

Big Profits

A little inconspicuous item published in an obscure corner of a newspaper barely attracted the attention of readers. A little two-by-four clerk had made five million dollars on a forty dollar investment and still had it. That, it seems to us, should be news calling for the widest publicity.

A few years ago such a disclosure would have been the basis for interminable essays in numerous "Success" magazines and many a newspaper editor would have waxed warm in his effusion over America—the land of opportunity. Nowadays, however, a feeling exists that a man to have made so much money must have been crooked, to have kept it he must have been both selfish and an enemy of society, and the whole transaction calls for a Senate investigation.

It's interesting how people's ideas about such things change from year to year. We offer no defense of the capitalistic system or the enormous profits which so many accumulated during the past decade. But the fact remains that the things which went on then were almost universally viewed with a feeling of condemnation if not downright approval. When a man could place a binder on a $10,000 lot and a few days later sell it for $15,000 making a profit of $5,000 on perhaps not more than a $50 investment, people applauded.

Today that would be regarded as highway robbery. Perhaps the attitude which exists now is far more salutary. Certainly such profits can result only from localized or nationwide booms. And such booms inevitably result in collapses. If we, as a people, can be satisfied with reasonable wages, with reasonable prices, and with reasonable profits, it is a positive certainty that those wages, prices and profits can be more consistently maintained at a reasonable level.

But we wonder how long the present attitude toward such things as excessive profits will continue. If it was regarded as smart and clever to make a million dollars in 1929, and then suddenly public opinion changes and it becomes a despicable thing to do, is it not likely that public opinion may change again, and once the opportunity presents itself, "Getting Rich Quick" will become quite as respectable an undertaking as it was in Mr. Wallingford's days?

We don't like to take such a gloomy view of the social picture, but it wouldn't surprise us a bit if somewhere in this country today certain little two-by-four clerks on insignificant salaries are managing to save a little bit here and a little bit there and are actually buying, perhaps with a rabbit's foot in their hands, perhaps with some careful study of present conditions, certain stocks, listed on the hated Wall Street exchange, or perhaps certain lots or acreage, long since in evil disrepute, which some day will make them rich.

Others, no doubt, will take a different view of it. They will spend their money while the spending is good. They will contend that the days of big profits are gone, never to come again. And for them they never will.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fields have arrived in Sanford and will make their future home here. Mr. Fields stole a march on his Sanford friends last week and hid away to Augusta, Ga. where he married Miss Lillian Fuller Hackett, a charming Georgia girl. The wedding was a quiet affair at the residence of the bride's brother, W. W. Hackett, in Augusta. Mrs. Fields is the only daughter of Mrs. W. J. Hackett and is beautiful and talented, being an especially charming young woman and one whose "best of friends" in Augusta were greatly to give her up to Sanford. Mr. Fields is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Fields, who formerly lived in Augusta but are now located in their orange grove near a village outside of Sanford. Mr. Fields is a prominent young business man of Sanford and has made a wide circle of friends there in whom he will introduce his charming bride.

G. L. Shiloh, who manages the County Farm in Colony Avenue, Sanford, is in the Herald office today. He is the first officer of the county to be called to the office of the sheriff.

UNITED STATES ECONOMY ACT NEEDED FOR THE REBANDING OF RELIEF IS BELIEVED TO AID VETS

Orlando Realtor Tells National Body That System is Unsound

MIAMI, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Concerted action for tax relief, without the sponsorship of any alternative cash raising plan, was urged yesterday before the National Association of Real Estate Boards, by the final speaker of the two-day business meeting here.

Walter W. Rose of Orlando, a state senator and director of the national association, brought the suggestion to the convention floor after relating how the real estate tax was once increased in this state.

"While we who sought to avoid the land tax were squabbling over where we thought the tax should be placed, our opponents quickly stepped in and added to the real estate tax burden," he said.

"It was then that it became apparent that what we should do was flatly oppose any bill, no matter how beneficial, if it proposed an increase in the tax on real estate."

"And by the same token, to favor any measure that called for the relief of real estate owners."

Continuing, Senator Rose asserted tax relief cannot be obtained "simply by urging the unfairness of the present tax system."

"We must sell the public on the fact that the present tax structure is economically unsound," he said. "Real estate is our largest single source of wealth and security, and it cannot be taxed to destruction without undermining the entire business structure of the nation."

"In Florida, under normal conditions, the yearly real estate turnover approximates $225,000,000—larger than the income from the citrus crop and the tourist industry combined," he declared.

