Moore quits SHA: 'I've had a gut full'

By Dan Ping Editor

SANFORD — Citing a disgust for "bureaucratic pencil-pushers," Richard Moore resigned Thursday as acting director of the Sanford Housing Authority.

Moore was hired by the Sanford Housing Authority to help turnaround Sanford's public housing after the Department of Housing and Urban Development labeled SHA a troubled agency.

While his employment was never considered long-term, Moore was expected to jump-start improvements until a new board of commissioners was installed and a permanent director hired. Moore won praise from residents and city officials for completing more than 500 maintenance requests in less than a month.

In recent weeks, however, Moore said physical improvements had slowed because officials and consultants from HUD's Troubled Agency Recovery Center were hindering his efforts.

"They won't talk to me, they won't call me," Moore said. "They go around me and set up roadblocks."

"I can't work with the people from TARC," he added. "Their first priority is paperwork. The residents aren't their first priority. The people they're bringing in have no clue how to manage property. They don't have a clue about how to deal with residents."

During a May 11 meeting with Moore and city officials, TARC Director Katherine Lamberg promised, "There will be no halting of physical improvements." Moore said, however, TARC canceled Housing Authority's pest control service, as well as a contract to provide lawncare.

Fifth-graders are excited about moving to middle school but sad to leave Idyllwilde

By Michelle Jerla Managing Editor

SANFORD — Things got a little boisterous Wednesday at Idyllwilde Elementary School, but the students weren't the ones who made all the noise.

More than 50 parents, teachers and school staff pounded on drums and played other instruments in front of the fifth-graders' "final walk" through the school. Next year, the students will attend sixth grade at one of three middle schools in Sanford and Lake Mary.

"This is a big stepping stone for them," Diane Hardin said. "They're no longer our babies. We're sending them out into the world."

Hardin, the school's PTA president and clinic assistant, was prepared for Wednesday's send off. Before the procession arrived in the hall, the parent of an Idyllwilde first-grader had a box of Kleenex on hand for the other parents.

"I've done this for many years," Hardin said. "I have a son who started Pre-K here and is now in the eighth grade. The parents and teachers here are all really close, and it's hard to say good-bye."

Sue Gladman has been a part of the Idyllwilde community for more than seven years.

Devon students ready for high school

By Christopher Patton Staff Writer

SANFORD — Wednesday afternoon the Devon Charter School held its graduation ceremony at the Seminole County Education Support Center and 11 eighth-graders smiled from ear to ear as they prepared to journey on to various high schools in Orange and Seminole counties next school year.

For three years, Devon has been successfully promoting positive change and personal self-growth in students who have experienced emotional disturbances in their lives.

Having another generation graduating was just another chapter in their successful start. The graduates were Joshua Velasquez, Brittany Luttrell, Derrick Robinson, Jacob Todd, Bryan Ludwin, Jessica Rawlings, Angel Maldonado, Brendan Hopkins, Antonio Longshore, Jeremiah Anderson and Tim Youngwirth.

"I've always considered the eighth and seventh grades as parts of my family, but I guess it's time for the family to move on," teacher Thomas Cole said during the ceremony.

"Remember, life is good all the time and thank you for letting me be a part of your lives."

According to principal Marie Cashion, much of the young charter school's success can be

Seminole schools earn 16 A's on state report

By Michelle Jerla Managing Editor

Almost one-third of the 49 Seminole County schools posting scores received A's on the latest state report card released Wednesday.

Sixteen schools — 10 elementary, three middle and three high schools — earned A's on this year's report card, an increase from 15 A schools last year. Schools receiving A's for the first time included Lake Brantley and Winter Springs high schools, Casseberry and Red Bug elementary schools and Millennium Middle School.

This year, 12 schools posted B's, a decrease from 15 last year, and 20 schools posted C's, an increase from 17 the previous year. Only one school, Pine Crest Elementary, posted a D this year, a decrease from two schools last year, and no Seminole school received an F.

High schools posted the most improved grades, with three schools — Lake Brantley, Oviedo and Winter Springs — going from a C last year to an A this year. Nine other schools in Seminole also posted increased grades from last year. Fourteen schools posted lower grades than the previous year.

Florida began grading schools in 1999 as part of Gov. Jeb Bush's "A-Plus" reform plan. The grades are based primarily on

New Tribes Mission officials try to separate fact from fiction

By Christopher Patton Staff Writer

SANFORD — Fighting broke out Thursday between the Philippine army and Muslim extremists known as Abu Sayyah who took 20 people hostage last Saturday, including two missionaries from the New Tribes Mission.

Early reports indicate there was casualties on both sides, but still no word on the condition of the hostages.

During the last week, reports have poured in from the group of hundreds of islands in the Sula Sea that the hostages have been spotted, but for NTW spokesperson Scott Ross he only relies on information provided by U.S. Intelligence and other missionaries in the area.

"There's a lot of rumors and false reports going around," Ross said.

According to Ross, the current situation is extremely dangerous for captured missionaries Martin and Garcia Burnham for several reasons. First of all, Ross said anytime there is a kidnapping situation there is some danger involved, but the military has also taken a very strong position against the Abu Sayyah as Philippine President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo has vowed to destroy the rebels.

Another factor that proves to be dangerous for the hostages is being involved in high speed open ocean chases in open boats. Ross fears disease and boating accidents are a significant danger for the hostages.

However, Ross is also worried about the tensions between the Islamic kidnappers and the Christian hostages.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

It's time to prepare for Hurricane Season

Is it time to frighten your friends, neighbors and co-workers? After all, Hurricane season officially started in Florida on Friday, June 1. In one way, these comments may seem like I'm preaching to the choir (as the saying goes), but even some of the "choir" members (those who have been here for many years) may not fully understand the danger a hurricane can pose.

In 1960, I remember standing outside on East First Street, across from what is now the County Services Building, during the eye of Hurricane Donna, which was passing over Sanford. Winds were clocked at 93 miles per hour at that time. Even though it was a deadly calm during the eye, looking west on First Street toward downtown was like the Fourth of July. Electrical wires were flopping around shooting sparks; transformers were exploding and blowing in yellow, red, orange, even blue and green colors.

Some of the power polls were falling, many because trees had fallen on the wires. Then, when the eye passed after just a moment or two, I dove back into the building as the winds returned in the opposite direction.

It took approximately three days before power was restored to most of Sanford. Lake Monroe was up over the seawall, at places, as far south as Fulton Street. Trees were everywhere, and driving was almost impossible in places.

Frightened? Yes! It was my first Florida hurricane, and I've gone through several since that time, each as frightening as can be.

Now, we are faced, as every year, with a new hurricane season. There are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of people in this area of Central Florida who may never have experienced a hurricane. Yes, those who have been here a few years are aware of the threat of a hurricane, but only those with a few years under their belts can remember actually going through one.

It's time those of us who know the danger, tell others about the need for concern and adequate preparation. Probably every where you look there will be suggestions on how to prepare: board up the windows, bring in outside items such as trash cans, have emergency food and water supplies on the ready, know where in your house you can find shelter, or where shelters may be available if your house is damaged. There are dozens of precautions to be taken.

One perhaps, is to get the family together and decide a general meeting point if, for some reason, people get separated from each other. There probably is nothing as frightening as not knowing where to find a child or spouse.

As this hurricane season progresses, we may find little activity. After all, most of the hurricanes have struck us in September, October and November, but that doesn't mean they couldn't come within just a few days. This is not the time to relax one's guard or become complacent.

Gather the family and discuss what you would do. Talk to friends and neighbors. Pay attention to suggestions and take appropriate action.

The Seminole Herald doesn't want to have a lead story, "Hurricane Strikes Sanford" this year, or any year. But there is always a possibility, and we wouldn't want to see lives lost, property destroyed, or people injured.

Take precautions — and do it NOW!

Having their say

Director Chris Jurie goes through an old hatbox with actors Phyllis Fludd White, left, and Frankie Fludd during a rehearsal for "Having Our Say," a play by Emily Mann. The production will be presented in the Helen Stairs Theatre, located at 201 S. Magnolia Ave., on Saturday, June 2 and then from June 8 through June 10. All performances begin at 8 p.m. except for the Sunday, June 10, matinee, which begins at 2:30 p.m. "Having Our Say" tells the story of 100-year-old Sadie and 101-year-old Beesie Delany as they welcome the audience into their Mount Vernon home, taking people on a remarkable journey from their family history and the last hundred years of our nation's history. Tickets are $15 for adults and $12 for seniors, students and children. Reservations should be made by calling 407-321-8111.

A fool for a client. Sanford super-gadfly Jay Jurie has been buzzing for weeks about the city's recent annexation of 126 acres of land out on Celery Avenue. Jurie, who teaches in the Public Administration Department at the University of Central Florida, has peppered the commission with technical questions during recent meetings and claims the voluntary annexation violates numerous planning principles. If it were any other citizen raising the concerns, the city commission would take the complaints seriously, but Jurie long ago lost credibility with commissioners. Case in point is the writ of certiorari he filed asking a circuit court to "quash and strike" the ordinance annexing the land. Of the nine points Jurie addresses in his petition, six of them assert, either in whole or in part, that the city has failed to provide detailed plans for the extension of water and sewer lines to the property. Jurie's right, the city hasn't submitted a plan. The reason? Potable water, reclaimed water and sewer lines have already been installed. In addition, a new sewer plant at the airport will soon be online to handle increased capacity. Undeterred by facts, Jurie, who demands city commissioners refer to him as "Dr. Jurie," is representing himself in the petition. Too bad that doctorate degree isn't a J.D. (juris doctor).

Enter stage left. When former Sanford Chamber of Commerce director Ron Rose resigned, he received three months' salary and a lump-sum $2,000 payment. It's now about a month into his severance package, and it appears Rose has used his time wisely. The board of directors of the Helen Stairs Theatre will vote in Jurie on whether to offer Rose the Executive Director's job at the theater. No word on how the vote will go down, but Rose has been performing the job unofficially since leaving the chamber.

He's the tax man. State legislator's warned this would be a tight budget year, but evidently it's worse than predicted. Seems House Speaker Tom Feeney didn't pay the property tax on his Carnaby Drive home in Oviedo. His name popped up in the legal notice for Wednesday's Seminole County Tax Certificate Sale. The Clock knows the speaker is adamant about cutting taxes, but isn't this going a bit far?

