Bad Habits Cause Problems

DEAR DR. LAMB — What does one do with a 48-year-old husband who won't take care of his health? He's a big man, 6 feet 2 and weighs 200 pounds. Two years ago the doctor found he had very high blood pressure and gave him some medicine and told him to come back in three weeks. He never went back. He gets very little exercise, eats no breakfast except for two cups of coffee and fruit juice, eats no lunch and has a good evening meal. He has two cocktails before dinner and several after. He is in bed by 10:30 every night and 11 or so on weekends. He sits at a desk all day. He suffers terrible headaches and eats aspirin like he can't get enough of it. His mother died of a stroke at age 57 and I am sure he is heading in the same direction. His father is hale and hearty in his middle 70s and my husband says he takes after his father and will live to a ripe old age. His father is four inches shorter and 50 pounds lighter. He doesn't drink or smoke. My husband stopped smoking 10 years ago so I know that's in his favor. Our sex life has gone down the drain. He says it makes his heart beat too fast and for an hour or so afterwards. I love him, Doctor, and don't want to be a widow. I am only 44 and we still have four children at home. If you'd comment on whether blood pressure is inherited or not I would be most grateful. DEAR READER — You have good reason to be concerned. There is an inherited tendency toward high blood pressure. Anyone who has high blood pressure certainly deserves careful evaluation and should then have regular medical supervision. If necessary, blood pressure works send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 18. Blood Pressure. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Commission Votes Unanimous Approval Seminole Gets Drug Force

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

By a unanimous vote the Seminole County Commission today agreed to assume the sponsorship of the controversial Central Florida Drug Administration (DEA) Task Force as recommended by Sheriff John Polk.

"I feel that we must keep it (the task force)," Polk told the commission. Seminole County will act as sub-grantee for the federal drug-fighting agency through August 31.

Polk says he will recommend to Harper, DEA agent, be appointed special agent in charge. Today's action came after two county commissioners at a workshop session yesterday said they needed additional time before making a final decision.

It also came on the heels of criticism of drug-fighting methods utilized by federal agents who work for the agency.

Three Seminole County commissioners said they would vote in favor of assuming sponsorship of the controversial Central Florida Drug Enforcement Administration Task Force as recommended by Sheriff Polk.

Commissioner Richard Williams, Commissioner John Kimbrough and Commissioner Sid Vihlen Jr., said they withdrew support from the favored approving Polk's recommendation to have Seminole County act as sub-grantee for the task force.

At a work session yesterday County Commission Chairman Michael Hattaway and Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski indicated they need more time before arriving at a decision. Hattaway said he needed time to talk with people about the problems that prompted the Orange County Sheriff's Department on April 23 to drug-test a portion of the task force.

The former County sheriff's Department and the Orlando City Police Department also withdrew support from the commission every two weeks or monthly on federal activities.

Vihlen, although absent from yesterday's session, sent a memorandum in support of Polk.

Vihlen said this morning the sheriff is a "capable administrator" and the task force provides a "valuable service to Central Florida and Seminole County."

Although Kimbrough said he would support the agreement, he said he would like to see some type of "monitoring system" whereby the sheriff would report to the commission every two weeks or monthly on federal activities.

Fee Committee Discussion Slated

Seminole County commissioners later today were scheduled to discuss creation of an ad hoc committee to study ways to reach a solution over the county's unwritten policy of requiring area developers to pay a $100-per-unit impact fee.

After falling to reach a decision at a meeting last Tuesday, Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski directed a memorandum to the commission requesting an 11 or 13-member committee be formed to resolve the issue.

County Attorney Thomas Freeman has ruled that collection of impact fees without an ordinance is illegal. Some $250,000 in fees has been collected since the policy was implemented two years ago and an additional $5 million is on the books for future collections.

The issue surfaced some two months ago when representative of the Mid-Florida Homebuilders Association appeared before the commission and asked that the unwritten policy of requiring "voluntary contributions" be terminated.

Though no formal decision has been reached on the policy, commissioners have released five building permits after builders refused to pay the mandatory $100 per unit.

Doug Lobel, executive director of the Homebuilders Association, said the decision to release permits, without requiring the fee, in essence means the policy of requiring "voluntary contributions" is no longer in effect.

However, Executive Assistant Roger Newlander says that any impact fees which he wishes to obtain his permit without payment of the fee will be required to receive permission to do so from the county commission.

Commissioners John Kimbrough and Richard Williams have fought against abatement of the impact fee policy. Both commissioners say outlawing the present policy would place an additional tax burden on Seminole County homeowners.

President Ford Is Unchallenged On Ballot

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter, Henry Jackson and Morris Udall each forecast success today in Pennsylvania's presidential primary, a race that could determine whether there's room for the brokers at the Democratic National Convention.

If Carter, the former Georgia governor, wins decisively it could make him tougher to stop in the remaining primaries.

Victory by Jackson or Udall, however, would increase the possibility that Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, an easy winner in Pennsylvania four years ago, will become a candidate after June 8, when all the primaries are over.

President Ford was alone on the Republican ballot, unchallenged in Pennsylvania by Ronald Reagan. The 103 GOP delegates will be uncommitted, though all are expected to be in Ford's pocket.

Statewide, Pennsylvanians eligible to vote. At stake were primary nominations for state treasurer, state auditor general, 25 seats in Congress, half of the seats in the 20th state senate and all 203 state representative seats.

The 6,536 polling places in 67 counties remain open 15 hours, closing at 8 p.m.

Altamonte Meeting Slated To Consider Mass Transit

By JACQUELINE DOWD Herald Staff Writer

Seminole county residents will be asked to decide the future of mass transit in the Orlando metropolitan area at Altamonte Springs City Hall.

Five alternatives for future development of the area's highways and mass transit system will be presented tonight — as well as at meetings in Orange County Wednesday night and Osceola County Thursday night.

The alternatives, suggested by the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council, are based on an 11-year study of the area's transportation needs in 1990. Each alternative consists of both a highway network and a mass transit network. The difference is in emphasis.

The key to the discussion is the existing highway network plus limited-access highway encircling Orlando. Although specific routes have not been decided, the north end of the beltline would cross I-4 in mid-Seminole County, probably between Longwood and Lake Mary.

Four of the alternatives proposing beltline construction or a highly developed mass transit system, will ask taxpayers to dig deeper into their pockets — but they'll end up saving money on gasoline and other personal auto expenses, energy consumption and air pollution.

