Murder Charges Filed In Death

An 11-year-old boy was charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of a 3-year-old boy, William James Huggins, last Friday. The charges were filed in the local court, according to the Volusia County Medical Examiner's office.

The child's mother, Janice Huggins, was arrested by Sheriff's deputies Monday in the charge. She was in front of the child's home when the child died Friday afternoon, according to reports. Huggins is accused of beating the boy out of "frustration or irritation" as he lay on the child's home at 880 N. Main Ave. See MURDER, page 12A.

County To Appeal Annexation

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

An appeal will be filed in circuit court by Seminole County against the city of Sanford over the recent annexation of a parcel of land into the city.

But a county attorney said both sides will continue to seek resolution to the issue, through discussions between himself and a Sanford city attorney.

County attorney Nikki Clayton said the city acted illegally in annexing about 20 acres of county land near the intersection of Interstate 4 and State Road 46 on Aug. 11. Deputy county attorney Lonnie Groot attended the Sanford city commission meeting at which the annexation was approved, and asked the city to delay the action. The following day, the county commission authorized Ms. Clayton to take the city to court.

The commission decided not to fight two other city annexations of county land also approved at the Aug. 11 meeting.

The contested 20 acres is connected to a 230-acre tract the city annexed from the county last year. The county court challenge of that annexation is unresolved.

Ms. Clayton said the most recent annexation of land is "probably illegal" for two reasons. If the previous annexation is found to be invalid, then the newly annexed area will not be contiguous or connected to land within the city, and would thus create an island of city land surrounded by the county. If the previous annexation is ruled valid, then the latest acquisition surrounds a parcel which is governed by the county, creating an enclave, which is also illegal, she said.

Deputy county attorney Bob McMillan reported to the commission Tuesday that the city has asked the county to delay filing an appeal of the annexation. But one county

Sturm, Smith Meet

Seeking Cooperation Between City, County

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

The foundation for cooperative efforts between the city and county was laid by Seminole County Chairman Bob Sturm and Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith during a brief meeting Wednesday at Sturm's office in the county services building.

Rather than continue drawing territorial lines of battle, the two government heads hope to move towards establishing ongoing joint-planning efforts and possibly mapping out boundary limits for Sanford's future expansion.

The session was requested by Mayor Smith, acting on a suggestion City Commissioner Dave Farr made during last week's city commission workshop.

Farr's proposal that Mayor Smith and Sturm meet to discuss the governments' territorial tensions followed the county's recent decision to file suit over Sanford's latest annexation.

Annexations, in the form of voluntary requests from property owners, enable the city to expand its boundaries and tax base through acquisition of unincorporated county land. The county has contended some of these municipal acquisitions create irregular land patterns, in violation of annexation statutes requiring city boundary extensions to be compact and contiguous.

According to Sturm, it's possible the county's challenges of Sanford's land acquisitions could become a thing of the past if the governments work together toward establishing the extent of the city's future annexations.

The possibility of agreeing to define just how far Sanford's boundaries should ultimately reach into unincorporated Seminole County may come as a result of the concepts touched on during Wednesday's 20 minute session, Sturm said.

Sturm also said a follow-up to this meeting has been proposed for mid-September. During the interim he and Mayor Smith said they will be developing policy guidelines that may ultimately form the basis for a proposed interlocal agreement, to be presented to their respective boards.

Both he and Mayor Smith also said "compromise" will be the keyword for development of their policy proposals.

Burglary Ring Is Cracked

Sanford Trio Arrested

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

With the arrest of three suspects early today, Sanford police say they have cracked a major burglary ring which has plagued local businesses since July 13.

Eight establishments, beginning with Church's Fried Chicken, including the United Methodist Church on Park Avenue, have been hit by the gang and $20,000 in cash and goods stolen, police estimate. Except for the church, all of the businesses burglarized are on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford.

Two Sanford men and a woman have been charged with multiple counts of burglary, armed burglary and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony and theft. They were all being held without bond in the Seminole County jail today.

The case was broken at about 3:35 a.m. today when a Sanford policeman on patrol spotted a screen had been removed from a window at a Chinese restaurant on U.S. Highway 17-92. He radioed for backup, and within seconds several officers responded to the scene. The officers determined cinder blocks had been thrown through one of the restaurant windows. At the same time, officers checking the grounds discovered a woman hiding between an air conditioner and the west wall of the East Ocean Restaurant at 2520 U.S. Highway 17-92. It was the second time that restaurant had been burglarized, allegedly by the trio, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriott said today.

In the first East Ocean hit, thieves took about $16,000 from a safe and a stereo set. In the second, Harriott said, "They didn't get anything. We got them."

Receipt Of Gas Tax Accruals Imminent

County, Cities Will Get Over $5 Million

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County governments' receipt of over $5 million in local option gas tax accruals appears imminent through actions expected from the same city whose challenge caused a one year tie-up of the money in the state escrow account.

Ratification of a recently developed gas tax distribution proposal is contingent upon its adoption by the Altamonte Springs City Commission during a specially called meeting tonight, and that city's mayor said Wednesday he is confident the endorsement will be secured.

Altamonte Mayor Ray Ambrose reiterated the position even after it was pointed out the interlocal proposal maintains until 1987 the distribution formula that Altamonte challenged.

"We're still looking at the proposal, but I expect it will be approved," Ambrose said. "At this point we're anxious for the county and its cities to begin receiving the money and I see no reason to continue with it (the challenge)."

The interlocal agreement would implement a new distribution formula, beginning in January 1988, in addition to freeing the state-held monies. The state-held funds, and subsequent accruals, would be allocated until December, 1987 through the existing formula.

The four and two cent local option gas tax accruals have been held by the state while Seminole and its cities attempted to work out a mutually agreeable distribution formula.

The governments' efforts were prompted by the challenge Altamonte launched last August in opposition to the existing formula.

A number of distribution proposals were developed by representatives from the county and its municipalities and in the past they failed to garner sufficient support when presented to full commissions for adoption.

The state held accruals are now in excess of $5 million, and Altamonte's approval of the latest interlocal proposal would free these monies "almost immediately," Seminole County Deputy Attorney Lonnie Groot said.

Altamonte's approval will also give the interlocal proposal the necessary municipal population it needs for ratification, Groot said.

The distribution formula's implementation is contingent on approvals from city commissions whose residents represent at least 50 percent of the county's incorporated population.

The Sanford City Commission brought the population figure up to 47 percent with its endorsement of the proposal Monday night. Altamonte's endorsement would add another 26 percent to this figure, bringing it well over the requisite 50 percent population support, Groot said.

In addition to Sanford, the 47 percent population support was secured through city commission approvals from Oviedo, Lake Mary and Winter Springs earlier this month, Groot said. Longwood and Casselberry opposed it.

The new formula would distribute the six cent gas tax accruals through a fixed 63.6 percent for Seminole County, and the 36.4 balance would go to cities on a floating basis, determined each year by the amount of municipal funds they have expended for road needs during prior last five years. Gas tax accruals spent on road needs

Ballot Test Scheduled

Automatic ballot tabulating equipment will be tested Friday, in preparation for Tuesday's primary election.

The test, which is open to the public, will be conducted "to show the equipment is operating accurately," according to elections office manager Caryll Cohen. She said the test is required by law.

"This is the usual procedure before an election," Ms. Cohen said.

The test will be conducted in the County Services Building, 1101 East First Street, Sanford, Room N249, at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

County elections supervisor Sandy Goord projects more than 36,000 county voters will go to the polls Tuesday. Ballots will be cast from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. at the county's 93 precincts.

Labor Day Closings

City, County, State and Federal government offices in Seminole County will be closed Monday for the Labor Day holiday.

School Board offices, Seminole County schools, banks and post offices will also be closed.

The Casselberry and Sanford Branch libraries will also close Monday and the Bookmobile will not be operating.

In Sanford, there will be no garbage collection on Monday and those whose refuse is normally picked up on Monday will have it collected on Tuesday and Tuesday's schedule will be followed on Wednesday.

There will be no garbage pickup in Altamonte Springs and refuse will be collected on the next regular day.

Cement Worker Crushed In 'Freak' Truck Accident

A 34-year-old Cocoa man was killed at a CODISCO industrial park construction site in Sanford Wednesday morning when a truck backed into him, pinning him to another truck from which he had just poured cement. Sanford police said.

The man had reportedly walked around to the rear of the cement truck to secure a piece of equipment when a 20-foot long service truck driven by a Sanford man backed into him. The dead man was identified by police as David Harrison Hoadley, 2600 Clear Lake Road, Cocoa, employed by Commercial Carrier Construction of Auburndale.

The other truck, which firemen said carried fuel tanks, was driven by James Fredrick White, 43, 175 C Wayside Drive, Sanford, employed by Briar Construction and Paving Co.,

Longwood. The victim received massive internal injuries to his chest and abdomen, rescue workers said. He was pronounced dead at the scene by the Seminole County medical examiner, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriott said.

The incident reportedly occurred around 7:30 a.m., although a call for emergency assistance came 15 to 20

California Lawmakers Approve Anti-Apartheid Divestment Plan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The California Legislature has approved one of the strongest anti-apartheid measures in the nation — the divestment in four years of $11.4 billion in state funds from companies doing business in South Africa.

"California today sent a clear, unequivocal message to the racist government in South Africa," Republican Gov. George Deukmejian said in a statement after the Democratic-controlled Assembly approved the bill Wednesday.

Controllers: Tests Clear Them

PALMDALE, Calif. (UPI) — Air traffic controllers reassigned during an investigation into off-duty drug use demanded immediate reinstatement, saying their reputations were besmirched although independent tests vindicated them.

Twenty of the 34 controllers assigned to desk jobs last week at a Federal Aviation Administration regional center have been cleared by the urine analysis tests, a spokesman for the controllers said Wednesday. The other tests had not been completed.

Kathy Heet, one of the reassigned air traffic controllers, said she was not aware of any controllers who use illegal drugs and complained that reputations were permanently harmed by the investigation.

An FAA spokesman would not comment on the controllers' statements or the independent test results, saying findings from the official investigation into alleged off-duty use of cocaine and hashish will be announced later this week.

Fewer School Strikes Predicted

Teachers demanding higher wages planned to picket in Illinois and Pennsylvania today, extending summer vacation for more than 16,000 students, but national union officials predicted fewer teacher strikes this year.

Classes were idled for 10,700 students in three separate school districts in Illinois and for 5,431 students in two Pennsylvania districts.

Officials of the National Education Association, which represents 1.8 million teachers, and the American Federation of Teachers, with 630,000 members in the nation's largest cities, said Wednesday they expect fewer strikes than last year, when there were walkouts in 52 school districts.

Frontier-United Deal Collapses

DENVER (UPI) — United Airlines announced it has abandoned its attempt to buy the ailing Frontier Airlines, but a second potential investor has expressed interest in acquiring the subsidiary of People Express Inc. for $150 million.

