Benjamin Weir
...a real role model.

Ex-Hostage Tells Of Ordeal

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The Rev. Benjamin Weir, moderator of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), captivated the overflow audience of 2,000 persons at the Presbyterian Celebration held in Orlando Sunday with the story of his life as a hostage in Lebanon for 16 months.

Weir described how he was thrown into the back seat of a car and a pistol pointed at his head when he was kidnapped on May 8, 1984 in Beirut by Shiite Moslem extremists. He said he was told not to look at his captors or he would be killed.

He was held in solitary confinement for 14 months. When one day he heard the door open, he covered his face. When he heard someone walking toward him, he asked, "Who are you?" and a voice answered, "I am Father Jenco."

Here was not only another human being to talk to, but also Christian. After breakfast one morning they put some bread aside and after their captor took the trays away, Father Jenco said, "Let's celebrate in the Lord" and celebrated Mass in the cell. The next day they set aside bread, and the priest said to the Protestant missionary,

"It's your turn," and Weir celebrated the Eucharist as they shared and fortified each others faith.

Another spiritual help to Weir during his imprisonment was an Arabic Bible slipped to him by one of his guards.

Weir had served as a Presbyterian missionary in Lebanon since 1953. He was released from captivity Sept. 14, 1985 and was elected as moderator in June 1986 at the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

Marina Isle Shop Opens

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

The first of several activity-oriented retail shops opened this weekend at One Harbour Place, the 14,000-square-foot commercial complex built east of the Holiday Inn on Sanford's marina isle. Bada Marine operator John Smith is the developer. Word also came this weekend that a 52-foot houseboat will soon make the city-owned isle its port of call for time share rentals.

The new shop sells swim wear and offers scuba diving classes.

Smith, Chuck Volk and Holiday Inn co-owners Ed Welch and Wally Schoettelkotte hold long term leases with Sanford to operate businesses on the 12-acre isle, which juts into Lake Monroe. The entrepreneurs pay the city a percentage of their revenues as annual rental.

Volk said Saturday he will begin sub-leasing dock and office area to the houseboat, as he does the Rivership Romance cruise ship.

The houseboat's rental office will be in a front area of the Monroe Harbour Marina building Volk leases from the city. Until last month, this 15 by 60 foot office had been used by Smith for his Bada Marine sailboat operation.

Volk said "business reasons" prompted his request for Smith to close the Bada office after two years. "He asked me to leave and I did," Smith said Sunday.

In December, Smith pulled his support from a parking plan Volk developed to restrict boat trailer parking on the isle and give both men more customer parking. Volk scuttled the proposal, which would have been made to the city, after Smith publically opposed it. When asked, Volk said his decision to end his rental agreement with Smith "had nothing to do" with the parking plan.

The houseboat will arrive by March 1, and be docked just east of the isle's boat launch ramp. Volk said. It will be operated by Sunshine Rentals of Deland.

The Bada Marine operation may relocate at the Hidden Harbour Marina, west of Sanford near the Interstate-4 bridge, Smith said.

He added his attentions are on One Harbour Place, and the "grand opening" celebration he plans next month. More shops are expected to be located in the $1.2 million, two-story glass-enclosed complex by then.

The first shop, Monroe Harbour Dive and Ski, Inc. opened Saturday morning. The enterprise is operated by Harry Ellis of Sanford and Fred Wilson of Rockledge.

Wilson said the shop generated "a lot of walk-in interest" during the weekend. He and Ellis say they are continuing to stock the shop and expect to begin scuba classes in one of its upstairs offices later this month. Ellis said the classes will be taught by certified instructors, and dives will be in the Holiday Inn pool, through arrangement with Welch.

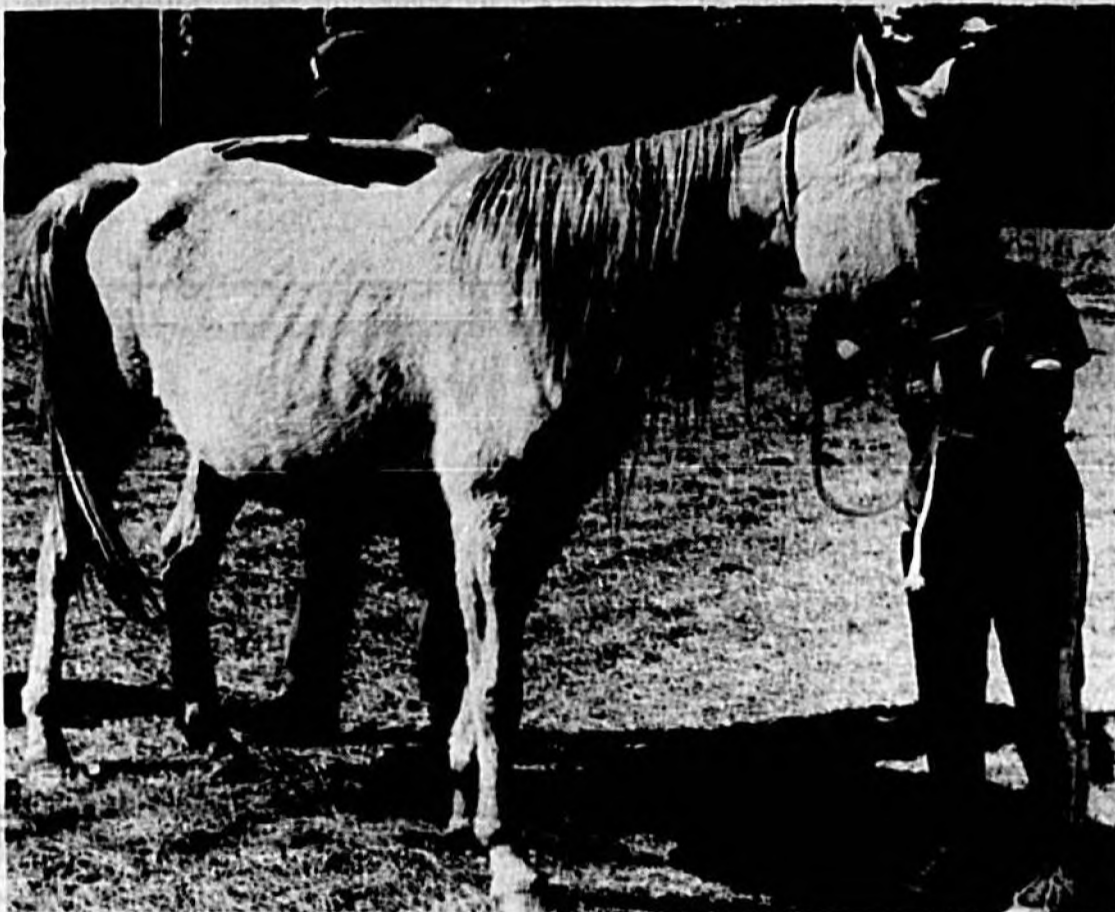

Smith said next month's grand opening for One Harbour Place will be marked with an "open air" event on the isle. Slated for the weekend of March 7 and 8, the opening will coincide with "The First Annual St. John's River Fest Regatta," he said.

In upcoming weeks, a wellness health facility and nautically-gearred shops will move into One Harbour Place, which was designed by Sanford architect Gerald Gross.

All enterprises "will be oriented toward the outdoors and sports, in and around the water"

A Question Of Care

Officials Impound 21 Horses

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A woman's stated good intentions slammed into the law Saturday as officials took custody of 21 horses she said she was nursing back to health and paying for by working three jobs.

The Seminole County Humane Society, with the assistance of county animal control and two veterinarians, took the horses from 1264 Van Arsdale Road in Oviedo. The society plans to file animal neglect charges and perhaps get custody of the animals. The herd included Arabian stallions, pregnant mares, geldings and at least one foal. Not all of the horses were underweight, a point the owner made when she confronted Humane officials.

"If I were starving all of my horses they'd all be skinny and bony," said Rhonda Wright, 27, who's lived in Oviedo about two months and is renting a paddock and trailer. "They want you to cure them in two weeks," she said referring to an earlier visit by a Humane Society investigator.

"The horses speak for themselves. They're in horrible shape," said Humane Society president Helen Wolk. "They look like their bellies are all full of sand," she said. She, and investigator Joan Thomas, declined to discuss all the details of their investigation.

Ribs and fatless muscle etched the hide on some of the horses. Meatless bones usually covered with plump roundness cut angular patterns in their skin. One leggy foal wore scruffy winter fur. Some had lice. At few of the animals, however, did appear in good shape, well-groomed with dapples showing, alert and bickering. Before being trailered to foster pastures in the county each was examined by a vet and identified for legal purposes. Four were pregnant.

Red Driver's License Sought For Alcohol Abusers

A Sanford assistant state attorney and a probation officer have teamed up and submitted a proposal to the state legislature which if passed would require everyone convicted of a crime involving alcohol to be issued a red driver's license or state identification card.

Assistant State Attorney Woody Igou and probation officer Derek Gallagher have called their proposal the Criminal Alcohol Probation law, or CAP. The law would require persons selling alcohol to check everyone's driver license or valid photo identification and not to sell the product to anyone with a red license or state identification. An infraction of the law, by either the seller or the buyer, would result in a citation, and for the convicted person, a violation probation hearing. As a part of probation, the judge could order an alcohol-related abuse program and extend probation, according to the mens' proposal.

They proposed the law because it is difficult for the legal system to monitor the alcohol involvement of a convicted person.

While there has been some talk that alcohol vendors would object to the law, Gallagher disagreed.

"I think it would lower their liability insurance," he said. Gallagher said the law would apply to any crime involving alcohol and is in essence a way to revoke a person's drinking privilege.

Waite Held Hostage

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A top Shiite Moslem Amal militia official said today hostage negotiator Terry Waite has been kidnapped and efforts are under way to free him.

A radical Moslem group that has held two Americans for almost two years issued a warning that its hostages would be killed if the United States tried to use force to free them.

Waite, the Church of England envoy, disappeared in Moslem west Beirut 12 days ago on a secret mission to negotiate the release of Western hostages.

"We as (the) Amal movement condemn the kidnapping of foreigners and especially (the) abducting (of) Terry Waite because the man has played a good role. ... He has played a mediation role," said the ranking Amal militia official, who demanded his name be withheld.

"Our security networks have followed up the Terry Waite matter. We are seeking to free all the hostages and particularly Terry Waite. But this matter will take some time," he said.

He said Amal militia leader Nabih Berri "has given us instructions to play a humanitarian role concerning the hostage

Firefighter Hurt In Burning Home

A Seminole County firefighter suffered steam burns in a blaze that caused about $60,000 in damage to a Casselberry home Saturday evening. And a fire in Altamonte Springs Friday night damaged a home's kitchen, attic and roof.

Firefighter Jim Yates, dispatched from the county's Fern Park station, was injured in the Casselberry fire. He was treated and released from Florida Hospital/Altamonte, Saturday night.

Although wearing protective gear, Yates suffered first degree burns on his face and shoulders and second degree burns on his hands. Yates had taken a shower just before the emergency call came in and fire officials theorize moisture that remained on his body was turned to steam when he entered the burning structure.

Official Groundhog Sees Shadow

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (UPI) — Punxsutawney Phil, the nation's premier weather-forecasting groundhog, emerged from a snowy hilltop today and saw his shadow — an indication that six more weeks of winter are ahead.

The prediction was greeted with boos from the crowd of more than 1,000 winter-weary people that gathered outside Punxsutawney for the folklore tradition.

Today marked the 100th anniversary of the first official trek to Gobbler's Knob outside the small western Pennsylvania town of Punxsutawney where 15 men in black top hats stood around Phil's electrically heated burrow to await the groundhog's forecast, after he was dragged out.

Other groundhogs around the country had different results. Dunkirk Dave in Dunkirk, N.Y., saw no shadow. In Snellville, Ga., General Lee also couldn't see a shadow, nor could Jimmy the groundhog in Sun Prairie, Wis.

According to the legend, when the groundhog sees his shadow he returns to his den and spring is six weeks away. If he fails to see his shadow, which Phil has done only six times, spring is just around the corner.

Reporter's Release Sought

By United Press International

The United States called on Iran to release a Wall Street Journal correspondent detained during a tour of Iran by reporters invited into the country by the government.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said on Saturday, the day U.S. officials say the reporter was arrested, that "a spy of the Zionist regime who entered Iran with a false passport and disguised as a journalist has been identified and arrested."

The news agency said the suspect had not been identified, and it was not clear if Wall Street Journal reporter Gerald F. Seib, a Middle East correspondent based in Cairo, Egypt, was the person cited in the report.

"We do not know why he was detained," State Department spokesman Bruce Ammerman said in Washington. "Seib should be released immediately and allowed to depart Iran."

The news agency said "responsible Iranian officials" were questioning the alleged spy. Ammerman said the State Department was not aware of any charges against Seib.

"We are aware of an Iranian news agency report on Saturday claiming that an Israeli spy has been arrested in Tehran," said the Wall Street

Blacks Press Forsyth County Demands

CUMMING, Ga. (UPI) — Bible-toting blacks worshiped with the "good people" of all-white Forsyth County but left church vowing to march again unless officials agree to demands that include compensation for land abandoned by blacks in 1912.

"If we don't get some acceptance, some assurance sometime (today), I'll call another major demonstration for Forsyth County," said Hosea Williams, who led the black worshipers to Cumming Sunday after helping lead a massive civil rights march eight days before.

Sheriff Wesley Wairaven said Forsyth County leaders have not had a chance to discuss the list of demands hand-delivered by Williams Friday.

"I have not had an opportunity to meet with any county leaders to do anything further," Wairaven said. "We have no plans to meet soon."

Williams led 50 people Sunday from Atlanta to eight churches in Cumming, the seat of all-white Forsyth County, where 20,000 marchers and thousands of angry whites gathered Jan. 24 in the South's biggest civil rights demonstration since the 1960s.

A week before in Forsyth, a mob of Ku Klux Klan members and supporters hurled mud, rocks and bottles to break up a small march in honor of Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday.

After the second march, Williams and other civil rights leaders drew up a list of six demands, including the establishment of a bi-racial commission to ensure fair housing and hiring practices in Forsyth and compensation for the land that blacks fled in 1912.

