Investigator Scott Ballou and Lt. Martin Linnekugel of the sheriff's department helped Mother Blanche Bell Weaver organize the food. On Wednesday morning, the food was seized as evidence along with about $2,500 in other merchandise when former Sanford Police officer Guy Brewster and his friend Clint Gioielli were stopped for a traffic violation and it was discovered that the items in the car were purchased with a stolen credit card. No charges have been filed in the case.

Security beefed up at Lake Mary High

LAKE MARY — Seminole County Sheriff's deputies have become familiar figures at Lake Mary High School. Several incidents of theft and vandalism have been reported over the last few days.

One incident, reported as having taken place on Oct. 26 or 27, said that a chain, valued at $300, had been pulled from around a student's neck. The theft was not listed on a sheriff's incident report until Nov. 12, however.

And the following incidents were reported just this week:

At 1:39 p.m. on Monday, deputies were called regarding a reported theft of 36 boxes of candy valued at $18 from a locker at the school.

At 8 a.m. Tuesday, deputies were called to the school regarding the reported theft of an envelope, containing $40 in cash.

Outreach program failed to reach parents, students

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — School officials at Lakeview Middle School are puzzled.

Earlier this week, they brought together school administrators, teachers and counselors at the West Sanford Boys and Girls Club and invited parents of Lakeview students who live in the Goldsboro area to come and talk with them and learn about the school.

"We were the only ones there," assistant principal Lowman Oliver said.

The outreach program was designed to "bring the school to the parents," but the parents didn't come.

Oliver said the school is aware that a majority of the parents of students at Lakeview are economically disadvantaged, that many hold more than one job or that they head single parent households. Such restraints often make it difficult for the parents to come to school for parent conferences or to take part in school-related activities.

"We wanted to make it as simple as possible for them," Oliver said, "but we had no response. I think we did just about all we could have done."

He said three parents did call him to make apologies for not attending, noting their work had kept them from attending.

The school had made announcements to students about the program, they had sent notes home with the students, and had telephoned the homes of the Goldsboro parents to announce the meeting, Oliver said.

Oliver and principal Jim Shupe maintain the program is a sound one which should help parents find ways to be involved in their students' education.

"We will just have to make some adjustments the next time," Oliver said.

The school is planning similar meetings in Midway, at Midway Elementary School, on Nov. 29; in the Hidden Lakes subdivision on Dec. 6 and in Sunland Estates on Dec. 13. All the meetings are scheduled from 7 to 8 p.m.

Oliver added the school will take steps to try to make the Goldsboro outreach programs more available to the parents in that area. The next meeting there, which has not yet been scheduled, will be in the William Clark housing complex's meeting room.

Marine prepositioning to remain

JACKSONVILLE — In a community hurt by the decision to close Cecil Field Naval Air Station it was welcomed news: A defense appropriations bill approved by the U.S. House includes $17.6 million in military construction at area Navy bases.

"This military construction money is good news because any improvements and new construction at our local bases serve to strengthen their viability in the next round of base closures," U.S. Rep. Tillie Fowler, a Republican, said Wednesday.

The bill also scuttles a plan that would have cost Mayport Naval Station an aircraft carrier. The Senate is expected to approve an identical bill this week.

The legislation maintains the Marine pre-positioning program on Blount Island in Jacksonville. The program, which employs 1,200 people, manages enough weapons and supplies to outfit a 50,000-member force on short notice.

The Pentagon had considered moving the program to Charleston, S.C., and consolidating it with a proposed Army facility. The bill commits the Marines to stay for two more years and complete a cost analysis to justify any move.

"I have made protecting Blount Island one of my top priorities," Fowler said.

She and U.S. Rep. Corrine Brown, a Democrat, voted for the bill. U.S. Rep. Cliff Stearns, a Republican, voted against it, saying it cut too much from national defense.

The bill also helps guarantee that the USS John F. Kennedy will be transferred to Mayport in 1995.

Ex-S&L chief stands in own defense

MIAMI — Ousted CenTrust Bank chairman David Paul contradicted his former attorney's testimony on the handling of $200,000 moved to Israel.

Paul, who took the witness stand in a surprise move Wednesday, said he took comments from attorney Sanford Bohrer and his partner Parker Thompson to mean that a regulatory order freezing his assets was unconstitutional and "that it didn't apply to me."

When asked by his defense attorney, Stephen Neal, why he later told government officials he didn't have any money in foreign banks, Paul said "the $200,000 was something I didn't even think about."

Paul, a free-spending millionaire as head of what once was Florida's biggest savings and loan, is accused in his 69-count trial of obstructing regulators by sending the money overseas.

Paul, 54, was to resume his testimony Thursday. He testified Wednesday it was his decision to move the money to Israel after the freeze took effect in October 1991 based on the legal advice he had received.

Bohrer claimed in legal filings that the freeze was unconstitutional, but he testified under a prosecution subpoena that he told Paul the order was in effect unless it was overturned by a federal judge. Paul ultimately lost that bid.

Contacted after the trial adjourned for the day, Bohrer said, "If he is saying that I told him that order doesn't apply to him, he is lying."

Paul spent about an hour on the stand answering questions from Neal. Much of the time was spent describing his background and his 1983 acquisition of Dade Savings, which later was renamed CenTrust.

"It was tough, but I think I did well," Paul said after his testimony Wednesday. "I was honest."

Island trust to get extension on preserve purchase

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

Complaints have been voiced by an official of the Nature Conservancy, regarding a reported conflict over development of Dog Island, an area located off the panhandle area of Florida.

"We aren't fighting anyone," said Melva Macfie. She is the Conservancy's Communications Manager, located in Winter Park. Macfie added, "We do believe however, that the way the information has been presented made us look like the bad guys when we really are not."

Macfie said Conservancy leaders had met with people who reported on the apparent conflict, and discussed the entire situation with them. "I think they understand the entire picture much better now," she said.

According to Linda O'Neill, president of the Barrier Island Trust, the group is trying to raise $1 million to buy a 1,300-acre preserve at Dog Island. It presently expects to get a May deadline extended.

The Barrier Island Trust has an option to buy the land on the unspoiled silver of sand off Florida's Panhandle from The Nature Conservancy, which owns and manages the preserve.

