$11,000 Wells Fargo theft results in arrest

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A 32-year-old Sanford man who allegedly stole almost $11,000 from a Wells Fargo truck Saturday, was booked into the Seminole County Jail today on a charge of grand theft.

Jwan Ferric Ashford, 89 Castle Brewer Court, reportedly admitted to the theft while being questioned Monday by Wells Fargo agents. The agents questioned Ashford about a bag of cash missing from the truck he worked on Saturday. Ashford reportedly took the Wells Fargo agents who were questioning him to his Sanford home, where the missing $10,936 was recovered.

The Wells Fargo agents reported the theft and recovery to Seminole County sheriff's deputies who arrested Ashford on charges of grand theft. He was being held today in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Seminole deputies report this account of the theft.

Ashford was working as the person who picks up bags of money from Wells Fargo customers and puts them into the security truck. The driver could not see Ashford's activity as he worked in the rear of truck, deputies said.

When Ashford reportedly took delivery of seven bags of money from Sam's Wholesale, State Road 436, Fern Park, on Saturday, he allegedly told the driver he had accepted only six bags of cash, and that number of bags was recorded as being accepted by Wells Fargo.

The driver stopped the truck next at Albertson's, State Road 434, Longwood, and when Ashford picked up a deposit there he allegedly asked a store worker for a paper bag.

During a ride from that store to another Albertson's on Montgomery Road, Ashford allegedly put the stolen deposit into the paper bag while he was riding in the rear of the truck.

out of view of the driver. He allegedly took the paper bag of cash home with him, sheriff's deputies report.

Wells Fargo officials, when they realized the cash in the truck Ashford worked on Saturday was less than receipts indicated, began to investigate.

Ashford was questioned in the case by Wells Fargo agents Monday, and early today Seminole County sheriff's deputies took over the investigation.

Karen Winkle, communications operator at the Lake Mary Police Department, takes an incoming call. The present "piece meal" console system used by dispatchers will soon be replaced by a new electronic, sophisticated console, costing over $31,000.

Lake Mary will replace old communication system

By Wayne Mize
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Police Department should have its new communications systems console in place within 90 days.

The Kustom Communicator built by Kustom Electronic will replace an obsolete "piece meal" system now used by police communication operators. The present system, which consists of separate radios for police, fire and all other city departments, has basically remained the same for the last 10 years, according to Police Captain Sam Belliore.

"In my opinion, it is long overdue," said Belliore. "The new system is expandable to take care of future growth."

The new communications console will handle all police, fire and other city radio operations.

The console will also be equipped with page-out capability which will enable the dispatcher to reach personnel with no access to telephones or radios.

The new console will cost $31,032, including installation.

According to Belliore, funds for the console were originally approved over a year ago under Emergency 911 implementation enacted in July 1986. That Interlocal Agreement between Lake Mary and Seminole County stated that the communications upgrade for Lake Mary was "not to exceed $247,710."

When the original bid proposals were made, the lowest proposal was $31,032 creating a shortfall of $6,322.

At Thursday's city commission meeting, the difference of $6,322 was made available out of the Public Projects Fund Account. The city acquired a $31,032 console for $6,322 in city tax funds.

The original appropriations for the communications system's upgrade was cut out of the fiscal budget due to the communication equipment being redesigned and it has taken almost a year for the $6,322 to be allocated.

According to Belliore, the Seminole County purchasing department must now cut a purchase order for the $247,710 and then we will pay the remainder.

Belliore estimates that the entire purchase order process and the installation of the equipment should take no longer than 90 days.

The communications console will be installed at the current police station at 145 E. Wilbur Ave., and later be moved to the Birchard Road Public Safety Complex upon its completion.

Grand jury: Nothing on Christensen

Cites 'insufficient evidence'

By J. Mark Barfield
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Seminole County grand jury says it found "insufficient proof" against Seminole County Commissioner Barbara Christensen to charge her with any violations of law.

In a "no true bill" finding Monday, the grand jury decided Christensen did nothing illegal in her capacity as an elected public official.

Special Prosecutor Stephen Kutz would not reveal what the investigation concerned.

However, Christensen says she has a good idea what the investigation was about.

• She said a $270,000 real estate commission she received in 1983 for brokering the sale of 1,100 acres of Seminole County land for $12 million.

• Allegations that she had illegally used her political influence to favor friends or campaign contributors.

• And allegations that she used undue influence to collect campaign contributions.

"I have no information that any of these allegations were investigated," Christensen said today.

"They are only rumors that I have heard. The prosecutor told me nothing about what was being investigated."

"That's the scary part, you don't know what you are accused of," she said.

Christensen said she waited outside the grand jury hearing room all day Monday in case she was to be called as a witness, but the call never came.

The jury's announcement that it has found insufficient evidence for an indictment was the first official word Christensen heard of its deliberations, she said.

"It brings back my faith in the system," she said of its findings.

Kutz was appointed by Gov. Martinez to investigate allegations of possible illegal actions when the county purchased 2,867 acres near Yankee Lake from developer Jeno Paulucci at 2 a.m. Nov. 5, 1985. The grand jury last February decided that the purchase was legal.

Barbara Christensen
...No wrongdoing

The grand jury reportedly will continue its investigation of another allegation produced from its investigation of the Yankee Lake tract purchase, although the matter is said to be unrelated to the purchase.

Christensen was the lone dissenter in the vote to purchase the property and she charges fellow commissioners and county staff brought on the investigation against her as a vendetta. During the Yankee Lake investigation, they may have told the grand jury "Don't look at me, look at Barbara," she said.

Christensen said special prosecutor Kutz assured her Monday the second item does not involve her.

But she remains angry. "It was an absolute vendetta," Christensen said. "Dirty politics or not, that's just politics."

Christensen said the investigation may have slowed contributions to her campaign for county tax collector, but did not harm her campaign.

She said had the grand jury decided to pursue allegations against her, she would have dropped her bid for the tax collector's office because it would be difficult to defend herself in court and run a campaign.

Debate on proposed charter

By J. Mark Barfield
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Members of the Seminole County Charter Advisory Committee narrowly gave their approval Monday night to continue electing the sheriff and other constitutional officers.

On a 7-6 vote, committee members gave their divided approval to continue allowing voters to decide who should be their sheriff, property appraiser, tax collector, supervisor of elections and clerk of court.

Non-chartered counties, including Seminole County, are required by the state Constitution to elect the five officials. However, the Constitution allows counties with voter-approved charters to select other ways of filling the positions of those with similar responsibilities, including appointment by county commissioners of the county administrator.

Arguing for appointing the officials was committee member Gary Shader.

"Why do we have an elected supervisor of elections?" Shader questioned. "Why don't we have an elected zoning director? We have seven appointed police chiefs in the county. If it's good enough to have in the cities, why can't we have an appointed law enforcement official in the county?"

Committee Chairman Marilyn Crotty also questioned the need for an elected supervisor of elections.

"It bothers me that during elections, the supervisor is overseeing the election and is also running his own campaign," Crotty said.

Speaking in favor of elected officials was committee member Alan Fickett.

"I want them accountable to me," Fickett said. "I don't want them accountable to another layer of government."

"Isn't an election a slow form of accountability?" responded Shader.

When committee member Susan Lipton, favoring appointed officials, said elected officials have no minimum qualifications other than those required for voters, Committee Vice Chairman Barry Miller commented, "The voters determine the qualifications."

Crotty observed that long term incumbents often have little opposition, perpetuating their position.

Committee member David McIntosh responded that incumbents remain in office only by being responsive to the needs of the public. He suggested as a compromise, though still favoring partisan elected officials, a merit retention form of election where the officials would retain their position if voters approve

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Man allegedly carries concealed gun, claims doesn't need permit

CASSELBERRY — A bail bondsman has been scheduled to appear in court April 29 to face weapons charges stemming from his allegedly carrying a concealed pistol without a permit. He is also charged in connection with allegedly having a hidden shotgun in his car.

Casselberry police, who on Saturday had questioned the right of Christopher Hendon Fuller, 33, of Orange City, to carry a concealed weapon, arrested him on a weapons charge Monday after a second incident.

The first confrontation with police was at the ABC Liquor lounge on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry, and there Casselberry police report warning Fuller that he had to have a permit to conceal and carry his 9mm pistol.

Fuller reportedly had said that because he was a bail bondsman, he didn't need a permit to carry a concealed weapon. Police researched the issue, and by Monday when Fuller, who works for A.A. Bail Bonds, was spotted at Crossroad Sports gun shop, 4700 S. U.S. Highway 17-92, police reported determining he was still armed with the pistol.

He was charged with carrying a concealed pistol without a permit. In connection with the shotgun in his car, he also was charged with carrying a concealed firearm. Fuller paid $1,000 bond to be released from jail.

Lane change leads to drug charge

CASSELBERRY — A 32-year-old Orlando man has been charged with possession of cocaine by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy, who reported the man's car made an improper lane change.

The traffic stop of the car of James Joseph Harding was made on U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry at about 7:20 p.m. Saturday.

The deputy reported finding crack cocaine and a butcher knife in Harding's car. He has been charged with possession of a concealed weapon, in addition to the cocaine charge. He was released on $1,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court April 25.

More cocaine said found in arrest

SANFORD — A man arrested on a warrant for possession of cocaine also faces a fresh charge of possession of cocaine, which was reportedly found in his pants pockets when Sanford police made the warrant arrest.

Don Tanner, 22, of 409 W. 16th St., Sanford, remains jailed today in lieu of $2,000 bond. He was arrested at 1:32 a.m. Tuesday at Tip Top Super Market, W. 13th Street, Sanford.

Burglaries and thefts reported

Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating the reported theft of two radios, an air compressor, a blender, binoculars and a fire extinguisher from the boat of Larry Allen, of 478 Eagle Circle, Casselberry.

Allen reported the items with a total value of about $700 were stolen Friday or Saturday.

Lambert John Eichner, of 3808 State Road 428, Geneva, reported to sheriff's deputies that tools and binoculars were stolen from his pickup truck and a bicycle was stolen from a shed at his home Saturday. The total value of the items is about $270.

Sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen $155 from a cash register at Krystal's restaurant, 6655 U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, Sunday.

John Ripley Sr., of 2341 Celery Ave., Midway, reported to sheriff's deputies that a $300 video recorder was stolen from his home Saturday.

Sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen $150 between March 20 and April 5 from the home of Darla Lee Delano, of 2500 Howell Branch Road #340, Winter Park. The loss was reported Sunday.

Between Friday and Sunday a burglar hit a shed at Garden Village Design, 1345 Florida Ave., Casselberry, and stole a weedwhacker, an air compressor, a lawn mower, two jack stands and tools. The total value of the loss was reported to sheriff's deputies at about $830.

