County luncheon planned

HEATHROW — Seminole County commissioners will host local lawmakers in their now-annual delegation briefing luncheon on Thursday, Nov. 18. The public is invited to attend the noon meeting at the AAA headquarters, 1000 AAA Drive. The lunch for county, city and state officials begins at 12:45 p.m.

The only local bill proposed by county commissioners is a request to repeal a 1972 local bill which allowed the county's circuit and county judges to choose between the state insurance plan or the county's. The state has since improved its insurance plan so the county wants to dump the benefit, now costing about $24,000 per year. Many judges sign up for both plans, county officials say.

Main Street director hired

SANFORD — The Main Street selection committee has entered into an agreement with Faye Fulton, to serve as Main Street director. She is presently an urban planner in Knoxville, Tenn.

The announcement was made this morning by Sanford Main Street President Chris Crantus. Fulton will begin her post in Sanford on Dec. 1.

The selection committee had compiled a list of five candidates considered as finalists. When no agreements could be reached, four more names were chosen, including Fulton.

She was offered the post early this month. Fulton holds a bachelor degree in Communications and English from the University of Texas in Austin, and a masters in Urban Planning from the University of Tennessee.

Fulton's salary for the position has been set at $30,000 per full year.

Brewster may face charges in Orange County

SANFORD — Former Sanford Police officer Guy Brewster could be in some trouble with the law again.

Brewster and an 18-year-old white male were stopped for a traffic violation about 2 a.m. Wednesday at State Road 434 and Interstate 4 in Longwood.

In the car, officers said they found "several hundred dollars worth of property that was purchased with a stolen credit card at an Orange County Albertson's supermarket."

No arrests were made in the case, but the stolen property was seized and taken into evidence.

According to sheriff's department spokesman Ed McDonough, the case will be investigated by Orange County officials since it involves an Orange County store and the card belonged to a woman who lives in Orange County.

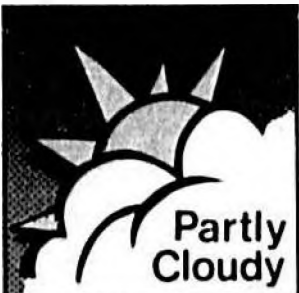

"I don't know when charges will be filed," he said.

State probes county wrongdoing claim

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County may have cleared one hurdle in receiving the state's acceptance of its soccer training facility at Lake Sylvan Park, but still faces an investigation into whether county officials knew state and federal permission was needed to build the center there.

Don Gerteisen, chief of the Bureau of Local Recreation Services of the Florida Park Service,

"Am I surprised the spineless people on the state level have backed off their original position No."

-Ross Bielling

said a review of the events surrounding the county approval of the $2.8 million training center will be completed this week. The state is recommending the National Park Service allow the center to remain because of a public scheduling program the county developed.

Gerteisen said the investigation is based on an allegation of wrongdoing on the part of Seminole County officials made by the Friends of Sylvan Lake Homeowner's Association. If the state finds the county knowingly ignored state notification requirements, it could be forced to replace the land used for the training center, according to a

Kuhn unanimously elected school board chairman

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — With a few giggles and a sort of game of musical chairs, the school board of Seminole County elected a new chairman last evening.

Dr. Barbara Kuhn was picked unanimously to lead the board for the next year.

"I was so surprised," she said after the meeting. "I sure didn't come to this meeting expecting to be the chairman."

Kuhn, who owns and operates Effectiveness Training Conferences, a management and marketing consulting firm in Cassberry, was elected to the school board in 1990.

She was nominated to the chairmanship by vice chairman Sandy Robinson who declined the nomination to the top position. The remaining agreed she would be the best one for the job.

IRS owes money to 137 in county

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The U.S. Government has cannot locate 137 Seminole County residents. They are due income tax refunds from 1992 or prior years.

In Sanford alone, there are 25 residents. Lake Mary has 10, with one in Heathrow, and one in the community of Lake Monroe.

For all of Seminole County, the amount of money totals $56,600.13, for an average of $413.14. IRS says the checks range from $1 to over $16,000.

The government says the refund checks were mailed, but returned because the postal service could not deliver them. Some non-deliveries caused by people moving and not filing a change of address form. Some people changed their names. Others may have improperly written their return addresses on the various forms.

Taxpayers aren't the only ones giving improper identification. In publishing a list of people they could not locate, the IRS has identified persons in Orange County as living in Orange City and Longwood. They also showed a listing of a family living in Melbourne, identified as being in Seminole County. For Lake County, West Palm Beach was listed as one of the cities.