Take two aspirin. A cease-fire in the battle over Sanford's Christmas parade appears to be in the works after the Sanford Main Street board of directors voted to hand those duties off to the Downtown Business Association. The truce didn't come without a little bloodshed, however. The DBA, lead by long-time downtown businesswoman Sarah Jacobson, wanted to organize the parade, as well as conduct events every day through the month of December. Main Street members and their director Walt Padgett said they were happy to let DBA plan the December events and would appreciate any cooperation in organizing the parade; however, they were obligated by a contract with the city to run the parade and wouldn't hand over the reins to DBA. A meeting with Mayor Brady Lessard and City Manager Tony VanDerworp failed to produce a compromise, and DBA asked for the City Commission to intercede (much to the chagrin of Commissioner Randy Jones, who said, "We've got bigger issues to deal with than to referee a pissing contest.") Commissioner Whitely Eckstein's motion to allow DBA to run the parade failed 3-2. Eckstein noted that Jacobson's power play was typical. "Dealing with Sarah is hard because she's a pain in the butt," Eckstein said. "But I'm telling you, when she says she's going to do something, she does it. I think she would do a great job." Evidently Main Street agrees, though the members disliked her heavy-handedness. Padgett informed Jacobson and the DBA the next day that if they still wanted to do it, the parade was there's.

Fuel fix

Gasbag politicians contribute to gas price hikes

Most people don't have a clue about what it takes, or what it costs, to get fuel from its source to our homes and vehicles. Ignorance has not, and will not, however, deter politicians from attempting to "fix" the latest round of price increases to garner votes for themselves and demoralize the fuel industry.

Democratic politicians are blaming "President Bush's friends back in Texas" for the price hikes. According to this line, oil companies are gouging the public and reaping outrageous profits.

Cal Thomas

According to the American Petroleum Institute, crude oil costs have actually declined from $1.63 per gallon in 1981 to 60 cents per gallon as of last month. What's driven the retail price up are regulations and taxes. As of last month, API reports, the taxes on a gallon of gasoline amounted to 42 cents. That includes an average 18.4 cents in federal taxes and an average 23.6 cents in state taxes. In 1981, combined taxes averaged 28 cents per gallon.

Over the last four years, according to API, the average profit for all American industries was 6.4 percent, while the fuel industry's was 4.9 percent. Last year, profit margins for the fuel industry averaged 6.7 percent, which was just 0.3 percent more than the average for all industries and below the profit margins of many other industries, such as banking, telecommunications and broadcasting.

No new refinery has been built in this country in more than 20 years. Clean air regulations have produced 15 different types of gasoline because of varying state requirements. Instead of producing one type of fuel for every state, refineries must tailor-make 15 different types, adding to their costs.

As the May issue of Consumers' Research magazine notes, "There is no consumer problem so bad that it cannot be made worse by inappropriate public policy." California Democratic Governor Gray Davis is trying to convince President Bush to adopt an inappropriate public policy by lobbying him to impose a temporary cap on wholesale electricity prices in California. Price controls on fuel have been imposed before by Republican and Democratic presidents. All have failed miserably, often making the supply and/or price situation worse.

Many factors contribute to energy price variations. In California, currently the object of attention because of possible power shortages this summer (and because a Democrat governor and his party want to damage the GOP in that state and nationally), higher gas prices are supposedly caused by price gouging. In fact, major reasons for increased costs include explosions and fires that have affected pipelines and refineries, as well as the unique formulation of gasoline the state requires.

As Consumers' Research reports, Midwest gas price hikes were partially caused by problems supplying a new, cleaner-burning gasoline that complies with Environmental Protection Agency standards and also meets the objectives of state and local governments to promote the use of ethanol as an additive. Aggravated pipeline problems and low inventories also helped drive prices up in the region.

Competition will help drive prices down. Costco and Wal-Mart are two major chains that have recently decided to sell gasoline at lower prices. Previous gas price hikes have contributed to self-service options, as well as production of higher-efficiency cars. It cost an average of five cents per mile to drive in 1998. Today, it costs about eight cents per mile, but vehicles get more miles per gallon, depending on car type and frequency of use.

The ingenuity of the American people and our capitalist system will be more effective in addressing our needs and wants than government regulation. Politicians, in an effort to show the public they "care," will be tempted to "do something" to force gas prices down. Such action will only insure that either prices will go up, fuel availability will go down, or both. The market and the behavior of the public offer the best hope that fuel will continue to be both available and affordable. The only experience politicians have in addressing fuel issues is their experience in making the problem worse.

Plans are now moving forward for monument

To the editor:

Eureka!!! We can now move forward with plans for the Monument honoring our veterans. A phone call today confirmed that VFW headquarters has given our local chapter permission to be our umbrella for this noble cause. We will very soon meet to make definitive plans for proceeding in the proper manner.

This is just to let you know we're back in business. As soon as we establish a mailing address, officers, etc., we'll let you know so we can proceed with ordering memorial bricks. Watch this newspaper for further developments soon.

About veterans, Monday was a memorable day with kudos to Ken Ferrin of the local American Legion Post and Mayor Brady Lessard for a very successful ceremony. There was the missing man flyover of four vintage planes, salutes to the colors, the boom of guns, and oh so proud demeanor of the marching veterans. A little girl read the poem about poppies growing in Flanders Field. Another little girl had made a woven red-white and blue pot holder and presented it to one of the wheelchair bound veterans.

Even if you'd never had a loved one to serve in the military, you had to be deeply touched by all this. And there were no "just-look-at-me" self-serving political speeches. Mr. Binford (letter to the editor in May 30 paper), come to Sanford next year. If it's as good as this year, it will truly warm your heart.

Nell G. Snow, Sanford

Bower glad to live on other side of town

To the editor:

A petition advocating the placement of a homeless respite center on St. Stephens Church property in Tusawilla was turned into city hall (Winter Springs) on Monday, May 14, 2001. It was signed by forty citizens of Winter Springs with other petitions still circulating. This petition points out that Father Bluett of St. Stephens has agreed to the location of the respite center in Tusawilla and that St. Stephens is an ideal location for the center that will house and "treat" the sick of Central Florida.

Catholic leaders have led the fight for this center in Winter Springs. Tusawilla parishioners actively support the center contributing over a million dollars to it, and have promised hours of volunteer time to make it work.

The people of Tusawilla deserve this center in their neighborhood - and thank God I do not live there. It is a bad idea to introduce such an activity to a middle-class bedroom community. The treatment of people outside one's own area is asking for nothing but trouble for its citizens for a long time to come. But - if Father Bluett and the Catholics of Tusawilla want to do this - then they are wished well. I'm just glad I live on the other side of Winter Springs.

Dori Bower, Winter Springs

Memorial Day parade makes resident proud

To the editor:

The letter to the editor from Mr. Tom A. Binford of Winter Springs prompted me to write.

Last year on Memorial Day I had planned to attend the parade in Downtown Sanford. Instead, I decided my schedule was much too busy with the barbecue I had planned. The next day, I ran into a neighbor. She said that she had gone downtown to the parade

Washington's normal: Beltway politics are fun again

Washington is normal again: Most everybody here is frothing at the mouth.

The Democrats have been crazy ever since - in their view - the Republicans stole the presidency for that amiable dunce George W. Bush. Now the Republicans are spastic because - in their view - the Democrats stole one of their senators. In effect, the defection of Vermont's James Jeffords is Florida II. The capital is rabid, with mutual contempt and hatred everywhere inside the Beltway.

It is great fun, and it will get better. The most fun so far is reading the most influential voice of American conservatism, probably of all American politics, The Wall Street Journal, fess and fume over the Jeffords betrayal, which the Journal defined on its editorial page last Wednesday as "A Beltway Coup."

Richard Reeves

In the Journal's editorial page version, Democrats are brilliant strategists who - a mirror image - almost stole the presidential election and then identified and managed to pick off the most vulnerable of Republican troops. Thus those clever Dems, says the Journal, "overturned a large part of the November election and let the Beltway media mop up by blaming the whole transition on the president's political beliefs."

Actually, I would be inclined to put more of the blame on the president's incompetence. Also, he had a lot of help from the Journal and others who kept saying the conservatives had to get tough with squishes like Jeffords.

Why did this happen? Why not? The voters were equally divided last November, and now their representatives in Washington are too.

Republicans think discipline is strategy. You can go a long way in politics by marching in lockstep - if you have one more vote than the other side. But now the Republicans have one or more fewer votes. An outsider really has to wonder whether we are watching the self-destruction of people who would rather go down together in flames than make alliances with the impure.

In fact, it seems that many Republicans think the Jeffords defection proves that conservatives have to get even tougher. Advising Bush what to do next, the Journal targets Democratic Sen. Max Baucus of Montana and anyone who votes for him, writing: "(The president) can use the bully pulpit, for example, by letting the people of Montana know that they won't be defended from ballistic missiles until their vote for the Senate corresponds with their presidential voting."

Does that mean what I think it means? If Montanans don't put Republicans in Congress, they don't deserve to live. Boy, I'd move to someplace safer. Maybe people there should consider moving to Washington. At least our coups and battles aren't bloody - just frothy!

From A to Z

Art Zielenka asks people what they think ...

Summertime and the backyard barbecue go hand-in-hand. The best part is you don't have to wait for a special occasion to fire up the grill. Any sunny weekend afternoon will do just fine. Our question today is, "What is your favorite summertime food to barbecue?"

I hate cooking for myself, but I love a free barbecue. I really like eating mouthwatering ribs, steak and chicken.

Freddie Scott, Sanford

I like to barbecue a pork shoulder. I marinate it overnight. It takes about five hours to grill, but it's good eating afterwards. It's worth the five hour wait.

Andrew Butler, Sanford

I like to grill chicken. It's the easiest for me to barbecue. I like taking the easy way out. My wife makes the barbecue sauce. It's a hit with everyone in the family.

Harold Edwards, Sanford

Naturally ribs. I've been cooking them for years. But I make mine on a rack in the oven. They are easy to do that way and everyone loves them.

Minnie Kane, Sanford

I like to barbecue chicken. Chicken is good for your health because it has very little fat. I use a regular barbecue sauce, sometimes with honey. I like the taste.

The Way We Where: Higgins family tales

Today begins a series of articles on the Higgins family using information from "The Higgins Tales" written by Martha Higgins Wight. The descendants of their immigrant ancestors were very prolific and the majority of them have remained in the Sanford area. Many of you will be as surprised as I was to see the Higgins relationships among so many long time Sanford families. In addition to the family information, there are interesting facts and stories about early Sanford, as this family has been here since 1902.

Michael Higgins was born in 1799 in Queens County, Ireland. His surname had once been O'Higgins.

Michael married Mary Kenny, daughter of James and Catherine (Redman) Kenny, also of Kings County, in 1840.

At the onset of the Great Famine in 1845, they were living in the county of Wexford. By 1848, Michael had become one of the leaders in a movement known as the Council of 12, a band of Irish fighters. All 12 were eventually captured in a battle, and all but Michael were executed. He managed to escape and quickly boarded a ship, learning later that its destination was America. He earned his passage by working aboard ship.

Michael settled in Baltimore where there was a large population of Irish Catholics. His wife's brother, Michael Kenny, a judge, had arrived in Baltimore earlier. He and another brother, James Kenny arranged for Michael's family to join him in America.

Michael and Mary's first child was named Rosary, later known as Rose Anna, and called Annie. She was born in Ireland. After several miscarriages and deaths, James Corcoran Higgins was born July 4, 1859.