Efforts to raise the money from private foundations probably won't be completed by

-Linda O'Neill

May, said O'Neill. "But The Nature Conservancy is going the last mile to cooperate with us and help us."

The Nature Conservancy's state director, John Flicker, said the group plans to extend the purchase option.

Attempts to preserve the island have attracted attention since the late 1970s, when financial problems forced owner and developer Jeff Lewis to sell part of it. He had platted the island for 250 lots.

To save it from a developer, Lewis wanted to build 600 homes, former Gov. Leroy Collins and a handful of island property owners enlisted the help of The Nature Conservancy.

The Conservancy borrowed $2 million and bought 1,300 of the island's 1,800 acres in 1980, with the understanding that another trust would eventually buy it back.

The Conservancy fell short in efforts to raise money to pay off the debt, and entered into an agreement with an Ohio charitable trust to pay off the remaining $1.35 million.

The Conservancy agreed to a deed restriction that would allow development of 39 residential units. That created controversy in 1982 and 1983 among some island property owners who feared the development option would be exercised.

But the Ohio trust never built on any of the island, and the Conservancy purchased the land back in 1990 for $1 million. The Ohio trust didn't gain from the deal, said Flicker. "They lost money."

"I think in the distant past, there has been a lack of communication between the Conservancy and some Dog Islanders, but that was 10 or 12 years ago," O'Neill said.

Today there are 116 homeowners, including a dozen who live on the island year-round. O'Neill said the only remaining dispute is over an effort by some residents to build a slip dock. The island has only one dock for homeowners. The Conservancy and other environmentalists oppose the project.

"I doubt seriously whether there are more than four people on the island who have a gripe with the Nature Conservancy and think they can run it better," said Dog Island homeowner Clay Spence.

Farmer: NAFTA secures state economy through 21st century

By KAREN TESTA
Associated Press Writer

Florida's economic prosperity through the 21st century was ensured when the majority of the state's delegation voted to pass the North American Free Trade Agreement, state Commerce Secretary Greg Farmer said.

"I think there will be a zero job loss situation and a total job gain," Farmer said on a conference call from New York City after the vote Wednesday night. "We took care of our future."

Just a week ago, Tampa Democrat Sam Gibbons was the only Florida congressman said he would support the treaty to eliminate trade barriers between the United States, Mexico and Canada.

But side agreements and last minute lobbying swayed the Florida representatives' support: 13 voted for the agreement, 10 opposed it.

"I don't think we could have succeeded without the change of the Florida delegation," Farmer said. "They showed vision. It was a courageous vote."

A key change was Republican Rep. Tom Lewis of Palm Beach Gardens, who had previously opposed the treaty. He voiced his support after negotiating agreements on citrus, winter vegetables and sugar.

"I have long been opposed to passage of the NAFTA based on its potential damage on Florida's $6 billion agricultural industry," Lewis said. "However, solutions have been successfully negotiated and completed to ensure Florida farmers will be treated fairly under NAFTA." "The side agreements really create a win-win situation for Florida," Farmer said. But not all agreed.

"While the administration has adopted side agreements addressing some of our concerns, areas remain where our producers stand to be put at a disadvantage." Carl B. Loop, president of the Florida Farm Bureau Federation, said in a statement. He said wages, transportation and environmental regulations were areas of concern.

Mexican farmers don't have the labor costs or "vigorously enforced regulatory environment" that burden Florida growers, said Rep. Charles T. Canady, R-Lakeland, who voted against the agreement.

"The very modest potential benefits of NAFTA for the overall U.S. economy cannot justify imposing the resulting hardship on Florida agriculture."

Gov. Lawton Chiles called the agreement "a necessary next step into the global market place," according to a statement read by Farmer.

Miramar Democrat Rep. Alcee Hastings voted for the treaty, but said if it becomes detrimental, "I will lead the charge to pull out within the six months safety net."

"This is the beginning of the consensus and declaration that we're going to look outward rather than inward," said Rep. Porter Goss, R-Sanibel, who on Wednesday decided to support the treaty.

POLICE BRIEFS

Drug sale thwarted

Seminole County Sheriff's deputies made two arrests Tuesday connected with reported drug activities. Arrested were Donald Combs, 48, of Astor, and Judith Carolyn Moye, 34, of Fern Park.

The incident reportedly occurred at 2655 Derbyshire, in Fern Park, Moye's residence. According to the arrest report, members of the City/County Investigative Bureau had been alerted that a drug delivery would be made at a specific time.

They observed the residence, and reported that Combs drove up with 10 one-pound packages of what was later proven to be marijuana. Combs was arrested on a charge of possession with intent to distribute over 20 grams. Moye was charged with possession of marijuana, over 20 grams.

Same house, another sale

Another drug arrest was made at 2655 Derbyshire in Fern Park, also connected with drug activities.

According to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, "The arrests of Donald Combs and Carolyn Moye took place at the same house where 34-year-old Larry King was arrested on Monday. King had accidentally shot himself while driving on S.R. 436. When he reached the Derbyshire home, he called 911."

Suspect: Missing girl died

By Associated Press

PORT SALERNO — A 10-year-old girl who disappeared four months ago accidentally fell and died, according to a man who now faces a false imprisonment charge.

Claude Davis was arrested Wednesday after telling investigators he panicked when Andrea Parsons fell and that he later dumped the body. Davis initially claimed that he saw the girl abducted.

"From what he tells us, Andrea is dead," said Sheriff Robert Crowder. "I would hope that we could find something to indicate that's not true."

But sheriff's Sgt. Billy Chase said the girl "probably is dead, yea, in all likelihood."

In an initial court appearance Wednesday afternoon, County Judge David Harper ordered Davis to be held on $250,000 bond.

Davis, 56, a lawn-maintenance worker who lived in the girl's neighborhood, told investigators she fell as she was climbing out of a garbage bin while they were collecting cans.

"He has indicated that he tried to resuscitate her, put her in his van and took her for help," said Crowder.

Davis said no one was at the Port Salerno Fire Department and he couldn't find Andrea's mother.

"Then he panicked, and she was dead, and he disposed of the body" in a garbage bin at a public park, Crowder said, relating Davis' story. "We'll be trying to corroborate what he's telling us to determine whether or not this is true."