The alternatives Seminole residents will be asked to choose between are:

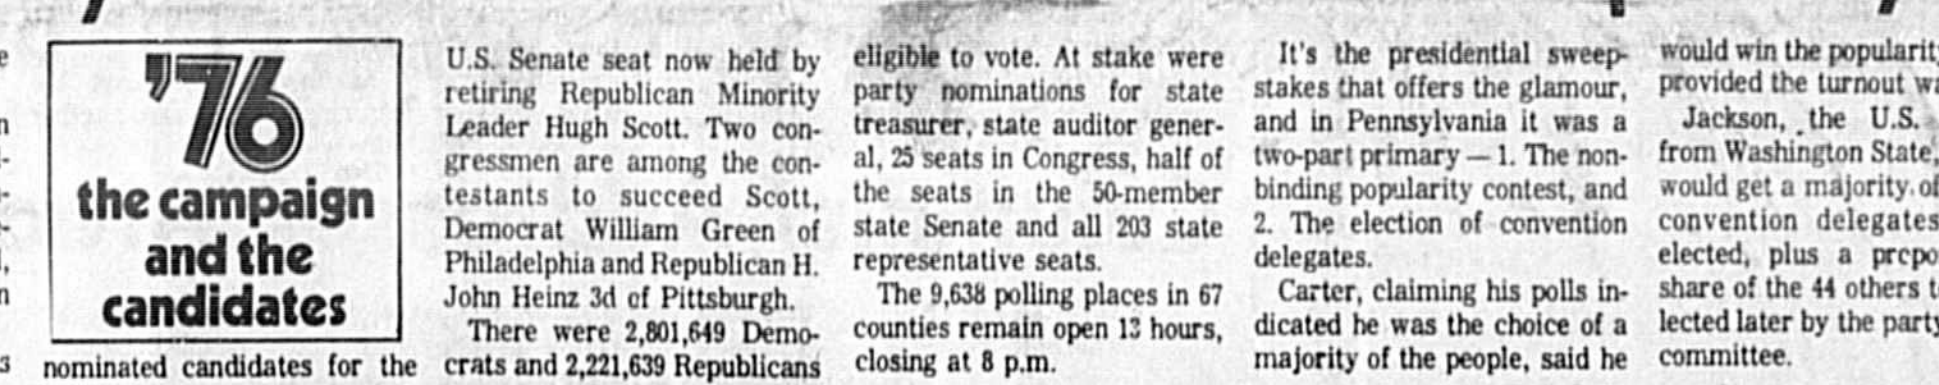

—A full beltline and low transit development system based upon continuation of the current proportionate mix of personal auto and transit use in the area. Several other road projects, including the extension of John Young Parkway south to Poinciana, the construction of new highways like Lokanottosa Trail and Maitland Boulevard and the improvement of many existing roads, are included.

The last system now operating by the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Transit Authority would remain essentially the same in 1990.

—A no beltline and high transit development system includes an elaborate regional bus system with exclusive bus lane in the median of I-4. Highway construction and improvement — except for the beltline — would be about the same as in the full beltline proposal.

—Partial beltline construction and a moderate transit development system includes the construction of new highways like Lokanottosa Trail and Maitland Boulevard and the improvement of many existing roads, are included.

The last system now operating by the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Transit Authority would remain essentially the same in 1990.

Home Committee Reports Progress

By JANE CASSELLBERY Herald Staff Writer

The Citizens Steering Committee of the Good Samaritan Home Building Fund, having completed the job it set out to accomplish, has issued its final report.

Organized in January, 1970, to aid the Home in obtaining a new building, the committee leaves a 50-bed nursing home and a 20 by 30 foot concrete storage garage free of debt and fully paid.

Assets include $135,740, paid construction; $4,500, paid architects fee; $10,655 miscellaneous paid expense and $189 in cash to be transferred to the Good Samaritan Home operating account.

Founder and President of the Home, Mother Ruby Lee Wilson, her husband Timothy and members and friends of the Free Will Holiness Church, who had been providing food, shelter and care for the poor, homeless and aged since 1948, were faced with closing down the existing frame structures which did not meet modern codes or replace them with a fire-proof concrete building.

The odds seemed insurmountable for the little group of dedicated Christian workers, who operated on faith and could scarcely meet monthly expenses, and the inhabitants of the Home, who had nowhere else to turn. But with the belief that "with God nothing shall be impossible" Mother Wilson refused to give up.

Spearheaded by civic minded leaders such as Robert Daehn, John Krider, Mrs. Julia Chase, Dr. W.V. Roberts, Dr. George Starke, Mrs. Helen Tucker and Dr. J.C. Ringling on the Steering Committee, the community rallied to the support of the Home.

The Edyth Bush Charitable Foundation, Inc., aided in several occasions by adding to the building fund some $80,000 in cash and 3-M stock. The $5,000 left in the account was recently used to erect the badly needed storage garage for beds and supplies. The Paulucci Foundation and Public Welfare Foundation of Washington, D.C. also made contributions.

Flagship Bank To Hold City Hall Property 90 Days

Sanford City Commission sailed through a routine agenda in 42 minutes Tuesday night.

With City Manager Warren Knowles out of town and Building Official Bill Bracland in his chair, the commissioners tabled several items — including a preliminary discussion of the budget for the 1976-77 budget year — until Knowles returns.

The commissioners read a letter from Gene Tucker, chairman of the board of Flagship Bank of Sanford, saying the bank will hold the 2.6 acre site for the city hall for 90 days at $100,000 while the city arranges financing for the purchase.

The commissioners were told Sanford's pre-application for a federally-funded community block grant has been given priority over several pre-applications from other cities in the Orlando metropolitan area.

The city has been invited to submit a full application for $100,000 for its open space project.

The commissioners used the cost of a traffic light at French Avenue and 13th Street as a bargaining chip. In his memorandum to the commissioners, Knowles suggested the city could install the light at less cost and the commissioners agreed to ask the county for more specific cost information.

A request from the downtown Business Association and SISTER for the annual Sidewalk Sale Day May 6 through 8 was approved.

The commissioners were told Sanford's pre-application for a federally-funded community block grant has been given priority over several pre-applications from other cities in the Orlando metropolitan area.

Thais Back Away From Communists

For a time it appeared Thailand might be traveling down the same path that delivered neighboring Cambodia into the hands of the Communists. Now there is hope that the Thais can avoid that fate.

In the 1960s Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk decided that the Communists were the wave of the future in Indochina. Abandoning the neutrality that might have spared Cambodia direct involvement in the Indochina war, he developed chummy relations with the Vietnamese Communists. As a result they got so enmeshed in his little kingdom that they could use it as a supply base and sanctuary for their troops fighting in South Vietnam.

Armed political and military leaders under Gen. Lon Nol decided to do something about it, taking over the government after a coup against Sihanouk. This ranged Cambodia with the United States and South Vietnam in a losing struggle against the Communists. The cost to Cambodia was tens of thousands killed and misery and destruction beyond description.

Kukrit Pramoj, the premier of Thailand, appeared to be repeating salient features of the Cambodian experience until recent elections threw him off the track. He has wooed Communist-manipulated leftists in Thailand by forcing the United States to withdraw its military personnel from the country. He made overtures for friendly relations with Communist Vietnam. He hoped this would induce the Vietnamese to stop aiding Communist guerrillas in northeast Thailand.

The Vietnamese Reds kept right on fomenting rebellion, and Thais saw their problems going from bad to worse. The left wing in Thailand turns out not to be the wave of the future — at least for now — and Kukrit and his party lost the election to his elder brother, Seni, who opposed snubbing Americans and placating leftists.

Now the 76-year-old Seni promises a right-of-center government. This victory by a pro-American will be balm to our bruised position in Southeast Asia, but the aged new premier will have to be extraordinarily vigorous and effective if he is to avoid becoming Thailand's Lon Nol.

