

THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

By Nick Summer

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

CHRISTIE looked at him levelly. They'd both been drinking. The second man leered. "Come f' have a look at y'r sweetheart through the bars, huh? Don't look so good that way, does he?"

Christie battled down her urge to slap the insolent red face. The other man spat again.

"Looks awright to me. Only way I can think of he'd look better is laughing at the end of a rope. He'd look real good that way, the dirty murrin'!"

"Could be," his friend bloughed. "Could be!"

Christie whirled past them. Her boot-heels struck a savage rhythm from the planks of the sidewalk as she strode toward the livery stable. Here she mounted her waiting horse, and rode furiously toward Broken Spur.

Lacey Farran had been spending an uncomfortable half-hour with Rob. All afternoon Rob had been pacing the living room like a caged lion, with the furies fastening on his soul. He had to recognize the hopelessness of trying to drive his battered and dejected crew into action against the nesters again without a breathing spell, but the galting room like a cage, with the furies fastening on his soul. never told me that crowd was back in town!"

"You never give me a chance to tell you anything! Anyway, I thought they'd just blow off steam. I never..."

"You thought!" Rob fairly spat it at him. "I could have had the crew together and been half way to town by now."

"Rob!" As Rob started for the door, Lacey pulled himself to his feet, his sagging figure straightening up into something resembling dignity. "Where you goin'?"

"To the bunkhouse," Rob rasped. "To tell the crew to hit the saddle—where else?"

"Looks here, Rob—this is my job..."

"And Kerry's my boy!" Rob's eyes were wide open, and there was sheer murder in their black depths. "Don't you try gettin' legal on me now, Lacey..."

"It ain't the law I'm thinkin' about, Rob," the sheriff declared heavily, "but there's not more than half that nesters crowd in town. The ones that are left here—no tellin' what they might try if you pull your whole crew away from Broken Spur..."

"Never mind Broken Spur! I'm taking care of my boy!" Rob's eyes were wide open, and there was sheer murder in their black depths. "Don't you try gettin' legal on me now, Lacey..."

angry men making that noise—men with a deadly purpose behind their anger. A sense of their helplessness descended on Kerry like a crushing weight.

"Rusty," he growled. "I got you into this."

"Hush up, Kerry boy. This ain't no time to waste time talkin' foolishness. Might as well say I got you into it—y' might better. When y' team up with a lightin' rod, y're liable to have the lightin' hit you close around you for comfort. An' this looks like beln' about the biggest bolt I ever at-tracted!"

"Rusty, what do we do?"

"I'd say the first move was to get hold of that critter that goes under the name of deputy sheriff. Rusty commenced a vigorous banging on the bars.

The noise along the street was getting louder and closer. Eventually Jim Farrell came shuffling up to cell-door. The lamp he carried was shaking so that the light played queer tricks with his face, but Kerry could make out that he looked more than ordinarily like a scared rabbit, with his pale eyes all but starting out of his head.

"She if, Rusty d-r-a-w-l-e-d, sounds f' me mighty like that murrin' head!"

"Don't you worry," Farrell's slack-jawed imitation of Lacey Farran's best official manner was so ludicrous that all the danger of their situation couldn't keep Kerry from grinning in the darkness. "I know my duty. I'll defend my prisoners."

"Huckin' you'd die defendin' 'em," Rusty agreed peacefully. "Mighty white o' you, Sheriff, but it wouldn't be much comfort f' Kerry an' me when we was fanglin' from the end of a 'link. I figure it'd be more to the point if you had some help. Got a couple guns around?"

"Why—yeah..."

"Then how 'bout breakin' em out an' unlockin' these doors?"

Farrell hesitated, his loose jaw wagging in indecision. "Arms 'n' prizes an' turnin' 'em loose—No, frad that wouldn't be reg'lar."

"For God's sake, Jim!" Kerry burst out in an agony of impatience. "Havin' a lynch mob break into your jail wret regular, either. You can't stand them off all by yourself!"

Mankind Points Inquiring Finger Into Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mankind is about to poke an inquiring finger into the mysteries of space. Its technique: A tiny object high in the heavens, from which instruments might automatically record information now hidden beyond the curtain of haze which enshrouds the earth.

The White House announced plans July 29 to shoot a basketball-size missile 200 to 300 miles into space, in hopes it might orbit there at 18,000 miles an hour. A man-made but unmanned satellite of the earth, it would encircle the globe once every 90 minutes.

The U. S. hopes to do this some time during the international geophysical year which starts July 1, 1957. Russian scientists reported they too are working on a space satellite and hope to have one revolving moonlike around the earth perhaps 18 months from now. England and France also are working on high-altitude rocket projects.

All agree that the ventures have a scientific and peaceful purpose, to advance man's knowledge of the universe. But there are military applications, too.

The first nation to launch a satellite will have traveled much of the way toward an intercontinental ballistic missile, sometimes called the ultimate weapon. Some scientists believe that no defense will be possible against a barrage of bullet-like missiles, fired accurately from a distant continent.

The satellite program is itself a byproduct of continuing attempts to develop a global ballistic missile. The Navy fired a Viking rocket to a height of 138.4 miles in May 1954. A two-stage Army rocket, composed of a German V-2 and an American Wac Corporal, climbed to more than 250 miles in 1949.

The nearest approach to an intercontinental missile which the Defense Department has yet disclosed is the Atlas, now being built by Convair division of General Dynamic, at San Diego, Calif.

Actually, say Pentagon scientists, it will be easier to build a satellite such as is now proposed than to build an intercontinental missile. The satellite designers need not concern themselves with two major problems of the long range missile—its guidance, and preventing its disintegration when it re-enters the atmosphere.

Scientists attending the International Astronautical Congress in Copenhagen early this month called the satellite project a prelude to interplanetary research, and "the greatest project ever taken up by man."

Norman V. Peterson, an engineer for Sperry Gyroscope Co., Great Neck, N. Y., told the group that within 20 years an unmanned space ship may be landed on the moon, and that a piloted ship may reach there by the end of the century.

The moon is 240,000 miles away. After that: The planets, say some scientists—the strange worlds which like earth, revolve counter-clockwise in orbits around the sun. Venus and Mars are the closest, 26 million and 48 million miles away respectively.

J. Gordon Vaeth, a specialist with the office of naval research, says that the greatest of all adventures, escape from the earth, has now become an inevitable engineering and aeromedical fact.

The National Academy of Sciences and the National Science Foundation announced that they will sponsor the satellite project.

The Defense Department will provide technical advice, on the basis of lengthy research on the upper atmosphere, and also the equipment for launching the satellite.

The scientists who initially outlined the project made it plain that they were confident of its success. But the details of how the satellite would be made and sent spinning around the earth are vague.

The scientists said the "bird," as they called the satellite, might be fired by a series of rockets to an altitude of 200 to 300 miles, and then "pushed over," at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour, to "level" flight in which it would orbit around the earth with a force just counterbalancing that of gravity. A speed greater than 18,000 miles an hour might send the object hurtling out into space.

Even at that altitude there would still be some slight resistance from the air, so that gradually—after days, weeks or even months—the rolling ball would slow, and as it did so, drop lower and lower.

As it streaked into the thick air around the earth it would turn into minute particles, many miles above ground.

Wiley Ley, German-born rocket expert now living in the United States, says rocket scientists have known since 1925 that an artificial satellite was technologically possible, but that they must wait for development of large liquid-fuel rockets.

He says that a rocket or missile moving outside the earth's atmosphere at a velocity of 4 1/2 miles a second—about three times as fast as the fastest missile has accomplished so far—will not return to the ground immediately, and thus could become a satellite.

He adds that to put a missile beyond the orbit of air resistance—a three-stage rocket would be needed—a rocket of three sections, each independently powered.

As the first stage exhausts its fuel supply, the second takes over and the exhausted unit drops away. This is repeated for each successive stage. And with each new stage, the air becomes thinner and the object's weight less, making great increases in speed possible.

"There are various types of rockets and takeoff boosters in existence right now that could be combined into a three-stage rocket capable of going fast enough," Ley says.

One big question asked the scientists at the news conference announcing the project was, "What information might you get that would benefit mankind in a way that we could all understand?"

The answer:

"One simple one is the matter of studies of the ionosphere (the layer of sky between 60 and 120 miles above the earth). These affect radio communications for all peoples in the world and they are important to everybody. If we can understand more about the ionosphere, we can improve communications."

"Another thing—if we can understand more about the stellar radiation coming in which could be measured up there, we may be able to relate that to weather and climate."

"Also, we would like to know whether a heavy dose of cosmic

Davy Crockett Versus Superman; Some Combination

FORT KNOX, Ky., (AP)—The title of the century may be shaping up at this Army post.

On one side is Davy Crockett, on the other Superman.

All that's needed to spark this bout into a decisive contest is another song—about Superman—to tickle the fancy of youngsters and jangle the nerves of elders.

At a starter, the ballad maker might try this:

Superman killed no b'ars at the age of three.

Nor was he born in Tennessee. He was born on a mount of Mars. And spent his youth among stars. A citizen of outer space. He sped with lightning grace From Dorado to Scorpio, or Diablo to Capistrano.

It is high time, doubtless, to explain that Davy Crockett and Davy Superman are soldiers at Fort Knox, and getting plenty of attention because of their names.

A descendant of the famous pioneer, Crockett is a native of Fonthill, Ky., while Superman, who arrived last week, is a native of Springfield, Mass.

rays would be harmful or not and in what way. . . .

"If it is possible to have instruments in the satellite which will telemeter readings back to earth, every nation will be informed. Every nation can listen to the things which we will listen to ourselves."

It May Be Old, But Not Antique

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—It may be old but its not necessarily an antique.

This is the word of H. F. Underwood, jeweler who has made an extensive study of gems and antiques not only for pleasure but for his own protection.

Underwood says there is flagrant counterfeiting nowadays of ceramics and furniture; none in the jewelry line; but a little in silver, especially when it comes to such plain pieces as Paul Revere bowls.

"I was in New York, recently, and the trade was having a good laugh because someone had sold a world famous woman what was supposed to be a Revere bowl for $1,700. The only way the forger could be proved, however, would have been to find the man who made it."

"The more ornate a piece of silver is, the more difficult it would be to counterfeit it—and it would be correspondingly more expensive. There is mighty little fakery in fine silver because it just doesn't pay."

