Harry S. Truman Takes Sightseeing Tour Of Salerno

Unable to take his customary brisk morning walk because of a bad ankle, Truman confined his stroll to a few steps across the street from his waterfront hotel in Naples.

While in the Salerno area he also planned to visit nearby Paestum to view the ruins of a Greek colony founded in the 6th Century B. C. Mrs. Truman and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Woodward, were with the former president.

Before the Truman auto caravan headed out of Naples, past a view of Vesuvius and the romantic Isle of Capri, Truman met members of Naples' Italo-American Society.

He told Leopoldo Rubiniacci, head of the society and a candidate for mayor of Naples in the May 27 elections, that Italians in the United States were "good citizens and good soldiers in the last war."

"We like them," he said. Truman told Rubiniacci the United States has the biggest Italian city in the world—New York, with "three million of them there."

Light voting is being experienced at all polls throughout Seminole County in today's special election.

Early estimates of the total vote that will be recorded at the end of today's balloting run anywhere from 1,000 to 2,500.

Polls opened at 7 o'clock this morning in all precincts with voting machines in 12 of the 18 precincts.

Voicers may cast their ballot for one of the two candidates for the House of Representatives to serve the unexpired term that now exists until 7 o'clock this evening when the polls close.

Thomas Stringer, local real estate and insurance man opposes Gordon Frederick, Sanford attorney, in today's election.

The two will appear on the ballot in the May 23 democratic preferential primary in a run off for the next term in the House of Representatives.

MISS IS EFFECTIVE ST. LOUIS, Mo.—When a man broke into Mrs. William Harbison's kitchen, she grabbed her husband's .22 caliber rifle and fired once. The shot went wild, but the man fled.

She didn't know that for a while, Mrs. Harbison lamented as she pulled the trigger.

Grace Kelly Wedding Stamps NEW YORK, May 22—The wedding of Prince Rainier III and Grace Kelly is, of course, of general interest . . . but to stamp collectors the event is of very special interest . . . for the government of Monaco has issued a special set of wedding stamps, beautifully printed in large format, bearing pictures of the Prince and his Academy Award winning bride . . . The stamps were on sale in Monaco for one day only, and already have become a "collectors item."

Because the wedding set has evoked a lively interest in stamps of Monaco—Elmونت's Paris office has prepared a collection containing not only the Grace Kelly set of five, but the popular Olympic and Enthronement issues and the Bosto Art set; a total of 22 mint stamps, which we are pleased to offer for just $1.00 to introduce our approval service. Order today, ELMONT STAMP CO. 61 West 85th Street, New York 1, N. Y. Dept. D-247. Adv.

The direction for the real effort, Stark said, lies in better schools, better homes and better recreation—not in more parole officers and more correctional institutions.

The Congress of Parents and Teachers, he said, is an organization "of the people who care most."

George Helle, general manager of the Los Angeles Department of Recreation and Parks, said "handicapped communities" help produce problem children.

The handicapped communities he meant, Helle explained, were those which left recreation "to the kids themselves, to the pool hall and the corner greasy spoon."

Paige, Cothran, Mississippi full-back, led the Southeastern Conference in scoring last season with 74 points.

OLD HOUSE ARRIVES LATE

CINCINNATI, Ohio, (AP)—The oldest house in Ohio, which sits in a wooded section of nearby Indian Hill, has been in this state only two years. Built in 1782, according to the deed, it stood on Main Street in Watertown, Conn., until Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Barrett of Cincinnati bought it in 1933.

After every brick, board and beam was marked on a master plan, the Dutch colonial house was dismantled and brought here for reassembly.

The oldest existing home built in Ohio was constructed in 1778 at Marietta, about 170 miles up the Ohio River from here.

Station WKKO Sale Is Negotiated; Awaits Approval

Sale of radio station WKKO in Cocoa has been negotiated and completion of the transaction awaits only approval of the Federal Communications Commission in Washington. It was announced this week by co-owners Davis Wilson and Carl Collins of Cocoa.

New owner is Orlando radio executive, Tom Sawyer, who is vice president and sales manager of WABR in Winter Park.

Sawyer said that no change in personnel is contemplated and that pending FCC approval, Collins will continue as general manager of the station.

Located on the newly opened C. Sweet Smith highway, two miles west of Cocoa, the 1,000-watt station serves all of Brevard county and adjoining areas. The station went on the air in January, 1933 and maintains daytime program scheduling.

The new owner said he plans to investigate the possibility of expanding broadcast hours to night time for a full operation schedule. It operates on 860 kilocycles and is the only clear channel station in Florida.

Sawyer has been associated with radio in the Central Florida area since he came to Orlando to open WLOF in 1910.

He later became affiliated with WDRO and after six years joined the staff of WJMO. In September, he joined Ray Gunkle of Jacksonville as founder, and co-owner of WABR in Winter Park.

J. ERNEST WILKINS, 62, Assistant Secretary of Labor, expresses appreciation as he is elected president of the Judicial Council of the Methodist Church at the General Conference in Minneapolis. Local Fire Crews Answer 25 Alarms For Month Of April

The Sanford Fire Department answered 25 alarms for fires during the month of April, 1934 with 16 of them outside city limits.

Over 50 per cent of the calls were in county areas, according to the report, with two false alarms included in the total for Sanford proper.

Fires originated in a school, snack bar and restaurant, saw mill, dwelling, car, and twenty grass, trash, tree and woods fires on vacant property.

The Sanford Fire Department made 80 runs, five of the total being for causes other than fires. These were the false alarms and three alarms because of overheated kerosene stoves.