He takes responsibility for a country shaken by sporadic Communist insurgency in the north, northeast and far south, and faltering from mismanagement, corruption and sharp inequalities between a deprived countryside and the cities. It is an uncertain situation at best, and hardly calls for the United States to consider the possibility of reversing its withdrawal of military installations from Thailand. But it is one that Washington should view with sympathy and do its best to shore up with the best possible allocations of economic and military aid.

A Prudent Move

President Ford has made a statesmanlike decision in bowing to the argument that the "pocket veto" is come into use in a way that often frustrates the intent of the Constitution. He has let Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi advise a federal judge that henceforth he will use this form of the veto power only when Congress has formally adjourned — not when it has merely recessed for a few days.

The Constitution provides that the President must return a vetoed bill to Congress with a veto message within 10 days, except when the adjournment of Congress prevents its return. Over the last 40 years presidents often have simply "pocketed" a bill they dislike when Congress is beginning a recess, thus vetoing it without allowing Congress the opportunity to vote on an override. It was the use of the pocket veto in that manner by President Nixon three years ago that prompted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to challenge the procedure as unconstitutional.

The separate powers of Congress and the executive have become a sensitive issue in recent years, especially in the areas of foreign policy and national security where the Constitution is sometimes vague. In yielding to the interests of Congress in the case of the pocket veto, Mr. Ford has shown an open-mindedness and respect for the Constitution that should stand him well when the next storm arises on Capitol Hill over congressional prerogatives.

Collection Reform Is Past Due

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There are 5,000 debt collectors in the United States. Last year $3 billion in debts were turned over to them for collection, of which they collected $800 million.

Yet only 38 states which have laws, the rule making or advisory boards by law include a majority of debt collectors. In many states it is possible to obtain a license merely by paying a fee and obtaining a bond. Twelve states with a combined population of 40 million have no collection laws.

The result is what we might expect. Unscrupulous collectors make no distinction between those actually in debt and those whose names are listed through computer error, no distinction between the deliberate welfar and the individual who cannot pay or must delay payment because of illness, accident or other calamity. And they make no distinction between debtors and those singled out because a greedy company wants money before it is due or money which may not be owed.

One firm has on its wall in a place of honor a letter from a victim who explains in plain and wry words that the agency was being paid what it asked to pay an end to the harassment.

One witness before a U. S. House of Representatives Banking and Currency subcommittee, related his collection technique in some detail. He would phone an alleged debtor every hour, or sometimes every five minutes, during the day and evening, at home and at work, following up with phone calls to the man's boss.

Doctors have been called out of emergency rooms, not once but repeatedly. Mothers have told their children had been in terrible automobile accidents to frighten them into paying. Children have been told to report to the police station to bring money out of fathers.

The story is told of an attorney, who for 17 1/2 months allowed one collection agency to use his name on the door and his signature on letters. He permitted a copy of the agency to be answered in his name and his approval for an agent to impersonate him in threatening alleged debtors in his name.

The same firm had a judge on its payroll who received a percentage of the take. In return, the judge provided the firm with semilegal forms bearing his name which were used to tell debtors the account was now in his hands and that they could save themselves court action by paying up immediately.

Said the witness: "We could have judgments issued, if we wanted to, without ever notifying the defendant that he was being sued." But there's more. One witness reported a debtor being told he would find himself floating in a river if he didn't pay up. A lady was offered a pair of cement shoes.

We are not talking here of the Mafia. But of firms employed by legitimate businessmen and institutions, some of whom make little or no effort to determine the methods used by the collection agencies they employ. It must be said many collection firms are honest and fair, and most businesses do not employ the type of collectors mentioned here. It must also be said that some respected firms are involved.

JACK ANDERSON

President Yielded To Pressure

WASHINGTON — President Ford dropped his support of legislation to curb corporate mergers after his most prominent campaign fundraiser complained about the bill to White House and Treasury officials.

Florida Atty. Gen. Bob Shevin has expended the Sunshine Law's intent by advising governmental bodies that it is their responsibility to notify the public when such a session is anticipated.

Actually, a governmental entity shouldn't need an opinion from Shevin. Almost everyone knows it is illegal for elected officials to meet behind closed doors without at least notifying the press that such a gathering is planned.

In this instance Neiswender did announce almost three weeks ago that a work session with E.H. Underwood, a paid county consultant, was in the offing. But that doesn't seem to constitute proper notice.

I'm glad Kwiatkowski sees the potential problem in not having a workable system whereby the press can be notified. Open meetings are very valuable to the citizens, and they should be kept that way — open. And you can't keep them open if the public or the media isn't notified.

Black Majority Rule Urged By Kissinger

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger called today for a rapid negotiated settlement giving Rhodesia black majority rule within two years.

Kissinger said the administration will urge Congress to block imports of Rhodesian chrome and will warn Americans they travel to Rhodesia at their peril. He said it will send economic aid to some 20,000 black refugees from Rhodesia and $12.5 million in aid to Mozambique for closing its border with Rhodesia.

The administration will also appeal to South Africa and France to comply completely with the economic sanctions ordered against Rhodesia by the United Nations, the secretary reported.

Now, it isn't just Sarah Lee who bugs Sen. Abourezk, he's also down on the folks at Pepperidge Farm, Wonder Bread, Day's Root Beer, Mama Cole's's Pizza, Minute Maid, and Madria-Madria Sangria, among others.

The reason? Well, the South Dakota Democrat thinks that consumers are being tricked because these businesses "deceptively advertise themselves as small business or family-owned business" when they are not.

He says that people often have a strong preference for buying things from small business because they feel they get better quality items, more personal service and prompt attention on warranty claims.

Sen. Abourezk emphasizes: "Better labeling is not the answer to this problem. Fine print on the product does not have the impact on consumers that mass media advertising does."

Another big worry is about what the insiders are up to. Studies have shown that a good many corporate executives have been sellers of late. Do they know something? If so, what is it they know?

And what is the market likely to do with that Edson Gould forecast overhauling it. Gould, a highly respected forecaster, believes prices might be headed for a fall, perhaps to below 900 points on the Dow Jones industrial average.

The correction, which is a euphemism for decline, is various forecast the range from 10 per cent to 20 per cent and to occur in almost any month, probably in May or June.

The nearest thing to a typical forecast is this: over the longterm the market will continue to advance, reaching new highs on the industrial average by the year's end, but in the meantime there will be a correction.

In the meantime, the market is very much like an ambitious middle-level manager whose career has been stalled. He's convinced he has the goods, but he fears there is too much in life he cannot control.

A person or a market so stalled tends to become neurotic — to look for reasons, to invent them where none will be logical explanation, both manager and investor say. But maybe there isn't.

Some rattan furniture from the Philippines was also hidden in the secret nuclear area, according to our sources. The contraband, safe in its nuclear hiding place, was sneaked into the United States, duty free. The commanding officer of the Saratoga at that time was Capt. James R. Sanderson.

John D. Lofton Jr. Disclosure Proposal: Who Cares?

WASHINGTON — you've all heard the advertising jingle "nobody does it like Sarah Lee" — right?

Well, forget it. There is somebody who doesn't like Sarah Lee and his name is Sen. James Abourezk.

