EFFORTS TO BE MADE TO STOP EXTRA SESSION

Move To Break Deadlock Between Democrats And Hoover Regime In Launched

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—With an extra session of Congress looming ahead, congressional leaders are determined to begin conference late in the day, or tomorrow seeking to break the deadlock between the administration and Democrats on the $20,000,000 relief fund. Senator Joseph P. Kamp of Utah, returned to the Capitol from his sick bed to obtain an immediate conference between the Senate and the House. He is chairman of the Senate conference on the relief department appropriation bill in which the Senate coalition incorporated the disputed relief fund.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas with the backing of the party caucus, served notice that some measure for federal relief must be incorporated in the bill or it cannot pass. Representative Tilden, Connecticut, administration leader in the House, served equally firm notice that the House would not compromise.

GATOR ATHLETE TELLS DETAILS OF TECH TUSSELE

Highlights Of 55-7 Win Over Old Enemy Are Told By Cal Proctor

Ed Newton, sports editor of the Tampa Tribune, has recently included in his feature column "The Morning After", a football story which, although the season is already forgotten, reveals an interesting glimpse into one of the most surprising grid victories ever accomplished by a University of Florida football eleven.

Mr. Newton writes: "Cal Proctor, captain-elect of the University of Florida 1931 football team, recently broke down and poured into the Morning After's ear the reasons why the Gators romped to a 55 to 7 triumph over Georgia Tech last fall. This should interest most football fans, for next to winning the national football championship, the Gators like spanning Tech.

"Just why the Floridians harbor such a vicious feeling for the Georgia Techians is something of a mystery. It may be because Florida, a great state for publicity and ballyhoo, envied Tech's ability to grab the national headlines along in October and November. Then again, it may be due to the fact that until last fall, a Florida team had never beaten a Tech team, although the two schools had met on the gridiron something like six times.

Tech always had wielded a strange influence over the Gators. Consider the seasons of 1923 and 1924, when Tech escaped defeats for no reason at all. Florida, boasting such brilliant performers as Edger Jones, "Goldy" Goldstein, Robert De "Ark" Newton and Bill Middlekuff, rolled into Atlanta a strong favorite both seasons. Yet Tech laughed off the newspaper pre-game stories of Florida power, and brought 7 to 7 ties out of both seasons.

A strong Tech eleven mopped up in 1925 by a 23 to 7 score, but for the next three seasons, the two schools didn't get together on the football field. They met again in 1928, and a third great Florida eleven, boasting among others "Cannonball Clyde" Crabtree and Ed VanDekle, moved into Atlanta again the favorite. But the Tech line again exerted itself, and the newspapers the next day carried an account of a 10 to 7 Tech victory. And Floridians don't like to read these kind of stories.

"The referee stated it," Proctor began his story. "We lost our temper. Then the situation became funny, and we laughed and kidded our way to those last four or five touchdowns. And it was funny. Imagine us running for a touchdown whenever we felt like it after these four previous defeats, and two ties in six games. "I don't know whether or not the referee meant to favor Tech. In fact, I don't even know his name, and he may have unconsciously ruled against us. At any rate, Tech opened the game by marching straight down the field for a touchdown. Once they fumbled, and we recovered. But the referee ruled that the ball bounced out of bounds and returned it to Tech. The ball did not leave the field. This did not make us feel any too good.

"Two plays later, the referee deliberately picked up the ball after a Tech player was tackled, and advanced it two yards near our goal line. We began to see red. Then Tech crossed the line for a touchdown. On the attempt to kick for extra point, the Tech player missed the cross bars by fully a yard. None of the Florida players was offside, yet the referee raised his arm, and presented Tech with the extra point. This had the same effect on us as a red banner on a maddened bull. We fairly roared back up the field, grumbling and protesting loud enough for the referee to hear us.

"We took that ball on our own line and marched it 95 yards for a touchdown. 'Red' DeLoach took it over. Then Sauls came reeled off long touchdown runs with hardly an effort, and we began to see the light side of the situation. When we jumped into a huddle, we were laughing and joking. When we lined up for scrimmage, we jostled the Tech players. This completely demoralized them. From that point on, everything we did clicked perfectly, and everything Tech tried to do went wrong. After we scored our sixth touchdown, Vance Mares,

Florida Bar Group Declines To Act On Circuit Reductions

DAYTONA BEACH, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Florida State Bar association Friday declined to act on a resolution recommending to the next legislature that the number of judicial circuits in the state be reduced from 29 to 25.

The lawyers, however, voted to accept a report favoring redistricting the state to effect such a reduction and ordered the report filed. A committee, headed by Martin H. Long Jacksonville submitted the report.

"Our action leaves the legislature free to act as it sees fit," commented R. A. Henderson, Jr., Fort Myers, president of the association.