A $400 stereo was reported to sheriff's deputies as stolen Saturday from the home of Terrel L. Ervin, of 3704 Washington Ave., Sanford.

A sheriff's report said $168 was stolen Friday from a cash register at Thrifty Auto Parts, 1157 W. State Road 436, Apopka. Owner Rick Washburn reported the loss Saturday.

Man hit on head, 3 take his car

SANFORD — Police are continuing an investigation today into an attack on an Orlando man, whose car was stolen by his assailants outside a Sanford bar.

William G. Smith, 50, told police that he was leaving Harry's Bar, at Second Street and Park Avenue, at approximately 9:30 p.m. Sunday when three men approached him. They hit him in the head, taking his keys and the $13 he had, Smith reported.

The men then got in his 1982 Pontiac Catalina and drove off, he told police.

Other cases under investigation by Sanford police include:

• A 1981 Cadillac belonging to Mark M. Schofield, 29, of Orange City, was reported stolen Sunday evening from the parking lot at Sanford Plaza Theater. Schofield told police he had been inside the theater and that when he came out at approximately 9:15, his car was missing.

He said he had locked the car. The vehicle's value is estimated at $8,000.

• Money and jewelry valued at $7,225 have been reported missing from the 277 Coachman Court residence of Dorothy A. Parsons, 60. That incident occurred between 2 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Friday, police said.

Officers said the unidentified burglar apparently broke into the residence through the front door. Once inside they took a plastic jug containing about $3,500 in coins, and also a pair of gold-diamond earrings and a gold-diamond watch, police said.

• A cassette player, tapes, speakers and a gold nugget ring have been reported missing from a vehicle belonging to Charles Allen, 20, of 6800 W. State Road 46. Allen told police that his 1980 blue Ford Fairmont had been broken into between 8 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. Saturday while he was visiting at 323 Paer Court.

Police said the lock on the driver's side door had been picked. The missing items are worth $1,310, police said.

• A VCR, a remote control unit, and assorted jewelry are reported missing from the residence of a 68-year-old Sanford man. Windon H. Harrison, of 2545 Park Drive, told police he had locked his house when he left at noon Monday. However, when he returned at 4 p.m. he found the front door had been forced open and discovered the items were missing, police said.

The items are valued at $1,162.

• An undetermined amount of money was reported stolen out of electronic game machines at Twin Plaza Theater, 1940 State Street. An employee returning to work at about 6:25 p.m. Monday discovered the break-in.

Police said money had been taken from six machines.

The incident occurred sometime after 3 p.m., the employee told police.

Man arrested, accused of squealing on agent

SANFORD — A 28-year-old Sanford man, who allegedly warned a street cocaine dealer that he was making a deal with a police agent, remains jailed today in lieu of $500 bond, charged with opposing police, disorderly conduct and resisting without violence.

Kenneth Edward Davis, of 1815 W. 15th St., Sanford, is accused of driving up alongside the agent's car as she negotiated a cocaine deal with a suspected street drug dealer on 13th Street, Sanford, at about 7:45 p.m. Monday.

Davis allegedly warned the suspected dealer, "Don't sell to her. The ... is a cop." Other police agents were listening to the deal through a recording device and the agent described Davis' car to them.

Davis was located at his home within minutes of the incident and arrested.

2 attacked in woods Pot plants found after beating

CHULUOTA — A 21-year-old DeLand woman who got out of her car on Snow Hill Road, Chuluota, to relieve herself, reported she was beaten by a man she met there. Today, Seminole County sheriff's deputies determined 15-20 plants, found in a camp located in the woods near the scene of the beating, to be marijuana plants.

Stacy E. Tibby, told sheriff's deputies that when she entered the woods south of the Snow Hill Bridge at about 2:15 p.m. Monday, she was confronted by a man who hit her several times with a police club. She screamed and her boyfriend, Russell Richards, of DeLand, who had been waiting in their car, came to her defense. He reported he was kicked in the torso by the suspect. The attacker allegedly picked up a shotgun and told the couple, "Come back and I'll kill you." They fled to their car to leave and report the incident.

That brought investigators to the scene who combed the woods and found about 125 yards from the scene of the attack a camp that contained personal property and several marijuana plants. City County Investigative Bureau agents were called to the scene. The name of a suspect was reportedly found in items in the camp.

A club believed to have been used in the attack and a gun were reportedly found in the camp.

Seminole blessed by sky's warmth

By Fred H. Cooper Herald Staff Writer

You want shivers up and down your spine? Two scientific announcements were made overnight which may affect our lives to some extent, and therefore our enjoyment of the weather. Are you ready for this?

First, astronomers announce that they've discovered a big galaxy way out there about 13 billion light years away. Think of that, that light has been traveling that long just to get to us. Then, on another front, up at Harvard, they've announced that they've genetically created a mouse. What a deal. Next it'll be a cat. Then the pair, feline and rodent, can watch the beam from that distant galaxy.

How does this tie in with weather. Actually it's to distract you from the fact that showers may fall today and yesterday's great meteorological prognostication was no rain. At least it won't be raining cats and mice.

So we did get a trace of rain overnight, at least in some areas of the county. The sun is shining today—thought you should know. And, those nippy nights down in the 50s will slowly go away with the warming trend that's setting in.

So enjoy the southerly breezes and the temperatures back in the 80s. And peer deeply into the sky. You'll be amazed at what you see.

Look also around the nation and the weather pattern. You'll be amazed at that also.

Chilly weather sent shivers through Texas today with a freeze warning posted over hill country in the Lone Star State, while thunderstorms spread rain from Mississippi to South Carolina.

The National Weather Service posted a morning freeze warning over Texas hill country, and said pre-dawn temperatures were low across much of the southern part of the state. It sank to 42 in San Antonio and 50 in Corpus Christi.

"Precautions to protect pets, pipes and plants have been advised," forecaster Harry Gordon said.

He said the mass of cold air crept out of Canada and down along the Plains. "It's just colder air surging farther south."

Afternoon highs were expected to rise into the 70s and 80s in the Lone Star State region, however, Gordon said.

Rain, showers and thunderstorms stretched from Mississippi across Alabama, northern Georgia and South Carolina this morning. Sleet mixed with rain fell in Mobile, Ala.

Nearly an inch of rain fell in Augusta, Ga., and more than three-quarters fell in Atlanta and Athens in a six-hour period ending early today.

On Monday, 16 West Coast cities — nine of them in California — notched record high temperatures. Afternoon temperatures of 95 degrees in Sacramento and 96 in Bakersfield, Calif., were the highest ever so early in the season.

San Francisco, with a high of 84, tied a record dating to 1898, and the 97-degree reading in Phoenix tied a 42-year-old record.

Area beaches were packed during the weekend as temperatures soared Sunday to 91 degrees in San Francisco.

(Reports by United Press International and data provided by the National Weather Service were used in compiling this report.)

IN BRIEF

Reagan announces U.S. will sign Afghan accords of Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will join the Soviet Union to guarantee a negotiated end to the bloody 8-year-old war in Afghanistan, President Reagan has announced.

Reagan announced Monday that Secretary of State George Shultz will sign on as a guarantor to the agreements governing the Soviet military withdrawal from Afghanistan and calling for a non-aligned Afghan nation.

The U.S. decision to serve as co-guarantor of the agreement marked a major diplomatic movement in the 8-year war between the Soviet-supported government and rebels backed by the United States.

Reagan said Shultz, who hailed the breakthrough as "a major national and international success," will represent the United States at a signing ceremony Thursday in Geneva of the four-part agreement, which includes a written commitment by the superpowers to respect the sovereignty of Afghanistan and neighboring Pakistan.

'Last Emperor' sweeps Oscars

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Italian director Bernardo Bertolucci's "The Last Emperor" became the most honored movie since 1961's "West Side Story" by winning best picture and eight other Oscars in a sweep of its nominations on the 60th annual Academy Awards show.

Acting awards went to favorites Michael Douglas for his reptilian performance as a greedy stock broker in "Wall Street," and Cher, who played a proud widow whose sexual affair with her fiance's brother transforms her into a lovely swan in "Moonstruck."

Best supporting actor went to Sean Connery for his work in "The Untouchables," and Olympia Dukakis, who played Cher's mother in "Moonstruck," won best supporting actress.

"The Last Emperor," about the boy monarch who died a poor gardener in Communist China, became the most honored film since "West Side Story" won 10 Oscars in 1961 despite having not a single performing nomination. "Gigi" also went nine for nine in 1958, and "Ben Hur" is the Oscar champ with 11 in 1959.

Selling cheap handguns outlawed

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — The Maryland Legislature, bucking the powerful lobbying of the National Rifle Association, has approved landmark legislation banning the manufacture and sale of cheap handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials."

Under the legislation, fought fiercely by the NRA and approved in the session's final hours, a nine-member board will be formed to decide what types of guns will be legally sold in Maryland.

Supporters said though the bill does not address the possession of cheap handguns or the purchase of illegal guns through mail-order catalogs, the legislation would be an important step in removing guns used primarily for criminal activity.

Ex-mobster: Mafia once respected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the somber words of an aging former mobster, the Mafia has degenerated from a family in which "men of honor" obeyed a code of respect to a greedy, more violent clan seeking only the huge profits of drug traffic.

Hidden behind a tall opaque screen for security reasons, Tommaso Buscetta, 60, came before the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations Monday to tell the lurid tale of his life as a "made man" in La Cosa Nostra.

Buscetta said La Cosa Nostra was respected as an advocate for the poor when he joined in 1948 and counted doctors and lawyers among its members. He said it had little money and its primary illegal activity was cigarette smuggling.

3 SCC students' cars burglarized

SANFORD — Three Seminole Community College students returning to SCC from a field trip found their vehicles had been burglarized while they were gone, according to Sanford city police.

The cars were all parked in the parking lot near the science building between 7 a.m. Friday and 6:30 p.m. Saturday, police said.

Robert Owens, 18, a Longwood student, reported that a cassette player, one equalizer, a tennis racket, a skateboard and several cassette tapes, value totaling $588, were missing from his Toyota.

Kelley G. Frye, 27, Winter Park, said the convertible top had been cut off of his Suzuki jeep and that a cassette tape player and two tapes worth a total of $368 had been stolen.

Two speakers, a cassette player and guitar tuner, valued at $325, were reported missing from a truck belonging to William N. Shaffer, 21, of Longwood. Police said someone had entered the vehicle by first breaking out the back window.

Working toward a reasoned bill

Congressional conferees are groping toward compromise on a gargantuan trade bill whose declared aim is making the United States more competitive but whose worst features could produce a contrary result. The most important is a provision that would require the administration to initiate action against foreign countries engaging in trade practices defined unilaterally by U.S. law—though not necessarily their own or international trading rules—as unfair.