"You can buy something from the dime store and keep it a hundred years but it won't be an antique because it has no real value. Still, the price of an object doesn't mean it is—or is not—an antique. It's workmanship and skill that's needed to create anything that holds up in value."

Underwood said that if any misrepresentation of jewelry is made now, it's by the seller—not the maker. He said fake antique jewelry could be determined in a number of ways.

"For instance, if it has 14K on it, it's not an antique. They didn't mark it in carats then. And we can detect casting marks. Old pieces were filed by hand."

"You learn the antique business by experience. And the value of an item depends largely on the opinion of it when a dealer or a member of the public buys it. A person should shop around."

"Take a case in point. I bought a Meissen vase for $30 once and later saw its twin in another store priced at $70. The dealer there said this probably happened because it had been sold a number of times and each dealer in succession paid $5 more for it until the price got to $70."

Underwood said there is a tremendous amount of counterfeiting today of Meissen and Dresden china. Fine old pieces from these two German towns have a satiny texture; the fake replicas have a glassy finish, he said.

"But you'd better know who you buy from," he cautions, "because even an honest dealer without proper training and experience can be fooled."

Is Citizen Committing Misdemeanor When Warning Cars Of Speed Trap?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Does a citizen break the law when he warns motorists of a radar speed trap?

That was the question put to City Judge B. E. Bousha. The judge, after finding the defendant guilty, said:

"Someone higher than a poor little city judge should pass on this case." The defendant's lawyers agreed and said they would appeal.

The decision of the higher court would apparently set a precedent for Tennessee.

Last week J. W. Evans, 39, was stopped by radar officers for speeding and fined $11.

A few days later a radar crew became suspicious when all cars passing through the "trap" were passing well inside the speed limit.

Up the road a bit they found the answer — a man holding a piece of cardboard with the word "radar" printed on it.

Evans was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. The charge was amended to interfering with an officer acting in the line of duty.

His lawyers contended there was little difference between "radar" and "warning" signs installed by police and the cardboard sign waved by Evans.

The prosecution couldn't go along with that at all, it said, "if a police officer were standing at a busy intersection trying to handle police affairs and someone came up and interfered with that duty there would be no question of guilt. It's our contention that the same thing happened here."

Judge Bousha fined Evans $15.

School Workshop To Be Started Here

AN "AJ" SAVAGE aircraft is going through Field Carrier Landing Practice operations which play an important part in the role of a Navy Pilot. (Official Photograph, U. S. Navy)

Low-Flying Planes Play Important Role

Probably the most annoying cause of loss of sleep is that due to noise. Noise that is man-made and for no apparently good reason can be doubly disturbing.

During the past two weeks the AJ "Savage" aircraft squadrons based at the Naval Air Station have been conducting early morning and evening FCIP or Field Carrier Landing Practice operations.

The landing area of the Essex Class carrier is only 84 feet wide and 350 feet in length. The hugeness of the AJ, however, limits it to only a few feet to either side of the centerline of the deck.

Too high and he will have to circle the ship; too low and he is in danger of hitting the deck ramp; excess speed multiplies errors in placing the plane on the desired spot; lack of speed can cause the plane to falter in mid-air and plunge into the water like a wounded bird.

Mrs. Golt Announces Program

Plan Believed Last In County

A three-week pre-school workshop will get underway here in Sanford, Mrs. Margaret Golt, co-ordinator of instruction for Seminole County Schools, announced today.

The workshop will begin, Mrs. Golt said, with teachers reporting for duty at their respective schools next Monday, Aug. 15, and the actual work getting underway at Seminole High School the following day.

The pre-school workshop, part of a long-range in-service training program for Seminole County teachers, is sponsored by the University of Florida and the General Extension Division, and will be under the direction of Dr. C. L. Eggert, Professor of Education at the UoF.

The program and in-service training is planned by an advisory committee headed by Mrs. Golt with Gene Rahorn, of the State Department of Education, as consultant.

Others who will serve as full time consultants are as follows: Dr. James Wattenberger, Asst. Professor of Secondary Education at the UoF, consultant on Secondary Curriculum.

Dr. Roy F. Bergengren, acting head of Industrial Arts and Vocational Education at the UoF, will serve as consultant on Arts and Crafts.

Dr. Joseph Fordyce, head of undergraduate counseling at the UoF, will serve as consultant on Guidance.

Harland Merriam, assistant professor of education at the UoF, will serve as consultant on reading.

There will be several part-time consultants assisting in the workshop here in Sanford where 140 Seminole County teachers will participate. Those serving in this field are:

Mrs. Lucy Nulton, instructor at the UoF's P. K. Young Laboratory School will serve as consultant in the field of elementary curriculum.

Dr. Joseph M. Lens, professor of education at the UoF, will serve as consultant on administration.

Dr. Albert Pitts, assistant professor of education at the UoF, will serve as consultant in the field of elementary curriculum.

A number of members of the staff of the State Department of Education will also serve as consultants during the three-week workshop that is expected to be the last one held in Seminole County due to legislative technicalities.

Those expected to assist here are: Dr. Victor Johnson, consultant in the field of guidance, Thurman Bailey, area coordinator in the division of vocation and adult education, D. E. Williams, consultant on administration; Mrs. Lucy Buckler, consultant on elementary education; Zolite Maynard, consultant on health, safety and physical education; and Miss Joyce Pritchard of Row, Peterson Co., will serve as reading consultant.

"The workshop," said Mrs. Golt, "is divided into seven basic divisions. They are reading, arithmetic and mathematics, guidance, administration, elementary curriculum, secondary curriculum, and on Aug. 24, the entire group of teachers will go to Daytona Beach to attend a district meeting of the Florida Education Association, Aug. 30, is registration day in all schools," said Mrs. Golt.

Coupe Completely Demolished Here; Driver Is Charged

The body of a 1955 Studebaker Coupe was completely demolished when the car went out of control and turned over twice before coming to a stop.

The accident, occurring last night shortly after 8 o'clock on North Seminole Boulevard, was investigated by Sanford City Patrolmen L. E. Rock and C. C. Dodson.

According to the officers' report, Carl William Swanson Jr., 31-year-old Navy man attached to Hat-Wing Two at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station, lost control of his automobile as he attempted to pass another car near the City limits.

The automobile skidded 125 feet before coming to a stop and turned over twice in 30 feet.

The report stated that the driver was following another car which had stopped in preparing to make a left turn. Swanson, passing on the left at a "fair rate of speed," got too far to the left and lost control.

The driver was not injured and damages to the yellow coupe were estimated at $600. Charges of "careless and negligent driving" were made against Swanson who gave his home address as 1021 N. W. Third St., Miami.

Jaycees Will Hear Bob Lamont Speak

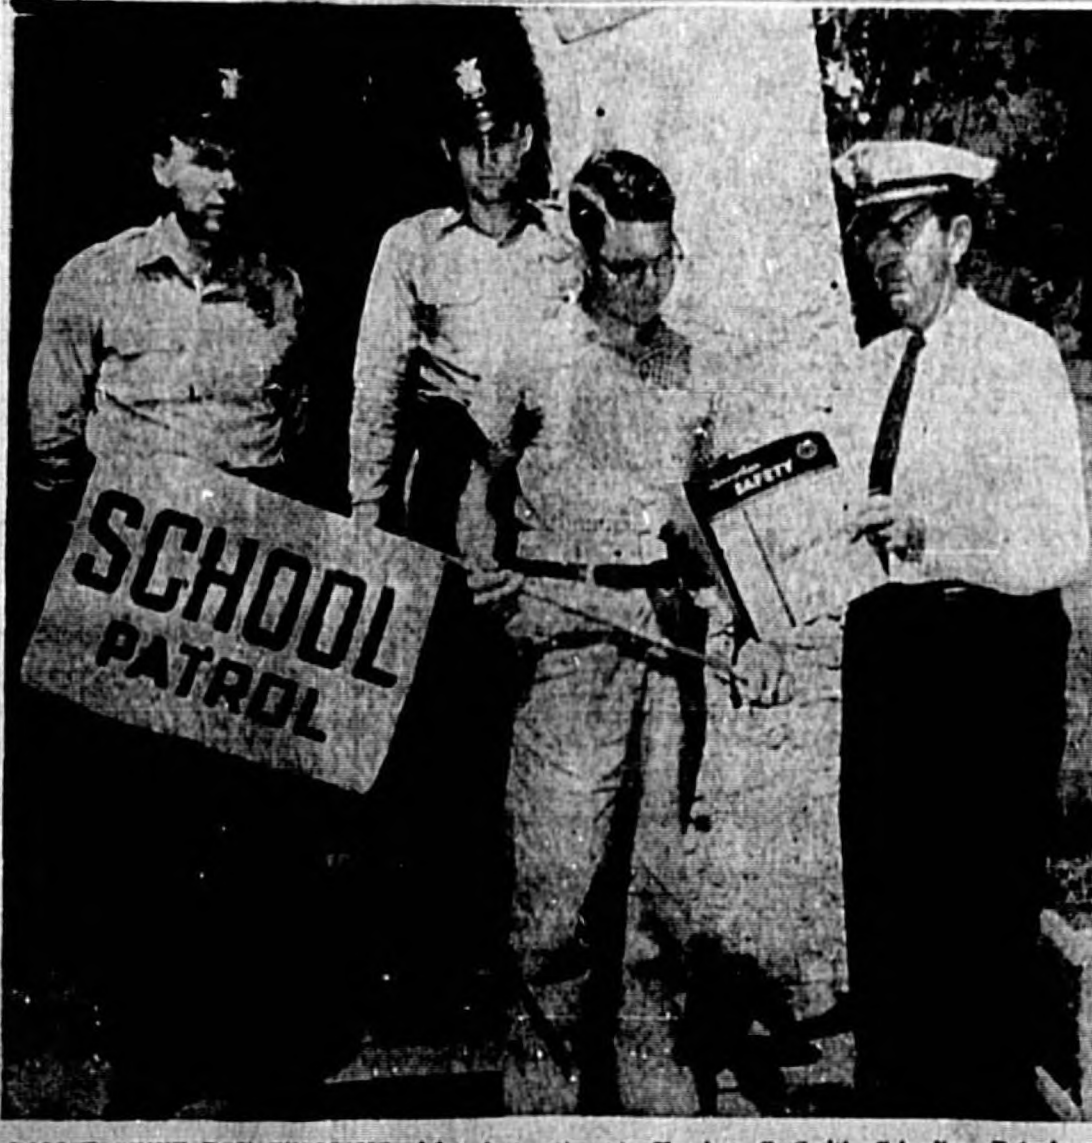

Bob Lamont, owner of the Acorn Cattle Ranch at Chuluota, will be the guest speaker tomorrow at the luncheon meeting of the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"The Cattle Business in Florida" will be the topic of Lamont's talk.