Now, it isn't just Sarah Lee who bugs Sen. Abourezk, he's also down on the folks at Pepperidge Farm, Wonder Bread, Day's Root Beer, Mama Cole's's Pizza, Minute Maid, and Madria-Madria Sangria, among others.

The reason? Well, the South Dakota Democrat thinks that consumers are being tricked because these businesses "deceptively advertise themselves as small business or family-owned business" when they are not.

He says that people often have a strong preference for buying things from small business because they feel they get better quality items, more personal service and prompt attention on warranty claims.

Sen. Abourezk emphasizes: "Better labeling is not the answer to this problem. Fine print on the product does not have the impact on consumers that mass media advertising does."

Another big worry is about what the insiders are up to. Studies have shown that a good many corporate executives have been sellers of late. Do they know something? If so, what is it they know?

And what is the market likely to do with that Edson Gould forecast overhauling it. Gould, a highly respected forecaster, believes prices might be headed for a fall, perhaps to below 900 points on the Dow Jones industrial average.

The correction, which is a euphemism for decline, is various forecast the range from 10 per cent to 20 per cent and to occur in almost any month, probably in May or June.

The nearest thing to a typical forecast is this: over the longterm the market will continue to advance, reaching new highs on the industrial average by the year's end, but in the meantime there will be a correction.

In the meantime, the market is very much like an ambitious middle-level manager whose career has been stalled. He's convinced he has the goods, but he fears there is too much in life he cannot control.

A person or a market so stalled tends to become neurotic — to look for reasons, to invent them where none will be logical explanation, both manager and investor say. But maybe there isn't.

At the moment you have scores of analysts trying to figure out what the Federal Reserve is up to. Like with doctors studying a pile of bones, areas for contraband.

For more than two years, the Saratoga crew, disciplined to protect nuclear secrets, has been even more tight-lipped about the booze that was stashed in the bomb spaces. The secret might never have leaked out if the top brass hadn't revoked the liberty privileges of scores of enlisted men for drunkenness.

The indignant sailors got in touch with us to complain that their alcoholic transgressions were trivial compared to the escapades of certain top officers, including an admiral who turned out to be the secret owner of some confiscated spirits.

Just before the Saratoga pulled out of the Tonkin Gulf in winter 1973, some Navy bigwigs loaded crates of whiskey into a nuclear storage room on the third deck below the hangar bay. Some rattan furniture from the Philippines was also hidden in the secret nuclear area, according to our sources. The contraband, safe in its nuclear hiding place, was sneaked into the United States, duty free. The commanding officer of the Saratoga at that time was Capt. James R. Sanderson.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Black Majority Rule Urged By Kissinger

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger called today for a rapid negotiated settlement giving Rhodesia black majority rule within two years.

Kissinger said the administration will urge Congress to block imports of Rhodesian chrome and will warn Americans they travel to Rhodesia at their peril. He said it will send economic aid to some 20,000 black refugees from Rhodesia and $12.5 million in aid to Mozambique for closing its border with Rhodesia.

The administration will also appeal to South Africa and France to comply completely with the economic sanctions ordered against Rhodesia by the United Nations, the secretary reported.

Catholic Cardinals Named

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has named Archbishop William Wakefield Baum of Washington, D.C., and 20 other prelates to be cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, the Vatican announced.

The Pope will elevate Archbishop Baum and 18 of the cardinals-designate to the Sacred College at a consistory on May 24, the Vatican said.

Jay Rockefeller Offered Senate Seat

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Jay Rockefeller, offered him the late U.S. Sen. Robert Kennedy's Senate seat after Kennedy was assassinated in 1963.

The younger Rockefeller made the disclosure Monday while campaigning at Marshall University for the Democratic nomination for governor of West Virginia.

He said that after Kennedy was assassinated while campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, his uncle tried for 10 days to convince him to accept the seat. He eventually named Republican Rep. Charles Goodell to fill the vacancy.

