WEARIED BY DULL LIFE, GIRL DRIVES AUTO INTO POST

Second Time In History Of Washington That Charge Of Driving While Drunk Has Been Made Against Woman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Search for a "thrill" to offset a humdrum life at a private school has led a 19 year old girl, who gave her name as Miss Benita Kenison of Toledo, into police court here to explain how it happened that she drove an automobile into a lamp post during a snow storm while clad principally in a red bathing suit and silk pajamas.

The girl, who is visiting her sister here, also is invited by the police to discuss reports to them that the collision terminated a two day "endurance party" at which she and her friends partook of "embassy refreshments."

One explanation was offered police Judge MacDonald yesterday by the girl's sister, Velma, who with a man friend, John Hoffman, were in the automobile when it was halted by a lamp post. Benita was tired of school, Velma said, and had come to Washington for a little excitement. A "welcome party" followed, she declared. Police said she added the information that the celebration was bolstered up by liquor from an embassy but she did not disclose which one.

The three were brought to court by two members of the police flying squadron who had pursued the car for some time before the crash and court proceedings came to an abrupt halt when Judge MacDonald viewed Miss Benita's attire. In addition to the bright bathing suit and pajamas the girl wore silver slippers and hose to match.

Judge MacDonald ordered her to spend the night at the house of detention and postponed the hearing. The girl was charged with driving an automobile while drunk and without a permit. It is the second time she has been placed against a woman here.

Heart Disease Causes 185 Of Every Thousand Deaths, Survey Shows

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Heart disease is the cause of 185 of every 1,000 deaths.

Most cases of cancer can be cured if a physician is consulted soon enough.

Pre-natal care materially reduces the number of deaths at child birth.

Hospitals should be standardized.

Years may be added to life by proper care.

These were some of the outstanding comments made by prominent speakers during sessions of the regional meeting of the American College of Surgeons, which will close here tonight.

Dr. Rudolph Matas, of New Orleans, president of the organization, told his fellow surgeons that he was amazed at the interest the public displayed in the development of medical science.

Improvements At City Yacht Basin Almost Completed, City Manager Says

With the exception of the water installation of the municipal yacht basin at the foot of Park Avenue is now complete, having mooring bases, landing stages and float, and new safety piling, according to City Manager W. B. Williams.

"A general survey of the basin shows that every modern facility is now available for the use of pleasure craft and within a few days the water lines will be completely installed so that boats may take on water without making use of the Clyde Line Company's docks," said Mr. Williams this morning.

"We feel that the city has done its part in developing the basin to where it is now regarded as one of the finest in the state," he added.

Announcement was also made today that the work of setting out shrubbery and palm trees along the lake front was progressing rapidly and that the trees transplanted some time ago are growing even better than was expected.

The dead leaves were cut from a number of the palm-trees lining the new boulevard on the lake front and city officials awaited with some anxiety the growing of new shoots. It was said this morning that many new shoots were growing from where the dead leaves had been cut and the beautification committee is reported to be elated over the news.

Considerable fear that the palm-trees would not survive transplanting was expressed when they were first brought in and set out along the lake. Officials said today that with the success of the trial other plants and trees would be added in the near future.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(AP)—New niches in the American League's hall of fame, whose roster now holds seven names, have been filled by Ty Cobb, Detroit Tiger manager, Tris Speaker, Cleveland Indian mentor, and Eddie Collins, Chicago White Sox infielder.

The selections were the result of a contest originated by a prominent automobile manufacturer. In announcing the selections, Ban Johnson, president of the league, said plans for a baseball memorial to be erected in Washington had been delayed, but not abandoned, because the House of Representatives withheld its consent to the plan until after the senate approved. Several other plans are under consideration.

Roulette And Punchboards

J. H. Benjamin, erstwhile scintillating editor of the Ocala Star, is now practicing his literary profession in Palm Beach with the Independent and is continuing his work for the betterment of humanity in somewhat the same old fighting way. Open and wide-spread gambling is getting on Benjamin's nerves and he takes a wicked crack at punchboards as they are played in this city.

"In the Independent's opinion," he writes, "the worst form of gambling practiced is the punchboard. It is particularly bad because it is open to children, and children often play it on their way home from school.

"The entirely conscienceless element which introduced this species of gambling tried to evade the state law by giving a small amount of merchandise, of little value, with each opportunity to punch the board. This excuse would not get by with an honest jury, but honest juries are not as prevalent as they might be.

"Encouraged by their success with this species of gambling, the unscrupulous people who promote them have put on a punchboard with no string to it. The player puts his money on a color, punches out a ticket or nothing. It is gambling pure and simple."

We are more than delighted to see someone with morality enough to see the evils of gambling and of open violation of the laws of the state. We are glad that someone has the backbone to say what he believes is right and to stand up and fight for law enforcement. It is not unusual for a Florida editor to have the "courage of his convictions."

But what we can't understand is why Editor Benjamin should pick on the punchboards. We are in thorough accord with him that it is gambling, and that it is a rather pernicious form. But is it worse than roulette? In our opinion the punchboard is like a drop of water in the middle of Lake Okeechobee compared to Mr. Bradley's Beach Club.

Why doesn't Editor Benjamin take a crack at the Beach Club? Time was when Editor Benjamin put on his old black coat and retired to the limited confines of his dusty office in the Star building to run through a disorderly stack of heterogeneous exchanges in order to glean something of the sordid conduct of those people of the outer world far remote from the sedate refinement of Ocala's Main Street.

In those days Benjamin jumped them all. He gave the railroads Hell. He prodded the plutocrats. He kicked on laxity of law enforcement. He cried out against race-trackers and the low element they bring to this state. He scorched the pants of roulette operators. Big and little alike, he was after them all if they didn't do right.

Now Benjamin reposes in the luxurious office of the Independent, seated on the soft plush cushion of a great easy chair he gazes across a grand mahogany desk through beautiful plate glass windows into the very street where the country's ultra-ultra promenade. He is in Palm Beach now where bloated capitalists of the East congregate to have their fun at the expense of the state laws of Florida. Can it be that Benjamin is becoming soft?

Thousands and thousands of dollars are lost every evening around the roulette tables of the Beach Club. Nickels and dimes are lost on punchboards. Both are law violations. Both are snares of the devil. But roulette pays the most for protection. Let's get after some of the officials higher up, Uncle Joe, and clean up the really big gambling in Florida.

A Sensible Ordinance

In passing an ordinance assessing a stiff jail sentence without privilege of bond for the second offense of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, the City Commission has enacted one of the most sensible pieces of legislation in its history and every Sanford citizen should pledge his support to a traffic measure that is both wise and just.

To feel that Sanford at this stage of its development should place in effect a law that will inevitably be adopted by cities many times as large should be a source of gratification to every one here.

As The Herald said in a recent editorial suggesting the passing of just such an ordinance, the mere levying of a $200 fine will never stamp out the menace of the drunken driver. Under our former system of punishment this highly criminal practice was actually flourishing. And it is not hard to understand why this is so. The man who will attempt to operate a car while drunk, or "half shot," is essentially a gambler to whom a fine means little. His friends put it up if he hasn't the money, and out he goes to repeat the offense.

But there are few so foolhardy as to scoff at a thirty-day jail sentence, and it is safe to say that the man who serves a prison term and watches his business and his popularity wane while he is behind the bars will never again drive while drunk. The stakes are too high, even for the most inveterate gambler.