United Airlines spokesman Tom Germuska said his company rejected a new offer from People Express Wednesday night and ended efforts to buy the Denver-based Frontier, which was shut down Sunday.

People Express said earlier Wednesday that it expected to file for reorganization of Frontier under Chapter 11 bankruptcy laws by the end of the day in Denver, but then resumed negotiations with United.

The bankruptcy court closed for the day with no filing. People Express spokesman Russell Marchetta declined comment on when the petition might be filed.

Graham Calls For Federal Aid, Names 'Crack' Task Force

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham Wednesday repeated his call for federal aid in fighting drug abuse, and announced the formation of a "crack" cocaine task force whose recommendations may determine whether Graham calls a special legislative session.

Graham named Miami state attorney Janet Reno to head up the 15-member Executive/Legislative Task Force on Drug Abuse and Prevention. Graham, House Speaker James Harold Thompson and Senate President Harry Johnston each named five members to the panel.

The task force will recommend action on the Legislature could take to fight drug abuse, including tougher penalties and funding more education and rehabilitation programs. The panel will make its first report by Oct. 15 and a final report by March 15, 1987.

Graham has said he will decide whether to call a special session to pass anti-crack legislation based in part on the panel's recommendations.

Mormons Expand In Florida

TAMPA (UPI) — The Mormon Church, which already owns the 300,000-acre Deseret Ranch near Orlando, has increased its Florida property holdings by purchasing more than 4,000 acres of farmland south of Tampa which has the potential of valuable commercial development.

Elliott Christensen, the church's manager of investment properties, said Tuesday the purchase is a long-term investment and was made because of the high-growth potential of the Tampa area.

It was purchased from members of the Council family of Ruskin for $20.4 million.

Robbery Suspect To Leave

MIAMI (UPI) — A man wanted for questioning in the largest robbery in British history has been given one week to leave the United States or he will be sent back to England.

Immigration Court Judge Keith Williams said Wednesday if John Robert Fleming doesn't leave the country a week, he will "favorably consider" an order to deport him to Great Britain.

Fleming has been linked to the armed robbery of $38.7 million in gold from Brinks Mat at London's Heathrow Airport.

Islamic Jihad Threaten To Kill Hostages If U.S. Attempts Rescue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Islamic Jihad organization today threatened to kill the American and French hostages it is holding in Lebanon if a military rescue operation is mounted.

In a statement issued to Western news agency accompanied by a black-and-white photograph of American hostage David Jacobson, the pro-Iranian group said all efforts to find the whereabouts of the hostages would fail.

Jacobson, the administrator of the American University Hospital in Beirut, was kidnapped by three gunmen near his office on May 28, 1985.

"We warn whoever is tempted to undertake a military or security stupidity to free the hostages that his fate and that of the hostages will be much worse than the fate of the Marines on the outskirts of Islamic Beirut," the statement said.

The statement was referring to the Oct. 23, 1983, suicide car-bomb attack on U.S. Marines headquarters on the southern outskirts of Beirut that killed 241 soldiers. The bombing was claimed by the Free Islamic Revolutionary Movement. "Let it be known by everybody that we will have no mercy ... and the punishment will be hard," the Shiite Muslim fundamentalist group said.

In addition to Jacobson, 54, of Huntington Beach, Calif., Islamic Jihad claims to hold The Associated Press correspondent Terry Anderson and Thomas Sutherland, dean of the American University of Beirut's agriculture school.

Anderson, 38, was kidnapped March 16, 1985, and Sutherland, 54, was abducted June 9, 1985, both in Moalem west Beirut.

Islamic Jihad also has claimed responsibility for the kidnapping and killing of U.S. Embassy political officer William Buckley, 56, but his body was never found.

"We hold the ignorant American government fully responsible and we draw the attention of the hostages' families that we are not responsible for the hostages' lives after this statement," Islamic Jihad said.

The group also claims to have abducted four Frenchmen, including Marcel Fontaine, vice consul at the French Embassy, Marcel Carton, chief of protocol at the embassy, Jean-Paul Kaufmann, a correspondent for the French weekly magazine L'Evening du Jeudi, and Michel Seurat, a researcher at Beirut's Institute of Middle East Affairs.

The Islamic Jihad produced photographs March 9, 1986, that it said showed Seurat had been "executed" in revenge for a French policy bias toward Iraq over Iran. No body was found.

Text Of Threat

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Islamic Jihad organization today issued the following statement accompanied by a photograph of American hostage David Jacobson:

"In the name of God the All Merciful
"All the conspiracies and schemes that are being weaved today by the Great Satan through local and international mediums to discover the whereabouts of the hostages held by us will fail as they have in the past.
"Therefore we warn whoever is tempted to undertake a military or security stupidity to free the hostages and take the lives of the hostages as such were taken by the Marines on the island of Beirut."

"Let it be known by everybody that we will have no mercy and we will be indulgent in this and the punishment will be hard."

"And we hold the American government fully responsible and we draw the attention of the hostages' families that we are not responsible for the hostages' lives after this statement."
The statement was signed by the Islamic Jihad Organization.

official, expressed irony over the city's request, and noted that the city didn't listen to the county's request to delay the annexation at the Aug. 11 meeting.

An appeal must be filed within 30 days of an annexation, McMillan said, and commissioners repeated their desire to have the appeal executed. McMillan said the appeal will be filed to prevent the approval of the latest annexation until the previous 230 acre annexation is resolved.

He said that he will continue to discuss the annexation with Sanford city attorney William Colbert in an effort to resolve the argument.

Sanford Commission Approves 1st Planned Unit Development

proval, project construction will begin within the two years city ordinance requires for start-up of PUD projects.

Another P&Z recommendation was conditionally overturned by city commissioners Monday. The P&Z had opposed a multi-family 1 to multi-family 2 rezoning that would enable higher density residential development for phase three of the Northlake Village subdivision.

The P&Z's decision came at a public hearing last week, during which first phase subdivision residents opposed the rezoning. Northlake Village lies off Lake Minnie Drive, which accesses into U.S. Highway 17-92, north of Lake Mary Boulevard. The developer's request for construction of the project's 15 acre third phase would involve 20 apartment units per acre rather than the 15 per acre allowed under the MR-1 zoning.

During the P&Z meeting several of Northlake's first phase condominium owners opposed the rezoning and apartment construction. They said the development's increased density would decrease their land values and add to area traffic and drainage problems. Northlake's second phase, also to be completed. The same first phase residents were unsuccessful in their appeal on Monday to city commissioners, although commissioners' action did provide the residents with a second chance to argue their case.

Commissioners also said they would want staff to monitor the phase three development if it is approved. These efforts would be undertaken during the site plan review process and include requirements for proper drainage controls and the developer's possibly being required to conduct a traffic impact study. Simmons said.

Commissioners served on Monday as acting city manager, in Frank Facion's absence. Faison and Mayor Bettye Smith were among the city representatives who were in New York Monday and Tuesday for the Sanford wastewater management bond closing. Commissioner Milton Smith was out of town Monday on an unrelated matter.

Commissioners Dave Farr, Bob Thomas and John Mercer conducted Monday's session.

A third rezoning request commissioners were to act on was tabled Monday due to Thomas' employment with the Seminole County School Board. Because Mercer and Farr did not form a quorum, a rezoning request from the school board was continued until Tuesday when a meeting of the full city commission has been scheduled.

Proposed by the board is a rezoning from multi-family residential and single family residential to restricted industrial for surplus land located at the Crooms School of Choice. The two parcels are adjacent, with the larger being zoned for multi-family development.

The rezoning is being sought to increase the parcels' sale price and the resultant revenues would go for operation of the Crooms School, according to Seminole School Assistant Superintendent Benny Arnold.

The land lies east of Airport Boulevard, south of McCracken Road and north Academy Manor. The school board has a potential buyer for the parcels, although he has not specified his development plans, according to School Board Construction Director David Speer.

During a public hearing last week the P&Z endorsed restricted industrial rezoning for only the multi-family parcel. The smaller lot would remain under single family residential zoning and its location would serve as a buffer area between the larger parcel and the Academy Manor Community.

Three Academy Manor residents had opposed both rezonings during the P&Z session. They said allowing the land to be developed for industrial use would impact their residential community. They also said the potential buyer's unspecified plans for the parcels troubled them.

Test-Ban Dead End

Let's suppose the United States and the Soviet Union had agreed 20 years ago to halt all testing of nuclear weapons...

Two decades ago, the superpowers' arsenals comprised warheads with nuclear yields much greater than those atop today's missiles...

In earlier years, there was legitimate fear that bombs would fall into the hands of terrorists, or be launched by a deranged military officer...

Imagine that today's nuclear stockpiles are at least 20 years old, that they have begun to deteriorate with age...

After thinking through the consequences of a test ban, it is hard to see Mr. Gorbachev's unrelenting campaign for a permanent moratorium...

Yet, the political appeal of the Soviet leader's call continues to seduce Western public opinion...

Although the test-ban sideshow detracts from serious arms talks in Geneva, it is certain to attract wide attention...

The Kremlin's latest extension of its unilateral test moratorium is a classic example of summit politics at work...

There are, however, more compelling military reasons to explain the Soviet desire to end American testing...

In the short run, Moscow hopes to delay the U.S. nuclear modernization program...

When They Say 'No More Vietnams', It's No Joke

More than a decade ago the last American was airlifted off the roof of our besieged embassy in Saigon...

The seemingly endless, counterproductive U.S. entanglement in the Indochina War left most Americans — citizens, politicians and soldiers alike — saying "No more Vietnams."

But with the emergence in the mid-1970s of an aggressive band of intellectuals called "neo-conservatives" — disillusioned liberals with a permanent ardor for cold-war strategy...

It was further argued that the "no more Vietnams" view was a dangerous threat to America and that the United States should be involved in future efforts to decide the outcome of Third World struggles despite our costly experience in Vietnam. Those who were critical of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam and who applied its lessons to other areas were accused by the neo-conservatives of perpetuating a "Vietnam syndrome..."

As one of those frequently singled out for criticism by neo-conservative interventionists, I readily confess to a strong aversion to Vietnam-type wars...

It is true that there are differences between Central America and Indochina. But as Senator Edward Kennedy has pointed out in a thoughtful analysis released on Aug. 11...

was advisers, then it was U.S. combat troops. It ended costing $156 billion, 58,000 U.S. men and women's lives and 153,000 casualties...

Twenty-two years later, Congress "is again being asked to give carte blanche to an undefined, ill-advised presidential request to send more money and more arms..."

I do not see how a person with any sense of history can read Senator Kennedy's statement without seeing some of the frightening parallels between our course in Vietnam and what is transpiring now in Nicaragua...