Senator Rose outlined the program of the Florida Association of Real Estate Boards. This includes the following:

Abolition of the ad valorem tax for state purposes by constitutional amendment; state operation of schools; three percent sales tax for financing schools and relieving real estate; state maintenance of all county roads and those city streets which form part of state highways.

Constitutional amendment exempting homes from all taxation up to the first $5000 of valuation; field, but constructive economy; consolidation of duplicating city and county offices, and a state tax equalization board.

In discussing the sales tax, Rose said: "And while I have no desire to inject into my discussion any political issues, it is surely a fact that only one way is open to us in our campaign for real estate tax relief."

"This is by a broadening of the tax base. Although I personally have opposed a sales tax, it now seems inevitable."

Willard Thorp, director of the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, centered his address on the real property inventory now being conducted as a CWA project in 60 cities, and in others under federal supervision.

The inventory, Thorp said, was undertaken primarily for the government as a basis of policy making for "this war on depression."

"Crime, Revolution, Anarchy Increasing—What Does It Mean?" Bible Prophecy's Interpretation of This Most Vexing World Problem. Is There a Remedy? will be the subject of Evangelist Louis K. Dickson's third lecture in the Women's Club Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.
Mr. Dickson has expressed himself as believing that the marked increase in all sorts of crime in this country and in the world stands as one of the most outstanding fulfillments of the predictions of the Holy Scriptures.
"Nothing like it has been known in all human history. The startling revolts against authority have been and interpreted by the Bible prophets more than 3000 years ago," said Evangelist Dickson, in discussing his subject for this Sunday night.
These services will continue each Sunday night through the winter months. The one announced for Sunday night will be followed one week later by "The Return of Jesus? When? Where? Is It Sure?" The growing interest in these most unusual and interesting lectures is a demonstration of the interest which Sanford folks are taking in finding the truth concerning the motives "veiled" relating to the present hour. Questions are answered at each service and uplifting songs and special musical features make the evenings spent with Evangelist Dickson both helpful and inspiring. Seats are free. The public is invited to attend.

TALMADGE TALKS BACK AT CRITICS OF HIS POLICIES

Georgia Governor Has Answer For Charge Hurler Against Him

QUINMAN, Ga., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Gov. Eugene Talmadge told a Brooks county audience here yesterday that if folks heard him called a "silk shirt crowd" they would know "I've sold you out and laid down on you."

He then added, "If you hear whining and see smoke at the capital and hear me cursing me and calling me a demagogue, get on your knees and pray that I'll stand by my guns."

This was the Georgia Chief Executive's first speech since William Schley Howard, former congressman from Atlanta, in an address at Atlanta criticized Governor Talmadge and urged Georgians to oust "demagogues" and bring the Constitution up to date.
The governor made these remarks in an address celebrating the birthday of Gen. Robert E. Lee. He had started out with an announcement that he would avoid politics but the crowd yelled, "Let's hear about it" and the governor obliged them.

In a second speech of the day, before the Young Democrats of Brooks county, the governor said, "Georgia owes less than any state in the union. You hear talk about a constitutional convention. It's dangerous. The thing to do is to get back to the Constitution we have."

Referring to the government processing tax on cotton, corn and hogs, the governor said, "To my mind, the processing taxes on such staples do nothing but grind the face of the producer. After all the tax comes out of the producer. You're either going to have a rich or big government and poor people or a small or poor government and the people will be in better shape. My idea of government is a small or poor government."

He also criticized the "government in business" and cooperative marketing associations, which he said "won't work, can't work."

France Polishing Fighting Force To Back Up Defenses

PARIS, Jan. 20.—(AP)—France is polishing her fighting forces to back up her Rhineland defense line. While her central eastern frontier battles with coal and cement, Germany's demands for supplies have caused the French to tighten up the tanks which must hold the fort.

On his return yesterday from an inspection of the frontier measures, Guy la Chambre, undersecretary for war, declared that every man from trouper to general is being drilled to the hilt.

In the departments of navy and air matters he is seeking to install the same spirit of preparedness, while technical equipment is constantly being perfected.

The French army activities involve three "fronts," conscripts, regulars, and colonial forces.
The chamber of deputies has voted a project to keep the French conscript ranks filled during the years from 1935 to 1939 when the birth rate of the World War years will make itself felt.

In order to keep the conscript force at a minimum of 200,000 men during the "lean years" some of the ambitious boys who would don uniforms for their compulsory service now at the age of 19 or 20 are being held for service beginning a few months after their 21st birthdays.
The regular forces are being reorganized and dispersed to keep them in the line of physical condition.