The local Jaycees are currently holding their luncheon meetings at Jim Spencer's on French Ave. Clarence McKee is program chairman for tomorrow's meeting.

According to the Jaycee Journal, published by the local Jaycee organization, Carl Overstreet, A. B. Peterson Jr., Herb Roller, Tommy Stringer, and Volie Williams Jr. attended the summer conference of the Florida Jaycees held in Orlando last weekend.

"I picked him up this morning," Constable Galloway said. "The negro is charged with 'assault and battery', and a bond of $100 has been set. Brown gave his home address as 1380 Lake Ave.

Colleen Engebretson Receives Crim Award

Presentation Is Made At Meeting Of Seminole Chamber Of Commerce

The "Barry Crim Scholarship Award" was made last night at the monthly meeting of Seminole County Chamber of Commerce in the Commissioners Room of the City Hall.

The award was presented to Miss Colleen Engebretson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Engebretson, of West 25th St.

R. T. Milwee, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Education Committee, made the award. He said, "We could find no more worthwhile individual than Miss Colleen Engebretson to receive this award."

The award of $100 was made as a result of funds received from the sponsorship of several Civic and Business/Leadership Courses by the Chamber's Education Committee. These courses were instructed by Barry Crim of DeLand who was recently selected by the Episcopal Brotherhood of St. Andrew to serve as National Field Secretary.

Crim was formerly head of the Adult and Cooperative Education departments of Stetson University and of the Adult Education department of Florida Southern College.

Dean compared his description of the tour with a person who had seen 14 movies in one week and then to be asked to give a brief synopsis of them all.

The former Sanford editor kept his audience amused with many of the commonplace experiences that others would overlook. He spoke of the lack of interest in drinking water in England, which is never served without being asked for and then, only through many banterings between guest and host, waiter and headwaiter, and then to be brought only just before the check is presented.

Roland Dean explained that buildings there were four to five hundred years old, modernized only in Queen Victoria's time.

He related his experience in Paris, Vienna, Wales and the mountains of Scotland, with minute and highly descriptive scenes recreated for the benefit of his listeners.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Dean on the tour of Europe were Mr. and Mrs. Lintor Allen, and their son, Bobo Dean.

Especially interesting, in his relating of experiences, was the lack of beautiful women until standing at the Clarence House, a very beautiful lady waved at them. He explained that the lady, according to a bystander, was Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Hardest to understand, said Dean, was the lack of new construction. There had been no building since before the war, he said, and most buildings were 100 years old or older. The largest bank, he explained, was housed in a building constructed in 1770.

I never realized, he told the Kiwanis Club, the number of different ways to speak English. And especially confusing to most Americans is Britain's monetary system. It is amazing, he said, how the British people do business with a monetary system without decimals.

To visit a Rotary Luncheon in Britain brought an amusing description. It was a small town of about 18,000, Dean said, where none has ever heard of Florida and where some thought that the United States was a "large body of water" surrounded by "England."

The meeting opened with a toast to the Queen, he said, and then the president, reminded that it was the 5th day of July, offered a toast to Orlando.

W. A. Morrison introduced Dean as he told the Kiwanis Club that it was a pleasure to welcome a neighbor back home. Morrison explained that the two families had been close neighbors for 200 years.

3 Minutes Needed To Put On Heels
Recent installation of an automatic heel machine called the "Comet-19 Model Auto-Soler" and the much heralded "Core heels" have enabled Hanson's Shoe Shop, 211 1/2 First St., to perform a new service for their customers. Customers who visit this shop can now get their shoes re-heeled in three minutes and be on their way. A. E. Hanson, manager, says this new invention gets heels cut so fast that some work in the shop is speeded up 50%.

Comet-19 Model uses soft steel wire from a reel for making its own fasteners which are accurately and automatically cut to pre-selected length and imbedded deeply into the heel at a rapid speed, faster than the eye can follow. Fasteners are driven into the heel in such a manner that the pointed end loops on as to prevent points from working upward into the shoe, sometimes a major reason for discomfort.

Dixon replied that no law was "violated."

'Nothing Sighted' In Search For Girl

GEORGETOWN, Colo., U.S.—More than 50 men reported "nothing sighted" early Tuesday after spending the night on towering 14,900-foot Mt. Evans searching for an 11-year-old Missouri girl. Passes prowled through the darkness looking for Colleen Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Patton, Clifton Hills, Mo. The search was concentrated slightly below the timberline, about 3,000 feet from the top of the mountain. The area was described by Jefferson County Sheriff Carl Enlow as the "wildest imaginable—it's full of timber, brush, bogs, creeks and straight-up-and-down rocks." Colleen disappeared about 9:30 a. m. Monday after she, with relatives, left the car in which they were riding and went into the forest to hunt for souvenirs and to take pictures.

Explosion Rocks Fast Rocket Plane

EDWARDS, Calif., U.S.—An explosion rocked the world's fastest rocket plane seconds before a mother ship was to release it high above the Mojave Desert. Research pilot Joseph A. Walker, 34, scrambled up into the mother plane, a B-36, and the rocket plane—the stub-winged Bell X-1A—was dropped, pilotless, onto a bombing range from 30,000 feet. An Air Force spokesman said that the B-36 was unable to land with the damaged rocket plane hanging from its belly for fear the rocket, still carrying highly volatile fuel, might explode again. The blast occurred Monday 78 seconds before the B-36 was to release the X-1A on a test flight above Edwards Air Force Base.

4 Homes Tell Story Of Survival

NEW YORK (AP)—Four homes tell part of the story of survival against H-bombs.

They stood on Yucca Flat in Nevada less than a mile from the center of an atomic blast nearly twice as powerful as the bomb that killed 70,000 Japanese in Hiroshima.

A two-story brick house was demolished. But its basement and its shelters came through intact.

Next door, a one-story frame rambler was smashed into rubble. It had no basement haven.

Put part of this rambler house did stand up—the bathroom. Inside were two tail-wagging, barking dogs, showing no immediate signs of injury.

The bathroom was specially made. It had thick concrete walls, a blast door and window that recessed into the wall when not needed. The blast door and window had been closed.

The blast last May gave a test of this built-in shelter, which cost $200 when the rambler was constructed.

A safe haven for humans? Very probably, at this distance from that powerful an A-bomb. Or safe if it were in a house at a five-mile distance from an H-bomb 1,000 times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb.

Atomic weapons lash out not only with the blast, but with heat and with radiation. At this distance of less than a mile from an explosion of this power, the rambler house probably was bathed with X-rays of 400 to 450 Roentgens. That dose of X-rays would be fatal to about half of humans exposed to it.

The concrete walls of the bathroom shelter adked up or stopped much of the X-rays. Studies will show whether humans would have been made sick by such X-rays even if they had survived the blast and the heat. The concrete stopped the heat waves.

This X-ray radiation is immediate, and over very quickly, like the X-rays that take a picture of your chest. They did not make the bathroom walls radioactive.

The lesson: This bathroom shelter greatly boosted the human chances of living through that close to an atomic blast of that power.

Next door to the rambler houses were two other one-story houses, one of precast lightweight concrete, the other of reinforced lightweight cinder block.

They were damaged, structurally, a bit, but easily repairable. These two houses pointed up one very important survival lesson—the necessity of avoiding flying glass or other objects.

The windows in these concrete houses were smashed, spreading a lethal gravel of glass that ripped the bodies and clothes of mannequins, slashed the curtains, pitted the walls. Doors blew in, and bits of venetian blinds became dangerous bullets.

But there were places, in corners or in hallways, or behind furniture, where this lethal spray of broken glass and flying objects would not have reached. Humans who had ducked into such places, or even behind stuffed furniture or into a fireplace, would have stepped up their chance for survival or even escaped from injury, that close to a bomb more powerful than those which burst over Japanese cities.

The Mississippi flood of 1927 inundated 29,000 square miles.

When this photo was taken, five-month-old twin brothers Ronald and Johnny Apshtarian seemed to be sixth winners in the "Sleepiest Baby" contest held in a Los Angeles park. Trouble was that as soon as the judging started, they woke up—and knif!

Deadline Is Fixed For September 1 For Pine Seedlings

OCALA, District Forester Harold K. Mikell of the Florida Forest Service again reminds landowners in Marion, Lake, Levy, Sumter, Alachua, Seminole, Bradford, Hernando, Putnam, Gilchrist, Orange, Citrus, Volusia, and Flagler counties that the deadline on ordering pine seedlings is Sept. 1. No applications can be accepted after that date.

"If you are interested in planting pines please send in your applications as soon as possible, so that you will be assured of receiving the seedlings you desire," he advised.

Mikell went on to explain all orders for 25,000 seedlings or less will be filled one hundred per cent based on supply and demand. The price of the seedlings this year will be $4 per thousand and, f. o. b. nurseries. A check or money order made payable to the Florida Board of Forestry must accompany all applications for 25,000 seedlings or less. For orders over 25,000 a notice will be sent to the applicant stating the number of seedlings to be received and requesting payment for that quantity.

Application blanks may be secured by contacting your County Ranger, County Agricultural Agent, Soil Conservation Service, or write direct to the Florida Forest Service, P. O. Box 821, Ocala, Florida.

Reverend States Carmen Gave 'All' To Bring Happiness

REVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Carmen Miranda "literally sang and danced her heart out."

So said the Rev. Charles Dignam Monday at a Requiem High Mass for the singer, dancer and comedienne, who died Friday at her home of a heart attack. She was 41.

"She gave her all to make people happy," Father Dignam told 300 persons at the Church of the Good Shepherd. Notables of movies, television and night clubs attended the services.

Miss Miranda, in private life the wife of producer David Sebastian, died after completing a television film and entertaining members of the cast in her home.

UP GOES CHRYSLER'S PRODUCTION MORE THAN 40% Here you see construction work proceeding on the new Chrysler production facilities which will add 847,000 square feet of floor space... including a 14-mile long continuous conveyor system, located in the building.

CHRYSLER'S giant expansion program brings you the greatest new car buying opportunity of the year!

Because of the unprecedented demand for its 1955 models, currently up to a new record high, Chrysler has had to undertake a Giant Plant Expansion Program. When in full production the new plant will provide a 40 per cent increase in Chrysler Windsor V-8 and New Yorker output.