No blacks have lived in the rural county since rampaging whites chased them out 75 years ago after three blacks allegedly raped and killed a young white woman.

Protected by police, the visiting blacks Sunday were quietly accepted in the churches, which were packed for the occasion.

"We met the bad people last

Saturday and the Saturday before," Williams said after attending the First Baptist Church with 15 other blacks. "But the vast majority of people in this county are good Christian people. We met the good people today.

Outside, however, a red pickup truck and a blue car, both flying Confederate flags, cruised the town square.

Garbage May Get Cruise To Curacao

MIAMI (UPI) — Dade County is considering sending its garbage on a cruise to the island of Curacao off the coast of Venezuela.

Dennis Carter, the assistant Dade County manager who supervises garbage disposal, said the county is considering a proposal from a British firm hoping to build a high-technology incinerator in Curacao, in the Netherlands Antilles.

The incinerator would generate power by burning garbage, a process already common in Europe.

"It isn't that crazy," Carter said.

Nick Baig, one of two directors of the British firm Power, Water & Waste Ltd., said his firm is on the verge of signing formal agreements with the government of Curacao.

In a telephone interview from London, Baig told The Miami Herald his firm would also build a water desalination plant that would use electricity generated by the incinerator. He said a Danish shipping line, a British bank and a Japanese securities underwriter had agreed to participate in the plan.

Carter said Baig's company offered to haul away garbage for $24 a ton, less than the $27 the county pays now to dispose of garbage at a county incinerator and a garbage dump.

West Wet, Windy; South, East Warm

United Press International
The latest in a series of windy storms pushed into the Pacific Northwest today, bringing more rain to areas already ravaged by floods that washed out a coastal highway and sent a house sliding down a hillside.

Meanwhile, Midwesterners were treated to springlike warmth that set at least nine records Sunday in Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa with readings as high as 60 degrees in Lincoln, Neb., and 59 at Huron, S.D.

The unseasonable weather melted the little snow in the region and coaxed sun worshipers to shed their winter gear for shorts and bathing suits.

Kevin Glydenvand, of West Des Moines, Iowa, where it was a record 56 degrees, shed the top of his convertible, saying, "It seemed like summer."

Rain today doused northern California and the Pacific Northwest as flood warnings remained posted for rivers in western Oregon and western Washington, the National Weather Service said.

Heavy rains during the weekend caused an unoccupied home to slide down a hill and onto a beach at Vashon Island, Wash., Sunday. The incident prompted authorities to evacuate a neighboring home, but it remained on its foundation.

Along the Oregon coast, Highway 101 was closed Sunday just south of Seaside by a 2-mile stretch of high water along the Necanicum River.

"Unless you've got a boat, forget it. We're just about ready to break off and head out to sea," said State Police Sgt. Bob Pendleton in Astoria, Ore., at the mouth of the Columbia River, where 3.34 inches of rain fell during the weekend.

Others rainfall amounts since Saturday included 2.78 at Olympia, Wash., and 2.71 inches at Tacoma, Wash. Portlanders waded through 2.33 inches of rain, shattering the city's record of 1.16 inches set in 1963.

Flood warnings also were posted today for northern Idaho, where recent heavy snows followed by heavy rains and warming weather caused flooding.

The rain changed to snow in higher elevations of the mountains of Washington and Oregon and the northern Rockies.

Travelers advisories for snow and gusty winds were posted for the Cascades and Siskiyou mountains in Washington and Oregon and the mountains and passes of western Montana. Forecasters said 8 more inches of snow could accumulate.

In the Washington Cascades, snow fell at the rate of 3 inches per hour Sunday at Snoqualmie Pass, which was closed. Sexton Summit, Ore., picked up 5 inches of snow.

Gale warnings remained in effect along the Pacific Coast from Washington to northern California after winds of 84 mph, with gusts to 100 mph, were recorded at Cape Blanco on the southern Oregon coast early Sunday.

The high winds caused scattered power outages in at least two coastal Oregon counties and in the Puget Sound area of Washington.

Elsewhere, winds of up to 70 mph near Reno, Nev., howled across the northern Rockies. Gale warnings covered the Maine and New Hampshire coasts.

Waite: No Ransom, Hostage Exchange

LONDON (UPI) — Missing hostage negotiator Terry Waite left emphatic instructions before heading to Beirut — no ransom payment or hostage exchange if he is kidnapped.

Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, for whom Waite serves as a special envoy, said Sunday that he would abide by the instructions despite concern for his envoy's safety.

Waite, a hostage negotiator from the Church of England, returned to Beirut Jan. 12 to seek the release of Western hostages. He disappeared 13 days ago while working for the release of two kidnapped Americans.

"I am very anxious where he is. I have no fresh news," Runcie said after leading a church service Sunday at Canterbury Cathedral, 45 miles southeast of London.

"He, of course, had said to me more than once on past occasions that should anything happen to him, he wouldn't want money or people to be exchanged for him," Runcie said.

"I think he felt quite strongly that he had a particular character of mission — that if anyone was going to get him free, he'd do that himself."

Waite, who played a role in the release of three kidnapped Americans, returned to Beirut on his latest mission under the protection of the Druze Moslem militia.

He left his hotel without bodyguards on Jan. 20, presumably for a rendezvous with Moslem extremists holding Americans Thomas Sutherland and Terry Anderson. He has not been seen since.

The Sunday Telegraph reported that minutes before Waite left his hotel, he handed a Western reporter a letter with instructions that it not be opened unless he was kidnapped.

"I have heard of this letter, but I have not seen it," Runcie said. "It is along the lines of things he has said to me ... about having no part in supporting any money being paid or any exchange being made should anything happen to him."

A Church of England spokeswoman said Waite also left behind "a written declaration" before his latest mission but instructed that its contents remain "confidential."

Runcie said Waite had apparently written the last letter in Beirut "because I think he didn't want people to say, 'Oh, well, Terry Waite has made things worse.'"

"He wanted to do what he felt he was called to do ... but he would not want to add to the difficulties," said Runcie, who during the service called on the worshippers to pray for Waite and his family.

Waite's wife, Francis, has gone into seclusion. His cousin, John, said the family fears that persistent reports from Beirut that he has been kidnapped "have the awful ring of truth" to them.

Congress Should Honor Promise

The Reagan administration's Caribbean Basin Initiative went into effect three years ago amid glowing predictions that it would invigorate the economies of a region vital to U.S. interests. Despite massive infusions of U.S. dollars, however, the policy has foundered and there has been precious little economic progress among the nations it was designed to help.

The Caribbean Basin is composed of about two dozen small developing countries and contains vital sea lanes through which 75 percent of U.S. oil imports must flow. It is an important market for U.S. exports and the second largest source of illegal immigration to the United States. The volatile region is especially vulnerable to communist terrorism and subversion, as witness the turmoil in Guatemala, El Salvador and Costa Rica during the last several years. Cuban, Soviet, and even Libyan efforts to destabilize the Caribbean Basin are increasing along with the strength of their leftist allies.

Clearly, the time has come for Congress to reconsider the Caribbean Basin Initiative with an eye toward restoring those measures that were contained in the original proposal.

The Caribbean Basin Economic Recovery Act was crippled from the moment it became effective on Jan. 1, 1984. Congress gutted the program by stripping it of its most important features. Many goods, some of which are key Caribbean exports, were denied the open access to U.S. markets that the bill was supposed to provide. Moreover, heavy lobbying by the AFL-CIO blocked the president's proposal for a 10 percent tax credit for new U.S. investments in the region. Little wonder that economic conditions have worsened in the region during the last three years.

Since 1984, the value of exports from Caribbean nations has declined steadily. For example, the value of their oil and sugar exports to the United States decreased by 44 percent and 43 percent respectively during the first six months of 1986 from a year earlier. Caribbean sugar exports to the United States will fall still further this year because of a congressionally mandated formula on imports. Unemployment now averages between 15 percent and 25 percent in the basin's work force. Constant-dollar per-capita income has fallen and regional debt has increased. Inflation is rampant and imported goods are beyond the means of most residents.

What can be done to reverse this alarming trend and revive the economies of this strategically vital region?

Congress must remove the protectionist trade barriers that prevent Caribbean goods from coming into the United States. Tax incentives must be made available to U.S. investors willing to open businesses in the region. And the 12-year limit on the program must be removed. The Caribbean Basin Initiative was not meant as an economic quick-fix, but rather as an incentive to long-term recovery and growth.

Concerns about the possible loss of U.S. jobs to Caribbean competitors are understandable, but exaggerated. Total production of the Caribbean Basin is equivalent to less than 2 percent of the U.S. gross national product. In fact, imports from the region account for less than 4 percent of total U.S. imports. It should also be noted that U.S. companies hurt by Caribbean imports can seek relief under the 1974 Trade Act.

The Caribbean Basin will be the Achilles' heel of the Western Hemisphere so long as its economic problems are allowed to fester. President Reagan recognized as much when he proposed that the region be accorded preferential treatment in trade and U.S. investment. The Democratic-controlled Congress would do well to grant these concessions in the interest of peace and prosperity throughout the Americas.

BERRY'S WORLD

BEN WATTENBERG

Now The Question: Is Nunn The One?

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., will soon decide whether to run for president in 1988. Nunn told me the chances were 60-40 that he would decide against running, but noted that a couple of months ago his self-determined odds were 80-20 against.

If Nunn decides to run, he has some big factors in his favor, some surmountable problems he can surmount, and one particularly big tactical decision to make.

In Nunn's favor: Should Nunn say yes he would immediately get the support of a large piece of the center-right establishment of the Democratic Party. They are now scared that their wing of the party may have no horse in the race. Former Virginia Gov. Charles Robb would travel and help raise money for Nunn. Robert Strauss — still "Mr. Democrat" to a lot of people — would work for a Nunn campaign and help raise funds. Such backers give Nunn instant political credibility.

Not that Nunn needs much credibility-booster. Of the possible Democratic candidates, he has the most national political experience (elected to the Senate in 1972). He is regarded as a "senator's senator" — diligent and knowledgeable.

Nunn is well positioned to attract attention. He is the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, a member of the Iran Investigating Committee and chairman of the Permanent Senate Investigating Subcommittee which has the franchise to poke into almost any sexy issue its chairman chooses.

As the field now shapes up, Nunn would have a clean shot at a large natural constituency — the moderate and/or Southern voters. Do not underestimate that constituency. The 1984 New York Times exit polls show that voters in the Democratic primaries identified themselves this way: conservative 21 percent, liberal 27 percent, moderate 47 percent. Thus, a moderate can win; liberals don't have an insurmountable veto.

Nunn is indeed a moderate. His aggregate National Journal rating on economic, social and foreign issues for the latest three years is 44 percent liberal. By contrast, the other three legislators with NJ scores are Sen. Gary Hart (88 percent liberal), Sen. Joseph Biden (74 percent liberal) and Rep. Richard Gephardt (69 percent liberal). Conservative senators have single-digit ratings.

What makes a Nunn-run so plausible is that when no one was watching America moved a giant step toward a national primary. The sequential primaries have been upstaged by the advent of Mega-Tuesday, the so-called "Southern Primary" on March 8, 1988. Already 16 states, 10 from the South, have signed up, representing about a third of the electorate. The following week comes Ohio, Illinois and Minnesota, yielding another 11 percent of the electorate.

All potential early-small-state strategies are risky, but all should take advantage of the five C's that come with Nunn: credibility, competence, committee coverage, constituency and cash.

In any event, if Nunn says go, he will automatically be in the first tier of the field. And the moderates will have a horse.

ROBERT WALTERS

Louisiana's Petroleum Fallout

NEW ORLEANS (NEA) — When petroleum production peaked in late 1981, almost 500 oil and gas rigs were operating in Louisiana. By last summer, however, the number of active rigs was barely above 100.

The industry has experienced a modest recovery in recent months and the state's rig count, according to the Hughes Tool Co., now stands at 127 — a figure that has local, national and international ramifications.

The local economic dislocation caused by the severe depression within the oil industry has forced New Orleans to slash its firefighting force to 800, down from a peak of more than 1,000 in 1977.

The city's police force, which numbered more than 1,500 in 1978, has been cut to 1,300 — a reduction blamed for an outbreak of armed robberies and burglaries. Other municipal workers have been restricted to four-day workweeks.

In suburban Harahan, the city's five aldermen have been designated as part-time volunteer "coordinators" of municipal departments, replacing full-time paid administrators whose services the city no longer can afford.

For Louisiana's state government, each $1 decline in the market price of crude oil produces a revenue loss of $35 million to $50 million. The shortfall in the current budget is variously estimated at $260 million to $410 million.

Gov. Edwin W. Edwards last year insisted that casino gambling or a state lottery would solve those fiscal problems — but the state legislature rejected his suggestions.

The legislature then spent much of December agonizing about how to eliminate the deficit — before abandoning its efforts and authorizing Edwards to make the needed budget cuts. "What we're saying," one lawmaker explained, "is that we don't want to face up to our responsibility."

The situation elsewhere in the country's "oil patch" is equally depressing. The number of active oil and gas rigs nationally plunged from a record high of 4,530 in late 1981 to an all-time low of 663 in mid-1986. The current total is 837.

Meanwhile, Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York, the other great fence-sitter in the Democratic field, continues to insist that he has no plans to run for the Oval Office in 1988.

Last week, though, there appeared on the desks of West Coast reporters press kits detailing Matilda Cuomo's involvement in the child-abuse issue and information about when she will be available for

White House Says Congress Need Not See Reagan Notes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's personal notes on daily doings in the Oval Office contain some detail about the Iran-Contra scandal, but White House officials say Congress can solve the puzzle without such "private papers."

The notes, apparently compiled for use in Reagan's memoirs, were disclosed to the Senate Intelligence Committee by White House chief of staff Donald Regan in its probe of the scandal last month. The Washington Post reported Sunday.

White House spokesman Don Mathes confirmed that Reagan "does, from time to time, in the evening and in the residence, make private notes on what he does during the day."

But while the newspaper said Senate investigators are interested in seeing the notes — and possibly in interviewing author Edmund Morris, who is working on a Reagan biography — Mathes said Congress should not be allowed access.

