Siamese Twins Parted

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two teams of surgeons, working against a 36-hour deadline, successfully separated the Siamese twin sons of a teen-aged Glendale, Calif., couple Sunday.

The operation on the day-old boys took three hours. Surgical teams of three doctors each were assigned to each baby in the operation.

"The best we can say is that they are in satisfactory condition," said a spokesman for Children's Hospital, where the operation was performed.

"The critical, post-operative period will last from a week to 10 days."

Both infants were placed in incubators following the operation.

The boys, Daniel Clifford and David Eugene, were born Saturday at Glendale Sanitarium by Caesarian section to Mrs. Rebecca Bartley, 16. She and her husband, William, 19, gave permission for the separation.

The twins were the first children born to Bartley and his wife. She was reported in satisfactory condition at the sanitarium.

Doctors said the separation operation had to be performed within 36 hours of the twins' birth to tilt the scales of survival in their favor.

The operation was completed six hours before the deadline passed.

Dr. Dwight Galloway, chief surgeon at the hospital — who did not participate in the operation — said the twins were joined from their breastbone to navel.

Charles T. Cederquist, hospital corpsman 1/c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Cederquist, of Geneva, has completed a leadership course at the Naval Schools Command, Norfolk, Va.

James D. Wright, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Wright, Altamonte Springs, is undergoing recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

U. S. Must Lead In Space Flights, Scientists Say

BLACKSBURG, VA. (UPI) — A space agency official warned the United States must be first in space exploration for military reasons.

"In our own self-interest, and for the safety of our country, we cannot permit others to develop space capabilities that we cannot match," Dr. Homer Newell, Office of Space Sciences Director for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) told a scientific conference here.

His comments kicked off the week-long space session on artificial satellites.

He said the space program must be broad because as yet the military needs of this nation in space are unknown.

"We are now laying the groundwork for whatever role we may have in space in the future," Newell said.

"Out of this broad activity in space will come the ability of the United States to use space and to operate in space... in its own defense," he said.

The conference ends Friday with a lecture by Joseph F. Shea, deputy director of the Manned Space Flight Office of the space agency.

He will discuss future manned satellites.

The space conference drew about 200 scientists, engineers and teachers. The sessions are sponsored by Virginia Tech, the National Science Foundation and NASA's Langley Research Center at Newport News, Va.

Juvenile Delinquency Increases With Population Rise - Mize

Ed. note: Despite the rising number of cases of juvenile delinquency within Seminole County, the public should by no means point an accusing finger at the youth of the county in general. Figures show that compared to the number of children of school age in the county, less than one percent of the children of the county have gotten themselves into trouble. The other 99 per cent are good law-abiding citizens and should not be lumped with the wayward few.

By DOROTHY AUSTIN

The increasing population of Seminole County has brought a proportionate increase in the number of cases before the Juvenile Court, Judge Vernon Mize has reported in his semi-annual survey of the situation in the county.

Judge Mize noted that the services of a full time Juvenile Court counselor has resulted in a decrease in the number of second offenders but during the first six months of this year, there were formal court hearings in 180 cases as compared to 135 for the same period in 1962.

The total number of cases disposed of by the Juvenile Court was 284, compared to 241 in 1962. The difference is the number of cases in which no official court action was taken.

There were 109 children placed in detention in the county jail for various periods of time, with the great majority of them in jail for a very short period of time, often only a few hours.

"The establishment of the foster care program for dependent children which went into operation in October 1962 has proved to be of tremendous assistance to the Juvenile Court in finding homes for neglected and abused children," Judge Mize pointed out.

"I am convinced that the $10,000 appropriated for this program has been well spent and I sincerely hope that such an appropriation again will be made for this most needed program," the Juvenile Judge said.

In the breakdown of violations, by far the major portion was in traffic cases, with all but five cases being white 15 and 16-year-old offenders.

Next most common cause of arrests was for breaking and entering and petty larceny, which accounted for approximately 30 per cent of the cases.

Children who were judged habitual truants, runaways, incorrigible and unmanageable comprised a fairly large count, also.

Other causes of trouble among the youngsters under 17 years of age included assault, shoplifting, robbery, possession of stolen goods, carrying concealed weapons, bicycle theft, disorderly conduct, grand larceny, one case

The five-year-old elephant was reported "just fine" and recovering on a daily invalid's diet of 48 bananas, 15 pounds of carrots, 36 pints of milk and 40 loaves of brown bread.

Gubernatorial Candidate Hits Kennedy Regime

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (UPI) — J. P. Coleman, his chances to move back into the governor's chair bolstered by the support of a defeated primary candidate, opened his runoff campaign Monday night with an attack on the Kennedy administration.

Once a Kennedy supporter, Coleman hit back at the claim of his runoff opponent, Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, that he would "turn the state over to the Kennedys."

"I am determined," Coleman said, "to see that the Southland stands united against the Kennedy administration and the things it has sought to bring against Mississippi and the rest of this country."

Coleman spoke shortly after Charles L. Sullivan, who ran behind Johnson and Coleman last week, threw his support to Coleman in the runoff.

Expressing gratitude for Sullivan's support, Coleman said, "It will take all my life to be sufficiently grateful to him for what he has said and what he has done."