The girl was last seen July 11 on the two-block walk home after shopping for potato chips and candy at Port Salerno Grocery. Davis told investigators four days later that he had seen her getting into a car occupied by four men.

"We think that was just a story made up," Chase said.

In Andrea's neighborhood, the arrest came as a shock to Barbara Garcia. Choking back tears, she said, "I knew it has been too long, but I never thought it was somebody that was a neighbor."

But Henry Lira thought differently, saying, "We kind of always suspected that it was somebody in the neighborhood that knew the family because we don't get that many strange people around here."

After hearing of the arrest, Sandra Blackman, owner of Port Salerno Grocery, said, "I'm sure all of us mothers are" grateful.

Davis was interviewed several times since Andrea's disappearance and was kept under surveillance, Crowder said. His mobile home, van and car were taken to a regional crime laboratory for analysis.

The television show "America's Most Wanted" aired a segment on the search for Andrea in the same week of her disappearance. Community concern generated donations to rent two billboards displaying Andrea's picture.

Infrared sensors, dogs, boats and all-terrain vehicles were used in a fruitless search for the girl after she disappeared.

Man convicted in double slaying

By Associated Press

PENSACOLA — A jury deliberated a sentencing recommendation Wednesday for Jason James Mahn in the stabbing deaths of his father's girlfriend and her 14-year-old son.

The same 12-member jury convicted Mahn, 20, of two counts of first-degree murder Tuesday. Jurors deliberated into the evening after a sentencing hearing.

The only options are death in Florida's electric chair or life in prison without parole for at least 25 years on each count. The recommendations will not be binding on Circuit Judge Frank Bell.

The panel also found Mahn guilty of robbery with a deadly weapon in connection with the April 1 slayings of Debbie Jean Shanko, 36, and her son, Anthony, at the Pensacola home they shared with Mahn and his father.

In a video played for the jurors, Mahn confessed that he stabbed the Shankos to get even with his father, Michael Mahn, who had sold his car and was frustrated because "nobody wants to help me do anything."

Jurors rejected defense lawyer Tommy Ratchford's argument that Jason Mahn did not intend to kill the Shankos because they were still alive when he fled. Mahn said on the video he intended only to attack Anthony while he slept but turned on the boy's mother when she came to his aid.

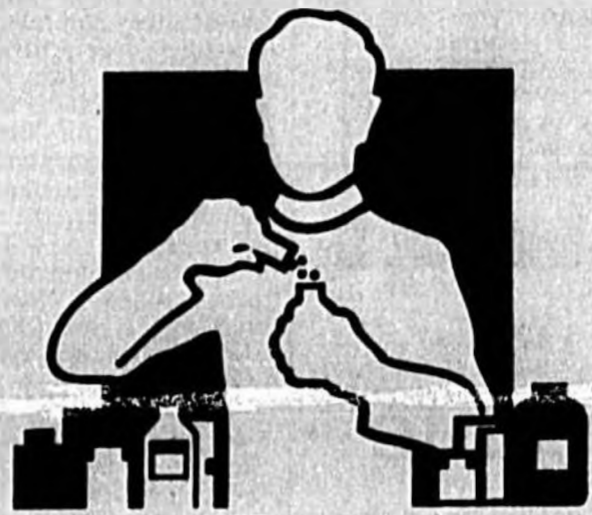

Michael Mahn returned home to find Ms. Shanko dead. Anthony was able to tell Michael Mahn and police that Jason Mahn had attacked him and his mother. Anthony died later in the day at a hospital.

A medical examiner testified Ms. Shanko had been stabbed at least 32 times, her son at least six.

Jason Mahn was captured two days later near Catoosa, Okla., after leading authorities on a 40-mile chase in Ms. Shanko's car.

Reading is indispensable

Seminole High School is looking into hiring a reading teacher. The move was announced in conjunction with a national study which revealed that 17-year-olds believe it is more important to learn math and computer skills than to read.

For many adults who may have attended school before computers became as common as pencils, this is a saddening situation.

Students are supposed to learn how to read in elementary schools. By the time they reach high school, they should be using that ability toward obtaining further education.

Old-timers may say things aren't like they used to be. There were hardly any teachers specifically designed to teach a student how to read. Each teacher stressed reading textbooks or background materials on their own.

Students couldn't learn about history or literature if they didn't read. Geography would be nothing more than confusing maps if not accompanied by explanations. Most other classes would also be useless without reading a textbook. Often additional reading material were also required.

There is no doubt computers are helping students reach a higher level in mathematical skills.

The only change therefore, is in the number of television sets now in the average home. Children coming home from school, regardless of their grade level, want to be entertained. As a result, they turn on the TV set, and stare at it for hours.

"Should we blame TV for the lack of reading skills possessed by our youngsters?" No. As is the case with most problems, the cause is human.

Parents must take the responsibility for helping schools in the educational process. They cannot let teachers do everything.

There must be time allocated in the home for the children to do some reading. It must go beyond the text book level.

If reading material isn't available in the home, public libraries are an excellent source. Also, this area has many stores where used books can be purchased at reduced prices.

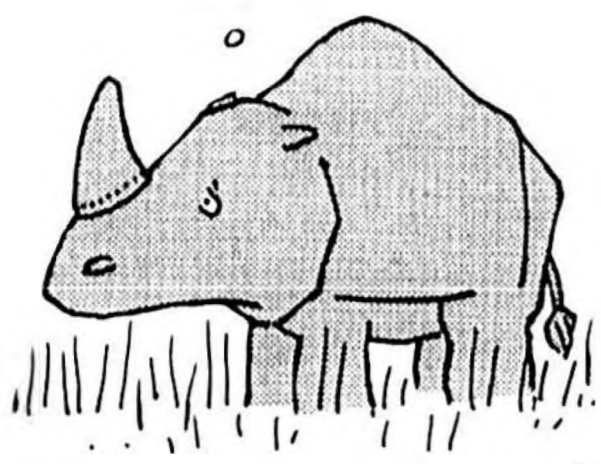

Some working parents may say they can't help their children or keep the TV set off during study. Yet most of them aren't gone 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Even if it is just a few hours on a weekend, getting a child to spend some time reading must be done. They can be entertained, amused, or become involved in adventure. Regardless of the type book, reading must be urged.

Schools are considering increasing education in reading during class periods. Join in the move, and encourage reading wherever possible, at Sunday School, recreation programs, club meetings, and of most importance, in the home.