During the month of April, 1650 feet of hose was used to combat fires. The total time spent by the Sanford Fire Department trucks and crew of fire was 21 hours, and 45 minutes.

Earl Morrall, Michigan State quarterback and shortstop, won the Chester L. Brewer award for combined academic and athletic excellence.

F. O. Peterson Changes Mind On Guilty Plea

Garbage, Trash Trucks Operating Different Hours

Residents in the downtown area will hear noises in the night with the change of hours for the operation of the garbage and trash trucks, according to an announcement made today from the City Manager's office.

Garbage and trash trucks, it was announced, will now be operating from 12 midnight to 7 a. m. instead of the former hours of 4 a. m. until noon.

This is a more efficient operation, the City Manager's office said this morning, which will allow the use of the packer truck instead of open trucks which allow trash and paper to be blown over the streets.

The change of hours will affect the downtown area only, it was announced, with the hours for garbage and trash pickups remaining the same throughout the city, except in this one area.

3 County Bands Participating In Watermelon Event

The Seminole High School Band directed by Ernest Cowley and the combined bands of Lyman and Oviedo High Schools under the direction of Michael Fisher left early this morning to participate in the all-day Watermelon Festival in Leesburg.

This event has been an annual affair for the Seminole High School Band for the past seven years. They have become well-known in the festival for the uniform costumes, worn including dappled, a white shirt, with a red watermelon pattern on the back, a straw hat and white socks and shoes.

The parade began at 9:30 this morning.

Summer Roundup For School Children Ends Next Week

Next week will be the last week of the summer roundup of school children who will attend the first grade in September.

Mrs. Dallas Loop, chairman of the Health Committee of Southside School reminds parents that they should take their first grade children who will enter school in September to the Seminole County Health Unit on Palmetto Avenue, next to the Sanford Fire Department, for their health examinations.

Response, so far, has been very light in the appeal that the health examinations should be made now at Dr. Terry Bird's office.

Parents who wish to take their children to family physicians should request the proper forms from the County Health Officer.

Med-Fly Check Begins

Following the announcement last week that med-fly traps were being set out across the Central Florida belt, pest exterminators today crossed their fingers and began checking on the extent of the Mediterranean fruit fly's invasion of the Lake Okechobee farming area.

Larvae was found yesterday in a grapefruit from the state experimental farm at Belle Glade. This is the most westerly find during the present outbreak.

The fly, discovered about a month ago in Dade County, has been found in the rich South Dade farming area as well as in the Lake Okechobee area.

These two areas together produce more than 100 million dollars worth of agricultural products yearly.

Wilbur Charles, in charge of the extermination efforts, said spray planes would be used in West Palm Beach today and Belle Glade tomorrow.

"We hope the Belle Glade find will be an isolated outbreak which can be controlled quickly. But that's what we thought about Palm Beach. Now that has turned out to be pretty bad," Charles said.

Asked if the fly is likely to turn up all over the state, Charles said, "I really don't know. We have 1,000 to 2,000 traps strung out through the citrus belt in the center of the state and we ought to be getting samples from them in the next couple of days. We should know then how bad it really is."

Peterson previously said at a justice of peace hearing he intended to plead guilty.

Atty. James G. Horrell, who said he was retained to represent Peterson by the defendant's brother, Hector L. Peterson of Holyoke, said Peterson some years ago was confined to mental institutions in Massachusetts.

Peterson is accused of forcing Mrs. Johnson to accompany him and taking her car. A Seminole County Sheriff's posse found them in a woods near Geneva.

Meanwhile two officers from Massachusetts arrived to question Peterson about the kidnapping of a 15-year-old South Hadley girl in April.

The girl was abducted from her home and found wandering on a rural road the next day.

Lions-Sponsored Little League Has Successful Year

Members of the Sanford Lions Club were told yesterday at their noon luncheon meeting that the Little League "had just closed its most successful season which was the 20th consecutive year that the Sanford Lions Club has sponsored the league."

Jack K. Morrison, chairman of the Little League for the Sanford Lions Club, made the report. He told members that boys from 9 to 12 years of age participated in the league with a total of 254 boys signed up during this season. Games were played each afternoon except Saturdays.

"The All-Star game was played last Friday night," said Morrison, "with the pennant-winning Red Sox defeating the league All-Stars."

This was the first game to be played under the new lights installed by the City of Sanford at the new park on East First St. in Fort Mellon Park.

Chairman Morrison said "The Sanford Lions Club wishes to extend their appreciation to the City of Sanford for their fine cooperation in providing the new playground for the boys."

Lions Club President Ben Wade awarded eight members of the local club their pins for 100 per cent attendance at club meetings during the past 12 months. Those receiving the pins were: Dallas E. Loop, Jack E. Steimper, W. Hugh Duncan, Ben F. Walls, Arthur Kirchhoff, Ernie Witt, Thomas Stringer, and Clarence C. Welsh.

One-Third Funds Have Been Raised For Mental Health

Only about one-third of the funds necessary to put the Mental Health fund campaign over the top have been raised so far in the two week drive with only one day left for active fund raising.

Officials of the local Mental Health Association have asked that "those who have contributed call five friends and ask that they contribute too, to the statewide effort."

It was pointed out that 65 per cent of the funds remain in the County and 35 per cent forwarded for state and national research and educational programs.

Letters and envelopes have been sent to homes of school children and to civic clubs, Garden Circle, and other organizations.

The Sanford Pilot Club has contributed 100 per cent to the campaign.