It will be interesting to watch the number of drunken driving cases decrease when the jailing ordinance goes into effect.

FLORIDA IS ONLY around the corner nowadays. Travel over the road is cheap. So, Washington is jammed every day with cars bound South, and one modest Florida city reports the arrival of five hundred cars a day. Probably more motorists go through the Carolinas and Georgia daily than used to go in a year. Michigan, Illinois, New York and Indiana lead the procession, but probably every state of the Union has lost hundreds and thousands of residents to our distant neighbor. Florida's debt to gasoline and the automobile industry is greater than that of any other state. The rush to the California and Alaskan gold fields, and to the government lands of the West is not to be compared in intensity and volume with this movement.—Boston Herald.

MINDS OF MEN

TAMPA TRIBUNE

It has been said that anything that can take form in the mind of man can take form in the material. Which is only another way of saying that man can conceive nothing which is beyond his accomplishment.

The wonderful revelations that have been made by science during the past one hundred years give emphasis to this statement, for so many and so marvelous have the discoveries been that it seems as if there is nothing that the mind can conceive but may take concrete form and be used for the salvation or the doom of mankind.

It is because of the patterns that are in the minds of men—it is the idea taking form—it is the ideal manifesting itself in the material. We find a Watts, and he is linking the continent with tracks of steel.

We find a Morse, and he is bringing people into close communion all over the world. We find a Ford, and he is making tractors for the tilling of the soil and cars that will make life easier for the man who toils.

We find a Goetz, and he is harnessing electricity to give light and power for greater happiness and greater comfort. We find a Marconi, and he is using his power to save shipwrecked thousands on the sea of life.

THE BRIBERS ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

Attorney General Sargent apparently knows little about what his office is doing in the way of enforcing the anti-trust laws and so may not measure up to his job, but that he has some qualities justifying his appointment to it is indicated by his logical and striking address before the New York State Bar Association.

"Crime exists to a large degree," he said in effect, "because good citizens bribe those not so good to break the law." Somewhat startling it is, but the Attorney General undeniably makes it good, tracing on from the prohibition law. Bootleggers break this law solely because they are paid to do so—only fifteen dollars, and redeemed at that price by the government.

Thus swiftly and surely Greece makes a forced loan of one billion and a quarter of drachmas with no possibility of dodging that tax.

THE WICHITA Daily Eagle, a good paper published by the Marxists, rejoices in the formation of a Kansas group "to fight the evolution theory."

Well now, is there? And furthermore is not the Attorney General equally logical in sweeping away the defense of their conduct offered by the good citizens that during the next one hundred years. Let us hope that they will be miracles of good and not evil, miracles that will make the world happier, not miracles that will bring more misery; miracles that will create wonders—as some of our scientific miracles have done. We have wonderful scientific discoveries of healing and restoration—but we also have scientific discoveries of that which sears and kills. We have discoveries of engineering marvels but we also have discoveries of engines of destruction.

Mrs. E. F. Housholder Hostess To Members Evening Bridge Club

The members of the Evening Bridge Club were most delightfully entertained on Tuesday evening by Mrs. Ernest Housholder at her attractive home on Evans Street.

The dainty color scheme of pink, white and green, was carried out in every detail. Sweet peas, baby breath and asparagus ferns, were arranged with artistic effect in the rooms where the card tables were placed.

Tallies done in floral designs, were used in keeping the scores, and after a spirited game of bridge, the prize for high score, a silver vanity, went to Mrs. W. C. Hill. The men's high score prize cigarette case, was given to W. C. Hill.

Refreshments consisting of a salad course with accessories and coffee were served by the hostess at the conclusion of the card game.

Those playing were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher.

Mrs. Jas. F. Hawkins Entertains At Bridge At The Woman's Club

The regular fortnightly bridge party given for the members of the Social Department of the Woman's Club, was held on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. James F. Hawkins as the gracious hostess.

Quantities of sweet peas in the varying shades of pink, were used in charming profusion in the large club lounge. The lights were shaded in pink which added a soft warm glow over the party scene.

A most absorbing game of bridge was played during the afternoon, when scores were counted after a number of progressions, the prize for top score, a green pottery jar, was awarded Mrs. W. D. Gardiner.

After the card game, the tables were covered with dainty dishes and refreshments of salad, saltines, ripe olives, and coffee were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. A. C. Fort, Mrs. W. D. Gardiner and Mrs. J. C. Deen. There followed 11 tables of players and the afternoon enjoyable.

A large number of out-of-town guests were in attendance.

The pictures are real works of art secured from the Metropolitan Museum and Miss Watters from her personal knowledge and study gives to those who hear her a wonderful season of mental and spiritual privilege.

She deals with the religious history connected with this cathedral. It is hoped that a large congregation will hear her.

LATEST FASHION HINTS FOR MILADY

BY MARY MAHISH, L. Copyright McClure-Syndicate

Before Clothes Came Into Fashion Women Wore Bracelets and They Are Wearing Them Still. Bracelets are among the earliest of personal ornaments. It may be that they are the oldest—and that men and women wore those bands upon their arms before they had thought of wearing rings or acquired the trick of wearing necklaces. At all events they are to be found among the most ancient collections from Egypt and Assyria. And where our own pre-historic European ancestors left no records of their own handiwork there are usually bracelets of some sort to be found. So you see when you browse after some of the spectacular bracelets in the show cases and shop windows, you are following the lead of your remotest ancestors. The desire to wear bracelets is, indeed, quite primitive.

We wear bracelets in quite a barbaric way nowadays—a goodly number of them crowded on one arm, not a single delicate bangle in the mingling late Victorian manner. If you like you may loop a long string of pearls or other stones around your arm, get this effect of many bracelets—or you may wear a number of similar bracelets, or a whole armful of different sorts of bracelets. Once that would have been considered quite bad taste, but it's the fashion nowadays.

Bracelet is the term we usually use to describe these arm ornaments nowadays, a word also used in France. We might call them armlets, but this word is usually reserved to designate bracelets worn above the elbow. Bangle is a word of Hindu origin—the original all being "bhangri." It should apply to bracelets without a clasp. We sometimes feel also that bangles should hang loose on the arm—perhaps because the word "bangle" suggests "dangle," though of course, it has nothing at all to do with it.

Arms, armilla and armlet are words that you might substitute for the overworked bracelet if you like to be different. And if you are casting about for an interesting hobby you might take to collecting bracelets. Persian bracelets and bracelets from India, Inca and Maya bracelets from South and Central America, Congo bracelets and Esquimaux bracelets of bone.

THOUGHTS—WISE AND OTHERWISE

Midwinter gardening is great fun and all the garden enthusiasts I know indulge in it. As you probably know, this is the way to do it. Decide on the extent of your garden. Maybe it is an acre of vegetables, and three hundred feet of flower borders. Maybe it is two window boxes in the fifth-story apartment.

Then send for catalogues. While you are waiting for them get some library books—or buy them—on the particular gardening problems that interest you. Get a notebook or a little card index box, and some pens and pencils.

Then some evening, preferably in front of an open fire, when a lizard roars outside, go to work at your indoor gardening. Map out your garden space and letter in your crops, vegetable or floral. Make out your seed and plant and fertilizer orders. For each month, beginning with the earliest spring of your locality, make a time chart, which will tell you when to begin gardening operations of all sorts. You can have great fun planning your flower borders if you will make colored sketches with water colors or crayons. Just color in regular splashes of color for the different masses of perennials or annuals, and get your color effects perfected before you begin planting. It is easier to change them when you find orange azelia between purple iris and magenta tulips.

