LIVING IN SANFORD

A group of Sanford business men have organized and chartered "The Friendly Stores, Inc.," for the purpose of developing a system of chain stores in the retail grocery business. Within due course our operations will become state wide. Sanford will be headquarters.

The chain store idea is sound. It gives quality merchandise at lower prices, by reason of rapid turnover of stocks, large buying power, volume sales, cash transactions and reduced overhead expense.

For a very limited time you are invited by the directors to investigate our unique plan by which you may share in all profits and earnings of the corporation without ultimate cost to you. Your regular grocery budget points the way to become a shareholder in this sound business enterprise. We will be glad to call and explain the full plan to you, for we want your friendly interest in our "Friendly Stores." There is not the slightest obligation on your part. Your name and address on the coupon at bottom of page mailed to us is all that is necessary. Be sure to get this in the mail today as we are not making any campaign and this announcement will not appear again.

If you prefer to do so, just call the executive office of the corporation—phone 750.

Flanagans Set Up As New Greek Dictator In Bloodless Coup

 In June last year he showed some of the "unlimited nerve" with which he is credited as having. With a few adherents he seized the telegraph offices in Athens and compelled the operators to send messages throughout the country that he had overthrown the government.
 The messages demanded the support of the military and naval units, and these, not realizing the state of affairs, replied with messages of adherence. These messages were shown by Pangalos to the government.
 It is assumed that Pangalos had no intention of converting the Peramos into a ship of refuge, as Captain Colialex, commander of the torpedo-boat flotilla, who was in charge of the craft, was one of the pillars of Pangalos' policy.
Slight Resistance Offered
 The only attempt at resistance to the coup reported was a garrison of the military post on Mount Parnassus, near Athens. The opposition was short-lived, and the garrison surrendered without fighting.
 There is nothing to suggest that the revolution was actuated by a desire to restore the monarchy of King George, who for some time has been in England. He was forced to abdicate in December, 1924.

FLANAGAN BOUND OVER TO COUNTY COURT BY JUDGE

 "I'm not in the holdup game. If I was, I would be better off than I am. Those holdup men made money while they worked here. They suspected me, because I was in a disguise."
Negro Released By Police
 The negro's story to Police Chief Williams resulted in his release Sunday. He admitted he was a stranger in Sanford and was looking for the railroad station when he met Flanagan. He said he was "broke," and Flanagan asked him if he was a "nearly negro," according to the negro's story to Chief Williams. The negro said he wasn't, and he was asked to "bump off" a white man for a piece of money, the negro alleged.
 The negro refused to do the job, he told Chief Williams, and Flanagan insisted that he should. The conference was broken up by the arrival of the police.

COUNTY BOARD IS TO DECIDE CANAL ACTION AT MEET

 Commissioner said, "The law passed by the legislature declared that the commissioners of the Upper St. Johns shall assess and shall collect the taxes and turn them over to their treasurer. Where do we come in?"
 Commissioner Steele stressed the statement:
Denies Board Agt. at Canal
 "It is not true that the Commissioners are opposed to the canal. Those who say that might take the trouble to find out. The Commissioners have not yet decided to take the case to the Supreme Court. I'm against taking it to the Supreme Court, and I also know of another commissioner against the plan."
 In the event the commissioners vote against the court decision being reviewed, the board will then order the four mill tax levy assessed against property in Seminole County, it was said.
 The four mill levy was made by the commissioners of the canal district last month, but Alexander Vaughn, county assessor, refused to carry on and extend the levy on his rolls, and the county commissioners declined to recognize the act. This decision was made after George A. DeCottes, county attorney, gave a requested opinion that the canal act was unconstitutional.
 The canal commissioners asked for a writ of mandamus to compel the county commissioners to recognize the act, and it was made absolute when Judge Wright overruled the respondents' demurrer to the petition.