In effect this would, as one critic put it, "force the president to go around the world picking trade fights" and invite foreign retaliation. Only by declaring that U.S. sanctions would harm national security could the president refuse to act, a course that would invite political attack by protectionist forces in this country.

The administration is partly responsible for the trade bill impasse because of its inconsistency in applying the considerable powers the law already grants it. Too often the White House has opted to protect an industry with political clout or, conversely, declined to act when it felt less political heat. As much as anything, the bill reflects frustration over the administration's tendency to put politics above good national policy.

Yet no trade bill, especially one as ambitious as this, should be targeted at a particular administration, certainly not one whose term is nearing an end. Nor is Congress innocent to the charge of parochialism. Members tried to load the bill with goodies for home-state industries and other constituencies that have little to do with trade.

Even worse, one section of the bill—happily, one likely to be dropped—would apply U.S. industrial and labor standards to foreign countries as a means of justifying trade sanctions against them, a clear violation of the international trading rules to which the United States subscribes.

That's not to say the bill is entirely negative. It extends the president's authority to negotiate reductions in trade barriers—most importantly, non-tariff barriers largely not covered by existing global accords—to win greater access to foreign markets for the financial and technical services that have become such an important part of U.S. output. There's also merit in a compromise that would allow, but not compel, the president to block foreign takeovers of U.S. firms when they harm U.S. economic or security interests.

Nonetheless, the bill still has a negative thrust: To force the executive branch on the defensive against domestic critics and onto the offensive against other countries by allowing it almost no flexibility to take other factors—strategic relationships, the likelihood and potential harm of foreign retaliation—into consideration.

Such a strategy is particularly ill-timed: U.S. exports are booming; there is progress in persuading Japan to open some of its markets to U.S. competition—most recently its huge construction sector; and the Reagan administration is generally taking a more aggressive stance toward foreign competitors, partly as a result of congressional pressure.

In that sense, Congress has achieved much of what it set out to do. What remains is to fashion a bill that gives the president the tools he needs without destroying the flexibility any administration must have to use those tools most effectively.

Government's suit will stop integration

NEW YORK (NEA) — "We live together," proudly notes the sign at the entrance to Starrett City — and the youngsters playing baseball on a nearby field supports that claim of racial harmony.

The team of 11- and 12-year-olds in the field includes a white catcher and first baseman, a black pitcher and left fielder and a Hispanic second baseman and right fielder — a measure of racial diversity matched by the team at bat.

Moreover, that degree of integration is evident throughout Starrett City, whose 23,000 low- to middle-income residents living in 5,881 apartments in 48 buildings make it the nation's largest high-rise housing development.

"Starrett City," says Robert C. Rosenberg, general manager of the housing complex built in the early 1970s, "is a very special place to live."

That did not happen by accident. To ensure the racial diversity it deems desirable, Starrett City's management maintains an elaborate and strict set of racial quotas in renting apartments — 85 percent go to whites, 21 percent to blacks, 8 percent to Hispanics, 4.5 percent to Orientals and 1.5 percent to members of other ethnic groups.

"We believe that providing an opportunity for minority children to grow up in an integrated setting will facilitate their entry into the mainstream of American life," says Rosenberg.

"Similarly, we believe that having white families live side by side with minority families is the best way to destroy the racial prejudices and stereotypes that have been eating away at the fabric of our society for much too long," he adds.

The Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, however, argues that racial quotas violate the letter, if not the spirit, of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color or national origin in the sale or rental of housing.

Moreover, both the U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, where Starrett City is located, and a three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in Manhattan have sided with the government in its attempt to force abandonment of the quota system.

Because so little decent, affordable housing is available to members of minority groups in the New York area, the list of families waiting to occupy empty apartments at Starrett City is overwhelmingly black and Hispanic.

The development's managers offer the compelling argument that filling vacant apartments on a first come-first served basis rather than relying upon the quota system would rapidly diminish the proportion of white residents in Starrett City.

Indeed, the available evidence suggests that the Justice Department's civil suit constitutes a perversion of the federal law in a case where racial quotas are being used not to perpetuate segregation but to promote integration.

Starrett City's supporters in its legal struggle (the development's managers now are seeking an en banc rehearing of the issue by all 18 of the appellate court's judges) include the state NAACP and a host of city politicians of all races.

POLITICS

Raucous realm of New York

By Jeannie H. Cross

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The topy-turvy Democratic presidential campaign is searching for clarity this week in an extraordinarily unordered place — the always raucous realm of New York politics.

That search has taken the party's three active contenders on a trek from Bronx housing projects to boarded-up Buffalo factories and from upstate's rural Horseheads to Long Island's suburban Hempstead.

They are looking not only for the 255 delegates at stake in the Empire State's April 19 primary — but also for the momentum and money that could potentially propel the New York winner toward the Democratic nomination.

At the same time, the three are hoping to dispel the shadow of New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, who some people still hope will emerge as the compromise candidate at the party's July national convention.

As in many of the previous primary states, there is a Republican contest, but no one is paying much attention since Vice President George Bush has the nomination virtually sewn up.

Even so, Bush plans a three-day campaign swing through mostly suburban and upstate New York, "looking at some themes that will be carrying the campaign through the (general) election," according to his New York campaign director Russ Schriefer.

For each of the three Democrats, the stakes are high, but also very different.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, coming off a huge win in Wisconsin last week, is trying to put together a string of major victories that would once and for all blunt Jesse Jackson's momentum and prove Dukakis's theory that he is the inevitable nominee.

Jackson, meanwhile, is trying to overcome opposition from New York's Jewish community and hopes that his liberal message will put a new jolt in his campaign.

At the moment, things are unfolding nicely for the Massachusetts governor.

He has a comfortable lead in the latest Marist College Institute for Public Opinion poll of New York voters, the most in-depth survey done in this state, and he also seems to have the tacit support of Cuomo, who has not formally endorsed any of the contenders.

Drug firm seeks to avoid foreign liability

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The Pfizer drug company is lobbying hard on Capitol Hill for two bills that would make it next to impossible for foreigners to win sizable lawsuits against Pfizer or any other company over faulty products.

Pfizer has reason to worry: The company finally withdrew its convex-concave Bjork-Shiley heart valves from the market in late 1986 after the Food and Drug Administration had recalled the valve twice. An investigation found serious manufacturing problems at the Irvine, Calif., plant where about 80,000 of the valves were produced. About half of those valves were implanted in foreigners. One hundred forty-seven deaths have been traced to broken Bjork-Shiley heart valves, according to a Pfizer report to the FDA in January.

The bills, filed late last year by Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., and Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., would force foreigners to take their product liability suits to federal courts instead of state courts. The legislation would also require federal

WASHINGTON WORLD

Meese's vindication

It must have been hard cheese indeed for Attorney General Ed Meese's critics when special prosecutor James McKay called a press conference the other day.

After all, the liberal media's long campaign to force Meese out of office had been going pretty well. A steady barrage of innuendoes had kept Meese busy defending himself for years, and while none of the charges had stuck, it was becoming possible to add up the man-hours Meese had devoted to answering them and to argue that he couldn't have enough time left over to do his job at the Justice Department.

In addition, special prosecutor McKay was known to be looking into Meese's association with one of the chief defendants in the Wedtech investigation, and it seemed entirely possible that Meese might be indicted for some misdeed involving that individual.

Finally, two high-ranking officials of the Justice Department, angry because Meese had disregarded their wishes in making certain departmental appointments, chose this deadly moment to submit their resignations. Seldom have stabs in the back been better timed or more exquisitely delivered. Neither man uttered a public word about his reasons for resigning, but the media swiftly filled in that blank, quoting "sources" (they are no longer described as anonymous — that's assumed) as saying the officials were disturbed over Meese's widely advertised problems.

And then that wretch McKay, who had only to remain silent to play an equally dishonorable and effective part in the drama, had to go and ruin everything by announcing that, while his investigation would continue, he had thus far found no grounds for indicting Meese!

The best the liberals (two of course still hold many of the lesser but important jobs in every executive department) were able to do by way of response was stimulate an obscure cell in the Justice Department, charged with an overview of ethical misconduct, to launch an internal investigation of the attorney general's role (if any) in the Wedtech matter.

Assuming this turns out as planned, it will play into the hands of Meese's liberal critics rather nicely. For, faced with McKay's disagreeable news that no indictment of Meese is imminent, they have fallen back to a second line of defense. Ah, they say, but it's not enough that an attorney general is not charged with any criminal wrongdoing. He should be held to "a higher standard."

Now, that sounds perfectly plausible at first blush. But then one begins to wonder exactly what that "higher standard" ought to be, and immediately the difficulties become obvious.

In the first place, as George Will has pointed out, it must be a standard applicable to high-ranking officials in general. We can hardly design a standard exclusively for Ed Meese and discard it when it has served the purpose of destroying him.

What, then, shall our "higher standard" be? Shall we insist that all high officials must be, like Caesar's wife, literally "above suspicion"? A moment's thought will serve to convince any reasonable person that such a standard is a sheer impossibility in a brawling democracy like ours, where politicians are forever loudly casting suspicion on each other.

SCIENCE WORLD

Toothbrush swallows are probed

By Deltha Ricks
UPI Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A doctor who has studied why people swallow foreign objects and who has also plucked a few toothbrushes from aching stomachs says sometimes life is stranger than fiction.

Writing in the Archives of Surgery, Dr. Allan D. Kirk said an outbreak of toothbrush swallowings by his patients recently has convinced him that toothpaste and alcohol don't mix.

Or for that matter, neither do toothpaste and clumsiness or being in the midst of a violent coughing spell with a toothbrush in your mouth.

Two of Kirk's patients were intubated when they inadvertently gobbled down their toothbrushes, one was having a coughing fit and the other apparently just wasn't paying enough attention to the job at hand.

These instances of swallowed toothbrushes all occurred within a short time of each other and all were treated by surgeon Kirk, who says the problem wasn't how the toothbrushes wound up in the victims' stomachs but getting them out.

With the aid of an endoscope, a telescope-like instrument that permits a view of the body's dark cavities, and grabbing the toothbrush with a surgical wire or forceps, Kirk and his team got them out.

"We saw these four people almost one right after the other with toothbrushes in their GI (gastrointestinal) tracts. So we decided to look up how many times this has happened," said Kirk in a telephone interview from the Duke University Medical Center in Durham, N.C.

He says there have been only 31 recorded cases of swallowed toothbrushes worldwide since the 19th century, about half of that number involving a single psychiatric patient in the Soviet Union four years ago.

But Kirk's curiosity got the best of him and led to an investigation of all sorts of swallowed objects, from silverware to nails.