ROLLINS COLLEGE WOULD ELEVATE ATHLETIC ETHICS

President Hamilton Holt Says Intercollegiate Contests a Tall Far Shore of Athletics Which Should Be Practiced

WINTER PARK, Fla., Jan. 27.—Following the announcement of disciplinary measures rendered by the faculty of Rollins College in the case of a student who violated the ethics of good sportsmanship in intercollegiate athletics, Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of the college, gave a brief address to the faculty outlining his policies with regard to college athletics.

He declared that he would insist his purpose would be to continuously hold Rollins men and women to the highest ethical standards in their participation in both national and international affairs.

Intercollegiate athletics while having improved in tone of late years is still, as practiced, far short of the ideals that should prevail in contests between educated men.

Bobby Cox And Kid Gamer Fight To Draw In Feature Bout At Armory

Kid Gamer, Hartford, Conn., and Bobby Cox, Jacksonville, both in the 150-pound class, fought a 10 round draw last night at the armory in the feature bout of the first of a series of matches to be promoted here by Henry Godale, clever lightweight well known in the squared circle of this state.

Stalling through the first three rounds, the boys opened in the fourth, Cox taking the initiative and leading the fighting in the majority of the frames. A dazzling attack of stinging left jabs and short body blows failed to penetrate Gamer's guard, the Connecticut fighter's consistent fighting offsetting Cox's sporadic flashy attacks.

Rallying from a succession of short jabs to the stomach, Cox staged a comeback in the sixth, decisively outpointing Gamer and winning the first of two frames credited each by newspaper men.

The seventh went to Gamer by a slight margin, the swarthy boy scoring two of the only three clean blows put over in this round. The eighth and ninth showed neither to advantage, the tenth going to Cox, who rallied and caved himself from the short end of the decision by forcing Gamer to the ropes with body blows.

Irving Kayotes Stables. Al Irving of Orlando, 135, sent Kid Stables, of Virginia, 135, to defeat via the dreamland route in the fourth frame of a scheduled six round preliminary which rivaled the main go in point of cleverness exhibited by the Orlando scrapper, who is just about the fastest lad seen in the local ring in quite awhile.

Leading his heavier opponent throughout the fight, and beating him to openings consistently, the superiority of Irving was never in doubt. Lightning-like lefts to the jaw, and damaging blows to the middle rapidly wore Stables down and made him an easy mark for the knock-out blow coming near the end of the fourth.

Scherpe Bests Laing. The second knockout of the show was scored by "Gob" Scherpe, Atlanta, 150, over Jack Laing, Chicago, 154, under rather questionable conditions in the fourth bout of their scheduled six round main event.

Laing had been forced over the ropes by the rushing tactics of the Georgia youth, who was shaded in the first two rounds of the bout.

The kayote blow was administered while Laing was bent back over the ropes with his hands at his sides, the end coming as a rather welcome finale to the poorest fight on the card.

In addition to the main bout and the two preliminaries, a battle royale between eight dour huskies furnished much amusement as did several impromptu four-round matches between the most likely looking survivors of the night.

Harry Brown, of Orlando, refereed the fights. Preparatory to introducing contestants of the first go, Godale announced that matches would be held in the armory every week, and that the best boys obtainable would be brought here as long as Sanford fans exhibited an interest in the sport.

Orlando Anglers To Compete In Casting Contests At DeLand

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Dr. P. F. Thompson, chairman of the local casting committee, has announced that Orlando will be represented at the Volusia county casting events in DeLand on Jan. 29 during the county fair to be held there.

The local casters have accepted the invitation of F. M. Curry, president of the DeLand Anglers' Club, W. H. Pradier, Fred Brown, Jack Stacey, H. L. Pierce, and C. J. Flynn will in all probability compose the larger portion of the team, the announcement says.

Don Cheney, acting captain of the local surf casters, may decide to take his proteges to the Volusia county seat for this event, he has stated.

Daytona Five Wins From Local Team On Sanford Court

In a fast game featured by poor refereeing, Sanford High lost to the Daytona quintet on the local basketball court last night by the narrow margin of 10 to 11, the winning goal of the visitors coming in the last few minutes of play.

Under the leadership of Captain King, and Luke Thompson, speedy forwards, the locals easily outplayed Daytona and had things stated.

While the local casters will be after a goodly portion of the prizes that the DeLand Anglers' Club has hung up, they will carry with them an official invitation to all anglers to attend the Orlando casting tournament to be held Feb. 11 to 13.

The tournament in DeLand is expected to be a really state-wide contest as it has proven in the past. Usually there are participants from all over the state with the west coast doing most of the leading.

much their own way until a succession of fads gave the visitors an opportunity of evening the score in the last half of the game.

Four personal fouls on Cottingham, Sanford center, caused his removal and the substitution of Duffin.

Russell and Block at guards starred for Sanford, and were instrumental in breaking up many combinations of the Daytonians.

A return engagement will be played at a later date, Coach Frisbie announced this morning, at which time the locals are determined to make a local contest necessary by evening up the series.

Coach Frisbie's charges, exhibited improved defensive tactics in the game last night, and another week of intensive training is expected to round out completely this hitherto weak side of the quintet.

study, but I had never sung it with a company. I knew if I told him this all would be lost.

"First, I asked for a full rehearsal but the conductor insisted this was unnecessary. Finally, an hour's rehearsal with the orchestra was obtained on the ground that it would be embarrassing if the musicians, unfamiliar with my interpretation of the role, should fail to follow me.

"When I walked on the stage the night of the performance, I could feel the shock I was giving through my interpretation. As the slave girl I came out meekly and sang my part without the force, volume and self-assertion with which it had been presented by other singers.

"My interpretation was based on the fact that no one but myself was supposed to know I was the daughter of a king. To those around I was a helpless slave, unhappy in the realization that the man whom I hopelessly loved was sent out to conquer my father's country. Only in the Nile scene with my father and Radames, in which my identity is revealed, did I come out from my meekness and act as the princess and sing with full volume in the consciousness of my position. The thrill came when my interpretation was acclaimed.

FLORIDA TRUTH CAMPAIGN GETS ADDED RESULTS

Newspaper Advertising Does Much Toward Clearing Up Prejudiced State Reports

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 22.—The newspaper advertising campaign of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce designed to tell the truth about Florida in those sections where conditions in the state have been misrepresented by propagandists, is bringing scores of inquiries in which the writers refer to alarming stories they are hearing.

One resident of Toledo, O., who is desirous of coming to Florida to make his home, wants a small farm. He indicates that he has about $5,000 in cash but is afraid to come here because of what he has heard about conditions.

"I have been wanting to go to Florida for some time," he wrote, "but have been advised by some of my friends here in the north to stay away from Florida at present if I don't want to go broke. They tell me that land and necessities of living are so high down there that a person with moderate means would not stand much of a chance."

Another writer, in Chicago, wants to know if "a poor man has any chance to make a living." "We are hearing and reading so many different stories about the present land boom, how hundreds of poorer

An Open Secret about the Crenshaws of Havana and Tampa

YOU KNOW them—not by the name of Crenshaw—but you know them. They have large shipping interests and their name is a by-word in maritime circles. They have numerous real estate holdings in Florida and when it is noised about that "the Crenshaws are buying this or that" no other recommendation is needed.