Many thousand colonial soldiers who have been battling with diabolism in Morocco have been called from Africa to swell the military forces in France.
Military experts have labeled Hitler's armed force as one of the most powerful in the world.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who was named commissioner of the organized game as the scandal flared, shut off their last ray of hope yesterday when he denied the application for reinstatement made by Jackson.

He traced in detail the history of the box, naming the hotels and warehouses in which it has been stored at various times.

He gave Farley also a packet of letters from Herbert Hoover, asking that they be returned if possible.

HAVE YOUR WATCH repaired by one who really knows how Jeweler, Mag. As.

Jackson, one of the greatest hitters and outfielders in baseball history, is now 45 years old, but advised the commissioner that he had a chance to manage a club at Greenville, S. C.

He met newspapermen and gave out copies of his letter, but refused to discuss it.

Mechanically, one of the most striking changes appears in independent streamlining, and while not going quite so far, achieved the effect of streamlining through lower bodies, fish tail head lamps, radiators with the hapsburg lip effect, slanting wind screens, and unobstructed exterior body lines.

Color on all models has been used cleverly to create the streamline effect. Solid monotone finish gives an idea of even flow which would be broken by contrasting colors.

PREDICTS GEORGIA REPEAL

TIFTON, Ga., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The prediction that Georgia's bone dry law will be repealed, and the statement that he favored a fair sales tax were made by Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta in an address to the Tifton board of trade.

Some changes are widely heralded. Take streamlining for instance—about which more words have been written and spoken than there are dollars in the public debt.

This year it stepped out more confidently, and there were two cars in which the conventional body type was altered to approach more closely the streamlines theory. Here the shape, viewed from above, was almost square, the hood "nose" bluntly rounded, with fenders nearly flush with the body, head and tail enclosed, a tapering stern and other radical points of exterior design.

Jackson did not contend his innocence in the scandal in his application for reinstatement, merely taking the ground that he had been punished enough and that he should be allowed to make a living playing baseball. Since his banishment, he has played in unorganized baseball but never made much money out of it.

EARLY RELEASE OF BREMER IS NOT IN SIGHT

Family Refuses To Give Up Ransom Asked Unless It Is Certain Young Man Is Alive

ST. PAUL, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—Despair crunched waning hopes today for the early release of Edward Bremer, kidnaped for $200,000 ransom as the Bremer family was determined to refuse to barter a fortune for his safe return unless they first receive a decisive assurance that he is still alive.

A message from the kidnapers, signed by the youthful bank president which would give them such assurance was vainly awaited over the week-end but it wasn't forthcoming.

A bloody, shaky scrawl death threat and a mysterious note declaring Bremer had been "bumped off" have intensified the alarm felt for the man who was last seen on the morning of Jan. 17.

Adolph Bremer, father of the victim, was in a serious nervous condition brought on by a two-year-old illness aggravated by worry over his son's life. He was represented as being much better today.

A well authenticated source Saturday said contact was expected to be established either Saturday night or some time yesterday in Minneapolis or vicinity. Although city authorities made no move to interfere with the ransom negotiations, the extortionists continued reticent.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan, speaking in Washington, declared "in the Bremer case we may have the misfortune of experiencing another Lindbergh situation."

Explaining that the Justice Department is exerting every effort to co-operate with the law enforcement agencies to assist in their attempts to apprehend the kidnapers until his son was safely returned, he added:

"Meanwhile, we are attempting to keep negotiations secret. We appealed to newspapers to suppress details until the victim has been freed. Chief of Police Thomas Dahill has given assurance there would be no need to worry over Bremer's safety until after Sunday or Monday," adding he was confident the missing banker "was O. K."

King George's 'Kin' Put Under Peace Bond

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—The husky, six-foot Clarence Guy Gordon Haddon pleaded guilty to a charge of menacing King George, whose nephew he claims to be, and then went his way yesterday, promising to put the "maggot" of his alleged grievances aside.

The 43-year-old unemployed engineer was placed under two sureties of 100 pounds each to keep the peace for three years and upon his honor, by Justice Charles of the famous Old Bailey Court, to abandon the belief—"this maggot preying on your mind," the court called it—that he is the legitimate son of the Duke of Clarence, the monarch's late elder brother.

The justice told Haddon he was taking this course because, among other reasons, "the person against whom these intolerable threats were made has, through the attorney general, expressed a desire to be in no way vindictive."