It should be kept in mind that the same people — from President Reagan on down — who are charting our deepening involvement in Nicaragua, were firm believers in the Vietnam War...

News From Chicago

CHICAGO (NEA) — "Chicago," says Studs Terkel, "is a metaphor for the rest of the country."

If this city's beloved raconteur and oral historian is correct, the nation can celebrate because Chicago finally has reputable political leadership after 21 years of Mayor Richard Daley's autocratic control...

After Daley died in 1976, his two successors as mayor made little effort to reform the municipal government and political apparatus devoted almost exclusively to perpetuating the control of those already in power...

Mayor Harold Washington, elected in spring 1983, was the first to seriously challenge the political organization maintained by Daley's proteges...

During that period, many of Washington's initiatives were thwarted in the 50-member city council. The mayor's 21 allies on the council were consistently outvoted by a block of 29 led by Edward R. Vrdolyak...

But the old-line organization blundered in its treatment of blacks and Hispanics, who in recent years have constituted an increasing proportion of the city's population...

Daley and his followers wrongly assumed that they would be content to remain subservient to whites and not insist upon their fair share of political power...

Late last year, however, a federal judge handed down a decision on a 1982 civil suit and ruled that seven city council districts had been constituted to protect the Daley machine...

Maintaining a Chicago tradition, the special elections held in those seven districts last spring were replete with gunshots, bomb threats, mud-slinging, suspected voting irregularities and court challenges of the results...

When the smoke had cleared, Vrdolyak's 29-21 margin had been pared down to a 25-25 division — with Washington holding the power to cast tie-breaking votes...

That brought an end to three years of frustrating, unproductive standoffs in which shrill rhetorical exchanges substituted for government action.

SCIENCE WORLD

On Elderly Patients

By Larry Doyle UPI Science Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Modern medicine is struggling to deal with a product of its own success: the elderly.

Thanks to better overall health care and a few scientific miracles, more and more people are living until they get old. They are also requiring more medicine and services as they do, but not the type the medical community was designed to deliver...

"Most hospitals were built in the 1950s," says Jan Shulman, a spokeswoman for the American Hospital Association. "At that time hospitals were seen primarily as providing diagnosis and treatment for acute illness..."

What remains, Shulman says, are injuries, pregnancies and "a lot of patients who are chronically ill. And many of those are elderly."

Those elderly tend to have a disproportionate impact. Although people aged 65 or older make up only 11 percent of the population, they take up more than a third of all hospital beds and account for 29 percent of all personal health care costs...

The U.S. Bureau of the Census predicts the number of people over the age of 65 will double in the next 35 years. And those in the 75- and 85-year-old age groups, the so-called oldest old, will triple or quadruple in size by 2035.

That means 45 million people over 65 by 2020 and 30 million people over 75 a decade later. Eight-five percent of those people will suffer from at least one chronic illness, a recent study indicates.

So hospitals will have to make more room for elderly patients, philosophically as well as physically.

"Our approach has tended to be directed at attacking a single problem, getting it fixed and then sending people on their way," says Dr. Harvey Cohen...

Cohen, also head of the Center for the Study of Aging and Human Development at Duke University, is one of the nation's leading authorities on health care for the aged. He is a leader in the development of special geriatric services at hospitals...

Older people tend to have medical problems not usually addressed at a hospital, Cohen says. Because of their often numerous physical ailments, they might be taking several drugs prescribed by different physicians...

Geriatric evaluation units and consulting teams are trained to deal with these specific medical problems, but their influence goes much farther.

"The approach to an older person demands a collaborative venture in a sense," Cohen says, "not only a physician looking at the patients from a medical sense, but we should be looking at that patient from the point of view of their social and economic status."

White House News...

By Ira R. Allen United Press International

This Saturday, President Reagan will make another in a series of several hundred five-minute radio addresses from his mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara.

It will probably rehash some topic he has been speaking about, or perhaps he will have a Labor Day weekend message about the nobility of the working man and woman.

But whatever he says, it is guaranteed to make news. He could start World War III or he could read the Beverly Hills phone book. Whatever he says will be featured on Saturday evening's newscasts and on most Sunday morning front pages.

Why? Because he is the president — and by every definition of news, what he says is deemed important.

But thanks to former White House press secretary Ron Nessen, now vice president of the Mutual Broadcasting System, that shibboleth is under question. Nessen recently ordered his radio network to stop carrying the speech live, on grounds that "it surrendered to the politicians what is the basic responsibility of the media — deciding what is and what is not news."

Nessen went on to complain that the Saturday speech, and a Democratic "response," are rarely newsworthy.

But when Reagan produced what Nessen deemed "real news" two Saturdays ago — denouncing the Democratic House for trashing the administration's defense budget, Nessen retaliated.

The speech was taped on the previous Friday because Reagan was to be en route to California at the scheduled broadcast time. Each network and print medium received either a tape recording or a transcript 20 hours in advance on the standard condition that it not be put on the air or in print until 12:06 p.m. EDT Saturday.

Nessen, seeing the "real news" value of this speech, put it on the Mutual network immediately, breaking the ground rules and incurring the wrath of Reagan spokesman Larry Speakes, who once worked for Nessen in the Ford White House.

Speakes threatened to put Mutual's White House correspondent "out of business" because "he'll have to figure out how to get his news some other way because he's not getting it from me."

technique was described in the Latvian-language newspaper LAIKS, published in New York:

"Lately, young army reserves (in Latvia) have been awakened in the middle of the night by surprising knocks on the door. There stands the militia with a list of names and orders that the reservists must leave immediately. ... Later, friends and relatives have learned that the reservists have been sent to work at Chernobyl."

Since that ominous report in June, LAIKS publisher I. Spilner said the press-gang recruiting tactics have softened a bit. "In the beginning it was very secretive," he said. "Now it's a heroic campaign: 'Everyone must participate!'"

Spilner said the health hazards of cleaning up Chernobyl are never mentioned specifically, though he has pictures and reports of daily hosing down of living areas and trees to prevent buildup of radioactive dust at the Chernobyl work camps.

Woman's Phone Calls Lead To Arrest

A woman nabbed by Casselberry police as she allegedly made harassing telephone calls to the owner of Casselberry Furniture insisted on being arrested even though the victim, Leroy M. Long, was not going to press charges.

Casselberry police reported they tried to explain to the woman that she wouldn't have to be arrested, but they said she insisted.

The woman is accused of first trespassing at that store at 3298 S. U.S. Highway 17-92. When police told her to leave she allegedly went to Foley's Amoco, 2995 U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, and between 10:19 a.m. and 11:35 a.m. Tuesday allegedly made six threatening calls to the store.

Assistant Casselberry Police Chief Win Gates said Wednesday that the calls were apparently the result of personal problems between the suspect and the victim.

After the woman left the store Tuesday morning a policeman stayed there and another went to the service station where the suspect was reportedly using a pay telephone.

The policeman at the store answered the final call and the policeman at the service station confronted the suspect and reported that the other policeman at the store was the person the suspect had just been talking to and he was still on the line.

Long said he wouldn't press charges, but the woman allegedly insisted that she be arrested. Carol Burns Anderson, 50, of P.O. Box 1149, Fern Park, was charged with making harassing telephone calls at 11:56 a.m. Tuesday. Wednesday she remained jailed in lieu of $100 bond.

Court Rules

Artist's Strider Not Movie-maker's Walker

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal appeals court has ruled that there was no evidence that movie maker George Lucas stole the idea for the camel-like machines known as "Imperial Walkers" in the film, "The Empire Strikes Back."

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a lower court decision Tuesday in favor of Lucas. It ruled graphic artist Lee M. Seiler failed to produce evidence that he created the fearsome war machines prior to the 1980 motion picture, which was part of the popular "Star Wars" trilogy.

Seiler claimed that in 1976 he created and published creatures called "Garthian Striders," nearly identical to the "Imperial Walkers" in Lucas's film.

Seiler obtained a copyright in 1981 on the Striders, depositing "reconstructions" of the originals with the copyright office.

He said the originals were lost or destroyed after heavy rains damaged the drawings while they were stored under his former Mendocino County home.

U.S. District Court Judge William H. Orrick ruled that Seiler had destroyed the originals "in bad faith" and refused to allow Seiler to admit the reconstructed copies to prove his case.

The appeals court upheld the ruling that the copies were not valid proof.

Shot By Own Gun, He's Suing Store That Sold It To Him

James James is suing over a gun problem — not the legendary outlaw — but a Sanford man who claims he was shot by his own Saturday Night Special.

James James, 21, of 211 Palm Place, has filed the suit against Wal-Mart Stores claiming the store sold the gun to him even though he was not legally old enough to buy it when he did in October, 1985.

James is asking for unspecified damages in excess of $5,000.

According to the suit, James purchased the gun at the Wal-Mart Store at 3853 Orlando Dr., in Sanford. He states in the suit he used his driver's license as identification to buy the gun. The license, he says, clearly showed he was under-age at the time, that is 20-years old, and not legally old enough to purchase the .22-caliber pistol. You have to be 21 to purchase guns, according to the suit.

He says in the suit that a store clerk and assistant manager looked at his license that showed he was under-age but sold him the gun anyway.

On Oct. 12, 1985, James states he was shot by his own gun and wounded. Sanford police reports say he was found shot in the stomach a few feet from his car in a bank parking lot around 7:30 p.m. No foul play was suspected and the wound apparently self-caused.

He maintains in the suit the department store was negligent in selling him the weapon.

He states he has suffered pain, disability, medical expenses, mental anguish, loss of the capacity to enjoy life, and faces the possibility of future complications and shortened life span.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge Dominick J. Saffi. No hearing date has been set.

around inside a car. He had also "given a hard time" to a store clerk, police reported.

As police continued to talk to the suspect's neighbors the suspect rode by in a car driven by someone else. Police stopped that car on Broadmore Street at Clermont Road at about 8 p.m. Thursday.

They reported seeing a knife near the suspect in the car and charged him with carrying a concealed weapon. He allegedly struggled when being handcuffed and spat and kicked when put into a patrol car. He was also charged with resisting arrest without violence and criminal mischief.

Daniel Charles Smith, of 218 S. Country Club Road, has been released on $500 bond to appear in court Sept. 5.

A 22-year-old Sanford man accused of participating in the forgery and cashing at Sun Bank in Sanford of 12 checks with a total value of $1,019 on the account of Carletha Merkeron, between July 29 and Aug. 3, has been charged with 12 counts of uttering a forgery.

The suspect reportedly received $80 of the money stolen. There are other suspects involved in the case, but they were

Woman Guilty Of Insurance Fraud

A woman who arranged to have her home burglarized then collected insurance money has been found guilty of insurance fraud.

Sherril Feinberg, 29, of 1163 Mapima Ct., Winter Springs, was found guilty after a two-day trial. Sentencing is set for Nov. 4.