So great is their influence they prefer that we keep their name secret. That is why we call them Crenshaw instead of the real name.

Two years ago this prominent family decided not to go to the Riviera or to Paris or to the Maine woods, but to follow the advice of certain friends and visit the nearby city of Asheville. They came, they saw, and were conquered.

Again this year they came to Asheville and, though they were resting between golf matches, they bought real estate. It is figured conservatively that the Crenshaws have more than a half million dollars invested in Asheville and they are constantly increasing their holdings. Of course no one knows how much money they have made. That is their business and they are not telling.

To us, to you, and to all of the people everywhere, it is significant that people like the Crenshaws who can go anywhere and buy anything are so impressed with business opportunities and living in the beautiful climate of "The Land of the Sky" that they gladly take root in Asheville. Real estate is changing hands. Business is brisk. Industrial plants are being built. The mountain air is bracing and healthy. It is never too cold, never too hot. Every day an out-of-doors day.

Visitors to Asheville marvel at the city—courses that professionals can you find more luxurious appointments more efficient and pleasing service.

Many golf courses are located in the city—courses that professionals play to the skies. Tennis courts are everywhere. Horseback riding over the mountains a real thrill.

Spring in Asheville is a ravishing sight of beautiful green trees, purple topped mountains and blue sky; long, fertile slopes, mountain peaks, and smooth roads coax you out into the bracing mountains.

rosy. Men with drooping shoulders walked out erect. Shy young girls came out with a swing to them of walking on the rim of the world. Within that shabby tent, at fifty cents per interview, Romance lifted his head. Hope sprang eternal in the human breast. Beauty peered into lives as sodden as old dish-rags.

And at fifty cents an interview, day-in and day-out, week-in and week-out, year-in and year-out, fourteen of them, Suwanee, who was gradually, under the cheese-cloth kimono, becoming as weakened and as gnarled as a tree, sat in the dead air of his little tent and peered into calloused palms.

It did not matter much that outside Suwanee's tent there roared and plunged and boiled and sang and smiled the bluest ocean in the world, or that the sun that beat on that tent was benign enough to call visitors from all parts of the country to bask in it. It did not matter to Suwanee, who sat in his tent like some mottled old toad on its stool, that outside his flap streamed holiday spirit and laughter of pleasure-seekers and joyousness of sun-kissed youth. Day after day after day after day, Suwanee, with his lusterless old eyes fixed on the incandescent bulb, or peering into the dish-washing palm, or cracking softly on the disappointment-aching skulls, sat in his tent; and outside the golden days marched on and on and on.

Except evenings, after the electric-lighted beach had died down and the last laugh had trailed off, and the band stand had bellowed its last brass note. Then Suwanee, in that hour before he went to bed on a pallet in the airless ante-room, ventured out with his kimono on for warmth against the bite of the night air, and his turban on for fear a pedestrian might lose the illusion of his mystery. Indeed, those night walks of Suwanee on the sand-shining beach sometimes washed in moonlight or in starlight or immersed in the purple of darkness were full of illusion. The majestic, turbaned figure of him swathed in the silence of the ocean front, mystic under moonlight, mysterious under starlight, a little awful, a little boddy, a little omniscient, stalking along the beach.

It was only when Suwanee turned inward from the beach toward the little farm lands and truck gardens that ran back toward the city, that he dared to remove the turban for the flow of cool air through his grizzled hair, or dared lift his face brazenly to the night sky, or remove the kimono that flopped so between his knees and carry it like a coat across his arm.

There was one little house set in a truck garden where Suwanee, under cover of darkness, sometimes dared to stop for a drink of water from a pump in the side yard. There were no dogs and a widow lived there who had given him leave to enter at will. Sometimes the squawking of the pump handle as Suwanee draw off his drink aroused the good widow, who thrust out her head, a grizzled one in curl papers rather outlandishly surmounted by a polka dot nightcap, to swap the time of evening with Suwanee who, devoid of his turban and kimono, was just a tired old man pumping for a drink.

Sometimes they swapped the time of day, or rather time of evening. Once the good widow gave him two molasses cookies that slid around on a china plate as she handed them out to him from the window. Sometimes as they stood there talking in the evening, a distant dog or two began to bay loudly. Otherwise these little confabs of the widow and Suwanee were rather quiet affairs, just "How do you do" and "Fine evening," and "Have another cup of it, it draws up cooler if you draw longer," or, "There's a fog off the ocean tonight."

One day, peering out like the speckled old toad on his stool, Suwanee beheld the good widow sitting there in his ante-room with her good-natured looking, freckled hands folded on her stomach and her neat black bombazine dress making her hot and uncomfortable in the stuffiness of the tent, the stuffiness under which Suwanee had managed to survive for year after year, the breathless, tired, stale old interior, full of the dead dreams and the dead hopes and the dead youth of people who yearned for surcease from reality.

There she sat in the bombazine dress, the good widow, with her rotund face a little wistful, as if sniffing of the odor of mystery that permeated the tent, and her fifty-cent piece tied in the corner of her handkerchief, which she spun around her forefinger as she waited.

The good widow. It made Suwanee chuckle a little as he fitted on his turban, the memory of her as she had so often leaned in her polka-dot cap, out of her little vine-trailing window to hand him molasses cookies.

The tired, patient hand of the good widow. It lay in Suwanee's almost with a little cling to it. Lines in it that were somehow dear lines because they were so full of the burden of willingness. The hand of the good widow, to Suwanee who had held hundreds, indeed thousands of just such tired old hands, was somehow a hand with a little burr-like quality. The usual patter of the tent of mystery. Suwanee could have recited it backwards, upside down, topsy turvy. A long journey; a dark man; a jealous friend; a trip across the ocean; an unexpected inheritance, and then the good widow, with the corner of her handkerchief with the fifty-cent piece, was gone.

And then one night, to the creaking of the pump handle, the good widow leaned out and handed him a molasses cookie and when she said good evening, the polka-dot cap on her frizzed gray hair did a little jerk that brought it down over one ear. "You're Suwanee," she said, "ain't you?" So that Suwanee himself, secure in his improvisation, leaped forward with surprise.

"How do you know?"

"I knew right off, first time," she said.

"What picture?"

"Why, your picture on the outside of your tent."

"Yes, but I have on my turban and gown there?"

"Turban and gown nothing. It's your eyes. I knew you right off. Even before I come to have my fortune told. Say, it was punk, what you told me."

"Why?"

"Dark man in my life. Trip across the ocean. Looka my hair. Gray as yours. I have a fine chance of having a dark man in my life, now haven't I? When he comes he'll be gray, gray as you."

"What else did I tell you?"

"Nothin' much. What do you bet that I am better at fortunes than you? Give me your hand. I see a gray-haired woman in your life, on a truck farm that is on a paying basis. And I see you there, too. In overalls, instead of a yellow cotton kimono, and a he-man sombrero hat on your head instead of a yellow cotton turban. What do you see?"

"I see it, too," said Suwanee, not withdrawing his palm.

fourteen years Suwanee had worn a gold cheese-cloth and a kimono made out of an old portiere, from early morning until late at night, in the Arabian tent in which he g fortunes.

en when Suwanee walked out along the beach at night, himself from the closeness of the air in the crowded tent, he wore his turban and his portiere, lest the illusion led for some passerby. And sometimes the moonlight, on the sand, cast over the tired old man a real illusion of mystery, of greatness, of omniscience.