While some people may have been contacted and received their refunds since the government published the listings, the following persons are identified as having money coming from IRS. If

Expansion of church on agenda

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 760 Sun Drive, Lake Mary, is planning on a building expansion drive. With work not contemplated until five years from now, approval for a temporary structure is being sought.

The Lake Mary City Commission will hear a request Thursday night, to allow the church authority to install a manufactured building on its property, to house a Sunday school and day school.

The proposed building, 48 by 72 feet in size, is planned for near the center of a large parcel of property owned by the church.

During discussion on the proposal at a City Planning and Zoning Board hearing, Paul Hoyer, pastor of the church, explained that eventually, in front of the present building to the west, there will be a permanent education building, and a sanctuary to the south.

He told how the church was presently on a five-year building plan, but more space is needed immediately to handle a rapid preschool growth.

Cocaine arrest stuns community

By JAMES MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — Police and school officials were still unsure how six fourth-graders, ranging in age from 9 to 11, got their hands on 3 1/2 grams of cocaine and brought it to class.

"You don't ever imagine children so young are going to get their hands on a drug like cocaine," said Sandra Thrower, principal of Dale Mabry Elementary School. "Parents are concerned, and they have every right to be."

Administrators met with concerned parents Tuesday night in an effort to explain the situation which unfolded last Friday.

That's when five of the boys were arrested and charged with cocaine possession. One boy, an 11-year-old, also, was charged with possession with intent to deliver.

The arrests came after a teacher noticed a boy trying to hide something in his hand and found it was a plastic bag with white powder. She took him to the principal's office.

After talking to the student and some of the others involved, the principal called police.

Some of the students had the drug with them while others had hidden the cocaine on school grounds. Police don't believe any of the children had used the drug.

Officers seized the cocaine, which had an estimated street value of $300.

"It's hard to shock me," said Tampa police Lt. John Garcia, who has spent most of his 20-year career in drug enforcement. "I've seen a lot of things, so many things, but this was really heartbreaking."

The boys were returned to their parents within hours of their arrest and have been suspended from school for 10 days.

Pledging allegiance

Some of this nation's newest citizens swore allegiance to their United States after being certified as naturalized Americans during a ceremony at the Sanford Civic Center on Tuesday. During the ceremony about 250 people who have come from around the world to live in the central Florida area were given the rights and privileges of citizenship in the U.S. The Sallie Harrison Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution presented each citizen with information on the Constitution and Ladies Auxiliary Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pine Hills 8152, distributed flags.

Considering peoples' rights

The Lake Mary City Commission is scheduled to hear requests from two separate residents Thursday night. Each is seeking reversal of a staff decision preventing them from removing a tree in the yard of their residences.

In one case, a tree is described as immediately next to a concrete driveway. Its root structure is expanding, and causing the driveway to break open.

In the other, the property owner believes a large tree may cause severe damage if a storm causes it to fall on his home.

Lake Mary city codes address the conditions for tree removal. Dead or diseased trees may be removed, as may trees within 20 feet of a residence.

The only mentions of trees causing outside problems, says they can be removed if they interfere with utility lines, or are blocking the view at an intersection.

There appears to be nothing in the code to protect the rights of the property owner.

This may be a relatively minor matter to some people. For others however, it is serious. In these cases, a concrete driveway can be damaged, which could be expensive to replace. A threatening tree, even though it is further than 20 feet away, is large enough to cause damage to a house if it falls.

We suggest the city consider adding one more condition to its list, to allow for a tree removal if it poses a threat to private property or people.

Our cities, county, state and nation have many restrictions. They protect trees, owls, gopher tortoises, ospreys, lakes, certain weeds, and many other things.

It is good to protect and preserve endangered species, or natural beauty, but not when it poses a threat to people or their property.

There must be limits. We believe it's time we had more codes which help protect and preserve the rights of individuals.

This is supposed to be a government for the people. With that in mind, we believe it's time our governments started improving our codes and laws. It's time to place more consideration on the rights of people.

Voters speak to order law and order

Wiser than the wisenheimers, more alarmed than their attorney general, more pugnacious than their peculiarly passive president — let's hear a loud cheer for American voters! On Election Day 1993 the voters did what voters are supposed to do: shape their destiny. They took an issue — crime — and made it central to our politics, which is just where it ought to be. The American crime wave is a self-inflicted political wound, and can only be self-healed through politics.

The voters spoke, locally. Candidates seen as too soft on crime (mostly liberal Democrats) lost. Referendums demanding firm actions were passed. Surveys showed great concern and a demand for tough solutions.

But will the national political establishment respond to local sentiment? The Senate already has. The House of Representatives purposefully has not. The Clinton White House is in its dither mode. We shall soon see how much arrogance is left in Washington.