"In one case in France, a guy swallowed 30 frogs — that's right, frogs as in rabbit — and they almost made it all the way through if you know what I mean," the surgeon said.

judges to apply the laws of the foreigners' homelands. Foreign courts, for the most part, are not as generous with awards to the victims of faulty products. Currently, federal judges can choose between U.S. and foreign laws.

Aides for Heflin and Glickman argue that the legislation would make American companies more competitive in the international marketplace. If U.S. companies don't have to pay massive judgments to foreigners who sue in American courts, the lawmakers figure the firms will be able to lower their prices to compete with overseas manufacturers.

Proponents of the bills could not tell our associate Stewart Harris just how much the bills would mean to American companies slugging it out in the trenches of the trade war. On the other hand, the benefits to Pfizer would be enormous.

Pfizer's subsidiary, Shiley, has reportedly settled heart-valve lawsuits for as much as $1 million. Many of the settlements are being made in California, where the heart valve was made, and where liberal court procedures apply to such cases. Not all of the 40,000 valves implanted in foreigners are necessarily defective, but it appears that Pfizer could save hundreds of millions of dollars if even a fraction of the foreigners were prevented from winning hefty lawsuits in American courts.

Pfizer's lobbyist did not return calls to his Washington office.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader and his Congress Watch are preparing a lobbying blitz against what they have dubbed the "Pfizer bailout."

Lobbyists pushing the bills say that Nader's raiders are ignoring the possibility that U.S. consumers will pay the price if American companies must continue to protect themselves from foreign lawsuits. As an example, respected attorney Douglas Besharov of the American Enterprise Institute said liability insurance adds about 10 percent to the price of general aviation aircraft built in this country. Not surprisingly, Boeing Co. also supports the legislation.

Besharov also points out that another provision of the legislation would enable American consumers to bring their lawsuits against foreign manufacturers in American courts. Currently, Americans have to sue the domestic distributor if they want to bring the suit in U.S. court.

But Congress Watch attorney Eric Hard says the proponents are just trying to cloak their bills in respectability. He says American consumers could suffer if the law is passed because U.S. companies might be more inclined to market unsafe products knowing that foreigners would probably receive smaller awards in the United States.

The future of the bills is uncertain. Judiciary Committee chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., is staunchly opposed to playing with tort reform, but has promised hearings in the House. Hearings have not yet been scheduled in the Senate.

At A GlanceMartinez' bases-loaded triple leads Chicago

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Casselberry's Dave Martinez, who last week hit his first Major League grand slam, hit a bases-loaded triple to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 6-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Martinez sent Scott Arnold's first pitch down the first-base line for a bases-clearing triple and a 4-0 Chicago advantage. Arnold, who also had two wild pitches in his 1 2-3 innings, balked on his next pitch to send Martinez home for a 5-0 lead.

Chicago, 5-1 on the season, had taken a 1-0 lead in the third with an unearned run. Maddux singled with two out. Martinez lofted a deep flyball to right field that Curt Ford mispermitted off his glove for an error, permitting Maddux to race home from first.

San Diego may get Olympic site

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A committee will recommend later this month that the U. S. Olympic Committee establish a $10 million training site in San Diego County. The San Diego Union said Monday.

A San Diego task force made up of business leaders and local government officials said that the complex could be in operation by 1992.

California is the home base of about half of the United States' Olympic athletes. The Union said. The USOC has training sites in Marquette, Mich., Lake Placid, N.Y. and Colorado Springs, Colo.

The proposed California camp would have accommodations for about 300 athletes on 100 acres. A dining hall and a transportation center will be included along "state of the art" training facilities, said City Councilwoman Gloria McColl, a member of the task force.

Haugen retains title
despite deep eye cut

Santana was declared the champion when the fight was stopped, but 20 minutes later, in what was called a "technical decision," Haugen was declared the winner.

Jim Rondeau, a vice president of the International Boxing Federation, said:

"If the referee determines a boxer has been accidentally injured and the bout cannot be continued, the referee shall immediately call a technical decision to be awarded to the fighter ahead in the scorecards."

Referee Jim Cassidy said Haugen was ahead 106-103 (10-point must) for each round on two judges' cards, while a third had Santana leading 106-103 in the 15-round bout.

Williams takes lead in PBA open

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Ron Williams, from Cahokia, Ill., knocked down 1,973 pins through the eight games Monday night to take the first-round lead at the men's bowling U.S. Open.

Williams, winless on the PBA Tour, takes a 247 average into the second round.

Ryan Shafer of Elmira, N.Y., holds the No. 2 slot. Shafer, the reigning PBA Rookie of the Year, felled 1,971 pins. Jim Pencak of Richmond Heights, Ohio, who like Shafer and Williams is aiming for his first PBA triumph, is third with 1,967.

Two-time PBA champion George Branham of San Diego, Calif., is in fourth place after scattering 1,942 pins. Tom Milton of St. Petersburg, Fla., is fifth with 1,917.

Lake Mary takes SAC lead

Iatarola leads Rams to 10-2
win over Lyman

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Aaron Iatarola kept the Greyhounds on a leash Monday going the route on the mound giving up only one earned run, then connecting for 5 RBIs to lead Lake Mary to a 10-2 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Lyman before 151 fans at Lake Mary High School.

The Rams improved to 15-6 overall and moved into the SAC lead at 7-2 to take a one half game lead over Oviedo. The Greyhounds dropped to 11-10 overall and 4-4 in conference play.

"We did exactly what we had to do," Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle said. "We had a good pitching performance and capitalized on Lyman's mistakes."

Iatarola, 5-0, used a strong fastball all night and kept Lyman thinking at the plate. Iatarola gave up one earned run and kept the 'Hounds off the bases for most of the night.

"I was going with my fastball most of the night and used a couple of curves," Iatarola said. "David Fencik (Lake Mary's catcher) helped me quite a bit and did a great job of calling the pitches."

Lake Mary came up with two controversial runs in the bottom of the second inning to take its initial lead. Eric Birle led off with a grounder to the Lyman shortstop Mickey Helms. Helms' throw was high, pulling first baseman Kenny Jackson off the bag for a moment with Birle reaching just in time.

Fencik then ripped a single up the middle to place runners on first and second. Iatarola then laid down a bunt to move the runners to second and third with one out.

Scottie Conklin then stroked a short single to center to score Birle. Lyman allowed the run to score and went for the putout at third. Lyman's center fielder Chris Brock's throw was on the money and Fencik should have been an easy out, but Lyman third baseman Noah Talesnick missed the tag with Conklin moving to second and Fencik reaching third safely. The call brought an already upset Bob McCullough to the field to question, and argue, the call.

The Rams scored Fencik off a grounder to take a 2-0 lead, an advantage they would not give up.

Lyman managed to get a run back in the top of the 3rd when Chris Brock sent a shot over the left center field wall to narrow the lead to 2-1.

Lake Mary plated five runs in the bottom of the 3rd inning to gain control of the game. Shane Stullert led off with a double off the center field wall. The Chris Brock is greeted by teammates as he approaches home plate after sending a shot over the left center field wall to give Lyman its first run.

'Hounds left fielder John Luce then made a nice catch off a line foul ball by Jeff Hagen for the first out of the inning.

Wes Weger followed with a triple down the right field line to score Stullert. Birle then walked and Fencik followed with a run scoring single down the right field line. Iatarola then connected on a high fastball and sent it over the right field fence for his fourth roundtripper of the year.

"Aaron has really been hitting the ball well," Tuttle said. "His slugging percentage is .635 and he's really come on since the Apopka tournament."

The Rams put the game out of reach in the bottom of the fourth inning with three more runs. John Vallee started things off with a lead off single to left and, after an out, Hagen reached on an error that moved Vallee to third. Weger also reached on an error that scored Vallee and put runners on second and third. Iatarola then delivered a two run single to up the lead to 10-2.

Lyman pitcher Ross Urshan, who had pitched well in his last three games, made the mistake of getting the ball up a couple of times and dropped his record to 5-3 this season. Urshan calmed down in the final innings and put the Rams down in order and struck out the side in the bottom of the sixth.

RAMS JV WIN

Lake Mary used a strong hitting attack to post a 15-3 victory over Lyman in junior varsity baseball action Monday. Andy Anson started the Rams off in the right direction with a grand slam in the top of the first inning.

Danny Hendricks added a pair of hits for three runs batted in with Curt Prom going the distance on the mound and keeping the Greyhounds from putting any rallies together.

Aaron Iatarola gave up only one earned run as the Rams downed Lyman 10-2.

Pats' Morse powers 11th homer

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

PORT ORANGE — Lake Brantley's Jim "Mongo" Morse ripped a two run homer in the top of the fourth to power the Patriots to an 11-0 romp over Spruce Creek Monday night in prep baseball action in Port Orange.

Lake Brantley improved to 18-5 overall this season and will return to Seminole Athletic Conference action Wednesday at home against a tough Lyman squad followed by another tough matchup at home against Oviedo on Friday.

The Patriots clobbered 15 hits, 14 went for singles with Morse connecting for their only extra base hit of the night. Morse's shot, though, was a big one as it broke a school record for most home runs by a team in one season and tied him with Mike Davis for the most homers by an individual in a single season.

"We had a good hitting and received good pitching from Greg Ebbert," Brantley coach

Mike Smith said. "The rest of the week will be a good test for us and I'm hoping our last two weeks will help us get prepared for the district tournament."

The Patriots jumped out early with four runs in the top of the first. Ebbert, who improved to 9-1 this year, made sure the Hawks could not come back as he posted nine strikeouts, did not walk a batter and gave up just four hits. The furthest Creek advanced a runner was in the bottom of the second when Jon Valdez led off with a double.

Jerrey Thurston started things for Brantley in the top of the first with a single. Ebbert followed with a single and Morse walked to load the bases. Randy Green, Greg Thomas each followed with run scoring singles and after an out Jason Varitek singled to bring in two runs and give Brantley a quick 4-0 lead.

The Patriots added another run in the top of the third before breaking the game open in the top of the fourth with six runs. After an out in the fourth, Jason Gladfelter started things off with a single to right and moved to second on a passed ball. Thurston then ripped a run scoring single and stole second and scored on an Ebbert single. Morse then sent a shot his shot, into the wind, over the deepest part of the field.

"He (Morse) got all of it," Smith said. "He hit into the wind and sent it over the 375 mark in dead center."

Thomas followed with a single to center and moved to second on a throwing error by the Hawks center fielder. Eddie Zarembo then reached on an error to place runners on first and third. Varitek then connected for a run scoring single to bring in the final run of the night.

"We just want to be at our best beginning April 25th," Smith said. "With Ebbert and Green both pitching well we'll feel good going into the tournament."