Those in Seminole County who have been heading the fund raising campaign are: George Touhy, Chairman, Sanford Rotary Club; Mrs. Gustav Bamberg, Treasurer, Southside P-TA; Mrs. B. E. Chapman, Publicity Chairman, Sanford Pilot Club; and committee members F. D. Scott, Mayor; A. L. Wilson, Kiwanis Club; Mrs. Sidney E. Ives III, and Mrs. C. L. Park Sr.

Department Meets

The Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department held its regular meeting last night at the Lake Mary School.

A constitution and by-laws, prepared by the Board of Directors, were read and approved by the membership.

It was reported at last night's meeting that a fire truck and a 500 gallon tank had been donated prior to the meeting and both were now being prepared to put into use.

Fire Chief Blaise of the Casselberry Fire Department was the guest speaker at last night's meeting.

Stringer Runs Close Margin

Gordon Frederick, 81-year-old Sanford attorney, was elected yesterday to fill the unexpired term in the House of Representatives vacated by Volie A. Williams Jr., when he resigned to accept the appointment as Assistant State's Attorney.

It was a nip and tuck battle in yesterday's election with only a 95-vote margin putting Frederick into the top spot in the race. Less than 20 per cent of the registered Democratic voters in the county turned out for the important race.

According to figures released today by the Supervisor of Registration for Seminole County, Mrs. Camilla Bruce, only 2,015 votes were tabulated on ballots and on machines in yesterday's special runoff election.

Gordon Frederick drew 1,054 votes, including 12 absentee ballots and Thomas Stringer polled a total of 959 votes, including 8 absentee ballots.

The ballots were canvassed this morning by the Canvassing Board which included Judge Ernest Houssholder, County Commission Chairman W. Brown Miller, and Mrs. Camilla Bruce, Seminole County Supervisor of Registration.

All 16 precincts had reported by 9 o'clock last night since voting machines were used in all but four of the precincts.

The first report came into the Chamber of Commerce Building and the office of the Supervisor of Registration only a few minutes past seven o'clock last night as the polls closed exactly on the hour.

Thomas Stringer said this morning "I was very pleased with the returns yesterday as it shows a heavy gain on my opponent even though the vote was light."

"I attribute this gain," said Stringer, "to the fact that I have met and talked to many people personally during the past two weeks and I feel that I have an excellent chance to win on May 29 when more voters go to the polls."

Gordon Frederick will now represent Seminole County, following the May 29 approval of his election, in the House of Representatives and in the special session of the Legislature called to consider reapportionment.

The outcome of the May 29 election will determine which of the two candidates will represent Seminole County in the House of Representatives in the regular session of the legislature. Both candidates will appear on the ballot on May 29 for the regular term of two years.

Frederick drew a total of 2,104 votes in the May 8th primary while Stringer, the second highest out of the four candidates polled only 1,625. There are 10,488 registered Democratic voters in the county.

Only 20 absentee ballots were mailed to the Supervisor of Registration.

Some Florida Tuberculosis workers will participate as consultants at the School Health Conference to be held June 20-22.

Members present were: B. J. Bauman, Mrs. E. S. Rowan, Mrs. Herman Jacobson, Mrs. W. W. Terry, Dr. Terry Bird, H. T. Mills, Superintendent Public Instruction, George Dabbs, and Mrs. Lorraine Graham.

Japanese Climbers Top Mt. Manaslu
KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Japanese climbers say they have finally beaten Mt. Manaslu—third highest unclimbed Himalayan peak—after convincing superstitious Nepalese they would not disturb the mountain gods.
The Nepalese government said last night that Japanese had radioed from Manaslu's base that two two-man teams topped the 28,357-foot peak May 9 and 11 after four years' struggle with bad weather and native beliefs.
Precious attempts were repelled by villagers, who claimed the climbers would anger the holy spirits tradition says make their homes on the crest.
This year a Nepalese government liaison officer finally convinced the village headman that such fears were groundless. Then the chief-persuaded his people the climbers would not disturb the gods.
Manaslu is the 10th highest peak in the Himalayas.

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Youthful addicts of rock-and-roll music received support from a surprising source today—Metropolitan Opera star Salvatore Baccaloni.
Here for his first Hollywood film role, the 5 by 5 basso sounded off in favor of rocking rhythms that have been sending the younger crowd and exasperating their elders. "That's music!" ask the folks who have been reared on the more disciplined strains of Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller and others.
"Sure, that's music!" replies the lusty Baccaloni. "Anything that springs from the heart of the people is music, and that's what rock-and-roll is. It expresses the feelings of the younger generation. I like to listen to it myself."
"The trouble with older people they won't accept change. Like when an American company was visited to play 'Porgy and Bess' La Scala. Well, you should've heard the uproar. After all, La Scala was the home of Verdi and Puccini; they thought it a sacrifice to invite an American jazz opera."
"But when 'Porgy and Bess' played there, it was a tremendous hit. And why? Because people realized it was true music—it came from the heart of a people."
Baccaloni observed that rock-and-roll was nothing new. He illustrated with a few strains from Don Giovanni which proved that heart was a pretty solid singer.
The singer added that the current rhythms also stem back to the barcaroles of his native Italy, which got their rock-and-roll tempo from being sung in gondolas. It figures.

Sanford Can Become Central Florida's Greatest City

Maritime Day, yesterday, found the merchant marine of 18,110 freight tons with enough cargo for every barge in the fleet and with every inland shipyard running overtime to build more—and Sanford still without a docks and wharves project to take advantage of the millions of tons of freight coming in to Central Florida.

Chester C. Thompson, Washington, D. C. president of the American Waterways Operators, Inc., issued a Maritime Day statement in which he said, "The inland waterways and the barge and towing vessel industry will make their greatest contribution to the national economy this year and the year better equipped than ever before to serve the national defense."