Knowing that building operations would take several months, we have tried to provide enough 1955 Chrysler Windsor V-8's and New Yorkers to meet the demands of our customers through the season. This meant filling our entire year's supply right now in mid-season.

You Get Year's Widest Selection of Models and Color Combinations

Since we tried to anticipate your needs, we can show you a wide selection of color combinations and body styles, but our supply will never again be as great as it is right now! Indications are that there just will not be enough of all models and body styles to go around.

Your present car will never be worth more in trade

Remember that fact! Right now your present car is worth more in trade than it ever will be again. And we can allow you more for it than anybody else in town. That's not just talk. There's a good reason for it.

We Need Used Cars

When these new cars are gone, we'll be hungrier than ever for used cars. That's right—as these wonderful new Chrysler buys move out we will be needing more and more late model used cars. That's a double reason for you to trade for a brand new Chrysler beauty right now. You have the year's finest selection of the popular 1955 Chryslers... and, we're in a real trading mood to get our used car stocks in shape.

Take the 100-Million-Dollar Ride Today!

If you've been holding off on buying your new 1955 Chrysler Windsor V-8 or New Yorker, if you've delayed for any reason, better act now.

Because when our present stock of new cars is gone, we can't get any more! So, come in today. Experience the thrill of the 100-Million-Dollar Ride... the ride all America is talking about. It will be the smartest new car buy of your life!

All Chrysler Cars are V-8's... with the most powerful type of V-8 engine on the road!

Railroads Must Adjust To Needs Of Changing Industry, Patrons

C. McDavis, president of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, has repeatedly told the Recreation Director Needed

A hint was dropped, at a recent meeting of the Seminole County Board of Commissioners, that a request would be made that a full time recreation director be employed by the City of Sanford.

A Sanford City Commissioner included this statement in a report to the County Commissioners.

Here, now is Sanford's opportunity to eliminate so-called juvenile delinquency from conversation and from all manner of speech in our community.

We have been pointed to, from other sections of the country, as an example of a delinquency-free community. We have been asked to furnish patterns for other sections of the country to copy. And now we have the opportunity to further become a pattern for communities to follow in its program for youth.

A full-time recreation director is needed in the growing community of Sanford. Teachers have their hands full teaching. Policemen have their hands full taking care of adult offenders and the traffic problem of our community. Mothers are taking care of their club meetings, church affairs, and home problems. Let's have someone to look after the recreation for our children.

A busy child is a good child. Let's do our part by helping to keep every youngster in our community busy with worthwhile activities.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

The Isles shall wait for his law.—Isa. 48:4 The whole Western Hemisphere and Australia eagerly welcomed the moral law of the Hebrews. All civilized countries have been profoundly influenced by the laws and prophets of Israel. Our concern for the fatherless and widow, the oppressed and unfortunate stems from the influence of a book, part of which Isaiah wrote.

JAMES MARLOW

Will Mankind Make It This Time?

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you lived on a star and had been watching man on earth through the ages you could not help but cross your fingers as you looked down upon the world's atomic scientists meeting this week in Geneva.
 You might wish them well. But you'd have to wonder: "Will they make it this time?" For many times from the perspective of a star, as you watched the generations of man, you must have said aloud: "Why does he always have to make a fool of himself?"
 There were the empires that withered — the Egyptian, the Greek, the Roman, the French, the German, the British. With them were their wars, always fresh testimonials to man's inability to get along with man.
 But now man — driven by his scientific and intellectual, his physical and mental, his spiritual and his emotional, and the endless restlessness that blossomed and curdled him through the ages — at last has reached a peak.
 Now at last man, in the knowledge of the atom that he holds in his hand, has the power to destroy himself and every other living thing on the face of the earth if he cannot finally learn to live peacefully.
 It is almost as if the whole history of man's combined wisdom and folly has been leading inevitably for the mid-20th century war, because he has learned the secret, he is faced with the last choice between living and dying peacefully.

delivered before the United Nations on Dec. 8, 1945 — to the world's nations to pool their knowledge of the atom's peaceful uses for the good of mankind.
 If the nations can go on from this point and exchange their knowledge of what the atom can do — in creating power, in medicine, in agriculture, in industry — man has a future undreamed of before the bomb fell on Hiroshima in 1945.
 But will they go into a real exchange of ideas? And, if they do, will they be able to continue to work at it? At the moment they meet, other scientists back home in the United States and Russia are devising uses for the atom in war. The Geneva meeting is being held during a strange lull in the cold war — a period of almost cordial relations between the East and West — when the big powers are talking of keeping the atom for peace only and abolishing it for war.

 It is not this meeting, important as it is and could be, that will decide whether man has found real wisdom at last or is a complete fool. The many meetings which decide that will be those which seek a way to outlaw atomic weapons and atomic war and leave the atom thereafter only for peace.

Nearly All Big Firms Show Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The rising tide of prosperity has swept four out of every five corporations to higher profit levels this year.
 Almost all of the big industries show gains in net income after taxes. And federal tax collections will run more than a third higher than last year, too.
 A list of 574 corporations reporting so far on their profits in the first half of the year shows all but 108 doing better than in the previous year. Only seven operated at a loss compared with 23 a year ago.

 Combined the 574 show net income after taxes of $4,113,264,796, a gain of 34.7 per cent over the $3,273,716,221 reported by the same companies in the first half of 1954.
 With the corporate income tax ranging up to 52 per cent, this means that the Treasury also will profit by around 4 1/2 billion dollars.
 The President's Council of Economic Advisers estimates that the nation's 600,000 corporations are earning at a rate that should bring the Treasury more than 21 billion dollars for the year in corporate income taxes.
 The 25 per cent gain in net income registered this year over last is the steepest year-to-year increase since 1950. Then, as now, the economy was recovering strongly from a recession, so that comparisons between the bad and the good year were notable.
 The biggest gains are recorded by the industries which most felt

Ike May Be Good For Tourist Biz

By ED CREAGH
 GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—One thing this proud but friendly battlefield town means to do: It is doing its best to take in stride its eminent part-time resident, Dwight D. Eisenhower.
 You'll hear this determination stated by many of the town's 7,200 people who have found themselves neighbors to the President. Mostly they put it something like this: "We're glad to have Ike living here — delighted, in fact. We're proud he picked Gettysburg, out of the whole country, as the place to buy a farm. And, if you come right down to it, it looks as if he's going to be good for the tourist business."
 "But don't forget that Gettysburg was on the map long before any of this happened. We had a battle here — remember? and, much as we like him, Ike is not the first president to honor us with his presence.
 And of course he isn't, although others haven't spent as much time here."
 Gettysburg — and the country — will not forget the November day in 1863 when the lean, melancholy figure of Abraham Lincoln descended from a train (at the gray-painted station still standing here) and delivered a few words: "Four score and seven years ago . . ."

 Other presidents have come to Gettysburg — every one since McKinley, in fact.
 But Eisenhower is the first chief executive to take up residence here. He lives — all this week and most summer weekends — in the roomy, air-conditioned house he rebuilt a little south of the town, a stone's throw from where Pickett's charge carried the Confederacy to its high water mark.
 What does a town do when it finds a president in its midst?
 Gettysburg has done the tactful, dignified thing. It found out what the President wanted, then tried to give it to him.
 It made him welcome at the Presbyterian Church, where Lincoln worshipped that memorable day in 1863. The Gettysburg Country Club opened to him, and most good days when he's here see the President happily cartwheeling over the golf course in one of the colorfully painted go-carts which the club just happened to buy after it fixed up a private locker room for him.
 Gettysburg enjoys having Mamie Eisenhower drop in for a round of shopping at the five-and-dime. It understands her husband's visit don't leave much time for such events as Lion's Club luncheons or corn-and-winner roasts.
 So Gettysburg's attitude is, for the most part, to give the President a smile and a wave and then to forget about him. The town knows he likes it that way. The town rather likes it, too.
 Some folks here have worked up a lather over a report, published recently in a magazine, that the porches of houses overlooking the golf course are in demand as bel-cony seats when the President is playing.

 Reporters and photographers playing behind the President checked on that one last weekend. The verdict: Not a pebble on any porch.
 The President's total gallery on the last green consisted of three women and one little girl who wandered down from the swimming pool in bathing suits.
 Another example of how Gettysburg takes Eisenhower in stride: One weekend the President was playing with the club pro, Dick Baichter. A newsman approached Melinda Nauer, the pretty little lifeguard at the club pool, and asked which of the golfers was the President.
 "Oh," said Melinda casually, without looking up, "he's the fellow that's playing with Dick."
 GYPSY ROSE LEE
 SEEDS THIRD HUSBY
 RENO, Nev. (AP)—Stripper Gypsy Rose Lee shed her third husband Monday. On grounds of cruelty and more than three years separation, the 41-year-old burlesque figure and author of murder mysteries won a divorce from Yulio de Diego, Spanish artist, whom she wed March 19, 1948.

FORT KNOX, Ky., Pvt. Edward M. Kasell, 24, son of Mrs. Inez Kasell, Myrtle St., Oviado, is receiving basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., as a member of the Third Armored Division.
 The "Spearhead" division, formerly a training unit at the Armored Center, recently was recognized as a combat-ready unit.
 Private Kasell entered the Army last July. He attended Oviado High School.

FORT BELVOIR, Va., Charles J. Anderson, son of Mrs. M. H. Anderson of Route Box 179, Sanford, received a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army Reserve at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, on August 1 after successfully completing four years academic training at Georgia Institute of Technology, including Army ROTC classroom studies, and the 1953 ROTC Summer Camp at Fort Belvoir. He will be commissioned in the Corps of Engineers.
 For the past six weeks Charles J. Anderson has been participating in ROTC camp activities, which provide practical application for theoretical knowledge learned in a classroom. His successful completion signifies that he has met the high qualifications of leadership demanded and culminates his training period before becoming an officer.

NEKED UP SITUATION
 ST. LOUIS (AP)—A bartender can add water to whisky, the U. S. Court of Appeals ruled, but can't put more whisky in the bottle.
 The 2-1 decision was handed down yesterday on the basis that the federal law forbidding the addition of "any substance" to a partly filled liquor bottle referred to a "substance" on which a tax is due. No tax is due on water.
 The ruling was as the government's appeal of eight cases which had been dismissed in St. Paul, Minn.