Rodgers joins Illini facing penalties

By Richard Brussell

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — When Randy Rodgers accepted the job of athletic recruiting coordinator for University of Illinois, he inherited a severely troubled athletic program precipitously close to incurring the National Collegiate Athletic Association's so-called "death penalty." Revelation of the infractions came while the football team was on probation for similar misdeeds.

ICBA, Port Salerno
split in basketball

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

OVIDO — The Inter-County Basketball Association played host to a pair of fourth and fifth grade basketball teams from Stuart Martin County this past weekend as Port Salerno Elementary School met the ICBA's Little Guys and Gals teams. The results were split.

In boys action Port Salerno jumped out to a quick, 17-3, lead and held a 17-5 halftime advantage. The locals made a tremendous comeback, sparked by the league's most valuable player Mike Bergman. Bergman finished with 15 points, six rebounds, four assists and seven steals.

Matt Graft and Donnie Carwise each added four points. Josh Greer had three and Bobby Gatchell added two. Graft and Robbie Carver controlled the backboards combining for 22 rebounds.

Other ICBA players in action were Pat Epling, a defensive specialist, Kevin Jackson, Reggie Carwise, brothers Nick and Chris Caldwell, Austin Mitchell and Todd Watson.

In the girls game the ICBA planned to bring down the two fifth graders on the Kittens, Rena Thomas and Kelly Jung, to provide backboard strength and ball handling experience. Thomas showed and played the entire game and did a tremendous job on the boards. Jung was not present and Shyonna Tossie was moved into the point guard position.

The Kittens led, 6-4, at halftime. Jennifer Slavik got the ICBA on the board with a minute to play in the opening quarter. Tossie and Latonya Robinson added first half buckets. Port Salerno cameback to score 10 points in the second half and take a 14-8 victory. Tossie had the lone bucket for the ICBA in the second half. Other players for the ICBA team were Amy Allen, Christine Markey and Nicole Rugentius.

Yankees drubbed in season's first loss

By Michael John Sullivan

New York Yankees shortstop Rafael Santana will get a chance to find out how much of a motivator Billy Martin can be. Santana may find out Tuesday night when the Yankees and Toronto Blue Jays meet again. "You don't forget about it because certain things happened today that shouldn't happen," said Martin after his club was drubbed 17-9 Monday in an opening day 4:15 marathon in Toronto. Martin was upset when Santana dropped a potential inning-ending double play in the first inning, which preceded six Blue Jay runs.

"I saw a shortstop drop a cinch double play ball," fumed Martin. "It changed the whole momentum of the game. That one play changed the whole game right there." "It got me mad. You'll see the results tomorrow." Kelly Gruber collected four hits, including a pair of homers, and drove in five runs to spark the Blue Jays attack. Ernie Whitt drove in three runs and George Bell had three hits and two RBI in helping the Blue Jays hand the Yankees their first loss of the season after five victories. New York's Rickey Henderson went 5 for 5 to boost his batting average to .565 and stole a club record-tying four bases. A sellout crowd of 45,185 — the largest home opening crowd in Blue Jay history — watched the Blue Jays collect 20 hits off six pitchers in a game that lasted four hours and 15 minutes — the longest nine-inning game in Blue Jay history and three minutes shy of the major league record. Reliever David Wells, 1-0, worked the final four innings for the victory. Starter Mike Flanagan lasted just four innings before departing with Toronto leading 9-5. Lower Rick Rhoden, 1-1, who hurled an opening day shutout at Yankee Stadium, lasted just 2 1/3 innings and gave up nine runs on eight hits.

New York opened a 3-0 lead in the top of the first. Meacham doubled in a run off the glove of right fielder Barfield. Mattingly followed with an RBI single and scored on a double by Winfield. Elsewhere, Cleveland defeated Baltimore 7-2, and Milwaukee at Boston was postponed due to cold weather. In the National League, it was: Pittsburgh 5, Philadelphia 1; Chicago 6, St. Louis 1; Cincinnati 4, San Francisco 0; and Houston at Atlanta was postponed due to rain.

The Indians, off to their best start since going 10-0 to open the 1966 season, had not swept a four-game set in four years. Baltimore, 0-6 on the season, last lost its first six games to start a season in 1955. Greg Swindell, 2-0, struck out eight and walked none. He allowed two runs on eight hits in notching Cleveland's fourth complete game this year. Mike Morgan, 0-2, suffered the loss.

Pitchers with Latin touch tap early season wins

By Joel Sherman
UPI Sports Writer
Greg Maddux and Vicente Palacios tinkered with pitches in Latin America that have helped them early in the major-league season. Maddux delivered his second straight strong start, pitching a six-hitter Monday night that lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 6-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Maddux credits a curveball he improved in winter ball in Venezuela for starting this season by allowing just one earned run in 18 innings. "I worked on my curveball and changeup in winter ball and I'm a year older," said Maddux, who will turn 22 Thursday. "I had time to work on things I needed to work on. Really, I don't want to get too excited because it's just two games."

Palacios rescued Pittsburgh from a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the sixth inning with the Pirates nursing a one-run lead in a game they went on to win 5-1 over the Philadelphia Phillies. Among the weapons Palacios deployed was a pitch called the "Mataloma," named after his hometown in Mexico. The pitch is thrown similarly to a knuckle-curve, only his fingers are spread wider and it dances like a left-handed curveball. "It's a helluva pitch," Pirates pitching coach Ray Miller said. At St. Louis, Maddux stretched his scoreless inning streak to start the season to 17 2/3 with 8 2/3 innings of shutout ball against St. Louis. But, with two out in the ninth, Bob Horner doubled for his 1,000th career major-league hit and Terry Pendleton singled to score the Cardinals' lone run.

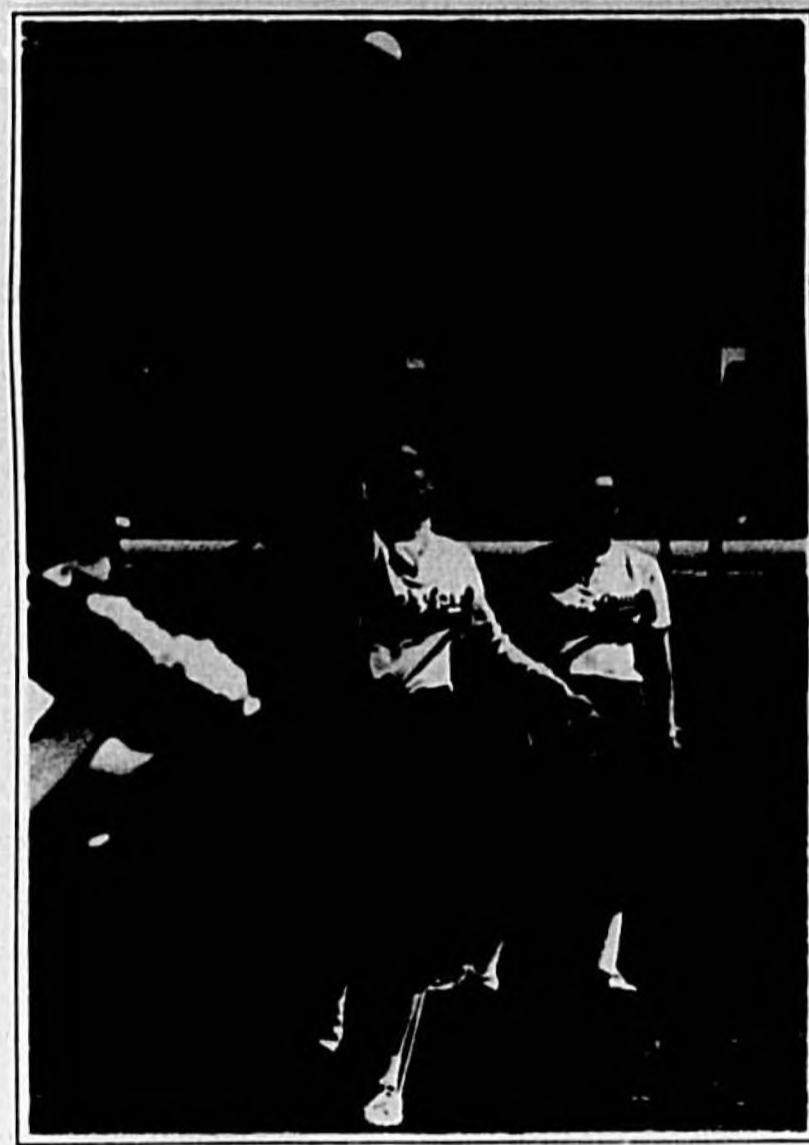

Maddux, who had thrown a three-hit shutout last Wednesday against Atlanta in his first start, walked one and struck out four. He is 2-0 this year after going 6-14 with a 5.31 ERA last year. "Most pitchers throw two good games in a year," he said. "But I want to continue. Sure, I was thinking of the shutout. It was 6-0. But I'm happy with the win." Maddux had a 17-inning scoreless streak this spring, a hint of things to come. Maddux had not allowed St. Louis, 1-5 this season, to get a runner to third base through the first eight innings. Last year, Maddux was 0-3 in four games against the Cardinals with a 4.58 ERA. Dave Martinez, who has 10 RBI this season, hit a three-run triple to provide the key blow for the Cubs. Bob Forsch, 0-2, was the loser. At Pittsburgh, Palacios earned neither a win nor a save. But pitched through the game's key sequence. The rookie right-hander was called in to make just the second relief appearance of his career before the biggest baseball crowd in Pittsburgh history, with the Pirates leading 2-1, the bases loaded and nobody out in the sixth. Palacios responded by getting Lance Parrish and Chris James to pop out and Steve Jeltz to fly out. He yielded one hit and two walks before turning the ball over to regular closer Jeff Robinson, who pitched a virtually meaningless ninth. "Just giving up one run would have been good (for Palacios)," said Pirates catcher Mike LaValliere, who had a three-run triple in the eighth to secure the victory. "And we'd have been happy with two, just to keep the game close. But to get out of that with none was one of those momentum swingers." Palacios, speaking through interpreter Al Pedrique, said he was stunned when Manager Jim Leyland called him in for starter Doug Drabek, 1-0. Barry Bonds tripled and scored, and homered for Pittsburgh's other runs. Kevin Gross, 0-1, was the loser. Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati blanked San Francisco 4-0 and Houston at Atlanta was rained out. In the American League, it was: Toronto 17, New York 9 and Cleveland 7, Baltimore 2. Milwaukee at Boston was postponed because of cold.

Reds 4, Giants 0
At San Francisco, Mario Soto fired a four-hitter and contributed an RBI single to cap a four-run fourth inning to lead the Reds. Soto, 1-0, walked three and struck out five in posting his first shutout since April 24, 1986. Soto spent most of last season on the disabled list with a muscle strain in his right shoulder. Kelly Downs, 0-2, was the loser.