Fitzwater Becomes Spokesman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty years of faithful government service that began in a bureaucratic backwater thrust Marlin Fitzwater into a center-stage hot seat today as President Reagan's new chief spokesman.

Fitzwater, 44, who has been explaining government actions and policies to the public since swapping a career in journalism for a job with the Appalachian Regional Commission in 1965, is the new man in charge of a White House media operation run for almost six years by Larry Speakes.

The quiet transition took place Sunday, as Speakes bid a formal farewell to government and prepared to begin work on Wall Street as head of communications for Merrill Lynch & Co. at a handsome six-figure salary.

With Speakes taking leave, the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal and its attendant headaches guarantee Fitzwater a baptism of fire that could make his honeymoon with the White House press corps a brief one.

Democrats Plan Activist Agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats, buoyed by a weekend retreat at a West Virginia resort, return to Capitol Hill today ready to pursue an activist agenda they hope will pay big dividends in the 1988 elections.

"Those who counsel caution are dead wrong," Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., told his colleagues Sunday at the close of their annual issues conference at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.

His speech was similar in tone to that of House Speaker Jim Wright of Texas, who pledged Saturday to lead the Democrats through "an agenda of action" and cited a comprehensive trade bill as the No. 1 priority.

Wright also predicted confidently that Congress this week will override President Reagan's veto of the $20 million clean water bill.

Israeli Source: 'Oliver North Drove Us Crazy With Requests'

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin rejected U.S. charges that he proposed sending cash and captured Soviet-bloc weapons to U.S.-backed Nicaraguan rebels, saying the allegations have "no basis in reality."

Rabin, responding to a U.S. Senate report on the affair, said Sunday he was asked to ship weapons to the rebels by "an American figure" on the U.S. National Security Council.

Rabin did not name the person, but he appeared to be referring to Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North, North, 43, was fired Nov. 25 for his role in the Reagan administration's "arms-for-hostages" deal with Iran and the reported diversion of profits from the scheme to the Nicaraguan rebels, known as Contras.

The Israeli government has repeatedly denied U.S. claims that it initiated Washington's covert dealings with Iran and proposed siphoning the weapons sales profits to the Contras. The Iran arms-Contra aid scandal came to light in early November.

India-Pakistan Talks In 3rd Day

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — India and Pakistan today held an unscheduled third round of talks aimed at reducing tension at their common border, the scene of recent military buildups on both sides, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

The delegations met today for talks aimed at preventing "a further escalation of tension at the border and to de-escalate the tension," he said.

U.S. Fails Infant Death Reductions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has slipped to last place among 20 industrialized nations in reducing overall infant death rates, the Children's Defense Fund said today.

The CDF released a report showing the nation's program to reduce infant mortality stalled for the fourth consecutive year in continuing its 30-year decline from sixth place.

Three countries — Finland, Iceland and Japan — ranked first with the lowest international infant mortality rates between 1980 and 1985. Sweden was fourth, while Denmark, Netherlands, Norway and Switzerland tied for fifth place and Canada, France and Luxembourg tied for ninth.

Vying for last place were Belgium, Germany and the United States.

In America, the report said, nearly 40,000 of the 3.7 million babies born in 1984 died before their first birthday, a rate of 10.8

infant deaths per 1,000 live births. In 1983, the rate was 11.2.

"A key major factor that distinguishes the United States from countries that have reduced infant mortality rates more rapidly is the provision of maternity services," the report said.

"Of all industrialized countries, the United States stands alone in its failure to assure pregnant women access to prenatal care and delivery services through either a public health service or universal health insurance."

Other key findings of the report were:

—Black infants continue to die at nearly twice the rate of white infants.

—Between 1983 and 1984, infant mortality rates increased in the District of Columbia, Detroit, Milwaukee, Boston, Cleveland and San Antonio, Texas.

News Media, NASA Learn Lesson

By William Harwood
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — In the year since the shuttle Challenger blew up, relations between NASA and the news media have soured and some reporters believe agency management squandered much of its credibility with journalists.

"In the future what's going to happen, there's going to be a lot more scrutiny and for better or for worse, NASA's not going to have its past reputation to rely on," says Malcolm McConnell, a Readers Digest space reporter and author of "Challenger — A Major Malfunction."

At issue is the widely held conviction among reporters that NASA management adopted a "circle the wagons" mentality in the hours following the accident that severely limited the flow of information to the public and eroded a strong store of good will among most reporters who covered the agency.

"NASA's public affairs organization was not equipped to handle the Challenger accident," wrote Aviation Week and Space Technology writer Craig Couvilt in an editorial.

"NASA needs a public affairs staff which not only has a firm understanding of space flight and aeronautics but which can convey it to the United States public instead of worrying about damage control and protecting NASA's image."

Public affairs officers frequently knew less than reporters about the status of the investigation and many reporters felt NASA was attempting to cover up major aspects of the disaster probe. A strong undercurrent of anger and cynicism quickly developed that lingers to this day.

But Shirley Green, director of NASA public affairs, points out that preliminary data is just that, preliminary, and that in the early days of the investigation little was known with any certainty and that any such public discussion would have invited damaging mistakes.

"I do think NASA got a bad rap that we were unresponsive from the first," she said. "In the first week, we did six press briefings. We released the photos of the flames (from the booster rocket joint leak). We were telling practically everything we knew. We just, again, didn't know much."

But those briefings provided little concrete news and film of the fiery gas shooting out the side of the faulty booster was released only after an NBC News report firmly linked the disaster to a booster failure. Even then, NASA refused to call it a flame, saying only that it was an unusual "plume."

As it turned out, NASA engineers had evidence of a booster failure within 24 hours of the accident, according to an internal history of the agency's investigation.

"I think the most effective way to approach a public relations problem is to simply say what you know as you go along and at least give both the media and the public the feeling that you're being up front," says Jim Slade, a veteran space reporter with the Mutual Broadcasting System. But Green defended the agency's approach because of the sheer complexity of the investigation and the ever-present possibility that early conclusions later would be disproved.

As an example, Green said when reporters first asked if freezing temperature on launch day was thought to have played a role in the accident, they were told NASA had ruled out temperature as a factor. But it later turned out that cold weather did, in fact, contribute to the failure of Challenger's booster rocket.

Green said few reporters bothered to point out then that NASA had originally said the conclusions about the impact of temperature were strictly preliminary. Instead, it was interpreted as more evidence of a cover-up.

The emotional climate of the Challenger disaster played a role as well.

One agency spokesman who asked not to be identified said that day after day, NASA managers and public affairs officers were mercilessly "beat upon" by the media. The result, he said, was a vicious cycle.

"You have to go back and look at some of the things that showed up in some of the most august publications and television programs this nation has and some of the stuff was just outright garbage," he said.

"Those things didn't occur in a vacuum. They happened because of the situation. It happened in some cases because public affairs was screwed by management decisions that were made. So these human reactions sort of fed on each other."

Fighting Mars Philippine Election

By Fernando Del Mundo
MANILA, Philippines (UPI) —

Millions of Filipinos voted today on a proposed constitution that would keep Corazon Aquino president for six more years. Early results showed overwhelming approval — well beyond the 70 percent hoped for by Aquino.

As Filipinos cast ballots, government troops clashed with communist rebels in the south. A military spokesman said nine people were killed in the clashes but the fighting had no apparent effect on voter turnout.

"They came out in droves," Ramon Felipe, chairman of the government Commission on Elections, said today at the end of the eight-hour voting period.

He said as much as 85 percent to 90 percent of the 25 million registered voters cast ballots.

Only a simple majority is needed to adopt the new constitution but Aquino, who campaigned personally for its ratification, said she hoped 70 percent of the voters would approve the charter, which would let her rule until June 30, 1992.

Final official results will be announced next Monday but early unofficial returns indicated Aquino's highest hopes would be surpassed.

The National Citizens Movement for Free Elections, an independent public watchdog organization, had an unofficial vote total of 237,045 to 56,025 in favor of the constitution — an approval rate of nearly 81 percent.

First unofficial returns by the Philippine News Agency for 1,247 of the nation's 86,200 precincts showed 256,494 "yes" votes to 59,679 "no" votes for an 81 percent approval rate.

Ousted Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, who spearheaded the campaign against the charter, cast his ballot in his home province of Cagayan and told reporters, "I will bow to the mandate of the people."

The constitution would give Aquino a single six-year term as president and replace Parliament with a two-house legislature like the U.S. Congress.

The 250,000-member military was placed on red alert — the maximum state of readiness — but officials said the election generally was peaceful.

Scattered violence on the eve of the balloting left an Aquino supporter dead and another man wounded. There were 141 incidents of election violations, including harassment by soldiers, communist guerrillas and backers of deposed President Ferdinand Marcos.

In the bloodiest incident, a 14-man army patrol was ambushed by 400 communist guerrillas who were campaigning against the constitution in Malungon, 640 miles south of Manila, a regional military spokesman said. Five guerrillas were killed and three soldiers were wounded in the three-hour firefight, army brigade commander Col. Orlando Soriano said.

In nearby Santa Cruz town, authorities said a gunbattle left a militiaman, his mother and two guerrillas dead.

On Mindanao island, Moslem separatists snatched 50 ballot boxes in the remote town of Butid, in Lanao del Sur province, one of nine provinces regarded as trouble spots. The National Citizens Movement for Free Elections said soldiers brandishing firearms roamed a voting center in Muntinlupa today, frightening voters.

Aquino, 54, rose to power in a civilian-backed military revolt after a fraud-tainted presidential election in which she claimed Marcos robbed her of victory. She acclaimed today's plebiscite as fraud-free.

"The plebiscite has been clean, honest, orderly and exceptionally heavy," Aquino said. "My hope is that until the final results are in, this admirable demonstration of democracy in action will not only continue but usher in the political stability that we all desire."

Aquino, accompanied by two daughters and a son-in-law, stood in line and was the 15th person to vote in a schoolhouse at the family's sugar plantation in Tarlac province 70 miles north of Manila.

She told reporters she hoped the plebiscite would be "very peaceful and that the constitution will be ratified."

Approval of the constitution would bolster Aquino's efforts to bring political and economic stability to the nation of 54 million. But the proposed charter faced militant opposition in some quarters — notably from communist rebels and anti-communist supporters of Marcos.

In other violence, authorities said gunmen in Zamboanga Province shot and killed a 24-year-old Aquino supporter Sunday night as he tried to drum up support for the proposed constitution.

Three bombs exploded shortly before midnight Sunday in metropolitan Manila — outside a radio station, a church and a bookstore. The blasts shattered windows but police said no one was injured.

In the southern city of Cotabato, a man was wounded when a grenade exploded on the roof of his house shortly before midnight Sunday, police said.

Police investigating reports that Marcos supporters planned to disrupt the voting carried out a series of raids Sunday, arresting a man and woman and seizing 940 sticks of dynamite, authorities said.

Aquino was installed in a civilian-backed military rebellion on Feb. 25 following a fraud-marred presidential election in which she ran against Marcos.

Opponents from the left and the right have been trying to destabilize the Aquino government, saying she lost her legitimacy when she scrapped Marcos's 1973 constitution in March and proclaimed a revolutionary government.

In the two weeks before today's plebiscite, 13 people were killed in a leftist demonstration outside the presidential palace. The 23,000-member communist New Peoples Army broke off peace talks with the government and soldiers loyal to Marcos mounted their second unsuccessful coup bid against Aquino in a year.

Fertility Key Issue In Surrogate Trial

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI) —

The "Baby M" surrogate motherhood trial resumes today with testimony in the custody phase, which legal experts predict may hinge on how broadly the judge defines the term "infertile."

The eventual ruling, legal experts predict, will set a precedent that could determine the role of surrogate parents in infertility cases in the United States.

The second phase of the trial, dealing directly with the question of custody of the 10-month-old child, is expected to last four to six weeks.

The first phase, completed in mid-January, focused on the legality of the contract signed by a childless couple and the surrogate, Bergen County Superior Judge Harvey Sorkow has said he will rule on both questions after the entire trial is completed.

Infertility emerged during the first phase of the Baby M trial last month as one of the most crucial elements of the legal battle between a childless couple and the surrogate mother they hired to bear a baby.

The woman, Mary Beth Whitehead, signed a contract agreeing to take $10,000 — the money was not accepted — to be artificially inseminated and carry a child for William Stern and his wife, Elizabeth.

According to the contract's terms, the "sole purpose of this agreement is to enable William Stern and his infertile wife to have a child which is biologically related to William Stern."

Actually, testimony has shown, there is no reason to believe Elizabeth Stern was literally infertile. There is no evidence she cannot conceive a child. The question is, instead, should she?

The Sterns contend she is infertile in a practical sense because she has a mild form of multiple sclerosis that could be aggravated by pregnancy.

But Whitehead's lawyer, Harold Cassidy, contends the judge can rule the Sterns committed "equitable fraud" by claiming in the contract that Elizabeth Stern could not have a child.

During the first two weeks of the trial, both sides presented medical experts to back up their contentions.

One eminent neurologist said Elizabeth Stern would be playing "Russian roulette" with her health had she risked a pregnancy. Another said she faced very little increased risk at all.

According to the contract that she and her husband, Richard, 36, signed in February 1985, Whitehead agreed that "in the best interest of the child, (that) she will not form or attempt to form a parent-child relationship" with the baby she bore for the Sterns.

Whitehead, 29, testified she fully intended to honor that agreement but was overcome with maternal feeling during delivery and decided she could not give up the baby.

The legal battle that has followed is the first disagreement between a childless couple and a surrogate mother to come to the point of trial.

The two sides cannot even agree on a name for the 10-month-old girl. The Sterns call her Melissa. The Whiteheads call her Sara. Court documents refer to her as Baby M.

"Going Bald?"

Here's Help If Cause is Sebum

HOUSTON, Texas—If you have symptoms of "sebum" hair loss; oily or greasy forehead; dandruff, dry or oily; itchy scalp; and if your hair pulls out easily on top of your head, here's help.

A firm of laboratory consultants has developed a scientifically advanced formula and regimen to remove and control the continuous discharge of toxic sebum, so the scalp can function normally and effectively. This, in turn, reduces hair loss...stimulates natural hair cell production...and reverses the balding process.