Three days after the election, the Senate passed a set of amendments that represent the first serious federal crime bill in America, one that could actually cut violent crime.

According to the Senate legislation, a new system of regional federal prisons will be established for an estimated 80,000 state convicts. The states will get federal money, provided state penal codes cut down "revolving door justice" — by keeping thugs in prison for at least 85 percent of their sentence. In addition, federal monies will help fund 100,000 "community police."

Thus, the Senate amendments approved 94-6, marry the best of Republican crime legislation (featuring "incapacitation of criminals") with the best of a Democratic crime bill (featuring "prevention of crime").

The Senate action changes the emphasis from the trivial ("Brady bill" gun control and a new list of arcane crimes subject to the death penalty) to the serious (more cops and more prisons to keep more thugs locked up). It provides $22 billion over five years, in a package that started out at $5 billion.

Many senators — Democrats and Republicans — were instrumental in the Senate's effort. Phil Gramm figured out how to fund the marriage (by lifting the financial goodies from Vice President Gore's "re-inventing government" proposal); Bob Byrd took up Gramm's offer; Chairman of the Judiciary Committee Joseph Biden stitched it together; Connie Mack provided much of the conceptual framework for the Republican bill. Honorary for the Senate!

Let's hear a loud cheer for American voters!

Meanwhile, in the House, Democrats played softball. Provisions necessary for a full-bodied Senate-style crime package were sent off to languish in committees. As camouflage for cowardice, Democrats in the House pushed a few minor items, mostly dealing with drug rehabilitation, costing $5 billion. In charge was Jack Brooks seeking to avoid fights with liberals.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Work world needs more civility

BOSTON — He is white, male and middle-aged, and not the sort of man who describes that as his handicap. He will not tell you that he belongs to the last group in America that can be discriminated against without fear.

Indeed he calls himself a friend of feminists having been raised that way by his mother and wife and his daughter. Nevertheless, there is something bothering him this morning.

The Supreme Court, quickly and unanimously, made it easier for women to prove sexual harassment in the workplace. The law protects women, in Justice Sandra Day O'Connor's words, "before the harassing conduct leads to a nervous breakdown." What this man wants to talk about now is civil rights. Or maybe about civility.

He wants to tell me that during the past year when things have been tough and he's gone from one job to none to another, he too has been, well, victimized is not too strong a word. From time to time, he's been humiliated, demeaned, dehumanized by one or another superior.

In short, he's been harassed. He's been subject to the sort of environment which in O'Connor's description "would reasonably be perceived, and is perceived as hostile or abusive." He can match any story told to the Supreme Court in this case by Teresa Harris with one of his own.

But because it wasn't gender-based harassment, or racially based or age-based or disability-based harassment, because it was simply employee-based harassment and individual abuse there was nothing he could do about it. The boss might have been obnoxious, but it was an equal opportunity obnoxiousness. This middle-aged white man might have been outraged, but it was "merely" as a human being.

What he asks me is this: Why is it worse to be sexually harassed than personally harassed? Why does the law protect some workers from some abuse and not all workers from all abuse? What about him?

I could give this man the simple legal answer, and I do. The laws were passed to deal with discrimination, not labor relations. The point was to level the playing field, not to raise the quality of life on the shop floor. The courts ask whether men and women, whites and blacks, young and old are being treated equally, not whether they are being treated well.

I could tell this man and I do that the laws come from a society that's been forced to pay attention to civil rights. But I cannot tell him why there is less attention paid to civility.

Civil rights and civility. I listen sometimes to the sounds of the workplace. The way the dispatcher talks to the cabdriver, the way the restaurant manager talks to the waiter, the way the foreman talks to the clerk. It isn't always easy on the ear. There is no right to be treated respectfully. No law against being humiliated. There is no equality or politeness between boss and bossed.

Talking to this man, it strikes me that the impatience or even the anger that some men feel at women's complaints of harassment may not be hostility to women's rights. It may be because they are fellow sufferers.

These men do not feel privileged. Indeed, they too are "disrespected." Many men see women getting a day in court, but they too have their bad bosses at work. They have stories to tell and nobody to listen.

Maybe the impatience is greater now when men — white and middle-aged, white and young — feel insecure themselves. When unions are weaker and work pressure is greater. And especially when the overall civility index is lower.

Civil rights protect individuals. Civility protects the community. Individuals plead their own case in the courts. Who pleads the case for community?

I always believed that women want change for both themselves and for society. We want equality with men in the world, but we also want to improve that world. Including the world of work.