U. S. 'Cinderella' Succumbs At 74

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Princess Faid - Es - Sultaneh, formerly Doris Mercer Farid, a policeman's daughter from Pittsburgh who married a magazine publisher, a millionaire and a prince, died Monday in Morristown Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 74.

Her three husbands, all of whom she divorced, were Cival Harden, department store magnate Sebastian S. Kresze and Prince Farid Kahn of Persia.

The princess reportedly paid $2 million to keep her title. She had lived in a 16-room mansion in nearby Harding Township — priced by her at $100,000 — for the last 20 years.

Contrary to common belief, the ostrich does not hide its head in the sand when confronted by danger.

Arms Conference Bides UN Action

GENEVA (UPI) — Delegates to the 17-nation disarmament conference today settled down to a general "exchange of views" and to await the United Nations session next month for the next move on arms.

The United States and Russia told the conference Monday an effort will be made to follow up the partial nuclear test ban treaty when the U. S. Soviet and British foreign ministers meet at the UN General Assembly opening Sept. 17.

Legitimate Theater Comes To The Big Shopping Center

PARAMUS, N. J. (NEA) — The next time you hear a comic say "Things are pretty slow lately — I'm only playing parking lots and shopping centers" Don't laugh. He may be telling the truth.

The success of The Playhouse On The Mall, a beautiful year-old theater located in the heart of one of the world's largest shopping centers here, has created a stir in the shopping center industries. And an answering stir in the theatrical industry.

At last count, according to the Playhouse's producer, Robert Ludlum, 19 shopping centers across the nation had consulted him about possibly starting copies. Ludlum predicts that, in about six months, the second shopping center theater will open, probably in the Boston area.

The Playhouse gets Broadway stars, Broadway productions (or better) and suburban audiences. It charges from $1.85 to $1.80 per ticket (a dollar higher for musicals). Its costs are far lower than Broadway, primarily because it negotiated new contracts with the stage craft unions.

And it has been a rousing success. Ludlum says it is operating solidly in the black. It has done everything from "Hamil" and "Brecht On Brecht" to "Kiss Me, Kate" and "Carousel." It has offered the world premiere of "The Typists and The Tiger," which later became an off-Broadway hit. It has had stars such as Arlene Francis, James Whitmore, Linda Margul, Merv Griffin and Margaret Truman and introduced a young unknown playing "Hamil."

As far as Allied Stores, the owners is concerned, its success transcends the world of drama. From a purely merchandising standpoint, the Playhouse is a good thing — people who come to see a show pick up their tickets and maybe buy a suit and window-shop between the acts, and visit one of the shopping center's restaurants for a pre-show dinner and one

Barnett Aide Has Plurality

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson, committed to a tough segregation policy, and former Gov. J. P. Coleman, an advocate of "quick" segregation, appeared today to be headed for a runoff for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The 47-year-old Johnson, a three-time loser in efforts to win the office once held by his father, virtually was assured of a place in the Aug. 27 runoff to pick a successor to Gov. Ross Barnett, prohibited by law from succeeding himself.

Coleman was running ahead of attorney Charles Sullivan. A fourth candidate, retired welder Robert Mason, was not in contention.

With 1,099 of the state's 1,888 precincts complete, Johnson had 78,465 votes; Coleman 63,919; Sullivan 56,342; and Mason 1,190.

Democratic nomination usually is tantamount to election in Mississippi but the runoff winner this year faces the first Republican candidate for governor since Reconstruction, and political observers predict a tough campaign by the GOP's Rebel

Legitimate Theater Comes To The Big Shopping Center

BETWEEN THE ACTS: Theatergoer, decked out in evening clothes, does a little buying before attending play in Paramus, N. J., shopping center.

the absence of discount-type stores which would lower the potential audience for plays.

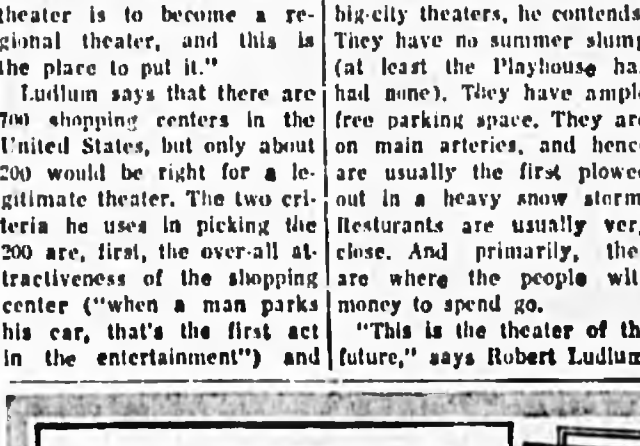

But there are plenty left which qualify. He says that shopping centers in Miami, Houston, San Francisco and Oklahoma City will soon be sprouting theaters. And he hopes to package plays which will travel from one to the other, thus guaranteeing the actors a fairly substantial engagement. He does feel, however, that the theaters should be autonomous, and produce many of their own presentations.

Shopping center theaters have certain advantages over big-city theaters, he contends. They have no summer slump (at least the Playhouse has had none). They have ample free parking space. They are on main arteries, and hence are usually the first looked out in a heavy snow storm. Restaurants are usually very close. And primarily, they are where the people with money to spend go.

"This is the theater of the future," says Robert Ludlum.

Let's concede that romance is wonderful.