The family moved to Canton, Md. where Michael owned a waterfront dairy. Because he gave water to war weary Confederate prisoners, Michael was convicted of a war crime, even though the truce had been signed. He was thrown into a federal prison and the government confiscated his herd and dairyland. It is not known how long he was detained, but when he got out, he filed suit for restoration of his property. He died May 17, 1874 while the suit was still in litigation. Finally, in the late 1920's, James' wife and children ultimately benefited from the settlement. Each received $800 which was a Godsend during the Great Depression.

Following Michael's death in 1874, his son James went to live with his maternal uncle, Judge James Kenny, in Baltimore.

At the age of 12, James Corcoran (J.C.) Higgins took an after-school job with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He continued working there when he finished school, and in 1886 went with the Atlantic Coast Line.

In 1883, J.C. married Mary Ellen Kearns and they lived in several railroad towns. In 1902 they made their last move, to Sanford, where J.C. was made District Superintendent of the ACL.

There were nine Higgins children; their information will be in a subsequent column. All had been born before they came to Sanford. Before his family joined him in Sanford, J.C. had arranged for their new home to be built at 5-P Oak Avenue (now 420 Oak). It wasn't a huge house, but with bed pallets, shifting and sharing, the family made room for themselves plus visiting kin folk and the visiting Priest.

During the early years, before Sanford had its own Catholic parish, a missionary Priest would ride into town on horseback and stay at the Higgins home. He would say Mass at the tiny mission church down the street on Sundays and Holy Days of Obligation.

The new Higgins House had gaslights, a wood stove, a pitcher pump at the kitchen sink and several fireplaces. Out back was a stall for the family milk cow.

The four Higgins boys, Ed, Brian, Jim and Owen, attended local schools. Mary was in college, but the other girls, Rose, Ann, Lillian and Adelaide, went to the Catholic Convent of St. James in Orlando where they were instructed by nuns. They commuted in J.C.'s private railway car.

For special outings, the family and their friends would sometimes take the train to New Smyrna Beach for swimming and picnicking. They changed trains in Orange City and went east to New Smyrna on a railroad spur. The train was met there by wagons pulled by teams of mules. They trudged on through the sandy scrub land over the sand dunes, until they finally arrived at Coronado Beach. The tall dunes served as private bathhouses where the girls donned their full-length swimming togs, bathing shoes and sun bonnets. The boys wore knee length swim trunks and wide, striped tops.

Although J.C. provided well for his family, he was also frugal. Once when he was ailing, he sent for his friend, Dr. Samuel Puleston. Doc came immediately and also made several house calls to treat J.C. He later submitted his bill; $3 for medicine and $2 for each of the three visits. J.C. replied by mail as follows: "Dear Sam; Am enclosing $3 for medicine. The visits I shall return. Regards, J.C."

Their son Brian, an engineer on the Atlantic Coast Line, was killed in a train wreck and it was thought that the effects of the tragedy may have hastened J.C.'s death on April 3, 1914 at the age of 54.

Mary Ellen Kearns Higgins, J.C.'s wife, was born February 22, 1863 in Baltimore. She was widowed in 1914 at the age of 51. Three of their children were still in grade school. Lillian came home from college to help out at home.

Mary Ellen stayed on in the Oak Avenue home until all her chicks had flown the nest and then she sold it. She moved to an apartment near Southside School, known as the Leffler Apartments. She later lived in an apartment near St. James Catholic Church in Orlando with her companion, Miss Mary Spellman. She died July 31, 1934 at age 71 and is buried in the Catholic section of Evergreen Cemetery next to her husband, J.C. Higgins.

New Publication

The Sanford Historical Society has recently published a booklet entitled "New Upsala" which gives the history of this Swedish community in Sanford from two perspectives. One is a reprint of the 1879 Historical Paper by Bettye Smith entitled, "New Upsala and our Swedish Settlers" and the other is Olga Vihlen Hunter's memories of growing up as a Swede in Upsala, entitled "Toppling a Saplin". This publication can be purchased at the Sanford Museum for $3.

Picture Identifications

The Vintage View published May 6 of the old timers at the Lake Mary Pioneer Night prompted three responses. Retha Blankenship was able to identify her great-grandmother, Josephine Oglesby Collins, as the person in the center of the back row. She lived to the age of 101. Her sister, Mary Oglesby Serrn, is third from the left on the front row. Lourine Messenger identified her mother-in-law Mrs. M.S. Messenger, as the person on the far left on the front row. Mrs. Robb is next to her. Paulette Cason White identified Manny Bennett, her great aunt on the far right of the front row.

because we wanted to recognize good students," Sheriff Don Eslinger said. "You hear a lot about kids getting trouble, but we wanted to recognize the efforts of good students."

Friday morning, Eslinger conducted a drawing to determine the order the cars were selected by the eight winning students; Allie Herrera from Lake Mary High, Richard Luetzow from Lake Howell High, James Luhrs from Crooms Academy, Chris Rodriguez from Seminole High, Carlos Esquivel from Winter Springs High, Dennis Panos from Oviedo High, Jung Kim from Lake Brantley High and Verna Harry from Lyman High.

All the students were ecstatic to receive the cars, but each student had a different reason to be happy.

For Luhrs, he's leaving for the Army July 19 to become a chemical operations specialist and receiving the car was important to him because of his child.

"It's the luck of the draw," Luhrs said. "It's basically staying in school for four years."

For future University of Florida Gator Rodriguez, the new car is going to provide him with transportation to school.

"I'd never expected to win the drawing - this is fantastic," Rodriguez said. "I'm thankful for having something. It's a car and it runs, and that's all I need."

James Luhrs' mother, Vivan Luhrs, carefully watched as her son was awarded the third pick and chose the green Pontiac Bonneville.

"It's sporty. It's a four-door and it will serve his purpose," Vivan said. "I told him before it was his day and his choice. I just hope they are well-maintained and safe because that's my boy in that car."

While Luhrs was only one of six in the hat for the car at Crooms Academy, the competition was far more fierce at other high schools.

"We had several hundred in the drawing for it," said Lake Mary High School principal Boyd Karns. "I think it's one of a number of initiatives that inspire students to be more responsible. It's definitely something our kids are aware of, and I think it does effect their behavior."

The eight cars totaled more than $10,000 in value; four vehicles came from Bill Heard Chevrolet in Sanford, three cars are donated from Don Reid Ford in Sanford and one vehicle is from Longwood Lincoln Mercury.

"Our contributions to the student incentive program date back to 1998 when Florida general manager Joe Ruth entered the program," said Anita Evans, marketing director for Bill Heard's two Florida dealerships in Sanford and Plant City.

"We've taken an active role in our community since day one and we're proud to do it." Bill Heard Chevrolet is the largest Chevy dealer in the nation with 18 stores nationwide.

Although none of the cars are valued more than $2,000, according to Karns receiving a free car "is just one less expense parents have to worry about" as they send their children off to college.

"I think it's creative, and it's a good message from the sheriff's department," Karns said.

attributed to the school's energetic staff and the general philosophy of the school. At Devon Charter School, the mascot is an ordinary lion, but unlike any other lion this big cat symbolizes a greater goal. His name is Leo not so much because it sounds good, but it stands for learning equals opportunity which is truly the basis of the school's success.

"We've also had a wonderful board of directors that have helped us find guidance when we needed it," Cashion said.

According to Cashion, another attest to their early success is all but one of the graduating eighth graders scored a three or better (six is the maximum score) on the writing portion of the FCAT.

The afternoon was not just spent celebrating the graduation, but several awards were handed out to students for their excellent classroom performances.

Teachers and staff were also recognized; John Urtz was

Idyllwilde

On Wednesday, her youngest daughter, Mallory, participated in the fifth-grade walk. The mother of two and devout Idyllwilde PTA member was one of many who had teary eyes while watching the children leave the school for the final time.

"It's been a very pleasant experience here, and all the employees are great," Gladman said. "This is a close-knit community, and today has been pretty emotional."

"Now my daughter will go to Millennium Middle School," she said. "It's onward and upward."

Once the 185 fifth-graders exited the building, they spent 10 minutes outside saying good-bye before they went their separate ways for summer vacation. For some, it was a final farewell to classmates they have been in school with since kindergarten.

Fifth-graders Nancy Sohn, Nicole Hanson, Jessica Towers and Valencia Emerson have been friends since the beginning of the school year. Next year, Towers will head to Millennium Middle School while the remaining three will attend Greenlakes Middle School.

"Each day of the year, we got closer and closer as friends," Sohn said. "It's going to be hard not to be together anymore."

"It's sad our group is breaking up," Hanson agreed. "But, we're going to keep in touch."

Wednesday's final walk was also a final farewell for fifth-grade teacher Rebecca Torres. Her son is starting school next year, and she plans on teaching at Bear Lake Elementary School so she can be closer to home.

After eight years at Idyllwilde, Torres tearfully said good-bye to her students. She has known many of them since they started kindergarten six years ago.

"Working at this school has been more than just a job," Torres said. "It's a family, and it's hard to leave family."

As the students and parents made their way home Wednesday, one last person wanted to wish them a good

Sigurdsons find new name, market in Central Florida

By Christopher Patton
Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Sitting around a table nine months ago, Dori and Mary Ann Sigurdson were brainstorming and searching for a proper name for their new Florida business.

The two marketing gurus were moving from Huntington Beach, Calif., to Lake Mary for two reasons; Mary Ann's new job and a better life for their children. For 15 years in California, the Sigurdsons ran Solutions Marketing Group Inc., a business that specialized in every modern marketing strategy from web design to direct mail.

With an address change and Mary Ann's new position, there also came a change in business focus. This time around, the couple would specialize in selling promotional products, or small imprinted gifts, companies give away that bear their namesake.

Then, all of sudden at the table, Dori blurted; "that's it." Their new company's name would be That's It Productions, and they would be a Florida vendor for promotional products.

Right away, the Sigurdsons said they really wanted to get a foothold in the community, not only for business reasons, but for personal reasons, too.

"I was born and raised in California," Mary Ann said. "Dori and I call California the land of the concrete jungle — it's not the place you want to raise children. Before she (8-year-old Reyna) was born we made a commitment to leave before she hit double-digits."

Since their move, the Sigurdsons' children are doing well and there new business is also growing. That's It Productions recently became a new Sanford Chamber of Commerce member, and Dori sits on the Civic Pride Committee for the chamber.

"We've been looking for something to get involved in here because we look to give back to the community," Mary Ann said. "Sanford is a beautiful town that has great potential, and it's a city that has been forgotten so to speak. It's a place where we can really make a difference, and that's important to us."

According to Dori, That's It Productions has "been doing very well" with supplying promotional products to local companies like Rivership Romance in Sanford, Workers Temporary Staffing Inc., in Lake Mary and Webster University in Orlando.

With more than 600,000 different promotional products on the market, That's It Productions has furnished local companies with a wide range of various products including golf balls, insulated lunch bags, glassware, pens and awards.

"This business a great business similar to insurance or annuity programs," Dori said. "With the people we have met, they're buying again and again."