Such statements make it reasonably sure that a terminal here at Sanford with docks and wharves for the loading and unloading of freight destined to its destination by way of water routes would be more successful than any other project ever attempted here.

Commercial traffic on the nation's 28,000 miles of navigation channels will break all records this year, although the barges moved a record 87.5 billion ton-miles of freight last year.

Such glowing success can be reflected here at Sanford with the entire northern section of the city turned into a commercial area that would soon be outgrown.

Contributing to the bigger freight-load of the inland waterway carriers this year are the following factors:

- Electric generating plants consuming barged fuel.
- Hundreds of new water-side industries receiving their fuel or raw materials by barge or shipping their products by water.
- Expansion of the petroleum industry along the rivers and canals.
- Expansion of the chemical industry along all of the principal channels.

Save me from the lion's mouth, Psalm 22:21—We surely want to escape physical dangers, but there are moral dangers far more dire in their destructive powers.

Here Is Famous Mountain Story

ANYWHERE IN THE HILLS, so many rainbow-colored bursts of light, as if I have a story I want to tell you.

It is a famous story here in the mountains, about how a man can sell his dog above his son.

The old man was a famous hunter, and knew how to hunt the bear by day, the coon by night.

The coon is small but a terrible hunter. The bear, of course, is a big, hairy diplomat of the woodlands.

If you offer him food, and it isn't enough to make him full, he will hangily and blindly reach toward a yod and scare you, too. He can't really help it. He is, after all, only a bear, a hunted animal.

But the man I am telling you about was a special kind of man. He told his boy who sold Trizie, the bloom of woodland beauty seized his heart, but all his life he pursued the pursuit of game—the old man and one of his sons, afraid enough to make him full, he will hangily and blindly reach toward a yod and scare you, too. He can't really help it. He is, after all, only a bear, a hunted animal.

Development of the fertilizer industry in areas served by barge transportation. Spread of the industrial district idea in river ports.

Completion of many new harbors and public barge terminals.

Sanford can well become Central Florida's greatest City within the next few years with the addition to its economy of a freight terminal with docks and wharves along Lake Monroe and the St. Johns River during this expansion period of the industry.

Tale Of A Beer Can

An old beer can alongside the road, if it could talk, would tell a story as various as a multi-colored bag of jelly-beans. It might tell of sadness, a man who wished to drown his sorrows in some soda, or it might tell of gaiety, a crowd of youths or adults skimming along the highway hurling out the cans when finished.

Whatever the story, it speaks of but one thing—lack of pride in a person's community. Beer cans are unsightly, and litter up an area mistakingly.

The Seminole County Board of Commissioners sometime ago launched a campaign against the promiscuous dumping along our beautiful highways and byways, and the results were just normal.

Now, we've heard of the beautification projects completed by our Sanford Garden Club, and the many lovely palms set out along the thoroughfares.

Certainly, we would want to see such projects continued so that they will eventually reach every highway coming into the community, as well as the highways leading into all of the other communities in the county.

But beautiful shrubs, palms, or flowers would not be very attractive surrounded by old beer cans, paper sacks, milk cartons, cigarette packs, and other litter.

Why not a two-pronged contest to stir-up interest in keeping the Seminole County highways clean and the planting of shrubbery and trees along them for added beauty?

Americans To Have Lot More In '59

NEW YORK (AP)—If planning will do it Americans are going to have a lot more things—and more new products—in 1959.

Industrial leaders have increased their expansion plans and research goals sharply. McGraw Hill Publishing Co.'s ninth annual survey, announced today, shows that business as a whole now plans to spend almost 39 billion dollars for new plants and equipment this year, a 30 per cent increase over 1955. This is four billion dollars more than a government prediction in March.

Today's survey shows that business also has plans now to spend another 39 billion in 1957, and that plans already drawn up call for spending more in both 1958 and 1959 than was spent in 1955.

What's more, manufacturing companies say they expect 11 per cent of their 1959 sales to be in products that weren't even made in 1955.

To do this they expect to increase their spending on research and development by 33 per cent to a total of nearly 6 1/2 billion a year by 1959.

Manufacturing capacity, increasing this year by 8 per cent, will be half again as large by the end of the year as it was at the start of the Korean War.

The results of the survey—one of the most optimistic reports on the business future made in recent weeks—top the predictions of the U. S. Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Manufacturing companies as a whole plan to spend 43 per cent more this year than last, railroads 62 per cent more, mining 24 per cent more, petroleum com-

Must Have Been Fellows Downstairs

By JAMES MARLOW
 Associated Press News Analyst
 WASHINGTON (AP)—It must have been those fellows downstairs.

That was the gist of a news conference at which the very highest brass in the Pentagon Monday got together to play down reports of conflict among the armed services.

Over the weekend some newsmen obtained documents indicating disagreement among the Army, Navy and Air Force on the part each thinks it should play in any future war. This was a fire Secretary of Defense Wilson wanted to put out in a hurry.

He conceded as much. He said reports of conflict "can become serious matters." To show everything was in harmony at the highest military levels he called a news conference in the Pentagon Auditorium.

He was flanked on both sides by the civilian secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force and by the chiefs of staff of the three services, resplendent in uniforms, brass buttons and ribbons.

Who wrote the documents, from which the news stories quoted, indicating disagreement among the services? Those documents showed the Army critical of the Air Force and the Air Force critical of the Navy and the Army.

Not the chiefs of staff. They didn't do it. They said so. They said they didn't have any basic disagreements. Well, then, who wrote the documents?

Wilson said they were the work of men lower in rank than those around the table. They were, he said, "staff papers that reflect the view of individuals who worked on them and not necessarily the approved policies of the services."