 tion of allowing that hard won heritage to be dissipated or left at the mercy of a still unsettled world. They have just a firm determination to discourage and defeat those who would start any useless conflagration and threaten the peace of the world.
 "The fact that the American Legion is leading the fight for universal war service legislation should be conclusive proof that the service man generation not only wants peace, but that he intends that we shall have it. Yet there exists a strange delusion among our dealers, the professional pacifist, that every one of us who has ever gone to war is busy trying to concoct another such catastrophe."
 "Look over some of the brethren who object to the Legion's course. They reserve their battle energy to fight for the bugaboo of preparedness in time of peace."
 "Every man who has served with the colors knows that our little army and navy have nothing to do with the declaration of war. The Legion helped write the national defense act into the law of the land. It embodies the bitter lessons we learned in the Great War."

 His stand on the immigration question was summed up in a speech as follows: "We were all foreigners a little while ago."
 His advice for longevity was "A habit of taking daily exercise in the open air, moderation in eating."
 "Exercise should be taken regularly, though always in moderation," he advised. "One of the chief objections I have to competitive games so popular nowadays is that they tend to over-exhaust the player."

Buying Property Right--

Making a "good buy" is often merely a matter of securing property not by a price lower than the immediately surrounding property, but by purchasing location.

The cheapest land in the world is that for which no future can be seen. Land located directly in the path of rapid and substantial growth is a good buy providing the price is within reason.

Sanford Grove is located directly in the path of the growth of the residential section of Sanford. Study your map and see for yourself that only one direction remains for the people who want exclusive homesites at reasonable prices.

Pleurisy Fatal To Rudolph Valentino, Original Film Shiek

He immediately, in a letter to the newspaper, challenged the anonymous editorial writer to a duel "American fashion," first to replace the raiper. On arriving in New York he told in detail his intentions if ever he met the writer. Identity of the writer was not revealed, however, and the duel failed to materialize.

The cause of death was given officially as septic endocarditis, resulting from the double operation.

Last rites of the Catholic church had been administered at 10 o'clock by Father Joseph M. Cangello of the Church of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and Mary, who is from the small town in Italy where Valentino was born and spent his boy- hood.

Father Leonard had heard Val- entino's confession and had granted him absolution yesterday when his condition took a turn for the worse.

Rose From Brass Polisher

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—(AP)—From a brass polisher and land- scape gardener to the heights of screen stardom was the stride made by Rudolph Valentino, film- land's "perfect lover," in his 13-year span of life in the United States.

The movie shiek was born in the Italian village of Castelloneta, May 6, 1895. His full name was Rudolph Adolfo Raeflo Pierre Filibert Guglielmi di Valentina d'Antonguella. His mother was the daughter of a Parisian doctor, Pierre Filibert Barbier, who was a captain of Italian cavalry and later a veterinary doctor.

When Valentino was 11 his father died and the future screen lover matriculated at Dante Alighieri college. Finishing there at the age of 13, he entered the military college del la Bapionza at Perugia. From this school he was sent home because of breaking discipline to see the king, who was visiting the school.

Failed To Pass Naval Exams

Next he went to Venice to try for the naval examination but failed there and returned home for a year. He next entered the military academy at Genoa from which he was graduated at the age of 17 with the degree of doctor of agri- culture.

Finding farm life little to his lik- ing, he drew all the legacy coming from his father and went to Paris

Man Kills Girl, Then Turns Gun on Himself

CLARINDA, Iowa, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A quarrel over the sale of a restaurant is believed by county authorities to have been the cause of the slaying of Miss Elsie Bengt, formerly of Maryville, Mo., by Thomas E. Anderson, traveling, who then committed suicide.

The bodies of the 18-year-old girl and Anderson were found in a cornfield near here yesterday by authorities who went to the place to investigate circumstance sur- rounding an abandoned automobile.

Residents of Clarinda believed the girl owned the restaurant, but the papers in Anderson's pockets showed him to be the owner. No inquest will be held, the coroner said.