Hawks continue their losing ways

By William Wollé

Fortunately for the Washington Bullets Monday night, Darrell Walker filled a role that wasn't meant for him. With one second remaining in Atlanta, Walker hit an 18-foot fadeaway jumper that lifted the Bullets to an 86-85 victory over the Hawks that keeps Washington in contention for an Eastern Conference playoff spot. Walker wasn't supposed to take the final shot, but as time ran out, he had to shoot. "By the time I got the ball, there wasn't enough time left. I just had to get into range and take a good shot," said Walker, who paced the Bullets with 19 points. Bullets' Coach Wes Unseld was delighted with the victory and with Walker, who has seen only limited action since coming off the ankle injury in late January. "I was looking for him to show me — not tell me — he was ready to play again," Unseld said. "The last shot was not initially for him, but he took a good shot." Atlanta, which trailed 61-57 entering the final period, took an 85-83 lead with 50 seconds remaining on a basket by John Battle. A free throw by the Bullets' John Williams 18 seconds later cut the Washington deficit to 1. Walker's last-second basket helped Washington improve to 35-41. The Bullets entered play tied with the New York Knicks for the eighth Eastern Conference playoff spot. New York beat Detroit Monday night, allowing the Hawks to remain two games behind the Pistons for the Central Division lead. "That was a tough loss for us," said Atlanta coach Mike Fratello. "Obviously we didn't shoot well in the first half." Fratello said the Bullets "made some tough shots." "They are fighting for their lives for a playoff spot and they are on their way," he said. The Bullets shot 37 percent from the field, receiving 17 points from center Moses Malone. Guard Griff Malone contributed 15 points, while Williams scored 13 points and matched a season-high with 14 rebounds. Atlanta, 47-27, was paced by Dominique Wilkins with 17 points. Battle added 16 and

Kevin Willis 14 points and a game high 18 rebounds. Atlanta's bench outscored the starting five 45-40. In other games, New York slipped by Detroit in overtime 114-111. Indiana overcame New Jersey 95-93. Philadelphia drubbed Milwaukee 115-102. Denver edged Phoenix 123-119 and Utah slugged Golden State 113-102. Knicks 114, Pistons 111 (OT) At New York, Patrick Ewing scored 36 points, including a turn-around jumper with 23 seconds remaining in overtime to give New York the lead for good. Ewing was fouled on the jumper that gave the Knicks a 112-111 lead. The victory, New York's 28th against 10 losses at home, kept the Knicks tied with the Washington Bullets in the Eastern Conference playoff race. Pacers 95, Nets 93 At Indianapolis, Wayman Tisdale scored a season-high 32 points and John Long sank the winning basket at the buzzer to give Indiana its ninth straight victory over New Jersey. Ron Anderson scored 16 points in the fourth period for the Pacers, who handed the Nets their 11th consecutive loss. Sixers 115, Bucks 102 At Milwaukee, Charles Barkley scored 31 points and Philadelphia relied on a late 10-0 run to snap a four-game losing streak. The 76ers remained 1 1/2 games behind New York and Washington in the race for the eighth and final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. Ricky Pierce scored 20 points for Milwaukee. Nuggets 123, Phoenix 119 At Phoenix, Lafayette Lever scored 26 points and Michael Adams extended his 3-point shooting streak to 37 games with 5 long-range shots to pace Denver. Adams, who holds the record for consecutive games with at least one 3-point basket, finished with 23 points. Denver moved one game behind first-place Dallas in the Midwest Division. Jazz 113, Warriors 102 At Oakland, Calif., Karl Malone scored 36 points and Thurl Bailey scored 13 of his 26 points in the final quarter to lead Utah. Golden State was led by Chris Mullin's 23 points. Utah's John Stockton, the NBA assist leader, contributed 16 assists to move to 994 for the season.

Reagan welcomes basketball champions

By Philip J. Garcia
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Yellow Brick Road for NCAA basketball champions Kansas led to the White House, where President Reagan Monday saluted the Jayhawks and women's champion Louisiana Tech.

Offering congratulations under a clear bright blue sky at a Rose Garden ceremony, Reagan told the teams: "Remember the lessons you've learned this season, the lessons about hard work, never quitting..."

"What you've learned in basketball will be a strength to you all your lives... because it's true, if you keep your head up, work hard, in America, anything can happen..."

Kansas survived the loss of several key players to injuries, poor academic performance and disciplinary action and a midseason slump to sweep through the NCAA Tournament and take the national championship in an exciting 83-79 upset of Big Eight rival Oklahoma.

The Jayhawks' triumph in Kansas City April 4 was the second national basketball championship for Kansas, where the game's inventor, Dr. James Naismith, was the first coach. Kansas, as Reagan pointed out, wasn't "exactly favored" to win the championship, and the team's unexpected success prompted comparisons with a famed Kansan with big dreams — Dorothy.

For their part, the Lady Techsters trailed Auburn's Lady Tigers 31-19 at halftime in their championship game but bounced back to win 56-54 at Tacoma, Wash.

The crown was the Lady Techsters' fourth in 11 years and the third since Reagan's election in 1980, prompting Techsters Coach Leon Harmore to remark, "I believe it was a great eight years for all of us, especially the President and Louisiana Tech."

Danny Manning, Kansas' 6-foot-10 All-America who scored 31 points in the championship game, presented Reagan with a Kansas "championship" letter jacket, which was inscribed "Dutch Reagan."

Teresa Weatherspoon, the Most Valuable Player for Louisiana Tech, presented Reagan with an autographed basketball. Reagan drew applause when he noted that Kansas Coach Larry Brown would remain at Kansas. "To Coach Larry Brown, a man who did so much to make this a championship season, I know Jayhawk fans everywhere are rejoicing that next year I'm the only one moving back to California," Reagan said.

Late last week, Brown surprised by announcing that he would remain at Kansas, turning down the head coaching job at UCLA, where he previously coached.

"I've never been anywhere eight years so I just don't know quite how to react," Brown said, drawing laughs. He said it was "extraordinary" to come to the White House and that it was a difficult road. "But I think the difficulties made it all that more meaningful," Brown said.

Meanwhile, the Senate passed a resolution lauding the Kansas basketball team, saying in part, "KU's stunning march to the championship shocked the experts and thus proved that no dream is ever too big to dream."

It was introduced by Dole, who went to Kansas, and watched the Kansas-Duke national semifinal game with his wife, Elizabeth Hanford Dole, a graduate of Duke.

Dole said he sent a telegram to Brown which he said read, "I had feeling that in 1988 somebody in Kansas would become famous. And I was right. It was you."

At a Capitol Hill reception honoring the Jayhawks, Dole said he watched the championship game on television.

"I didn't know if my heart could take it, so I watched it on television," Dole said. "I couldn't take much more stress after New Hampshire."

Dole's defeat in New Hampshire marked the beginning of his campaign slide and ultimately resulted in his withdrawal from the Republican presidential race.

At the reception, Dole, his Kansas senate colleague, Republican Nancy Landon Kassebaum, and other members of the Kansas congressional delegation donned white, blue and red "championship" caps and t-shirts.

Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., told the team, "You played by the rules, you never quit... you overcame 50-1 odds. You won. You have inspired us all."

Hottest LPGA golfer winless on circuit

POWAY, Calif. (UPI) — Colleen Walker is the hottest golfer on the LPGA circuit, even though she has yet to win a tournament.

Walker finished second for the second time in two weeks Sunday, losing the San Diego In-Amor Classic to Japan's Ayako Okamoto, who won the event for the second straight year.

Walker has finished in the top 10 six times in eight tournaments this year and has yet to miss a cut. She finished second at the Dinah Shore Open prior to San Diego and finished fourth the week before at the Turquoise Classic in Phoenix. Her $105,498 places her third on the LPGA money list behind Okamoto and Amy Alcott.

"I don't go out there with expectations," said Walker, a resident of Brandon, Fla., who won her first tournament in five years on the tour last year at the Mayflower Classic. "I'd like to finish in the top 10 all year. I think everyone would like to have a little itchy for a win, but I have to stay patient."

Walker had said prior to Sunday's showdown with Okamoto that her game plan was to stay calm and dedicated to playing wrinkle-free golf.

"I wouldn't say I'm aggressive," Walker said. "You've got to play smart. You can't get too greedy. You have to take the chances when you can."

Walker, who leads the tour with 101 birdies and 16 subpar rounds, played a steady round Sunday, teeing off on the 16th hole with a one-shot lead over Okamoto. It was there, however, that Walker's putter failed her.

Walker three-putted 16 for bogey and fell into a tie with Okamoto. She then failed to connect on birdie putts on 17 and 18 that would have tied the score. Instead, Okamoto birdied 17 and sank a par on 18 for the victory.

"I knew that Colleen has had some bad times," Okamoto said. "I thought that because of that, Colleen would come back."

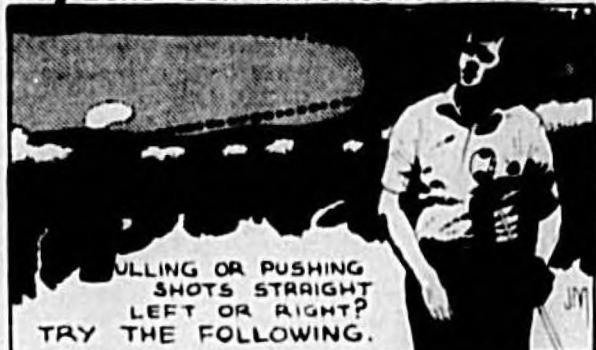

"It's the sad experiences that, if used right, can be a good thing," Okamoto said. "I don't consider this a bad thing."

"I'm disappointed over the putt... but other than that I putted well. There is always next week," she said. "Everything evens up."

Walker will play this week in the Al Star/Centinel Hospital Classic at Rancho Park Golf Course in Los Angeles. She'll then take her first week off since the tour hit the road in early February.

"I'm going to be patient," Walker said. "I'm pleased with the way I'm playing."

Stock prices open lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 5.80 Monday, was down 3.81 to 2092.17 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 390-245 among the 1,008 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 6,945,000 shares.

The market overcame the negative implications of higher oil prices Monday as share prices closed slightly higher in moderate trading, extending the Dow's winning streak to five straight sessions.

"We seem to be in a phase where people are just waiting for the next guy," said Harry Miller, portfolio analyst with Johnson, Lane, Space, Smith & Co. in Atlanta, noting the sluggish volume.

Miller said the market was in a "virtual standoff" and after the Dow's 102-point gain last week it would be normal for "a period of consolidation."