Try This One

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Want to try a new salad for a summer meal? Then use a recent arrival in the food field, frozen condensed soup, as the base for a molded gelatin affair. This recipe features cream of shrimp soup with lobster, diced celery and cottage cheese. It's the sort of salad you might like to serve at a ladies' luncheon.

COOL-PINK SEAFOOD SALAD
Ingredients: 1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup, 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, 1 cup cold water, 1 cup diced cooked lobster or one 6-ounce can, 1 cup finely diced celery, 1/2 cup cream-style cottage cheese (small curd), 1 tablespoon lemon juice.
Method: Remove top of soup can. Place can in a deep pan (the bottom of a double boiler is fine) of very hot water over low heat until thawed. Stir with a fork occasionally as soup thaws. Sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften. When soup is thawed turn into a large mixing bowl. Place softened gelatin in container of boiling water; stir gelatin until dissolved. Add dissolved gelatin to thawed soup and stir together with a fork; stir in lobster (drained and diced if canned), celery, cottage cheese and lemon juice. Pour into individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold on salad plates. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

MOORE IDEAS FOR SUMMER COOKS
A new crop of cook books will interest summer cooks. "The Complete Book of Home Preserving" by Ann Seranno (Doubleday) should be of help to anyone who wants a digest of the latest methods of home canning, smoking and curing, drying and freezing, and includes many interesting recipes. Besides some of the old standbys such as pickled peaches and chutneys, there are such recipe surprises as a preserve made from fresh sugar root. And if you have a yen to try one of the most primitive methods of preserving food, in up-to-date fashion, don't miss the suggestions for "Smoking and Curing." Some months ago Miss Seranno told me she was up to her elbows in sausage-making. Now you can enjoy the results of her work via her book.

Although the "Summer Cookbook" by Marion Clyde McCarrill (Harrows) has had its first birthday, it is as useful this summer as it was last. Here is a real family-style cook book with sensible menus and recipes for both cold and hot meals, salad suppers, picnic lunches, weekend entertaining, backyard barbecues. A chapter called "Quick 'n' Easy" gives 12 menus, any of which the author or any should take "no more than 25 minutes to get on the table from start to finish." The menus are well-thought out, simple and interesting.

The "Electric Skillet-Frypan Cookbook" by Roberta Ames (Heartside) is the first culinary work to be devoted to this new and useful all-purpose utensil. We particularly like the inclusion of a conversion table for models of skillets that are not marked with temperature settings. All the varieties of dishes you can prepare in an electric skillet are given their due—soups, sauces, fish, meat, poultry, vegetables, hot breads and desserts.

"The Peasant Cookbook" (Harcourt House) by Marian Tracy is fun! That's because the author, whose "Casserole Cookery" is well known, has a flair for presenting foods. Each of Mrs. Tracy's peasant dishes is accompanied by a menu—just as in her "Casserole Cookery"—and they are the much-loved recipes of many countries chosen "to fit our ways of cooking and eating, of entertaining without fuss and ceremony." Red Beans and Rice from the Caribbean, a Spanish Paella, a German Sauerbraten, a rich Italian Minestrone, French Onion Soup—they're all here to help make interesting lunches and suppers for family meals or buffet entertaining.

ADD CAPERS TO MAYONNAISE when you plan to serve it over fresh or canned cold salmon. Then be sure to serve with wedges of lemon.

Miss Cecelia Ann Franklin Is Bride Of Harold H. Kastner Jr.

In a candlelight service at the First Methodist Church Saturday, July 30, in Donaldsonville, Ga., at 4:30 o'clock, Miss Cecelia Ann Franklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Earl Franklin, and Harold H. Kastner Jr., son of Harold H. Kastner Sr., of this city and Mrs. David Herschberger, Philadelphia, Pa., spoke their marriage vows. The Rev. Alvis A. Waite Jr. read the beautiful double-ring ceremony.

The Gothic beauty of the church was made lovelier with its decorations reflecting a wedding theme of green and white. Ferns formed a background for the seven branched candelabra of glowing cathedral tapers. Baskets of white gladioli were placed within the chancel and the bridal couple stood at the altar below a lighted cross.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Marion Roberts, organist, played "A Dream," "With All My Heart," "Legende Romantic" and "Clair De Lune." Karl Bass sang "Oh Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and as the couple knelt, sang, "O Perfect Love," which was also played during the pledging of the vows.

Mrs. Roy Reel led the program in which it was pointed out that 70 million people drink alcoholic beverages today while there are seven million alcoholics. Seventeen thousand arrests were made in one county alone last year while 1,200 arrests were made for driving while under the influence of liquor.

Mrs. F. L. Dampier presided over the business session and Mrs. J. R. Ashley gave the devotional. A lesson on stewardship was given by Mrs. Lillian Vickery. Announcement was made of the annual business women's camp which will be held this year over the Labor Day weekend at Keystone Heights.

Mrs. Rex Anderson was nominated to serve as chairman of the circle during the next church year starting in October. She appointed a committee composed of Mrs. V. C. Messenger, Mrs. Irving Pryor and Miss Martha Fox to select officers who will serve with her. They will be elected at the next meeting of the circle.

Mrs. Pryor read a letter from Mrs. W. A. Hickman, missionary to Paraguay who visited the circle in July, in which she thanked each member for a gift that was presented to her and for other courtesies shown her.

Following the business and program meeting Mrs. Dixon served refreshments of lime punch and cookies to the following: Mrs. Dampier, Mrs. Vickery, Mrs. Ashley, Mrs. V. C. Hasty and guest, Mrs. Ray Moore, Mrs. Reel, Mrs. Messenger, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Pryor, Mrs. R. E. Heurly, Mrs. Estelle Gillison, Miss Martha Fox and Miss Lorena Franklin.

Those garden tomatoes will taste especially good if you slice them and sprinkle them with a dressing of wine vinegar, sugar, salt, pepper and basil. Use the fresh basil leaves, if they are available and mince them; otherwise use crushed dried basil.

Serve pan-fried liver with a dollop of butter mixed with minced scallions (green tops included).

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carter of DelRay had as their houseguests over the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donovan of Oradell, N. J., who are visiting various parts of Florida on their vacation.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Parham, of the Central Baptist Church are on their vacation at which time they will visit in Tallahassee, Georgia and North Carolina.

Miss Bette Gibbs, Miss Paulette Cason and Miss Jerry Wilkinson will return this week from Ridgecrest, N. C.

Mrs. H. B. McCall and sons Emmett and Dan returned Sunday from Varnville, S. C. where they were called by the death of Mrs. McCall's mother Mrs. H. L. McMillan.

Miss Laura Ann Anderson will return home tomorrow from Pallock Pines, Calif., where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Tom Hanner for the past seven months.

Mrs. Raymond Moore and children, Lee, Marcia and Edward of Chicago, Ill. have been visiting for the past month with Mrs. Moore's sister, Mrs. V. G. Hasty and a trip with them to Brainerd, Minn. to visit Mr. Fred's parents.

Mrs. J. P. Thurmond has returned from a visit to Atlanta and Washington, Ga. where she attended a reunion with her sisters, Mrs. L. B. Gilstrap of Atlanta and Mrs. John B. Stark of La-Margue, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Colbert, 214 W. 17 St., have as their guests, Mrs. Salisbury, N. C. Mr. and Mrs. Quillman Brandon and son, Danny, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holshouser and children, Toni, Joe and Rudy, they spent the past week enjoying the sun and surf at Daytona Beach.

When the gang comes in from a late afternoon swim and they are starved, serve them chili-filled frankfurters on rolls and a finger-food salad of carrot strips, square wedges, green pepper, cucumbers, radishes.

Miss Sara Ann O'Neal was pianist during the reception and guests were served punch and wedding cake.

Assisting with the reception were Miss Amice Dell Roberts, who registered the guests, Miss Nellie Jo Howard, presiding at the punch bowl, Mrs. Ross Thomas, Mrs. Cecelia Ann Franklin, Mrs. Alvis A. Waite Jr., the Misses Juliana and Joanna Webb, Jo Smith, Harriet Simpson, Martha Ricks, Ann Bingham, Harriet and Althea Ann Baxley and Bobbie Jean Cobb.

The bridal couple left after the reception for Florida points and will stay in Sanford, for a brief time before going to their home in West Palm Beach, where Mr. Kastner has accepted a teaching position in the Palm Beach High School. For traveling the bride changed into a two-piece costume of white and lilac and her flowers were white carnations taken from her bridal bouquet.

Baptist Circle Meetings

The WMO of the First Baptist Church met Monday for circle meetings with a covered dish luncheon at noon and the program at 1 p. m. Mrs. Joe Wright was in charge of the program and the guest speaker, Mrs. Hans Arsbakkan, gave an interesting talk on Algeria and the schools there. The circles met in various rooms.

Circle One met with Mrs. M. N. Cleveland, co-chairman, leading in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. H. C. Moore. The meeting opened with sentence prayers by each member present.

The devotional was led by Mrs. A. J. Peterson on "A Portrait of A Christian" Mrs. Marshall used as her stewardship the opportunities of giving "The Message". Three visitors from the G.A., Carol Ellison, Betty Ann Slighton and Ruby Cohen gave interesting accounts of their activities in GA camp held in Tampa recently.

Mrs. Myers, mission chairman, presented the topic "Baptists in London Review Brotherhood" and Notes From The World Alliance", and closed with prayer.

Those present were Mrs. Fred Myers, Mrs. A. J. Peterson, Mrs. J. A. Stranger, Mrs. J. F. Lewis, Mrs. Martha Marshall, and Mrs. M. N. Cleveland.

Circle Two met with Mrs. Myron Smith presiding over the business in the absence of Mrs. Terry Bird. Mrs. H. H. Martin gave the devotional, subject, "The Knowledge of God is Life" followed by prayer.

It was announced later that the circle will visit the sick and shut-ins during August. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Viola Williams.

CIRCLES THREE, FOUR
Mrs. W. H. Murray led the opening prayer when Circle No. Three and Four met with Mrs. H. J. Finch presiding.

Mrs. P. E. Gatchel presented the devotional using as her subject, "I Am Not Ashamed of the Gospel of Christ". Mrs. Murray gave the mission study on "Stewardship of Personality". Reports were given on community missions and the children's home. Each circle voted to give financial aid to a family that was burned out.

Betty Ann Slaton, Ruby Cohen and Carol Elsworth visited the circles and presented very interesting reports on their week at the Girls Auxiliary Camp near Tampa.