No one indicated any desire to punish any of those people downstairs for letting the cat out of the bag. They indicated it was not really a full-sized cat.

A congressional investigation, where each of the secretaries and chiefs of staff could be quizzed separately, might reveal more than came out of the news conference yesterday.

Nevertheless, this seems clear enough from as much of the conflict as has been disclosed:

The world is entering a period when even the best military minds can't be sure what form a future war will take. That was plain enough before this new public disagreement.

The emphasis right now is on air power, nuclear weapons and missiles. If the United States and Russia reach a point where they could destroy each other—with air power, nuclear weapons and missiles—they probably won't start that kind of war on each other.

But just to discourage each other from starting such a war they will have to retain big air power, nuclear weapons and missiles into the foreseeable future as a deterrent.

And to be sure neither side will develop something so new and devastating that it might win a war if the other side didn't have it, both sides will have to keep on developing more powerful and terrible weapons.

This doesn't rule out war altogether. If there is an air-nuclear-missile stalemate, there may be smaller wars—like Korea—where the big powers hold back on the all-out weapons, for fear of retaliation, and use the conventional kind.

Radioactivity In Air Isn't Dangerous To Us

By HERMAN H. SCHWARTZ, M.D.
 WHEN we think of radiation, we think of an atomically kind of atomic explosion.

Actually, however, all of us are continually exposed to external radiations. These radiations are of natural origin and are harmless because they are so diluted.

Radioactive Substances
 Our bodies normally accumulate minute—but measurable—amounts of substances that are radioactive.

The earth itself, the air we breathe, even our homes, contain measurable quantities of radioactivity.

Conservative Estimate
 It's conservatively estimated that just one square mile of surface soil, only one foot deep, contains an average of one gram of radium, three tons of uranium and six tons of thorium. All are radioactive.

Penetrating radioactive emanations from outer space are in our air. And the earth's gaseous decay products, thoron and radon, are readily breathed into our lungs.

Sensitive Instruments
 The water we drink and the food we eat also contain substances, the radioactivity of which can be detected by sensitive instruments.

Our homes, too, and other structures made of concrete, brick or wood, give off measurable amounts of radioactivity.

Right now, the planet walls in by electronic for up to 10 miles on a trial basis. But the perforated tape that masterminds the operation is likely to be restricted to freight yard operations for the next several years.

About 20 million Americans buy flowee seed every year.

Garden Circle Enjoys Supper As Last Meet

The Camella Circle of the Sanford Garden Club held its annual picnic at the home of Mrs. Harold Chapman, Thursday, May 17. It was a covered dish supper affair to which each member contributed. After the meal the business session was held.

The circle voted a contribution to the Mental Health Fund and heard several committee reports. It was announced that Mrs. Vernon Hardin is to be general chairman of the Flower Show which is slated to be held next April.

Mrs. Harlin thanked the members of the circle for their help during her chairmanship for the past two years and they turned the meeting over to Mrs. Ralph Betts, incoming chairman.

The circle discussed and approved the very interesting plans for next year's programs, including a circle flower show, and an all day workshop on flower arranging.

glas MacArthur fans: a wonderful biography of MacArthur by Major friend and aid, who reveals the man behind the towering public figure and the story of Philip-pine's hidden war that helped redeem a great pledge. The book is on the 14 day shelf, although brand new, because it is one that should take time to read.

If you like a humorous story, here's a new one about Brooklyn. By William Heuman, "Strickly From Brooklyn" is the title. It is the story of Manny Keefe and his wife and daughter who quarrel over Liberate, dream of a house in the country, cheer the Dodgers, and do all the folksy, human things associated with Brooklyn and its teeming populace.

"The Truth About Cancer" by Cameron, has come in. I had been asked by several people to order this book about the facts about cancer—its nature, causes, diagnosis and treatment—presented simply, clearly and specifically by the Medical and Scientific Director of the American Cancer Society.

Literary Guild selections for June is "Thing of Beauty" by A. J. Cronin. It is the story of a man who sacrificed everything for Art; family, friends, social position, career, ultimately his very life, and bequeathed to others a heritage of immortal beauty.

"Here Is Joy", by Carol Holliston is a romance about a girl who played at being grown up but still clung symbolically to the doll house of her childhood.

"A New Biblical Story": this one tells the story of Sarai wife of Abram who was destined to become the great Biblical patriarch, Abraham. A story of devotion, obedience, heartbreak and tragedy.

A new Patricia Wentworth "Gazebos" (in case you didn't know what that is, like I didn't, it's a summerhouse!), Frederic Brown has a new mystery, "Le-nient Beast", which sounds real great. And a favorite Brett Halliday's new mystery "Blonde Cried Murder."

CHAPTER TWENTY

"The days are short . . ."

"That's been like spring outdoors today."

There was a little silence, and then Ma'am spoke. "I understand Alan is planning a trip."

"Yes," Linda said in a detached tone. "He leaves on Sunday."

"For a moment Seretha said nothing."

"She had a purpose in sending for me, ran Linda's thoughts. 'I'll wait for her, make her state what she has to say.'"

"I always hate to see Alan go off in a state of a medical meeting," said Seretha, in a cool analytical tone. "Don't you?"

"No," said Linda firmly. "Why should I?"

"Because he always comes home discontented with his position here. And then he always has to be persuaded that he is well treated. I presume you have the same problem?"

Now Linda lifted her head and looked across at her mother-in-law. The tapestry frame was between them, and Ma'am's white head was prominent in her work. She had not waited for an answer to her question. "I've been fighting Alan for years on that point," she said resignedly. "He thinks he wants to be a city specialist."