All that the passersby on the board-point beach had to do was to enter tent-flap and sit in the stuffy over-room until Suwanee, in his cheese-cloth, peered between the portieres.

"Let's have our fortunes told," would cry a group of merry-makers ambling along the beach. Usually Suwanee, seated in his little back room, could hear the young exuberants and indicate as much by reaching over for the yellow cheese-cloth turban and putting it on his gray head a little tiredly.

An old incandescent bulb answered as a crystal ball and for the phrenology part Suwanee had a little wooden mallet, one of the kind they give away as souvenirs at cabaret shows, with which he pounded the disillusioned and disappointed but hopeful skulls of his clients.

In his way Suwanee might well be entitled to the glow of the humanitarian. Tired servant girls left his tent with their glazed eyes suddenly luminous with having peered into a future that was

California Citrus League Protests Freight Rates To The Atlantic Coast

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 27. (AP)—Announcement Thursday from Washington that the California Citrus League and the California Fruit Growers Exchange had filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission against their freight rates to the Atlantic seaboard was not unexpected, according to J. Curtis Robinson, secretary manager of the Growers and Shippers League of Florida.

The complaint alleges that the action of the carriers in making a terminal charge of three cents per 100 pounds on citrus fruit above the blanket rate of $1.55 per 100 lbs., which applies to all territory east from Denver to the Atlantic seaboard, is excessive and unreasonable and unjust, and that it is hurting the California citrus trade in New England, New York and New Jersey.

Former Rate Was $1.73. According to Mr. Robinson, the rate was formerly $1.73 per 100 pounds with a minimum load of 28,700 pounds and it produced a revenue of $461.91 per car while the present rate of $1.55 per 100 pounds with a minimum load of 26,000 pounds produces a car revenue of $358.

After the $1.55 was granted, the league secretary explained, the Erie railroad applied for an increase division of a through rate and filed a complaint against western lines contending that divisions of the eastbound transcontinental rates on fresh fruits and vegetables were unjust and inequitable.

They were granted the three cents per hundred pounds increase in their proportion of the revenue before the rest of the charges were divided.

This new complaint, is pointed out, is an attempt on the part of California shippers to get the same 100 pound rate applied to New York and New England territory as applies to Denver, Chicago, St. Louis, Birmingham and Atlanta.

"The railroads have already recognized the heavier loading on the part of the California shippers, which was adopted by them during the period of federal control of the railroads, and have given them the benefit of a reduction in rates which the heavier loading justifies," Secretary Robinson asserted.

"The carriers in the southeast have refused to recognize the heavier loading on the part of Florida shippers and have given the shippers no benefit of any reduction in rates which their increased loading or greatly increased tonnage justifies.

"On account of the failure of the Florida shippers to get any rate reduction in proportion to the increase loading, the Growers and Shippers League of Florida through the state railroad commission complained to the interstate commerce commission. The complaint is now pending and a further hearing is expected in March or April.

Mr. Luning replied. "It's encouraging to a man who is anything but wealthy."

Former Newspaper Man

The state treasurer was a newspaperman for a number of years during his early manhood. After coming to Florida, as a youth of 19, he became one of the proprietors of the Leesburg Commercial.

In addition to being state treasurer, Mr. Luning is a member of virtually every important board which functions at the Capitol in the transaction of Florida's governmental affairs. He is also the supervising head of the state's very active insurance department.

Dollar Went Fast

When it came to discussing how he spent his first dollar, however, Mr. Luning could not remember back that far, except, he said, "wherever the dollar went, it was well spent."

"My father was anything but in good circumstances in those days," the treasurer said, "and the value of a dollar meant much to me. Suffice it to say whatever I bought with my first dollar, or whatever I paid it out on, it went in the direction which must have meant much to my family."

"It's mighty nice to be a wealthy man, now, though," a newspaperman commented.

"Florida's treasury custodian smiled broadly.

"Who said I was wealthy?" he asked.

"It's generally talked about," he was told.

Beach Would Give His Illegitimate Daughter All Of Advantages Of Life

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Stanley Yale Beach, descendant of William The Conqueror and Elihu Yale, is determined to give a 17-year old illegitimate daughter as many material advantages as his three legitimate children.

The story of a 26 year liaison with another woman, whom he wishes to marry has been revealed in Mr. Beach's announced determination to fight effort of his wife and family to prevent him from providing for Mrs. Caroline Watson and their child.

Suit has been started by Beach to compel the direct payment to him of the income from a trust fund established by his grandfather, Alfred E. Beach, founder of Scientific American.

The suit is to offset an action taken by Mrs. Beach and other members of his family in a Connecticut court which resulted in the appointment of a conservator for him on account of "mental derangement and physical infirmity."

Mrs. Helen Birdsey Curtis Beach is said to be willing to forgive her husband if he will return to their home at Stratford, Conn., and forsake the other woman and her child.

Mr. Beach said yesterday that he had long ago sought a divorce from his wife, but that she had objected. He stated he would again attempt to divorce her in order to marry Mrs. Watson and legitimize Marguerite. At one time, he said he was on the point of legally adopting the child, when his wife, although a first agreeing, objected.

German Artists Are Incensed Over Late Censorship On Art

BERLIN, Jan. 27. (AP)—A protest movement has been inaugurated by German artists against the severity of the censorship to which art is subjected in Germany.

The freedom of art, they contend, is seriously jeopardized when things have come to such a pass that anything resembling a revolutionary idea in painting, sculpture, literature or the drama is legally prosecuted under the heading of "high treason" or "inciting to class hatred" on the contention that the safety of the Republic is at stake.

Miami High School Is Largest In The State, Roemer Says

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Miami Senior High School, with an enrollment of 1,349, is the largest high school in Florida, it reports to Dr. Joseph Roemer, professor of secondary education and high school visitor, are to be taken as an indication of the size of the institutions.

The reports, made on the Southern Association High School blanks for the month of October, 1925, listed Tampa Senior High School, Hillsboro, as second, with 1,300; Jacksonville Senior High School, Duval, 1,221, and St. Petersburg Senior High School, 1,000.

Dr. Roemer would not commit himself in naming the largest high school of Florida. It would be unfair to do so, he declared, without defining the type of the school considered. For example, he said, it would not be right to compare the enrollment of a traditional high school of grades nine to twelve with a modern senior high school of grades ten to twelve.

The four high schools in the state of Florida, the professor said, with over a thousand enrollment are all of the modern senior high school type, consisting of grades ten, eleven and twelve.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS

TAMPA—A jury here brought in a verdict of guilty against Frank Stevens, of Plant City, charged with violation of the liquor law, when the "evidence" on exhibit was not liquor, but water. The error was not discovered until after the jury had retired with the case. The judge averred that it would make no difference as the authorities proved that Stevens sold the real stuff to others at the same time. Defense counsel, however, gave notice that an appeal would be taken on the ground that Stevens was in the "water business."

ALACHUA—A new weekly newspaper, the Alachua Free Press, has made its appearance here. The publication, issued by the Arkells, of Inverness, is in charge of F. C. Simpson as managing editor.

QUINCY—Jefferson, Leon, Gadsden, Liberty, Wakulla and Franklin counties, at a meeting held at Tallahassee, joined in formation of the North-Central Florida Education Association. F. B. Harrisfield was elected president and C. H. Gray, of Gadsden county, secretary and treasurer. The purpose was to promote educational work and to carry out the idea of the Florida Education Association, at its last meeting.