Mrs. Hans Arsbakkan, a missionary to Algeria, and Mrs. J. W. Norman of Washington, D. C. were visitors at the session.

Members present were Mrs. A. L. Barineau, Mrs. Ed Cowan, Mrs. H. J. Finch, Mrs. F. E. Gatchel, Mrs. A. K. Bowditch, Mrs. Ross Newcome, Mrs. Hal Colbert, Mrs. Roy Britt, Mrs. W. H. Murray and Mrs. Wright.

CIRCLE SIX
Circle Six opened the meeting with prayer by the leader, Mrs. E. C. Harper. Mrs. Charles Muirhead gave the devotional on Faith and Mrs. W. L. Vance presented the stewardship list.

Those present were Mrs. W. L. Vance, Mrs. E. C. Harper, Mrs. Charles Muirhead, Mrs. W. P. Brooks, Mrs. M. S. Nelson, Mrs. J. H. Wailes, Mrs. M. G. Cleland and a visitor, Alice Sherman.

Circle Seven met with Mrs. H. E. Turner presiding and Mrs. Moya gave the devotional opening with prayer and scripture. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Lovejoy and Mrs. A. L. Thomas presented the stewardship list.

Mrs. Abrahams brought the mission study about the "Carver School of Missions" in Louisville and showed a picture of the 1955 graduating class. She also read a letter from Helen Masters a missionary in Nigeria.

Those present were Mrs. H. E. Turner, Mrs. A. B. Lovejoy, Mrs. J. M. Moya, Mrs. H. H. Newman, Mrs. F. P. Bines, Mrs. M. Cummings, Mrs. F. A. H. Wilkinson, Mrs. John Abraham, Mrs. O. G. Holler, Mrs. Clyis Humphrey, Mrs. A. L. Thomas, Mrs. J. L. Jackson and Mrs. John Fox.

THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE
 FARRELL was a bewildered man, scared out of any power of making decisions that he'd ever had, and clinging to the spar of the ruse. He shook his head helplessly. "Kerry, Kerry, I wouldn't be any man." He turned to move away. Rusty's long arm shot out between the bars.

"I hate to do this, Sheriff, but you just naturally can't get time to reason with you." One hand, belling up the cloth of the deputy's shirt front, dragged him close to the bars. The other, doubled to a fist, drew back and connected with the point of Farrell's weak chin. The deputy sagged limply, held up only by Rusty's grip on his shirt, while the redhead fumbled for the gun and sawed his belt.

Heavy feet were pounding on the jail door now, angry voices shouting for Farrell to open up. Rusty released his victim and let him fall to the floor. The jump in his hand shattered with the fall, and the cells were enveloped in blackness. The dark night every-thing seemed more ominous. Kerry shivered.

He heard the grating of the key in the lock of Rusty's cell. A moment later, his own door swung open. The grating and the shouting were growing more violent.

"They'll be breaking the door down soon," Rusty said calmly. "Is there a back way out here, Kerry?"
 Kerry tried desperately to remember the plan of the jail. "I don't know."

"Well, we better start bustin' out."
 Necessity gave Kerry strength to stand up. With Rusty's supporting arm about him, they groped their way down the corridor to the sheriff's office. Rusty struck a match, and its small glow revealed Lacey's spare gun hanging over his desk, and a bolted door in the back wall. Rusty reached for the gun and thrust it into Kerry's hand.

"Here, Kerry. You hold the matches while I get that door open."
 Kerry leaned against the wall for support, his hand trembling with weakness so he could hardly hold the matches steady. The door probably weighed the same as a door in a house, but the shouting outside had died away, and the silence was ominous with possibility.

Rusty's hands worked at the bolt with a desperate urgency, but nothing happened. The door probably hadn't been used in years, and the old bolt was practically solid as a piece with rust. The redhead wrestled with it like a man in a nightmare. And then the stillness was broken by the thud of a heavy body hurling itself at the door.

They didn't look at each other. The jail was a ramshackle structure that wouldn't withstand many minutes of that furious attack. Rusty threw all his weight on the bolt, as the men outside were throwing theirs at the door. It was a grim race between them. The bolt wrenched a protesting shriek, gave a painful fraction of an inch. Kerry's eyes were fixed on it achingly. Then with a rending crash, the door burst in, and the room was swarming with men.

Rusty whirled vigorously. Farrell's snarled gun covering the sheriff's head. Kerry ripped the barrel of Lacey's gun with all his strength, only to find it unloaded.

Rusty's gun spat flame—four, five times in quick succession, a sharp cry being that at least one of them had been hit. Then it clicked on an empty chamber, and the mob surged forward.

Rusty fought like a wild-cat, smashing out with his fists in all directions, trying to keep his very body in front of Kerry. He was a shield. But the sheer weight of the mob bearing down on him forced him back, brought him to his knees. Their bodies hemmed Kerry in, crushing him so he couldn't breathe.

A shot cracked out of the night, from the darkest recesses of the door, over the heads of the crowd. In the frozen surprise that held them, a loud voice laid its weight on them. "This is the sheriff! In the name of the law, I'm orderin' every one of you to stand out of here or go home peaceable!"

As the crowd shifted, Kerry could make out that behind Lacey's heavy figure in the doorway there were others—maybe three, maybe a dozen. It was too dark out there to tell.

As the first edge of the shock wore off, someone in the crowd shouted, "You're not givin' orders here, Farran. We've had enough of your kind of law!" A growl from a dozen throats answered him. "We're takin' the law into our own hands, aren't we, boys?"

"You're taking nothing!" A tall figure crowded Lacey out of the door and fronted the mob alone.

"When you're stoppin' us, Malloy? You—er—that bunch of rascals who backed out already today?"

"You're taking nothing!" A tall figure crowded Lacey out of the door and fronted the mob alone.

Rob's deep resonant voice hushed at them. "Because you came swarming into my range when my back was turned—like a bunch of pack-rats—and killed six better men than you'll ever be, you've got the notion you're men. But you had to be two to one before you got up the nerve to try it, didn't you? And that set you up so, you decided the whole pack of you were big enough and tough enough to take on two men—when one was hurt too bad to fight back! I'm stopping you—because the first one of you that lifts a hand, I'll make him wish he'd never been born!"

It should have been grotesque—one man threatening a mob—but it wasn't. There wasn't a man in the crowd who didn't feel convinced that Rob would do just as he said. He stood there a moment, poised like a taut bow-string, waiting for some move from them—and none came. He rapped out a command, "Get out of my way and let me get to my boy," and they parted before him. He strode across the room and fixed Kerry in his arms.

"You all right, Rusty?" he asked shortly, as the redhead climbed unsteadily to his feet.

"Yeah." For once, Rusty had run out of words.

"Come on, then, let's go!"
 When the Broken Spur crew had ridden out, the astonished nester gathered themselves together. There was some muttering, but Lacey Parran rove herd on them firmly, and inside an hour the last of them had trailed out of town, bearing their wounded with them. The only one badly hurt was Fred Cullen, bleeding profusely from a chest wound that had just missed being fatal.

There was another casualty of the raid on the jail, to whom some of the farmers gave much thought. Calder, with one of Rusty's bullets lodged in his shoulder, made the best of his painful way back to Double Diamond, to spill the story of the night's doings, and receive the debt of Cameron's rare, icy wrath over his head. The letter expressed his opinion of his partner's brains in terse, low-voiced words that flicked the gambler's pride on the raw, concluding, "And now everybody in town knows you, the sheriff's probably got your description—that scar on your face makes you easy to spot—and if anybody sees you here, I'll start 'em askin' all the questions I been bandin' over backwards to keep from bein' asked. Well, there's just one answer to that—you won't be here for anybody to see."

Lyndon Confident Of Leading Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) says confidently he will return as Democratic Senate leader next January.

In his first news conference since July 2, when he suffered a heart attack, he showed every sign Monday of a recovery which his doctor told him should make him "as good as new" by autumn.

He described as a "partisan analysis" what President Eisenhower said of the congressional session just ended.

of the highway, school aid and water resources bills. He said Eisenhower's health legislation was decisively defeated in the previous Republican-controlled Congress and should be completely revised.

Still on the four "must" bills, he said:

"I think if those little men who put the lots of bills in the President's pocket would also inform on those bills and why it has happened, I think he would find it futile to make a partisan analysis of what another branch of the government has or has not done."

demonstrated the wisdom of the voters in voting Democratic in 1944."

Johnson, 6 feet 3, returned to his Washington home from the Bethesda Naval Hospital two days ago with a waist line slimmed from size 42 to size 37.

He will stay in Washington until Aug. 25, then fly to Johnson City, Tex., to celebrate his 47th birthday at home Aug. 27.

His doctor has ordered him to keep his weight down to 185 pounds. Last January he was up around 200 pounds. And he has quit smoking. Instead, he chews on hard candy.

MRS. M. DAIKY McAMSTER, 30, who recently faced death because of a serious heart condition, is shown feeding her 13-month-old daughter, Bonnie Jean, at their home in Los Angeles. The expectant mother was saved by a historic operation in which she and her unborn baby were refrigerated in an ice bath to make the surgery possible. The patient is now entirely recovered and the unborn baby, apparently unaffected by the ice bath, is expected in October.

Airborne is Open For Volunteers M/Sgt. Welby Says

"The Army's finest and most spirited arm of service, the Airborne, is open for a limited number of volunteers," M/Sgt. Herbert M. Welby, of the local Army Recruiting Station stated today.

The qualifications for a "trooper" are tough and the training even tougher, but for a man who wants high adventure, thrills and tough training, there is no service to compare with the Airborne. The Airborne is made up completely of volunteers and those men who find the training too tough can ask to be transferred to another branch. At present there is a program whereby the Army guarantees assignments to the Airborne from right here in Sanford. If a man can meet the physical and mental standards he can be assigned to the Airborne at the same time he enlists, this way it is made a part of his record.

Jump training begins after normal basic training and lasts three weeks. The presentation of the parachutist badge at the end of training is a milestone in a paratrooper's career. It sets him apart from all other servicemen and represents a goal achieved, it also qualifies him to an extra $50 pay per month.

Young men interested in becoming a member of this proud arm of the Army who think that they can qualify, are invited to contact the Army Recruiting Station, Federal Office Building, in Orlando for complete information.

