

New Jail Almost Ready For Action

By DAVID M. RAZLER
 Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's new $4.7 million jail was displayed Friday and Saturday to local law enforcement officers and other officials as workers put the finishing touches on the building now scheduled to begin taking prisoners late next month.

Jail Administrator Steven Saunders took the officials through the facility's two control centers and three cell pods, designed to hold 216 prisoners in individual cells with additional four-bed "dormitories" for trysts.

The new jail will bring Seminole County in line with all federal and state standards for the housing of prisoners, some of which have not been followed due to a lack of space and facilities at the old downtown jail, Saunders said.

Visitors were taken on tours of the control centers, two booths filled with light displays, communications equipment and controls to open and close all of the main doors, the three cell pods which will house inmates and the support facilities needed to care for the inmates.

The formal grand opening of the new jail will be held on July 1, sheriff's department spokesman said. The building still has not been accepted by the county, although that action is scheduled for the next two weeks, Saunders said.

Saunders, who has been administrator for close to a year, says the jail has a few design problems due in part to bad planning and in part to cuts made in the budget.

Money problems have left the three exercise yards sodded instead of paved. Saunders says he had to fight to even get the sod after asphalt was cut out as too expensive.

Most of the cells with toilets and sinks have china fixtures, not unbreakable stainless steel. Many of the cells do not have their own plumbing, meaning two of the three cell pods cannot be used to house maximum-security prisoners.

A combination of design and budget limitations left the maximum security cell block without electric locks, a step Saunders says will make it more difficult to lock the prisoners back in their cells.

All prisoners except a few who cannot be trusted out of their cells will be allowed free movement in their cell block most of the day. Cell blocks in the new jail are equipped with televisions and tables.

Saunders says corrections officers might have a harder time getting the maximum security prisoners into and out of their cells because of the lack of electric locks.

Designs drawn up two years before Saunders came to Seminole County left some of the offices too small for the jobs they were intended to do. But Saunders pointed out several places where workers were already making small improvements to rectify the problems.

Despite the shortcomings, Saunders says the new jail will serve as a model facility for the state and county.

Saunders says he currently is training state members how to operate the electronic lock control panels and intercom systems giving voice contact from almost any hallway in the facility to the control centers.

He also said he regards his guards as the best people to evaluate any minor bugs in the security system which could be improved before the inmates arrive.

A worker positions a table in the inmates' public area in one of the jail's two-tier cell blocks. The division of the jail into three pods of four independent blocks each will allow prisoners to be "classified" and separated into groups by crime, age and behavior.

Gov. Bob Graham has vetoed a bill limiting new liquor licenses for Seminole County, saying it gives an unfair advantage to people already running bars and package stores in the county.

The veto message, released Friday, is Graham's first on legislation passed during the 1980 regular session.

Graham said the bill "grants a further monopoly of licenses to a small group already owning a scarce commodity and denies the citizens of the county a fair opportunity to obtain a quota license during the next 10 years."

The bill would have reduced the expected 37 new liquor licenses allocated to Seminole County to 29, by adding one new license for every 4,000 new residents recorded in the 1980 census rather than one every 2,500 as called for by the state's beverage law.

Man Starts Animal Insurance Plan

By SYLVIA PALMER
 SAN DIEGO (NEA) — Behind every successful man, the pundits say, is a woman.

Bart Miller is successful, all right. But the real catalyst for his success is not his wife but his dog Riley, a Belgian terrier by breed.

Nearly three years ago, Riley, then a pup, took a tumble near a pool in Miller's backyard and sprained a leg. The resulting veterinarian bills started Miller searching for a medical-insurance program for animals.

Miller's idea was not entirely new. His investigations have shown that at least two major insurance companies tried such a program in recent years but failed.

"They failed for three prime reasons," Miller explains. "First, they covered death benefits, which, unfortunately, can allow for ripoffs.

"Secondly, they covered electives such as cosmetic surgery—having a dog's tail bobbed, for example. Lastly, they tried to get veterinarians to publicize the programs, and the vets were just too busy with their own work to be publicity agents, too."

Miller believes there is "a critical need" for pet insurance.