Examination of the bodies re- vealed a wound in Anderson's temple, while the girl had been shot three times through the abdo- men and once in the chest. A .22 calibre pistol was found in Ander- son's hand.

Samoa Island Row Over Ownership Of Narrow Strip Goes To U. S. Court

APIA, Samoa, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Congressional action annexing Swain's Island, a three mile long speck in the ocean 250 miles from here, to American Samoa has brought up in the high court here an old suit to determine its own- ership.

Eighty years ago the coral atoll bore a few coconut palms. About that time it was settled upon by Salu Tyrell, a Frenchman, who built houses and established a boiling down station for render- ing copra into oil. Tyrell married a Tokelau woman.

In 1856 Tyrell and his wife went to other islands to buy coconuts, leaving behind an eight year old son.

During their absence, Eli Jen- nings, an American citizen, with two other white men and some is- landers landed on the opposite side of the mile lagoon from Ty- rell's settlement.

The native in charge sent the boy, Kalofa, across in a boat as evidence that the island belonged to a white man. Jennings, how- ever, insisted upon erecting build- ings and informed the natives that Kalofa would be adopted by him as his son. JANET

I have found no charm in gold like the light in Janet's eyes. Through she is but four years old, her smile, contentment, lies, things that no one can steal. Fairer than those cheeks aglow, this great world holds many things. Man is eager to possess, but the richest of them brings no such lasting happiness. No such wealth of honest pride as this baby at my side.

Jewels owned grow commonplace, glory once achieved turns stale, but my Janet's lovely face holds a charm which cannot fail, and the music of her voice makes my weary heart rejoice.

Little bud that soon will flower, now you cannot know or guess that you hold within your power all the dreams of happiness. By your love and by your worth you are the richest man on earth. —Eliza A. Guest.

Better Know Just What You Have

Asked how often she had visited the home of her negro nursemaid a Florida mother of three children thought the question was some sort of a joke and laughed right merrily. Seriously pressed for an answer, the mother opened her eyes in alarm and stammered, "What, what is it? Why I don't even know exactly where Mandy lives."

Her interrogator quickly answered her, that she didn't know either, where Mandy lived, nor did she know Mandy. She asked the question to bring up the subject of protecting homes, especially protecting the little children, against diseases carried by negroes from unknown homes.

The speaker had some data on the subject, too. Her only child died from scarlet fever brought on the clothing of a devoted nurse-girl. The nurse-girl's little sister had the fever. There were no regulations by the health board that applied to "Colored Town," and the little white girl died.

Sometimes you hear people oppose the expenditure of public money for the improvement of sanitary conditions in colored settlements. Sometimes you hear people grumble their objections to all improvement measures that carry benefits to negro families. Yet many of these objectors depend upon negro servants for their cooking, for the care of their children, and for their laundry and cleaning work.

The Herald knows of one instance where a man went after his family's laundry, as it was to go into a trunk to be shipped that day. It had been the custom for the laundress to send the clothes home by one of her boys and this was the first time the man had been in the cabin. He found the clothes all nicely ironed lying in neat piles on a bed in which lay a pitiful old woman in the last stages of tuberculosis. She had a violent coughing spell as the man stepped into the room. He could see the sputum fly over these freshly ironed clothes.

This was an unusual case. But people often don't know anything about the home surroundings of the people with whom they associate in an intimacy only second to that of their own family circle.

Nurse-girls taking care of little children certainly should be free from communicable diseases and should not be carrying disease from the place they call home. Only, indeed, through cooperation, friendliness, and the exercise of commonsense can "White Town" and "Colored Town" work together with mutual safety.

That mother who was asked if she knew what sort of a home Mandy came from was handed a question that by no means could be classed as "funny." Every mother employing nurse-maids should be finding out just what she has provided for her children's welfare.

A Good Example for Florida to Follow

With Florida's fast growing trees and shrubs, this state could use to great advantage Maryland's plan for getting rid of the unsightly billboard. Upon the recommendation of Maryland's State Forester, F. W. Bensley, that state has set out to systematically hide billboard advertisements with growing trees and shrubs.