Audit uncovers problems in Seminole County tuition program

Employees who leave don't reimburse county for tuition

By Christopher Patton
Staff Writer

SANFORD — In a constant effort to detect leakage within the Seminole County government, Clerk of the Circuit Court Maryanne Morse, and her staff, is continuously auditing different departments and their specific duties.

The Seminole County Internal Audit Division released a report determining "if the administrative controls over the Tuition Refund Program are adequate and operating as intended."

Unfortunately, the audit found four significant findings, which ultimately cost the county approximately $6,000 and allowed several former employees to enroll in college courses for free.

By the report's definition, "the Tuition Refund Program provides tuition refunds to permanent full-time employees who have completed six months of employment and are pursuing educational courses that are directly related to a job or career path within the Seminole County government."

However, employees are required to remain in Seminole County government service for one year following the course completion, or the employee must reimburse the county. Much of the lost money was attributed to the first finding as several employees were reimbursed for classes, but then left the county government service shortly after the completion of courses.

"We have done all the recommendations (in the report) except for the one that is more problematic — recouping lost funds," said Janet Davis, head of the human resources department. "I was surprised, particularly in the first finding. It was more than I thought it would be which highlighted we needed more controls in place."

An example of an employee taking advantage of the Tuition Refund Program, according to the report, is an employee who was reimbursed $1,177 for five classes (two from August 23, 1999 to December 10, 1999; three from January 5, 2000 to May 2000). The employee terminated on May 28, 2000, less than a month later. The employee did not refund the cost of the five courses, and no monies were deducted from the final paycheck.

According to Davis, the human resources department can not withhold earnings from a paycheck because of federal labor laws, however Davis said she has added several checks and balances to prevent the problem from occurring again.

Of those controls, Davis said a list of all employees, approximately 70, on the Tuition Refund Program is now kept in the department. Davis also said questions pertaining to the Tuition Refund Program are now on the exit interview. Department heads were also asked to give a more sufficient warning when employees were leaving.

"If I had to guess they (the employees) didn't think about it (leaving without repaying college courses)," Davis said. "I would like to believe it was not a willful or intentional act."

Commissioner Daryl McLain said many of the employees probably thought it was "water under the bridge," and "if the snake doesn't bite, I'm going to walk on by."

"It's the county's responsibility to keep up with that, but I do question why an employee would do that," McLain said.

According to McLain, the county should of collected the money before the employees terminated, but collecting the money now may cost the city more money than the actual money lost.

The second finding from the report summarized that reimbursements for textbooks and tuition costs are made without paid receipts. However, Davis said many colleges and universities have the option to purchase books online. In an agreement with the Internal Audit Division, electronic transfers are now accepted.

The third finding outlined that tuition reimbursement amounts are not correctly calculated in accordance with the grades received in the class. Employees are reimbursed 100 percent for an "A," 75 percent for a "B," 50 percent for a "C" and nothing below a "C."

The report noted that 19 of 108 reimbursements were not calculated correctly. According to Davis, the miscalculations was a result of mathematical errors and to correct the problem Davis said three individuals check the math before the reimbursements approved.

The fourth finding charted how the University of Central Florida students are assessed a health fee ($47.30), but private colleges like University of Phoenix, Troy State and Rollins College do not. However, the county has been reimbursing all employees for the health fee no matter what school they attend. The county lost approximately $1,100 for reimbursing student health fees when in all actuality the school does not have health fees.

According to Davis that problem has also been fixed as employees are no longer reimbursed for health fees.

"Maryanne (Morse) and the clerk of the court office take their jobs seriously and do a good job," Davis said. "We appreciate somebody taking a look and telling us how we can improve these things."

Wildfire threat continues in Central Florida

Authorities say Seminole safe for the moment

By Nick Pfeiffert
Staff Writer

Even though there has been no major wildfire reported in Seminole County in the past few months, the threat could still be present. This area of Central Florida has had a few rain showers recently, but not enough to prevent the continuing threat of wildfires.

"We haven't had any fires that we would call significant recently," said Paula Ritchie with the Seminole County Fire Department. "Perhaps a few small ones have broken out, but nothing we couldn't handle immediately."

Seminole County Fire Chief Terry Schenk said he was pleased that with recent rains, the county presently has one of the lowest (drought index) ratings in the state. "As of Thursday," he said, "our rating was 134. It may even go below 100 when Friday readings are released, especially if we get more needed rain." In addition to being Fire Chief he also serves as County Meteorologist. As such, he expects rainfall in Central Florida will soon return to normal.

Regarding the index, he explained that with some Seminole County Fire Fighters assisting in the 60,000 acre fire in Dixie County, "Dixie County has a level of 652 right now. The range is from 0, which is completely wet, to 800, which is as dry as a desert. Back in 1998 when we had so many fires, Seminole County's level was above 700."

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Charles H. Bronson has expressed grave concern about the threat throughout the state and is urging citizens and visitors to do all they can to keep fires from starting.

"I've been involved in Florida agriculture all my life," he said, "and I've never seen it this dry. We must do everything we can to prevent wildfires from starting."

State forestry officials are concerned that new fires started by humans will dramatically increase the threat of wildfires as they cope with existing conditions. Since January 1, more than 2,800 wildfires of significant size have burned over 205,000 acres of our state. Forestry firefighters are presently battling more than 40 active fires and continue to monitor over a hundred other wildfires. The largest one, in the Florida panhandle area, was most recently declared to be only 45 percent under control.

The one in Polk and Osceola counties, which seems to have been going on for several weeks, is obtaining most of its fuel from the ground, peat, common in swampy areas of the state. Putting water on the fire often does little except slow the fires, which originate below the surface.

"People should remember that the firestorms of 1998 - when 4,700 fires burned 504,000 acres, didn't really start until Memorial day," Bronson said. "Our current conditions are much worse than they were then."

school scores on the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FCAT), which includes exams in reading, writing and math. Other criteria include the percent of eligible students tested and improvement or decline in reading scores of the lowest performing students.

Statewide, the number of A and B schools increased for the third year, from 21 percent in 1999 to 41 percent in 2001.

Education Commissioner Charlie Crist said he was impressed by the three-year trend of improvement in student performance.

"Our hard-working public school teachers, students, parents and administrators get credit for these accomplishments," Crist said. "The number of A and B schools has increased, and the number of D and F schools has decreased."

Schools that earned an A or increased student performance enough to move up at least one letter grade are eligible to receive a reward of $100 per student as part of the state's School Recognition Program.

Schools have 30 days to appeal their grades prior to final grade assignment.

ed, Moore said. TARC officials contend that the contracts weren't obtained through appropriate procurement procedures. During HUD's investigation of the Housing Authority, residents complained that rodents were running rampant through the units. Moore said he considered the problem to be a life/safety issue and took "emergency action." He said HUD's procedures don't take into account the need to resolve important problems quickly.

For example, Moore said he was most concerned about TARC officials refusing to take immediate action to correct electrical problems throughout the 480 units.

"That was the kicker for me," Moore said. "Most of those buildings aren't grounded, and it poses a significant danger to the residents. I know about it, but I can't fix the problem. If I can't fix the problem, then I'm leaving because I'm not going to have my name associated with a major disaster."

Moore solicited bids to fix the problems from four electrical contractors. The lowest bid was for $35,000. Under HUD policies, any contract for services over $25,000 requires a Request For Proposal, a process that could take up to two months to complete.

Gary Monsees of High and Low Electric, one of the four companies that inspected the units, said buildings without proper electrical grounding are "definite safety risk."

"That's one of the most important systems in electrical work," Monsees said. "Say lightning hits the building, if it's not properly grounded you have a major surge of electricity. If you happen to be touching your toaster oven or taking a bath, you're dead. Same thing could happen if one of the wires is frayed and comes in contact with another wire or a piece of metal."

Monsees said it is difficult to assess when electrocution from an improperly grounded building might occur.

"You could go your whole life and not have a problem," he said. "Or, you could have five in one day. You don't know when it will occur, but I don't think that's a livable facility."

"It's just negligence not to fix the problem immediately," Monsees added. "What they're doing is putting a price on somebody's life. I mean, $25,000 couldn't even pay the lawyer's bills. They know there's a problem, and they aren't doing anything to fix it."

Moore said he doesn't expect the electrical problems, or any of the problems at the Housing Authority, to be resolved quickly. "If anyone is to blame for the problems at the Sanford Housing Authority, it's HUD," Moore said. "They've failed to provide proper oversight. They knew about the problems here and did absolutely nothing about them until stuff began appearing in the media."

"Now their solution is to bring in a couple of consultants for one or two days at a time and drag this thing out indefinitely," he added.

"If HUD and TARC would come in and spend two or three hard weeks working, most of these problems would be resolved. Instead, they want to fly consultants in from New Orleans, put them up in a hotel for a couple of nights, and then fly them out."

Moore said despite his frustration with HUD officials, he appreciated the support he received from the city. "My resignation has nothing to do with the city of Sanford or the residents of the Housing Authority," Moore said. "They have been very supportive of the job we were doing. I don't want the residents to think I'm abandoning them for something better. I've just had it with TARC. They cut my legs out from under me. I've had a gut full."

"If anyone is to blame for the problems at the (SHA) it's HUD. They knew about the problems here and did absolutely nothing about them until stuff began appearing in the media."

to the ordeal," Ross said. "How will these Muslims feel about and treat the Christians they sometimes view as evil?"

While New Tribes missionaries have found themselves in the middle of dangerous situations before, Ross reassures that the mission "really do check it out" before missionaries are sent to an area. Ross said "we're not crazy" sending missionaries into dangerous areas, however there is always the chance of danger in third world countries where the government and police forces may be unstable.

"This was a total surprise," Ross said about the kidnapping. "They were on a break celebrating their anniversary."

Much of the surprise surrounding the kidnapping is that the Abu Sadiyah traveled more than 350 miles of open ocean from the southern islands of Sulu and Basilan, where the Philippine government believe they operate, to the island of Palawan.

According to Ross, the Muslim extremists were followed by the Philippine government airplanes at the time of the kidnap, but the military had to call off the chase due to darkness. Much of the operation to rescue the hostages has been stalled by the lack of technology of the Philippine army.

However, while Ross believes the U.S. will eventually help with providing intelligence like satellite aerial photos of the area he does not foresee the U.S. getting involved.

"It's a little bit embarrassing for one country to ask another to help with a rescue attempt," Ross said. "We've experienced this problem in other situations. These countries have too much nationalism to let those things happen."

The kidnapped couple were celebrating their 18th wedding anniversary and had been stationed in the Philippines since 1986. The couple met while in bible college. Being a missionary is nothing new for Martin as his parents, Paul and Oreta, have been missionaries since 1971.

"We may have to move more people out of the area to keep the risk down," Ross said. "We believe God is going to work this thing out."

Cardinals earn title with split

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

SANFORD — Lyndon Merthie hurled a three-hitter as the Cardinals defeated the Mariners 8-2 to claim the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Babe Ruth Division Championship at Zinn Beck Field Tuesday evening.