So today women are attacking an "abusive working environment," a "sexually hostile" workplace. At long last we are making a strong progressive case for civil rights. But as this man reminds me, the rest of the work world waits to be civil-sized.

He will not tell you that he belongs to the last group in America that can be discriminated against without fear.

Los Alamos lab rethinks future

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. — The nation's largest collection of nuclear experts here has given new meaning to "beating swords into plowshares."

We have learned of confidential talks for joint projects between the Los Alamos National Laboratory and the Agriculture Department. The plan is to use "Star Wars" supercomputers and other sophisticated technology to give a boost to American farmers in any way possible. Among the projects being discussed are development of:

— a device to be mounted in front of tractors that would sniff out nitrogen compounds and adjust the rate of fertilizer applied for every square foot of field;

— another device mounted on the front of tractors that would hunt out each weed and apply the right amount and type of pesticide to them, instead of blanket spraying of the toxic chemicals by plane.

— highly-accurate agricultural maps using geo-positioning satellites.

But these new projects are only the tip of the iceberg. Sixty percent of the lab's $1.1 billion budget is nuclear weapons-related, so the breakup of the Soviet Union forced scientists here to shift their priorities — lest the lab's days be numbered.

"The world has changed so dramatically that everything we do as an institution has to be looked at carefully," the lab's fifth director, Dr. Siegfried Hecker, admitted to us.

Part of the big change was the election of President Clinton. As we reported previously, Clinton is reinventing government research at labs like this to convert them to civilian applications, partnerships with private business and advance both ecological and energy-conservation programs.

To cheers and applause last May, Clinton spoke to the assembled employees among the high mountain range here. He expressed his appreciation for the lab's long service to the country by calling it a "great national mind treasure, the world's finest scientists and engineers — more Ph.D.s per capita here in Los Alamos than any other place on the planet."

"You are our crown jewel in science and technology," said Clinton. "Thank you for the contributions you have made to the progress of the American dream. May it never stop."

But then Clinton told the employees that he needed them to turn their attention to helping him with his domestic and economic agenda. "So we've had to re-tool our laboratory," says Hecker, "to re-examine and re-engineer."

Among their projects already underway are:

— a cooperative effort with the Big Three auto companies to produce in a decade a non-polluting vehicle that gets 82 1/2 miles per gallon using "Star Wars"-type technology;

— a joint project with oil and gas companies to extract more of the oil and gas that's left in the ground using computer-driven tools;

— key participation in the human genome project, which seeks to map all 3 billion-plus chemical pairs of DNA types in humans, the better to separate the defects that produce about 4,000 genetic diseases;

— establishing themselves already as the world's leading data base on HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, already counting some 2,000 users worldwide as customers by modem to the computer database;

Seven Floridians endorse NAFTA, six undecided

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

PENSACOLA — Support climbed for the North American Free Trade Agreement in Florida's U.S. House delegation as the chamber headed toward a vote on the treaty.

Seven Florida representatives had declared their intentions to vote today for NAFTA, and two former opponents said they were leaning in support of it as of Tuesday night. That left 10 representatives from the Sunshine State opposed and six undecided including the two leavers.

A week earlier Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Tampa, had been the lone pro-NAFTA Floridian. Reps. Jim Bacchus, D-Merritt Island, and Harry Johnston, D-West Palm Beach joined him last week and Rep. Earl Hutto, D-Pensacola, came over Monday.

Three Republicans declared their support Tuesday: Reps. Tom Lewis of Palm Beach Gardens, Tillie Fowler of Jacksonville and Dan Miller of Bradenton. Lewis had previously opposed the treaty while Fowler and Miller had been undecided.

"I have long been opposed to passage of the NAFTA based on its potential damage on Florida's $6 billion agricultural industry," Lewis said in Washington. "However, solutions have been successfully negotiated and completed to ensure Florida farmers will be treated fairly under NAFTA."

Lewis had been a leader in negotiations to obtain side agreements and promises from the Clinton administration to protect Florida citrus, sugar and fruits and vegetables from low-priced Mexican competition.

Final agreements by the administration Tuesday to provide added protection for tomato growers won Lewis over.

"NAFTA will bring down the barriers to free trade, create American jobs and spur economic growth," Miller said. "NAFTA is about real chance. It's what America needs to remain competitive in an increasingly global economy."

Clinton rides momentum to House

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The White House confidently predicted victory in tonight's showdown vote on the North American Free Trade Agreement but treaty opponents vowed a final day's fight to reverse President Clinton's late momentum.

"It's never in the bag until the vote's in," Clinton said as he headed out for a morning jog — sporting a red, white and blue pro-NAFTA T-shirt for emphasis. "I'm working on it," he said.