Ed Rollins defeats himself again

Well, Ed Rollins has struck again. Rollins is the Dr. Revoikian of campaign managers -- he helps candidates commit political suicide. Having presided over Christine Whitman's razor thin victory over Jim Florio in the New Jersey gubernatorial race, he promptly dashed down to Washington for breakfast with a bunch of political reporters and bragged that he had spent $500,000 persuading pro-Florio black ministers not to encourage their flocks to get out and vote.

Predictably, New Jersey Democrats are calling for state and federal investigations, followed by prosecutions if violations of law can be found and kicking their crops over the possibility that they may persuade the courts to call for a new election.

One of the great mysteries of modern American politics is why any candidate would seek Ed Rollins' advice anyway. Seldom has a reputation for political wisdom been based on a record so insubstantial.

In 1984 when Jim Baker, Reagan's real campaign manager for re-election, went looking for somebody to hold the title of "director" of the campaign, Rollins -- an old sidekick of Lyn Nofziger's -- fell into the job. The campaign, however, was run by Baker and Lee Atwater, not to mention Ronald Reagan, and Reagan carried every state but Minnesota. By 1992 this bit of history had been improved by Rollins to the point where he could go on a television talk show and assert with a perfectly straight face, "I carried 49 states for Reagan in 1984."

Thus, credentialed Rollins went into business as a campaign consultant and ran Linda Chavez's campaign for the Senate in Maryland in 1986. She lost to Democrat Barbara Mikulski, 61 percent to 39 percent and is no fan of Ed's.

Unabashed, Rollins took over the management of Jack Kemp's campaign for the 1988 presidential nomination. It got nowhere, partly because it was leaked to the media that the campaign was out of cash. Staffers suspect Rollins of the leak.

Then he was hired for big bucks to run the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, made a lot of bloodcurdling threats about what he would do to the Democrats, and departed two years later, leaving the committee several million dollars in debt.

His next big break came in 1992. Ross Perot offered him some undisclosed but undoubtedly princely sum to serve as one of the major advisers to his presidential campaign. Rollins promptly abandoned his lifelong allegiance to the Republican Party and accepted the job. Six weeks later, after unstated differences, he left on his boots out of the campaign and has been available ever since to bad mouth Perot on talk shows.

This is the wizard Christine Whitman inexplicably chose to take over her campaign for the New Jersey governorship when she was running 22 percent behind Florio in the polls. In desperation she decided to pledge, if elected, to reduce New Jersey taxes by 30 percent during her four year term. Rollins typically fought the idea tooth and claw. Luckily she overtook him and squeaked by Florio with just 26,000 more votes.

NAFTA critics: know-nothings

How knowledgeable is the group that demands our national competitiveness be sacrificed when it has taken a long time to negotiate the most important trade agreement in history?

It knows a lot about how to get things done. It has a report, "Bump A Foreign Policy A Few Years," and then explains why it decided that NAFTA would produce the good things that you have been second-guessing. That is, it would create jobs, reduce inflation, and stimulate economic growth. While he studies up, demagogue drives us insane, you with it. He has been joined by a who's who of know-nothings, including Patrick Buchanan, Ralph Nader, and Jerry Brown.

I do not argue here that NAFTA is a bad idea. I argue that the people who are pushing it are know-nothings. The problem is, the fear is being fueled by a lot of shameless people's ignorance and prejudice.

The West Coast Warducks who would be president if we must, says that NAFTA, which would lower trade barriers between the United States, Canada, and Mexico and turn the entire continent into a free trade zone, is "another stupid agreement entered through by special interests." American businesses would suffer for the border, he says, to take advantage of Mexico's low wage scales.

The biggest problem in countering this argument is figuring out where to start. Did you know that 300 economists, including 16 Nobel Prize laureates, have publicly urged President Clinton to push for NAFTA? Three former presidents recently went to the White House to show their support, and the other two are on record in favor of NAFTA.

Tell me, Ross, what "special interest" does Richard Nixon represent? And while you are at it, Ross, tell me why it businesses are driven exclusively by a need for cheap labor, why isn't the Pontiac headquarters in Port-au-Prince? And why is BMW setting up shop in South Carolina?

Most of the saber analyses I've seen conclude that the United States will realize a net economic gain from NAFTA. American automobile manufacturers, for example, estimate they will triple their sales in Mexico thanks to lower tariffs. At worst, many economists say, NAFTA would be an economic wash. "The truth is," writes Robert J. Samuelson, "that NAFTA's immediate economic impact on us, for good or ill, would be small."

On and on the detractors wail. They say NAFTA will encourage exploitation of natural resources and destroy the environment. The truth, NAFTA is the first trade agreement ever to address environmental concerns. They say NAFTA will increase illegal immigration. The truth, economic growth in Mexico will result in better jobs and thus deter emigration. They say Mexican trucks barreling down U.S. highways will imperil the lives of American travelers. The truth, all Mexican trucks and drivers entering the United States will have to meet our safety and licensing requirements.

Which brings me to a final observation about a few NAFTA naysayers. There is in some of their argumentation an ugly undercurrent of bigotry. As Robert Wright put it in a New Republic article, "Entitlement (of traffic regulations) is always a problem, whether the driver is Mexican or American. But it's easier to scare people with the image of a swarthy, gap-toothed Mexican swilling Cuervo Gold while doing 85 in an overloaded 18 wheeler."

Democracy vs. anti-democracy

Washington is agog and aghast. One of the home industry's favorite strategists and spin doctors, Republican Edward Rollins, somehow switched himself into super-spin-cycle -- and spewed out a mess of dirty laundry that his Grand Old Party pals had kept carefully hidden.

Rollins explained, in great specificity, how he'd won the New Jersey gubernatorial election by countering traditional Democratic get-out-the-vote efforts with a Republican suppress-the-vote effort. He said, as campaign manager for Republican Christine Todd Whitman, that his side had spread $500,000 among black preachers and others to sit on their hands and do nothing to get-out-the-vote. The Democrats traditionally hand out what is known as "walkin' around money" to people who agree to help get out the vote.

Rollins' remarks triggered the requisite investigations over whether crime, or just politics, had been committed. So far, the pats and pundits in our nation's manufacturing center of conventional wisdom prefer to ponder why a smart guy like Rollins could be so stupid as to tell a roomful of journalists precisely what he'd done -- and why.