Luke Kimmig and Cleo White had combined to scatter seven hits in the first game as the Nobles Communication Mariners handed the Conklin, Porter & Holmes Engineers, Inc. Cardinals their first loss of the series, 5-3, in the first game of the evening.

But the Cardinals came back in the nightcap to build 7-0 lead before settling for the 8-2 victory and the championship of the Babe Ruth Division for 13-to-15 year olds.

The Cardinals had gotten to the finals of the double-elimination tournament by thumping the Cubs, 18-1, and the Mariners, 8-3.

The Mariners had earned their spot by edging the Red Sox, 9-7, then getting a forfeit win in the Loser's Bracket finals.

After two quick outs, the Mariners grabbed the lead in the first game as Kimmig singled to center and stole second before scoring when White reached on a two-base error.

The Cardinals did likewise in the bottom of the first inning, actually doing a run better, as they took a 2-1 lead.

Herald photos by Art Zielinski

The Cardinals' Khalil Farahkhan (#25, above) scores the tying run early in the first game on Tuesday as Mariners catcher Richard Nelson blocks the throw. But Cleo White (sliding safely under the tag of Donnell Hicks on a steal of third at right) came on to get the final three outs as the Mariners edged the Cardinals, 5-3, to force a Winner-Take-All Game which the Cardinals won 8-2 to claim the Babe Ruth (13-15 year old) City Championship Series at Zinn Beck Field.

With two out and no one on, Khalil Farahkhan singled and stole second before scoring on a single by Dontae Johnson. Johnson advanced to second on a throwing error and scored on a double by Jonathon Bean. The score remained 2-1 until the fourth inning when the Mariners grabbed the lead for good.

Expos, Cubs reach Major finals

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

SANFORD — Mother Nature paid an unexpected visit to the Chase Park Youth Sports Complex Thursday night and forced a postponement of the Championship Game of the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Babe Ruth Baseball Cal Ripken Majors Division City Championship Series.

The Expos won a pair of games on Wednesday night to gain a spot in the finals, while the Cubs had split on Wednesday and held off the Marlins, 4-3, earlier on Thursday to earn the second spot in the finals.

The Cardinals came out hot, scoring a pair of runs in the top of the first inning and was still up 2-0 with a Cubs runner on first with no one out when lightning stopped the game for the second time.

With lightning flashing all over the area and the hour getting late, it was decided to suspend the game and attempt to get the games in on Friday.

But with an unfavorable weather forecast for Friday, the games could be moved to Saturday morning at Chase Park. If the Cubs rally back to win the first game, a winner-take-all game would follow immediately.

Thus far the four-team, double elimination tournament has followed the script of the regular season.

The tourney opened on Wednesday with No. 1 seeded Expos trouncing the No. 4 Braves, 18-2, in a three-and-a-half inning run rule game and the second-seeded Cubs scoring a run in the bottom of the sixth inning to edge the No. 3 Marlins, 8-7.

Greg Hardy opened the game with a home run and Travarius McGill hit a grand slam and a two-run double and Nick Danilla also hit a grand slam in a 15-run third inning as the Expos rolled to the victory over the Braves.

McGill also worked a hitless two innings on the mound and A.J. Armstrong came on to give up two hits and two runs in the bottom of the fourth inning.

Powering the Expos to victory were Hardy (home run, two singles, three runs, two RBI), McGill (grand slam, double, two runs, six RBI), Danilla (grand slam, two runs, four RBI), Ray Armstrong (single, run, RBI), Mark Layton (three runs, RBI), Justin Smith (run, RBI), Thomas Hicks (three runs), A.J. Armstrong, James Kearney and Matt Kearney (run) and Henry Colyer (RBI).

Lorenzo Polk (single, run), Cory Brooks (single) and Joey Guerra (run) provided the offense for See Majors, Page 3B

DeLAND — The Sanford American Legion Campbell-Lassing Post 53 'Raminoles' baseball team gave a good account of itself last weekend, winning its first three games in the DeLand Memorial Day Classic on Melching Field at Conrad Park.

Post 53, which is made up of players from Seminole and Lake Mary high schools, romped to an 8-1 victory over Gainesville Post 16 on Saturday, then came back to edge the Apopka Baseball Club, 9-8 in 8-innings, and ripped Sebastian Post 189, 7-1, on Sunday.

No score was received from Monday's scheduled game against the Belleview Baseball Club, which was 1-1 in its first two games on Saturday.

Post 53, which will host the State Tournament at the Seminole High School Baseball Complex starting on August 1st, collected 15 hits and got a four-hitter from a trio of pitchers in the victory over Gainesville.

Top performers on offense were Angelo Petracca (triple, double, two singles), Matt Frasier (home run, single), Chris Krall (double, single) and Jason Louwsma (two singles).

Against Apopka, Sanford scored two runs in the top of the eighth inning then survives a rally in the bottom of the eighth to pull out the one-run victory.

McLeod continues roll at New Smyrna Speedway

By Hank Sanders
Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — Lady luck was riding with Mike Williams last week, but this past Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway, she jumped into the Pete Orr owned Winner's Circle Super Late Model with B. J. McLeod aboard.

McLeod's team was coming off a big win last week in a 125 lapper, and they felt their team was ready to win at NSS.

With Orr directing the strategy, McLeod took the lead back from the #11 Dodge of David Rogers on the first lap and drove a flawless race to victory.

Rogers was second, with Sammy Graham in the #1 Whited and Fuller Monte Carlo back for third after last week's trouble. Ron Dicandio had a nice run for fourth, and Joe Fitos in the #63 was fifth.

Tonight (Saturday, June 2), the popular and ultra-competitive TBARA (Tampa Bay Area Racing Association) 800-plus horsepower winged outlaw sprint cars will be making their second appearance of the year at the fast New Smyrna Speedway 1/2-mile.

Also on the schedule are heats and features in the regular FASCAR divisions of Late Model, Mini-Stock, Modified, Sportsman, Super Stock & Strictly Stock.

There will be no Super Late Models this week. The Race Car Engineering Sunbelt Series for the Super's was supposed to be in action this Saturday at Cordele, Georgia, but the event was canceled because of a family emergency within the track ownership.

Tank Tucker in his #15 Graham/Lefthander appears to be on a mission, and it was mission accomplished as he scored his second win in a row over a big field of Modifieds.

Tucker stayed out of the multiple crashes that marred the initial starts that claimed several cars and won over Mike Fitch, Mark Vandevender, Ted "The Man from Pine Hills" Head and hard charging Bo Davis in the Taylor Performance Chevy who was back after a hard crash last week.

Bob Andercheck's #90 Jolly Roger's/Blackies

Monte Carlo was the car to beat in the Late Models as he gets faster every week. Andrecheck took the measure of the good field with the #2 1999 Black Camaro of Dave Love having his best run to date and grabbing second over Timmy Todd in the #25 IROC Camaro. The fourth spot on the paysheet was picked up by "The Pride Of Altamonte Springs" Brian Bellaw in the #77 NO Bull Chevy.

After the race, Bellaw thanked his parents for their support in getting him back to the track. Fifth went to Chad Pierce in the #57.

Rick Tumey driving the #55 T.H.E. Ford Probe returned to NSS with a beautifully prepared and winning Mini-Stock race car. "Racin Rick" had to out run a good field of cars including "Misselman" Tim McPhale in the #7 Rocket car who nabbed the runner up spot. Past Champ Conrad Grenier in the black #01 ran to the third spot over Ted Vulpius in the #71. Charlie Statts in the Ford F-150 ran fifth.

Doug Samian in the #04 Rinaldi Air car was able to master the fast field of Sportsman cars to get the big win.

Something apparently broke on the #90 car of Steve Flinn as he drove hard into the turn 3 wall causing a huge crash taking out several fast cars on the first lap.

Dale Clouser in the #30 stayed out of trouble and ran second ahead of Ron Lufcy in the AAA Welding Chevy which ran a strong third. Fourth went to Ian Huffman in the #3 Gator Golf Monte Carlo and fifth was picked up by hard charging Dave Gibbs in the #47 Golden Florida Mgt. Chevy.

Jim Winterstein's #13 Oldsmobile had mechanical problems, allowing a Chevy to claim victory in the highly popular class. Big Billy Spade put the teal 15X up front and dominated the massive field of Super Stockers.

Dave Gould put the #16 black Chevy in second, third went to Chris Peludat in the #28. John Hodge's 00 ran fourth, and Mike Wizeoreck drove the Fuglie's Bar #30 car to fifth.

The Strictly Stock feature went to Josh Wronkowski over Geno Smith, Shane Stacy, Robert Skinner, and Michelle Dyle.

In the return of the Spectator Races, Conrad Carey was the winner.

Gates open at 5 p.m. and racing begins at 7 p.m. every Saturday night at the track located at the corner of SR 44 and CR 419, between New Smyrna, DeLand and Daytona.

Mergo (home run, double, single), Tucker Pearce (triple, two singles), Ryan Bono (double, single), and Trevor Berryhill (two singles).

In the Sebastian victory, Jake Davis and Mehul Patel combined on a four-hitter and the Post 53 offense again was in double figures with hits, pounding out 12 safeties.

Pearce and Robert Yero led the way with a double and a single each, while Mergo, Louwsma and Kyle Bono had two singles each.

It has also been announced that the Post 53 team will be holding an auction on Saturday, July 7th to raise funds to help defray the costs of putting on the State Tournament.

Anyone interested in contributing monetary gifts or merchandise to the auction should call Rose Kimmig at 407-330-1672 for more information.

tied the game with a single to left and Cody Miller followed with a single to center.

Dekywan Debose and Kimmig were then both hit by pitches to force home Richardson with the go-ahead run.

The Mariners added a pair of insurance runs in the top of the sixth inning as Miller singled and stole second before scoring when Debose reached on an error and scored himself an out later when White also reached on an error.

The Cardinals tried to make things interesting in the seventh inning as Johnson walked to lead off the inning and stole second and third before scoring on a single by Bean, chasing Kimmig.

Bean stole two bases himself, but White retired the next three batters without allowing a run to secure the save.

Kimmig led an eight-hit Mariners attack with two singles, a run scored and an RBI, with Miller (two singles, run), Nelson (two singles), Richardson (single, run, RBI), Stalker (single, run) and Debose (run) also contributing.

For the Cardinals, Bean doubled and singled and drove in two runs, while Antonio Miller had two singles, Johnson a single, two runs scored and an RBI, Farahkhan a single and a run scored and Jeff Bowers a single.

Five Mariners pitchers held the Cardinals to only four hits in the final game, but walks and errors did the damage.

Johnson led off the bottom of the second inning for the Cardinals by reaching on an error and Bean and Merthie walked to load the bases before Miller grounded a two-run single up the middle.

Miller later scored the third run of the inning when Bowers drew a bases loaded walk.

In the third inning, Johnson, Bean, Merthie and Miller all walked with one out, with Johnson scoring on a passed ball.