"He'd make a very good one, I expect," murmured Linda. "You know that Alan would do better to content himself with the fine work he knows he does as a country doctor. And that sort of notion is an especially futile indulgence for a man with his own hospital dependent upon him."

"He realizes that, Ma'am," said Linda softly. "The fact sometimes weighs upon him; he says he looks on that responsibility too young."

"Oh, nonsense!"

"Alan is conscientious about his work. We both know that. He is grateful for what you, and Father, have done for him. He knows that it was you who persuaded Father to build the hospital and place him at its head. But one can't blame Alan for being, sometimes, a little overburdened and tired by all that such a position imposes upon him."

"Does he think a city specialist does not get tired?"

"We don't discuss the matter of him enough for me to know. He gave up that dream when he accepted the hospital here."

"I don't think he has given it up, however. And that is why I say you should help me to keep him here. Where he belongs."

Linda frowned, and said nothing. "A wife can manage such things, Ma'am."

"I'm afraid I am not that sort of wife, Ma'am. I married Alan as a man capable of making his own decisions. And I still think he is capable. He must be the one to decide such important things as to where he will work, what sort of work he will do. He will decide it too, Ma'am. He'll do the right thing—the thing that is right in his own mind."

"Enough!" said Seretha, angrily.

"There's exactly what he said about you!"

Linda lifted her head to look at Seretha. Now, she wondered, had Alan happened to say such a thing?

How she was eager to prove the conversation, but there was the childish voice—and the twins plunged into the room, their speeches blundered. Their mother, they announced breathlessly, had said that they would be present for tea.

The twins snuggled off their seats to be heard shouting, "Hi, Aunt Flora!" and the old lady came to the morning room, greeted Linda and Seretha and settled her perfume, fidgeting with a chair.

"Margaret has lots of friends," Linda realized that, these days, she often met with the need to defend her sister-in-law. "Could be the dentist—shopping—a club or committee meeting."

The twins came back, helping Jacob to bring in the tea things. Ann carried a napkin-covered basket of crullers. The butler set the tray before Ma'am, and left.

"You'll bring the crullers, won't you, Ann?" Linda asked.

"Oh, yes, sure," the child agreed. She picked up the basket and took it across to Aunt Flora. "We saw you again yesterday," she said cheerfully, "with your boyfriend."

"Oh, my goodness!" squealed Aunt Flora. "You twice see me each?"

"Well, you wish, Aunt Flora, anyone could-a seen you. You sat right there in the trap with Colonel Chaney, going down the river road. We were playing with Lory, and you went right past."

She bridled, and flushed. "Now," she announced, "I don't want anyone to think that the Colonel and I did, or would do, anything indecent. But, naturally, he and I are friends—with the two snakes adjoining. I would hope people would consider that in any comment they might make . . ."

"Silly old fool," said Seretha clearly, flatly.

Aunt Flora chose to ignore her, and turned graciously to Linda with a spirited inquiry about Red Cross classes; could she help in some way?

Deciding that Aunt Flora had, at best, the better social manners of the two, Linda accepted her conversational gambit, then moved the talk on to subjects calculated to engage the children's interest. Seretha sat behind the speaking table, watching and listening, but she said nothing more. No further question was asked about Margaret, even when she came in, smiling and pretty and hurried, her face glowing with the crisp evening air, her eyes shining like deep pools. It was doubtful if she had been to the dentist.

WASHINGTON (AP) — This 84th Congress, run by the Democrats is setting no speed record. Unless it gets a move on, you'll hear a lot about it from the Republicans in the campaign.

Republicans still smart from President Truman's attacks on what he called the 80th "do nothing" Congress in 1948. They were running it then. They'll be happy to reply in kind this year if the Democrats give them a chance.

As a sign of things to look for: President Eisenhower was critical of this 84th Congress when it finished its first session last summer. It's done less so far in this session. It still has a couple of months to go.

In this session Congress has passed only four pieces of major legislation and Eisenhower vetoed two of them: the farm bill and a bill to take direct federal control off the price natural gas producers the other two: present corporation and excise tax levels were continued for another year; construction of a 700-million-dollar system of power dams and irrigation projects in the upper Colorado River area was authorized.

The Senate last year, and the House this year, have approved highway program bills. But they differ. There can be no final action till both houses agree.

Last year the 84th Congress passed a lot of legislation which the Democrats said was good, no matter how Eisenhower felt about it.

This was the record in 1955: The reciprocal trade program was continued another three years; the small business administration was continued for two years; the military draft law was extended; corporation and excise taxes were continued a year.

The first session also gave Eisenhower a free hand in defending Fortmoss, passed a new military reserve program he wanted, boosted the national debt limit, raised the minimum wage for workers in interstate commerce from 75 cents to $1 an hour, and raised the pay of most people working for the government, including judges and members of Congress.

The Senate last year ratified three major treaties: mutual assistance or the defense of Formosa, bringing West Germany in to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Austrian independence.

Nevertheless, on Aug. 4, 1955, Eisenhower looked at this record after Congress went home for the year and said there were nine items upon which he particularly had urged action left undone.

They were: federal aid to education, a health program, a highway program, a water resources program, broadened benefits for survivors of members of the armed forces; statehood for Hawaii; revision of the immigration law; an act to simplify the customs laws; and money for an atomic "peace" ship.

He praised the first session for what it had done in helping him in the foreign field. The fault he found was with what hadn't been done domestically.

The Democrats came back this year in no mood to rush things. Still hanging fire—either because only one House has passed them or because they still are in committees—are these items:

A soil bank program, postal rate increases, new public housing, federal aid to education, changes in the immigration law, statehood for Hawaii, health insurance, and others.