This scientific regimen has proven so successful the firm invites you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself.

These experts point out that the majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if your hair loss is caused or effected by sebum, here is help.

Everyone has a full head of hair until some time after puberty. In the case of hair loss caused by "sebum", the problem starts when the male hormone production reaches its peak. This causes an excessive discharge of toxic sebum, which if not properly controlled, will gradually destroy the hair-producing cells on top of the head.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and, if you wait until you are sick bald and your hair-producing cells are destroyed, you are beyond help.

So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to reverse the balding process...now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days...at their risk...if you have the sebum symptoms and are not already sick bald. Just send them the information below. Or, call them toll-free at 1-800-231-7157 (in Texas 1-800-833-8387) 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday thru Thursday and they will send complete information. Senate Committee Begins Struggle Over Lottery Plans

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A Senate select committee begins today the battle over establishing the Florida lottery, the biggest political plum in many years with a $150 million budget and scores of contracts and jobs to offer.

The Senate committee plans to schedule hearings, workshops and fact-finding junkets.

The House Committee on Regulated Industries and Licensing during its opening meeting Wednesday will hear presentations on the lottery.

The legislative meetings are seen as a warm-up for months of hearings and debates over the logistics of the statewide lottery approved by Florida voters in November.

Bill Bryant, appointed special counsel by Gov. Bob Martinez to handle lottery issues, is scheduled to complete the first draft of his bill Friday, before leaving on a national tour to study other state lotteries.

Insiders say it is difficult to project how the three separate operations will work to develop a structure that is expected to be so profitable it could rank in the Fortune 500 as a $1-billion-a-year enterprise.

They say the battle could become brutal in late spring if the House, Senate and governor's office come up with dramatically different bills.

Search Resumes For Missing Boat

MIAMI (UPI) — Coast Guard planes and vessels resume searching the Atlantic Ocean today for a 32-foot fishing boat missing since Friday morning with three people aboard.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Joe Dye said the agency hopes to enlist the aid of Air Force planes in the hunt for the Carol G.

The fishing boat set out from a marina at Ponce de Leon, south of Cape Canaveral, at 9:25 a.m. Friday with the owner saying he would return at 6 p.m. The marina called the Coast Guard at 9:25 a.m. Saturday reporting the Carol G missing.

Dye identified those aboard as owner-operator Matt Goodell, 60, of Ponce de Leon and two men who were visiting him from out of state, identified only as Gordon Fuller of New Hampshire and a Mr. Hutchinson of Missouri.

Three Coast Guard vessels and three aircraft searched from south of Cape Canaveral to Jacksonville, out 170 miles, all day Saturday and Sunday without finding any sign of the missing vessel. Dye reported Sunday night.

Couple Sought In Double Murder

HALLANDALE (UPI) — Police hope an artist's sketches will lead them to a mysterious young couple seen leaving the apartment of Edward and Sylvia Nipon a few hours before the retired clothing designer and his wife were found shot to death.

The bodies of the Nipons were found Saturday morning in the living room of their apartment in a high-security oceanfront condominium. Edward and Sylvia Nipon, Philadelphia residents who spend winters in Florida, were brother and sister-in-law to high-fashion designer Albert Nipon.

Edward Nipon, 58, was found shot in the chest, sitting in a chair beside his wife, Sylvia, 67. She had been shot in the stomach and back and lay face down on the living room couch, Hallandale police said.

Police Chief Richard Fox said a man and woman in their 20s visited the Nipons at the Parker Dorado Condominium for about 15 minutes early Saturday morning and are being sought for questioning.

Affidavits Say Former Haitian President Stole $120 Million

MIAMI (UPI) — Former Haitian President-for-life Jean-Claude Duvalier ruled his country like a greedy king and looted the treasury of $120 million in seven years, according to documents filed in Paris.

Details of the charges that Duvalier, his family and friends siphoned millions from the Haitian government, contained in affidavits filed in France, were reported in The Miami Herald Sunday.

"They behaved as if Haiti were their feudal kingdom and the coffers and revenues of the state their private property," wrote Haitian Justice Minister Francois St. Fleur.

The French documents, a 16-volume collection resulting from a four-nation inquiry, are the first detailed account of what St. Fleur termed a "pillaging of gigantic proportions."

The sum is remarkable in a country where the 6 million residents earn an average yearly wage of $300, making Haiti the hemisphere's poorest nation. In a single month, the Duvalier family appropriated $1.04 million from government bank accounts, the equivalent of the annual wages of 3,484 Haitian workers.

Duvalier possessed a stack of blank checks on which he could write the number of the state bank account and the amount he wanted, the affidavits said.

He collected weekly checks totalling $1.6 million from the state lottery, skimmed $29 million from the department that regulates the sale of consumer goods and exacted 93 cents from the sale of every sack of flour, the report said.

"One of the most striking things about what we have learned is the number of different ways the Duvaliers found to bleed the Haitian economy," said Curtis Mechling, an attorney for the current Haitian government.

Government agencies ranging from the customs bureau to the phone company forwarded money to bank accounts controlled by Duvalier, his wife, Michelle, and his mother.

Simone. The Regle du Tabac, which regulates prices of goods such as tobacco and sugar, issued $4 million worth of checks in five years to an employee, Henock Lamothe, who endorsed the checks to Duvalier.

Accountants at Regle kept a ledger column labeled "various monthly expenses." Duvalier used the account as a private checkbook, disbursing $11.7 million between 1978 and 1984.

One month he sent $1,460 to a Port-au-Prince jewelry store, $1,650 to the chief of the secret police, and $1,000 to Max Adolphe, the leader of his feared private army, the Ton-Ton Macoutes.

Bank receipts inscribed with "pursuant to the instructions of the president-for-life" indicate that administrators transferred large sums directly from National Defense accounts to the Duvaliers' accounts.

The day after Christmas 1980, Duvalier ordered the transfer of $414,324 from a national defense account to the Caribbean jewelry firm of Spritzer and Fuhrmann.

The Duvaliers also channeled millions of dollars through bogus philanthropies, the documents said.

Regle alone issued checks worth $6.79 million to nonexistent social agencies between 1978 and 1984. Each check was endorsed by Duvalier, his wife or his mother and deposited.

The swindle continued until the bitter end, the documents show. On Feb. 6, 1986, as Duvalier was preparing to flee the country, he pulled out his book of blank checks, penned in an account number and gave himself $169,000.

Most of the money disappeared into bank accounts in the United States and Europe, where investigators are searching for assets with little success. The Haitian government has located only about $15 million worth of assets.

Duvalier and his family fled to France a year ago and are living in a rented house in the town of Mougins, near Cannes.

Spectacular New Tampa Bay Bridge

By Orval Jackson

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — A spectacular cable suspension bridge towering over the mouth of busy Tampa Bay will be dedicated this month with ceremonies focusing on the future rather than dwelling on a tragic past.

The new $250-million bridge — its massive cables fanning out from two pylons — replaces the twin spans of the Sunshine Skyway Bridge, one of which was knocked down by a freighter in a 1980 storm, killing 35 people, the second-worst U.S. bridge disaster.

"We are trying to look ahead," said Florida Transportation Department spokeswoman Holly Waggoner of a planned Feb. 7 dedication. "We have had six years to reflect on what happened in the past. We want it to be an upbeat event."

"This is not a memorial service," added Carol Wedge, St. Petersburg Area Chamber of Commerce official coordinating the day's activities. "This is a celebration of the new bridge."

The Skyway tragedy occurred when the empty phosphate freighter Summit Venture slammed into a bridge support in a sudden and violent early morning storm, dislodging a 1,260-foot section of the bridge that plunged 15 stories into the storm-tossed waters. Eight cars and a Greyhound bus drove off the bridge and into the abyss.

Government agencies generally agreed bad weather, coupled with the lack of a severe storm warning for mariners, contributed to the tragedy. The Coast Guard also said human error by harbor pilot John Lerro, commanding the freighter, and the ship's captain contributed to the tragic accident.

Lerro said he lost radar contact with navigational buoys and when he saw the bridge loom out of the fog, he ordered anchors dropped, but its forward speed carried it into the span.

Highway and bridge planners considered building a tunnel and removing the bridges, repairing the damaged span, or constructing a new bridge that would be higher and wider than the existing bridges.

They settled on a new bridge modeled after the Brotonne Bridge over the Seine River in France and built the largest pre-cast concrete cable-stay span in the Western Hemisphere with a 1,200-wide center span.

Construction created its own set of problems that plagued bridge builders. Three workers died, including one man killed last year when the boom arm of a crane collapsed on the sixth anniversary of the Summit Venture collision.

Designers discovered problems with low-level piers, cracks in underwater main pier supports and improper tension on five suspension cables, leaving one side of the span 2 1/2 inches lower than the other where they met.

All of those problems were corrected.

Former state DOT Secretary Thomas E. Drawdy said when the last segment of roadway was lifted into place in August, it celebrated the efforts of "dedicated individuals who put their blood, sweat and tears into it."

"This bridge is not merely a monument of hard work," he said. "It's also a result of courage — a great deal of it."

The new bridge, to open for traffic in March, is 4.14 miles long, but the total distance of bridge and causeways spanning Tampa Bay is about 11 miles.

Huge lights will illuminate the cables supporting the bridge, some as big as 8 1/2 inches in diameter. The cables are strung through pylons rising 430 feet above the water and once they are painted should be visible for miles at night.

"The bridge is not just an engineering marvel," said dedication commission Chairman Pam Iorio. "It is also visually spectacular when illuminated at night. It will become a tourist destination in itself."

Transportation Department official Kathy Palmer said the project cost about $250 million, with another $15.5 million to be spent in the next five years to replace one of the drawbridges to the north of the main span and to bring the causeways up to interstate highway standards.

When the new bridge is open, the old bridge will be demolished and the two causeways on the southern end will become 8,000-foot-long fishing piers — longest in the world.

Until the demolition begins later this year, motorists will be jarred by the sight of the eerie gap in the western-most span from which the 35 victims plunged to their deaths.

Only one person survived. Wesley MacIntire escaped death when his pickup truck rode a section of the span down to the deck of the ship, then bounced into the water.

It was the nation's second worst bridge disaster, surpassed only by the collapse of the 1,756-foot Silver Bay suspension bridge linking Kanagawa, Ohio, and Point Pleasant, W. Va., Dec. 15, 1967. The exact death toll there was never determined, but 35 bodies were recovered.

The new bridge will provide a wider and higher entrance into Tampa Bay from the Gulf of Mexico. The main spans of the old bridge are 800 feet wide and 150 feet above the water. The new span ranges from a minimum of 175 feet to more than 180 feet above the water.

Bridge designers also developed a system to prevent future collisions from destroying any part of the bridge.

The six piers closest to the shipping channel are protected by rock-edge islands, and the two main piers are flanked by four 60-foot bumpers, called dolphins, filled with crushed stone and surrounded by steel to withstand an impact of up to 30 million pounds.

Although the formal dedication is Feb. 7, crews still have work to finish, such as applying a coat of gold paint on the 42 huge cables that support the 1,200-foot span, painting lane markers and installing traffic signs. The bridge will open to traffic in March.

Officials say the afternoon is reserved for entertainment, a massive parade and the pedestrian walk, with a dedication ceremony at 5 p.m., followed by the lighting of the bridge and a possible fireworks display at dark.

Huge lights will illuminate the cables supporting the bridge, some as big as 8 1/2 inches in diameter. The cables are strung through pylons rising 430 feet above the water and once they are painted should be visible for miles at night.

Lady Liberty Fee Assailed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lady Liberty has started asking her many visitors to pay for the pleasure, prompting the outrage of a New Jersey senator.

Visitors to the Statue of Liberty are charged a $1 entrance fee under a test program launched today. It marks the first time that visitors have had to pay to see the statue up close in the monument's

100-year history. Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., says he will press for an end to the fee, which will be collected until September

"Lady Liberty says at her base, 'Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses.' She doesn't ask them for a dollar," he said.

The fee is in addition to the $3.25 adult fare and $1.50 children's fare visitors must pay for the ferry ride to Liberty Island. Under the legislation, 133 of the other 338 parks and sites under the control of the National Park Service also will charge new or additional fees.

The Reagan administration, in its latest budget proposal, has asked that 64 other parks be allowed to charge new or increased fees.

Iran Says Iraqi Raid Kills Girls

United Press International
Iraqi war planes struck 11 Iranian cities and hit two schools in the city of Miandeh, killing 68 schoolgirls and wounding 150 others, Iran's IRNA news agency said today.

Iranian forces occupying southern Iraq launched three "limited assaults" against Iraqi troops east of Basra, Iraq's second largest city, according to Iran's state-run Islamic Republic News Agency.

Military communiques in Tehran quoted by IRNA said Iraqi jets bombed 11 Iranian cities, including Miandeh, killing or wounding "scores" of people on Sunday.

The girls were attending classes in two schools, one elementary and the other secondary, when the attack took place on Miandeh, 250 miles northwest of Tehran, IRNA said. It did not say how many people were killed in the other 10 cities bombed.

Iraqi jets also appeared to be taking aim at ships in the Persian Gulf.

Shipping insurers Lloyds of London said Iraqi warplanes hit the 163,173-ton Iranian shuttle tanker Alamoot off the Iranian port of Bushehr in the gulf over the weekend. The ship ran aground.

Iraqi jets also attacked the Cyprus tanker Lady A above the propeller. The attack started a small fire which was extinguished, but Lloyds reported no casualties on board.

Lloyds also confirmed an Iraqi missile hit an Iranian oil tanker, the 138,000-ton Kharg 3, 20 miles south of Kharg Island.

Iraqi warplanes raided Isfahan, Tabriz, Miandoab, Miandeh, Maragheh and Islamabad Ghard, the Iraqi News Agency said. Iran fired missiles late Saturday at a "military center" in Baghdad in retaliation, the agency said.

Following the missile attack, Iraqi warplanes staged more air raids on Isfahan and Tabriz. In the two air raids on Isfahan, "scores of civilians" were killed or wounded, Iran's news agency said.

Holbert Holds On Durability Outlasts Foyt's Power

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Al Holbert's decision to go with durability over power in the 24 Hours at Daytona race for International Motor Sports Association cars resulted in his second straight victory in the endurance event.