Dollar, gold mixed trading mostly light

By United Press International

The dollar was mixed in light trading today on major foreign money markets. Gold was also mixed.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar closed higher against the Japanese yen for the sixth consecutive trading session at 126.50 yen, up 0.79 from Monday's close of 125.71 yen.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.685 West German marks, up slightly from 1.6838 on Monday.

In Paris, the dollar opened at 5.715 French francs, up from 5.7115 and in Milan at 1,250.25 lire, up from 1,249.10.

In London, the pound opened lower against the dollar at $1.8505 compared with $1.8565 on Monday.

But elsewhere in Europe the dollar drifted lower.

The dollar opened in Zurich at 1.394 Swiss francs, down from Monday's close of 1.3955, and in Amsterdam at 1.891 Dutch guilders, down from 1.892.

In early New York trading, the dollar was mixed against key foreign currencies in what traders described as tight dealings.

Traders in New York said market players seemed hesitant to act before Wednesday's Group of Seven meeting in Washington.

Orange crop up from 1987

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department estimated this season's Florida orange crop at 141 million boxes Monday, about the same as last month's forecast and 17 percent more than last season.

In the latest monthly crop survey, based on April 1 conditions, the department also said its estimate of the California crop was unchanged.

Harvest of Florida's early and mid-season varieties was virtually completed. Those varieties filled an estimated 78.6 million boxes, up 19 percent from 65.8 million boxes last season.

The Sunshine state's Valencia orange crop is expected to fill 62 million boxes, up 15 percent from 53.9 million boxes last season. Only 5 percent has been harvested. Last season's total Florida orange crop filled 119.7 million boxes.

The department slightly raised its estimate of frozen concentrated juice yield from Florida oranges to 1.54 gallons per box, up from last month's estimate of 1.53 gallons per box. Last season's yield was 1.51 gallons.

Costs, materials for safety complex receive approval

By Wayne Mize
Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Public Safety Complex, which will house the police and fire departments, is a step closer to becoming a reality, but still at least six months away from an official ground breaking.

The Citizens Advisory Committee made a detailed report at Thursday's city commission meeting, outlining costs and options for construction methods. "They (the commissioners) merely accepted the committee's report," said Mayor Dick Feas. "There is no pressure to do or finish anything."

The complex, which will consist of fire and police buildings, in addition to the public works and city garage, will be located on the city's 10 acres, about one-fourth mile north of Lake Mary Boulevard on the east side of Rinehart Road.

The committee believes the total project can be constructed for $951,200 with a 10 percent contingency.

"The next step is for Catalyst, Inc., the architectural firm, to make us a presentation on how much they will charge us for being the architect," said Commissioner Tom Mahoney. Mahoney says after the fee presentation the next step will be for Catalyst, Inc., to provide the commission with a detailed site plan before construction bids are approved.

Mahoney predicts the process will take at least six months before actual construction begins.

The cost of furnishings and equipment for the complex were not explored by the Citizens Committee and will be a later consideration for the city commissioners. The costs for furnishings and equipment, along with architectural costs have not been explored by the commission, but engineering fees, contingencies and testing are expected to total $250,000, bringing the total cost of the project to $1.2 million.

The $1.2 total cost of the project is still a considerable savings over the original "rough" estimate of $3 million provided by Catalyst, Inc., according to Mahoney.

The most important cost-reducing recommendation the committee made was that the complex be of pre-engineered steel with brick facing instead of concrete and masonry. The committee also recommended the elimination of storage facilities at the complex.

Public safety complex

The Lake Mary City Commission approved recommendations from the Citizens Committee concerning the costs and construction of the Public Safety Complex.

• When: The Public Safety Complex will house the fire and police departments, in addition to public works and city garage.

• Where: It will be located just north of Lake Mary Boulevard on the east side of Rinehart Road on 10 acres owned by the city of Lake Mary.

• Cost: The recommendation of the Citizens Committee was that the entire project could be completed for at least $1.2 million.

• When: It is unlikely that any construction could begin on the project for at least six months.

According to the Citizens Committee recommendation, the fire department facility will have 4,110 square feet and cost $143,850 or $35 per square foot. The police facility will be 5,600 square feet and cost $198,000 or $35 per square foot. The public works and city garage area will cover 11,000 square feet and cost $156,000 or approximately $15 per square foot.

Total site work, which includes grading, drainage, utilities, road and walks, fence, walls, signage, lawn work and planting will cost $341,850, according to the committee.

Surrogate programs police practices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fifteen surrogate mother programs say they have banded together to implement uniform policies because states have failed to police the practice.

The newly formed American Organization of Surrogate Parenting Practitioners plans to issue certificates to all programs that comply with the policies, group spokeswoman Betsy Aigen said.

Besides providing a six-month period in which the surrogate mother could change her mind, the group announced Monday that it is recommending six-month screening periods for prospective surrogates, non-profit status for surrogacy programs and counseling for both the natural and adoptive parents.

"What we're trying to do is set standards for the field so that we don't have another Baby M case," said Aigen.

PLO negotiating with hijackers

LARNACA, Cyprus (UPI) — Hijackers holding more than 50 hostages on a Kuwaiti airliner negotiated with PLO officials today, and Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat said he expected the standoff to end within hours.

The hijackers, who took over the Kuwait Airways plane a week ago, had warned earlier that they were ready to die and dubbed the jumbo jet the "plane of the great martyrs." They condemned Kuwait for refusing to meet their demand to free 17 jailed extremists.

Arafat, speaking at a summit of Islamic nations in Kuwait, said the hijackers want to go to Algiers but he warned that the PLO would halt its mediation efforts if the hijackers kill more hostages. Two men already have been killed and tossed out of the parked plane.

"I told them (the hijackers) I will not continue my mediation in this atmosphere," Arafat was quoted as saying by Kuwait's state-controlled news agency KUNA. "We are against these crimes, terrorist acts and hijackings."

Arafat, the chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, told reporters, "I expect the hijacking to end tonight."

Arafat said the hijackers had asked to leave for Algiers and arrangements were being made "on this subject."

Arafat, who has been in constant touch with PLO negotiators at Larnaca International Airport, said, "What concerns us now is to release the hostages aboard the airliner."

"Contacts were made with the brethren in Algiers so as to secure that the plane will go there and not to another place."

The hijackers had said at 12:15 p.m. (5:15 a.m. EDT) "if we don't get fuel in 45 minutes you will force us to act in a different manner." Minutes before the deadline expired, two PLO representatives met with hijackers for 12 minutes.

Soon afterward, tension soared when a Greek C-130 aircraft painted in military camouflage colors arrived at the airport and parked less than 500 yards from the jumbo jet.

The hijackers, despite the plane's arrival, read a statement indefinitely extending their deadline for a "short time." The tower told them the plane was carrying supplies for the families of Greek military personnel serving in Cyprus.

Authorities said 52 people remain aboard the hijacked plane.

The method is now used with judges.

Favoring elected officials were Fickett, McIntosh, Miller, Bob Webster, Nancy Warren, Gene Duffy and Harry Beckham.

Favoring appointed officials were Shader, Crotty, Lipton, Jeff Davis, David Wickham and John Howell.

Committee members decided to study further whether the elected officers should be subject to voter recall and if additional qualifications and responsibilities should be required of them. If the charter renames what are now constitutional officers as charter officers, the charter may add requirements on the positions, said County Attorney Nikki Clayton.

Computer owners like 'shareware'

By Glen Warchol
United Press International

Imagine a company giving its product away and then asking you to pay for it only if you liked the product and found it useful.

In a capitalist marketing approach that would leave Karl Marx scratching his head, a growing number of computer software developers are finding market niches for "shareware," software that performs standard functions but costs a fraction of the price of popular prestigious programs.

The unusual idea has worked well enough that several shareware companies have reported annual revenues in the millions of dollars.

"It's a comment on the American public's value for honesty," said Jim Button, owner of ButtonWare Inc., a Seattle shareware company that earned more than $2 million last year.

Here's how shareware works. A computer user gets a copy of the program from a friend, a computer bulletin board or by mail, usually for no more than a few dollars to cover the cost of the disks.

Included on the disks are the program's instructions — in computer parlance, the "documentation." A user puts the program through its paces to see if it meets his needs. If it doesn't work, he passes it on to a friend or sends it back.

But if someone likes the program, he is ethically obliged to become a registered user. Registration typically costs between $50 and $75 — a fraction of the cost of similar but commercially marketed software — and includes a user manual, up-to-date copies of the program, telephone help lines, and free updates.

"If you become a serious user of the program you need to pay," Button said. "Many people think software is free. We've had a big hurdle to overcome."

People who don't register become "pirates." Although shareware developers say only about 20 percent of users ever register, they are more accepting of piracy than their conventional counterparts who try, often unsuccessfully, to stop illegal copying with complex programming safeguards.

"I don't mind these people (pirates) at all," said Bob Wallace, founder of the Quicksort, Inc., a Seattle shareware company. "I think of them as potential buyers. Piracy is really a pretty good thing."

Wallace embraced the philosophy of shareware in 1983 and used it to make his PC-Write one of the top 10 word processing software packages with 100,000 registered users. These users informally serve as PC-Write tutors and salesmen.

He and other shareware developers accept pirates as the double-edged sword of their marketing strategy.

"It's part of the cost of doing business," said Tom Smith of DataStorm Technologies Inc., a Columbia, Mo., company that markets ProComm, a top-rated IBM-compatible communications program used by 80,000 registered enthusiasts.

"We figure five to ten percent of the people using ProComm paid for it," Smith said. "But pirates are still part of the distribution and advertising."

The developers emphasize, however, that it is not the grassroots approach that sells their products — it is the quality.

"You have to have a real outstanding shareware product or it's going to die," said Button. "The public has to love it for them to share it and pay for it."

Button's PC-File ranked third among data bases in a recent consumer survey, besting programs costing several times its $75 registration fee. In the same rating, Wallace's PC-Write ranked fourth, after heavyweights such as WordPerfect, which sells for about $250.

PC-Write, PC-File and ProComm boast government agencies and colleges as registered users, including Dupont, Caterpillar, the U.S. Naval Academy and California State.

But Jeff Angus, test center director for the computer publication InfoWorld, said shareware does involve a tradeoff, mostly in "bella and whistles."

"It's the difference between a Pinto and a BMW," he said. "It's not fancy, but the Pinto will still get you there."

The very characteristics that make shareware attractive hurt its sales in some segments of the market, Angus said.

"It's an American disease — it can't be good unless you had to pay a lot for it," said Angus, who is an enthusiastic PC-Write user.

Nevertheless, Angus said the future is bright for shareware because the base of computer users is spreading rapidly as the cost of personal computers drops. Growing numbers of owners of small- and medium-sized businesses know they can't afford not to have computers.