It is obviously popular, is undoubtedly here to stay, and nobody in his right mind is going to knock it.

But lovers, PLEASE — not behind the wheel of a moving car in today's traffic. There just has to be a better — and safer — place to neck and nuzzle!

Yet there is increasing evidence that the driver's seat is replacing the dashboard, the park bench and even the movie balcony as a favorite sparking spot.

No one has any figures so far to show how many accidents have been caused because a driver was snooching instead of steering and wooing instead of watching. But you don't have to be a safety expert to know that high horsepower love can be lethal.

Let's forget any bad taste involved and consider the problem from the standpoint of safety alone. Surely no one can seriously believe that a young lover — or even an older one — can keep his mind on traffic when he has at least one arm around a cuddling cutie and is driving cheek to cheek.

If he can't, he just ain't much of a lover!

If he can't, he ought to get out of the driver's seat.

What to do about the problem? Legislation? Let's face it, you can't outlaw love. You would have to put a traffic officer in every car and keep him there as a chaperone. For unlike alcohol, romance doesn't show up on the breath in a balloon test or in a traffic spot-check.

Seat belts? Do you think these lovebirds would use 'em — unless someone invents one that will buckle the lovers cozy together?

Public opinion and education? Probably the best hope. If only a fraction of these immature exhibitionists could be persuaded that they are inviting death and disaster for themselves and others, and looking cheap and silly as they do it, it would be a big step in the right direction.

Or we might pass a law that every driver and passenger must sit in an individual bucket seat. That might just do it!

Mobile President

In the months ahead President Kennedy's conduct of his office quite naturally will come under severe and unrelenting Republican gunfire. After all, the GOP wants the office, and you don't get it by arguing that it is already well filled.

But the Republicans might learn a few hard lessons from the Democrats' tactics in pursuing the office four years ago.

It does not seem wise to try to define too sharply what the operations of the presidency should be. Kennedy attempted this when he was on the outside watching Dwight D. Eisenhower conduct the office. And Kennedy has wound up doing many of the very same things Eisenhower did.

For example, Kennedy's campaigner was highly critical of Eisenhower for his "traveling diplomacy." Visits to India, Europe and elsewhere were assailed as essentially useless exercises. But Kennedy himself has just completed such a trip.

Eisenhower often was attacked for not staying in Washington more. The charge was, of course, that when he was out of town he was neglecting his job. Comparative figures indicate that Kennedy is going from the White House at least as much as Eisenhower.

A good many Republicans already have taken up similar assaults on Kennedy. If they win the office in 1964, the chances are overwhelming that they will have to eat the same crow Kennedy ate when he got the job.

What is involved here is more than just the technical fact that the White House in practical effect moves with the president wherever he goes.

The point is that the presidency is in considerable part a display office. Leadership of this great nation in 1963 and beyond is not accomplished by chaining oneself to the White House desk as a virtual prisoner.

Leadership consists in part of moving about, of being seen, of talking to people at home and abroad, of seeing things first hand rather than simply reading reports or listening to emissaries.

The White House in this age is a crucial core of national and free world life. But it is not an island on which a president must maroon himself.

Today the great currents flow easily and swiftly around the globe. The leaders of all great nations recognize this by hopping about constantly to meet their counterparts in other lands, to study world problems, to get the feel of things.

Are we to suggest seriously that in such an era the President of the United States, the most powerful single executive on earth, should be the lone leader to hold himself rigidly within four walls?

When Kennedy gained that power, he forgot his criticisms of Eisenhower and chose to move about just as the general had done. Whoever follows Kennedy most likely will do the same.

IMPACT OF AUTOMATION

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

CASE Q-420: Greg W., aged 27, fell in love with a night club singer.

"But, Dr. Crane," his mother began, "I knew they would never be happy in marriage."

"For Greg has had a cultured background whereas this girl came up from a rough neighborhood and is of an alien race and religion."

"Obviously, however, Greg's father and I dared not protest, for you know how blind young lovers can be."

"Besides, Greg can be as stubborn as a donkey. And if we were even gently to point out many of their glaring differences, he would go to her defense at once."

"Then the more he would argue in her favor, the more he would be able to convince himself that they were predestined for each other."

"So, in this dangerous dilemma, I used your suggestion about bringing her into our home."

"In fact, I acted as if I was in favor of his choice and urged him to bring the girl home for a week's visit with us."

"Greg thought that was a good idea. She was an attractive looking girl, but many of her minor traits did not fit into our type of home."

"For example, she smoked a cigar at breakfast that first morning."

"Well, in the night club, her cigars apparently had not jarred Greg. But I could see him wince when she lit her second cigar, for nobody at our house smoked."

"But Greg's father and I said never a word nor did we indicate in any way that she had struck a false note."

"Then she wanted the radio and TV turned up loudly, and before the week was over, she even started to nag Greg a little."

"He never could stand nagging so this began to irritate him, too."

"Then she wanted to roll around the house in her swim suit, but it looked very much out of place in our living room."

"And when some of his college friends dropped in, her slang and misuse of English jarred even more."

"We gave them free rein and thus left them alone a great deal so they would not feel that we were butting into their holiday plans."

"When she left, she thanked us. But Greg grew colder toward her the next month or so and finally broke off."

"But if we had criticized her and thus driven him to her aid in defense, he might have convinced himself that she was his one true love, don't you think?"