PORT MYERS—William P. Munquell who played the "Good Samaritan" to four men, injured in an automobile accident, admitted to a local hospital for treatment, was arrested for the alleged use of profane language when he is charged with having given voice to his feelings over what he considered unnecessary delay in "card indexing" the life's history of the men, while they were "apparently dying."

DAYTONA BEACH—The proposed use of the name "Daytona-The Inlet City" for a new community, south of Port Orange, has brought on a legal controversy. Heads of the new town insist that the use of such a name is within the law, and the local chamber of commerce is equally as positive that it cannot.

MADISON—Plans have been decided upon here for the formation of a Madison county Calf Club, on the same lines as that governing operation of the Madison county Pig Club. The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the movement.

MIAMI—H. F. George, motorcycle officer of the local police force, arrested a man in an automobile with a suspicious looking sack of something which ultimately proved to be liquor and champagne. He hustled the man to jail and there found that he had taken into custody Federal Officer Keys, fresh from a raid himself.

PORT MYERS—Plans are going forward here rapidly for the state meeting of members of the Elks Lodge, April 6 and 7.

MARVANIA

"The last of the Eastern Lake Section"

Those who invested their money in Florida property only a few years ago had to have both vision and imagination to picture the tremendous possibilities of this amazing country.

That they reaped a rich reward for their faith goes without saying, for the upward trend of real estate values in this section has aroused and astounded the whole world.

The investor of today is in a far better case than his predecessor, and in every possible way from an investment standpoint has the advantage. He is not asked to imagine this, or believe that, or to visualize something else, for he can see with his own eyes the building and expansion through which we are going.

In other words the investor of today has mighty little tax either upon his vision or imagination. All he must do is profit by the experience of successful men.

In Sanford itself he can see without resorting to clairvoyance the certain increase in land values that must always attend the upbuilding of a big and prosperous city that cannot and will not stop until it is completely equipped to care for its increasing population.

MARVANIA

"The Last of the Eastern Lake Section"

is most certain to show the largest value enhancement of any of Greater Sanford developments. We will gladly drive you to the property and give you complete information.

Members of the Supreme Court on the bench now are Armistead Brown, chief justice, and Judges J. B. Whitfield, W. H. Ellis, Glenn Terrell, Louie W. Strum and Rivers Buford.

Possibly one of the most important opinions handed down since organization of the Supreme Court was that regarding a survey of the Everglades lands of South Florida, in which millions of dollars worth of property was involved.

It is virtually impossible to obtain the exact total number of cases handled by the higher tribunal, because of the fact that those disposed of are not handled in successive numerical order, but by terms. Taking the June term of 1924 as the average, however, would bring the result to over 25,000.

Of Only Surviving Who Fought With Kit Carson's Band Ask Pension For Comfort In Last Days

DENVER, Col., Jan. 27. (AP)—Colorado friends of Dick Rutledge, last survivor of Kit Carson's famous band of Indian scouts, who now lives in Denver, are trying to have Congress pass a special act granting him a pension so that he may pass his declining years in comfort.

The veteran also served the government in other ways, once under General Phil Sheridan, but was never enlisted regularly. For this reason, he is not eligible for a pension unless special legislation provides for him.

In appearance the eighty year old plainsman is almost the double of the late Buffalo Bill, his co-scout. Like Colonel Cody, Rutledge has flowing locks, sweeping mustache and goatee. He towers six feet and three and a half inches, greater in height by one and a Ravenna Park...

"The Gem of the Country Club Section"

The improvements in Ravenna Park are progressing rapidly. One street has been cut through to the paved highway and others are nearing completion. Lots have been staked off and the real beauty of this high grade development may be seen.

Autoists Should Get New Tags Immediately

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Lack of uniformity in the granting of an extension of time in which motorists are permitted to secure 1926 license plates before the imposition of a penalty has prompted the Florida State Chamber of Commerce to suggest that the driver of a car who expects to leave the confines of his own county should not do so without the new tag.

The majority of the counties fixed Feb. 1, as the limit but many adopted Jan. 16, and since that time have been arresting all motorists who appear without the 1926 tag.

Duval county was one of those which set Jan. 15, as the limit.

St. Lucie county also allowed only 15 days of grace and since Jan. 16, the Sheriff and his deputies have been arresting delinquents in St. Lucie motorists without the 1926 tags are sent to jail if they cannot post a $50 bond.

Big Cement Company To Locate At Tampa

TAMPA, Jan. 27. (AP)—Construction of the $5,000,000 cement plant to be established by the Florida Portland Cement Company at Hooker's Point, on the waterfront here, is expected to begin within the next few days and to be completed within the expectation that it will be ready for operation by Dec. 1. The plant will have a production capacity of 1,000,000 barrels annually.

The plant site is a 100-acre tract owned by the Florida Cement Co. and is situated on the channel and adjacent to the wharves are being assembled.

More Than Fifty Per Cent Of Florida Counties Will Exhibit At Tampa Fair

Tampa, Jan. 27.—More than fifty per cent of the counties of Florida will exhibit at the South Florida Fair at Tampa, Feb. 2 to 18. In addition to the counties which participated in Domestic science and practical arts the past, 10 new counties have classes of the Tampa high schools joined the ranks of the exhibitors are arranging a special working and are preparing extensive displays.

Each county will have an equal chance to win major awards, this year through a new classification of county exhibits. Five major and nine minor groups are provided, giving a range which will give full opportunity to each county, regardless of its speciality in production. At the same time, each county can compete in every group. Grain counties will not be at a disadvantage to citrus counties, and the opposite, while truck counties have an opportunity in a major group to show their excellence in vegetable and garden products. No restriction is placed upon the county entry and a county may enter all groups.

The plans for the fair have matured so rapidly this year, preparations are 10 days ahead of schedule, P. T. Strieder, general manager, said. Requests for space have been so large, it is certain the last minute applications cannot be provided for, he said. The building program practically is complete and painting and whitewashing will be finished this week. Decorating is well under way with decoration plans the most elaborate in the association's history. Electrical arrangements alone have forced the Tampa Electric Company to erect a special sub-power station on the grounds.

Several new features will be offered by the committees. Like

Legislators Mourn Passing Of Chancey

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Members of the legislature of Florida as a whole mourned the death of W. H. "Uncle Bill" Chancey, doorkeeper of the Senate, who was buried here, with the Odd Fellows, Masons and Typographical Union participating in the last rites.

Two "brothers" of the fraternities and of the printing organization acted as pallbearers at the funeral. Mr. Chancey, who was 70 years old, was regarded by the state's solons as one of the most lovable characters who had ever been thrown into contact with the legislators. He guarded the door of the senate at both the 1925 regular session, and the special gathering held last November.

MARTINS TO ATTEND FAIR

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Governor Martin today confirmed the report that he and Mrs. Martin would attend the observance of Gasparilla Day at the South Florida Fair at Tampa, Feb. 8 to 10.

New Type Of Brakes Is Tested At Purdue Engineering School

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Replacement of airbrakes on locomotives, passenger and freight cars of American railways by a new braking system may follow a series of experiments now being conducted at the engineering school of Purdue University.

The aim of the tests, undertaken by the American Railway Association with the assistance of the engineering staff of Purdue, is to obtain a brake that will bring trains to a quicker and smoother stop. A brake similar to the four wheel brake on automobiles is under discussion.

Should the new brakes prove more efficient than the present types, railroads may find it necessary to replace equipment at a cost of many millions of dollars. The investigation is expected to require a year.