According to court records, Ms. Feinberg agreed to pay a man $1,000 to take certain items from her home. She gave him a key to facilitate the removal and the man, with a rented vehicle, took the items.

Ms. Feinberg then reported a burglary occurred at her home Feb. 25 and that $3,200 worth of items had been taken. She was paid $5,397.29 by her insurance company.

Police, however, traced the rented van and the man said the woman asked him to take the items and paid him $700 after the fact. He said she also offered to pay him $700 more to keep quiet.

FHP Expects 29 Will Die On Highways Over Holiday

The Florida Highway Patrol expects 29 people will be killed in traffic accidents in the state during the 78 hour Labor Day holiday period.

The holiday period begins 6 p.m. Aug. 29 and ends midnight, Sept. 1.

Colonel Bobby R. Burkett, Patrol Director, said many people "...will take advantage of the long weekend to travel our highways visiting beaches, parks and other vacation spots. Unfortunately, past experience indicates that some will not return from their holiday, but instead will die in a traffic accident on Florida's highways."

Patrol records show there were 33 traffic-related deaths during the Labor Day period in 1985. None of those deaths were in Seminole County.

Of the 33 deaths, 16, or 48 percent, were alcohol related. In comparison, 45 percent of all traffic deaths that occurred during 1985 were alcohol-related indicating the incident of drinking and driving is greater during holiday periods, according to the patrol. Also, 16 of the 33 people killed were under 30 years old.

"Every available trooper will be on patrol duty to help curb the expected loss of lives. The patrol will continue its 'Operation Speedwatch' during this period using its aircraft to maintain speeds on a number of highways. Citizens are requested to assist us in this effort by reporting any impaired driver they observe to the nearest Florida Highway Patrol station or local law enforcement agency," said Burkett.

Teacher Critical After Would-Be Dropout Shoots

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A 16-year-old student with learning disability who wanted to quit high school shot his teacher in the chest Wednesday during an argument before class, authorities said.

Kerry Dickens pulled a .22-caliber pistol and shot John Alexander, 33, after the teacher had ordered the student out of his industrial arts classroom, police and school officials said.

Alexander, who began teaching at Maplewood High School just last week, underwent surgery and was listed in critical but stable condition, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Dickens walked off campus after the 7 a.m. shooting and was arrested a few miles from the school about an hour and 20 minutes later. He offered no resistance and told the arresting officers, "I'm the one you're looking for."

"I said where's the gun and he said, 'It's right here,' and it was sticking in his belt," Sgt. Charles Minton said.

Dickens was charged with assault with intent to commit murder and was being held in a juvenile detention center, authorities said. A hearing to decide if he should be tried as an adult will be held within 72 hours.

Assistant Principal Joseph Welch said Dickens and Alexander had a confrontation Monday and Dickens came to the teacher's classroom Tuesday morning to resume the argument.

"There was an incident involving the teacher and student yesterday," Welch said. "The youngster came this morning to the classroom — the teacher tried to get him to leave. (Dickens) pulled out a pistol and shot him once in the chest."

Robbie Harris, a freshman who was in the classroom when the argument started, said Dickens pulled the gun when "the teacher told him he had to move."

Dickens has a learning disability and was in a 9th grade special education class for children who can not keep up at their grade level, school officials said.

The student had planned to drop out of school on his 17th birthday and his parents met with school officials Monday to discuss the situation, Principal Riley Elliott said.

"There was some indication the first part of week that he may not have been interested in school," the principal said. "We met with his parents to try to encourage him and see what he wanted to do. As a result of the conference the parents said he did want to continue school."

Classes continued on schedule at the 1,009-student Maplewood school Wednesday, but some parents began arriving to take their children home.

Elliott announced over the public address system that students could come into his office to discuss the incident if they were disturbed, and city school officials said a psychiatrist might be sent to Maplewood.

Spring Quarter Productivity Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Productivity of American workers slipped by an annual rate of 0.5 percent in the spring quarter — the first decline since the last recession, the government said Wednesday, revealing another in a series of disappointing economic indicators.

Non-farm business productivity, which covers some 85 million workers, was pulled back by a 0.3 percent decline in output paired with a 0.2 percent increase in hours worked. It was the first decline in output since the final quarter of 1982, the tail end of the last recession.

Productivity, defined as output per hour, declined at a 3.5 percent annual rate in the fourth quarter of last year but rebounded at a 4.3 percent rate in the first quarter of this year.

Productivity, which advanced by 0.5 percent in 1985, has gained just 0.6 percent since the spring quarter of last year.

The Labor Department report is the latest in a string of disappointing economic indicators. The U.S. gross national product grew at a 0.6 percent annual rate in the April-June period, the slowest rate of growth since the beginning of the current business expansion.

A preliminary report last month had charted a 1.7 percent rate of productivity growth for the quarter. Bureau of Labor Statistics analyst Lawrence Fulco said the steep downward revision was caused by a change in the "statistical discrepancy" from a positive $3.2 billion to a negative $4.7 billion.

Statistical discrepancy, which does not figure into the GNP data, is a measure of output in relation to income, Fulco said.

The only bright spot in today's report was a 2.2 percent rate of increase in manufacturing productivity, but the increase was due to a 3.4 percent decline in work hours paired with a smaller 1.3 percent drop in output. It was the first time both manufacturing output and hours have declined since 1982.

The government's attempt to measure the effectiveness of management, the capability of workers, the efficiency of supply systems and the effects of modernization and wrap them into one number has seldom satisfied economists.

But most agree increased productivity is the key to improving a society's standard of living. As productivity rises, workers' wages and corporate profits can be increased without cheapening the currency or heightening inflation.

The United States is still the most productive nation in the world overall but other nations like Japan and South Korea are fast closing the productivity gap and have overtaken U.S. workers in key areas like steel production.

If the erratic farm sector is also considered, business productivity fell back 0.3 percent at an annual rate in the second quarter following a 2.5 percent increase in the first.

Hourly compensation increased 2.2 percent during the April-June period but rose 3.9 percent when a drop in the consumer price index is figured in. Unit labor costs increased 2.8 percent.

Candidates Picked In Alaska, Oklahoma Primaries

By United Press International
Challenger Steve Cowper defeated Democratic Gov. Bill Sheffield in the Alaska primary today, and Republican former Oklahoma Gov. Henry Bellmon whipped four others in a comeback bid to succeed retiring two-term Democratic Gov. George Nigh.

Both states also had Democratic primaries to choose opponents for freshmen Republican senators, Oklahoma's Don Nickles and Alaska's Frank Murkowski, who were not challenged for re-election within their party.

Cowper, a 48-year-old Fairbanks lawyer and former state legislator, boasted that he defeated the 57-year-old Anchorage hotelier without harping on negative issues — notably the impeachment proceedings Sheffield, a first-term governor, survived last summer.

"I lost and Steve Cowper beat me," Sheffield said as he conceded early today.

With 84 percent of the ballots counted, Cowper had 30,503 votes to Sheffield's 20,279. Sheffield, who beat Cowper — pronounced Cooper — by 259 votes in the 1982 primary, had said Tuesday he was confident of winning in a close race.

In November, Cowper will face Republican state Sen. Arliss Sturgulewski, 58. Sturgulewski, the first woman nominated for Alaska governor, had 22,331 votes to runnerup Walter Hickel's 20,298. Hickel is a former governor and served in Richard Nixon's Cabinet as interior secretary.

Although 14 candidates were in the running for governor, the race appeared to be a two-way contest in both major parties.

Sheffield is the only governor in Alaska's 27-year history as a state whose actions prompted formal state Senate impeachment hearings, but Sheffield was cleared of charges he steered a state office building contract to a political crony.

Republican Sen. Murkowski had no opposition, and former presidential aide Glenn Olds sailed to an easy Democratic primary victory. Rep. Don Young beat three unknown Republican opponents; Democrat Peggie Begich was unopposed in her bid to face Young in November.

Election officials said the above average voter turnout was prompted by the governor's race. About half of Alaska's 280,351 registered voters appeared to have cast ballots.

A nuclear freeze initiative on the ballot gained 58 percent voter support.

In Oklahoma congressional contests, Democrats Mike Synar, Wes Watkins and Dave McCurdy beat back token challenges for renomination and looked ahead to GOP opposition in November.

Democratic Rep. Jim Jones, who is vacating his 1st District seat to run against Nickles in November, held a solid 67 percent lead, with 2184 of 2374 precincts counted, over George Gentry, a follower of extremist Lyndon LaRouche.

In the fight to succeed Jones, Democrat Gary Allison had a comfortable 62.9 percent of the vote over Tom Summers with 257 of 261 precincts counted, while Republican Jim Inhofe with 54.2 percent of the vote was staying above the 50 percent margin needed to avoid a Sept. 16 runoff with either Bill Calvert or Joan Hastings.

Two other incumbent House members, Republican Mickey Edwards and Democrat Glenn English, were unchallenged, but Edwards faces Democratic opposition in November.

In the race to fill the governors office being vacated by Democrat Nigh after a maximum eight years, Bellmon whipped four other Republicans as expected.

With 2189 of 2374 precincts in, he had 100,450 votes or 70.6 percent to 27,780 votes or 19.6 percent for his nearest rival, state Rep. Mike Fair.

Bellmon became Oklahoma's first Republican governor in 1962 and served two Senate terms before choosing not to seek re-election in 1980.

15 Horses Die

22 Hurt In Stable Fire

SOUTHBURY, Conn. (UPI) — A raging fire destroyed a boarding stable and barn early Wednesday, killing 13 of 72 horses and injuring 22 people, state police said. Two other horses died when hit by a pick-up truck as they fled the blaze.

It was the second fire within a year at the large complex. No horses were lost in the earlier fire in August 1985, police said.

Eighteen firefighters were treated for injuries at the scene early this morning and the stable's two owners were injured when their pickup truck struck and the fleeing horses.

Another firefighter and a stable employee were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Waterbury for treatment.

The fire in the River Meadow Horse Stables on Route 67 was reported shortly before 1 a.m. and the large wood structure was fully involved when firefighters arrived.

The huge blaze took about 150 firefighters from surrounding communities more than two hours to bring it under control.

Two, night watchmen who were alerted by a fire alarm fought choking smoke to free the horses from their stalls.

Thirteen horses died in the smoke and flames along with the two that were killed when the owners' pickup truck struck them about 350 yards from the stable, police said.

The truck overturned with stable owners Steven and Diana McAllister inside.

Diana McAllister was admitted to St. Mary's in guarded condition and her husband was treated for minor injuries, a hospital spokeswoman said.

There was no estimate of damage to the stable and barn and the value of the horses was undetermined.

Police said the cause of the fire was undetermined and the state and local fire marshals began an investigation.