"These people have less of the macho factor," he said. "They just want something that works and is economical."

Iowa accuses Citibank of illegal late charges to credit card holders

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Attorney General Tom Miller filed suit Monday against the nation's second-largest bank holding company and its South Dakota subsidiary for assessing illegal late charges to their credit card holders in Iowa.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court in Des Moines accuses Citicorp of New York and Citibank of South Dakota of violating the Iowa Consumer Credit Code by assessing penalties of $10 to Iowans whose account payments bounce or are delinquent.

Miller said the Iowa Legislature in 1985 specifically prohibited out-of-state banks from assessing late charges in return for abolishing the state's ceiling on credit card interest rates.

"Consumers already are paying more because of additional interest charges," Miller said. The suit seeks an injunction prohibiting Citibank from assessing any additional late penalties and an order requiring the company to issue refunds to any Iowa cardholder who has been assessed a late fee or a bad check charge.

Miller said he took the unprecedented step of suing the company after Citicorp claimed the Iowa law cannot restrict the activities of an out-of-state bank.

WINDOW TINTING PROFESSIONAL

Auto Glass Tint 323 7272

GRAND OPENING

Randy Maya, left, owner/manager of Professional Car Care, and Mike Stairs, auto detailer, get ready for grand opening.

Professional Car Care

For window tinting, detailing and stereos

Professional Car Care, 711 French Ave., Sanford, now under new ownership, will celebrate a grand opening with a ribbon cutting on Wednesday, April 13, at 10 a.m. Randy Maya, owner/manager, Robert Pelham, assistant manager and Mike Stairs, auto detailer, invite all old and new customers to come in for a free Coke. Be sure and register this week for the grand opening drawing for a free window tint job, a free AM/FM car stereo or a free 6x9 stereo speaker to be held Saturday.

In the same location for seven years, Professional Car Care in addition to being Sanford's oldest auto glass tinting business, now does auto detailing and is an auto sound center.

Come and see Randy for the best window tinting anywhere. He prides himself on quality and quick and sound service. All work is guaranteed.

Glass tinting is available from $44.95; auto detailing from $34.95 and car stereos from $29.95.

With warm weather on the way, you can protect your car and yourself from the bright summer rays with solar window tinting from Professional Car Care. It can cool you down and make your life more enjoyable. Professional Car Care has applied the product to more than 6,000 vehicles.

Learn the benefits of window tinting. It stops heat by 50 percent; glare by 35 percent and fading by 97 percent.

In addition to cooling the interior of your car when it's hot outside, tinting gives added security from flying glass. In case of an accident, glass sticks to the film instead of flying in your face. Keeping the interior cooler also means savings for you. The air conditioner in your car will work more efficiently, which in turn saves you money on gasoline.

It also protects your skin from those dangerous ultra violet rays which can cause skin cancer and keeps your eyes from squinting. Many optometrists recommend the use of solar window tinting because of its shading qualities.

Window tinting in Florida is not just a luxury, for your protection, it's a necessity. Another advantage is it adds value to your car by protecting the interior from fading.

If your car needs a clean up bring it to Professional Car Care for wash and vacuum and wax.

Professional Car Care is open from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Call 323-7272.

Want it quickly? just say 'fax it'

By David Kallish
NEW YORK (UPI) — Advertising executive Howard Nass remembers it as the day an obscure piece of office equipment became a bottom-line necessity.

With time at a premium, the senior vice president of media at the New York agency NW Ayer needed to relay to 50 individual television stations the last-minute scheduling requests of a score of advertisers.

A timely infusion of technology, however, turned the tables on his stewing frustration: Nass used a facsimile machine equipped with automatic redialing to relay the material in 90 minutes flat.

"Rather than making 50 phone calls, we faxed it out before you knew it. It was a godsend," Nass said.

Nass is far from alone in his enthusiasm for the long-distance copying machine, which relays documents about as quickly as making a phone call.

Fueled by declining prices, savvy advertising tactics and explosive demand by small businesses, sales of facsimile machines — usually called fax machines — have grown geometrically in recent years.

In 1986, roughly 192,000 fax machines were sold in the United States, according to Cap International, a Marshfield, Mass. research company. Last year, sales almost tripled to nearly half a million. This year sales are expected to double.

And the boom isn't over. Within two years, annual unit sales are projected to reach roughly 1.3 million.

"It's an explosion of geometric progression," said Joe Cosgrove, facsimile product manager at Sharp Electronics in Mahwah, N.J. "Probably three years ago if you asked people what a facsimile machine was, they wouldn't know."

How times have changed. Today, most office workers know that facsimile machines, for the price of a phone call, can swiftly transmit whole pages of documents that otherwise would have to be mailed or phoned in.

Advertisers, most notably Sharp — now the largest distributor of fax machines in the United States — put themselves on the back for driving home that point.

Two years ago Sharp launched a $3 million advertising campaign aimed at educating a technology-shy public, running ads in national magazines, newspapers and trade publications that hawked the benefits of faxes — but barely mentioned the advertiser's name.

The unorthodox strategy apparently worked. Sharp, then the third-largest distributor of fax machines, began experiencing dramatic growth. From sales of 12,000 units in 1985, business more than doubled in 1986, according to company figures. Last year those figures quadrupled to more than 100,000, helping Sharp leapfrog into position as the industry leader.

A flurry of other advertisers also purchased ad space. The word was out.

"Basically fax went from products sold by direct sales forces to products sold by dealers and mass merchandisers," said Donald Ryan, Cap's director. "They're more people out on the street."

But the real carrot, as is often the case, was money. Thanks to economies of scale and competition in a field bursting with new players, fax prices have spiraled downward in recent years.

Today, a no-frills model can be had for under $1,000, substantially less than the lowest prices just one year ago. At the high end are models that cost roughly $10,000 and have the ability to automatically dial stored telephone numbers, allowing users such as Nass to send documents to dozens of places — with minimum effort.

It was not always so. As recently as the mid-70s fax machines were relatively cumbersome creatures, consuming upwards of six minutes to transmit one page. But within several years technology had whittled that time in half.

Nowadays, up to four pages can be transmitted in 60 seconds, and the end product is more legible than that reproduced by its predecessors.

Although some argue that a fast-moving business world has transformed the fax industry, others hold that the quick-relay devices are in fact changing the way the world conducts business.

When Pap test shows dysplasia

DEAR DR. GOTT: A year ago I had a class 2 Pap: cervical dysplasia. I had a colposcopy with biopsy, a D&C with laser ablation, and conization of the cervix. Three months later, the follow-up Pap showed the dysplasia was still present. Freezing the cervix is next. Why is it so difficult to eradicate? Will it or the surgeries affect fertility? I'm 30.

DEAR READER: A class 2 Pap smear, indicating "cervical dysplasia," means that the cells which are shed from the cervix (opening of the uterus) look peculiar under the microscope. These cellular peculiarities are not pronounced enough to enable the technician to conclude that cancerous changes are present, but the cells do not look normal.

In this circumstance, some gynecologists prefer simply to keep an eye on the situation by performing frequent Pap tests. Other doctors may choose a more aggressive approach, as in your case, consisting of burning and surgical removal of cervical tissue.

Sometimes early cancer can masquerade as a class 2 Pap: more often, cervical dysplasia reflects a low-grade infection of the cervix. In this instance, women will continue to have class 2 smears, despite surgery, until the infection is diagnosed and treated.

Freezing part of the cervix, to destroy the source of the dysplasia, is a logical next step. However, as I noted before, some doctors would opt to examine you at three-month intervals (to make sure you don't progress to a class 3) and wait to see if your natural healing ability will resolve the problem. I think that you need a second opinion before you commit to a course of action.

Cone biopsies and simple surgery on the cervix will not affect your fertility. However, extensive surgery or repeated procedures could result in a condition called "incompetent cervix," which may cause you to have difficulty carrying a pregnancy to term.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had an artery occlusion that left me with nerve damage and deafness in one ear. How can I get rid of the storm of high-pitched noise that penetrates my head every waking second?

DEAR READER: You are describing a common otological condition called tinnitus. This is extremely hard to treat. If your high-pitched ringing is due to an arterial blockage and nerve damage, it will be virtually impossible to treat because the damage has been done. I know this will sound like a cop-out, but if you will be patient, with time, your brain's hearing center will adapt to the tinnitus and you will no longer be bothered by it.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

You won't find any chapter in your bidding lessons that will help you with today's North hand. North should believe that his opponents can make whatever they bid, and can only hope that East-West will let him buy the contract at some level. Probably North anticipated a labored auction, with both sides continuing to bid until eventually he would be doubled. So it was a surprise when West jumped right to six spades. North still bid seven hearts, and in my view East made a terrible bid when he doubled. It's not that East should expect the grand slam to make. But consider the bidding.

When East bid four spades, he was only saying: "Partner, I don't want to allow the opponents to play four hearts. I might not even make 10 tricks in spades." Despite that message, West went to six immediately.

Isn't it just possible that the diamond ace and the club queen are the right cards for a grand slam? Mind you, East does not have to go out on a limb and bid seven spades by himself, but he can certainly say "Pass" over seven hearts. The meaning of this forcing pass is simple. It implies that East holds a card or cards that may enable the partnership to make a grand slam. If East does pass, West may or may not bid seven, but he has a chance. And at least he knows that East is inviting such a grand slam bid.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bode Oso

YOUR BIRTHDAY APRIL 13, 1988
Try to apportion your time in the year ahead so that you can undertake projects you personally conceive. They will be both enjoyable and rewarding for you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You might not be able to operate as independently as you'd like today. Don't make matters worse by tugging at a few temporary restraints. They'll pass.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's unwise at this time to base your hopes on what you think others can do for you. In order to be successful, you're going to have to use your own initiative.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something important can be achieved today, provided your goal is clearly defined and you are instilled with the determination to do it. Don't try to coast.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't let others pressure you into making decisions today that you'd like to dwell on a bit longer. Give your answers when you feel you're ready.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's imperative that you have a crystal-clear understanding of financial matters today before you commit yourself. Impulsiveness is not your ally.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be especially considerate of people with whom you have to deal on a one-to-one basis today. Thoughtfulness will make things go easier and trigger cooperation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Business or financial situations where you can put your imagination into play should work out to your advantage today. Be both a thinker and a doer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Friends who are already involved with you will be even more so today, because of your obvious concern for their interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Although there may be other demands made on you today, your real efforts will be centered on things you can do for family members.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Guard against tendencies today to hold back from saying nice things to others. Speak out, because your comments will be cherished.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your financial prospects look encouraging today, but if you hope to add to your resources, you're going to have to work for what you get.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're a far better leader than you may give yourself credit for today. When circumstances warrant it, be a take-charge person and win the respect of others.