Acadians Celebrate Exile Anniversary

GRAND PRE, N.S. (AP)—Thousands of Acadians from both the United States and Canada will join here next Monday to mark the 200th anniversary of a famous exile. In 1755 the British governor of Nova Scotia, aided by his Massachusetts colleague, banished 6,000 French Acadians who refused to swear allegiance to the British Acadians from Louisiana to Quebec. One of their shrines is Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley, centered around this village, a whistle-stop between Yarmouth and Halifax.

The celebration of the bicentennial has been going on for a year in various localities, and it will close with a Pontifical Mass here Monday. The Acadians, many wearing the peasant dress of 18th century rural France, will congregate under the shade trees of Memorial Park, near a bronze Evangeline.

Nearby is the Bay of Fundy shore where exile parted Emmeline Labiche and Louis Arceneux on their wedding day. This separation apparently inspired Longfellow's poem "Evangeline," which has the lovers meeting after years of wandering — only to die, weak and worn, in one another's arms.

Brahmas Set Cattle Industry Way Back, Declares Bob Lamont

FBI Cracks Biggest Cash Bank Robbery At Queens, N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI says it has cracked the largest cash bank robbery in history, seizing two men as alleged members of a smooth-working quartet who held up a Queens bank to the tune of $308,000.

Warrants were issued for two other men thought to have been the ring leaders in the carefully planned holdup. A fifth man has been held as a material witness.

Arrested yesterday and charged with violating the National Bank Robbery Act were James McCoo, 38, and Frank Cochiaro, 34, both of Astoria, Queens—not far from the isolated Woodside, Queens, branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

McCoo, accused of taking part in the robbery, was held without bond. Cochiaro was held in $50,000 bail, charged with aiding and abetting the kidnapping.

Cochiaro's wife, Mildred, was a teller at the Woodside bank when four handouts appeared on the morning of April 6 and made off with their record haul without firing a shot. Mrs. Cochiaro since has resigned.

Source Says Near Agreement Made On 40 Civilians

GENEVA (AP)—A Chinese Communist source said today his government and the United States are "near agreement" on the release of 40 Americans held by Peking and only details remain to be worked out. There was no official confirmation of the report, however, from either the American or the Reds.

The Chinese source spread his report after U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Peking news Wang Ping-Nan met for a hour and a half. It was the fifth of their secret talks here on the American prisoners and Chinese students the Red regime claims the United States is keeping from returning home.

The two ambassadors announced they would meet again Saturday morning. A U.S. spokesman would say only that Johnson and Wang continued their discussion on the repatriation of civilians.

Crowds Still Gather In Korean Scenes

SEOUL (AP)—Organized Korean demonstrations against the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission virtually halted today as free world opinion came crashing down on President Syngman Rhee and his government's threats against the three teams.

Crowds were still milling around the five ports of entry throughout South Korea where the truce inspectors are stationed. But most of the demonstrations consisted of shouting and waving banners.

A U.S. 8th Army spokesman reported "all quiet everywhere."

Demonstrators, once numbered in the thousands, had dropped off to 200 at Incheon, Kusan and Taegu, 300 at Pusan and 500 at Kangnung.

The government again today cautioned against violence.

Motor Scooter, Car Involved In Mishap

A motor scooter and an automobile were involved in a smash-up yesterday about 12:30 in the Main Street section of Sanford.

A 1954 Ford sedan traveling south on Sumner Ave. and a 1955 All-state motor scooter crashed at the intersection of Second St. and Sumner Ave.

According to reports made by the drivers of the two vehicles, the scooter was in the left lane and struck the front of the sedan.

Drivers of the Ford sedan was identified as Robert E. Smith and the driver of the motor scooter as James W. Smith.

Drivers of the Ford sedan was identified as Robert E. Smith and the driver of the motor scooter as James W. Smith.

Chief Seeks $500 Fine For Bolita, Illegal Whiskey

Chief Roy Williams, of the Sanford Police Department, recommended at the Board of City Commissioners' meeting Monday night, that fines for bolita and illegal whiskey be raised to a maximum of $500.

Sanford's police chief said that most of the cases handled by his department are repeat cases and are not one-time violators.

"They come back again and again, paying the fine of $200, and possibly serve a short jail sentence," the chief said.

"$200 is not too much for the professionals," Williams said, "and even then it is up to the City Judge to mete out the punishment. We make the arrests and try to furnish good cases." Chief Williams explained, "and from there it is up to the court."

"If the violators are going to appeal their cases," Sanford's Police Chief remarked, "let's give them something to appeal."

Soviet Scientists Believed On Verge Of Big Discovery

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet scientists told the atom-for-peace conference today they believe they are on the verge of solving the mystery of photosynthesis — nature's ingenious method of feeding the world.

A. L. Kursanov told the 73-nation party that the Russians, using radioactive isotopes as tracers in plant studies, have found out a number of things about the process in which green plants under sunlight convert carbon dioxide and water into the sugars and starches that men and animals eat.

Men of science have long sought the secret of this process, hoping to duplicate it artificially as a help with the world's food problems. American scientists also have reported progress toward working out the puzzle.

Ike Shuns Flying Because Of Connie

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower, warned off by the threat of hurricane Connie, travels back to Washington by automobile today instead of by plane.

Flight plans were abandoned last night when Weather Bureau reports indicated some possibility that the Gettysburg-Washington area might be hit by at least the fringe of the hurricane.

The President arranged to return to Washington for conference with key administration officials.

Beautifying Task Almost Completed

The big task of redecorating and beautifying the Sanford City Hall is just about completed.

Painters and workmen have been busy for weeks, repairing and repainting the interior of the City Hall from top to bottom. New, warm colors have been used, providing greater light and a cooler atmosphere in the once dark offices.

Already completed are the offices throughout the building. At present, painters are completing the entrance to the building.

Chevrolet Sedan Found Abandoned

A 1955 Chevrolet sedan, bearing Florida Tag No. 1-7238, was found abandoned this morning at a garage on West 12th St., near French Ave.

The automobile is held in the name of E. J. Turner of 200 NW 5th Street, Miami, according to the Sanford Police Department.

Report of the automobile being found at the French Laming Garage was made this morning at 8 o'clock.

be in it." "We keep in it," he said, "because we're optimistic."

Optimism in the cattle industry reached fantastic heights, Lamont told the Jaycees, until 1950. And then the slump hit us in 1951. Everybody was badly hurt then, he said, some disastrously so, but it was probably good for the industry.

"The cattle business in Florida isn't such a bonanza, as some think," Lamont told the young businessmen, "but it is destined to settle down."

Florida, according to figures released, the Chuluota cattleman told the Jaycees, is 12th in beef production in the country. "Unfortunately," Lamont related, "we're 48th in quality, 44th in actual value, and 48th in the calf crop."

There are good reasons behind all of this, he said. But they are not insoluble if we attack them right and soberly. In explaining his statements, Lamont said that at Omaha auction markets last year, cattle sold there graded 90 per cent good or better. And in the Florida market, last year, he said, beef graded 95 per cent good or worse.

Covering the entire field of cattle raising, Lamont, answering a question of one of the Jaycees members said, "Personally, I think the Brahma has set Florida back 80 years in the cattle business." It was brought in when we were trying to get rid of the tick and because the Brahma was immune to the tick. "But," he added, "the Brahma is not a beef animal."

'Diane' Is Sighted In North Atlantic, Velocity Increases

MIAMI (AP)—Another tropical storm, Diane, has developed in the Atlantic about 400 miles north-west of San Juan, P. R., the Weather Bureau reported today in its first advisory on the fourth storm of the season.

The advisory said:

"Ship reports indicate that a tropical storm has formed in the Atlantic and was located at 7 A. M. EST near latitude 23.0 north, longitude 62.0 west, or about 400 miles north-west of San Juan, P. R. since no report has been received from near the center this position may be in error by as much as one degree.

"This storm appears to be moving towards the west-northwest or northwest at about 14 miles per hour attended by winds of 30 to 60 miles per hour near the center and gales outward 100 miles.

"Further intensification is expected during the next 24 hours with movement continuing about the same."

Coast Guard Cutter Brings Men Ashore

BOSTON (AP)—The Coast Guard cutter McCulloch today brought ashore 45 men evacuated from an Air Force radar platform at sea— including a dozen spilled into the water during a perilous transfer to the McCulloch.

Left behind on the "Texas tower" artificial island were 60 workers who gambled their lives on their faith that the platform they are building 100 miles off Cape Cod can withstand hurricane Connie's worst.

Cmdr. Louis F. Sudnik of Dedham, Mass., skipper of the McCulloch, said about a dozen men were dunked in the Atlantic yesterday transferring to one of the cutter's boats. The men were lowered four at a time in a bucket-like carrier resembling a rubber boat with railings. Sudnik called it a "doughnut."

Argentine Group Of Deputies Turns Down New Request

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The Argentine Chamber of Deputies turned down an opposition request last night that it investigate whether warships of a "big foreign power" trailed the Argentine fleet during recent Atlantic maneuvers.

The surprise request was made last week by Radical party Congressman Oscar Alende in a bill to Congress. Alende didn't name the power, but congressional circles said he meant the United States.

Both British and American spokesmen denied their ships were in the South Atlantic during the Argentine exercises.

On the religious front, a congressional committee last night approved a Peronista bill to allow President Juan Peron to delay until next spring the constitutional assembly Congress voted previously to end Roman Catholicism's favored position as the state church.

Mixed Bowling Seeks Membership

All persons interested in bowling in the Sanford Mixed Bowling League are urged to attend an organizational meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the Sanford Bowling Alley.

Rules for the coming year will be under discussion and participation at this session is encouraged.

Adlai Almost Certain Candidate

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson was all but an official announced candidate today for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

In an informal and unusual news conference last night, the 1953 Democratic nominee made it plain to all who came to question that he will announce in November that he is running again.

Without committing himself officially at this time, Stevenson outlined what he regards as a possible winning Democratic campaign against President Eisenhower. He said he doesn't believe Eisenhower is "invulnerable" despite the outcome of a similar race three years ago.

The Stevenson campaign would:

CDR. LEO "RUD" WEIDLIN, Commanding Officer of HATU, appears with some of the PVN Natives used by his Unit in conducting their training (Official Photograph, U. S. Navy)

HATU Is Scheduled To Begin Operation

Scheduled to begin operations this week at the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Sanford, is the Heavy Attack Training Unit which has been relocated from its former home base at Norfolk, Va. in command of this Unit is Commander Leo "Rud" Weidlin, already known to many Sanford residents as the former Executive Officer of Composite Squadron Five.