Chumming Is Old Hoe To Sheephead Anglers

Most hunters are aware of the fact that it is illegal to put out corn for ducks or millet for doves. This "bait" concentrates game birds in such numbers that their ranks would soon be decimated without the law to protect them.

Fishermen have a distinct advantage over hunters, because chumming is perfectly legal. Fishermen can "bait" an area and draw tremendous numbers of fish to the spot, eager to gulp up the free tidbits.

Chumming works on fish of all sizes, from the pan-size sheepshead to giant sharks that may weigh over a ton.

Many saltwater anglers are familiar with the chumming technique that is used for sheepshead. Serious fishermen straighten out an old hoe and take it with them on every fishing trip. The hoe is used to scrape barnacles off bridge pilings. As the scraped barnacles settle to the bottom, the fragments attract crowds of hungry sheepshead. The angler then lowers a hooked fiddler crab below, and the bait will immediately be inhaled by a frenzied sheepshead.

As soon as the action slows, the fisherman puts down his fishing outfit and scrapes more barnacles off with his modified hoe. Successful anglers move from piling to piling, often catching more than 50 sheepshead in an outing.

Guides in Key West use crates of shrimp heads for the majority of their chumming. They anchor over wrecks and put several pounds of shrimp heads in a laundry bag. The bag is placed in the water and the guide then hits the bag several times with a club. The small pieces of shrimp filter through the bag and form a chum line.

These guides also use a small bait net to frequently toss out handfuls of whole shrimp heads.

Grunts, mangrove snapper and permit will soon start rising from the depths, drawn by the shrimp head chum.

Guides also anchor in Key West harbor and use shrimp heads to chum huge tarpon to their boats. Anglers can then use light spinning tackle or flies to hook the tarpon attracted to the chum.

In areas such as Jacksonville, anglers purchase from shrimp boats "by catch" menhaden, croakers, grunts, and other small fish. They then drift open-ocean water within a couple miles of the beach, and toss overboard huge quantities of these small dead fish. Hooks are placed in some of the dead baits, and this method accounts for many tarpon, king mackerel, cobia, jack crevalle, and sharks.

Guides in Key West cast net many pounds of glass minnows in small-mesh cast nets and then add some salt to the minnows. They are then frozen and used to chum yellowtail snapper and other shallow dwelling reef species.

It is important for chum fishermen to take into account the speed at which their boat is drifting, or if anchored, the direction currents carry the chum from the boat. Ideally, the chum should drift slowly away from the boat.

Some fishermen have perfected the art of chumming with live bait. This method is absolutely deadly and king mackerel and other ocean species. Anglers cast net huge quantities of a numerous bait-fish, mainly menhaden, and then proceed offshore and anchor over some type of reef or bottom structure.

The live chum is then tossed intermittently overboard and will soon attract any amberjack, cobia, king mackerel, dolphin, or other gamefish in the area. Pretty soon a swarm of big fish will be waiting below the boat for the free handouts. Anglers then hook a baitfish and free-line it away from the boat. Many times the waiting gamefish compete with each other for the bait.

The method of chumming has unlimited possibilities. It can be used for bream, catfish, and many saltwater species.

Hall: GSU Necessary Gator Bait

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — University of Florida coach Galen Hall begins his third season at the Gator helm Saturday when his NCAA sanction-thinned squad takes on Division I-AA champion Georgia Southern.

Georgia Southern, coached by former Georgia defensive genius Erk Russell, is ranked first in the I-AA preseason poll.

"Some might wonder why a strong Division I team like Florida would play a lower division team, but for Hall, the answer is simple.

"We put Georgia Southern up first so we could get a little experience under our belts before we have to tackle Miami (Sept. 6 in Gainesville)," Hall said. "Putting them up front also gives us an open date before the Alabama game."

Hall said he was pleased overall with the progress his players have made this fall, but there still are some problems to be overcome before they start Southeastern Conference play.

"We have made steady progress and the players have put forth the effort it takes to improve," Hall said. "From that standpoint, we are pleased, but we have a long way to go with an inexperienced group of young players who will have to learn from game situations.

"Our secondary has played well, which is not surprising, and we are obviously improved in the offensive line. The young running backs we recruited (Octavius Gault, Stacy Simmons and Cedric Smith) have come along faster than I thought they would and should be able to help us early."

But Hall said there were still areas that had him concerned.

"The punting job has not been won, and that is disturbing," Hall said. "We don't have much experience at the tight end position, although we do have a good starter in Rodney Jones. But that's the situation all over the field. We generally have one or two good ones at each position, but after that it falls off drastically."

Hall said the reason for the lack of depth this year is the NCAA-imposed limit on the number of scholarship players the Gators can have. The Gators are limited to 75, compared to 90 for teams not on probation.

One position Hall is not worried about is quarterback, with two-year starter Kerwin Bell back at the controls.

"This, obviously, is our strongest position," Hall said. "If all the positions stacked up like quarterback, I could rest."

Florida coach Galen Hall takes a joy ride after another Saturday at home against Division I-AA power Georgia Southern. The Gators host Miami Saturday, Sept. 6.

Inman's 'Great Hands' Keep Eagles Rolling

STATESBORO, Ga. (UPI) — At 5-foot-10, 175 pounds and age 30, Roger Inman may be the most important member of the Georgia Southern College football team, which plays the University of Florida this weekend.

GSC coach Erk Russell said Wednesday that Inman has great hands — an asset he needs in his position as the team's equipment manager and bus driver of the Eagle Special, a 1957-vintage bus that isn't always reliable.

"When we travel on the Eagle Special we don't know if our trip's going to take four hours or four days," said Russell. "We've broken down anywhere from 20 miles to 70 miles from home."

"Fortunately, though, we've got a driver who's a terrific mechanic. He has to be."

The Georgia Southern team — 1985 national champions for Division I-AA — will travel aboard the Eagle Special and a rented bus to Gainesville, Fla., Friday for Saturday's season opener against Florida, a Southeastern Conference member.

The difference between traveling by air and by bus reflects the level of play for each team. In Statesboro, the Eagles play in 16,000-seat Paulson Stadium. At Gainesville, the team will play at 75,000-seat Florida Field. Two years ago, GSC played before its largest crowd, almost 24,000.

"Realistically, there is no way that we can beat Florida," said Russell. "But I don't think people involved in Florida football are particularly realistic. I know most coaches aren't."

While it is only four hours by bus from Statesboro to Gainesville, it is volumes away in newspaper clippings.

"We've tried to prepare as best we can for the greatest challenge and also the greatest opportunity our young program has had to date," said Russell, who was for 17 years a lieutenant of the coaching staff under Vince Dooley at the University of Georgia.

Russell left the comforts of his assistant head coaching position in Athens to become head coach at GSC four years ago. His record since has been 34-13-1, and he said inspiring the players to take on Goliath Florida is no problem.

"This is our first game — we would try to be pumped up no matter who we were playing," said Russell. "If we get the slop beat out of us or by one point we're still going to be 0-1. If we win, we'll be 1-0. Either way, we've got 10 games after this one."

"Losing won't be the end of the world," he said. "It's only the beginning of a new football season."

But he admits that the team has been preparing for several months to take on Florida.

"We feel like it's always good to soon as possible," Russell said. "We started our countdown to Florida with 149 days to go, back in spring practice."

"At that time Khadafy was screwing around and we were bombing Libya," he said. "We told our players in spring practice that that s.o.b. Khadafy went to Florida — then we had to tell our guys who Khadafy was."

Russell, who was born 60 years ago, said he changed his age when he arrived in Statesboro to revive a program that ended in the 1940s.

"I'm 50," he said. "When I came here, somebody said this was a young man's job. So I had my age changed legally. I was 55 when I came here and I had it changed to 45. I'm 50."

The Eagles' strength lies in its offense, led by quarterback Tracy Ham, who threw for 1,405 yards and eight touchdowns in the 1985 championship season.

Russell said the Gators have size and speed which the Eagles have never seen before.

"Their speed and their size is greater than anybody we've played since we've been here. We can assume it's going to be most difficult," he said.

Scott: QBs Look Tough

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

With opening games for the Seminole County football teams only two weeks away, coaches are searching for pieces to lineup puzzles and whipping their players into shape.

County gridders have been hard at work since Aug. 15 in anticipation of the Friday, Sept. 12 season opener. Several county teams will also play in jamborees on Friday, Sept. 5.

Here's a look at the progress at Lyman, Oviedo and Lake Brantley high schools:

• At Lyman, coach Bill Scott has been impressed with the way things have gone in practice and said the team has a "very positive attitude and is looking forward to game time."

Offensively, Scott said the backfield is looking strong led by Robert Thomas who gained 960 yards a year ago. Scott said Ira Melton and Victor Farter have also looked good at running back.

Scott said Lyman has a pair of good quarterbacks in Darren

Rams, Pats To Preview

Lake Mary and Lake Brantley will hold intrasquad football games and barbecues tonight as a preview two weeks before the season gets underway.

• At Lake Mary's Red-Gray Game, the barbecue begins at 6 p.m. and the band performs at 8:30 p.m. The freshmen take the field at 7 p.m., followed by the junior varsity at 7:30 p.m. Coach Harry Nelson's varsity hits the gridiron at 8 p.m.

• At Lake Brantley's Patriot Preview, there is no charge for admission. The freshmen take the field at 7 p.m., the junior varsity at 7:30 p.m. and the band at 8 p.m. Coach Fred Almon's varsity takes the field at 8:15 p.m.

Becker Ready Prove He's Not One-Surface Player

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boris Becker is ready to prove he is not a one-surface champion.

The two-time Wimbledon titlist won his opening-round match Wednesday at the U.S. Open.

"These two weeks will show how good I am," Becker said. "I'm feeling better and better on hard courts. My serve is working very good and when I'm serving well, it doesn't matter whether it's on clay or grass or hard court — nobody can hit it back."

Becker, the No. 3 seed, eliminated Glenn Michibata of Canada 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 despite problems with the swirling winds at the National Tennis Center.

"It disturbed me very much. It changed every five minutes so you couldn't really prepare yourself," said the 18-year-old West German. He lost the rhythm of his groundstrokes during the second set and so concentrated on hitting more top-spin shots rather than going for winners.

Tennis

Becker said because the top players are still adjusting to the court and the tournament's atmosphere, upsets are not uncommon in the early rounds of a tournament.

"Then you get more and more comfortable on the court and you get more confident," said Becker. "And once you are in the sixteens and you are in the quarterfinals, then you can start playing well."

None of the 21 seeds who played Wednesday were eliminated or even seriously challenged as first-round competition was concluded. All 12 women's seeds advanced via two-set victories while none of the men were pushed beyond four sets.

On Thursday, both top seeds will play their second-round matches, with No. 1 Martina Navratilova meeting Betzy Nagelsen of Venice, and No. 1 Ivan Lendl scheduled to take the court against doubles specialist Robert Seguso, who Wednesday was named to the U.S. Davis Cup team which will play Australia in October.