Holbert, the leading driver in IMSA history, went with the 2.8-liter engine in his Porsche 962. While he said it was not as powerful as the 3.0-liter version in other cars, it was more likely to run for 24 hours. For the first 22 hours of the race, it appeared that move would come back to haunt Holbert and his team of Chip Robinson, Derek Bell and Al Unser Jr.

A.J. Foyt and co-drivers Danny Sullivan and Al Unser Sr. were closing in on Holbert's Porsche and looked to have the more powerful car. However, with two hours left in the race, the Foyt car began to lose power and it stopped altogether with one hour left.

Holbert, who took an unplanned turn at the wheel with three hours left, handed the car over to the Englishman Bell 20 minutes after Foyt's car died with an eight-lap lead on the field. Holbert, Bell and Unser Jr. won the race last year, and this year the team completed a record 753 laps over the 3.56-mile road course at Daytona International Speedway.

The average speed of 111.599 mph also was a record on the 5-year-old course, and the Porsche covered 2,680.68 miles in the 25th 24-hour race at Daytona. The winner's share of the purse was $50,000.

The Italian team of Oscar Larrauri, Massimo Sigala, and Gianfranco Brancatelli — who were in 42nd place after 10 laps when they were forced to make five pit stops — finished second in a Porsche 962, eight laps off the pace. Price Cobb, Rob Dyson and Australian Vern Schuppan finished third in a Porsche 962, another five laps back.

Foyt, Sullivan, and Unser Sr., who battled for the lead most of the race, finished fourth in a Porsche 962.

Porsche again dominated the event in the GTP class, with 962s taking the first six places. It was the 11th consecutive 24-hour race at Daytona won by a Porsche-powered car, and the ninth 1-2-3 finish for Porsche.

"I was afraid I might have gone too conservative with the Number one, the A.J. Foyt Team, was in the running until it ran out of steam in the last 50 minutes of the 24 Hours at Daytona. The Foyt Team was gaining ground on first place Al Holbert before mechanical difficulties forced Foyt and teammates Al Unser Sr., and Danny Sullivan out of the running. It was the second consecutive triumph for the Holbert Team at the 24-hour event.

smaller engine," Holbert said. "I knew it would be a race of patience. And our guess worked today."

Holbert, who is cutting back his driving schedule to help Porsche develop an Indy car, did not plan on driving in the race. A combination of fatigue and heat exhaustion caused by a missing right window left Robinson, Bell and Unser sick, so Holbert jumped in. "I was worried for a while that our driver rotation change (Unser Jr. switched with Bell) might cost us the race because this race was using up our drivers," Holbert said. "So we were saving our 'Sunday punch' for them and it was me. I hadn't planned on driving, but all along I thought I might have to."

The team of stock-car racer

Bill Elliott, Scott Pruett, Lyn St. James and Tom Gloy finished first in the GTO division and seventh overall in a Ford Mustang. Amos Johnson won his third straight 24 Hours at Daytona in a GTU car when he finished first in that division with Dennis Shaw and Bob Lazler in a Mazda RX-7. Don Bell, Jeff Kline and Bob Earl finished first in the Camel Lights category in a Fiero GTP.

Conner Closes In On Cup

FREMANTLE, Australia (UPI) — Stars & Stripes overpowered Kookaburra III by a mammoth 1:46 today, bringing skipper Dennis Conner within one victory of reclaiming the America's Cup for the United States.

Conner's triumph, achieved after a report of a bomb aboard Kookaburra III, was the third in a row in the best-of-seven series and left the Americans needing one more victory.

Kevin Parry, head of the Kookaburra syndicate, said an anonymous caller had telephoned during the race and said a bomb had been placed on the boat.

"You've got a bomb on board," a race official dispatched in a chase boat told beleaguered skipper Iain Murray, frantically trying to catch the flying Conner.

"We checked our options list," Murray recalled afterwards. "Our immediate response was, 'What's the bad news?'"

"We decided to continue. We didn't figure a bomb going off would affect the race outcome."

Parry gave the crewmen the option of cancelling the race and evacuating when Kookaburra was on the final leg of the eight-leg race. The 11 crewmen said they would stay aboard and finish. No bomb was found.

In the race, Stars & Stripes smashed Murray's last hope of superiority in light to moderate winds with such ease that Conner turned the wheel over to his tactician for 15 minutes while he had a drink and observed Kookaburra III fall behind.

But Conner, still stinging from 1983 when he lost the trophy to Australia, snapping a 132-year winning streak, refrained from premature celebrating.

"We remain scared to death until we get one more victory," he said.

The next race was postponed until Wednesday at Conner's request, with light wind forecast for Tuesday.

Murray acknowledged for the first time the blue-hulled Stars & Stripes "appears to be faster."

"But we'll fight the whole way," the spirited helmsman warned. "We won't give up."

No skipper in 135 years of America's Cup competition ever has overcome an 0-3 deficit to win yachting's supreme prize. The closest winning margin was in 1983 when Australia II overcame a 3-1 deficit to defeat Conner 4-3 and bring the trophy to Perth.

Conner, the San Diego Yacht Club helmsman seeking to avenge the devastating loss, led around every mark of the 24.1 nautical mile Indian Ocean course today. Although Kookaburra III won Sunday's start, the golden-hulled 12-Meter has not rounded one of the 24 marks ahead.

The clobbering was particularly demoralizing following an aggressive first leg. Conner pursued his favorite left side, only to see his rivals cross in front.

Kookaburra III bowman Don McCracken scaled the 90-foot mast to fix a broken luff zipper regulating the mainsail while Murray unleashed 14 tacks to thwart Conner's attempted breakthrough. But Murray's failed "slam dunk," a quick tack, opened the cover and Stars & Stripes sailed ahead.

Rounding the critical first windward mark 12 seconds in the lead, Conner resorted to his winning strategy, straight-line speed leaving the Kookaburra III team reeling.

Murray, defeated in the 12-to-18 knot gusts he hoped for, was left with the formidable task of winning the next four matches.

With the end of the five-month regatta so close, Conner said he plans to leave three days after the last race, hopefully carrying the trophy with him to his new home in San Diego.

The Beach Boys song, "California Girls," blared from four loudspeakers and boisterous fans shouted, "One more race!" as Stars & Stripes pulled into the dock.

Proud residents of Conner's home city gathered at the yacht club and in hotel ballrooms late at night to watch the races broadcast live.

The myth that Stars & Stripes was vulnerable in light air was shattered in Conner's 1-41 romp over Kookaburra III Saturday. Murray saw another cherished belief smashed Sunday with Conner strong downwind.

Irish Knock Off No. 1 North Carolina

United Press International
The Notre Dame home crowd claimed another victim Sunday — top-ranked North Carolina.

The 60-58 Fighting Irish victory marked the fifth time in '13 years that Notre Dame and its faithful in South Bend, Ind., had teamed up to defeat the nation's No. 1 team.

"They were awesome," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said of the crowd. "They knew what we could do with their help."

David Rivers, uncharacteristically quiet in the first half, scored all 14 of his points after halftime to spark Notre Dame.

Basketball

Rivers hit a key jumper and added two free throws in the final 63 seconds of the game.

"In the first half I didn't have many opportunities to take my shot and I wasn't going to force it because that would benefit North Carolina," Rivers said. "I was just patient and waited until my shots came."

North Carolina played without point guard Kenny Smith, who will miss a minimum of two weeks after undergoing arthroscopic surgery on his knee.

With 3:16 left in the opening half, North Carolina led by 16. But the Irish went on a 16-2 spree, carrying over to the second half, to get back in the game.

Gary Voce added 15 points and 10 rebounds for the Irish, including two free throws with five seconds left. The Tar Heels were led by Joe Wolf with 14 points. J.R. Reid had 12 and Jeff Lebo finished with 11.

In other games, No. 2 Nevada-Las Vegas routed No. 17 Auburn 104-85. Seton Hall nipped Boston College 79-76. Georgia Tech held off Maryland 76-72.

UCLA edged Washington State 61-60, and Oregon whipped Stanford 68-55.

At Auburn, Ala., Freddie Banks scored 36 points and Armon Gilliam added 31 Sunday to power UNLV past Auburn. UNLV hit half of its 28 3-point shot attempts with Banks connecting on 9 of 13. Jeff Moore had 17 points and 10 rebounds for the Tigers.

At Boston, James Major scored 21 points and Mark Bryant added 18 to carry Seton Hall past Boston College. Dana Barros scored 27 of his 35 points in the second half to rally the Eagles.

The survivor of the 14-team District 3 Girls Soccer Tournament will have an excellent shot of reaching the Final 4 in the state.

Getting out of the district, though, may be just as hard if not more difficult than reaching the state playoffs.

Among the 14 teams in the district are four of the top 10 ranked teams in the state. The top seeded team is second-ranked Lyman which comes in with a record of 16-1-5. Second-seeded Lake Brantley, ranked third in the state, has the most wins of any team in the state with a 22-1-2 record.

The number three seed in the tourney is Melbourne which stands at 16-1 and is ranked sixth in the state and number four seed Lake Mary comes in with a 15-4-3 record and ranked ninth in the state.

Soccer

The District 3 Tournament gets under way tonight with six, first-round games at six different sites. They include Seminole vs. Winter Park at Ward Park, Rockledge at Lake Mary, Oviedo at DeLand, Titusville at Lake Howell, Trinity Prep at Melbourne and Eau Gallie at Orlando Bishop Moore. All games are scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Tuesday night, Lyman will host the winner of the Seminole-Winter Park game while Brantley hosts the Lake Howell-Titusville winner.

"Whoever wins the district will have a good chance at going a long way," Lyman coach Laura Dryden said. "The tough part is getting out of the district."

The only loss Dryden's Lady Greyhounds suffered this year was to top-ranked Tampa Leto the first week of the season. Lyman also owns the only victory over Lake Brantley while the two Seminole County powerhouses tied in two other meetings.

Lyman is missing many of the players that took it to second place in the state a year ago, but there is still plenty of talent on the field for the Lady Greyhounds. Among the leaders is senior midfielder Karen Abernethy, an all-state player the past three seasons. Abernethy has moved her dominating play from defender to midfield where she has become a potent part of the Lyman offense and has scored 13 goals.

Other experienced players for Lyman include senior forward Maye Belle Bryant, the team's goal producer with 21 goals, while Randi Huddleston (10) goals and Kim Mitchell (nine) are also dangerous offensive players. Another experienced senior who solidifies the Lyman lineup and plays well on both ends of the field is Diana Boyesen. Senior goalkeeper Sarah Cobb has 11 shutouts to her credit in her first year as full-time keeper.

Among the outstanding young players who figure to keep the Lyman winning tradition going are sophomore sweeper Julla Callarman, freshman midfielder-forward Dana Boyesen, freshman midfielder Kerry

Pro Bowl: AFC Downs Sloppy NFC, 10-6

HONOLULU (UPI) — Coach Marty Schottenheimer of the Cleveland Browns said turnovers and a critical penalty enabled the AFC to defeat the NFC, 10-6, Sunday in the Pro Bowl game.

"We made a couple of big interceptions, but the big play as far as I'm concerned was the offside call against them when (Eric) Dickerson scored," Schottenheimer, the AFC coach, said.

The NFC, trailing 10-3, had possession on the AFC 1 with about eight minutes left in the game. Dickerson of the Los Angeles Rams plunged over for a touchdown, but the play was nullified when Washington guard Russ Grimm was called for being offside.

On the next play, Lloyd Burrows of Kansas City picked off a pass by Washington's Jay Schroeder to end the NFC's drive.

"Another big play for us was when (Miami rookie John) Offerdahl pushed Dickerson out of bounds at the 2," Schottenheimer said. "It stopped them from scoring the tying touchdown."

With about five minutes to play, Dickerson took a swing pass from Tommy Kramer of Minnesota and appeared to have a lane to the end zone when he was pushed out of bounds by Offerdahl.

"We knew they had the lag pass play with the running back coming out of the backfield," said Offerdahl. "The backs switched so it was kind of tough to cover, but we were aware of the play."

Football

"I had single coverage on Dickerson and just came up and made the tackle. Thank goodness."

Instead of going in for the tying touchdown, the NFC had to settle for the second of two field goals by New Orleans' Morten Andersen.

The NFC turned the ball over five times. Mark Haynes picked off a pass in the second quarter that stopped an NFC drive at the 16 and St. Louis punt return specialist Vat Sihakema lost two fumbles in the first half that led to both AFC scores.

Fredd Young of Seattle recovered Sihakema's first muff at the NFC 17 and it resulted in a 10-yard scoring pass from Denver's John Elway to Todd Christensen of the Los Angeles Raiders.

Offerdahl, only the fourth rookie to start in the Pro Bowl, set up a 26-yard field goal by New England's Tony Franklin when he recovered Sihakema's second fumble at the AFC 44 in the second period.

A 24-yard pass from Boomer Esiason of Cincinnati to New York's Mickey Shuler on a fourth-and-six situation was the big play of the drive. The NFC scored on Andersen field goals of 38 and 19 yards.

Sihakema rebounded in the second half with a pair of nice runbacks, one of which set up a field goal. The second return, a 23-yarder, started the NFC drive that ended at the AFC 1 on Burruss' interception.

"It was the same old thing — mistakes," said NFC Coach Joe Gibbs of the Washington Redskins. "We played hard, we had a lot of yards, we had some scoring opportunities. But then, we made mistakes. We just couldn't overcome the mistakes."

Sihakema said it was "a rough day."

"The first one (fumble) just got lost in the sun. The other two (one which did not figure in the scoring), there's just no excuse," he said. "I just had trouble catching the ball today. He (AFC punter Robb Stark) kicks left-footed and maybe that had something to do with it."

Inside, Outside Raiders Drill Lake City, 104-90

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

With Vance Hall and Claude Jackson paving the way on the inside and Malcolm Houston bombing away from the perimeter Seminole Community College downed Lake City Community College, 104-90, Saturday night in Mid-Florida Conference action before 253 fans at the SCC Health Center.

The Raiders are now 24-3 over all and 8-2 in the conference. Lake City fell to 13-13 and 2-8.