Tetrazzini Cheered In Charity Performance

FLORENCE, Italy, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Louise Tetrazzini came back to the scene of her first operatic triumph Friday night to learn that Italians never forget the artists they have loved.

She answered the call of charity and emerged from her retirement to sing once again at the Verdi Theatre where two generations ago here made her debut and won the hearts of all that heard her in the lead role of Myrta in the African. Friday night every song of the former diva was cheered to the echo.

In the audience were many who had heard her at the height of her career. They applauded her just as they used to applaud her when she was hailed as the star of stars. Although she is leaving the great soprano demonstrated Friday night that the "golden" voice is still golden.

RECORDS TOPPLE AT KENNEL CLUB ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Tor Battle Wins Race To Pay Premium Of $50.80, Highest Yet

Tor Battle, an imported fawn-colored dog, running out of number 8 box in the second event of the greyhound racing program at the Longwood Kennel club last night upset all track records for the season by breaking the tape in the lead to return a premium of $50.80 on a $2 share of stock.

Of the favorites—Win-a-Win, Buck Pitts, Jefferson Star—only the latter finished in the money, placing second. Tor Battle's great race returned $23.60 to place and $6 to show.

In the feature contest of the card, the sixth race, Southern Hay-hick romped home to lead a brilliant field of canine luminaries. Box Breaker, Flying Rock, Jürgen, Silvanus and Tony Taylor, all considered exceptionally fast dogs, found the going too rough and drifted out of the picture.

The fourth futurity was a spectacular three-way fight for the honors with Baron Long taking an early lead only to weaken on the last turn. Hummingbird Special came along fast to pin with Gumarist and Fairy Gamine nosing out the willing Baron.

Western Railroads Cut Fares To Meet Auto Competition

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A two-cent fare went into effect on the Frisco railroad system in nine southwestern states Friday night and on seven other railroads between points where they compete with the Frisco.

The reduction from 3.5 to 2 cents a mile was designed by the Frisco management to meet motor bus and private automobile competition, which has been making serious inroads on its passenger business. Frisco officials said the cut was the "railroad's contribution toward bringing business improvement."

The fare became certain Friday with the failure of the interstate commerce commission to suspend the proposed new rate announced by the Frisco beginning Feb. 1, and six competing railroads fell in line, announcing similar fare cuts between competitive points. The other roads are the Missouri Pacific, Missouri-Kansas-Texas (Katy), the Cotton Belt, Rock Island, Santa Fe, Kansas City Southern, and Illinois Central.

The new fare is being given a trial also on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific road to determine whether the reduced fare will bring enough increase in passenger travel to warrant its retention. The Chicago & North Western road also cut its fare Friday night for a three-month experimental period.

The amendment to the original motion provided that the chamber's competence should be interpreted to include a determination to defend the secularization schools, and that Laval rejected as introducing too political an element.

The ministerial declaration expressed the determination of the new ministry to continue the policy of seeking peace and at the same time establishing security at one of its bases.

The government, M. Laval said, stands for methodical and patient organization for world peace in collaboration with all nations sincerely holding the same viewpoint, regardless of treaties.

Turning to the question of disarmament he declared that he sought to realize "a rational and equitable limitation of armaments" but that the program of national defense and security would be continued.

Canadian Minister Visits Hoover For First Time In Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Prime Minister of Canada and the President of the United States clasped hands in the White House Friday for the first time in nearly four years.

Arriving shortly after noon aboard a Canadian National railway private car attached to a regular Pennsylvania railroad train, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada was formally welcomed to the capital by President Hoover.

The premier was officially welcomed at Union Station by Secretary Stimson and State Department subordinates; Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, and the embassy staff and the staff of the Canadian legation.

Ward had preceded the premier from Ottawa that during his visit he would engage in discussions with American officials on the St. Lawrence waterway enterprise. It was understood the prime minister desires to clear up several points.

The 'Talkies' Give New Look

The advent of the 'talkies' has given an excellent reason for destroying popular but unimproving practices which exist against foreigners.

Most Americans look upon the Englishman as having a sense of humor, of being rather cold and therefore a poor lover, and of lacking the "hot" character.

We wonder how many people realize when they watch Charlie Chaplin go through his antics of bristling forehead, cane twirling, mustache and eyebrow lifting that he is actually a product of John Bull.

As the two-fisted hero of many leather pushing screen plays, Reginald Denny has long been looked upon by the younger movie-fans as a typical fighting American.

Flying To The Moon

Other generations have always been provided with the contemplation of supernatural feats of mechanical transportation. The idea of a wagon without horses, of boats without sails, and of machines which could carry one through the air, offered good subjects for speculation before the advent of the automobile, steamboats, and airplanes.

The question of a flight to the moon is about the latest material on tap for the present generation and to quote the New York Herald Tribune, "The flight to the moon is already getting to be a serious business."