Sixth seed Jimmy Connors won the evening's featured singles match with a 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 victory over Henrik Sundstrom. He joins No. 15 Brad Gilbert as the only two American seeds left in the men's draw.

Connors, a five-time Open champion, has reached the semifinals here for the past 12 years. But he turns 34 on Sept. 2 and has not won any Grand Prix tournament since 1984.

"I'm not going to say I'll win it and I won't say I don't have a chance, but I have played my best tennis here. The people bring out the best in me."

"If I'm going to do it (win another Grand Slam tournament), this would be a nice place to try. If I go out and play the kind of tennis I'm capable of, anything can happen."

The winner of a record 78 men's singles matches at the Open, Connors says a Grand Slam event is easier to play because of the two-week schedule.

"Grand Slams are better because they give me a day off in-between matches, a day to recuperate."

In the women's draw, the times were as impressive as the scores. No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd beat Barbara Gerken 6-2, 6-1 in 57 minutes; No. 3 Steffi Graf eliminated Susan Mascarin 6-0, 6-1 in 40 minutes; and No. 5 Pam Shriver ousted Terry Holladay 6-1, 6-0 in 41 minutes.

Other winners among the top 10 women were No. 6 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch, No. 7 Helena Sukova, No. 8 Bonnie Gadusek and No. 9 Manuela B. Amonte among the top 10 men. No. 2 Mats Wilander eased past Todd Nelson 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4; No. 4 Stefan Edberg, No. 7 Joakim Nystrom, and No. 10 Andrea Gomez won in straight sets.

Boyesen and John Burton. Burton started most of the Greyhounds' games last season while Boyesen also saw some action at QB. "Both have good arms and are capable of running," Scott said. Boyesen is one of the most versatile players on the squad, capable of playing a number of different positions. On the line, Scott said returning lettermen Mike Nelson, Bobby Luce and Shawn Martinson have led the way in practice. Defensively, Scott said the secondary is starting to come around led by returning starter Scott Radcliff. Linebacker is also a strong point with Scott King, Benny Glenn and John Luce. Injuries have hit the defensive line as ends Vahan Noukahajian and Ricky Sheets will be out the rest of this week. Scott said that Alex Colley and Ted Smith are filling in well at the end slots. At the tackle spots, Scott said David Calliguri, Jim Smith and Rodney Ray are looking good. At Oviedo, practice has not been easy for coach Jack Blanton's squad. Oviedo High School is currently being renovated and the only place left for the Lions to practice is on the baseball field. "Things are not going to be easy this year," Blanton said. "Once everything is finished out here it will be a nice facility. We are a year away from having a superb facility." The Lions field will not be ready in time for their opening game on Sept. 13 against Lake Brantley, so the game has been moved to Lake Brantley. Blanton said that he is disappointed about having to move the game. "I would of liked to of opened up at home," Blanton said. "It gives Brantley the edge playing on their own field but it won't hurt us that much." Blanton said that he has been particularly happy with the play of tailback Willie Gainey. "Willie has been doing a super job," Blanton said. "He should have a great year." Blanton said that junior quarterbacks Mike McCurdy and John Pettit have been battling for the starting job. "They are both very close in ability," Blanton said. "We will just have to see how it goes." The Lions will have only 13 seniors on the team, making them fairly young. "We will be a young club," Blanton said. "We are still hoping to have a successful year." At Lake Brantley the injury bug has struck coach Fred Almon. Linebacker Mike Kelly will be out at least 18 days. Kelly hurt two of his fingers when he dropped a fork from a forklift on his fingers. Kelly required 30 stitches on his fingers and lost both fingernails. "It really scared me," Kelly said. "The doctor said that I was lucky not to lose them." Almon said that practice has been going well. "The kids are really trying hard," Almon said. "We are a young team (seven seniors) but we are trying to overcome the odds." Almon said that he has been very impressed with his offensive backfield. "This could be the best backfield that Brantley has seen in a number of years." Almon said. Jason Lanham, brother of UCF quarterback Tony Lanham, will be playing QB for the Patriots. Mark Sepe will be playing fullback while Johnny Griffin will be playing tailback. "Mark and Johnny have been doing a great job," Almon said. "We are expecting a lot from them." Almon said that he is going to have to have two players play both ways. Chris Mull and

Randy Green will be playing on the offense and defensive line. "They will have to play both ways," Almon said. "It will be tough on them." Almon has also been impressed with the play of linebackers Bucky Chambers and John Young. "Bucky and John are doing a super job," Almon said. "They are really maturing as players." The only area that has Almon concerned is the defensive secondary. "We haven't found anybody yet," Almon said. "We don't know who will be playing." Another surprise for Almon has been the play of freshman Jerrey Thurston at tight end. "Not many teams have a freshman starting at tight end, but if Thurston continues to do well, he's got the job," Almon said. "He's a big kid with a real good head on his shoulders."

Morris, Manley Report To Camp

United Press International Joe Morris of the New York Giants and Dexter Manley of the Washington Redskins have decided they want to play pro football in 1986. Both reported to training camp Wednesday 12 days before the start of the season. Morris, although still not signed, reported because his agent Tom Toner said "there is reason to have faith in the club." Conceding that reporting weakens Morris's bargaining strength, Toner said the move should bring a swift end to the contract dispute. "We didn't feel Joe's absence should impede the negotiation process but the club felt his presence was necessary in order to negotiate," he said.

Shula Rallies Bama

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — No. 6 Alabama and No. 9 Ohio State gave a three-hour demonstration Wednesday night on the problems of playing football in August. At least the Crimson Tide can return to work on the fundamentals with a victory. Mike Shula jump-started his game after three quarters of poor play to help Alabama overcome four turnovers and defeat Ohio State 16-10 in the fourth Kickoff Classic, the opening game of the 118th college football season. The teams combined for seven turnovers, nine penalties for starting too soon and general lack of crisp play. The Tide and Buckeyes performed little like teams deserving conference and national title notices. "It's your own mistakes in football that will kill you," Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce said. "And it did tonight for Ohio State." The Buckeyes reached mid-field or better eight times, but had only a 28-yard touchdown run by Jamie Holland and a 37-yard field goal by Pat O'Morrow to show for it. O'Morrow, a freshman, was short on field-goal tries of 42 and 44 yards, and another field-goal try had to be aborted because of a poor snap. Turnovers stopped Ohio State drives in Alabama territory two other times. On their last possession of the game and trailing 16-10, the Buckeyes were able to push deep into the Tide's end of the field with the help of two bad plays by linebacker Derrick Thomas. With no time remaining, Thomas interfered with Cris Carter well short of the end zone and surrounded by Alabama defenders, meaning even if Carter caught the ball he would have been tackled and time would have expired. Instead, back-to-back penalties gave quarterback Jim Karsatos a final opportunity from the Tide 18 and his pass to Carter was on target in the end zone, but knocked down at the last second by Chris Goode and Britton Cooper. "I was on the sideline saying just get it over with, get it over with, get it over with," Alabama Coach Ray Perkins said. "That is all I was thinking." Neither Karsatos nor Shula performed up to expectations. The senior quarterbacks, both considered Heisman Trophy candidates in the preseason, each threw a pair of interceptions. Karsatos held the statistical upper hand, completing 20-of-31 passes for 193 yards. Shula was 11-of-19 for 83 yards, but he made his throws count in the fourth quarter. Over the final 20 minutes, the 6-foot-2 left-hander hit 5-of-7 for 46 yards, including a 3-yard scoring strike to Al Bell to pull the Tide in front 13-10 with 9:33 to play. "Poor, very poor," Shula said of his performance. "I was disappointed with the way I played. We have a lot of work to do. We were fortunate to be in the game. We made a lot of mistakes. I felt good to be able to do something in the fourth quarter." Shula was 3-for-4 as Alabama held the ball for 6:05 late in the fourth quarter before senior Van Tiffin kicked his third field goal of the game, a 28-yarder with 1:02 to play. Ohio State's brightest spot was the play of standout linebacker Chris Spielman, who won the game's Most Valuable Player award with 16 tackles, including 11 solos, and an interception.

Wake Forest Teammates Come Long Way To Decide Amateur

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Wake Forest sophomore Lenny Mattiace may end up having come a long way to compete against his college roommate.

After the rain-shortened second round of the 86th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship is completed today, 64 players will begin semifinal play.

Matiace appeared to have a firm grip on medalist honors Wednesday when rain interrupted the tournament for the second straight day.

Matiace's score of 71-66-137 was good enough to hold off the challenge of his Wake Forest teammate and roommate Tim Straub, Straub, also a sophomore, is in second place all to himself with 70-68-138.

The late-afternoon thunderstorm made it necessary to cancel play at 6:05 with 47 players on the courses at the Country Club of Birmingham and Shoal Creek, which were being used for the two days of qualifying.

Once the stalled 47 players finish rounds this morning, the lowest 64 scorers will begin match play.

Among those caught in the rain was Gary Nicklaus. Jack Nicklaus' son shot 79 Tuesday and was in grave danger of missing the cut.

Top Money Winners At St. Jude

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Five of golf's top money winners, the son of Jack Nicklaus and 150 other players are competing for a $500,000-plus purse in the St. Jude Classic which gets underway today.

The heavyweights include PGA champion Bob Tway, Andy Bean, Payne Stewart, John Mahaffey and Fuzzy Zoeller. Jack Nicklaus II, son of golf's "Golden Bear," is making his professional debut in the tournament.

Nicklaus and the rest of the field will face stiff competition from defending champion Hal Sutton, who said he has the confidence to retain his title.

"It gives you a comfortable feeling coming back to a place where you have won and you know you can play well," Sutton said.

Hingsen Knocks Off Thompson

STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — West German Juergen Hingsen Wednesday knocked his arch-rival, Daley Thompson of Britain, off the top spot in the competition after the high jump, the fourth event, at the European Track and Field Championships.

It was the first time since the two first met as juniors nine years ago that Hingsen, who has never beaten Thompson, has ever been ahead of him at any stage in a decathlon.

Thompson has not lost a decathlon since the Soviet Union's Alexander Grebnyuk beat him at the European championships in Prague in 1978.

Wagner Wins New York Classic

LIVERPOOL, N.Y. (UPI) — Lisa Wagner of Palmetto defeated Nikki Gianullas of Vallejo, Calif., 278-235, Wednesday night to win the Central New York State Classic on the Ladies Pro Bowlers Tour.

Wagner, who broke five LPBT tournament scoring records to win the No. 1 qualifying position by 254 pins over Gianullas, won her 11th career title. She opened the title match with a spare and then rolled nine consecutive strikes to win her second title of the 1986 season and the $3,000 first prize.