Hall and Jackson combined for 25 rebounds and Houston scored seven three-point goals helping SCC to rebound off its loss to Florida Junior College last Wednesday.

"This is a big win for us, we needed to win this game," Raider head coach Bill Payne said. "No one played extremely well, but it was a quality effort as a whole."

Houston led the way for Seminole with 25 points, Hall tossed in 18, Jackson notched 13 and Barry Dunning added 10.

Carmen Anderson scored a game-high 26 points for the Timberwolves and Darryl Cherry connected for 18.

Seminole came out ready to play as Hall took it to the basket strong early with Houston connecting from long range to build take a quick 5-0 lead. Houston then continued his long range affair connecting on his next two shots from three-point land upping the lead to 11-6 with 15:27 left in the opening half.

JC Basketball

After Hall picked up his second foul Dunning went to work in the middle. Dunning first connected on a short jumper followed by two consecutive power-moves to put Seminole up by 10 at 31-21.

Houston came alive again scoring the next five points. Darris Gallagher, who finished with a game-high 13 assists, then found Carl Hackworth under the basket for the duce giving the Raiders a 38-21 edge and forcing Lake City coach Tony Johnson to call timeout.

"I felt comfortable shooting tonight," Houston said. "I shot some early in the day and felt good warming up for the game and was comfortable in the game."

Cherry then connected on a short jumper before managing a steal. Houston then stole the ball back and took off all alone on the break with four Timberwolves in front of him. Houston chose to put the ball up from outside and connected on his fifth three-pointer off the half.

After Robert Williams put Seminole up, 43-29, with four seconds remaining, Gallagher cut off the inbound pass and managed to get a three-point shot off that fell in upping the score to 46-29 at the half.

The Raiders kept the lead at 17 before opening up a little with 5:04 to play. Gallagher then made a steal and fed Hall who slammed home two of his 12 second half points putting a lid on any Lake City comeback efforts.

"I was disappointed with my shooting, the shots I was missing I usually make," Hall said. "I went to the boards well and we got the win which is the most important thing."

Holly Keller kept things rolling for SCC with taking the ball to the hoop for a pair of layups late to keep the Timberwolves a safe margin away.

Anderson then connected on a four-point play with 3:11 left to cut the margin to 98-82.

Kenny Gordon then put down three-of-four free-throws down as all Lake City could do was foul.

The lead was cut to 14 after SCC missed four straight from the charity stripe with the Timberwolves coming back down and sinking three-pointers.

Seminole will travel to Valencia Wednesday and Payne feels his team will have to play their best to come away with the win.

"Valencia is always up for us and always plays us tough in their gym," Payne said. "We're going to have to be up and play well if we want to win."

POLK SHOCKS LADY RAIDERS
Polk Community College's Demisa McKay dropped in a ten-foot jumper with three seconds to play to upend Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders, 62-60, Saturday afternoon at the SCC Health Center.

The Lady Raiders are now 15-8 and will travel to Santa Fe Community College Tuesday for their final Mid-Florida Conference clash. Polk improved to 10-12.

Hall

Houston

"We took them for granted," assistant coach Debbie Scherr said. "Polk came out ready to play and we didn't respond."

The two teams played even the whole way until the final shot by McKay that made the difference. "The loss hurts because you are ranked by your record in state," Scherr said. "We need to beat Santa Fe in hopes of a better bid."

Fatima Lafond turned in a brilliant effort for Seminole with a career and game-high 19 points. Lafond also had a game-high nine rebounds. Pam Jackson added 14 and Lisa Starkes contributed eight.

Hillsman Makes Big Impact

Impact players in the game of basketball aren't just those who funnel in 30 points per game or swat opposing shots five rows up.

The ones who usually make the difference are those who can also get the key rebound, hand out the big assist, make a steal in the clutch or play string music from the free throw line down the stretch.

In Seminole County, just about every team has one or more impact player on its roster. Using a formula of 10 points for first, nine for second, eight for third, etc., the following players rank as the statistical leaders in the county when combining the Top 10 in scoring, rebounds, assists, steals, blocked shots and free throw shooting.

Here's a look at the Top 10:

●(37 points): Seminole High sophomore Adrian Hillsman is the only player in the county to rank among the Top 10 in all six categories. The jet-quick 5-8 point guard is first in scoring (20.3), third in steals (5.0), fourth in assists (3.4), fifth in rebounds (7.2), sixth in free throw percentage (61.8) and 10th in blocked shots (0.5).

●(32 points): Lake Howell's Tammy Lewis, a 5-5 junior guard, leads the county in steals (6.3), is second in assists (7.3), fourth in scoring (13.1), seventh in rebounds (8.7) and ninth in free-throw accuracy (58.3).

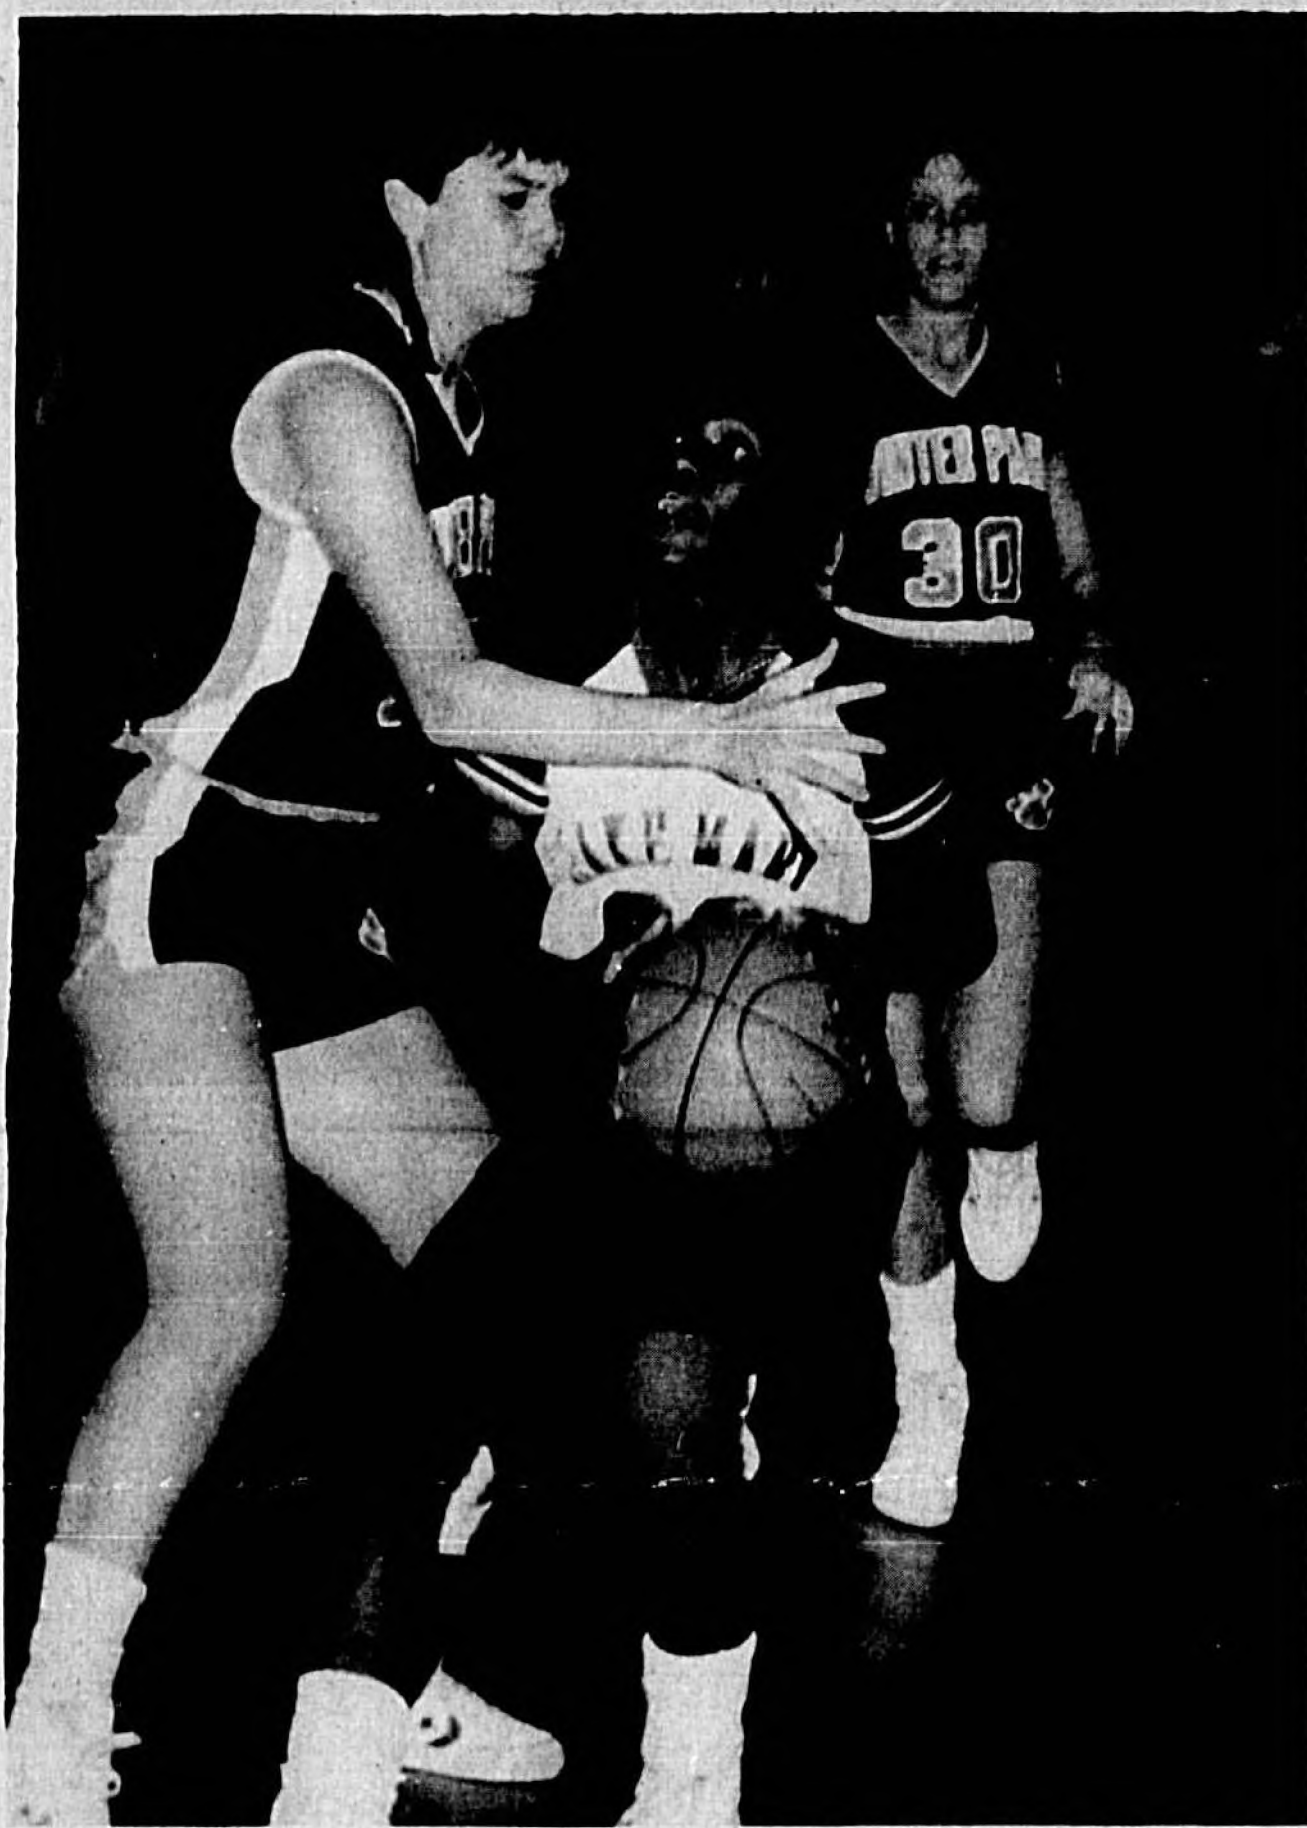

●(29 points): The older half of the Lake Howell "Wonder Twins" backcourt, 5-2 senior guard Erin Hankins, leads the county in free throw shooting (78.8), is second in scoring (16.5), is fifth in assists (3.1) and seventh in steals (2.8).

●(21 points): Seminole's Liz Long and Lake Mary's Teri Whyte, Long, a 6-2 sophomore forward, is second in free throw shooting (69.2), third in blocks (1.3) and seventh in scoring (10.5). Whyte, a 6-5 junior center, is first in blocks (3.5), second in rebounds (10.1) and ninth in scoring (10.1).

●(19 points): Cynthia Patterson and Gabby Olden, two more reasons why Lake Mary's Lady Rams are 21-1 and ranked third in the state in Class 4A. Patterson a senior forward, is third in scoring (16.1), sixth in rebounds (6.9), sixth in steals (3.0) and 10th in free throw shooting (57.3). Olden, a senior point guard, is first in assists (7.5) and second in steals (6.1).

●(17 points): Lake Mary's Suzanne Hughes and Lake Brantley's Tracy Brandenburg, Lawson, a senior guard, is fourth in steals (4.8), fifth in scoring (11.9) and seventh in assists (2.0). Hughes, a 6-0½ sophomore forward, is second in blocks (2.3) and third in free-throw percentage (69.0). Brandenburg, a 5-5 sophomore point guard, ranks third in assists (3.8), fifth in steals (3.4) and eighth in scoring average (10.3).

Other county players among the statistical leaders include Lake Howell's Carolyn Kuhl (13 points),

Tribe, Rams, Lyman Struggle In Finales

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

If Seminole, Lake Mary and Lyman are to survive in the rugged District 3, they hope to play a lot better than they did in their season finales this past Saturday.

●Injury and ineligibility plagued Seminole, down to just 13 players, came back from Vero Beach with a 4-1 loss and concluded the regular season with a 9-9-4 record.

●Lake Mary's Lady Rams were on a roll until they hit a rut Saturday and wound up in a 1-1 tie with Orlando Bishop Moore.