In the winter time Maryland's trees will shed their leaves and the billboards will have their day, but during the summer and fall—after the trees have reached a goodly size—motorists can enjoy the Maryland roads with never a full view of an unsightly sign, since that state forbids the erection of advertising signs on roadsides owned by the state.

In spite of Maryland's law against roadside advertising, the billboards are placed on private property abutting the roads, and the beauty of the drives is practically destroyed. Under the State Forester's plan, trees and bushes would be planted in front of every signboard, and even though the boards could not be completely hidden in this way their advertising value would be destroyed, and business concerns that have used them would soon see that they were unprofitable.

Florida's shrubbery grows so rapidly, and for twelve months in the year at that, it would seem that Maryland's example could be followed in this state with most satisfactory results. Hide the billboards, and boycott the advertisers, these two methods would bring reform a lot sooner than could any appeal to the aesthetic or the patriotic sense of advertisers who feel free to run beautiful scenery with their flamboyant billboards.

THE GLORY THAT PASSES

DEARBORN INDEPENDENT

Here is a price list of glory. It's furnished by a pawnbroker:
French Croix de Guerre $2.00
American Distinguished Service Medal 10.00
Belgian Croix de Guerre 2.00
French Legion d'Honneur 12.00
German Iron Cross 1.00
Mons Star (1914) 1.00
Mons Star (1915) .50
Italian War Cross 3.00

Some of those who earned these decorations with their blood are dead. Others bear scars they will carry all their lives, in lieu of the medals they have pawned for a few pennies. Others, maimed or blind or dying, are being out-oxlanked as best they can. A fanfare of glory accompanied the presentation of each of the medals. Troops were drawn up, bugles blown. A general read a citation of honor and pinned a bit of metal and ribbon on a proud breast. And before the presentation each represented some outstanding act of heroism, of gallantry, or sacrifice. Perhaps a life saved, or a life given.

But the fanfare and the glory are gone. The heroism is forgotten. In dark little corners of pawnshops the world over these symbols of sacrifice are lying, helplessly awaiting the day when they may be bought by a collector, or by some charlatan eager to pose as a hero. One wonders what princeling, mocking fate caused their once proud owners to dispose of them.

Signs of the grimest pictures of war are painted in the peace that comes after!

Girls, Get Married.
A New Quinine
Picking Bootleggers.
No Fear of Death.
BY ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright 1926, by Star Co.)

ROSAMOND PINCHOT, daughter of Amos R. E. Pinchot, niece of the Governor of Pennsylvania retires from the stage. Her father, who has common sense, allowed her to act and she had great success in "The Miracle." No longer "interested in acting," the earnest young woman is "looking for serious work."

SHE WILL find the best kind in matrimony. Tall, fair and as Nordic as Eric the Red, this young lady should realize that to remain unmarried is a crime.

WHAT WOULD "Bertha of the snows of yesteryear," amount to if she hadn't created Charlemagne? Who would know Nancy Hanks if she were not the mother of Abraham Lincoln, or poor Abrotonon, if her Thracian blood, Celtic undoubtedly, had not produced Themistocles?

YOUNG LADIES, act, dance, sing, run for office, fly, shoot lions in Africa, if you must. But get married and have children.

GERMAN SCIENCE asserts that a new drug called "Germanin" is absolutely certain cure for malaria. Tests in Africa where malaria is the lives of millions as it does in the United States show complete cures.

THE NEW coal tar product will be a blessing to humanity, although quinine, one of the few specifics of materia medica, has saved entire nations from extinction.

SOME BELIEVE that the downfall of Rome was due, not to dissipation and the blows of invading barbarians, but to the bites of the home grown mosquitoes.

QUININE WAS introduced into Europe by Jesuit missionaries from South America, who got it from natives of Peru. It was named for the Countess of Cinchon, cured by it.