The United States will play Cuba Friday and Trinidad Sunday... Tim Mayotte and Brad Gilbert, both making winning Davis Cup debuts in Mexico last month, were named to the U.S. team that will face Australia in the semifinals. Also selected by Captain Tom Gorman were Paul Annacone, Ken Flach and Robert Seguso. The competition is scheduled for Oct. 3-5 at Brisbane, Australia... Federal Judge Bruce Thompson has awarded $40,000 to cyclist Greg LeMond in a suit against a Swiss company that used an unauthorized picture of the 1986 Tour de France winner in an advertisement to promote the sale of bicycle clothing... Craig Larsen, 16, a junior defensive lineman for Deer Valley High School, died following a non-contact practice drill, the second Phoenix-area high school player to die in the past 10 days. Officials said the cause of Larsen's death was still pending... Suh Yon-bok, a South Korean who won the Boston Marathon 39 years ago, will hold the flame of the 10th Asian Games. Suh, 63, will run one of the final legs of the Asian Games torch relay, a nine-day event that involves 1,394 torch-bearers running through 61 cities. Suh won the 1947 Boston Marathon in a then-record time of 2:25:39.

Hearns: Leonard, Hagler Afraid

'I Want To Send These Guys To The Wizard For New Hearts'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thomas Hearns, upset at the prospect of being shut out of a shot at the middleweight championship by a Marvin Hagler-Ray Leonard bout, Wednesday took verbal shots at both Hagler and Leonard.

Unfortunately for Hearns, it may be the only jabs he gets at the two men who have knocked him out in the ring.

"I don't think it (Hagler-Leonard) should happen," the World Boxing Council 154-pound champion said Wednesday at a news conference. "I don't think Ray Leonard deserves a shot at Marvin Hagler. I think if anybody deserves a shot at Marvin Hagler, I do."

"I see a great deal of fear," continued Hearns. "I knew all along Ray Leonard was afraid, now I see Marvin Hagler is afraid. I want to send these guys to the wizard for some new hearts."

Leonard stopped Hearns in 14 rounds in a 1981 welterweight unification bout, and Hagler defended his undisputed middleweight title with a third-round knockout over Hearns in 1985. Those were Hearns' only losses in 43 bouts.

Negotiations are underway for a March bout between Hagler and Leonard, who hasn't fought since 1984.

Hearns said he and Hagler have signed a contract for a rematch, but Hagler is backing out because he can make more money against Leonard. Hagler has been guaranteed at least $10 million to fight Leonard.

"He forgot about the obligation we had, in order to take the easier fight," Hearns said of Hagler.

Boxing

Hagler and his handlers have said he never signed a contract to fight Hearns again.

Hearns also said he thinks Leonard wants to fight Hagler only because he needs the money.

"He steps in front of everybody, everybody has to step aside for him," he said of Leonard. "I don't think he wants to fight, but he has to do it for money. If he didn't need the money, he wouldn't come back."

Leonard's lawyer, Mike Trainer, says Leonard has invested his ring earnings wisely and is far from broke. Leonard said he wants to fight Hagler for the challenge such a bout presents.

Hearns said Hagler's decision to fight Leonard hurts Hearns' chances of winning four world titles. Hearns' goal is to add the middleweight and light heavyweight crowns to his collection.

If a Hagler-Leonard bout comes off, Hearns has several options. He can wait until after Hagler and Leonard fight to challenge for the 160-pound title, bypass the middleweight division for a shot at a light heavyweight title or defend his World Boxing Council super welterweight title against a top contender like John "The Beast" Mugabi.

"I don't want the (middleweight) title without beating Marvin, the title wouldn't mean as much," said Hearns, a 27-year-old from Detroit. "I can't sit back and wait for Sugar Ray Leonard, above, was selected to fight marvelous Marvin Hagler which upset Thomas Hearns.

Marvin, he might play this out for another year.

"The public has the fight it wants to see and it's not Hagler-Leonard. The public wants to see me and Hagler."

Meanwhile, Hearns will probably fight middleweight Mike Olajide in October at Madison Square Garden in New York.

SHUPE'S SCOOP — Even largemouth bass can be chummed up around your boat. In Lake Okechobee, bass anglers take along a lot of small minnows and toss them overboard to create a schooling situation with bass. You could do the same with Missouri Minnows or bullheads.

WEEKEND FORECAST — Ron Ravilna of Highland Park Fish Camp reports that fishing will pick up soon with the expected cool weather. A few schools have been caught early in the morning and late in the afternoon in Lake Woodruff. Bream and catfish are active in spite of the hot water. Dell Abernathy at Osteen Bridge Fish Camp said that quite a few fishermen are braving the hot weather and catching bass. Plastic worms are a good bait this time of the year. Top water plugs are fun early in the morning and late in the afternoon.

Snook anglers are eagerly awaiting Sept. 1 — the opening of the season. Sebastes Inlet is traditionally a hot fishing spot in the fall. Mass schools of migrating finger mullet converge on the inlet, and hundreds of snook and redfish form a welcoming committee for the small mullet. If the water stays clear and the finger mullet arrive on time, some of the best fishing of the year will take place.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that offshore trolling is good at the present time for walleye, dolphin, king mackerel, and a few sailfin. Start in 120 feet of water and work your way out. The Sea Witch and ballyhoo is the best overall bait. The beauty line and the Part II are at the present time. Redfish are biting in the Banana and Indian rivers. Use live pinfish or small mullet on a sliding sinker jig and fish near the edges of channels and ledges.

Many sheepshead, drum, and bluefish are being caught at the New Smyrna jettes. The calm weather is resulting in large crowds of boats around the jettes on the weekend. Get there early for a good spot and use large live shrimp or finger mullet.

Let's Face It Museum Traces Beauty Aids For Women And Men From 17th Century

By Kirsten Haukebob
UPI Feature Writer

LONDON (UPI) — Beauty experts in a 1611 book titled "Delights for Ladies" advised mashing together fresh bacon grease and egg white and letting the paste dry on the face to give it a chic white look.

In the 17th and 18th centuries, fashionable men as well as women wore such "beauty aids" as eyebrows made of mouse fur, wigs made of horses' tails and pads to round out sunken cheeks.

These are among the many bizarre cosmetics on display at a Museum of London exhibit called "Let's Face It — Fashions in Faces 1700 to 1986." It traces artificial beauty aids from these bizarre devices for the wealthy to the present day, when there are more cosmetics available than in all of history.

The thousands of lotions and pastes, creams and rouges on display proves that people have never been content with their looks.

In the 18th century, malnutrition and disease ravaged many faces. Powders and rouge helped disguise the effects but these cosmetics were potential killers themselves since they usually contained lead and other poisonous ingredients.

Wigs are amply represented in the exhibit. Men and women who lost their hair because of illness or age could find comfort in the Romantic era's craze for wigs. Before the advent of shampoo, wigs provided the fashion-conscious with a welcome alternative to keeping one's own hair clean, tidy and vermin-free.

The wigs came in a variety of styles designed to reflect the age and occupation of the wearer. They were often so elaborate and tall that, as a satirical painting in the exhibit shows, they might brush against a candelabra and catch fire.

Also in the 1700s, black silk patches shaped like hearts, moons or stars were often used to cover smallpox scars.

"Let's Face It" goes on to chart the demise of the Romantic look. As general health improved in the 19th century, pastes and powders slowly gave way to soap and water, and more natural looks were emphasized.

Modern thinkers believed that beauty should come from inside and healthy living and moral thoughts would ensure a lovely face. Make-up slowly lost favor, becoming associated during this time with the theater and prostitution.

The 20th century brought changes in the status of women, modern warfare and mass production, all of which influenced what people put on — and around — their faces.

As the exhibit shows, women who took up industrial work during World War I adopted simple, short hairstyles for safety and time-saving reasons. Few women used such luxuries as the newly developed lipstick and eye make-up.

Trench warfare left some soldiers with serious facial injuries, mostly caused by shrapnel. The surgical skills developed to rebuild hideously damaged faces was later used to remodel features of healthy people who were dissatisfied with their looks.

For most of this century, glamorous Hollywood stars provided models for all to imitate, and cosmetic pioneers such as Max Factor marketed products that were affordable for nearly everyone.

Recent cosmetic history is portrayed in the exhibit with a clutter of labels, ads, jars and tubes pointing to the diversity and fast changes of today's fads. The show's last display is a mannequin with punk rainbow-colored hair and electric-green eyeshadow. Asks a voice in the background:

"What will our grandchildren think of this?"

Rev. and Mrs. William J. Murray

Bera Woodall, W.J. Murray Repeat Vows

Bera Lee Woodall of Sanford, and the Rev. William J. Murray of Waycross, Ga., were married at 5 p.m. on June 28 at the Church of God of Prophecy, Sanford. Bishop William E. Galley, grandson of the bride, and Bishop Harold C. Pounders of Ft. Myers, were the officiating clergyman for the candlelight and Bible exchange ceremony.

The unity candles were lit by Cynthia Galley, daughter of the bride, and Esther Ruth James, daughter of the bridegroom. Soloists were Jody James, grandson of the bridegroom, and Bishop Steve Gilmer, church pastor. Music was furnished by Ronnie Gilmer and John M. Ceresoli Sr.

Given in marriage by her son-in-law, William C. Galley, the bride chose for her vows a rose colored long-sleeved chiffon gown fashioned along the slim, traditional silhouette. Her headpiece was a crown of pink and white roses with an attached short tulle veil. She carried a cascade of white silk roses, lilies and pink roses interspersed with baby's breath and pink and white streamers.

Vernice Galley served her grandmother as matron of honor. She wore a pink street-length dress and carried a cascade arm spray of pink and white rosebuds and stephanotis showered with pink and white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Anita James, granddaughter of the bridegroom, Sadie Kinard, Gertrude Galley and Patricia Story. Junior bridesmaids were Brandy Oglesby and Katrina Lynn. They wore pink dresses and carried pink and white rosebuds.

Wyndell Murray of Shreveport, La., served his father as best man. Ushers were Mark James, grandson of the bridegroom; William Galley, Richard Galley, great grandsons of the bride, and Marty Ceresoli. Bible bearers were David Downer and Ronald Perkins.

Robin Oglesby was the flower girl and flower assistant was Stuart Gilmer.

The reception followed in the church social hall. Shirley and Tina Lazar cut and served the wedding cake and the pink tropical punch was poured and served by Wilma Oglesby and Gwen Muse. Andrea Perkins, granddaughter of the bride, registered the guests in the bride's book. Betty Kinard was in charge of decorations.

The couple will make their home in Sanford and Waycross. The bride is retired from the Seminole County School Board, and the bridegroom, an active minister, is retired from Tropical Citrus, Bradenton.

Out-of-town guests came from all Florida and Waycross.