After the second out of the inning, Donnell Hicks also walked with the bases loaded to score Bean.

In the third inning, two more runs came plateward for the Cardinals, again with out a hit.

With two out, Farahkhan and Johnson walked before Bean reached on a two-base error, scoring Farahkhan. Merthie and Miller followed with walks, with Miller getting the RBI when Johnson scored.

The Mariners finally broke through in the fourth inning as Kimmig reached on an error and stole second before scoring on back-to-back ground outs by White and Mike Koshel.

The Cardinals got the run back in the top of the fifth inning when Bowers singled with two out and came all the way around on a throwing error.

The Mariners scored the final run of the game in the bottom of the fifth inning when Miller walked, stole two bases, and scored on a single by Debose.

Doing the damage offensively for the Cardinals were Farahkhan (two singles, run), Antonio Miller (single, run, three RBI), Bowers (single, run, RBI), Johnson (three runs), Bean (two runs) and Hicks (RBI).

Providing the offense for the Mariners were Kimmig (double, RBI), Debose (single, RBI), Richardson (single), Cody Miller (run) and Koshel (RBI).

The Cardinals were coached by Frank Hicks with Dontae Johnson, Jonathon Bean, Donnell Hicks, Khalil Farahkhan, Steven Gilb, Jeff Bowers, Antonio Miller, Nathaniel Atkins, Terrance Morrion, Tim Acree, and Lyndon Merthie making up the roster.

The Mariners were coached by Randy Nelson, with Cindy Miller serving as the assistant coach. Members of the team were Brent Stalker, Justin Evans, Luke Kimmig, Dekywan Debose, Cody Miller, Thomas Evans, Brandon Hampton,

The Marlins took a 5-0 lead on the Cubs in the top of the first inning, but the Cubs came back with four runs in the bottom of the first inning.

The Marlins got a run back in the top of the second, but again the Cubs answered, scoring three runs in the bottom of the second to take a 7-6 lead.

The game settled down after that with neither team scoring before the Marlins came up with the tying run in the top of the fifth inning.

The Cubs got the victory in the bottom of the sixth inning as Grady Pflueger led off with a walk and went to third on a single by Jermaine Casey before scoring on a grounder by Mike Hummel.

Providing the offense for the Cubs were Casey, Roddy Hecke and Reggie Robinson (single, run), Hummel (two runs), and Danny Cohen, Phillip Basti and Pflueger (run).

Pacing the Marlins were Cory Walker (two singles), David French (triple, run), Chris Vereara, Joey Howard and Ramona Espinal (single, run), Tony Sutton and Jonnell Stile (single), and Dustin Rivera, Zach Hillery and Rowdy Miller (run).

The Marlins and Braves then hooked up in a scoring battle with the Marlins hanging on for a 12-9 triumph.

The Marlins broke a 2-2 tie by scoring five runs in the bottom of the second inning and Tony Sutton bases loaded triple keyed a four-run third inning as the fish took an 11-5 lead.

The Braves were trying to mount a comeback, scoring three runs in the top of the fifth inning, but the time limit ended the threat and the game.

Doing the damage for the Marlins were Tony Sutton (triple, single, two runs), Dustin Rivera (single, two runs), Joey Howard (single, run), David French (two runs), and Zach Hillery, Cory Walker, Michael Mlekovic, Ramona Espinal and Jonnell Stile (run).

Doing the hitting for the Braves were Brent Couffer (single, three runs), Cory Brooks and A.J. Bartz (single, two runs) and Danny Ortiz and Josiah Kimmig (single, run).

The Winner's Bracket final was a great game, with the Expos scoring two runs in the bottom of the eighth inning to pull off a 4-3 victory over the Cubs.

Jermaine Casey opened the game for the Cubs with a single, stole second and third, and scored on a wild pitch.

The Cubs stretched the lead to 2-0 in the top of the second inning when John Sykes singled with one out, stole second, and proceeded on home on a throwing error by the catcher and an error by the Expos center fielder.

The Expos cut the lead in half in the bottom of the second inning when Thomas Hicks walked with one out, stole second, and scored on a Danilla single back up the middle.

The Expos had the chance to take control of the game in the third inning, getting a walk, a single by Hardy, and a hit batter to load the bases with no one out, but Cubs pitcher Jimmy Maloney found his rhythm and the hard-throwing righthander came back to strike out the 3-4-5 hitters of the Expos.

Maloney, who came on in the third inning, and Hicks matched zeroes through the fifth inning.

After Hicks retired the Cubs in the top of the sixth inning, the Expos came to the offense needing a run to tie and two to win. With Maloney out of innings, the Expos got the tying run when A.J. Armstrong doubled with one out and came around to score the tying run on an error.

McGill came on to pitch for the Expos and neither team scored in the seventh inning.

Sykes then repeated his second inning effort in the top of the eighth inning, drawing a walk and scoring on a steal, a throwing error and an error on the center fielder.

But the Expos were not ready to give in.

With one out, McGill and A.J. Armstrong singled, with McGill going to third and Armstrong to second on the throw to third. Hicks was then walked intentionally to load the bases and set up a double play, and it nearly worked, as Ray Armstrong hit a ball back up the middle that just eluded the Cubs shortstop, going for a single, and McGill and A.J. Armstrong crossed the plate with the tying and game-winning runs.

Contributing for the Expos were A.J. Armstrong (double, single, two runs), Ray Armstrong (single, two RBI), Danilla (single, RBI), McGill (single, run), Hardy (single) and Hicks (run).

The Cubs were led by Casey (two singles, run), Sykes (single, two runs), and Hummel, Hecke and Maloney (single).

Thursday's elimination game was also a good one.

The Cubs took control in the top of the second inning. Maloney double and Sykes walked; Both stole a base before Brandon Bostich singled in both runs. After a pair of outs, Adam Hoglin hit a single that scored Bostich, giving the Cubs a 3-0 lead.

The Marlins got right back in the game in the bottom of the second inning as Vereara walked and scored all the way from first when Miller's tapper in front of the plate was thrown into right field.

Miller went all the to third on the play and scored on a wild pitch, cutting the lead to 3-2.

The Marlins tied the game in the fourth inning when, with one out, Vereara again walked, went to second on a wild pitch and stole third as Miller walked. Cory Walker then grounded to short, forcing Miller, but Vereara came home to tie the game.

The Cubs regained the lead in the top of the fifth inning. Hecke reached on an error, but was erased when he was hit by Robinson's grounder. Maloney singled Robinson to third and stole second before Sykes walked to load the bases.

Bostich grounded to short, with Maloney being tagged out, but Robinson was able to score what would prove to be the winning run.

The Marlins had a golden opportunity to score the tying run in the bottom of the sixth inning off of Maloney as French led off the inning by reaching on an error, moving to second on a wild pitch and stealing third.

But the next three batters all struck out looking and the Cubs had the win.

Pacing the Cubs attack were Maloney (double, single, run), Casey (two singles), Bostich (single, run, three RBI), Robinson (single, run), Hoglin (single, RBI), Pflueger (single), and Sykes (run).

Providing the offense for the Marlins were French (double, single), Vereara (two runs), Miller (run) and Walker (RBI).

V BACKING VELMA

Goldsboro community hosts praise celebration for Sanford City Commissioner Williams

'Commissioner Williams, don't worry about your back. God's got your back, and so do we.'

— Melvin Philpott

Dan Ping
Editor

More than 200 people gathered last Saturday night at Calvary Temple of Praise to honor a Goldsboro native and a leader in the city of Sanford.

Hosted by the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Steering Committee, organizers dubbed the event as a "living memorial" to Sanford City Commissioner Velma Williams.

"Before Dr. Williams lays down in the casket, we want to have an opportunity to tell her how much we appreciate her," said Gynell Bowden, an aide to U.S. Rep. Corrine Brown. "Too often, we wait until it's too late. All those kind words and praise are wasted on a body in a casket. We're not going to wait that long. We're going to give Velma her praise now."

The Steering Committee's chairman, Melvin Philpott, said the purpose of the occasion was to proclaim the community's "unified support" for Williams' leadership in Sanford.

"We recognize the assault and character assassination upon you and your family in recent days," Philpott said. "We say to them: they don't know you, and they can't control you."

"We know that you are battle tested and prepared to withstand anything that may come against you," Philpott said. "Seated among us tonight are some of the most powerful, anointed prayer warriors outside of heaven, and they will shield you and your family with prayer and God's divine protection."

"Commissioner Williams, don't worry about your back. God's got your back, and so do we," Philpott added.

Philpott said Williams had been the driving force in many community improvements and singled out her work in bringing Gov. Jeb Bush to Sanford to announce Goldsboro's designation as a Front Porch community.

"You took us off the back porch and put us on the front porch," Philpott said. "We know that this is not your only accomplishment during your tenure in office, but this one single act of leadership demonstrates that you can work across party lines, across economic lines and across racial lines to improve the quality of life for all citizens in this community."

More than 20 community leaders, friends and family spoke during the three-hour ceremony, and a number of organizations presented Williams with plaques of appreciation. Sanford Mayor Brady Lessard read a proclamation proclaiming May 26, 2001, as Velma Williams Appreciation Day, and Chief Deputy Steve Harriett presented Williams with an award from the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

Former Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said he enjoyed working with Williams on the City

More than 20 community leaders, along with members of the Goldsboro community, gathered last Saturday to pay tribute to Sanford City Commissioner Velma Williams, pictured below. Furry friends

Woodward talks about life at Humane Society of Seminole County

The cats and dogs that call The Humane Society of Seminole County home have a friend in Carol Woodward. Woodward, who started working for the Humane Society in 1978, is now manager of the facility and its 12 full-time employees, located at 2800 East County Home Road, Sanford. In addition to being manager, Woodward is in charge of all animal cruelty investigations, a job she cited as the main reason she returned last year to start her third term of employment at the shelter. Explaining some of her responsibilities at the shelter, Woodward talked with Herald Staff Writer Arthur Zielinski and offered a glimpse of life at the shelter for many of our furry friends.

Q: When is the Humane Society open?
A: We're open daily from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. for adoptions. We're closed on Wednesdays and Thursdays, which gives us a chance to clean and do the things we didn't have time for during the week.

Q: How many animals can the shelter hold at one time?
A: At the present time we have some 86 dogs and 36 cats. But that number changes all the time. (Woodward needed a few minutes to register four kittens just arriving at the shelter). The number just changed to 40 cats. I'm not certain of the total number we can handle, but last month we had 120 dogs, and I think we can hold more than that.

Q: Is the Humane Society considered a "no kill" facility?
A: No, we are called a "low kill" shelter. Any animal that has a serious illness that can't be treated will be put down through a veterinarian.

Q: What sources of revenue does the Humane Society have?

A: The shelter runs strictly on donations. We receive no state or county funds. When people drop off an animal, we ask them for a donation. Most people give something, but some don't. But, we always take the animal, we don't give them back, we're here for the animals.

Q: When is the busiest time of the year for the shelter?