In a remarkable reversal, an Associated Press survey showed Clinton and his free-trade allies on the verge of victory — momentum openly acknowledged by NAFTA opponents even as they made one last attempt to swing things back in their favor.

With the vote just hours away, The AP count showed 209 House members supporting the pact and eight others likely to do so. Declared opponents numbered 184, with 13 leaning against.

That left 20 lawmakers undecided about the pact, which would eliminate tariffs and other trade barriers on everything from automobile parts to 200 ingredients between the United States, Canada and Mexico over 15 years.

The White House needs 218 votes for passage and Clinton advisers said a handful of Democrats who would prefer to vote against the deal would back Clinton if their votes were essential.

The NAFTA arguments on morning television news shows were a prelude to a daylong House debate on a trade agreement that pits Clinton against much of his party's House majority.

Scott finished with five 3-pointers in 10 attempts and scored 19 points, while Scott Skiles led Orlando with 25 points and 13 assists. Shaquille O'Neal ended with 23 points, 10 rebounds and four blocked shots.

Karl Malone led the Jazz with 30 points and 10 rebounds. Jeff Malone and John Stockton scored 17 apiece for the Jazz.

Rangers streak by Panthers

MIAMI — Kevin Lowe, Tony Amonte and Adam Graves scored in a one-minute span late in the second period to help the New York Rangers extend their unbeaten streak to 11 with a 4-2 victory over the Florida Panthers.

Brian Leetch also scored for the Rangers. Dave Lowry and Andrei Lomakin scored for Florida.

Marlins add three to roster

MIAMI — The Florida Marlins have added three players to their 40-man roster, including infielder-outfielder Tim Clark, who hit .363 with 126 RBIs last season at Single-A High Desert.

Clark also hit 17 home runs and was the Marlins' minor league player of the year. Miller was 3-3 with a 4.50 ERA at Triple-A Edmonton. Whisenant was 2-6 with a 4.69 ERA at Single-A Kane County.

With 5:29 remaining and USF ahead 61-59, Delaney hit a long, desperation three-pointer as the shot clock expired, and 1:23 later junior Jesse Salters converted on a three-point play to put the Bulls ahead by eight. Delaney sealed the USF win when he stole an errant pass and scored on a lay-in with 2:31 left in the game.

Sophomore Donzel Rush led the Bulls with 19 points and seven rebounds, and Jerome Robinson chipped in with 14 points.

Mitchell, Raiders romp in Payne's return to SCC

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — With Bill Payne making his first return to Seminole Community College as coach of the St. Petersburg Junior College men's basketball team Tuesday night, SCC coach Bernard Merthie decided to do something special for the occasion.

Meet Terrance Mitchell. Making his collegiate debut, Mitchell shredded the St. Petersburg defense for a game-high 26 points, leading the Raiders to an 87-69 win and handing Payne and the Trojans (2-1) their first loss of the season.

"He (Mitchell) has been waiting on his GED scores," said Merthie of Mitchell. "We just got the grades Monday, so this is the first game he was eligible.

"Mitchell gives us a go-to player that we can look to for scoring. He gives us an added dimension."

Perhaps most importantly, the addition of Mitchell, a 6-foot, 3-inch freshman guard from Rochester, N.Y., takes the pressure of having to score off of point guard Michael Sheppard, a 6-foot, 1-inch freshman who is also from Rochester.

When Mitchell came out and hit five of his first six shots, he quickly attracted the attention of the Trojans. Sheppard exploited the situation, handing out 10 assists and contributing 14 points of his own.

Mike Burch, Ralph Philpott, and Evon Hammond each had 12 points for the Raiders.

"They just did everything right," said Payne. "We couldn't guard Sheppard and we couldn't guard Mitchell. And their defense was just awesome. We couldn't run our offense."

The game got off to a ragged start. St. Petersburg taking a 35-34 lead

But the Raiders opened the second half red-hot, scoring the period's first six points on the way to outscoring St. Petersburg 20-6 over the first 5:32 of the half.

The Trojans closed to within 11 points, 63-52, on a pair of Terry McBryde (21 points) free throws with 8:13 left in the game. SCC quickly increased the gap, going on a 13-3 run over the next 3:55 to go up by 21 points, 76-55.

St. Petersburg wouldn't fold, using a 9-1 charge featuring seven free throws to cut the deficit to 13 points, 77-64, with just under three minutes remaining. But the Raiders closed with a rush, outscoring the Trojans 10-5.