"Today to buy a pet costs a lot of money," he says. "And when you've bought that pet, you're not done spending money. You buy him a bed or a doghouse, buy food, toys, pay to have him groomed and checked regularly by a vet."

"Then your dog or cat gets hit by a car and it will cost you $200, $300, maybe $400 to have him taken care of by a vet. If the owner can't afford to pay that much, he unfortunately may have to have the animal put to sleep."

Unable to find one, Miller, a former restaurateur, formed his own program, Pet Health Support Inc., which he describes as a sort of "Blue Cross for pets."

Riley's leg healed long ago. Now he is a healthy, active dog. And Miller's new business is fast becoming just as healthy and active.

Inaugurated in March 1979, Pet Health Support already has more than 1,200 dog and cat clients signed up. The program has representatives in all major California cities, with the San Diego office serving as headquarters.

"We're also heading up nas actuarial data on dogs and cats," says Miller.

After the study was completed, the next step was to check with the state.

"We found there were no codes on the state law books to allow us to be an insurance company for pets," says Miller. "And since it would take too long to get such a code written, we decided to model ourselves after Blue Cross, which is really a trust."

"Our position is that you might as well protect that initial investment as long as you can."

Pet Health Support offers one standard policy to pet owners that covers accidents and serious illnesses. It does not cover elective such as cosmetic surgery.

Annual premiums range from $38 to $55 for dogs and from $28 to $44 for cats. Cats, notes Miller, tend to be healthier than dogs.

Animals accepted for coverage can range in age

Detective Won't Be Charged

Altamonte Springs Police Chief Justice East says it will be two weeks before he decides what to do with Police Det. William Doyle, based on information presented to him by State Attorney Douglas Cheshire.

Cheshire announced Friday that Doyle, investigated on charges of patronizing prostitutes and smoking marijuana, would not be charged with any crimes due to a lack of admissible evidence.

He said, however, that he was turning over all of his findings to East for a decision on possible departmental action.

East said he was leaving today for a state police chief's convention and would not get to the report until next week.

Last month, East asked Cheshire to investigate the three charges which had been made against Doyle, accusing him of patronizing a prostitute, smoking marijuana and trying to cover up an accident.

The Lake Mary City Council accepted the grant of $17,584 for the program which is to begin immediately and end on Sept. 30.

Grant said if it is found feasible, "money for as much as 85 percent of the costs of constructing a sewer system could be provided by the federal government. No Charity At Home? Lutherans Debate Handicapped

By DAVID E. ANDERSON... UPI Religion Writer... When the Lutheran Church in America meets in convention June 25-29 in Seattle, one of the key issues it will face is the role of the handicapped pastiors, seminarians and the dependents of pastors — in the church.

For a growing number of people, the dispute, some four years in the making, is a basic one, pitting the church's professed theology of justice and love for all people against the harsh economic realities of the world. Specifically, the delegates will be asked to decide whether to exclude handicapped pastiors, seminarians and their dependents from entering the church's private group health plan.

A proposal being sponsored by the 2.5-million member church's Board of Pensions calls for exclusion from the Ministerial Health Benefits Plan if such person has "pre-existing physical or mental conditions that... might result in a significantly higher probability of death than would be applicable generally to new members."

The argument for such exclusions is a financial one. Board of Pensions officials say that adoption of the policy will lower or keep low the health care costs for other members of the plan. In 1976, the Board of Pensions announced a policy of excluding handicapped children with pre-existing handicaps from the health benefits plans but did not exclude natural born children.

"We couldn't believe our ears," said the Rev. Steve Samuelson, a member of the national organizing committee for the Lutheran Coalition for Adoptable Children. "We were amazed that the church would even consider selecting out adopted kids, and telling them they don't count, when so-called 'natural born' do." Samuelson said. "We couldn't think of a single teaching of Jesus this exclusionary practice didn't go against."

In light of the decision, the Board of Pensions has decided to ask the Seattle convention to agree to a policy that excludes all severely handicapped persons. That leaves the convention with a simple but not easy decision: include all or exclude all handicapped people.

the Court of Judicature, the LCA's "supreme court." The court ruled that the health plan could exclude people from the plan on the basis of "accepted health insurance practices."