A: Well, it's busy like this all the time. But in the summer, when people go on vacation, we see an influx of animals. It seems to be a convenient time for people to give up an animal they don't want. Christmas is another time. We see a lot of dogs and cats that were given as gifts right after the holidays. It's not a good idea to give a pet as a gift. It is better to let the person pick the animal he or she wants.

Q: Does the Humane Society accept only dogs and cats?
A: Oh no, we have had different kinds of birds,

Commission, both for her service and her compassion.

"The Bible talks about agape love," Dale said. "Dr. Williams exudes that in all things she does, and I have that agape love for her. I dearly love this woman."

"In fact, I think I'm on the wrong list in tonight's program," Dale added. "I'm on the list under government officials. I want to be on the family list."

Dale said his relationship with Williams hasn't been without disagreements.

"The Bible also says that we should be slow to anger, and she is slow to anger," Dale said. "But that doesn't mean she can't get there. We've had our disagreements. I know when she says 'Let me see if I understand this,' that she's about to let loose, and I'm in trouble. But we've always been able to move past those disagreements and remain good friends."

The city's community development director, Charles Rowe, said he had formed a close relationship working with Williams, and like Dale, he lobbied the audience to be included on the "family list."

"I just want to be in there somewhere," Rowe said. "I don't care where. She can be my aunt, mother, sister, whatever."

Rowe spoke of Williams' compassion in serving the community.

"There's a parable about a little girl walking along the beach where thousands of starfish have washed ashore," Rowe said. "This girl begins picking up the starfish one by one and putting them back in the ocean. A man comes along and asks her, 'Why are you doing this? You can't put all the starfish back in the ocean, there are too many. What does it matter?'"

"The little girl picks up another starfish and says 'It matters to this one' and places it in the ocean," Rowe said. "That's what I think about when I think of Dr. Williams. Each person she comes in contact with matters to her."

Turner Clayton Jr., president of the Seminole County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, noted Williams is always willing to lend a hand, even if it means a lot of late night work.

"She's the only person who I'll answer the phone for after midnight," Clayton joked. "She'll call me up and say, 'I didn't wake you up did I?' knowing full well that I've been asleep since 10 o'clock."

Vicki Brown Smith said she knows all about Williams' late-night schedule. Smith said she and Williams, along with Francis Oliver, have dubbed themselves the "Midnight Crew."

"When Velma has had a long night at City Commission, I know it's going to be a long night for me," Smith said. "We'll all talk about it all night if we have to."

She added that "Velma's the sister I never had. She's always there for me, and I'm there for her. She's never afraid to come to me for help. I know when she says, 'Hey Vicki B,' that she wants my help on something."

While most of the speakers referred to Williams' leadership in the community, her family members pointed out that her service is only one part of her life.

"You refer to her as commissioner or Dr. Williams, I just call her mother," said Vashan, Williams' youngest son. "She's always impressed on me that family takes care of family. That's what she does, first and foremost."

"Velma's the pillar that the family rests on," said her brother, Carlton Edge. "She's the one that holds us together."

Williams' oldest son, Eric, said he has learned to rely on his mom's wisdom, although as a teenager he didn't always see the value of her advice.

"Like any kid you always want to do your own thing," he said. "I've learned that when your mom tells you something, she knows what's best."

At the end of the evening, Williams said she was overwhelmed by the support the community had shown her.

"It's a blessing to have such a loving family, and all of you are my family," she said. "I'm not going to complain about some of the things that have been said, because God has been very good to me. I've had more good days than bad days, and I'm going to keep on hanging in there."

Woman's Club helps community

The Lake Mary Woman's Club works very hard all year long to raise money. What do they do with this money? Well, they go on a spending spree. They spread the money to help the community.

New Directions is a program at Seminole Community College devoted to helping displaced homemakers, single pregnant women, single parents and teenage parents become financially self-sufficient by earning their A.S. degree or Vocation Certification. Education Chair Lois Jackson worked with Jeanie Imes, the Program Coordinator of New Directions, to find a candidate for the annual scholarship.

Mary Rowell

..... This year they found two;

Darlene Szabo and Donna Galati were chosen to receive scholarships from the Woman's Club. Both women demonstrated an exceptional aptitude and a willingness to work hard to achieve their goals. If you'd like more information on New Directions, call 407-328-2146.

Domestic violence is very hard to escape. Women who are victims of domestic violence are usually financially dependent on their abuser. Men (yes, men can be victims of domestic violence) are often too ashamed to seek help. When the battered spouse does get the courage to leave, they usually grab their children and run with nothing but the clothes on their backs. They have no money, no place to go, and often, no job. In Seminole County there is a place to go. Victims of domestic violence can go to Safehouse of Seminole County. Safehouse gives the victim and their children shelter, food, clothes, everything they need to get back on their feet. Every year, the Woman's Club has been one of the most consistent supporters of Safehouse. Betty Spencer, Program Manager at Safehouse and Ann Barrell, the Faith Program Coordinator of Safehouse, were two of the special guests at the May meeting of the Woman's Club. Woman's Club member Kathy Austin presented a donation from the Woman's Club to Safehouse. If you'd like more information on Safehouse and their programs, or if you would like to make a donation, call 407-330-3011.

Nothing can be more terrifying than having a child disappear. Fear can make the simplest decisions seem like insurmountable challenges. The Missing Children Center works for these families. Since 1984, this non-profit organization has acted as a coordinating agency between families and law enforcement. They offer counseling, they make and distribute posters through local and national outlets and much more. Ethel Carlson of the Woman's Club accepted a check from the Missing Children Center on behalf of Joan Thompson, the Executive Director. If you have a missing child, the Missing Children Center offers a 24-hour hotline at 407-327-4403 or 800-330-1907.

The Good Samaritan Home started out in 1948 with the goal of getting people off the streets. They now provide food and shelter for the most needy. They help the people that fall through the cracks. Director Thelma Mike spends all her time and effort running the Good Samaritan Home and giving as many people as she can the chance to make a better life. Kathy Austin of the Woman's Club presented Thelma Mike with a donation from the Woman's Club.

Two of those who will benefit from the Woman's Club's generosity could not be at the May meeting. Actually, the Timacuan Country Club probably wouldn't have let them in if they had shown up. Some kind of problem with the health codes and weight limits. Mary and Maude aren't your average women. Technically, they're not really women at all. Mary and Maude are two Asian elephants from the Central Florida Zoological Park that the Woman's Club has adopted. Woman's Club members are welcome to visit their adoptees as often as they like, but the zoo discourages the adopted animals from visiting their adoptive "parents."

Habitat for Humanity Home Dedicated
On Saturday, May 26, the Winter Park/Maitland Habitat for Humanity held a dedication ceremony for the Oliver Family Home in Winter Park. This very special home was sponsored by the Elizabeth Morse Genius Foundation and the Trinity Preparatory School. There is a Lake Mary connection to this Winter Park home. Students Spreading Acts of Kindness is a very special group of students at Lake Mary that has spent the year doing for others. In April, the students spent time at the Oliver House painting the outside of the home. With money left over from their fund-raising projects, the group bought several house warming gifts that were on the wish list of the Oliver family. The students presented the gifts to the family at the dedication.

Q: Which animal is the easiest to get adopted?

A: Small dogs, definitely, everyone wants a small lap dog.

Q: What do you enjoy the most about your job at the Humane Society?

A: I love the animals. And I really like doing the abused animal investigations. It's my way of helping the animal immediately. Saving that animal from what it's been going through. I also enjoy educating the people on the proper care of animals. I would rather educate the person than have to take their animal.

Daughters present annual ROTC awards to students

Since 1967, Sallie Harrison Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution has presented ROTC medals to members of various Seminole County ROTC units. These medals and campaign bars are awarded to student cadets of outstanding ability and achievement in secondary school, junior college or University ROTC programs of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and the Naval Sea Cadet Corps, according to Virginia, past DAR regent.

Virginia added, "The medals have been awarded because the ROTC is such an important source of trained officers for our armed forces." She said selection of the Seminole County students to receive the DAR ROTC awards is made by professors of military science and the principal or head of the schools.

Virginia continued, "A student must have demonstrated qualities of dependability and good character, adherence to military discipline, leadership ability and a fundamental and patriotic understanding of the importance of ROTC training."

In explaining the awards, Virginia said the Gold ROTC Medal is presented to a college or university graduate being commissioned to one of the United States Armed Services. The Bronze ROTC Medal is awarded to a high school senior or community college senior.

Each JROTC Award Recipient 2001 received a Bronze Medal, Campaign Bar and certificate from the Sallie Harrison Chapter DAR. Recipients, their school and presenters are as follows:

Stepchildren are miserable in house without any love

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old. My mother and father are divorced. Dad remarried a woman with three kids. I have a younger sister and brother. We live with my dad.

Last week, I heard my stepmother talking on the phone to a friend about my brother, sister and me. She said, "I didn't bargain for them." She is always complaining to Dad about us. Our mother wasn't very good to us either, and she gave us to Dad.

Whenever my brother, sister or I gets sick, my stepmother complains if she has to take us to the doctor. We don't eat dinner until 7 or 8 at night. She dishes out our food. We're not allowed to serve ourselves. If we don't like what she gives us, she yells at us. Her kids wait until she leaves the room to throw their food in the trash can. If she sees it, she blames us and doesn't believe we didn't do it. Her kids sit and watch TV while we get in trouble for not picking up after ourselves. We try. She and her mother are always saying bad things about Daddy behind his back.

My grandma says I should tell Daddy. If I do, I know he'll get mad at me. He yells a lot, too, and believes everything my stepmother tells him.

After my mother gave us to him, I heard him say to her, "This wasn't in the plan."

If you print this, Abby, I would like to tell my dad: Please believe us. We don't lie to you. Give us a hug now and then. Tell us you love us. See that we are trying. Please stop yelling at us. How can we be good when all you see is bad? Daddy, can't you see how sad everyone is?

And to my stepmother, I'd like to say: We try to be good so you'll like us. You say you raised your kids right. Teach us the right way, too. Please stop yelling. I want to love you if you will give me a chance. We just need someone to love us in our house.

NO NAME, NO ADDRESS, NO PHONE

PS. I'm sorry this letter is a mess. I had to write it at school. Abby, if you print this so my dad will see it, please, please, please don't reveal where it came from.

DEAR NO NAME: It saddens me to say this, but you are not alone in your plight. Please read on:

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend's little sister is being abused by her stepfather. He threw her into a closet door. She has a noticeable black-and-blue mark on her arm. I don't know what to do. I'm not sure how often this has happened before.

Part of me is screaming to tell. Another part of me warns me not to for fear that he will do something bad to me. I'm so confused. I don't know what to do.

NO NAME, NO ADDRESS, NO PHONE

Dear Abby

DEAR NO NAME, NO ADDRESS, NO PHONE I & II: I understand why neither of you felt comfortable revealing your personal information. I have received many similar letters over the years, and I always feel frustrated that I cannot personally contact you.