Tooth Decay

(This article is published as a public service by The Sanford Herald in cooperation with the Seminole County Dental Society.)

Teeth aren't in perfect health one day and suddenly diseased the next.

When an aching tooth flares suddenly, it means the end product of a long process of decay. The pain is the danger sign and may be the death rattle of a dying tooth.

The decay begins in a tiny speck you cannot see a point no bigger than a pinpoint. Contrary to widespread belief, the decay starts on the outside of the tooth, not from within.

Because the outside layer of the tooth, the enamel, is the body's toughest tissue, the pin-point spot enlarges slowly at first. But as the decay works its way into the soft tissue within, it spreads rapidly.

Decay usually doesn't occur on smooth tooth surfaces that are constantly cleaned by movement of food over them in the chewing process. To create decay, there must be a favorable point for growing. Nature creates, pits, grooves, and spaces between teeth provide the usual places for decay.

Most dental authorities agree tooth decay is caused by acids formed in the mouth through action of bacteria on the sugars and starches that stick in these crevices.

One of the recent findings of dental science is that acids are formed very rapidly and are in greatest concentration on the teeth five to ten minutes after eating sweet or starchy foods. These acids may continue to be produced in sufficient strength to damage the teeth for about 30 minutes. Nature has provided a defense against the "decay" acids, but in our modern way of life it does not save the teeth because people are eating too many things containing sugar.

We have such a sweet tooth that we consume every year an average of about 160 pounds of sugar per person, according to the studies of one university dental professor.

"In other words," he says, "we practically eat our own weight in sugar. This may seem like a tremendous amount, but when you think that three teaspoonfuls of sugar a day will amount to 18 pounds a year, and then add the amount of sugar hidden away in other foods, it adds up quickly."

There is abundant scientific dental profession to show that if children and grown-ups eat down the sugar they consume, tooth decay, pain and loss of teeth would be greatly reduced.

Convicts Volunteer To Take Injections Of Live Cancer Cells

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Warden Ralph W. Alvin asked for 25 volunteers from among convicts in Ohio Penitentiary to take injections of live cancer cells in a cancer research project.

Nearly four times that number responded to the plea in last Saturday's Ohio Penitentiary News, a prison publication.

Announcing details of the research project yesterday, Alvin said blood samples from among the 30 volunteers, each to take injections of live cancer cells. The project is to be conducted by the Sloan-Kettering Research Institute of New York City and Ohio State University's college of medicine.

Information on how a non-infectious individual's system kills off foreign cancer cells transplanted into the body is the object.

Two weeks after the injections, the injected area in one forearm will be removed surgically for study. The cancer cells will remain in the individual's other forearm for an indefinite period.

Dr. Richard H. Brooks, prison medical director, said researchers do not expect the cancer to multiply. "But if it does, the injected area will immediately be surgically removed," he said. "Non-infectious cancer cells will be used, Dr. Brooks said.

Among the convicts who gave reasons for volunteering, a majority said members of their families had died or were suffering from cancer, said Alvin. Several, he said, volunteered out of gratitude to the prison.

"One man said he had received an education in prison which he could never have obtained otherwise," the warden said.

Soviet Medical Man Agrees Smoking May Cause Cancer

LONDON — A Soviet medical man agreed today with those who say that smoking may lead to lung cancer.

The Russian doctor said that cancer of the stomach may be caused by addition to hot soup.

A Moscow newspaper medical correspondent in the views of the medical spokesman identified him as Prof. Larionov, an associate member of the U. S. S. R. Academy of Medical Sciences.

"It goes without saying," Larionov declared, "that by giving up smoking the chances of contracting cancer of the lung can be considerably reduced."

"As for cancer of the stomach, on the whole it is likely that the intake of excessively hot food plays an important role in causing this. Many people, for instance, love soup, the temperature of which is 60 to 70 degrees centigrade (140 to 158 degrees Fahrenheit) while the cells of our bodies can be damaged within a few minutes by a temperature of 65 degrees (149 degrees Fahrenheit)."

"Among the rural population in Kazakhstan, who consume mainly fruit and milk, there are practically no cases of malignant tumors of the stomach," Larionov added.

No. 101

De Bary Republicans Form Association

The "Standing Room Only" sign was out yesterday at the firehall where the De Bary Republicans instituted an organizational meeting. Ralph Withersell introduced Noel Brown, executive member of the Volusia county Republican committee who described the project of forming a club, its place in the state and federal echelons. He introduced Col. Arthur Mitchell, sectional county supervisor and former lecturer in the law department of Stetson, who brought down the house when he stated that he came to DeLand 17 years ago and had the nerve to declare himself a Republican. He stated that he was amazed to find such a large enrollment in De Bary, second largest in the county and next to Ormond. He argued that with such enthusiasm as was being shown one could fairly assume it would be an easy process to get out the vote, come autumn.

Yearbooks Have Arrived

Miss Rebecca Stevens, advisor of the Seminole High Salmagundi, said today that the Yearbooks arrived and were issued to the students Tuesday afternoon.

The book follows the senior class colors of red and white and bears the theme "Graduation." It is white with red lettering and has an outline of a boy and girl graduate in red on the corner of the cover.

Mrs. W. B. Wray was honored on the dedication page. Each year the class honors a teacher or a principal.

Each section of the book is marked by a large replica of the Seminole High School ring with the center of the ring telling of the page numbers and events in each section.

Bowen-Long and Young Inc., of Decatur, Ga., published the book and Miss Stevens revealed that the last year book received a First Class in the National Scholastic Press Association Rating.