●Lyman, which will take over the number one ranking in the state going into the district tourney, sleepwalked through most of its game Saturday but woke up in the last 10 minutes to pull out a 2-1 victory over Orange Park.

Seminole created a number of scoring opportunities against Vero Beach but didn't have the firepower to finish them. The Lady Nones outshot Vero, 20-16. "We've had so much bad luck the last two weeks of the season," Seminole coach Suzy Reno said, "But I'm still confident the girls can do well in the district."

Vero Beach took a 1-0 lead less than six minutes into the game but Seminole tied it six minutes later when senior Sherri Rulmer scored her 13th goal of the season on an assist from Tracey Farrelly.

Vero then got a goal from Jennifer Reynolds for a 2-1 halftime lead and scored two unanswered goals in the second half to seal the victory.

At Bishop Moore High, Lake Mary and the host Lady Hornets fought to a scoreless tie for the first 70 minutes of play. Bishop Moore took the lead with 10 minutes remaining on a goal by Kristin Adamkiewicz but Lake Mary came back one minute later to tie it on a goal by Brooke Taylor off Kelley Broen's assist.

"We got the ball down the field real well all game," Lake Mary coach Bill Elisse said. "But we didn't finish any of our opportunities. I just hope this makes the team realize that there are no easy ones in this game."

At Lyman High, Bonni Weening scored through the winning goal with 50 seconds remaining, as the Lady Greyhounds edged Orange Park.

Lyman finished the regular season at 16-1-5 and will take over the top spot in the state poll after Tampa Leto was upset by Seffner Armwood, 3-0. Lake Brantley will move into second in the state which means the top two teams in the state will be competing in the same district tournament.

On Saturday, Orange Park took a 1-0 lead with 20 minutes left to play and Lyman was held scoreless until 10 minutes left when freshman forward Dana Boyesen scored her 10th goal of the year on an assist from Karen Abernethy. Before the sixth tie could be chalked up on Lyman's record, though, Steeves dribbled into the open and unloaded a long shot over the keeper's head.

"The girls showed some character in coming back like that," Lyman coach Laura Dryden said. "But now they have to turn around and play like they know they can be able to get out of the district."

Tracy Wortham, moved up from the junior varsity, played the whole game at goalkeeper for the Lady Greyhounds and made two saves. Senior Diana Boyesen made Wortham's first varsity start more comfortable by turning in a strong defensive effort.

HORNETS-RAMS SCORELESS

Lake Mary's Rams and Bishop Moore's Hornets were even in every statistical category Saturday and it was the same way on the scoreboard as the two battled to a 0-0 tie at the Bishop Moore High.

The Rams, 14-3-4 overall, and Hornets, 12-3-4, both took 13 shots on goal and had three corner kicks apiece. Lake Mary goalkeeper Pete McNally made nine saves in recording his seventh shutout.

Lyman Wins JV Tourney

Lyman High's varsity wrestling team has taken on the chin more often than not this season, but the Greyhounds' slide may not last too long if Saturday's Optimist Club Junior Varsity Tournament is any indication.

Behind six individual championships, the JV 'Hounds took the tournament championship and showed hope for the future. The first-year tourney, sponsored by the Seminole County Optimist Club, was held Saturday afternoon at Lake Brantley High.

Lyman took first place with 17½ points followed by Lake Mary at 142, Lake Brantley at 137, Daytona Mainland (90), Oviedo (88), Seminole (82), Lake Howell (71) and Kissimmee Gateway (22).

"The tournament went over really well," Lake Brantley coach and tournament director Kevin Carpenger said. "We had over 100 wrestlers compete and it looks like there's a good chance we'll be holding it again next year."

Lyman crowned champions at 109 pounds, 116, 136, 142, 189 and 224 to pull away from the rest of the field. Lake Mary had three champions while Seminole, Lake Howell, Lake Brantley, Mainland and Gateway had one apiece. Seminole's individual champion was Don Sellers who won the 130-pound class with a narrow 8-7 decision over Lake Howell's Jimmy Kress.

IN BRIEF

Gartner Ties Club Record, Skates Capitals Pat Jets

United Press International
For most of the season, Mike Gartner knew nothing but frustration. Sunday, he tied a franchise record for consecutive games with at least one goal.
"Gartner has worked hard all season," Washington Coach Bryan Murray said after his right winger scored twice to help the Capitals record a 6-4 victory over the Winnipeg Jets at Landover, Md.
"His luck is better, and the puck is going in for him," Murray added. "We have a better chance of winning now that he is going well."
But for the longest while it was not well at all for the 28-year-old Ottawa native.
Gartner, who scored 35 goals last season, had only 10 in his first 45 games this year — a pace of just 18 goals over the whole season.
Sunday's output, however, gave him 12 goals and three assists in his last nine games, and enabled him to tie the Alan Haworth's team record, set last season, of scoring a goal in nine straight games.
Elsewhere, Buffalo blasted Detroit 6-1, the New York Rangers edged Boston 5-4, Hartford outscored Pittsburgh 8-6, Quebec defeated Los Angeles 3-2, Chicago topped Edmonton 6-4, and Minnesota shaded Vancouver 4-3.

New World Tops Raiders, 11-6

Miami-Dade New World Community College's Jamie Navarro kept Seminole Community College in check with a nice pitching performance before bowing out in the seventh as New World claimed an 11-6 victory in Miami Saturday.
New World started off quick picking up three runs in the first and tacking two more in the fourth and the sixth to take control.
Tony Farabe started on the mound for the Raiders before Brian McGinnus took over in the fifth. David Riddle took over in the seventh and Matt Lawton completed the game coming in in the eighth.
Seminole managed to get back in the game by pushing at least one run across the plate over the last four innings.
Joe Sims got the only extra base hit for the Raiders with a RBI double.
Adam Terrace, Mike Lloyd, Carlos Agorta and Jose Romero each had two hits apiece for NWCC.
Seminole will be home against Florida College this Tuesday at 3 p.m. — Mark Blythe

Jenkins Sets U.S. Mark In 600

SHERBROOKE, Quebec (UPI) — Chip Jenkins set an American record in his first 600-meter race, and Canadian sprinting star Ben Johnson captured the 60-meter dash Sunday to highlight the seventh annual Sherbrooke International Track Meet.
Jenkins, a Philadelphia resident representing the Atlantic Coast Club, covered the distance in 1:15:80 — just 3-100ths of a second shy of the world record set Feb. 4, 1986 in Genoa, Italy, by Italian Donata Sabia.
The previous American mark was 1:16:18. It was set at Sherbrooke last year by Marcus Sanders, also of the Atlantic Coast Club.
"It's the first time I ever ran (600 meters in competition) in my life," said Jenkins, who normally competes in the 500 meters. "I wasn't looking for any record. I just wanted to win."

Koch Announces Retirement

ROSTOCK, East Germany (UPI) — Marita Koch of East Germany, possibly the greatest female track and field athlete of all time, Monday announced her retirement from the sport.
Koch, who will turn 30 Feb. 18, said she was quitting because of recurring trouble with her Achilles tendon.
"It has hardly been possible to train recently, and it is no help now to be optimistic, one has to be realistic," Koch said.
Koch set 16 world outdoor records and 15 indoor world bests in a career that brought her every major honor. She said she would continue her medical studies and marry her long-time coach, Wolfgang Meier, later this year.

Swedged Wins World Ski Event

CRANS-MONTANA, Switzerland (UPI) — Pirmin Zurbriggen of Switzerland skied aggressively today to win the men's super-giant slalom at the World Alpine Ski Championships.
A second place finisher in both the downhill and combined event, Zurbriggen made sure of becoming the first-ever world champion in the super-giant with a run of one minute 19.93 seconds.

...District

Musante and freshmen defenders Tammy Fulsang and Jennifer McAvoy.
Lake Brantley has been on a roll since losing to Lyman in the finals of the Burger King Tournament. The Lady Patriots have won 13 in a row and were rarely threatened in that stretch.
The Lady Patriots have the leading goal scorer in the district in junior Julie DeRusso who has 28 goals and 30 assists. Cara Marlen, also a junior, had an exceptional second half of the season and finished the with 19 goals and 19 assists. Junior Colleen Lievertz and freshman Beth Schaefer are also outstanding offensive players for Brantley but both missed the last week of the regular season with injuries.
"We're giving all the girls Saturday and Sunday off so they can get some rest," Lake Brantley coach Wolfgang Halbig said. "Lievertz and Schaefer didn't play all week and hopefully will be able to play Tuesday but we're hoping for Thursday for sure. They're two very important players to us."
Senior Michelle Herbst has had as good a season as any mid-fielder in the state while the defense is keyed by junior sweepback Reenie Deaver and senior fullback Jennifer Josephs. Junior goalkeeper Wendy Vickery has done a superb job in her first year in the net with a county-leading 12 shutouts.
Lake Mary boasts one of the most prolific offensive players in Seminole County history in senior forward Kelley Broen. This season, Broen has scored 24 goals and dished out 22 assists. Sophomore Donna Rohr (15 goals), junior Michelle Mattingly (13) and freshman Crissie Snow (10) have also chipped in to give the Lady Rams one of the most high-powered offenses around.
Defensively, sweepback Amy Alexander has come on strong in the late season while Vicky Warner, Jolie Hoffman, Michelle Padilla, Lisa Fraher and goalkeeper Tammy Scott have been steady all year.
"I think we've progressed to where we're playing our best soccer of the year at this point," Lake Mary coach Bill Elisse said. "Hopefully, we'll keep it going all next week and give everybody we play a pretty good match."
Seminole High, 9-9-2, came on strong at the end of the season and was looked at as a possible darkhorse in the tournament but injuries have riddled coach Suzy Reno's team in the last two weeks. In Friday's game against Lyman, Seminole lost two starters, Jennifer Roberts and Heather Brown, to injury and Reno said it is doubtful they will be back for the district.
"Right now, the district looks bleak," Reno said. "We've now lost two starters to injuries and two to grades. If we can survive Monday night and play Lyman tough again Tuesday, I'll be happy."
Oviedo and Lake Howell are the two other Seminole County teams in the district and both are capable of pulling off the big upset if they get some breaks.
Oviedo, 4-11-4, played Lyman to a 1-1 tie early in the year and has played tough against Lake Mary and Lake Brantley in its last two conference games. Offensively, Oviedo is led by senior Cathy Bergman who leads the team with 14 goals. Senior striker Kelly Price has been bothered by injuries most of the season but could be a factor if she's healthy for the district. At midfield, junior Jill Knutson, Bobbie Bowersox and Jennifer Whitaker lead the way while Doris Arcomone and goalkeeper Lori Blackburn anchor the defense.
Lake Howell, 7-9-3, has played Lake Mary to a 1-1 tie and dropped a narrow 2-1 decision to Melbourne late in the season. Among the Lady Hawks top offensive players are Kirstin Reesman, Dawn Towle and Tori Campbell. Goalkeeper Sherri Raynor along with Darcy Misiak and Heather Brann are the top defensive players.

Carroll, Warriors Nip Nets In 4 OTs

United Press International
The New Jersey Nets, who usually need just 48 minutes to lose, extended the Golden State Warriors to four overtimes Sunday before dropping their 11th game in 12 outings.
Joe Barry Carroll scored 5 of his season-high 43 points in the fourth overtime to lift the host Warriors to a 150-147 triumph in a game that featured 251 shot attempts and 129 rebounds.
It was just the seventh time an NBA game has gone to four overtimes. The record for overtimes is six, established by Indianapolis and Rochester in 1951.
Nets Coach Dave Wohl called it "a great game from a fan's perspective" but less so for him.
"We had great staying power but we couldn't execute at the end," he said. "We were struggling offensively because of fatigue and we passed up open shots. But I was very pleased with our effort."
Carroll, who played 55 minutes, hit a layup with 3:27 left in the fourth extra period to put the Warriors ahead for good.
"I'm very, very weary," Carroll said. "It was one of the most exciting games I've played in. It's also the longest I've ever played. Fortunately, it had a happy ending."
The game was tied 108-108 at the end of regulation, 118-118 after the first overtime, 127-127 at the end of the second overtime and 138-138 after the third extra period.
"It's the most up and down I've ever seen a ballgame go," Golden State Coach George Karl said. "There was tremendous intensity with lots of fatigue."
Rockets 106, Hawks 104
At Atlanta, Robert Reid scored 27 points, including 11 in the fourth quarter, to lift Houston. The Hawks missed three shots that could have tied the score in the closing seconds. John Battle scored a career-high 27 points for Atlanta.
Spurs 120, Bucks 118
At San Antonio, Alvin Robertson scored 28 points to lead San Antonio to its fifth consecutive victory. Milwaukee closed out the game with an 18-8 spurt. The Bucks were paced by Terry Cummings, who had a game-high 32 points.
Pistons 94, Bulls 92
At Pontiac, Mich., Adrian Dantley scored 25 points and Detroit held off a late Chicago rally. Chicago's Michael Jordan scored a game-high 38 points, including 17 in the fourth quarter, but missed 3 shots in the final 12 seconds that could have sent the game into overtime.
Trail Blazers 133, Mavs 117
At Portland, Ore., Kiki Vandeweghe scored 38 points to lead seven Portland players in double figures and lift the Trail Blazers over Dallas. Mark Aguirre scored 36 points and Rolando Blackman added 33 to pace the Mavericks.
Jazz 121, Kings 113
At Sacramento, Ricky Green scored 24 points and rookie Del Curry added 18 to spark Utah. Eddie Johnson scored a season-high 29 points for Sacramento. Green also had a game-high 13 assists and 7 rebounds.