But eventually, even they will get around to putting the Rollins Reckitation into contemporary historical perspective. Sadly, the descendants of the Party of Lincoln have descended to the point where they have chiseled themselves a pathetic new party mantra: Money talks, democracy walks.

Republican strategists and numerologists calculated long ago that their party candidates are unlikely to win in an Election Day climate of total democracy -- with all of those who are eligible to vote being duly registered and voting. Despite its rhetoric, the Republican Party nationally has had little de facto enthusiasm for registering all eligible Americans and getting them out to vote, reckoning that it would increase the numbers of poor and less-educated voters who would likely be voting for Democrats.

Consider the Republicans of the 90s: Nationally, they did all they could to block "motor voter" legislation to enable Americans to register as voters at the same time they were obtaining their driving licenses.

Meanwhile, in New Jersey, in 1991, Republicans devised a special ploy that combined the baldest intimidation techniques of the Old Segregation South with the coldest political calculus of the urban North. The GOP hired off-duty cops, put them in uniforms, complete with guns, and placed them near the voting precincts in minority neighborhoods -- near signs that warned people that they could be jailed for voter fraud. It took a federal judge to order the Grand Old Party operatives to cease and desist on the grounds that this voter intimidation had no place in our democracy.

Comes now New Jersey's Ed Rollins, claim to defame was followed by a categorical -- and nonsensical -- "it never happened" denial by Whitman, who of course would have no way of knowing that it did not happen. (The most accurate denial she could have uttered was that she knew nothing about it, if in fact she did not.)

But Whitman's brother, Webster B. "Danny" Todd Jr., seemed to undo his sister's denial. In the euphoria of victory, he was unable to totally suppress uttering the word "suppress." He boasted before cameras that their campaign had been successful in "getting out the vote on one side and voter suppress" -- he paused -- "and keeping the vote tight in other areas."

Now into the fray comes another old friend -- it's Bill Salire, confessing all, sort of. Back in 1960, today's grand New York Times pundit was just a callow Grand Old Party lack. Salire wrote the other day that he helped Richard Nixon's first campaign for president by spreading walkin' around money -- to counter the millions Joe Kennedy was spreading to get out the vote for son Jack. Salire calls it merely a "bipartisan system."

But tell him you're not so easily fooled. There is a world of difference between spending money to get out the vote and to suppress the vote. It's the difference between democracy and anti-democracy.

Rollins' remarks triggered the requisite investigations over whether crime, or just politics, had been committed.

House's NAFTA approval gives Clinton big win

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Emboldened by its come-from-behind triumph, the White House said today that House approval of the North American Free Trade Agreement would strengthen President Clinton as he seeks a more elaborate global trade treaty.

California, much of East Coast lags in recovery from recession

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — California and many East Coast states continue to lag the rest of the country in recovering from the 1990-91 recession, according to personal income figures released by the government today.

world to start reducing the barriers they have erected to U.S. products," Vice President Al Gore said as Clinton prepared to fly to Seattle later today for trade talks with Asian leaders.

Other slow-growing states included Rhode Island, 3.9 percent; Maine, Massachusetts and Louisiana, 4 percent; Delaware, Missouri and Ohio, 4.7 percent; and Maryland, Oklahoma and New York, 4.8 percent.

White House transformed itself from underdog to an easy winner Wednesday night, muscling NAFTA through the House by a surprisingly comfortable 234-200 margin.

California has been hard hit by cutbacks in the defense and aerospace industries as well as real estate problems. Construction payrolls fell 5.2 percent in the state, compared with a gain of 4 percent nationally.

Flight attendants' union strikes American Airlines

By SUSAN HIGHTOWER
AP Business Writer

DALLAS — The flight attendants' union went on strike today against American Airlines and said it would stay out until after Thanksgiving. The carrier said it intends to keep flying.

The airline, the nation's largest, and the union failed to reach a new contract agreement in two days of federally mediated, last-ditch talks. They are split over pay, staffing and other issues. Twenty bone-weary negotiators called it quits around 2 a.m. CST today in New Orleans, and the strike began four hours later.

Crime

●At 8:55 a.m., deputies were notified that six tires on three separate cars in the parking lot had been punctured.

●At 10:10 a.m. Tuesday, a radio, said to be valued at $700, was reportedly stolen from a backpack at the school.

●At 2 p.m. Tuesday, 23 packages of candy and $7 in money was reported missing at the school.

Principal Raymond Gaines said he doesn't believe there has been any breakdown in security at the school. Quite the contrary, he believes students have become more comfortable with a school and district administrators and feel more comfortable reporting crimes.

"I look at this as a good thing, in a way," Gaines said. "The students are coming to us to report things like this where they wouldn't have done that before."

In addition to reporting incidents to administrators and teachers, the students also have the opportunity call an anonymous "tip line" if they have information regarding incidents or the perpetrators.

"I think that program is a tremendous one," Gaines added. He said he did not think the rash of thefts and vandalism were an indication of a crime wave at the school.

"Sometimes a whole lot of kids get creative in this way for a period of time, but it passes," he said.

The school is taking steps to increase security procedures and hopes to prevent future incidents like this.

children 12 and under free. The meal will consist of homemade soup, bread, an apple, and tea or coffee.

Once again, Brent Adamson of Rich Food Plan is helping to oversee the operation in conjunction with the Sanford/Seminole Jaycees.

Also assisting in the actual preparation of the meal are members of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford.

Proceeds will be divided between the Center and the Mission. In the very first year, each received $3,200 as a result of the supper. Last year, approximately 300 persons were served. The amount donated was lower, estimated at slightly over $2,000 to each organization.

The Christian Sharing Center, at 615 E. 26th Street, was established in 1977, and is the oldest agency of its kind in Seminole County, providing groceries and clothing free of charge.

Eligibility is based on need. The number of individuals helped each year totals in the tens of thousands.

The Rescue Outreach Mission,

1701 W. 13th Street, assists people with a variety of needs. These include serving meals to the homeless, helping the unemployed, and the largest project, operating as one of the only homeless shelters in the county.

The Mission is under the direction of Mother Blanche Bell Weaver.