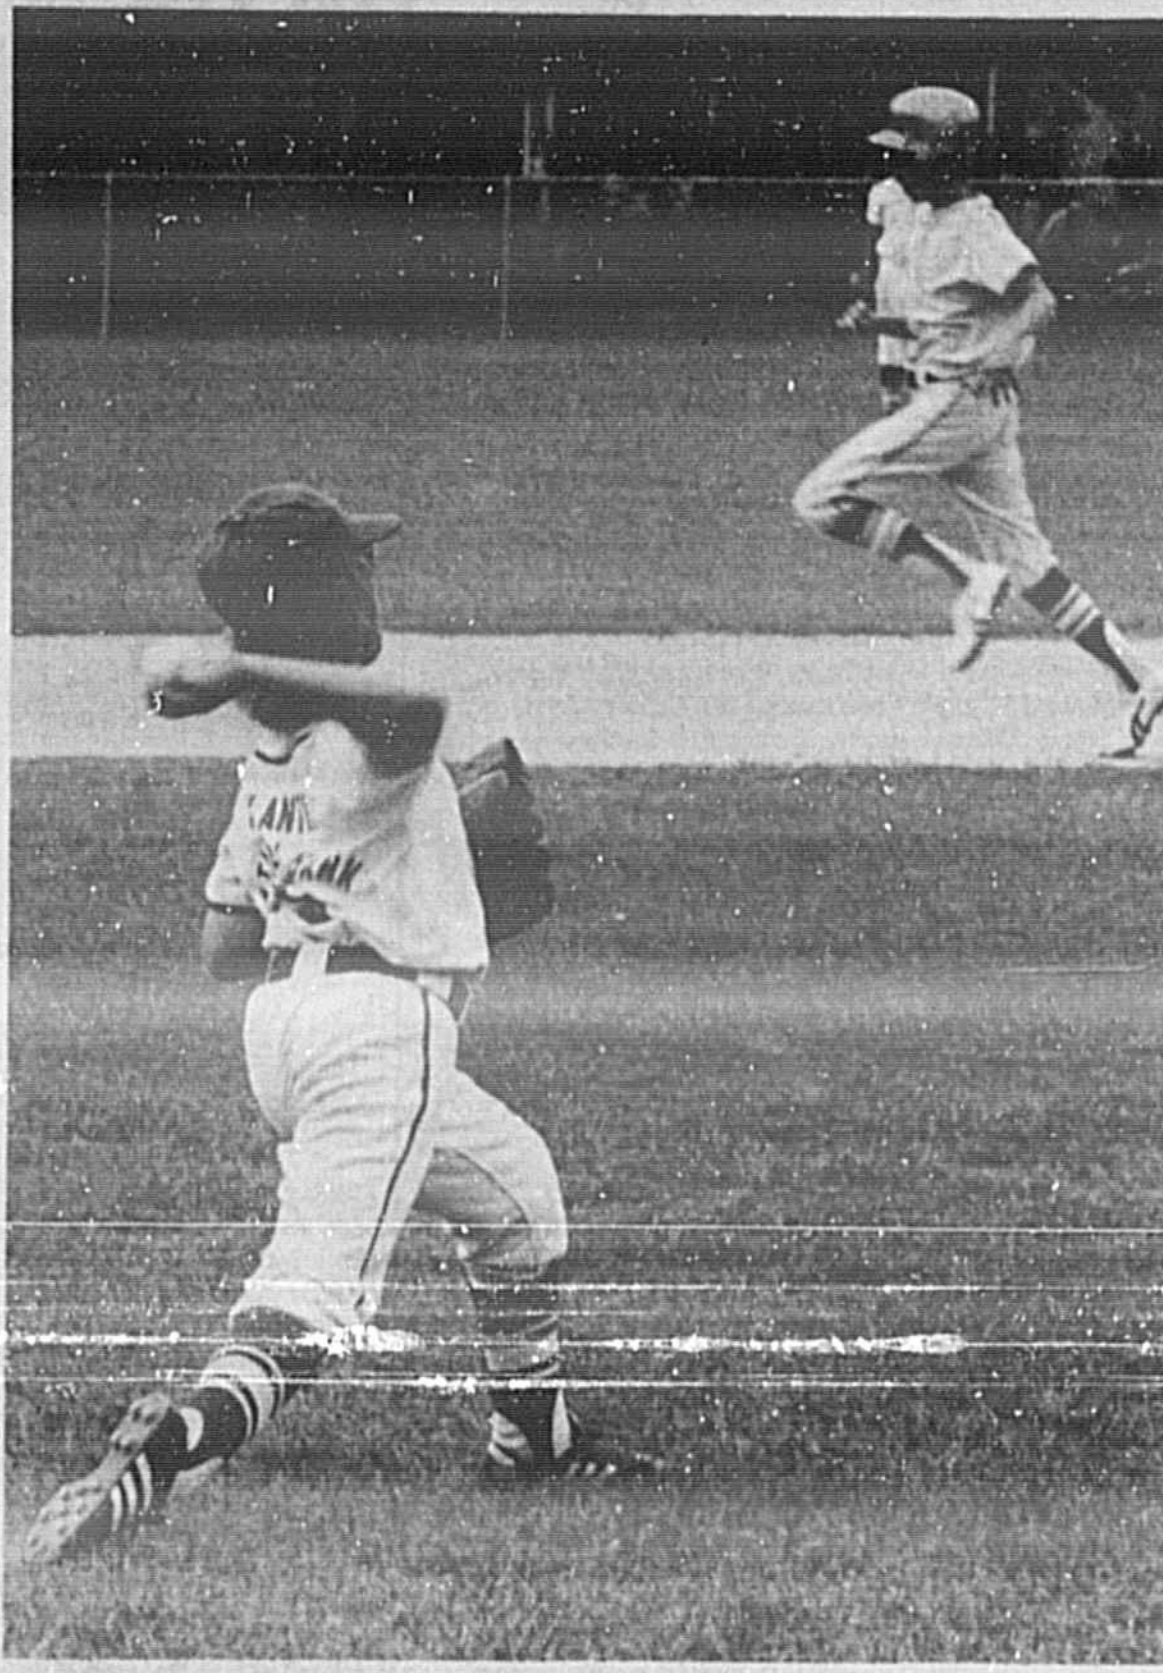

Asked why he had not told the incident sooner, Rockefeller said, "There really wasn't much to it."

Sanders Whiffs 12 In 5-1 Win

Flagship Bank of Seminole and Seminole Petroleum continued their winning American League play Monday in Sanford Little League play with the Flagship team taking 5-1 measure of Petroleum team beating Atlantic National, 10-3.

In the Continental League, George's edged United Transportation Union, 6-7, and Jack Prosser Ford drubbed Stromberg-Carlson, 15-0.

National League games found First Federal beating Chase & Co., 12-4, and Medical Center winning over Seminole Sporting Goods on a forfeit, 6-0.

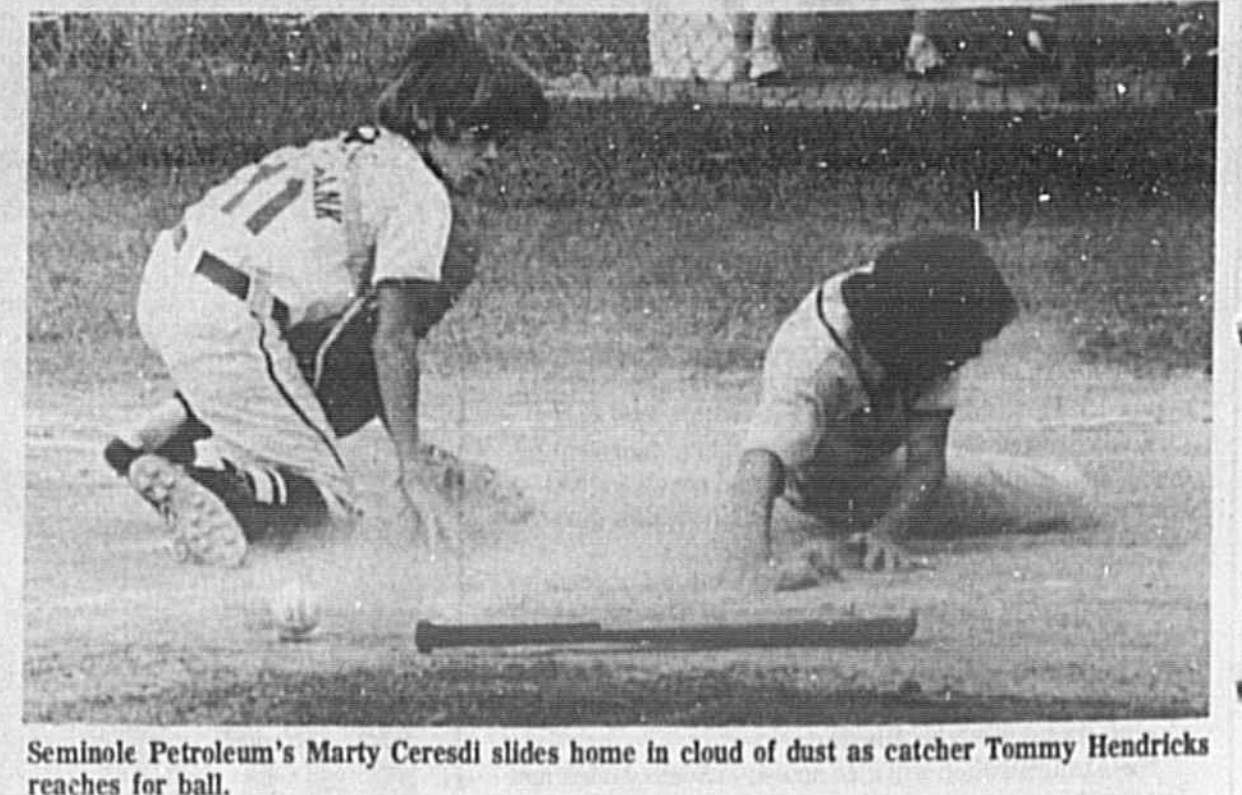

In Junior League play, Kiwanis trounced Rotary, 13-2. Chip Sanders was again the pitching hero for Flagship of Seminole. The game was called after four innings because of darkness and he fanned 12 of the 15 batters he faced. Wes Steele had two hits for the winners.

John Falk had two hits and Bill Bridges scored two runs for the Petroleum team. Marty Ceresoli held Atlantic National to four hits, one a double by Tim Shepherd.