MANY CONSERVATIVE doctors bitterly opposed its use. And many earnest Protestants denounced quinine as "an invention of the devil" because Catholic missionaries had introduced it.

WILL ROGERS, in London, tells Adolph S. Ochs, "You can't pick an American bootlegger out of a crowd. He will be the one that is sober."

IN OLD saloon days you could pick the owner of the saloon in the same way, also his bartender. Those that drank what they sold soon lost the saloon or the bartending job.

THIRTEEN THOUSAND British coal miners, yesterday returned to work with the old wages, and a one and one-half hour day. This probably means complete triumph in the coal strike for Premier Baldwin and organized capital. The latter has been generally triumphant since the war.

WARY THRENS men, breaks their will. Worry doesn't get tired.

THE BRITISH government's suggestion that the miners should work eight hours and get more pay seemed "reasonable" to progressive Britishers and Americans, too, that would die in six months if they had to work in a coal mine four hours a day. Seven hours underground is harder than ten hours in the sunlight.

AMERICAN TOURISTS travel "for to admire and for to see," also to visit dressmakers, milliners and get away from prohibition spent in France last year $23,100,000 a great deal of money and real money. It would be a pity if misanthropes, about a debt that may never be paid should make Americans uncomfortable as to cut off their yearly tribute to the French dress-making industry. We want France to prosper, and it is pleasant to have Americans leaving hundreds of millions in France by leaving back information.

ABD EL KRIM, COVRAGEOUS leader of the Rif, starts soon to Reunion Island, to remain in exile until he dies. Like Napoleon on St. Helena. The French good naturedly allow him to take a wife or two and other relatives. The French may take a boatload of chiefs and ordinary people from North Africa to Reunion Island let them look at Abd El Krim and report of home what happens to those that fight on the ground against flying machines.

A STUDENT in Heidelberg died after a duel. The police chief now will stop duels. Perhaps Germany's laws forbid dueling, but are not enforced. Our laws and constitutions of states forbid prize fighting and race track gambling, but don't interfere with either, because both are profitable.

SO WITH dueling. Heidelberg citizens protest that must go on, otherwise students will stay away from Heidelberg and merchants will lose money.

THE FRENCH saying, "seek the woman," should be changed in some countries to "seek the dollar."

EVIDENTLY THE GENERAL CAN'T READ

NOT EVEN A CUP OF COLD WATER

COLUMBUS, GA., ENQUIRER SUN

Federal Judge Shepard, of Pennsylvania, Fla., holding federal court in Brooklyn, N. Y., recently, was quoted by the New York World in charging the grand jury as having commented as follows on previous lawlessness:

"If there is to be any respect for law the courts must do their duty. It is because there are courts that we now have more respect for law, not only in New York, but throughout the nation."

"As long as there are persons high in political and social standing willing and able to intercede for criminals, to have their sentences mitigated or to set them free, there will be increases in disrespect for the law and an increase in lawlessness."

Judge Shepard is striking at the progress we should toward criminals, to have their sentences mitigated or to set them free, there will be increases in disrespect for the law and an increase in lawlessness.

Judge Shepard is striking at the progress we should toward criminals, to have their sentences mitigated or to set them free, there will be increases in disrespect for the law and an increase in lawlessness.

It does appear that to arouse marked sympathy for a man he must get into the toils of the law. Then everybody discovers what a fine character he is and what a great wrong is being done by locking him up. The Florida judge has given to tender-hearted folk something to think about in this observation.

The attention that is given high-handed criminals after they have been caught in the toils of the law is in striking contrast to that accorded to many, many persons of humble station in life, but who are in all respects worthy of aid and comfort. Many a man and woman, honest and clean, yet without means necessary to give them even the necessities of life are dying daily in want throughout the country, and the one who are so ready to lend a helping hand to convicted criminals do not so much as give them a cup of cold water.