Tickets may be obtained from Sanford merchants displaying the Soup-er Supper handbill.

They will also be available at the door.

For additional information, phone Brent Adamson at 322-3663.

Rain

Sanford received 3.82 inches of rain last month, 0.74 inches above the October normal of 3.08 inches established during the dry years between 1981 and 1990. The rainfall was about two-tenths of an inch below the normal established from 1951 to 1980. Official rainfall statistics are maintained by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Rainfall recorded in Sanford is still below normal for the past year. For the 12 months ending in October, rain was 3.65 inches below norm for the same 12-month period based on 1981 to 1990 averages.

Eventually, a portion of the rainfall soaks into the ground to "recharge" the Florida Aquifer natural drinking water source. District scientists monitor selected wells to gauge the water supply. Well levels can reflect rainfall replenishment trends as well as pumping withdrawals.

In October, the water in a Longwood well increased by 2.75 feet over September's level. The amount was 2.43 feet below the October 1992 level.

Data from a Geneva well was unavailable in October due to a monitoring changeover from the U.S. Geological Survey to the water district, said Bill Osborn, director of the district's Technical Data Services division.

The district's 8-to-8 watering ban continues throughout the areas of the county west of Interstate 4. Elsewhere in the county, watering is permitted except 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. The 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. ban was imposed in July for the western areas of the county when water in the Wekiva River dropped below seasonal averages.

Trial

1991 on the sex related charges. He was fired from the force last summer.

Assistant state attorney Meryl Allaw concluded her direct examination of the witness Wednesday morning and the remainder of the day's testimony focused on defense attorney Robert Fisher's cross-examination of the witness.

Under direct examination, the man's voice briefly choked with emotion as he described a time when he and Brewster were going through some problems, and he left Brewster's manufactured home in Paola where they lived.

He said he tried to get out of the relationship and do things on his own so he moved into his grandmother's Sanford home for about two weeks. When he left, the witness said Brewster took away the car he had been allowed to use.

"He cut me off from the things he was doing for me," the man testified, "it was hard to deal with it. I was addicted to what he was doing to me. I thought I could deal with it, but I went back."

The witness testified he left Brewster four times during the period in question but always returned.

The witness said after he dropped out of high school when he began his second year in ninth grade, he did nothing for awhile. Later, he described a string of jobs he worked at for short periods of time. When he and Brewster were living together, the witness claimed, Brewster continued to provide the basic necessities of food, clothes and shelter but stopped providing extra gifts, money, or perks when the teen was working.

"He didn't want me to work," the witness claimed.

In earlier testimony, the witness said Brewster not only provided food, clothing and shelter for the youth but expensive gifts and money as well. The policeman also arranged for dental treatment of a toothache for the teen, according to the testimony.

Fisher hammered away at pre-trial depositions and statements made by the witness, noting he did not give specific dates sex acts allegedly occurred.

The witness repeatedly testified, referring to the documents, he told the attorneys that he was not sure or did not recall specific dates. The witness was not able to give the specific dates of a trip to California the two reportedly took while living together.

During the lunch break in the trial, Brewster's other attorney, Jeff Deen said he had no comment on Brewster and 18-year Clint Giofetti, being stopped at 2 a.m. Wednesday with a car loaded with about $2,500 worth of merchandise. The goods were purchased with a credit card allegedly stolen from an Orange County woman, Orlando Police will be investigating the incident since the card and merchandise came from there, according to Seminole County Sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough. About $500 worth of perishable merchandise was photographed for evidence then donated to the Rescue Outreach Mission in Sanford, he added.

Festivities

●Dec. 1 - The deadline for applications for the Miss St. Lucia crown will be accepted until 12 noon. For information or applications, phone Gail Stewart, 323-1978. Applications are also available at the First Street Gallery, 203 E. First Street.

Interviews with candidates will begin at 7 p.m., at the First Street Gallery. Young ladies are asked to wear street clothing during their chat with judges.

●Dec. 2 - 5 p.m. "Light Up Sanford" will kick off the holiday season in historic downtown Sanford. Chairperson Charlotte Gustavson said the event will include expanded hours, and a colorful program of entertainment for the entire family.

Festivities begin at 5 p.m., and will conclude at 10 p.m. The actual lighting ceremony will be held in Magnolia Square, at 7 p.m.

"First Street will become a pedestrian walkway between Park and Sanford Avenues," Gustavson said, "with strolling musicians for entertainment, and many shop owners holding open house, with many store employees dressed in period costumes and serving refreshments."

A new feature this year will be a block party to follow the lighting ceremony. Mayor Bettye Smith is scheduled to light the official city tree after which the winner in the Miss St. Lucia competition will be announced.

For information on "Light Up Sanford," phone 323-9178 or 322-0270.

●Dec. 2 - 5 p.m. A new exhibit, "Rails to the Past," opens at the First Street Gallery to coincide with the "Light Up Sanford" ceremony. The show will feature paintings, equipment, post cards and other memorabilia including furniture and uniforms, reflecting the romantic image of railroading that once dominated Sanford and the surrounding area.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Coastliners, an organization of retired railroad personnel and the gallery. The exhibit will also be staged through support from the Museum of Seminole County History and the Sanford Museum.

Chairman of the event and past-president of Coastliners, Rudy Sloan said, "This exciting chapter in Sanford's history will be brought alive by men and women and their collections of railroad memorabilia. Many of them have for later years and will be on hand to provide personal comments."

For further information, phone the First Street Gallery at 323-9178.

●Dec. 7 - 7:30 p.m. A meeting is scheduled at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building for all boat operators entering the Christmas Boat Parade. See information regarding the parade below.

●Dec. 11 - At 2 p.m., the official St. Lucia Festival and Christmas parade will start in front of New Tribes Mission on Seminole Blvd., and travel down the lakefront past Fort Mellon Park, the County Courthouse and City Hall.

Parade chairman Billy Higgins said, "We are expecting this year's parade to be a banner event as we have more bands, characters and dance units than ever before."

He continued, "The theme, 'The Magic of Christmas,' should trigger the imagination for ideas to create exciting floats and parade displays."