David Holt pitched a two-hitter for Prosser Ford, which he led the league with. Perfect 5-0 record. Darrell Shuler scored four times for the winners while Vernon Law and Kevin Falk came in twice each.

Last inning hits by Paul Reno and Toney Little keyed George's win with Reno and Little having two hits for the game. Dean Debose and Lenford Sutton had two hits each for U.T.U.

Poise Key Factor As Pistons Win

Poise. The ability to perform under pressure, to rise to the occasion when the game moves up a notch in tempo and intensity. It's what playoff basketball is all about.

The Detroit Pistons, given little chance against mighty Golden State, squandered most of a 16-point lead but held on to beat the defending champion Warriors 106-102 at Detroit Tuesday night, evening their National Basketball Association playoff series at 2-2.

"We showed a lot of poise when they had us on the ropes," said Pistons coach Herb Brown. "A lot of people say we can't win a pressure game. Well, this was a pressure game there ever was one. In the last month and a half we've won a lot of pressure games."

In another best-of-seven quarter-final series, the Cleveland Cavaliers, led by guard Brad Linn, beat the Boston Celtics 101-97 on Sunday, Westphal said, "I didn't feel there was all that much pressure. Of course, if we had lost, there was no tomorrow."

In the remaining quarter-final series, the Boston Celtics hope to have captain John Havlicek back from a foot injury for the fourth game of their set against the Buffalo Braves in Buffalo Wednesday. Boston leads the series 2-1.

SC Battle To SCC Faculty, 13-8

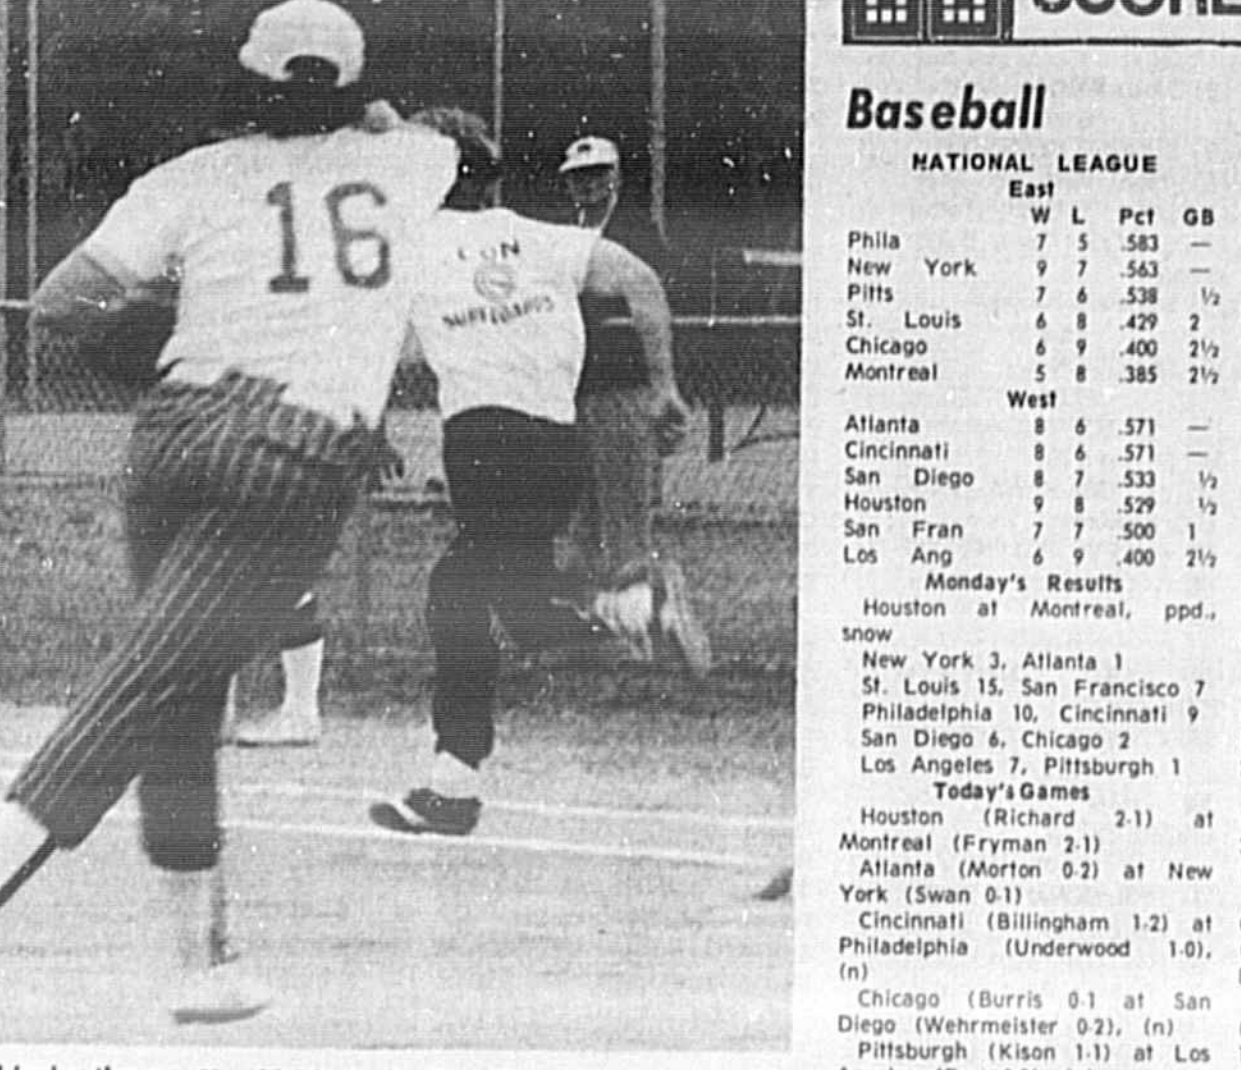

Undeclared Seaboard Coastline battled back from the edge of extinction on a walk, two errors and Steve Cooper's double to make it 8-8.

In the extra stanza, SCC outplayed three Coastline misuses and three more singles into a five-run, game-breaking upheaval while Alexander knocked the Trainers down in order for the victory.

Eldridge, needing a triumph over the Outcasts to close within a half-game of Seaboard, plunged into immediate trouble. Patrick's posted leads of 16-3 and 18-1 in the early innings and seemingly had the content in the bag with two strikes out for 20-8.

That was when Standard came roaring back, paced by Don Harvey's four hits, including a home run. Larry Helman and Jim Dawson added three safeties apiece and Gary Belcher, Ted Miller and Brian Brewer each rapped two binges during the rally.

Henry Bryant, Bernard Hudley and Reginald Alexander blasted home runs for Patrick's, Alexander

Steve Cooper wins footrace to third with SCC's Mack Blythe.

Tell Him To Stop Or You Keep Away

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and so is Todd. Every time we are alone, he tries to touch me in places I don't want him to. The only thing is that part of me wants him to, but the other part of me stops him.

I have been going with Todd for about five months, and I have never felt this way about any other boy. I wouldn't say that I am "in love" with him, but I sure do like him a lot.

I hope I don't lose him because I really enjoy his company. When he tries to touch me, and I make him stop, he doesn't put up a fight. He stops. But the first time he gets the chance, he tries again.