It said to exclude some and not others was discriminatory and that if the exclusions are to continue they must apply to all pastiors, seminarians, spouses and natural born children.

In light of the decision, the Board of Pensions has decided to ask the Seattle convention to agree to a policy that excludes all severely handicapped persons. That leaves the convention with a simple but not easy decision: include all or exclude all handicapped people.

supporting, and a caring friendship provided during the transition. The United States Government will pay one-way transportation to their destination; and provide $50 per person or $150 for a family of three or more as immediate relief.

There are four guidelines for any sponsoring unit to consider before making their decision: Housing for the refugees must be provided; assistance given to find employment for the breadwinner; food provided until these persons are self-

Churches Asked To Aid Refugees

Lakeland, FL (FUMI) — More than 300 Cuban refugees are sleeping in the streets of Miami, according to a report given June 16 by the Executive Director of Church World Service in Miami, the Rev. Mike Payck. These are people who, for various reasons have "drifted" to South Florida from other centers, and do not have families or relatives to claim them.

Church World Service to take two or three single persons as a unit, in lieu of a family unit. Now, due to the unfavorable news that has come out of some of the camps, the resettlement process is very slow. These trouble spots, however, represent only a small minority of the total refugee population that has entered this country.

The United Methodist Church in Florida is also very concerned about the Haitian refugees coming into the state, and wants to offer the same ministry to these displaced persons. Because of a temporary injunction of the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida, Haitians are restricted to the State; since they are not protected by law in other states, so, if they resettle in any other area of the United States, they can be arrested and deported.

Clery Lifestyle Under Question... The recent revelation in The Cleveland Press that evangelist Rex Humbard and two of his sons have bought three homes in Florida for $650,000 has raised the question "What is an acceptable lifestyle for a clergyman?"

Clery Lifestyle Under Question... The recent revelation in The Cleveland Press that evangelist Rex Humbard and two of his sons have bought three homes in Florida for $650,000 has raised the question "What is an acceptable lifestyle for a clergyman?"

With one exception, the President pastors I have talked with say the minister's lifestyle should be in keeping with the lifestyle of his congregation as a whole. A minority pastor offered the only dissent to that. He said the members of his congregation want him to "live better than they do."

One of the best-known Lutheran ministers in the country, Rev. Omar Stuenkel, pastor of Lutheran Church of the Covenant in Maple Heights, Ohio, says he leases a Chevrolet. Stuenkel is concerned that the image of the minister in the eyes of the public may be headed downward — like the image of the doctor — because of increased clergy demands for better retirement and travel allowances.

Stuenkel does not consider this a hardship. "We ministers are really very fortunate people," he says, "in that there are compensations other than financial ones in the ministry. Our satisfactions are not primarily the result of our income."

GUNTER GOES ON THE RADIO... Pastor G. K. Gunter of the Sanford Church of God signs contract to do daily broadcasts on Radio Station WTRR, Sanford, for Gladys Holzman. He will present "The Voice of Love" at 7:30 a.m. each Sunday and The Morning Thought at 7 a.m., Monday through Saturday.

YOUTH MINISTER... Ray Looney has joined the staff of Sanford Church of God as summer youth minister. The son of a minister he is from Winston Salem, N. C. and expects to graduate in December from Lee College, Cleveland Tenn. with a degree in music education and a minor in Bible. He has sung with his brothers in a trio, is a member of the Lee Singers and plays trumpet, bass horn, flute and piano.

Rojas Is Guest Speaker... Pastor Victor M. Rojas, missionary to a village of 10,500 inhabitants, since 1970, will be guest speaker at the 7 p.m. worship service this Sunday at the First Baptist Church, Sanford. Our Story: KING ARTHUR'S ILLNESS SEEMS ONLY TO HAVE CHEERED HIS ROGUE HALF BROTHER, MORDRED.

"I DISTRUST THE BOUNCE IN HIS STEP AND THE GLEAM IN HIS EYE," ALETA CONFES TO GAWAIN. "HE IS A HUNGRY JACKAL."