I'm printing your letters as a reminder to all young people who find themselves in similar situations to speak to a school counselor, a trusted relative, family friend, neighbor or member of the clergy, AND TELL THEM WHAT IS GOING ON.

Also, there are several toll-free hotlines to call, including The Childhelp USA National Child Abuse Hotline at 1-800-422-4453. Also, there is Boys Town National Hotline for boys and girls at 1-800-448-3000. All calls are confidential.

Adults who suspect a child is being physically or emotionally abused should call local child protective agencies, local law enforcement or the above hotlines. Help IS available.

DEAR ABBY: I write this as a warning to older people about lending their credit cards to a new friend or neighbor. Normally, it's done because the older person can't pick up his or her own prescription or run an errand, so he or she gives a credit card to the new acquaintance.

My friend's mother gave her credit card to a woman who, in one afternoon, ran up more than $10,000 in charges and then took off. The police can do nothing about it because the "kind person" had written permission to use the card. The poor trusting victim had to declare bankruptcy because she could not pay off the debt on her small pension.

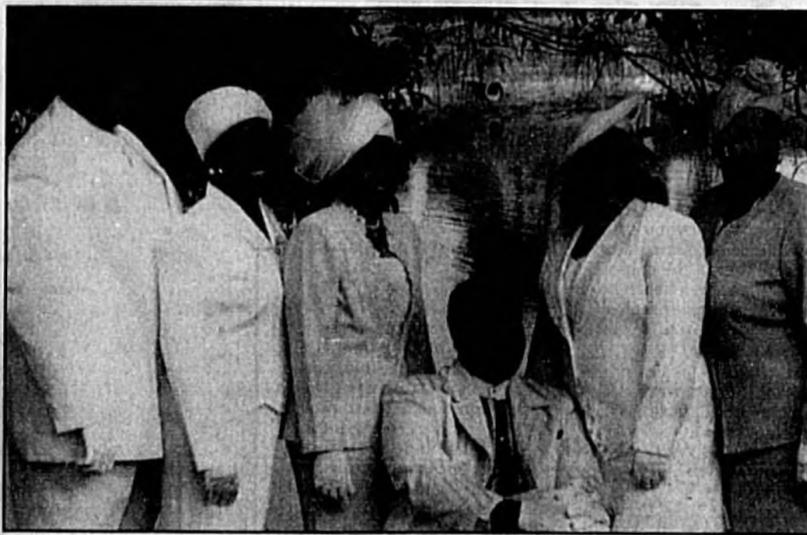

Abby, please warn your readers never to blindly trust a person they do not know well.

WANTS TO HELP IN HEMET, CALIF.

DEAR WANTS TO HELP: What a horror story! The lesson here is that people who blindly trust get robbed blind. A safer way to handle such a situation would be for the credit card owner to call the pharmacy (or store) and give the card number when the item is being picked up.

Spouses need time together and time apart

QUESTION: Do you think it is healthy for a husband and wife to work together and to be in each other's company 24 hours a day?

DR. DOBSON: That sometimes works out fine. It depends on the individual couple. I can tell you, however, what is typical. According to behavioral researchers, the healthiest marriages and those with the highest sexual voltage are those that "breathe" — relationships that move from a time of closeness and tenderness to a more distant posture, and then come together for another reunion as the cycle concludes.

This is why it's not always advantageous for a husband and wife to work together or to concentrate exclusively on each other in the absence of friends and colleagues outside the family. There is something about the diversity of interests and activities by each partner that keeps a couple from consuming each other and burning out the relationship in the short run.

Marriage is, after all, a marathon and not a sprint. Husbands and wives need to maintain a regenerating system that will keep love alive for a lifetime. Cultivating a healthy interest in many things is one big step in that direction.

QUESTION: You often describe marriages where the wife's emotional needs go unmet because the husband is a "workaholic." That description is scary to me because I can see my own marriage in what you said. I'm a student who has to work full time just to make ends meet, and I rarely see my family. We have a baby and a toddler, and my wife is pretty unhappy with me. But what can I do? If I'm going to get my degree, we have to sacrifice for a while.

Dr. Dobson

DR. DOBSON: Your self-discipline is admirable, and I hope you reach your goals. A word of caution is in order, however. No amount of success is worth the loss of your family. You and your wife are in a high-risk category for marital problems. The bonding that should occur in the first decade requires time together — time that can't be given if it is absorbed elsewhere. My advice is to hold on to your dreams, but take a little longer to fulfill them. Success will wait, but a happy family will not.

QUESTION: What do you say to the woman who tolerates infidelity in her husband because she has no financial resources? What if she is afraid to confront him because he could leave her in poverty?

DR. DOBSON: I have no simple answers for that woman. Life can place us between rocks and hard places where problems seem almost unsolvable. Such is the plight of mothers raising children with little or no financial help from their ex-husbands.

According to the Department of Health and Human Services, this is the primary source of poverty in America today. Almost half of all people living below the poverty line are divorced women with children. The same survey revealed that half of the divorced mothers do not receive the court-ordered amount of child support from the ex-husbands.

I'm pleased that the federal government is taking steps, at last, to deal with "deadbeat dads." It's about time! In a society that is regulated to death with laws and ordinances for virtually every human activity, it has taken us intolerably long to deal with parents who won't care for their kids. For now, impoverished moms are faced with extremely difficult questions when spousal infidelity is disclosed.

QUESTION: My husband and I are divorced, so I have to handle all the discipline of the children myself. How does this change the recommendations you've made about discipline in the home?

DR. DOBSON: Not at all. The principles of good discipline remain the same, regardless of the family setting. The procedures do become somewhat harder for one parent to implement since they have no one to support them when the children become testy. Single mothers and fathers have to play both roles, which is not easily done. Nevertheless, children do not make allowances for difficult circumstances. Parents must earn their respect or they will not receive it.

Dr. Dobson is president of the non-profit organization Focus on the Family, P.O. Box 444, Colorado Springs, CO. 80903; or www.family.org. Questions and answers are excerpted from "The Complete Marriage and Family Home Reference Guide," published by Tyndale House.

Cooking on the Grill

Two of most enjoyable outdoor activities is cooking and camping. Either in the back yard, in a park, on a beach, patio or up in the mountains, people always seem to have a great time.

There are a few tips I would like to share with you that are very instrumental to whether your grilled meats and vegetable turn out delicious.

- Marinate
- Trim excess fat
- Do not blacken
- Rub it in
- Keep it moist
- And, marinate!

Before you put anything on the grill, you should start by preparing all your meats and vegetables.

Marinating will ensure robust flavors, tenderize the meat and keep it moist during cooking, and the process also preserves the meats, making them last longer.

The length of time food should be left in a marinade depends on the size of the item, thickness and variety. Small cuts for grilling need to be marinated only for an hour or two.

The word marinate comes from ancient times and is refers to the seawater once used to preserve foods. Marinades can be prepared from salt, pepper, spices, herbs, brandy, sherry, wine, champagne, olive oil, lemon, and vegetables, including celery, garlic, onions and bay leaf.

Trim Excess Fat

It is important to trim the fat edges as much as possible, not only because of nutrition reasons, but also from preventing food catching on fire. Burned grease can ruin the taste and aspect of your meat.

Sica Nacu

Do Not Blacken

Grilled quick cooking vegetable such as peppers, zucchini, portabella mushrooms and eggplant is very complementing to grilled meats and poultry. Slice the vegetable, brush with olive oil salt and pepper and grill until lightly cooked and browned. A charred, blackened crust on foods is unhealthy and very unpleasant.

Rub It In

Just make your own blend of dried herbs and rub into the meat. I use a lot rosemary, thyme, fresh oregano, sage, pineapple sage, mint, and basil.

Keep It Moist

The temperature of the grill is an important factor along with the length of time on the grill. Check the heat by holding your palms about 6 inches from the flame. If you can keep your palm there for two seconds, the grill is hot (about 375 to 400 degrees) for three seconds, it is medium hot, for four seconds, the grill is medium (about 300 degrees).

Adjusting the racks should be the next step after determining what temperature you need.

Brush the meat with oil before putting on the grill. The oil prevents sticking and keeps the product moist. When turning the meat, pierce only the fat or use tongs.

If the meat is to be brushed with a glaze or a sauce, it is best to wait until the product is partially cooked on each side before applying the first coat.

Grilled Chopped Lamb With Rosemary And Pine Nuts
1/2 red onion, finely chopped

Olive oil
Ground lamb
Soft fresh bread crumbs
3 tablespoons pine nuts
3 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

1 tablespoon rosemary
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
6 strips of bacon
Sauté the onion in oil until tender and yellow. Do not brown. Cool completely.

Combine all ingredients except the bacon in a bowl. Mix gently until evenly combined.

Divide into four portions and make your patties (about 3/4 inch thick)

Wrap a strip of bacon around each patty and fasten with picks.

Grill on moderate heat until done, turning once. Serve hot!

Grilled Salmon Steaks Over Whole-Wheat Pasta

Season fish with salt and pepper. Brush with oil. Cook on moderate heat until tender. Serve hot on top of grilled tomato slices, with a twist of lemon. Rub it with some dried sage. Grill some portabella mushrooms the same way.

In the meantime, if you would like, bring some water to boil. Salt it. Add about 3 ounces of pasta for each person. Boil for seven minutes or until done but not too soft.

Drain. Add the salmon, grilled tomatoes, and portabella mushrooms. Serve at once. Very light and delicious!

theme this weekend, when School of Dance Arts stages its 36th annual showcase performances in the performing arts theatre of Winter Springs High School.

The first of four lively shows got under way Friday night to mark the spot that's hot. Other performances presented by dancers from all three studio locations include: Saturday, June 2, at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m., and Sunday, June 3, at 2 p.m. Tickets. At $6.50 each, will be available at the door.

Friday evening's performance spotlighted students studying piano and voice. Studio co-owner Valerie Weld said, "Today's dancer must be able to do it all and do it really well!"

"Dads and moms, as usual, will be show stoppers as they sing and dance their way through the ever popular mother, dad and child numbers and pre-schoolers always steal the show," says the studios' other half, Miriam Doktor.

Valerie said, "Dancers ranging in age from 3 to 30 will fill the bill as one exciting number follows the other featuring ballet, tap, jazz, lyrical, musical theatre and acrobatics."

New Retirees

Four assistants in the Seminole County Schools system were honored at a retirement reception on May 16 at the Hopper Center. The retirees represent 64 years as assistants in testing elementary and middle school students for hearing and vision.

Mary Olive and Jerry Williamson retired as vision assistants and Jesse Spence and Ann Newkirk were audiology assistants.

Ann said, "The reception was very, very nice." She adds that she has no definite retirement plans except to "enjoy it." She does plan to volunteer for Dividends in the fall and lend a helping hand where needed.

Happy Birthday

Walter A. Glelow, former publisher of the Sanford Herald, observed his 90th birthday on May 30. He is being honored this weekend at a gala celebration at the home of a daughter and her husband, Bonnie and Richard Mathey.

More on this later.
