Full Steam Ahead For Port Of Sanford!

able to unlock vast waterways.

When word was received here that the Economic Development Administration had approved a grant of 1894.000 for the use of the Seminole County Port Authority thus filling a dollar gap, it was the end of a search for finances which had started in 1948, when the Port of Sanford was conceived.

Importance of this final step can be seen when the proper status is given this port construction which will create a facility unique to Sanford and provide waterborn traffic facilities not available in any other inland port in Florida.

This has been a long and difficult road which the men with vision have travelled. Chief among these proponents stands John Krider, executive manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, lower the construction of the Port of Sanford, a key create waterways, take advantage of the rivers and lakes which dot Central Florida. Year in and year out Krider's forceful voice has sounded the need for the St. Johns-Indian River canal which has only recently emerged from a fog of red tape.

Of course, he was not alone. Others in Sanford have recognized the prime importance of such improvement of nature's bounty. Among these we are happy to list Francis Roumillat, port administrator, who was one of the first to call the situation to EDA's portant in the future of our city and county than any of the personalities involved. For waterborne transportation is one leg of a base up which economic pros-

With all of Central Florida faced with growth of which would allow low-cost barge transportation with a port in Sanford to service and prospect of a St. Johns-Indian River canal to make a Jacksonville-Inland Waterway link available is of tremendous im-

Such growth, however, needs to be guided by sound, competent and wise local leadership. This only Sanford can supply and is, from any standpoint a major challenge of 1969. Other legs needed to support a balanced, strong economic base for Sanford in the matter of transportation are railroads, airports and highways. Fortunately our city can offer prime rail facilities.

In the matter of airports the somewhat delayed transformation of the vacated Naval Air Base to an airport with adequate services for general airway use and also attractive to air-oriented industries may be expected to take place in the near future.

It is only in highways, more precisely the roads which must act as feeders to existing or planned major federal or state routes, that Sanford and Seminole County must be considered as way below par.

Yet with the other three major transportation factors emerging as capable of handling our industrial growth and providing positive arguments to attract industry here, it certainly cannot be said too often that roads are our prime need.

In this connection and quite in harmony with the expansion of our economic vision provided by the sight of a Port of Sanford coming off the drawing boards and onto the land, we would again argue for the logic which supports the creation of a causeway across Lake Monroe to fill a dangerous gap in routes

By water, by air, by land and by rail we are to move ahead with the essential mainspring: vision and determination doing their part!

Boldly Refuse!

The consuming public is not required to pay for goods which are sent through the mails or otherwise delivered without being ordered. More and more people are troubled by the receipt of unordered goods with the sender calling for return or payment in spite of Federal Trade Commission rulings to the contrary.

There is no obligation on the part of the consumer either to pay for it or return it, providing he doesn't use it. In fact, some states have enacted laws which permit the recipient of unsolicited goods to keep them and regard them as a gift upon the theory he cannot be expected to use his home as a warehouse for a mail order

The Federal Trade Commission has warned such firms of the risks involved in using such sales methods. If they continue to resort to this practice, they will have no one to blame but themselves if they receive neither the money nor the merchandise in return.—Orlando (Fia.)

Blame Zip Code

A public service advertisement for the postal service goes like this: "Mail moves the country, and zip code moves the mail."

Ergo, we infer, zip codes move the country. We had been wondering what was keeping it going.-Montgomery (Ala.) Alabama Journal.

the Orange Belt Conference Crown along with the District 5 As I walked through the quiet Greyhound locker-room

Bryant Stadium in Lakeland Friday night and saw the grimaced faces of the Lyman players, I quickly realised that a football game does not end on the field when the clock finally runs out. The players were remembering the contest in what could be called an instant replay of the mind; "The Ifs, Ands, And Buts" This is undoubtedly what coaches mean when they say a "One Hundred Per Cent Effort." The mind, the body, and the soul must function as one in the game of football. The Greyhounds have given that "One Hundred Per Cont" effort all season, as they stayed on the field with even the roughest opponents. Take for instance in the pre-season Orlando Football Jamhoree at the Tangerine Bowl, The Rounds topped Double A Roone 7-0, and were tied by Regional Champ and Metro Winner Edgewater, 7-7. Edgewater is rated number five in Florida as of this writing, and have advanced