Please don't tell me to quit seeing Todd because I don't want to. And don't tell me I am too young to feel this way because I feel this way I must not be too young.

NEEDS HELP
DEAR NEEDS: You are a very bright young woman, so listen carefully. Obviously you have normal sexual feelings, which is not to be ashamed of, but you are not yet sufficiently mature emotionally to handle a physical relationship.

The word from here is: Tell Todd to knock off the hand job. And if he doesn't - YOU do.

DEAR ABBY: As my high school graduation draws near, I am becoming more concerned about this problem.

My parents are divorced, and my mother married a man my father absolutely detests. The feeling is mutual, and if they meet each other face to face, there is sure to be a fight.

I have sent invitations to my mother and father. My mother insists on having her husband attend with her.

I am just terrified of what is going to happen when my father and stepmother meet at my graduation. And there is no way they can avoid seeing each other.

My graduation is a very important event in my life, and I want everything to go right. My father says he won't start anything, but if they start a poke at him, he will defend himself.

I get up in knots just thinking about it. I've even considered not showing up myself. If there's a fight, I'll be disgraced.

IN THE MIDDLE
DEAR IN: Don't borrow trouble. There may not be a fight. And if there is, remember, you are not responsible for the behavior of your father or your stepfather. They can disagree only themselves.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been recently approved to be adoptive parents. In making a list of friends to whom we want to send announcements, we've come up against a problem.

Seven years ago a friend of mine had a baby out of wedlock, and she gave the child up for adoption. It was a very difficult decision for her, and to this day she talks about it.

I see this friend about once a year. Knowing how deeply she felt about the decision, I wonder if it would be appropriate to send her an announcement about our adopted child, and I know that soon after she will hear about it. If so, she might feel that I purposely omitted her.

DEAR SOON-TO-BE MOTHER
DEAR SOON: If you aren't sure how she would react to a printed announcement, phone her and tell her the news at the same time the others will be learning it.

Breaker 23 for the Milkmaid; Williamson, owners of this is the Milkmaid, you get a copy? For those of you who are CBers in the Sanford area, you don't need any introduction. For those of you who aren't, you can't miss it. Just look for the antennas sticking up out of trucks, roofs, and bumpers. Thousands of people all over the country are finding out that CB's are fun, exciting and full of adventure. But the most important reason for owning a CB (next to Smokey reports that is) is as a means of safety. If you should break down or be in unfamiliar territory and someone gets stuck, just flip on the old CB to let the nationwide emergency channel (Ch. 9) and someone will always be listening. While CB'ing is fun, it does take a little bit of preparation before you start talking. You just can't get on there and say hello! Anita and Russ will be happy to help you make up a handle (name) to call yourself, instruct you on the proper use and care for your CB. Williamson's Communication and Engraving has just recently opened. But neither Russ or Anita are strangers to the world of CB'ing. Russ is President of the LTD Club (Let's Talk for the Deal) and Anita is Secretary of the same club. Russ is also a board member of the Tri County Road Runners, a well known CB club in the area. Anita has won many awards for her work in the area through CB Clubs, among them is CB'er of the Year (1974) and Woman of the Year (1975). Russ and Anita are both employed by the school board, and in their spare time, they run a business as their living, therefore their prices aren't way out there. Like anything else, CB's come in all price ranges. But

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
1976 For Wednesday, April 28.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be as tolerant and patient with loved ones and your family today as you will be with persons who mean a great deal less to you.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let a misunderstanding that should have been long forgotten affect the way you'll deal with an old friend today.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be content with what you have now. Don't be too concerned that another has more. The grass really isn't that much greener in her back yard.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Too many self-doubts today will limit your chances of success. Don't write yourself off before even trying.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you're quite optimistic. Today, you're likely to be overly impressed by negatives.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid a friend who is always willing to share what you have, but never what's hers. She could really turn you off today.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll do well today as long as you don't run into serious opposition. Should things get tough, be apt to look for an easy out.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't ask someone to do something today that you'd refuse to do yourself. You'll get the same answer you'd give.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're better at managing your own affairs today than you will be at manipulating others. Mind your own business.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It will be difficult to keep peace at home today if either you or your mate bring up an old issue on which you're worlds apart.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Physical tasks shouldn't cause you too many problems today, but mental ones could. Take care with the mind bogglers!
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unruly youngsters could easily push your patience beyond its endurance today. Deal with them firmly, but not with too heavy a hand.
YOUR BIRTHDAY April 28, 1976 This coming year you will not be easily discouraged should you meet obstacles to your goals. This attitude will eventually be your ticket to success.

Blood Clot Or Heart Attack?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—What's the difference between a heart attack and an embolus? When a person is put on Coumadin, does this mean that he has had a heart attack? How can a blood clot go through the heart, enter the lungs and not be called a heart attack? I am talking about the case of my son. I am very worried about him. No one knows where the embolus came from. Can you guess? His legs were minutely examined, and it was stated that many clots originate in the legs but yet there is no sign of them on an examination.
My son has a job and travels in his own car or in airplanes. He has been instructed to exercise every 45 minutes. I presume to get the circulation going in his legs.
He was told that he only needed to take Coumadin for three months and that period is almost up. Yet a friend of his has been on Coumadin for the past 10 years; is that possible?
I lost my dear wife from a heart attack even though she had been taking the same medicine for blood thinning. The doctors restricted my wife's activity very severely, yet the doctors encourage my son to do things such as going out to drive golf balls. Any light you can shed on this would certainly be appreciated.
DEAR READER—Used in the sense of your son's problem, an embolus means a blood clot. It's clear from the rest of your letter that the doctors think that the blood clot or blood clots went to the lungs. Most blood clots of that type do form in the veins in the legs. Your son's doctors are perfectly correct in saying that they can examine the legs and not be able to detect the presence of a clot within one of the deep veins. The clot that breaks loose from any location follows that blood stream just like a log going down a river. It rides with the blood stream through the right side of the heart. The blood comes out of the heart and goes to the lungs. The clots lodge in the lungs and never get back to the heart.
A heart attack is entirely different. Your wife had an obstruction in one of the arteries to her heart muscle. The similarity is that both can cause chest pains. Since it is important to keep the blood thinned in both cases, it is common to use anti-clotting medicines such as Coumadin in the treatment of both conditions. A clot from the vein in the leg can pass through the right heart into the lungs without causing any damage to the heart as yet.
It's wise not to compress the leg veins by prolonged sitting as might occur with prolonged car rides or prolonged airplane rides. That also applies to people who do not have any blood clot formation as yet. Get up and shake those legs around to keep the circulation moving. It helps prevent all kinds of problems.
Obesity also appears to increase the chances of blood clots. For more information on effects of obesity send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 27, Obesity: The High Cost of Fat. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Talks Resume Monday