If such people want to show a sympathy and sweetness of spirit highly commendable, they should find about their own doors where they will find abundant opportunity for doing something for worthy and deserving humanity. They will not have to go far before they will find much they can do to alleviate suffering and want; and in doing this they will be rendering a real, Christian-like service. One certain like way is to support the local Welfare Bureau which the people of Columbus are neglecting to do.

AN INSTITUTION

ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

Walter Johnson has just begun his twentieth season as a major league baseball pitcher. In his long service he has established many records and stamped himself upon the public consciousness as an ideal sport-man.

In 1913 he pitched 56 scoreless innings which stands as a world record and is twelve months better than Ruelbach's old mark. He has struck out 3,101 batters, surpassing by more than a thousand "Christy Matthews' big total which stood at Chicago in May, 1924. He fanned six men in one inning, two in the third inning, three in the fourth and one in the fifth. In 1919 he won 16 consecutive games. Six times he led his league in games won. And in 1922, after some of the "experts" had described him as "through" he pitched a no hit, no run game against Boston.

Never in all his work on the diamond has Johnson been guilty of a pitched out an umpire's decision. Always courteous and self possessed, he has played his game to the top of his bent. Modest, utterly unspoiled by adoration of the public, he stands out as an illustration of the heights that can be reached by a gentleman in professional sport.

Johnson has worked for the Washington team ever since he came up from the bushes, and the feeling of the Capital fans for him is nothing short of adulation. Every time he takes the mound they give him an ovation.

The good that such a man does is incalculable. He has an effect upon the principles and ideals of every American boy who goes in for baseball. His success, popularity and good health after his many years of hard work on the diamond impress upon the youthful mind as nothing else could the fact that fair play and clean living are the stuff of which victory is made. Johnson is not only a great ball player; he is an American institution.

A SONG AT TWILIGHT

TAMPA TIMES

This is a lesson in direct counter Americanization. It is commended to the cynical young gent who keeps his hat on when the flag goes by. There didn't happen to be any flag on that street corner, but after all the flag is, but the visible symbol of the Spirit of America and the spirit was there.

You can locate that street corner yourself. There used to be a saloon there. Maybe they peddle moonshine there now. We know not. A little Salvation Army band was concluding an open-air service. An unusual number of children were in the audience. The Salvation Army leader removed his hat and said "My darling I want everybody to join with us in singing 'America,' and then bow your heads while I ask God's blessing on our country."

The men in the band opened their caps and struck the opening chords of the familiar song. Before it was finished almost every man and boy in that impromptu audience stood uncovered and some of them were singing.

The crowd was gathering. A few minutes before, in camp and fort all over the country, the flag had fluttered down before unformed ranks drawn up at attention. No man who has witnessed that ceremony forgets the sacred ceremony of that sunset hour.

Yet that impromptu tribute on a street corner some way struck a kindred chord of patriotism. As the leader finished his prayer and the men and boys put on their hats and the crowd broke up, one felt that he had received a very impressive lesson in Americanization, and that he was the better for it.

Perhaps you will remember that part of their work, also, the next time the fiasco passes the tambourine.

EXPERIENCES OF 1ST TRIP THROUGH EVERGLADES ARE GIVEN HERE

By L. CHURCH

Sunday morning we decided to throw away everything we could dispense with so as to make room in the boat for the sick man. We had hardly gone a mile when our channel gave out and we had to pull through the grass. This day we had no dinner, as we had determined to camp early and have dinner and supper together at about four in the afternoon. The island we were making for seemed almost unapproachable from the narrow strait that surrounded it on all sides, and we had to go two miles around to make one forward. About noon Mr. Ingraham climbed onto a little bush and declared that with the aid of a telescope he could see a small house on an island some distance from us. We had hoped to see a few huts, from many disappointments before we had reached the island.

A dozen or more fish jumped into our boat as we went along, one trout weighing I should judge about four pounds.