"AND THERE ARE SOME SHEEP IN THE SOUND TABLE," GAWAIN REPLIES. "EVEN NOW I FEAR MORDRED PLOTS AGAINST THE KING."

THE CONSPIRATORS GATHER ON MIDSUMMER NIGHT. "WHEN THE KING DIES, CAWELLOT DIES WITH HIM," MORDRED DECLARES. "GAWAIN CANNOT KEEP ORDER WITHOUT ARTHUR, AND PRINCE MORGAN IS FAR AWAY. IF WE MOVE SWIFTLY, THE KINGDOM WILL BE OURS."

"AND IF THE KING RECOVERS?" SOMEONE ASKS. "I HAVE NOT LEFT HIS MALLARD TO CHANCE," MORDRED SNIERS. "THORN APPLE, LANSLOUT, RONGLOVE--NATURE HAS BLESSED OUR FORESTS WITH MANY BEASTS AS PISCIOUS AS THEIR NAMES ARE QUANT."

"A PINCH OF ONE SENT KING ARTHUR TO BED. A FEW GRAMS IN HIS RIGHTLY TONGUE KEEP HIM THERE... AND WHEN THE TIME IS RIPE..."

LORD TRUEHEART IS UNBASY. "KILLING THE KING," HE STAMMERS, "THAT WOULD BE WISE!" MORDRED EYES HIM SARD'LY AS A DAGGERT SLIPS WITH DEADLY GRACE BETWEEN THE OLD WARRIOR'S RIBS. "A PRICKED CONSCIENCE IS A MORTAL WOUND," MORDRED OBSERVES. "I ASSUME THE REST OF YOU ARE WITH ME?"

DEAR FRIENDS:
Are you plagued with one of those curly telephone cords that seems to be getting shorter and shorter because it's getting more and more tangled? After finding myself fighting this problem for a long time, I finally had it out! And I won the fight! Guess how?

It's very simple and now I am making a habit of doing it every time I see that cord starting to get short. The simple trick is to unwind it!

All you have to do is hold the end of the cord at its base and let the receiver dangle. And it will unwind itself -- the same way you untwist a yo-yo. Takes but a few seconds and it sure makes my life a little easier. Give it a try and see what you think.

WATERING PLAN
DEAR HELOISE:
I have always had difficulty watering my violets without getting water all over the leaves and spilling some on the table or whatever the pot is on.

This afternoon, a thought came to me: why not insert a small funnel into the soil and pour the water through it?

I did just that and the water went down into the soil without getting on the leaves.

Now, I am going to try this on all my other plants, especially those with soil almost to the rim of the pot.

NO-IRON TIP
DEAR HELOISE:
I launder my lace tablecloth

in a mesh bag in the washing machine.

To dry, I cover the table with a plastic protective sheet, then spread out the cloth on the table in the position I want it to hang.

No ironing and no fuss!
Eleanor

WASTE NOT
DEAR HELOISE:
I like to use those handy non-woven cloths for washing dishes but, after laundering, they are too small and too thin to feel comfortable in my hand.

So, I sew two cloths together, running a line of stitching down the center or around the edges.

Really makes a nice-size dish cloth.

A SUPER STICKY IDEA
DEAR HELOISE:
Sometimes I have problems getting envelopes to stick. Stickers are too expensive to buy and have to be put on every letter.

So what I do is save scraps of adhesive-backed paper which my mom uses to line cabinets, etc. I cut out a flower or something in the size I need.

It's inexpensive and decorative at the same time.

AUNT EM RINGS THE BELL
DEAR HELOISE:
One for the youngsters... Cut a piece of string three feet long and tie a tablespoon in the center.

Wrap the ends of the string two or three turns around the index fingers, then hold those fingers in your ears. Gently let the spoon swing against the edge of a chair or low table.

You will be thrilled at the bell-like tones. Spoons of different sizes and material will produce varying sounds.

Equal Number Of Americans Over, Under Age 30

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The median age of Americans is now 30 years — up two years over the last decade because of a drop in the number of children and a sharp increase in the elderly population.