Greg's mother was a very smart psychologist.

In a girl's own environment, she may not jar on the nerves of her escort.

So tactfully import her into the man's home and then she may dilute her boy friend herself.

Thus, you parents will escape censure. And you will not drive your child into heated defense of his or her choice.

Before any couple marry, they should visit their prospective in-laws for at least a week till the novelty wears off and they show up as either a harmonious or discordant member of that family group.

Peter Edson Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NKA) — Twenty-three top Eisenhower administration officials and supporters will go to work soon on a project to develop new Republican papers on foreign and domestic policies.

These documents are intended to guide the GOP in the 1964 election and beyond, with such revisions as are necessary to keep them up-to-date.

The group will function as the Critical Issues Council. Its sponsor is the Republican Citizens Committee, which was organized at a tent meeting on Ike's farm in June, 1962.

General chairman of CIC will be Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the former President's brother and president of Johns Hopkins University. Organization of the council was completed at an announced meeting of 18 of its members in Washington Aug. 1.

The group will be organized into a half dozen or more task forces whose chairmen will be announced soon after Dr. Eisenhower's return from Europe. He is accompanying Ike on this trip to revisit the Normandy beachhead.

This is in preparation for a 30th anniversary D-Day landing telecast on June 6, 1964. That will be five weeks before the GOP national convention is scheduled to open in San Francisco.

Each critical issues task force will prepare one or more policy papers in the general fields of national defense, foreign affairs, science, economics, education, human relations and agriculture.

One principal purpose will be to build up independent and conservative Democratic support for the Republicans.

This effort will have no direct connection with either the present Republican leaders in Congress or the GOP National Committee.

Don C. Frey, executive director of the sponsoring Republican Citizens Committee, says it will maintain close liaison with both, but the principal emphasis will be to make this strictly a private citizens' activity.

In this respect it will be completely unlike the 1960 Republican Committee on Program and Progress which operated under the chairmanship of Charles H. Percy of Chicago and which prepared a pocket book of 12 papers titled "Decisions for a Better America."

It had some impact on drafting the 1960 Republican platform. But the major decisions on that were really made in the famous pre-convention meetings between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Neither of these officials, nor any of the other 13 GOP presidential possibilities now crowding the political horizon, will have anything to say about the Critical Issues Council papers.

Anyone having any bright ideas to contribute to this Republican brain trust is asked to communicate with Dr. Milton E. Eisenhower, Critical Issues Council, 1625 K St., N.W., Washington, D. C., 20008.

His group includes five former cabinet members. They are Robert N. Anderson, Marion S. Folsom, Thomas S. Gates, Orestis C. Huddy and James P. Mitchell.

For military experts he has Adm. Arleigh A. Burke and Gen. Lauris Norstad. His ex-members of Congress are Clara Boothe Luce and Dr. William Judd.

Eight former Eisenhower administration officials serving on CIC are Elliott V. Bell, Dr. Arthur F. Burns, Albert L. Cole, Dr. T. Keith Glennan, Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, Dr. Don Pasterberg, Dr. Raymond J. Saurier and Adm. Lewis L. Strauss.

Republican Citizens directors serving with them will include Dr. Dean Malott, C. Wrode Petersmeyer, Samuel R. Price Jr., Charles S. Rhoads and Dr. Walter N. Thayer.

Helen Fuller Says Defense Budget Eyed

WASHINGTON — Some of the younger members of the U. S. Senate have decided to begin asking publicly the questions they are constantly asking each other in private.

Last week freshman Senator George McGovern (D-S.D.) led off with a major address on the subject of the national defense budget. Half a dozen of his colleagues are prepared with speeches they plan to deliver on the Senate floor in support of McGovern's general argument.

Is it really necessary to continue spending 65 per cent of the total federal budget for defense, Senator McGovern asked? Are we actually adding to our national security by adding more and more weapons to our nuclear stockpile? Could we not safely cut down our vast "overkill" capacity in nuclear weapons, divert some of that money to home and abroad and still maintain a defense force second to none?

"What possible advantage can there be to the United States in appropriating additional billions of dollars to build more missiles and bombs when we already have excess capacity to destroy the potential enemy?" (that is what the technical term "overkill" means), McGovern asked, "How many times is it necessary to kill a man or a nation?"

McGovern's speech was not just Senatorial hot air. The junior Senator from South Dakota is widely regarded by his colleagues as a thoughtful and responsible colleague. A college professor and bomber pilot who flew 35 missions over Europe in World War II and director of the Kennedy

Food for Peace Program before he ran for the Senate in 1962, he has a background of both theory and practice.

Like a large number of newer members in House and Senate, McGovern finds himself frustrated by the seeming necessity to be little more than a rubberstamp on questions of defense spending, to go along with what the senior members of the Armed Services and Appropriations Committees recommend for lack of access to the facts with which to make up his own mind.

In recent months McGovern and Senator Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, the former governor of that state, have made it their business to delve as deeply into the matter of defense spending as junior Senators can. They have studied the arguments of civilian scientists and engineers like Seymour Melman of Columbia University who argue for cutting billions from the defense budget. At their request, Secretary of Defense McNamara has arranged special briefings for them by his experts to search out how much "overkill" capacity the U. S. already has. McGovern and the group for whom he spoke last week still are not satisfied that they know enough to vote intelligently when the big defense budget comes before them for approval later this year.