About four o'clock we made camp on a high dry land, which had a growth of hackberries on it. It looked as if it might have once been under cultivation. We also saw on this island deer tracks and were sure that we were mighty close to the land. Next morning we could distinctly see the thatched roof of an Indian hut on the neighboring island. This was the one that Mr. Ingraham had seen the day before. We started off in high spirits for the Indian camp but found saw grass on every side to impede us.

Just as we were about to force our way through the saw grass we saw an Indian in a canoe approach us. In a faintly there was the utmost confusion. All of the men wanted to meet the newcomer, even the sick man, nervously cheered by his presence. We

SANFORD VISITORS ARE HONORED AT PARTY GIVEN BY MRS. J. G. SHARON

Entertaining in her usual gracious manner, Mrs. James G. Sharon was hostess Saturday afternoon when she entertained at bridge at her home on Tenth Street honoring her house guest, Mrs. W. S. Jordan of Jacksonville, and a number of visitors to Sanford, including Mrs. Norma Kay McLaughlin of New York City, the guest of Mrs. Robert A. Newman, Mrs. W. J. Steed of Kennesaw, the guest of Mrs. J. G. Ball, Miss Rosa Gray of Laurens, S. C., the guest of Mrs. Albert P. Campbell, Miss Louise D. Cortes of Jacksonville the guest of Mrs. George A. DeCotter, Sharron honors with the visitors was Mrs. John R. McDonald who leaves Sept. 1 for Eustis.

The artistic color scheme of purple, gold and green was beautifully carried out with baskets of deep hood zinnias, golden marigolds combined with greenery.

Talks were in fascinating descriptions of summer girls, with the various shades of purple gowns were used in keeping scores for the card game. When these were collected, the prize for top score, an Italian cut work embroidered guest towel was awarded Mrs. G. F. Smith. In cutting for the consolation prize, also an embroidered guest towel, Mrs. George A. DeCotter was the lucky one. Mrs. Jordan was presented a lovely hand-painted basket as a gift from her hostess, while the other honor guests received dainty hand made handkerchiefs.

During the game, refreshing fruit punch was served, and after the prizes had been awarded the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Forrest Lake, Mrs. Raymond Key and Mrs. W. J. Thigpen served a tempting salad and ice cream.

The guests included only the most intimate friends of the guests of honor.

One Killed and Four Others Hurt in Riot in Mexico City Sunday

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 23.—(AP)—One federal soldier was killed and three students and one traffic policeman were injured when several thousand students started a riot at interscholastic athletic contests in the Mexico City Stadium yesterday.

Keen rivalry between the opposing groups of high school and college youths developed into a free-for-all fight during which stones were thrown.

Federal troops were called and fired into the air. This led to some spectators opening fire with their pistols. The soldier killed was struck by a bullet. One student received a bullet wound in one leg, while others were bruised by stones.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Gangsters' guns blazed again today, killing one and possibly fatally wounding another.

Two men walked deliberately up to the automobile of Michael Blain, 30, restaurant owner, and fired a fusillade that killed him. His wife, in the front seat with him, was unhurt, but Joseph Varonlou, 19, in the rear seat, was shot in the left lung. He may die.

The trio had attended a Stiefan celebration and had just gotten into the automobile when the attack occurred. The gunmen escaped.

Mexican Bandits Kill Two in Train Holdup

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Two passengers were killed and three seriously and several slightly wounded when bandits held an electric street-car running between Puebla and Cholula yesterday.

Five armed men boarded the car and forced the motorman to stop. Thereupon, about twenty bandits began firing into the car and afterwards entered it and robbed the terrorized passengers.

Some of the wounded are expected to die, including the motorman and the chief of police at Cholula.

Mr. Property Buyer--

Tell us about your wants—daily we are demanding real values with the result that we can safely recommend its purchase—

Keep in mind, always, that the House of Higgins, Smith and Wight will not recommend the purchase of a property that it does not believe is fairly priced—

We want to sell property—of course—we want fair priced listings—but every deal made in this office must be one fair to both the seller and the buyer.

A share of your business will be appreciated.