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer
The Seminole County School Board and three employee groups are expected to return to the bargaining table Monday after talks were halted a month ago by disputes over certification and representation.
The state Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) has completed an investigation of unfair labor practice complaints filed by both sides and has recommended that talks resume.
A PERC investigator has ruled that there is "probable merit" in the complaint by the three employee groups that School Board Negotiator Harry Pelley was violating the commission's regulations by refusing to recognize the employee groups' business agent, Gene Grooms.
The employee groups involved are the Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole County, the School Bus Drivers Association and the Seminole Educational Clerical Association.
Controversy between the groups and the school board was sparked about a month after talks began in February, when Local 1010 of the International Brotherhood of Painters and Allied Trades filed a motion with PERC that the employee groups were not properly registered with the state.
The union claimed the groups should be registered by the Florida Department of Commerce, not with PERC. The motion was overruled.
Pelley, however, while supporting the employee group certification by PERC, said that Grooms as their business agent should be certified by the Department of Commerce. He refused to recognize Grooms at the bargaining table, arguing the employee groups to continue talks on their own.
At this point, talks broke down, and each side filed its unfair labor practice complaints.
According to the PERC investigator, the employee groups' complaint had "probable merit" because the employer school board had insisted on a particular composition for the employee bargaining team.
The investigator said Pelley's refusal to recognize Grooms was a violation of common law regulations and should not have stalled negotiations.
The investigator also said employee groups are free to select their own spokesmen, adding that PERC was not dealing with the question of Grooms' certification, as this did not fall within the jurisdiction of the commission.
Pelley said this morning that he does not agree with the PERC finding that the school board's position is not valid. But he said he would abide by the ruling and was writing to the presidents of the three employee groups inviting them to resume talks next week.

Altamonte Policeman Shot, But Saved By Vest

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer
Altamonte Springs Police Patrolman Lewis Branding escaped serious injury early today, thanks to a gift from his parents.
A protective vest given Branding, 24, by his parents when he graduated last August from Rollins College stopped two bullets fired by an unidentified gunman at 2:48 a.m. at an industrial building at Newberryport Ave. and Fenn St., police said.
Lt. Steve Garver said Branding was on routine patrol when he stopped to check out a man he spotted near a loading door.
As Branding exited his patrol car and approached the man opened fire with a handgun. Garver said one bullet struck Branding in the chest, spinning him around, and a second bullet hit his back. Branding struck his head on the patrol car as he fell, Garver said, but managed to get off three shots from his service revolver.
Branding, who was later treated and released from Florida Hospital North, Altamonte Springs, then radioed for assistance and Cpl. Norman Floyd Jr. reached the scene 30 seconds later, Garver said.
The gunman fled into a nearby wooded area and at least 40 officers from Altamonte and other law enforcement agencies responded to cordon off a 10 to 12 block area that included parts of an adjacent residential area.
Investigators said they found no blood at the shooting scene and no indication that the gunman was wounded by the downed officer's gunfire.
During a three-hour manhunt, using police dogs, the officers failed to turn up a suspect but did find a pistol, described as a .22 caliber "Saturday Night Special" in the wooded area. Investigators said ballistic tests will be made to determine if the bullets imbedded in Branding's protective vest, made of a nylon-like material, were fired from the pistol.
Garver said Orlando, Winter Park and Deland policemen with dogs, Longwood, Lake Mary and Casselberry officers, sheriff's deputies and Florida Highway Patrol troopers from both Orange and Seminole counties assisted in the search that ended only "after we were certain the suspect had left the area."

Carter Ahead Both Ways In Pennsylvania Primary

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter has combined his big victory in Pennsylvania's Democratic presidential preference primary with an unexpected lead in the crucial battle for the state's national convention delegates.
The former Georgia governor, boasting that "we're now No. 1," had won or was leading for 61 of the state's 178 delegates as the vote count continued today. Some results were not expected until Friday.
President Ford, unopposed in Pennsylvania and apparently assured of all 103 Republican delegates, was in Texas preparing for the important May 1 primary there.
Ford emphasized law and order in a speech prepared for a meeting in Tyler of three law groups. He declared "simple solutions to complex problems" and said he is determined to keep Americans safe from crime at home and from war and aggression abroad.
The President apparently sought to stake out an issue of his own against challenges to his defense policy from former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.
But he wound up with a pledge to "continue to insure that the United States of America is unsurpassed in military capability" — a pledge he seems compelled to make everywhere because of Reagan's persistent campaigning on that issue.
Correctly predicting that the people wouldn't listen to the party bosses and labor leaders who tried to stop him in Pennsylvania Tuesday, Carter demolished his chief foe — Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall — in the non-binding popularity contest.
Udall was a distant fourth.
But what Carter hadn't predicted, while Jackson had, was victory in the delegate contest — and this apparent upset left Jackson and Udall disappointed.
"His slow down our course to the White House," Jackson said.
"I wouldn't be honest if I didn't tell you I'm a little bit disappointed," Udall said. "But I'm not dismayed and I'm not discouraged."

Private Investigator's Request For Permit Denied By County

Despite an urgent plea from a private investigator and one commissioner, the majority of Seminole County Commission on Tuesday voted not to get into the business of issuing permits to carry concealed weapons.
A South Seminole investigator, Harvey Morse, said that PERC "provide a definite need for the community" and to fulfill that need adequately requires carrying a concealed weapon.
"Very, very unfair to put us in jeopardy," Morse told the commission after a 4-1 vote to issue him a permit. County Commissioner Sid Vihlen Jr. attempted to implement a policy whereby the commission could grant permits, but he, like Morse, was defeated.
Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski said he opposes licensing private individuals to carry concealed weapons now and "40 years from now."
Vihlen said private investigators "take a lot of the load off the sheriff's department." And, Morse pointed out there are only 12 investigators in Seminole County. The Morse-Whiten proposal was rigid in its requirements, but commissioners opted to deliver the message that they were not in favor of granting such permits in Seminole County.
The decision ended a more than two-month struggle between Morse and the commission.
Though Morse has met all qualification necessary to receive a permit, the commission refused to give the okay.
Some commissioners balked because Sheriff John Polk refused to recommend for or against issuance. The sheriff indicated, however, he is philosophically opposed to issuance of permits for concealed weapons to anyone other than law enforcement officers.

Commissioner Says Fee Panel Proposal Benefits Builders

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer
Kimbrogh opposes outlawing impact fees, said the county needs an answer to a memorandum he sent County Atty. Thomas Freeman before appointment of the committee.
In a missive to Freeman, Williams asked the attorney to advise the commission of what is needed to create an ordinance that would legalize the collection of impact fees. Freeman has advised the commission that collection of impact fees without an ordinance is illegal.
But when Kwiatkowski agreed to revise the committee and bring the proposal back to the commission next Tuesday, Williams was as follows:
A representative from the Mid-Florida Homebuilders Association, a large developer, a small developer, an independent planner, representatives from the city, county and the clerk's office plus an attorney, an independent home builder, a home owner, an accountant and a representative from the school board.

SHERIFF'S AUCTION MOVES BICYCLES

Seminole Sheriff's Sgt. Howard D. Mullen, left above, was auctioneer Tuesday as recovered but unclaimed property went on the block at county storage facilities south of Sanford. An adding machine, a motorcycle engine and 79 bicycles brought in a total of $1,289.75 from a crowd of buyers of all ages. Youth Deputies kept the bikes lined up for the block and acted as cashiers. Bicycles in varying conditions brought from $3 to $30 and one buyer, right, seemed to face a long walk home with his bargains but actually was on his way to a waiting auto.