As of now there is a growing group in Congress which thinks that the military budget is too high because it is adding more nuclear warheads to a stockpile already larger than we would ever need even in case of all-out war. What they are asking, as McGovern said in his speech last week, is that "those Senators and Congressmen with greater experience and knowledge than mine" agree to take part in a debate that would clarify matters for us all.

PAR OR BETTER

By JULIUS BOROS
U.S. OPEN CHAMPION

19-7, 8, 9, Irons

Switching from the woods to the short irons, you move from your longest swings to your shortest.

You should have a definite line of demarcation between the two. They are different types, so take no chance of confusing the mechanics of one with those of another. Learn to execute each entirely removed from the other, rather than move from one club to the other through the full run of woods and irons.

Because they generally determine into which category your score will fall, the 7, 8, and 9 might be called the bogie, par and birdie irons. They are referred to as the short irons, however, and have much to do with the number of putts.

The stance for the short iron is somewhat different from that for medium irons and woods, although basically it requires the same fundamentals of weight distribution, toes pointing out, etc.

You may use a somewhat open stance for the first time because short iron shots are strictly a matter of accuracy. Opening the stance, you get a more complete view of the target. Because there is less pivot, or body turn, to short shots, you do not require as wide a stance. So pull the feet closer together as you open your stance. The feet now may come as close as six inches apart — depending on what is the more comfortable and affords the best balance.

Using a 9 iron, for example, the feet are closer together in a slightly open stance. The ball is played a little closer to avoid reaching for it.

Because of the short shaft, the hands and club are closer to the body.

SHORTENING — Using a 9 iron, Julius Boros' feet are closer together in a slightly open stance. The ball is played a little closer.

Because of the short shaft, the hands and club are closer to the body.

Broken Bones Again Bothering Eagles

Peaks Elbow Hurt; Will Be Out 6 Weeks

By United Press International

The Philadelphia Eagles, who were known around the National Football League circuit last year as the "broken bone brigade," are at it again.

Fullback Clarence Peaks, the Eagles' leading ball-carrier in 1966 and 1967, suffered an elbow injury in the Eagle-Baltimore Colt clash last Saturday night.

Although Peaks was originally expected to be out of action for three weeks, further examination showed a chipped fracture of the ulna bone on the left arm.

As a result the Eagles, whose staggering injury list last year was a major factor in the club's plunge to the Western Division cellar after a second-place finish in 1967, will lose Peaks' services for approximately six weeks.

The Detroit Lions inserted flankerback Terry Barr at quarterback in Monday's workout. The reason for the move was to provide a backup man for Earl Morrall in case of injury. Earl Morrall, the Lions' regular signal-caller was injured in Saturday's game with the Cleveland Browns. Detroit also placed rookies Pete O'Brien, Karl Kasulke and Don King on waivers.

Coach Al Sherman of the New York Giants, who met the Lions in the first game of a doubleheader at Cleveland Saturday night, was particularly pleased with the play of veteran back Hugh McElhenny in Saturday's game with the Chicago Bears after viewing game film Monday.

Another veteran, Alex Webster, also was praised by Sherman.

The Cleveland Browns' head coach, Blanton Collier, also spent Monday watching game films, and said he was "much more encouraged" over the team's progress. He added that the defensive line did "an exceptional job" in last Saturday's Browns-Lions game.

Although coach Buddy Parker's Pittsburgh Steelers were soundly whipped by the Green Bay Packers last Saturday night, Parker was philosophical about the defeat.

"You don't spot the champions two weeks of practice and a game and expect to beat them," he said.

KC As Move May Be Stymied

By NEA

Charley Finley, who hasn't made much secret of his intention to move the Kansas City Athletics (Oakland has received the big play, but don't count out Atlanta), might be stymied by the same thing that lopped off Bill Veck when he tried to move the old St. Louis Browns. . . The other American League owners don't like Charley's embattled image and could force him to sell the club before they'll O.K. a shift.

Musial Wants To Bow Out In Series Play

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — This is the final season for Stan (The Man) Musial.

Musial, one of the greatest hitters in baseball history, announced Monday night he will retire as an active player at the end of the current season.

The 42-year-old Musial, who spent a quarter of a century in the Cardinal organization as a player, will continue to work for the Red Birds in an executive capacity.

When the Cardinals retire the familiar No. 6 this fall it will complete the longest playing career of any major league player with one team.

The lithe, slightly stooped slugger, with the unique "corkscrew" batting stance, will bow out with complete or partial ownership of 38 major league, National League and All-Star records.

The surprise announcement at a Cardinal picnic at the palatial home of club owner August A. Busch Jr. came only a week after Musial said he would not make a statement concerning his retirement until the end of the current season.

"Baseball has been my life," Stan told the gathering of players, their wives and children, and a few newsmen. "I love baseball. I like nothing better to do than play baseball."

"Nothing beats playing in the big leagues and putting on that big league uniform. I came in with a winner in my first full year with the Cardinals in 1942 and I'd like to go out the same way. I've dreamed for a long time of playing one more World Series. I think we still have a chance to do it."

General manager Bing Devine called Musial's decision "a great loss to the playing end of the game but a gain to the executive side."