SAMSULA — With a lot of help from his crew, a bummed out Pete Orr raced from green flag to checkers in the 50-lap Late Model championship race — sponsored by the American Cancer Society — last Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Running at a track in Jefferson, Ga. (which is about nine hours from Orlando) the night before, Orr qualified third and was running in third place when he cut a tire.

Orr pitted for new rubber and went back on the track a lap down. While working his way through the field, he cut another tire and had to make a return trip to the pits. Ultimately, Orr finished in 21st position.

"I was really bummed out after last night's race," said Orr. "On the way back from Georgia, Leroy (Porter) said, 'You sleep, I'll drive the truck'

Anderson's new team gets 1st win

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

BITHLO — Wildwood's Wayne Anderson, the newly crowned FASCAR (Florida Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing) Late Model champion who is campaigning a new team, went flag-to-flag to win the Late Model feature last Friday at Orlando SpeedWorld.

"This is really great, the first time out with the team and we win the feature event," said Anderson, who notched 27 feature wins in the 1992-93 season. "We just put the team together and we're really just building. As soon as things fall into place, we should be a real competitive force."

A mid-race incident between Dave Debillus and Scott Reeves brought out the evening's first caution. On the restart, Reeves and Debillus went to the back of the pack while rookie Tuffy Hester lining up alongside of Anderson on the front row.

Anderson jumped to the lead and, holding off a late race charge by Hester, picked up his first win of the new season. Trailing the lead duo were Reeves, Bruce Everett, and Hal Per.

BARBERVILLE — David Showers of St. Augustine jumped in behind the wheel of Mike Haney's car for the second straight week and came away with the same results, taking the checkered flag in the 25-lap Pro Late Model feature on Volusia County Speedway's dirt track.

Showers started along side pole sitter John Rankin when the feature started, but when Rankin cut turn four too tight on the second lap, Showers went to the lead and stayed out front.

"We're starting to get the car to come around," Showers said. "We keep at it and we're going to have it covered."

Following Showers over the finish line were Mitch Kilpatrick, Johnny Collins, Bill Kopka and Paul George.

Other winners on the night were: Kenneth Hall (Hobby Stock), Monty Stratton (Mini Stocks), and Shane Williams (Pro Stocks).

his first return to SCC, where he was the head coach for 10 years. "This was a very rude 'Welcome home,'" said Payne. "I like Bernard and everybody here. It was a big game for me personally, but it was just another game for the team."

"The game was significant because I had a chance to see a lot of old friends. I wanted to try and have a good game, but we didn't give a good indication of how good we can be. I'm afraid. I'm very happy for Bernard and I hope he wins every game but two. This just happened to be one of those two games."

Merthie, who played for Payne at Sem-nole High School and at SCC and was one of Payne's assistants at SCC during the 1991-92 season, knew exactly how Payne felt.

"We both hate to lose," said Merthie. "It felt real good to have the team come out and play well tonight. They played with the level of intensity that we need to have every night. Now we have to see if we can keep it up."

While Payne did not make a point of sharing the personal importance of the game with his team, Merthie used the reunion to heighten the Raiders' intensity.

"I was aware of it (coaching against his former coach and SCC predecessor), but I become to big a factor," said Merthie. "I did tell the team that this was a big game for me and why. I needed something to generate that high level of intensity we need. I told them to go out and play hard. And they did."

On Saturday night, the Raiders will play an SCC alumni team at SCC during the 1991-92 season, knew exactly how Payne felt.

St. Petersburg Community College plays at Clearwater Christian College this Saturday night.

Hall took the pole position and raced in the front of the 14-car Hobby feature until Lonnie Register took over on lap three. Kathy Gaine went to the point following a restart on lap eight, holding the spot until Hall charged back into the lead with only four laps to go to the checkered flag.

Hall's win came in front of Shaw Hallinan, Donnie Bostie, Register, and Richard Tipton.

Stratton led from start to finish in the 15-lap feature with Thomas Mulligan, who started in the second row, chasing him the entire race.

Stratton and Mulligan paced the group of Jay Farris, Johnnie Harris, and Ronnie Stroahl under the checkered flag.

Williams, of Pleson, ran his Southam Masonry Camaro from the pole position to the checkered flag in the 20-lap feature, while Bobby Layman ran from a fifth row start to place second.

"The car was working real good," said Williams. "We finally got it put together."

Volusia County Speedway skips racing this week, then returns Friday, Nov. 20.

New Smyrna

and you can race New Smyrna Saturday tomorrow night.

The only problem was that the car Orr drives at New Smyrna Speedway wasn't exactly race ready.