●Dec. 11 - 7 p.m. Christmas lights will reflect off Lake Monroe, as boats of all sizes join the lighted boat parade. The boats will line up at government cut, parade along the seawall on Seminole Blvd., and float past the judges reviewing area. Following the event, a post parade party and awards presentation is planned at Fitzgeralds beginning at 8:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

The Rivership Grand Romance trophy is rotated annually to the over-all winner. Prizes will be awarded in three size classes of boats.

For additional information on the Christmas Boat Parade, contact Dave Farr at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 322-2212.

●Dec. 12 - A day of fun and entertainment is being planned in the downtown historic area. Complete details remain to be finalized.

door-to-door in the community personally inviting parents to attend.

"We may find as we talk to them that the meeting should be at a different time," he said. "We will make an adjustment if it seems necessary."

Still, Oliver said, it is the parents who have to make the commitment to their youngsters' education if the school is to be successful in their efforts to educate them.

"The parents must make a decision to sacrifice time for the students," he said. "Even though they are busy, they still must show a concern for the students."

Silver Hawks, Bucs gain Lady 'Nole semifinals

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — We're not two weeks into the new high school girls' basketball season and already things are getting to be intense.

For example, Wednesday night's culmination of the first round of the Lady Seminoles Invitational at Seminole High School's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium saw Lake Howell rip Spruce Creek 66-40 and Mainland best Lake Mary 54-43 in a pair of contests that could be described politely as spirited.

Tonight, Lake Mary plays Spruce Creek in a consolation game at 4:30 p.m. before Lake Howell takes on Mainland at 6 p.m. and Seminole faces Deltona at 7:30 p.m.

The tournament wraps up with a tripleheader on Saturday at Seminole High School, the fifth-place game starting at 4:30 p.m. with the third place game set for 6 p.m. and the championship contest at 7:30 p.m.

Both of Wednesday's games featured physical and up-tempo play among four teams expected to be among the challengers for the 5A-District 4 championship.

For Lake Howell and Spruce Creek, it was their second go-around in seven days, the Silver Hawks topping Spruce Creek 68-56 last week in Port Orange.

"We shot a lot better tonight than we did last week and they didn't shoot as well," said Lake Howell.

□ See Hoops, Page 2B

Wednesday's Lake Howell-Spruce Creek game featured a matchup of two prolific three-point field goal shooters, Spruce Creek's Zeld Morgan (left) and Lake Howell's

Kelly Kohn (right). Both had 17 points, but Kohn hit seven of 13 shots (2-for-3 on three-pointers) while Morgan was 7-for-22 overall, 2-for-10 on three-pointers.

Young Guns add to lead

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Young Guns continued to pull away from the rest of the pack in the Sanford Recreation Co-Ed Volleyball League by winning all three of its matches Wednesday night at the Sanford Middle School Gymnasium.

After opening the evening with a 15-4, 15-8 sweep of Crazy Wings, Young Guns survived a three-game battle with Carter and Sons, rallying for a 3-15, 15-4, 16-14 victory. Young Guns then knocked off the Wanna-Bees 15-9, 15-7.

Carter and Sons swept its other two matches, beating the Wanna-Bees 15-12, 15-4, and Crazy Wings 15-12, 15-1.

Two weeks ago, Crazy Wings won its first match of the season when it defeated the Wanna-Bees. Last night, the Wanna-Bees avenged that loss by outlasting Crazy Wings 17-15, 9-15, 15-9.

The Young Guns (19-2) now have a three-match lead on Carter and Sons (16-5). They're followed by the Wanna-Bees (6-15) and Crazy Wings (1-20).

After taking next week off for Thanksgiving, the league will resume play the following Wednesday, Dec. 1.

Silver Hawk signs with Gators

Lake Howell High School's Ann Pohira, who became Seminole County's first high school state champion in golf last year, has accepted a scholarship from the right wrist and thumb. Against Spruce Creek last night, Kohn turned in a 17-point performance on 7-for-13 shooting (including 2-for-3 from three-point range) and six assists.

Deanna Graves added 12 points and six rebounds while Christine James contributed 10 points and 12 rebounds. Ann Marie Gonzalez, also coming back from an early-season injury, had seven points and seven rebounds.

"We really shut well in the first half (making 16 of 30 shots from the field)," said Codrey. "I told the girls at halftime that they were doing a great job of looking to each other and looking to get the ball inside."

"I don't think you can ask a team to play much better. We hit from outside and we were able to go inside."

Defensively, Lake Howell did a nice job of minimizing the damage done by Spruce Creek's Zeida Morgan, who tied Kohn for game-high scoring honors with 17 points but had to put up 22 shots to get there. No other Spruce Creek player scored more than six points.

By comparison, the nightcap was much closer. Mainland leading by 20 on a couple of occasions but needing a game-ending 4-0 run to finally turn back the injury and illness-depleted Rams.

"It's tough when you start out with 12 players, then you have three get sick and you have two in the doctor's office," said Lake Mary coach Anna Vanlandingham after her team evened its season record at 1-1.

Irate gift-givers give up on 'thanks'

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your advice to aunts and uncles to stop sending gifts to unappreciative nieces and nephews who never acknowledge them. Am I alone in feeling that the same should apply to one's children and grandchildren?

In my present marriage, we share six adult children and grandchildren, and after years of sending them gifts for birthdays, graduations, weddings, etc., and wondering if they had ever been received, I decided to quit sending gifts to people who never acknowledge them.

Have you heard from others who feel as we do about gift-giving?

SPEAKING OUT IN FLORIDA DEAR SPEAKING: Have I ever! Read on for a sample!

DEAR ABBY: I have given a lot of thought to the question that was raised in your column concerning gift-giving when the

ADVICE

recipients never seem to get around to acknowledging them.

I have concluded that I don't really mean anything to these people who take, take, take, and never say thank you.

I have been giving for two generations, but starting in 1994, I am going to send only cards for all weddings, bar mitzvahs and new babies, and the recipients can send the rest of the day looking for the check.

AUNT/GRANDMA IN SANTA MONICA

DEAR AUNT/GRANDMA: You would make your point more clearly if you tell the offenders why the gifts have dried up.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter from "Auntie J. in L.A.":

Two years ago, I married a wonderful man whose family had never sent a thank-you card in their lives. After our wedding, I sent 250 thank-you notes for the gifts we received.

Later, I was shocked when my mother-in-law said that by sending all those thank-yous, I made her two other daughters-in-law look ungrateful.