Worst Disaster In Railroad History Is Revealed During Probe Of Late French Wreck

PARIS, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—Sixteen years after it happened, the worst disaster in railroad history—the wrecking of a French troop train with 535 killed and 243 injured—has been brought to light.

Investigation into the recent Lagny train wreck, in which 200 died, brought forth details of the 1917 tragedy, long hidden by war censorship.

Of the 1200 French soldiers on leave who boarded the military train by detachments at Modane, near the Franco-Italian border in the Graian Alps, more than half were killed or injured less than half a hour later.

Another troop train catastrophe had been credited with the largest number of rail fatalities in a single accident until the French wreck was brought to light. This was the death of 227 troops at Gretna Green, Scotland, in 1915.

Despite the protests of the engineer at Modane, who insisted that two engines were needed to control the heavy train on the sharp Alpine grades, he was given only one locomotive. Coming down a grade about 30 miles from Modane, he lost control and the whole train piled up in an indescribable mass at the bottom of a slope near the town of Saint Jean de Maurienne. The first few coaches were derailed and the rest crashed into them.

The train was composed of wooden coaches and fire was responsible for the terrible loss of life. The cars burned like tinder and hundreds of soldiers trapped in the debris died before their comrades could reach them.

Comes Brice, one of the survivors told the story of it after the Lagny disaster. He was badly injured.

PRINCE PLAN OF RAIL MERGERS IS PROBED IN SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—Estimated economies to southern railroads under the Prince consolidation plan were slashed by more than three-fourths in a report submitted by a committee of railroad experts of the South to Joseph Eastman, Federal co-ordinator of transportation.

Eastman, in his report transmitted to Congress and President Roosevelt Saturday by the Interstate Commerce Commission, asserted any move for immediate consolidation would be "unwise."

His report was accompanied by various studies.

The committee estimated the annual savings to the two Southern systems suggested in the plan to be $100,000,000.

White, Negro Given Stiff Sentence for Burning Dog Alive

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—Convicted of having set fire to a fox terrier after first striking it with gasoline, a white man and a negro yesterday were sentenced to six months in jail and fined $100 each in police court here.

The verdict came from Judge Henry J. Martin, who informed the defendants and the crowd in courtroom the "fiendish act" was the "worst thing" in his experience on the bench.

EARNINGS OF JAP WAR CHIEF SADAO ARAKI ARE REPORTED

U. S. PEOPLE ARE REPORTED TO HAVE FELT MORE THAN ANY OTHER CLASS DURING PERIOD 1929-1932

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—The nation's workers, farmers, doctors, servants, storekeepers and all the rest were shown by a special commerce department study yesterday to have received an income of about $49,000,000,000 in 1932. In 1929 the total was $81,000,000,000.

These figures, obtained in a year of research, were prepared at the request of the Senate, and have been referred to the Senate Finance committee. The estimates were so high because of the inadequacy of existing data to show what happened to the national income during the depression.

The total amount of money paid out to individuals is considered the national income in this study. In 1929, the total was $75,000,000,000 and in 1931, $62,300,000,000.

Figures for 1933 were not obtained, but officials said probably they would approximate those for 1932.

Income paid to wage earners fell 20 percent during the year.

St. Petersburg Loses Chance For Discount Settlement Of Taxes Delinquent Since 1931

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 22.—All chance for discount settlement of 1931 delinquent taxes under either the proposals made by the John N. Brown group, the Administration plan, or a compromise between them, faded out yesterday with the receipt of a letter by Mayor R. G. Blanc from Kenneth M. Keefe, New York chairman of the bondholders' committee, definitely withdrawing from the deal.

With the announcement, Keefe recommended that the municipal government go ahead with the enforcement of tax collections.

"We wanted to extend every possible degree of co-operation to a program which, first, would have the unanimous support of your taxpayers and, second, might lead to a resumption of normal tax payments from this time on and terminate those divisions in the opinion of the community from which you have suffered so greatly in the past two years," Keefe said in his letter.

"We are now regretfully obliged to reach the conclusion that the proposal in question does not offer an appropriate method of attaining the objectives which we desire and we are therefore compelled to withdraw from participating in it. Please understand that this is not due to any question of price, because this is not a primary consideration as far as we are concerned. We are convinced," Keefe concluded, "that these numerous difficulties would find their quickest solution if you proceeded with a program of tax enforcement. Taxpayers and non-taxpayers alike would then know their exact status and everyone could proceed accordingly. In the meantime, please advise us whenever there is anything we can do to assist you in (Continued On Page Two)