The bureau study also said that between 1970 and 1979 the population under age 14 decreased by 14 percent while the population of those 65 and older grew by 24 percent.

Other findings of the study based on samplings from the 1980 census: —More and more women have been delaying marriage. In 1979, 49 percent of women aged 20 to 24 had never married compared to 36 percent in 1970.

—Alternatives to marriage increased drastically. The number of unmarried couples living together doubled to 1.3 million and nonfamily households increased by 66 percent from one-fifth to one-fourth of all households. Nearly nine out of 20 of these consisted of only one person.

Population growth during the decade was greater outside metropolitan areas — 1.8 percent — than it was in and near the cities — 0.73 percent — although numerically, metropolitan areas still gained more people.

This means there are now an equal number of Americans over age 30 and under 30, the Census Bureau said in a report released over the weekend. It does not mean the average American is 30 years old.

During the same period, the study said, the post-World War II "baby boom" population of between 25 and 34 grew by 39 percent.

—Average income, adjusted for inflation, for women increased by 8 percent between 1970 and 1978 but dropped 2 percent for men.

—For the first time in history, the rate of

Robbers Kill Gas Station Attendants

MONCKS CORNER, S.C. (UPI) — Police say they have few clues in the slaying of three service station attendants who were robbed, abducted and shot to death, but authorities claim more than one killer was involved.

The bullet-riddled body of Louis Cakley, 35, was found Sunday sprawled by a country road, north of Moncks Corner, by a friend who joined police in the search.

The bodies of Kenneth Curtis Krause, 23, and Bill Spain, 28, were found Saturday in a wooded area south of Moncks Corner.

The three men disappeared last Thursday morning and police theorize they were robbed by killers who struck their gas stations at closing time.

All three bodies were discovered near U.S. 52. Both the Port Oil Co. station in North Charleston where Krause and Spain worked and the Texaco station in Moncks Corner where Cakley was employed are on U.S. 52, about 20 miles apart.

Ninth Circuit Solicitor Capers G. Barr III said all three had been shot to death, but declined to elaborate, saying it would hamper the work of investigators. He said there was "clearly more than one" killer involved.

Berkeley County dispatcher Raymond Jackson said late Sunday that investigators "haven't come up with anything yet. They're still out patrolling and investigating."

Cakley's body was found by Barney Mitchum less than five minutes after he joined the police search. Mitchum said he saw at least three apparent bullet wounds — "one in the left (pants) pocket, one in the left side and one in the lower throat or upper chest."

Investigators recovered two slugs, including one buried about a foot deep in dirt beneath Cakley's body. Barr acknowledged that officers found at least one slug with the bodies of Krause and Spain.

Mr. and Mrs. D.L. Grimes, who live about 100 yards from the spot where Krause and Spain were found, told investigators they heard what sounded like a series of five gunshots about 3:30 a.m. last Thursday.

Residents of the area where Cakley was found also told of hearing gunshots early Thursday, but said they were accustomed to hearing shots fired by hunters or vandals taking potshots at road signs in the rural area.

Transformer Fails At Hospital

Electric power at Seminole Memorial Hospital was off from 11:50 p.m. Saturday to 8:43 a.m. Sunday due to a transformer malfunction, but emergency generators took care of all necessary power needs until a new transformer was installed.

Florida Power and Light spokesman Scott Burns said the company does not know what caused the 750-kilowatt transformer to go out.

He explained that it could have been due to lightning earlier, but the unit was completely burned out.

"It's unlikely it was due to any overload," Burns said, "because it happened at a time of night a lot of things were not in use."

Nevertheless, a 1000-kilowatt transformer was installed as replacement. The cost was borne by the power company.

"I think they did an outstanding job to replace it in just those few hours," Burns added. "For us it was quite a chore."

JOB RUNDOWN! Dad, to sort employed for the first time: "Son, you haven't said much about your job. How do you like the work?" Son: "RETTB GNHTON GNID EKIL!" Read reply in cap letters from right to left.

Riddle-Me-This! Why couldn't the soldier make change for a dime? He was confined to quarters.