She mentioned also that 450 books were issued to the students out of the 530 enrolled.

There are 98 seniors in the graduating class and 34 of these were on the yearbook honor roll. The feature page of the book, which is an election of the popular seniors by the students, shows Ernie Morris, Elizabeth Woodruff, Nancy White, Jim Hawkins, Jimmy Owen, Sue Hayes, Betty Ann Munson, Homer Alexander, Howard Allred, Helen Hampton, Faye Ashley, and Tommy Wyatt.

The Salmagundi covers in detail and in pictures, all school activities, clubs, sports, and lessons and is "looked forward to every year by both students and faculty."

Talks In Sanford Last Night

A crowd of 500 heard Estes Kefauver, Tennessee Senator, make his bid for Democratic nomination as a presidential candidate in Sanford last night from a stand at the corner of First Street and Magnolia Avenue.

The candidate's caravan, traveling by chartered bus and accompanied by a neon lighted animated truck and banners, arrived in Sanford from Daytona Beach shortly before 8:30.

Kefauver was greeted by Russell Dallas, head of the City of Sanford's Utility Department, and a former classmate of the Senator's at the University of Tennessee. Also on hand to greet Senator Kefauver was Mayor F. D. Scott and Seminole County Judge Ernest Housholder.

In an address, broadcast over radio station WTRR, Kefauver outlined his desires to become President of the United States and then, prior to leaving for Orlando where he was scheduled for a 10 o'clock appearance over WDBO-TV, he was conducted on a handshaking tour of the downtown area.

Plans for a buffet supper to be served for Kefauver and his close friends and supporters here, were abandoned because of the late hour of his leaving Sanford for his television appearance.

Judge Housholder, introducing Senator Estes Kefauver, said his "virtues are such by his activities that they have been outstanding."

Kefauver, before relating his desires to become president, mentioned many of his friends meeting him in Sanford. "I was best man at the wedding of Russell Dallas and I intend to come back here soon."

Slow in his speech, Senator Kefauver talked at length on "Why I want to become President of the United States."

He said, "I come from the South and I have gotten sick and tired of other states talking about the South."

"I think the South is in the main stream of American life and I've become awfully tired with one section hitting at another," he said.

Strongly hinting at his stand on segregation, Kefauver said, "I think that as long as we have progress for the average man we will have a great America. There has been favoritism for some few. I don't believe in and don't like pitting the farmer against the laborer or class against class."

"Whatever programs are necessary to give the farmer an even break, I'm going to support them," said Kefauver as he spoke on the plight of the farmer, and he added, "I hope to have some special legislation to support the average farmer—we've lost three million of them in the last three years—we must not let this become a nation of mechanized farms."

Kefauver climaxed his bid for the Democratic nomination as a candidate for the presidency by explaining his views on old age assistance and social security. He said, "We must see that our elderly people retire in dignity."

Bike Club Officials Issue 'Last Call' For Registrations

Officials of the Seminole County Bicycle Club have issued a "last call" for Bike Club registration.

Mrs. Frances Murray, head of the bicycle safety organization, and safety chairman of the Southside Parent Teachers Association, said this morning that the last registration of the year will be held Saturday, May 26, at 10 o'clock on Seminole Boulevard in back of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Building.

The Sanford Police Department, headed by Chief Roy G. Williams will give the safety tests to youngsters applying for membership.

Mrs. Murray said "this is to be the last inspection of the year."

The next registration for new members, said Mrs. Murray will be held next Fall after school starts.

"To be eligible for the summer activities of the Bicycle Club," Mrs. Murray said, "children must be a registered member."

And she warned each young bicycle owner, "Be sure you are in on the fun this summer."

The Seminole County Bicycle Safety Club is planning a number of summer activities in cooperation with the summering recreation program. They will include wieners, nature hikes, and other interesting and adventurous events that boys and girls who ride bicycles will enjoy.

Audubon Society To Elect Heads

The Annual Plene and election of officers of the Seminole Audubon Society will be held Monday, May 28, at 8 p. m. at Rock Springs (Kelly Park).

Those planning to attend the meeting and plene are requested to bring a covered dish, plate, cup and silver.

Officials announce that the pool and bathhouses are available.

5 Local Students To Attend Boys State

The five delegates from Sanford to attend the American Legion sponsored Boy's State in Tallahassee early this summer were announced this morning by Gordon Frederick, chairman of the Boy's State Committee for the Campbell-Lossing Post, American Legion.

Frederick explained this morning that Boy's State, held in Tallahassee each year, is sponsored by the American Legion with the delegates sponsored by the civic clubs of each city sending delegates.

Those to attend from Sanford are: Brantley Schirrad, sponsored by the Sanford Lions Club; Al Stanley, sponsored by the Sanford Rotary Club; J. D. Stone, by the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce; Henry Cason by the Sanford Kiwanis Club; and Bobby Little, sponsored by the Elk's Club.

Boy's State will begin this year on June 17 when they report to Clyde V. Hayman, Director, at Jenning Murphree Hall, Florida State University at Tallahassee.

The American Legion, Department of Florida, is sponsoring Boy's State to assist in the education of our youth in the duties, privileges, rights, and responsibilities of American Citizenship, and to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to community, state, nation, and to teach the youth of Florida the fundamental precepts of Government.

For seven days the citizens of the new "State" will carry out all functions of government, taking the basic laws and procedure of the State of Florida as a guide.

Boy's State closes at noon on Saturday June 23.

Only boys with outstanding qualifications—leadership, courage, honor, loyalty, and service are selected. Good students, especially of Civics and American History receive consideration but scholarship, while important, is not paramount.