Daughter's Lack Of Judgment Causes Parents To Lose Trust

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl. I have a great family and I love them dearly. The thing I want most is to have my parents trust me. One incident made me feel I lost their trust completely. Here it is:

My parents were out one evening and told me I could have three friends over (my best girlfriend and two boys). I agreed to stay in the house with my guests. Later when my friends arrived and my parents were gone, the incident happened.

While my girlfriend and I were talking in my bedroom, the two boys got into my parents' liquor cabinet. They were having some drinks when my parents walked in.

Dad handed it very well. He took me aside and said, "I think it's time for your friends to leave." As I looked at my dad I could see on his face how very disappointed he was in me. I felt just awful! Later we talked about what happened very briefly.

The next weekend my parents had planned to go out of town, but they canceled the trip, saying, "We don't think we can trust you to be by yourself."

I quickly reminded them that it wasn't me who got into the liquor cabinet. Then they said (unconvincingly), "Well, we can't trust your friends, then."

Abby, why should my parents make me feel like they don't trust me? It was my so-called friends they couldn't trust. Please tell moms and dads to trust their children until they prove to you that they can't be trusted.

TRUSTWORTHY DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Because of that "incident," you have proven to your parents that they can't trust your judgment. You had no business sitting in your bedroom talking to your girlfriend while the two boys were left alone to do whatever they pleased. (Apparently you didn't know the boys very well or you wouldn't have left them alone in the room with the liquor cabinet!) Your judgment was poor, so don't blame your parents for not trusting you.

DEAR ABBY: I am completely confused. While I was in Canada recently, a person said, "I'm not an American; I'm a Canadian."

Then, the July Fourth celebration confused me even more. I always thought America was a continent, that I lived in North America and was a U.S. citizen.

I always thought Canadians and Mexicans were Americans, too. When did all this change? Respectfully

ALICE A. (AGE 71),
ELYRIA, OHIO

DEAR ALICE: Nothing has changed. You are a citizen of the United States of America, which is located on the continent of North America, which we share with two other countries — Canada and Mexico. The inhabitants of Canada call themselves Canadians and the inhabitants of Mexico refer to themselves as Mexicans (fortunately) because if they called themselves "Americans" as we do, it would be even more confusing.

We should more accurately be called North Americans as opposed to those who live on the continent of South America, who call themselves South Americans. Wouldn't it be confusing if Brazilians, Argentinians and Colombians called themselves "Americans," too? Fortunately, they don't.

DEAR ABBY: A member of our family is notoriously cheap.

Whenever there is a wedding or shower in the family, Dolores (not her real name) says, "Put my name on the card, and I'll pay you later."

With Dolores "later" must mean "never" because she has yet to come up with any money. Meanwhile, her name is on all the cards along with the rest of us who actually pay our fair share for the gifts.

How should this be handled? Reminding her hasn't helped. She's always a little short until next payday.

A MEMBER OF THE FAMILY

DEAR MEMBER: The next time Dolores asks you to put her name on the card, tell her that her name will go on the card after she has paid up. And you won't have to tell her why.

DEAR ABBY: Kirk Douglas advised people to go to their department of public health and demand to see the state inspection reports before deciding on a home. That is a joke.

I worked at a private nursing home that had a superior rating. Now let me tell you about the inspector. He used the side door because we locked up at 9 p.m., and he never arrived before 10 p.m. One night he arrived drunk (as usual) and fell over the nurses' station trying to hug his favorite nurse. He asked her to witness him signing the inspection form. She laughed and said, "Why, you devil, you haven't inspected anything," after which he picked up a wastepaper basket, peered into it, put it down and said, "There! I've made an inspection, and everything is fine!" He signed the form and left. So much for state inspectors.

Avoid Diet Pills When Trying To Lose Weight

DEAR DR. GOTT — I recently went to a doctor who specializes in weight reduction. He prescribed Phentermine for me. Is this harmful in any way? I'm 66.

DEAR READER — I am against weight-reduction pills. First, they all have side effects, ranging from overstimulation to addiction. Second, by acting as a crutch, they remove responsibility from the patient and place it on the drug company. Most patients can lose weight by following a sensible diet that includes nutritious, low-calorie meals. Third, diet pills can be used only for limited periods; they are not appropriate for long-term therapy. Therefore, when patients stop the pills, weight gain will again become a problem, because people tend to rely on the medicine rather than exercising self-control over eating.

Phentermine is a stimulant. It can elevate blood pressure and cause nervousness. Patients can develop tolerance to it — that is, it loses its effectiveness with time. Also, patients do not lose significantly more weight with the medicine than without it.

I recommend that you avoid diet pills and attempt to reduce weight by calorie control. To help you, I'm sending you a free copy of my new Health Report, WEIGHT CONTROL THROUGH CALORIE CONTROL, which offers tips on weight loss, diet and exercise. Others who would like a copy should send $1, plus their name and address, to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — About two years ago I was infected with a virus that caused a croupy cough. The doctor prescribed a cough medicine containing codeine. It left me with a loss of my sense of taste and smell. What can I do to get them back?

DEAR READER — Some virus infections of the nose and sinuses can cause loss of smell and, to a degree, taste. I am not aware of any commercial cough medicine, with or without codeine, that could cause this type of loss. I believe that you need a thorough nose and throat examination by an otolaryngologist. The specialist may be able to suggest treatment that will relieve your problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I developed skin cancer on my nose, right where my glasses rub. Could the constant irritation have caused it?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Vulnerable against not vulnerable, North just does not have enough of a hand to make a two-diamond overcall. When he passes, East probably bids one spade, and two hearts by West should now end the auction. If the opening lead is then a minor suit, the defenders should come to six tricks. In the Epson World Pairs Championship, plus 50 for North-South was only 39 percent on the pre-assigned scoring scale.

North has to adopt an air of bravado and bid two diamonds to get a good score. South will invariably bid three-no-trump. If West's opening lead is a low heart, declarer can take the first 11 tricks for a score of 92 out of 100. Such bold bidding is not without risk. At duplicate scoring, you don't have to be an expert to know that sometimes you get a decent result just by limiting opponents' overtricks. Suppose West leads a high heart. If he rightly assumes that declarer's leap to three-no-trump was based upon a diamond fit, he may shift to the ace of spades. Now East-West will take seven tricks, and minus 300 for North-South is worth only 4 out of 100.

Players who participated in the Epson Pairs found it fun to know their scores after each deal, and even more fun to know after the last deal whether their percentage scores were good enough to give them a chance for a high finish worldwide. (Sorry, mine wasn't.) I predict that we will see more such events, and Epson America, the sponsoring company, is due a vote of thanks.

U.S. Naval Exercises Off Libyan Coast In Final Day

ABOARD THE USS FORRESTAL (UPI) — F-14 Tomcats and A-6 bombers raced off the deck of the giant carrier...

The correspondents said they saw in the squadron briefing room a map of the southern coast of the Mediterranean on which the Libyan city of Benghazi was marked with concentric circles.

The correspondents said they asked Cmdr. John Heufelder, surface operations officer for Carrier Group Six, if there was any reason Benghazi was marked so prominently on the map.

The exercise is not directed against any nation," Heufelder said. "The exercise is conducted in international waters and Egyptian airspace. The activities have no relationship to any present political situation."

day was not intended to provoke Libya. "The maneuvers should not be provocative at all," Ig said. "They have been scheduled for two years."

Two U.S. correspondents spent seven hours aboard the USS Forrestal 50 miles north of Alexandria, Egypt, Wednesday during the Sea Wind exercise. The joint U.S.-Egyptian maneuver entered its final day today.

President Reagan ordered U.S. warplanes to bomb Benghazi and the Libyan capital of Tripoli April 15, saying the mission was in retaliation for alleged Libyan sponsorship of terrorism. At least 17 people were killed in the raids.

Not that pertains to this exercise, no," Heufelder replied. Then he turned around and hid the map out of view.

Rear Admiral Raymond P. Ig, commander of Carrier Group Six, confirmed that a visit to the Israeli port of Haifa by the Forrestal has been canceled, but denied that the change was related to U.S.-Libyan tensions.

Col. Hussein Mamihi, an Egyptian army spokesman, said the "exercise is military training that has no political objectives."

U.S. and Egyptian spokesmen said the five-day exercise that began Sun-

Final London Chess Match A Draw

LONDON (UPI) — Champion Gary Kasparov settled for a draw Wednesday with Anatoly Karpov in their final London game to guarantee he will carry a 1-point lead into the deciding phase in Leningrad of the world chess title fight.

Karpov produced nothing imaginative at the start, and the game rapidly developed into a queen's gambit declined position.

After battling on even terms throughout the evening, the two Soviets rose to shake hands — the draw agreement — after Kasparov's 34th move, and got a standing ovation from a crowded hall.

After eight moves by each player within the first 10 minutes — signs of advance planning by both — British grandmaster Tony Miles said, "Such an opening is not conducive to the innovation of new ideas."

The titleholder needed only the draw to finish the London leg of the competition ahead on points, 6 1/2 to 5 1/2, before play switches to Leningrad for another 12 games starting in early September.

With two victories already under his belt against his opponent's one, the 23-year-old champion opened with a pawn to queen-4, his first move in a bid to push his lead to a formidable 2 points.

New strategy was what Karpov badly needed and when he failed to produce it early in the match, Miles commented, "Maybe he is just as badly prepared as usual."

Kasparov's astute maneuvering of white pieces in their 12th London encounter left the 35-year-old challenger with almost no opportunities to counterattack and the deadlock became apparent from the 20th move onward.

Karpov battled gamely, answering the champion with what international master Andrew Martin described as "a quite reasonable opening." But his rooks remained poorly positioned, threatening problems later in the contest.

Canadian Customs Rips Page From Playboy

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — Thousands of western Canadian Playboy readers turned to page 75 of the October issue expecting to see a semi-nude photo of rock star Wendy O. Williams. All they found was the torn remnant of a page deemed obscene by Canadian Customs officials.

So it didn't come to our attention until after most of the issues had already been distributed.

Playboy Enterprises Ltd. agreed to rip the offending page from some 23,900 copies of the magazine because Canadian officials said it depicted bondage.

Playboy officials denied the picture, which shows Williams clad in leather and tangled in a parachute chord, depicted bondage. They said they would appeal the decision in Canadian court.

But in eastern Canada, where 120,000 copies had already crossed the border before customs agents bothered to look at it, Playboy readers were able to obtain an uncensored copy of the picture at almost any corner store.

"This situation dramatizes the frightening climate of government repression growing in both the United States and Canada," Playboy Editor and Publisher Hugh Hefner said in statement released in Chicago.

"We have a list of about 120 publications which we pre-screen for obscenity before the magazines are allowed into Canada," government spokesman Tom Greig said Wednesday. "Playboy is generally a respected magazine and is not pre-screened.

Aubrey Golden, Canadian lawyer for Playboy Enterprises Inc., said he would appeal the customs ruling in a Toronto court today.