"This car was wrecked at St. Pete last weekend," said Orr, the defending World Series Late Model champion. "Eddie (Norman, Orr's crew chief) drove for a few hours and the first thing Saturday morning, he was at the shop. The crew worked all day, non-stop, getting it ready."

"They finished it at five, we drove to the track and, without any practice laps, I took to the track and set the fast time. The car was race ready, that tells you something about the Horsen Around Farms team."

By virtue of an inverted start, Orr started the race from the sixth position. Before the first lap was completed, Orr raced the outside groove to the head of the field and never relinquished his position.

Orr was chased to the stripe by David Rogers,

Wayne Anderson, Mark Hinkoff and Bobby Blake.

"We finished second and that's not good," said Rogers, the 1992 NASCAR Sunbelt late model champion. "Good in racing is when you beat the rest of the field to the checkered flag."

"The car was good but the tires weren't all that great. They didn't have a lot of laps on them but they had a lot of cycles. With good tires, we could have been more competitive. If this was a 200-lap race like the Governor's Cup, we could have pulled in and changed tires."

The race took 18 minutes to complete, there were two cautions and no lead changes. For his winning effort, Orr picked up $1,000.

In other Saturday night racing action, Keith Balga held off a last lap challenge by Bruce Baker to win the Limited Late Model feature. Rounding out the top five were Donald Parkinson, Rodney Orr and Gary Schiechler.

Other feature winners were: Mike Fitch (Modifieds), Bobby Sears (Mini-Stock), Pat McClain (Sportsman), Gary Frosh (Bombers) and Dave McMannen (Run-Abouts). Dave McMannen also won the demolition derby.

Orlando

Paul Golgan outraced a strong field of cars to win the 30-lap Sportsman main event.

The evening's fast qualifier, Barbara Pierce, lined up on the pole with Golgan starting on the outside groove. At the drop of the green flag, Golgan charged to the point and, despite numerous cautions, maintained the No. 1 spot.

With five laps to the checkers, Pierce made a late race challenge, but had to settle for second place over Joe Randow, Duane Zdrodowski, and Jeff Rule.

Ed Merdith dominated the Modified division, easily leading Dave Savicki, Skip Honaker, Jim Crowe and Bruce Thompson to the stripe.

Darren Gould, the 1992 Bomber champion, took his first ever Limited Late Model win after a tight battle with Timmy Todd.

Other winners were: Kelly Jarrett (Mini-Stocks), John Smyth (Bombers), Tim Nicholas (Run-Abouts) and Kenny Campbell (Mini-Bomber).

ACS encourages smokers to quit for just 24 hours

DEAR ABBY: Every year, you have been kind enough to devote a column encouraging our nation's smokers to participate in the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout. Your support has helped millions of men and women across the country make the effort to quit smoking -- at least for the day.

Last year, a number of your readers let us know that they were about to "kick the habit" -- for good!

Would you please alert your readers again this year? Thank you for all your help in the fight against cancer.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

STEPHEN F. SENER, M.D., PRESIDENT, AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY
DEAR DR. SENER: I'll do it gladly.
DEAR READERS: Tomorrow,

Nov. 18, 1993, will make the 17th Annual Great American Smokeout, a one-day campaign to encourage smokers to quit smoking for 24 hours. Just to prove they can do it.

Last year, 14 million smokers tried to quit for the day. This represents 28 percent of the nation's 50 million smokers.

Breast cancer used to be the biggest killer for women. But the No. 1 cause of cancer death among women and men today is lung cancer. In fact, women are not quitting at the same rate as men. Therefore, lung cancer is on the decline in men, but on the increase in women. And it is estimated that early in the next century, more women will die of lung cancer than men. Tobacco claims one life every 13 seconds. An estimated 149,000 will die of lung cancer in 1993.

And now a word about smoking-related diseases -- emphysema, chronic bronchitis and heart disease: This year, an estimated 424,000 will die from one of these. This total exceeds the number of U.S. battle deaths in World War II, eight times as many as died in the Vietnam War, and nine times as many people who die in automobile accidents every year.

According to a congressional study, health costs from the adverse effects of smoking have reached a new high of $100 billion a year in increased medical bills and lost productivity. The loss in death and disability cannot be measured.

What about secondhand smoke? Is it damaging to non-smokers to be in the presence of those who are smoking? Oh, yes! A 1993 report on secondhand smoke issued by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency categorizes secondhand smoke as a class A carcinogen on a par with asbestos and radon. One non-smoker dies of secondhand smoke for every eight smokers. And studies reveal that the children of smokers are more prone to lung problems and allergies than are children of non-smokers.