At Atlanta, Duane Ferrell scored 25 points and Craig Neal hit two foul shots with 23 seconds remaining to lift Georgia Tech over Maryland. The Yellow Jackets led by as many as 13 points in the second half before the Terrapins rallied.
At Los Angeles, Jerome "Pooh" Richardson scored 13 points and Montel Hatcher and Dave Immel added 12 each as UCLA held off Washington State. Washington State's Brian Wright missed a short shot at the buzzer.
At Eugene, Ore., Anthony Taylor scored all 16 of his points in the second half to spark Oregon over Stanford. Oregon hit 62 percent of its shots in the second half while Stanford made just 35 percent from the floor after halftime.
Elsewhere Sunday, Cornell downed Harvard 80-73, Rhode Island bested Penn State 84-75, Missouri beat Kansas State 68-64 and Texas got past Rice 70-69.
In Saturday games involving ranked teams, Michigan stunned No. 3 Iowa 100-92, No. 4 Indiana beat No. 5 Purdue 88-77, No. 6 Syracuse lost to No. 13 Georgetown 83-81 in overtime, No. 8 DePaul nipped LaSalle 58-54, No. 9 Oklahoma edged North Carolina State 86-82, and No. 10 Alabama downed Georgia 83-74 in overtime.

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which slipped 1.97 Friday, was down 7.03 to 2151.01 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 483-481 among the 1,491 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 14,349,000 shares.

The stock market finished narrowly lower Friday after late buying erased sharper losses caused by pre-weekend profit taking and limited futures-related selling.

"Friday's action has nothing to do with anything a rational person might think," said Albert Goldman, market strategist at A.G. Edwards in St. Louis. "The market wasn't concerned with the better-than-expected trade deficit data or with any particular news development. It was just calling 'time out.'"

Goldman said Friday's decline in slower trading than has been the market's recent habit was positive.

"The sign of a healthy market is that it can get very 'overbought' in a short period of time and then not collapse," said Goldman.

Steelworkers Opt For Work, Less Pay

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A new contract between the United Steelworkers and USX Corp. that cuts pay but improves some benefits set the stage today for the gradual reopening of steel plants shut down for a record six months.

"You don't turn a switch, and everything turns on again," said Thomas Ferrall, spokesman for the nation's No. 1 steelmaker. "All ... plans are tentative, subject to customer orders."

Maintenance workers were called back first to get plants fired up for steel production. USX officials would not estimate when all the company's plants would be back to full capacity, but said the start-up phase probably would last about three weeks.

Approval of a four-year contract by the steelworkers in a 19,621 to 4,045 vote Saturday ended a 184-day work stoppage, the longest in the history of the nation's steel industry.

The average USX steelworker's pay will fall from $12.28 to $10.95 per hour during the life of the contract.

Workers also lose nearly another $1 an hour in benefits, including elimination of a week's vacation and three holidays. In return, the company said it would improve insurance benefits and pensions and begin a profit-sharing plan.

Joan Thomas, Humane Society investigator, fills out notice of seizure to be put on owner's door. Ms. Wright later appeared.

Vet Price Craig with an apparently healthy horse.

Joan Thompson, investigator for the humane society, said the horses were being impounded because the society's b-lieves Ms. Wright has not and can not properly care for them. If the society gets custody of them, they will be put up for adoption.

Ms. Wright, her 8-year-old daughter and at least three of her adult equestrian students, told officials the horses are far healthier when they arrived by trailer from Nebraska in November.

Ms. Wright, an Orlando native who raised and trained horses in Nebraska, said she had paid a man in that state to keep her horses for her and was appalled when they arrived emaciated. They were reportedly in his care 7 months.

She said she considered suing the man, a quarterhorse judge, but decided to put the money towards restoring the animals' health rather than on attorney fees.

"I've been working three jobs," she said on the verge of crying as the horses were being loaded. She has already spent her anger arguing with officials.

"Just about everything I've made has gone to these horses. I don't have new clothes. Do you see what I'm driving for a car (an old Pinto station wagon)? I could have bought a new car with the money I've spent on these horses," she said.

She said she had to leave one job because she was spending too much time with the ailing horses. She also said she has a heart problem aggravated by stress, which she said she eased by working with the horses.

"We were just beginning to see the light," she said referring to horses' health. "This will just about put me out of business," she said.

She said she would contact an attorney about the situation.

While neighbors and other horse owners in the area said Ms. Wright told them the horses also had a highly contagious disease called strangles, the vets in their preliminary examination of the first few found no active evidence of the disease. It is an upper respiratory bacterial infection, explained one of the veterinarians. The disease often causes swelling between the horse's jaw bones.

Humane officials and animal control workers were unmoved by Ms. Wright's anger and explanations for the horses conditions and continued to inspect and trailer them away after she arrived at the scene.

"This is going to put us in the poor house," said Mrs. Wolk referring to the cost to keep and care for the 21 horses until the issue is decided in court. She said contributions and donations would be appreciated. She estimated the total cost of caring and feeding the horses would run in the thousands of dollars.

Kim Noble, an Orlando equestrian, told the Sanford Herald that she thinks the horses look worse now than when she saw them in December, contrary to some of Ms. Wright's adult students.

Mrs. Noble, who has owned horses and signed up to take lessons from Ms. Wright, said she had been looking for Ms. Wright since Jan. 3 to discuss financial matters about nine of 12 lessons she has not taken. She said she went to her Oviedo home early Saturday but did not find Ms. Wright. She said she saw the horses, just hours before the Humane Society had arrived, and they looked more underweight than when she saw them in December.

She did say, however, that if they were suffering from strangles the infected horses would have to be cured before they would begin to gain weight.

She said she wanted to discuss the lessons with Ms. Wright because the three lessons she had were indoor and she felt Ms. Wright was not in a position to give on-the-horse lessons because of the animals' apparent condition and lack of equipment.

co-pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Sanford was coordinator of the annual event sponsored by the Central Florida Presbyterian and held at First Presbyterian Church, Orlando. Dr. John S. Lyles, Presbytery executive, Danielak and his wife, Rose, met Weir at the Orlando airport Saturday night, where a press conference was held by Weir. The Danielaks then took him to his hotel room where they sat and talked together.

"He is a counterpart of Mother Teresa," Danielak said of Weir.

"a simple servant. He was not laden with diamonds and there was no fanfare. He is a humble man."

"He didn't have the flair of a Billy Graham, he was extremely humble like one who has been through an ordeal, one that has crawled and then experienced a new creation. He is one who as Christians we could use as a real role model."

Danielak added, "He is one who wouldn't have chosen to be singled out, but it's like the dear Lord pointed a finger at him and said, 'You will be a light which will shine in the darkness, and a voice that will spread the Good News.'"

Man's Shining Success Built On A Foundation Of Scum

DEAR ABBY: I ran into an acquaintance from high school whom I haven't seen in five years. He's an American success story. He owns a highly profitable business, several expensive apartment complexes, and three cars — one a top-of-the-line foreign import. He attained all this without a college education and he's only 27! After our brief encounter on the street I was very impressed and congratulatory.

Later, through mutual friends, I learned the real story. This guy isn't ambitious and diligent, but one of the biggest drug dealers in the area. His "business" is a front for his operations. To make matters worse, people who don't know of his illegal activities think he's an exemplary individual.

Abby, I slugged it out in college for four years and work like a dog, but it's not easy making ends meet. I have a wife and two kids to feed. Should I turn this piece of scum over to the police? Maybe I'm jealous — but I'm also ...

IRATE

DEAR IRATE: You need not justify blowing the whistle on a dope-dealing "scum" by comparing his ill-gotten gains to your comparatively modest income earned by the honest sweat of your brow. He may eat better, but you sleep better!

Dear Abby

Jealous or not, it would be a public service to notify the narcotics division of your local police department.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old college student (female) although I look about 18. I've been married for three years (no kids) and I go to college full time. My problem is I am sick and tired of college men who make passes at me. I suppose they just assume I am not married, so they jump right in, turn on the charm and ask for a date. Wouldn't you think a guy would ask a girl if she was available first? It would save a lot of time.

I am friendly and open, but I do not flirt or lead anybody on. Maybe if you print this, the guys I have in mind will see it and take the hint.

TAKEN

DEAR TAKEN: The guys you have in mind will probably not recognize themselves, so it's up to you to handle the problem from your end. Wear a large, wide, heavy wedding band. (If the guys get too aggressive, it can serve as a brass knuckle.)

DEAR ABBY: My otherwise masculine husband insists on drinking through a straw in public. I say it makes him look effeminate; he disagrees. Your opinion, please.

MORTIFIED IN MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR MORTIFIED: Drinking through a straw or straight from the glass is a matter of personal preference and has nothing to do with a man's masculinity or the absence of it.

DEAR ABBY: After you printed that letter from "Paul in La Mirada," who enrolled in law school at age 42 and is soon to graduate, I had to write.

I served 30 years as a naval officer. After that I had two businesses — real estate in Florida and buffalo raising in South Dakota.

Then I entered law school at age 61. I am now 70 and have a thriving law practice.

E.K. HALSEY, VERO BEACH, FLA.

DEAR MR. HALSEY: Congratulations. It's too late to fulfill your dream only if you think it is.

Rev. King Presents Travel Program To ESO Chapter

The Epsilon Sigma Omicron Chapter of the Woman's Club of Sanford met Jan. 21 at the home of Bunnie Logan with Carolyn Cornelius and Hazel Cash co-hostesses.

Chairman Pat Foster presided over the business meeting after the social hour.

Book Chairman Doris Harriman told the group that there are many books available for member use. Bettye Smith, club president, said she has a number of books she would like to donate to the group.

Chairman Foster said because of changes in reporting, courses completed to State that it will necessary for members to report to the secretary each month and the secretary will keep a record.

Program Chairman Hazel Cash introduced the Rev. Leo King, guest speaker, whose subject was New Zealand and Australia. King was the promoter and guide for a trip to these countries in 1986. Mabel Piety and Melba Cooper were members of the group. Charlotte Smith has visited the New Zealand and Australia with a woman's club group and Bunnie Logan visited there for three weeks once, living in a native home.

During his talk the speaker called on the four women to tell something of their experiences and observations. Photographs made on the trip were shown, as well as maps and literature.

Some facts pointed out by the five were: 21 hours of air time from Los Angeles to Auckland, New Zealand; rubbing noses is the native greeting; greatest industry is sheep raising; and visiting a glowworm cavern was described by King.

King's group witnessed sheep shearing and observed 569 sheep sheared by one man in nine hours as the local record. It was pointed out that a sheep cannot erect himself once he falls.

Christchurch is King's favorite city in New Zealand and he added that Sidney is the largest city and the most populated area in Australia.

Members present were: Bettye Smith, Lourine Messenger, Pat Foster, Melba Cooper, Florence Monforton, Mabel Piety, Charlotte Smith, Marty Colegrove, Edythe George, Estelle Davis, Hazel Cash, Derry Harris, Bunnie Logan, Doris Harriman and Bill Gielow.

Growth Hormone is present in people up through the teenage years, then slowly diminishes with age. But L-arginine and L-ornithine make the body "think" it belongs to a teenager again, allowing adults to eat as much as they want — and still be thin and wiry.

Life Extension Authors Confirm Results Durk Pearson and Sandy Shaw, graduates of MIT and UCLA respectively, introduced these miracle substances to the public in their runaway best selling book, Life Extension. Much to her amazement, while taking L-arginine for its healing effects on a broken foot, Sandy lost 25 pounds of fat and put on 5 pounds of firm-toned muscle in six weeks. According to Durk's calculations, the pill caused Sandy to lose 400 times as much fat as she would otherwise have lost — without dieting!

To order simply call Dream Pill, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, TOLL FREE: 1-800-453-4810 and use your VISA or MasterCard. Dream Pill will also accept C.O.D. orders over the phone! Better See Specialist About Mouth Swelling

DEAR DR. GOTT - I can hardly eat or swallow because of a swelling under my tongue. What could cause this? Neither my dentist nor my physician seem to know.

DEAR READER - A swelling under the tongue could be a growth, an infection or a cyst that should be treated. Ask for a referral to an oral surgeon or another doctor for an additional opinion.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I developed cramps in my toes, calves and above my knees. The pain was unbelievable. The doctor gave me Quinamm, which helps some, but I'd like to treat the cause rather than just mask the symptoms. Could the medicine I took for a kidney infection (Urobiotic) be responsible?

DEAR READER - Quinamm is quinine sulfate. The drug affects muscles by increasing their excitability (making them less likely to contract under mild stimulation) and affecting the distribution of calcium within muscle fibers. These effects help to relieve cramps that are caused by arteriosclerosis and poor circulation. Urobiotic, a combination of antibiotics, has not been reported to cause muscle cramps.

When leg cramps result from deficient circulation or poor blood supply, surgery may be necessary to improve circulation.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I take calcium supplements, but am a little confused about the best time to take them. I've heard that they should be taken before meals, after meals and at bedtime. Which of these is correct?

DEAR READER - Calcium is best absorbed into the body when there is food in the stomach. Therefore, calcium supplements will be most beneficial when taken during or right after meals.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My husband has had urethritis for years. He has tried many antibiotics and antibacterials with no improvements. Must we assume that his condition is untreatable?

DEAR READER - Urethritis is an infection of the urethra, the tube that discharges urine from the bladder. Ordinarily, it is easily cured by antibiotics. In men, however, the symptoms of urethritis (burning, urinary frequency and a whitish discharge) resemble those caused by prostatitis (infection of the prostate gland). If your husband's symptoms have not responded to antibiotics, he should be examined by a urologist, since prostatitis is a more difficult infection to clear up and may require long-term antibiotic treatment or other therapy. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on the PROSTATE GLAND.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Even beginners realize that a defender's opening lead reveals much about the hand, thus helping the declarer to make good play decisions. But decisions in the play should also be influenced by what the defender fails to lead.

Against four spades, West led the four of hearts. South could count nine tricks and needed a club trick for his 10th. So he won the king of hearts in dummy and played a club to his queen and West's king. Back came another heart. A second club was now played. East won the ace and gave his partner a heart ruff. Since declarer still had to lose a diamond, the contract was set.

Declarer's play would be right whenever West held both the ace and the king of clubs, but was wrong under the present circumstances. Declarer would do well to ask what he himself would lead as West if he held the ace and king of clubs. The answer, of course, is the club king from A-K, just to take a look at dummy. After the heart opening lead, it was a fair deduction that West did not hold both high club honors. Therefore, South should play more cautiously by winning the heart in his hand, drawing trumps even though it takes four leads, and then playing a second heart to dummy so that he can lead up to his club Q-J-5. By getting back to dummy with a third heart to play clubs once again, he makes his game-going trick.