LISA IN ARIZONA

DEAR ABBY: A great big "thank you" to "Auntie J. in L.A." who had no children of her own, but sent gifts to all her nieces and nephews on every gift-giving occasion — and usually had to telephone them to find out if the gifts were ever received.

I never gave it much thought, but that's exactly what I have been doing.

No more gifts for relatives who always have their hands out but seem unable to pick up a pen. WISED UP IN KITTANNING, PA.

DEAR ABBY: Lydia Palmer recently wrote that she felt a thank-you note was not necessary if the giver has already been thanked verbally, because one just throws away all those thank-you notes.

Not me, I've always saved the cards, letters and notes I received from my grandchildren. Now that I am retired, one of my pet projects is sorting out all their thank-you notes, and making a scrapbook for each grandchild, niece and nephew. I know they will get a big kick out of reading the very touching — and sometimes hilarious — notes they wrote while they were growing up.

VIVIAN ANDERSON, LIBERTYVILLE, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: You once wrote, "If you want your children to turn out well, spend half as much money and twice as much time with them."

How wise! As a concerned grandparent, I watch my grandchildren grow pathetically spoiled. When I raised my children, I was home all day and my husband provided for all of us. Our children had nice toys, good clothing, and we all took family vacations together.

Now I see my grandchildren wearing designer clothes, with more toys than will fit into one room. Their parents take them on weekend trips to Texas, Louisiana, Alabama and Florida. The cost is outrageous. Meanwhile, my children are in debt up to their eyeballs trying to keep up with the Joneses.

You are right, Abby — it's not how much money you spend on your children that counts; it's how much time you spend with them. How else can you teach them proper values? Time spent with a child is a gift of love. No other gift is as precious or lasting.

Keep hammering away at that philosophy, Abby. SAD IN NASHVILLE

DEAR SAD: You can count on me. I wish they'd revive that wonderful old song of the '40s, "The Best Things in Life Are Free."

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Analgesic cream treats arthritis

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've heard from my friends that there is a cream made from chili peppers called Zostrix that helps control the pain of arthritis. Since I also suffer from backaches on occasion, I wonder if you have information on this new product.

DEAR READER: Zostrix (capsaicin) is a topical analgesic cream and is, indeed, derived from plants. The medicine is available by prescription, is applied three or four times daily and may take up to two weeks to be effective. Although its mechanism of action is unknown, the drug is safe and often reduces the pain of arthritis, neuralgia and other conditions that stimulate pain receptors in the skin. In my experience, traditional therapy (such as anti-inflammatory drugs) works better for arthritis; however, you could certainly try the Zostrix cream because it does help some patients.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from frequent respiratory infections and have been diagnosed with bronchiectasis and pulmonary fibrous scars. Is there any new treatment for either disease? I'm a 41-year-old black female and have had a lung biopsy and bronchoscopy. I've also found that my niece has sarcoidosis and wonder if this could be inherited.

DEAR READER: Bronchiectasis is a serious chronic lung infection, marked by cough, weakness, weight loss, blood-spitting and breathlessness. It may lead to lung scarring (pulmonary fibrosis). It is diagnosed by special X-ray tests or by bronchoscopy (when a specialist examines the interior of the lungs) and is treated with antibiotics. If the infection is especially severe, portions of infected tissue may have to be surgically removed. There is no new treatment for this disorder. Sarcoidosis, a lung inflammation of unknown cause, is common in portions of the Southeastern United States. It is not inherited and is probably not the cause of your problem.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

This deal from the world championship semifinals was very unusual. The same card was played at the critical juncture at two tables, producing two different coups.

At all eight tables the contract was three no-trump. Once it was played by North and the declarer was favored with a heart lead away from the king. Five times West led the club seven. I leave it to the reader to decide whether it is better to win in the dummy and play a diamond toward the queen, or to win in hand and lead the diamond queen. As you can see, whichever plan the actual declarers adopted, it worked.

At the other two tables, American players found a more damaging opening lead. Kerri Sanborn led the heart jack and, when she was allowed to win the first trick, continued with her ace, played a club to dummy's ace and led a diamond toward her queen. East, Karen McCallum, went in with the king, cashed her two heart tricks (partner discarding a discouraging club two) and switched to the spade king. This Merrimac Coup dislodged dummy's entry and killed the diamond suit because it was blocked: one down.

When Marty Bergen led the heart jack, declarer won with his ace and ran the diamond seven. East, Eric Rodwell, won with the 10 and returned the spade king. This was a Deschapeles Coup, aimed at creating an entry to partner's hand. And it was successful. Declarer won with dummy's spade ace and continued with the 10, but Bergen won with the queen and returned the heart 10: one down.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
 Nov. 19, 1993

In the year ahead your sense of timing might be rather remarkable. Your chart shows you may be able to close some deals that totally baffle others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In order to advance your personal interests today, you might cozy up to persons who could help you and treat rather coolly those who can't. Unfortunately, your behavior will be noted and remembered. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Pleasant involvements could be turned into something less enchanting if you take yourself too seriously today. If someone kids you, kid them back instead of getting angry.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) No matter how much we have there is usually someone who has a great deal more. If you permit this to bother you today, it could turn out to be a total waste of time and emotions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something might occur today that will lead you to believe an associate is trying to deprive you of recognition and acknowledgment. Keep your feelings to yourself because the truth will out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think before you speak today, because if you fail to do so, there is a chance you may say something unintentionally that could be misunderstood by others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Circumstances may have brought you into close involvement with someone you didn't know too well previously. This person has been telling you what you want to hear, but not necessarily the truth.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A companion might do something today others find distasteful. Unfortunately, you might be tarred by the same brush just because this individual is identified as your pal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today if you use flattery to achieve your purposes, it will only be temporarily effective. Once the buzz wears off, the recipients may resent your plays.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In competitive social sports today the quality of your character might be determined by how graciously you win or lose. Control your emotions and feelings at all times.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone you like very much might not react the same way you would regarding something special you do for him/her today. Don't make a big deal out of your disappointment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Make it a point today to finish assignments as enthusiastically and thoroughly as when you first enter into to them. Your interest could wane when the end comes in sight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be doubly prudent in the management of your resources today so that you don't do something impulsively foolish and extravagant. If you are indifferent, this might happen.