101st Birthday Party Tonight For Stagg

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — There is going to be a birthday party for a 101-year-old gentleman in Stockton tonight but the guest of honor probably won't be on hand.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, the grand old man of sports, will not actually be 101 until Friday but the Stockton Lions Club is honoring him with a banquet tonight.

A second birthday party will be given Friday night by the Lions in San Francisco featuring a huge cake with 101 candles. It is doubtful if Stagg will attend that party either.

"Mr. Stagg feels okay physically. But I don't think he'll go to either party," said Dr. F. H. Busher, director of the Amos Alonzo Stagg foundation.

Stagg, a star athlete at Yale and a longtime coach at University of Chicago and University of the Pacific, lives quietly in a Stockton, Calif., rest home.

Two Contenders 'Short-Circuited'

By United Press International

Chris Short stands 6-4 and weighs 206 pounds, but he has never ranked too tall among National League pitchers.

In fact, the only recognition—if you can call it that—he has gained in five seasons with the Philadelphia Phillies came in 1961 when he led the league in wild pitches.

Yet in the last month, Short twice has short-circuited the pennant hopes of the two leading NL contenders.

The lanky southpaw from Milford, Del., beat the Los Angeles Dodgers in their own park July 25 to launch Walt Alton's men on their current skid. And Monday night he turned back the San Francisco Giants, 3-1, with the help of a two-run, eighth-inning homer by Johnny Callison.

Damage to flooring is often caused by incorrect use of maintenance products as well as neglect, according to flooring experts. Many women scrub floors as much as twice weekly with strong soaps, harmful solvents, alkalis or abrasives. The use of any of these with sealing water may discolor floors and make them hard and brittle.

To remove iron rust on a garment, squeeze lemon juice on the stain and then spread the garment in the sun for a time. Then rinse.

Burlap laminated to vinyl plastic is among many new types of easy-to-laundry tablecloths.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Are you a psychiatrist? If not, what gives you the right to determine whether or not people need professional care in this field? On several occasions you have advised that some friend or relative be examined by a head doctor. I assume you would have all humans conform to one pattern. Did it ever occur to you that some people LIKE being different, and are not mentally disturbed? Take that woman who wears muu muis on the street and likes to talk to bus drivers. Couldn't she simply be trying to show society that we are not all puppets of conformity?

If I give you more information you'll find an emergency to call me back and spoil my vacation." What do you say to a man like that? FED UP

DEAR FED: If what he fears might happen HAS happened, I'd say, "Goodbye, Dear, CALL ME every other night in case I have something to tell you." If it has NEVER happened, send me your name and address and I'll give you another answer.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Canoga Park" that the main reason why so few Americans fly flags is: "On the go Americans" are never sure if they'll be home by sunset to take in the flag so, rather than show this disrespect to the flag, they do not put it out.

TRUE-BLUE AMERICAN CONFIDENTIAL TO "LONG SUFFERING PATRI": Don't give up now. Even a "hell" has his Achilles.

DEAR DISTURBED: The woman with the muu muis might have been perfectly sound, right up to the point where she was described as "eating tranquilizers like popcorn". Then, I suggested she might need professional help. It is no insult to be directed to a psychiatrist. Furthermore, it's better to see one and NOT need treatment than not see one and NEED treatment.

Jacoby On Bridge

Thirty years ago when there were only a few real experts each one had his own specialty. Waldemar von Zedtwitz's specialty was locating the queen of trumps and his skill in that field has not diminished with the passing years.

West led the seven of clubs and Wally finally got the lead with dummy's king. He needed the rest of the tricks and the queen of spades had to be found.

West had one of those light opening bids that many duplicate players feel they must make. They are really apt to boomerang when you are short in spades and sure enough West found himself on lead against Wally's two spade contract.

Wally decided to wait a while and cashed dummy's ace of clubs. When West played the eight, Wally led a third club and ruffed it in his own hand. East showed up with the queen of that suit, and the queen of spades was located.

He opened the ace of diamonds and continued with a second diamond to his partner's king. East led back the

We The Women:

By Ruth Millet

Women have a name for being extravagant. But some men enjoy throwing money around. This creates a difficult problem for a wife, for the money he so freely spends he considers his own.

Not much, I'm afraid. Some men don't want their money saved—and if they can't be sold on the idea, a woman's penny-pinching is so much wasted effort.

One wife tells me that she pensive gadget or a suit he doesn't need—and all my penny-pinching savings are gone in one reckless purchase. What in the world can I do about it?

If you have no children or if they are at an age where he constantly pinches pennies to make up for her husband's extravagance. She comes from a thrifty family and wants the security of a bank account. But her husband believes in spending money as fast as he can earn it.

Why don't you stop cutting corners for awhile—particularly when it means doing without clothes for yourself, etc.? After all, if the money is going to be spent, anyway, you might as well get some of the benefits from it.

But whatever you do, don't nag about money. That won't make him less extravagant. One way to get rid of your resentment is to stop being an rigid guardian of the family budget. Occasionally treat yourself to something you want for your home or yourself. Pinching pennies while your husband spends freely will only breed bitterness and strife.