Sum Number! Cut off the head of a number that's odd. If then will even be. Next, we say, cut off its tail, a time of day you'll see. What number?

Tongue Testers! Say fast: Terence Tuttle's tennis team turned tense in the title test. The thud of therums lith a muthi in medithin.

GIVE MAGIC AWHIRL!

Place a small orange (or rubber ball) on the table. Cover it with a glass jar.

Now, challenge a friend to move the orange to another table, complying with these rules: 1. Orange may not be touched by hand. 2. Jar may not be used as a scoop. 3. Jar must be face down at all times.

Secret: Hold the top of the jar firmly. Rotate it rapidly so the orange spins inside. As the orange whirls, move it to the next table.

50 YEARS OF MEMORIES

Nellie Coleman of Sanford, Jack Robson from Jupiter, and Orlando's Dorothy Sands examine old pictures and newspaper clippings about the reunion of the 1930 class of Seminole High. About 40 of the graduates and their spouses gathered at the (lakefront) Holiday Inn Saturday night to talk about old times. Name tags were made with pictures from the class yearbook to help the grads remember each other as they were 50 years ago when they graduated from the school which is now Sanford Middle School.

Carter Eats With Monks Before Summit

VENICE, Italy (UPI) — President Carter broke bread today with Benedictine monks and then joined other leaders of the world's seven most advanced industrial democracies to discuss political and economic problems.

It was about his breakfast of milk, bread, cheese and coffee with the monks that Carter wanted to talk. "It was delightful," Carter told Trudeau at a picture-taking session. "They brought each one of (the monks) up to explain what he does."

The president said that after the breakfast, "they had a special prayer for me." "I told them I need a prayer," Carter said. During their first day of work, the seven heads of state and government and a delegation of ministers from Japan, agreed the Soviets should pay a continuing price for their invasion of Afghanistan and responded with skepticism to Moscow's pledge of a troop withdrawal.

In a strong joint declaration, Western leaders said any pullout will have to be permanent and complete — and condemned the Soviet occupation as unacceptable and said it "undermines the very foundations of peace, both in the region and in the world at large."

President Carter said he believes the surprise Russian offer was aimed not at cannot be dealt with satisfactorily until "our collective demand for oil" is cut. The leaders agreed not to build any electrical generators based on oil as the primary fuel "save in exceptional circumstances," and say they will accelerate fuel economy of automobiles by gasoline pricing and taxation measures.

The draft said if these measures are put into effect, the nations will be able to reduce the share of oil in their total energy demand by 1990 from 53 percent to 40 percent.

But politics took front stage. The summit allies that have backed the boycott — Canada, Japan and West Germany — said they "vigorously reaffirm their positions."

Today's two concluding sessions were to be heavily laced with world politics, even though this sixth annual summit of the world's largest industrial democcracies ostensibly is an economic forum. UPI obtained a copy of the draft final communique that all seven leaders have accepted save for minor revisions. They agree to intensify the search for alternative energy sources, pledge to double coal production in the next 10 years and to increase use of nuclear energy.

The Soviet announcement did not say how many troops were being withdrawn from a total force estimated to number 30,000 to 100,000.

Even the method of delivering the announcement appeared designed to split the alliance.

It was sent in a letter to French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, who met with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev in Warsaw last month. The other leaders learned about it from news dispatches.

Despite their favored treatment, Carrington said the French were "as cautious as anyone else."

Wilson To Appeal Ruling On Petitions

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Independent U.S. Senate candidate Lori Wilson said today she would ask a federal appeals court to overturn a ruling by a federal judge denying her request that independent candidates for the Senate be governed by the same regulations imposed on independent candidates for president.

"Under existing law, I must have 128,816 certified petition signatures, which totals 3 percent of the state's registered voters, by July 23 to have my name on the general election ballot," the former Florida state senator said today.

"An independent candidate for president only needs 42,172 petitions, which is 1 percent of the registered voters, by Aug. 15," she said. She said she would appeal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. She also called discriminatory a requirement she use petition cards supplied by the state while presidential candidates may use any form of petition and print petition forms in newspapers.