Broken Collar Bone Is Suffered By Wales As He Is Thrown By Horse

LEICESTER, Eng., Jan. 28.—(A)—The Prince of Wales suffered a fractured collar bone when he was thrown from his horse today while hunting with the Fernie hounds.

The accident occurred at Little Shelton this afternoon. The Prince fell on his left shoulder, breaking the collar bone, on that side. He is returning to London for medical attention.

The Prince of Wales' fall today was the second in two days. He was thrown yesterday at Milton Mowbray when his horse fell dead under him. In 1924, he suffered a broken collar bone while training a hunter.

SENATE PASSES WORLD COURT MEASURE, 76-17

Long Senate Conflict Closes With Roll Call At A Late Hour Last Night; Senator Borah Says Fight Not Over

Johnson Makes Final Effort To Defeat Bill

Lenroot And Borah Talk Over Radio. Latter Saying He Will Take Issue To Voters

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(A)—The American ship of State after a long delay, is launched in the chamber that leads to a seat in the World Court at Geneva.

The Senate gave its "advice and consent" to membership last night, adopting the resolution of adherence and its accompanying reservations by a vote of 76 to 17, 14 more than the necessary two-thirds majority. But many details and formalities remain for action before the U. S. actually becomes a member of the tribunal.

And meanwhile, Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, leader of Senate opposition to the court, declares the fight is not ended and that the people will be asked to decide it.

Coolidge To Be Notified

The next formal step is the notification of President Coolidge, by the Senate that it approves membership. The president then, through the State Department, will communicate the reservations to members of the League of Nations and require if they approve of American membership as qualified by the reservations.

If these nations reply in the affirmative, the signature of the United States will be affixed to the original protocol and statute now in Geneva. The resolution of ratification also will be filed at Geneva and American membership in the court will become a fact.

Remaining in session long past the usual hour of adjournment, the Senate swept aside a group of proposed nullifying reservations to the adherence resolution before finally adopting the resolution itself. Hundreds of speakers, including Mr. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the war president, witnessed the close of the long fight and heard a last minute appeal for defeat of the resolution delivered by Senator Johnson, Republican, of California. It had no apparent effect, however, and on the last roll call, 40 Republicans and 36 Democrats voted for American membership. Fourteen Republicans, two Democrats and one Farmer-Labor senator voted in the negative.

Ford's Renaissance Of Old Dance Music Said To Have Started In Kitchen

DETROIT, Jan. 28.—(A)—The renaissance in dance music which Henry Ford is sponsoring through the revival of old time tunes and with the aid of many old-time fiddlers, had its inception in the kitchen of a modest home outside of Big Rapids, Mich.

It was here that Henry Ford, on a vacation trip north with Thomas Edison, Harvey S. Firestone and a few other intimate friends, first saw "Jep" Bisher, maker of violins and fiddler at old-time country dances.

"Jep" or "Jasper" Bisher, of Paris, Mich., as he registered at Detroit's leading hotel as the guest of Mr. Ford, is 87 years old.

"He is the father of the movement back to the old-fashioned dances," Mr. Ford said. "I was listening to him and his old-fashioned tunes that helped to crystallize my belief that the time had come for a revival of the old dances."

A very fine old man is Jasper and he knows his business.

Ford first heard him in 1922, and shortly after "Jep" came to Detroit to make his first contribution to Mr. Ford's Americana of dance music. Later, Mr. Ford sent him east to Mr. Edison's laboratory where some of the aged fiddler's choicest selections were perpetuated in the phonograph reproduction rooms.

"Jep" played a drum for the soldiers in Detroit in 1861. Later he conducted a drug store and sold tea and coffee. At other moments he played fiddle, schottisches, polkas, quadrilles and called dances at country gatherings. At 83, "Jep" still is able to dance a jig.

"You know," he said, "I thought I was going to die, but I'm fooling 'em. I run 40 rods every day of my life and I'm 83. Yes, that's a lot of years."

PASSAGE LIMIT ON TAX BILL IS PUT AT FEB. 10

Chairman Smoot Opens Debate On Reduction Measure As It Comes Up For Consideration Before Senate

"Sound Economy" Involved In Bill

FINANCE COMMITTEE HEAD ASKS REPEAL OF THE ESTATE TAX; OTHER PROVISIONS DEFENDED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(A)—Opening senate debate on the tax reduction bill today, Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee, in charge of the measure, set Feb. 10 as the date for final passage if the reduction is to be asserted by March 15 when first income tax installments are due.

Reductions in the income taxes provided by the measure would amount to $219,000,000 this year, Mr. Smoot said, which he divided as follows: Income of less than $10,000—$52,200,000; income of $10,000 to $100,000—$16,200,000; income in excess of $100,000—$120,000,000.

Anticipating attacks on the ground that the rates gave too much reduction in incomes over $100,000 by a slash in the marginal rates from 40 to 30 per cent and not enough on incomes between $10,000 and $100,000, Senator Smoot, declared the principle of "sound economy" was involved, which looked "farther than to the interest of any individual or group."

No Cut In Corporation Tax

"The latest single source of income for these living incomes over $100,000 is from dividends, he said. "We have made no cut in the corporation taxes. To tax corporate earnings first at the 12 1/2 per cent rate whether distributed or not, again at the 20 per cent increase of distribution with an increase in excess of $100,000 of a total of 32 1/2 per cent, would seem to be going quite as far as justice and fairness can permit."

He explained that under the new tax rates, revenue would be collected from personal incomes as follows: Income of less than $10,000—$67,000,000; income of $10,000 to $100,000—$12,000,000; income in excess of $100,000—$300,000,000.

Advocating repeal of the provision allowing publicly held corporations to pay a tax on undistributed dividends of little value because of obvious means of making false returns which could be corrected after the fact, the chairman said, "has been unable to trace any additional tax receipt from the fact of publicity."

Government Should Withdraw Demand for the repeal of the estate or inheritance tax, the chairman declared it "would seem quite proper at this time for the Federal government to withdraw from a field of taxation which so fundamentally and naturally within the peculiar province of each individual state."

The provision in the House bill allowing a credit of 80 per cent on account of payments to states on inheritance taxes was assailed by Senator Smoot, who said it "defeated the retroactive cut in inheritances up to the time the pending bill becomes law rather than its higher rates in effect since 1924. This was done in a spirit of fairness and justice to the living and the dead, he said, estimating that it would cost $75,000 this year to make the retroactive reduction.

Willie MacFarlane was forced to watch the play from the veranda of the clubhouse, being laid up with a touch of cold and stomach trouble.

The big assembly gets a great amount of fun watching Arnaud Massey when the cameramen get after him for a picture. He evidently does not like to pose for a period exceeding five seconds.

Archie Compton, British open champion, was out early and was busy driving balls down the fairway of his car this morning on the way out to the course. Compton is also a favorite with the crowd.

The traffic jam was heavy this morning at a late hour, but traffic policemen, Leckwith and Williams, from the city force, had matters well in hand.

Everyone awaits the arrival of Hagen, car and all, for the champion of champions always rolls up ready for business and "raring to go."

Miko Brady was carrying a small negro lad on the running board of his car this morning on the way out to the course. Going around a curve in the road the boy rolled off and was blinking his eyes for an hour afterward. He was unharmed.

Visitors, who come in for the country, are marveling at the large field and the number of notable golfers who are competing in the history of golf in this state there has never been such an array of national and international stars gathered for any one tournament.