Boy Scouts Visit Chattahoochee . . Forest

The second report has been received from Herald Reporter Jane Casselberry who is spending her vacation with Casselberry Boy Scout Troop #41 on a camping trip to the Great Smoky Mountains. Written from Wausatcha recreation area in the Chattahoochee National Forest, Cornelia, Ga., and just as our Jack wrote it, it reads:

Several people have inquired I have to be a little crazy to make a trip like this with a bunch of Scouts, so you won't be surprised to hear that we go to Chattahoochee National Forest, that is!

We arrived at Cornelia late Monday afternoon and drove up into the forest where the fat and weary travelers soaked off in Lake Russell.

Later we set up camp in a beautiful forest glade at Nancytown recreation area which, since we ignored the "Road Closed for Repairs" signs, we virtually had to ourselves.

There was no trouble getting to sleep as the cool air and mountain stream lulled us right off into dreamland.

Bright and early the next morning, a confirmed snake collector, Billy Dempsey, whose mother has laid down the law against his bringing home any more specimens, set off on another type expedition . . . this time to hunt salamanders.

In no time at all he had a salamander hunt organized in Mt. Airy Creek with most of the boys joining in the fun.

Our camp here proved so refreshing and entertaining that Scoutmaster Ted Daniel decided we would stay over an extra day to give everyone a chance to explore the area.

The creek provided a continuous source of fun for the boys and, in addition to hunting salamanders, they built dams, waded and swam. A big log forms a dam blocking the stream and the cool water cascades down and over the rocks creating natural shower baths.

Revenue agents were by during the afternoon to ask if we had seen any moonshine stills while out hiking. It seems they raided one in this vicinity only yesterday. (Was it our imagination or did they take a second look at the copper tubing running around the bus which connects the gas tank with the refrigerator! . . . ?)

Two of the "Bills" . . . Dandera and Dempsey . . . entertained us Tuesday night with an impromptu skit presented around the campfire. It took the form of a press conference with Dempsey as a Russian cosmonaut and Dandera as an astronaut wisecracking answers to questions from the audience.

We plan to break camp early tomorrow (Wednesday) morning and head for the Smokies!

Estes Kefauver Honored By U. S. In Final Rites

MADISONVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A nation's leaders and just plain mountain folk gathered in this east Tennessee hill country town today to pay their final tribute to Sen. Estes Kefauver, "friend of the little man." Funeral services were to be brief and simple.

"Just a simple service," said the widow of the Tennessee Democrat. "Estes liked simple things."

Kefauver, 60, vice-presidential candidate in 1956, strong threat for the presidential nomination four years earlier and 15-year Senate veteran, died Saturday near Washington of what doctors called a massive heart attack.

Mrs. Kefauver and their four children were to fly by presidential jet from Washington.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was expected to lead the list of dignitaries.

Barnett Moves Against Negro

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gov. Ross R. Barnett has moved to block the graduation of James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi next Sunday. Meredith termed Barnett's action "purely political."

Barnett, who personally barred Meredith from the school for a time last fall, asked the school to withhold the Negro's diploma until an investigation of certain anti-segregation statements Meredith is alleged to have made.

Meredith is scheduled to receive his bachelor's degree Saturday.

ROSEMARY HUSBANDS, newly appointed Pinecrest School teacher, who just recently completed the Stetson University history institute for high school teachers of social studies, is shown discussing the program with Dr. Evans C. Johnson, director of the institute.

Venezuelan Ex-Dictator Awaits Extradiction For Embezzlement

MIAMI (UPI) — Marcos Perez Jimenez with an iron grip, waited in a jail cell today for extradition to his homeland on charges he embezzled $13.5 million from the national treasury.

A Venezuelan plane was scheduled to arrive in Miami today with a delegation of 15 government officials to escort the one-time dictator back to his homeland and a "speedy trial."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk ended Jimenez' long fight against extradition Monday when he ordered the former strongman extradited at the request of Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt.

It was not immediately known if a paternity suit against Jimenez would delay the plane's return, but one Venezuelan official said he did not see how a state court suit could supersede the federal ruling.

Jimenez, the bespectacled major general who ruled Venezuela from 1952 until his overthrow in 1958, had to post $300,000 bond for the mother and child in the event of his extradition.

Village Firemen Set Meeting

By Mona Grinstead

North Orlando Fire Chief Bill Hahn said today that he has many subjects to be presented for discussion at Wednesday's meeting of the volunteer department to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Building at the Village Recreation Area.

The fire siren will sound at 7:30 p.m. as a reminder that the meeting is taking place.

Among reports to be made will be one by Hahn pertaining to services available from the Florida Forestry Service. Hahn said that he recently contacted the rangers who advised that they do not need authorization from him to aid the community in the event of fire. Any call for help will bring fire fighting equipment and men immediately, he said.

Hahn expects to have a Seminole County Ranger as guest at the September meeting to explain operations of the Florida Forestry Service.

DeBary residents, who have long advertised the fact that they live in a "retirement community," say that they have only to attend one of the summer recreation sessions being sponsored for the young people by the Civic Association to realize that this is no longer true.

An evidence of increased interest in reading among the younger set, the Altamonte Springs Library notes that its juvenile books were checked out during the month of July as compared to 499 a year ago.

The Town of Casselberry should get a medal for the recreation program and center it is providing for its young people. Game and play areas are being established in several locations and a lot of equipment is going in at the Overbrook Street center. What's best, most of the operation is strictly volunteer.

