mean that any of your symptoms are any less real or any less important. It just means that they are not caused by heart disease, stomach disease or lung disease. It means that you have some emotional or psychological factors that are causing you a lot of real discomfort. I think it is important that you have had a good medical evaluation. Understanding that you are in good health may be important in helping you feel less anxious.

But you need some professional counseling. It is important to find out why you feel anxious and to resolve the basic psychological problem for you.

There are many reasons for anxiety, that is why it is so common. I have discussed these in The Health Letter 19-8. That Anxious Feeling, which I am sending you.

You can also do things that will make you feel better. Don't smoke. Don't use coffee, tea or chocolate. Do exercise regularly. But do let someone help you work through your problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been suffering with shortness of breath for two months. I have been through angiograms and a cardiac catheterization, and the only thing they found was a weak heart muscle on the left side of my heart. I am taking Lanoxin, Procardia and Lasix.

DEAR READER — Shortness of breath is usually the first sign of weakening of the heart muscle. The left ventricular muscle must pump blood to all of your body except your lungs. When it weakens, it is called heart failure. This causes blood to accumulate in your lungs because it can't enter the failing left heart fast enough. The lungs are congested, causing shortness of breath, and that is where the term congestive heart failure comes from.

At first, the shortness of breath may be noticed only with increased exertion, but it tends to progress unless you are treated as your doctor is treating you.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
The average rubber bridge game is filled with errors on both sides, so look at what happened in today's deal. Declarer won the opening lead with the queen of hearts and immediately finessed his jack of clubs. East won the king and returned a heart, won by South's ace. Now the high clubs were played and a club given up to the 10. Declarer took three clubs and six other top tricks to fulfill his contract.

But the sadder consequence is that declarer will not be able to enjoy the third club trick necessary to make his game bid.

In rubber bridge, declarer's main objective is to guarantee the contract, even if it means giving up the chance for overtricks. If South follows this principle and takes a safety play, East's stratagem of holding up the king will be foiled. The proper play at trick two is to finesse the nine of clubs, not the jack. As the cards lie, this finesse forces East to win the 10 while there is still adequate transportation to dummy for declarer to make the club tricks needed for his contract.

You alert readers have certainly noticed that defender East was too eager to grab his king of clubs. Suppose East refuses to win the first club. Declarer will now return to his hand to try a second finesse, which will lose.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY SEPTEMBER 18, 1984
More opportunities than you can comfortably handle may be dumped into your lap this coming year. Your best judgment will be required to separate the wheat from the chaff.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today, do not bank too heavily upon what other people can do for you, rather than what you can do for yourself. There's no substitute for self-reliance. Major changes are in store for Virgos in the coming year. Send for your year-ahead predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Important goals are reachable today, but they must not be taken as a foregone conclusion. If you let down at the last minute, victory will elude you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are more interested in listening to the sound of your own voice than what others have to say today, valuable information could escape you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be extremely selective today as to whom you let manage a situation for you that could cost you money. If it goes wrong, you will pay, not the other guy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When making important decisions today, don't predicate your judgment upon the way you'd like things to be. Base them upon conditions as they actually exist.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Take your duties and responsibilities seriously today. Trying to rationalize them away or palm them off on others will make matters worse.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things will be more pleasant for you today if you surround yourself with old friends with whom you have much in common. Strangers could make you feel uneasy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you are hazy about your goals today, there's a strong possibility you may let opportunities slip past you unnoticed. Be ever-watchful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In your eagerness to promote your plans today, you could make hasty moves without fully weighing their consequences. Don't trip yourself up.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Just to be on the safe side today, look gift horses in the mouth. Offerings that appear to be too good to be true probably are.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Self-confidence is essential if you hope to succeed today. Don't enter into situations thinking the other guy holds all the aces.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not be lax about sensible health habits today. Eat and drink moderately and involve yourself in stimulating activities that exercise your mind and body.