All the participants have declared it to be one of the best they have ever played over in the South. Sanford people have learned more to their advantage in the last two days than ever before concerning a feature of their city's attractions.

The writer was chided this morning for including the words "gold winds" in a story of the meet which was published yesterday. Sorry they can't be swallowed because a wind, while it lasted, was anything but warm.

The Chamber of Commerce has a man on the course taking pictures of the big boys.

Archie Compton went out this morning with a caddy who couldn't be measured over three feet in height. The Britisher, turned in a card of 149 for the 36 holes yesterday and was ahead of Barnes, with a score of 153 and Sarazen with 157.

Everyone was expecting to see Sarazen and the other stars come way up on the list today.

The scores for the first day ran from Hagen's 142 to a score of 181 for Neal.

The crowd was pulling for Hagen and Farrell all through the morning and the players were rewarding the spectators with some fine examples of golf.

Hagen's driving was superb, only his approach shots failing to come up to his usual standard. On every putt he was carefully surveying his lie before using his putter.

Barnes drove his first tee shot into a sand trap but made a beautiful recovery, only missing a four for the hole by bad putting.

Farrell was at the edge of the rough on his first tee off but came through with a fine iron shot that laid him in nice position on the green. Hagen was on in two but had had bad luck with his putter.

They were all doing well on the third hole and were even at that one with four each.

On the fourth Johnny Farrell drove his tee off into a sand trap and in getting out shot into the water to the left of the green. That shot was a bad break and cost him a stroke. He dropped a ball and got up in the hole for a six, only by good putting.

The most enthusiastic crowd of the meet was out today and before the finish of the final 18 holes this afternoon, a gallery of 2,000 is expected to be on hand.

COURT RULES BOY SLAYER MUST BE EXAMINED FIRST

Commission To Conduct Hearing Into Sanity Of Youth Who Killed Three Persons, Appointed By Judge Spin

YELLVILLE, Ark., Jan. 28.—(A)—The sanity of Arnold Comer, 14-year-old slayer of three persons, will be decided before the Monday circuit court trial of the slayer, Judge J. M. Spin today appointed a commission of three local physicians to hold a sanity hearing this afternoon.

YELLVILLE, Ark., Jan. 28.—(A)—Arnold Comer, 14-year-old, and three other persons, were held in the Ozark mountains for more than a week, facing trial here today.

Comer is expected to plead insanity and the boy's extreme youth and his parents declare he was only 13 years old when the crimes were committed—was also expected to have its effect with the jury.

The youth killed Mrs. Boyd, her grand daughter of two years, and Charles Moore. Previously he had shot Old Beavers, his wife and child. He had never given an adequate explanation of the killing and he evinced little concern since his arrest.

Beavers was aroused by the barking of his dogs one night and going to the door, was fired upon. Beavers, his wife and child, were hit with shot gun bullets.

Comer's father says the youth has been mentally deficient for some time and on different occasions has attacked members of his family.

SLAYER SAYS HE WILL KILL SELF AT FIRST CHANCE

David Marshall Placed Under Guard When He Threatens To Take Own Life; Wife Is Not To Aid In His Defense

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28.—(A)—David L. Marshall, confessed slayer of Anna May Dietrich, has threatened to take his life and is under guard in the hospital at Moyamensing prison.

His threat was revealed today by officers who accompanied him to the prison yesterday after he had been held without bail for the action of the coroner. He was said to have made the threat when a detective, who had visited the prisoner's wife, returned with a copy of the report that Mrs. Marshall would not aid in his defense or have anything further to do with him.

"That's the last straw," Marshall told the detective. "When I'll be frank enough to tell you I will end my life at the first opportunity." Marshall today was a mental and physical wreck, guards said.

Marshall dreads the ordeal of facing crowds at the coroner's inquest into the death of Miss Dietrich next Tuesday. Let's us wish this thing through, he told the prisoners in an assault on the guards at the same time the outside attacks and dynamite took place. One phase of it called for the firing of a rifle from the "bridge of sighs," joining the jail to the criminal courts and shooting down any opposition.

AUTHORITIES SAY NO TRUTH TO JAIL BREAK RUMORS

Six Convicted Men In Prison Guarded Heavily Just As Precautionary Measure; No Arms Were Found

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(A)—A report of a plot whereby an army of convicts would break out and assault the county jail in a wholesale delivery attempt was given little credence by jail officials today.

The information was received by a morning newspaper, which report was given it by discovery of a hole in a rear wall and finding of a hole in the cell of Henry Ferkos, alleged bandit, sentenced to jail Feb. 10.

Capt. George H. Weidinger, jailer, admitted the discovery of the hole, which he claimed was caused by deterioration of plaster in an old wall of a room only recently connected with the jail.

The masonry was repaired at once.

Because six men in the jail are awaiting the gallows during the next three weeks, extra guard with riot guns had been placed about the jail. This had no connection with any delivery plot, said Warden Watkins, but was merely a precautionary measure.

The newspaper said the plot including the smuggling of arms and explosives into the jail to be used by the prisoners in an assault on the guards at the same time the outside attacks and dynamite took place. One phase of it called for the firing of a rifle from the "bridge of sighs," joining the jail to the criminal courts and shooting down any opposition.

Three Negroes Are Given Truth Serum At Arkansas Prison

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 28.—(A)—Three negro convicts, given the "truth serum" tests here last night, were back in the Arkansas state prison today, apparently none the worse for their experience.

Under the "truth serum" experiment, two of the negroes protested their innocence, while the third admitted that he committed the crime for which he had been sentenced. The experiment was conducted before a convention of the Arkansas Peace Officers Association and many prominent police officials, criminologists and surgeons were witnesses.

Isaac Parker, under the serum's influence said he had shot and killed the man for whose murder he is serving 15 years.

Emanuel West and Abraham Clark, life termers, denied their guilt and their statements were made so freely and frankly that many of the witnesses, including Dr. R. E. House, of Ferris, Tex., who conducted the experiments, declared their belief in the negroes' innocence. West said he was sitting up in church with a corpse that night he is alleged to have attacked a white girl.

Confessions and denial of guilt obtained under the influence of the serum, Dr. House asserted after the tests, "but evidence so obtained has already proved invaluable for investigational purposes."

Wood To Be Jailed If He Doesn't Pay Up Before Returning To Palm Beach

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 28.—(A)—Osborne C. Wood, former lieutenant in the army and son of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, mayor-general of the Philippines, must settle his alleged $40,000 check deficit before he returns to Palm Beach county, if he wishes to avoid arrest and jail was the attitude today of Sheriff Bob Baker.

Sheriff Baker was in possession of a warrant charging that the former young officer obtained money under false pretenses, the specification being that he induced a bank to cash a check for him on another bank and then with drawing the funds before the check was honored. The amount, it was said, was for $250.

The Sheriff last night received a cablegram from Wood in Havana asking "How Much do I owe individuals suing me for checks?" Wood also asked the sheriff had he rather he would return to Florida and pay in person or pay by wire.

"I is none of my business whether he takes care of his alleged obligations by cable from Havana or returns here to make settlements," commented Sheriff Baker. "If he sets foot in my county before making restitution, he will be arrested and jailed."

County collector W. E. Bushback said he had in his possession eight other checks claimed to be worthless that the Palm Beach National Detective Agency charged Wood had written. The total of the nine checks was given as $3,690.