The Sheriff's Department was turned down on its order for food supplies from the state prison farm, due to the recent law passed by the Legislature. Because about one-third of the counties in the state managed to get themselves excluded from this law, Seminole County Commissioners have threatened to "take it to court" if county food orders are refused. They have been refused. Now, what?

County Road Department still sweating out getting an access road into English Estates Road through all that private property. "It's a mess!" exclaimed Engineer Bill Bush at commission meeting Tuesday.

County Engineer Bill Bush told county commissioners Tuesday. "This is the only county in the state where we have to try to work our way around drain tiles, when we clean the ditches." It's a 50-year-old problem that has plagued road maintenance crews since the tiled celery fields were first created. The ends of the tile irrigation pipes stick out into the ditches and it doesn't take much of a bump to break one off.

Teachers, parents and students will be dismayed to hear the latest word from the State Road Department that there "isn't any justification for putting a traffic light at that 27th Street Hwy. 17-02 intersection." That's what the man said.

Capt. Roy Williams has issued a call for Oviedo High football players to turn out for practice at 3 p.m. Thursday at the school.

Prisoners Fight; Guard Stabbed

Wynne also suffered hip injuries in attempting to break up a fight between George Jackson Jr., David Jones and Jimmy Fuston.

Work Rules Program Now For Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The touchy railroad work rules dispute appeared today to have been dumped back in the lap of a reluctant Congress.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz announced Tuesday night the collapse of collective bargaining talks he had been holding with union and rail negotiators.

Both Senate and House Commerce committees, which had been considering President Kennedy's proposal that the work rules impasse be settled by the Interstate Commerce Commission, suspended action pending outcome of Wirtz' attempt to get the parties to settle it themselves.

Collapse of the talks indicated pressure would be back on Congress to step into the situation.

Both the railroads and the group of five rail unions involved accused each other of failing to bargain realistically.

The situation sounded considerably like it did late last month when the railroads agreed to postpone for 30 days imposition of new work rules that would eliminate so-called "featherbedding" jobs and practices and touch off a strike.

City Millage To Stay At 18.5

Revenues will increase, but the city tax millage will remain at 18.5 for the next fiscal year, it was reported this morning by City Manager W. E. Knowles.

Knowles, who said he will present the tentative budget to the City Commission by this weekend, reported the budget will be approximately $125 million for the year.

He said increased taxes on such items as cigarettes, alcoholic beverages, etc. added to an anticipated increase of $14,000 in ad valorem taxes, will bring about the added revenue.

The millage will be broken down to 12 for operating expenses and 6.5 for indebtedness.

Tornado Roughs Up St. Pete

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — A tornado ripped through a 15-block section of northwest St. Petersburg Tuesday night, causing an estimated $100,000 property damage.

Police in suburban Kenneth City said the brief twister unroofed six homes, knocked out power in the area and caused minor flooding.

No one was reported injured during the two-minute tornado.

Several cars were tossed about during the twister and police said one roof top was carried several yards by the high winds.

Several major electrical transformers in the area were destroyed by fire and officials of the Florida Power and Light Co. said it would take almost a full day to restore power to the section.

Offer Is Test Ban Followup

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States today proposed immediate agreement with Russia to stop making fissionable material and to use large amounts of stockpiled uranium for peaceful purposes instead of nuclear bombs.

U. S. negotiator Charles C. Stelle told the 17-nation disarmament conference that agreement on the proposed measure would be a logical follow-up to last week's Moscow treaty banning nuclear testing in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water.

Seminole To Offer 7 Sites For University

Seminole County will deliver seven optional sites for the proposed East Central Florida graduate university to the State Board of Control.

County Commissioners met Tuesday afternoon with City Commissioners, Seminole County's legislative delegation and Chamber of Commerce long range committee on education members when the seven sites in this county were submitted.

Officials working for the placement of the university in this county have been reluctant to divulge exact location of the sites in order not to reveal their plans to surrounding counties also bidding for the school.

County Engineer William Bush will deliver the proposed seven sites this to the State Board before Friday, deadline for initial proposals. Brochures, detailing advantages of the sites, must be submitted by Oct. 7.

The state plans to review the brochures and select a number of desirable sites for inspection by the Control Board members before Nov. 1. Final decision will be made after the Nov. 5 statewide bond election.

Each of the Seminole sites contains 1,000 or more acres. Some have been offered gratis.

Threats Fail To Halt Sabotage

TAMPA (UPI)—Saboteurs ignored threats of strong punitive action and possible use of National Guard troops by cutting numerous General Telephone Co. cables Tuesday night and early today.

Tampa Mayor Julian Lane was given emergency power Tuesday to call up auxiliary police and to ask for the National Guard if necessary, to prevent further outbreaks of sabotage.

The company reported today, as the strike entered its 35th day, that toll cables were cut between Bartow and Lake Wales, Bartow and Avon Park and Tampa and Zephyrhills. It was the fifth time during the strike that the Tampa to Zephyrhills cable has been cut.

An estimated 75 pounds of copper cable was cut from the Tampa-Zephyrhills line and carted away.

In Pinellas County, a cable at Dunedin was cut down and chopped into small pieces.

Two striking union members were arrested at Sarasota Tuesday night in connection with cable cuttings. Arrested by a plain clothes officer were Larry W. Tinsley, 21, and Ronnie Easler, 31, both of Sarasota.