For years I have begged my young readers, "If you smoke, quit now. If you don't smoke, don't start!" Yet an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 kids light up for the first time every day. Cigarette companies sell $1 billion of cigarettes to children every year.

Narcolepsy can be treated with drug

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from narcolepsy and today thought I'd harmed myself with diet pills. I've never taken them before because of my condition, yet quite by accident, I found that if I took a diet pill in the morning and a nap after lunch, I would not have sleep attacks during the day. Could I have hurt myself if I took two diet pills by mistake?

DEAR READER: Narcolepsy (sleep attacks that occur at inappropriate times without warning) are ordinarily treated with prescription stimulants, such as Dexedrine. The affliction usually does not respond to over-the-counter medication.

I assume that by the term "diet pills" you mean non-prescription appetite suppressants. (No doctor worth his license would prescribe stimulants for dietary purposes; this is highly irregular.) Non-prescription "diet pills" will not cause major health problems, providing you don't exceed the manufacturer's limit on consumption.

Nonetheless, I urge you to discontinue taking them. Not only may they interfere with the treatment for your narcolepsy, but they are at best only a temporary crutch for weight reduction. You'd be much better off learning an easy-to-follow diet that will enable you to shed unwanted pounds -- and keep them off. Studies have shown that more than 90 percent of people who lost weight on diet pills regained the weight within a year.

In addition, stimulants of any kind should not be used by patients with hyperthyroidism, heart disease, thyroid disorders, and other medical conditions.

Although you probably wouldn't have suffered serious consequences from taking two diet pills, I recommend that you get on a diet and follow your physician's advice with respect to your narcolepsy. To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Calorie-Wise Cooking," "Winning the Battle of the Bulge," and "Sleep Wake Disorders."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

In a team event, it is normal to have six players, four of whom are playing at any given moment, so everyone can have regular rest periods. However, in this year's NEC Venice Cup, Sabine Zenkel (who now lives in Chicago) and Daniela von Arnim played 580 of the 600 boards for Germany.

On today's deal, Zenkel and von Arnim outbid the other pairs in the two world championship finals. What would you bid over the three-club opening with that South hand?

In the NEC Bermuda Bowl, both men overcalled three no-trump. Understandably, the Norths contented themselves with four spades.

Both Sue Picus (for the United States) and von Arnim doubled, an unappealing call with 4-3-3-3 distribution. (Against Picus, East had opened two no-trump to show a weak pre-empt in either minor. West jumped to four clubs. North, Sharon Osberg, bid four spades. East bid an undisciplined five clubs. South competed with five spades, which North did well to pass.)

Zenkel, North, didn't commit the hand automatically to spades. She cue-bid with four clubs. When her partner bid diamonds, she drove to that slam, leaving spades unmentioned.

Note that six spades is hopeless, whereas six diamonds coasted home when the trumps broke 3-2. Declarer ruffed West's club lead in the dummy, cashed the A-K of trumps and played on spades, losing only one trump trick.

When you have two trump fits, one of equal length and one unevenly divided, pick the even fit (here the 4-4) when you need to discard losers on the other suit.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
 Nov. 18, 1993

More travel than usual is a possibility in the months ahead. However, some trips you take for pleasurable purposes could have commercial overtones. Both types should live up to your expectations and anticipations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If circumstances are running smoothly today, do not make any changes merely for change sake. If you mess around with things, it could prove self-defeating. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to be extremely clever and imaginative today with but one major flaw, and that is a tendency to treat matters that are still in the early stages as if they're already accomplished.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll have good earning surges today, but also strong inclinations to be extravagant. If you're imprudent, your frivolous tendencies could neutralize your good ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your probabilities for success today look good and you're likely to be an achiever. Unfortunately, however, you might be an ungracious winner or a poor loser.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today if you're successful it could be due in large part to your allies and supporters. Yet, strangely, you might feel those who assisted you didn't do quite enough.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Involvements with friends for purely social purposes should live up to your expectations today. However, arrangements with pals of a business nature may not give you much to cheer about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Results should be favorable in situations where you have the latitude to call your own shots today. In arrangements where partners are functional, your progress might be impeded.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If it is your lot to disseminate important information today, it might be wise to have some type of printed or written handout instead of leaving things up to memory or a verbal presentation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone who has no legitimate claim to an endeavor you're developing with another might be looking for participation today. Don't be afraid to say no.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This can be a productive day for you, provided you are competent at scheduling. Be sure priority matters are put at the top of your list.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Associates could lose respect for you today if you do not have the courage of your convictions. If you take a position in which you believe, defend it against all comers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Financial trends continue to look strong, provided you don't take any foolish risks or gambles. Be cautious in the management of your material affairs.