Officially designated as HATU, the Heavy Attack Training Unit is unique in being the only school of its kind in the Navy. As an integral part of Heavy Attack Wing One, HATU's primary purpose is to train the prospective bombardier-aviators and plane commanders who will eventually report to Composite squadrons based at Sanford for duty.

Flying specially equipped PVN Neptune patrol bombers, HATU's training flights will extend to all parts of the southeastern United States in conducting their realistic and intensive training.

CDR. Weidlin has expressed the sincere thanks of his entire staff of officers and enlisted personnel to those residents of the Sanford area who were so courteously helpful to them in their quest for homes in this area.

One Man Drowned, Another Is Missing At Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH (AP)—One man was drowned and another is missing and presumed dead after a boating accident last night on the intracoastal waterway 16 miles north of here.

Five persons, all visitors from Palatka, were thrown into the water when their boat capsized south of High Bridge, where the Halifax River joins the intracoastal canal. They were on their way to an island for a picnic supper.

The body of William L. Williams, 46, was found early this morning after a three-hour search. R. V. Shores, 54, is still missing. Williams' wife, Sybil, 32, and Shores' wife Maggie, 46, were hospitalized. The Shores' son, Alden, 13, was unharmed.

U. S. Takes Look At New Suggestion

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States is taking a hard look at a suggestion for more closed Security Council meetings as part of the current drive for secret diplomacy in the U.N.

A delegation source said today the question is being studied carefully here and in Washington. He pointed out that Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, has always favored the open forum idea in the U.N., which he has said produced dramatic results by enlisting the force of public opinion.

Talbot To Depart From Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Subject to the vagaries of hurricane Connie, a jet-powered farewell salute by the Air Force awaits departing Secretary Harold E. Talbot today.

If the hurricane leaves the Washington area alone and the weather clears by this afternoon, Talbot will take an aerial salute from about 100 airplanes, including a flight of aerospace fighters and possibly one or more giant B52 intercontinental bombers.

Talbot resigned a week ago Monday amid controversy over his outside activities.

Cdr. Frank More Chosen As Captain

Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station has been selected for promotion to the rank of Captain, it was announced today.

Cdr. More, who served as executive officer of the NAAS from July 10, 1953 to July 8, 1955, is now undergoing a course of instruction at the Naval War College, Newport, R. I.

Jane Crisp Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Death has claimed Jane Murfin Crisp, 62, scenarist and co-author of "Smilin' Through" and "Lilac Time." She was the former wife of actor Donald Crisp. They were divorced in 1944. She died yesterday.

School Board Okays Five Room Addition

John Brown Tells Of Winter Firms Plaguing City

A Sanford businessman set the Board of City Commissioners to thinking at its last meeting Monday night.

John Brown, local septic tank company operator, told the city commissioners that "A $250 first-year license was required when I went to Daytona Beach to work there. Following the first year, he told the board of commissioners, the license payment was only $12.50.

"I would like to see Sanford do the same thing," the Sanford businessman revealed. "I am bringing this information to your attention, he said, as a taxpayer, businessman, and citizen.

"We are plagued with itinerant septic tank men in the winter-time," Brown said, and added, "Their charges are absurd, exceedingly high, and sometimes unnecessary."

Commissioner Earl Higginbotham said, during the discussion, that "I don't think there is a town in Florida but what hasn't had the same experience as we have had," directing his remarks to statements made about itinerant businessmen.

Asked about the possibility of adopting a similar ordinance for license payment, City Attorney Edwin Shihobler said, "It would not be discriminatory."

"I'm perfectly willing to pay whatever is necessary," Brown told the commissioners, "to get the new ordinance into effect. If my experience in other municipalities has any merit," Brown said, "then I ask you to give it some consideration."

Commissioner Higginbotham added, "There also must be an educational program to let people know these inequities exist, not only in this business, but in others."

Final Approval Awaited

A five room addition to the Duval Colored School was approved by the Board of Public Instruction meeting in the Superintendent's office this morning.

The preliminary plans were presented for approval and for forwarding to Tallahassee for final order.

The Board also approved plans to advertise for bids on the nine room Goldsboro School addition already approved by the State Board of Education. The advertisements will be issued on Aug. 23 with bids returnable on Sept. 8.

Mrs. Nouvella Aulin teacher at the Duval Colored School was granted a year's leave of absence at this morning's meeting.

Roger Harris was employed as auditor for the Seminole County school system's books this morning and relieved of the responsibility to audit internal accounts at Seminole High School. Harris will audit the school system's books year round.

A representative of the "Cup 'O Gold" organization, will meet with the principals of Seminole County Schools tomorrow to discuss the possibility of installing orange juice dispensers in each school. The meeting, and installation of the dispensers, was approved by the Board of Public Instruction. W. A. Patrick, a member of the board remarked, "If Florida schools don't put them in, how can we expect schools in other sections of the country to use them?" It was pointed out that Polk County and Lake County have already installed the dispensers.

Use of Perfection Milk in all of the Seminole County Schools was approved by the board without dissent.

Five white teachers and ten colored teachers were appointed for various schools in Seminole County following the recommendation of the Board of School Trustees.

White teachers appointed were: Mrs. Flora Marie Rowland, Mrs. Roberta Bruns, Mrs. K. H. Echols, Mrs. Don Paul, and Mr. William Garrett.

Colored teachers appointed were: Charles A. Gray, Mannie Bell Lewis, Alvin F. Graham, Lewis J. Cranberry, Inez S. Smith, Helburn J. Meadows, Jr., Edward Blackshear, Martha Hall, Shirley Ann Johnson and Ophelia Jones.

R. T. Millwee notified the board that two additional white teachers will be necessary and eight additional colored teachers employed in order to fill the vacancies existing in Seminole County Schools.

A walking area to Pinecrest School was presented and with discussion from every member of the board, final decision for the area to serve the new school has been reserved until a meeting is held with mothers of children within the area and the Transportation Supervisor, Walter Teague. This meeting has been set for next Thursday at 2 o'clock at the school.

Mrs. M. Moore, Superintendent of Public Instruction, advised the Board of Instruction that the big problem of the year for the school system is Lyman School where approximately 600 children are expected to enroll and where lunchroom facilities can take care of only 75 and auditorium facilities will seat only 225. A sketch of a proposed lunchroom and auditorium was presented to the board but no action taken because of existing priority.

Towering Waves Lashing At Coast

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Towering waves and furious winds slammed into the Carolina coast today as hurricane Connie edged ominously toward the mainland.

Tree limbs, shingles and other debris flew through the air as winds of 60 miles an hour and higher whipping through exposed resort areas.

The dangerous storm which threatened a vast stretch of the southeast from Georgetown, S. C., north, was piling up sand and water in the streets of some North Carolina beach towns. Most vacationers and many permanent residents had sought shelter inland.

"It's blowing so hard you can hardly stand up," Police Chief M. E. Williamson reported from Wrightsville Beach, east of Wilmington.

Portion Of Auto In Still Missing

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A state Supreme Court legal adviser is looking for a body, that of his 1954 automobile.

Morris Flynn, legal assistant to Justice N. S. Corn, reported his car stolen from the parking lot at the Capitol Monday.

Police have recovered five wheels, a jack, a tow chain and seat cushions but the rest of the car still is missing.

Talbot To Depart From Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Subject to the vagaries of hurricane Connie, a jet-powered farewell salute by the Air Force awaits departing Secretary Harold E. Talbot today.

If the hurricane leaves the Washington area alone and the weather clears by this afternoon, Talbot will take an aerial salute from about 100 airplanes, including a flight of aerospace fighters and possibly one or more giant B52 intercontinental bombers.

Talbot resigned a week ago Monday amid controversy over his outside activities.

Cdr. Frank More Chosen As Captain

Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station has been selected for promotion to the rank of Captain, it was announced today.

Cdr. More, who served as executive officer of the NAAS from July 10, 1953 to July 8, 1955, is now undergoing a course of instruction at the Naval War College, Newport, R. I.

Jane Crisp Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Death has claimed Jane Murfin Crisp, 62, scenarist and co-author of "Smilin' Through" and "Lilac Time." She was the former wife of actor Donald Crisp. They were divorced in 1944. She died yesterday.

Legislature Halls Desperate Struggle Until September

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Florida Legislature has called a halt to its reapportionment struggle until Sept. 26 but has commissioned 11 of its members to seek a solution to the problem during the recess.

The lawmakers sound up 45 days of wrangling yesterday with a net production of two bills, both of which were vetoed by Gov. Collins.

A recess was approved by both branches of the Legislature after the House once again passed a bill giving senators the right to sue. The Bay-Monroe-Sarasota-Manatee plan for reshuffling the 28 senatorial districts is acceptable to the governor and to a majority of House members, but the Senate majority has rejected it repeatedly.

Governors Seeking Compromise Plan On Road Project

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's governors searched today for a compromise highway construction program that might be palatable to a Congress which rejected President Eisenhower's proposals and Democrats' substitutes.

Although the governors listened to praise last night from Britain's Ambassador Sir Roger Makins for Eisenhower's role at the Geneva Big Four conference and turned to a discussion of mental health problems today, their minds obviously were on the roads issue.

Makins told the governors at the state dinner of his 45th annual conference of the chief executives that at Geneva Eisenhower had succeeded "in laying, let us hope for once and all, the ghost of the idea that the Americans are a pack of war mongers."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan Democrat, told his colleagues in a prepared address that "the problem of mental health is still one of the biggest faced by the people and the states."

Lutheran Men Set Meet For Tonight

The monthly business meeting of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will be held today at 7:30 p.m.

Deen Taylor, secretary of the congregation, said that several items of extreme importance will be presented for discussion and consideration.

It is expected that a report of the building committee will be heard, along with a report of progress in the securing of a new building site for the church.

The Rev. Philip Schleissmann, pastor of the church, will attend the meeting. The Rev. Schleissmann has just returned from a vacation.

The meeting will be held at the home of J. Marion Harman Sr. on Rosalia Drive.

Columbian Women Protest Against Press Censorship

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Undeterred by a baptism of tear gas, women of Bogota scheduled another demonstration today to protest government press restrictions.

The wives of three former presidents were to lead the marchers.

More than 500 women marched to Bolivar Plaza yesterday carrying banners saying "long live liberty." Police moved to break up the demonstration when the parade turned toward the presidential palace and the office of the closed newspaper El Tiempo.

The ladies fixed umbrellas and charged the police line as main spectators cheered. Police tear gas added a 15-minute struggle and scores of demonstrators were carried to jail.
