Sinkhole gobbles up property

ORANGE CITY — A sinkhole opened on a residential street gobbling 65 feet of pavement and breaking a water main, but posing no threat to neighboring homes.

The sinkhole — 65 feet from north to south and 42 feet from east to west — was about 15 feet deep Sunday. It is near a much larger sinkhole that has lain dormant for a century, said Cmdr. Jeff Baskoff of the Orange City police.

A city crew fenced the area and put up warning lights, with two officers posted to monitor the sinkhole overnight.

"We'll probably watch it for a couple of days, and if it doesn't get any bigger, we'll fill it with dirt," Baskoff said.

Officials in the city near Daytona Beach were uncertain whether the sinkhole broke the water main, or a water main break caused the sinkhole.

Tom Scott, a geologist with the state Department of Environmental Protection in Tallahassee, told local authorities he believes the sinkhole broke the main.

Teacher arrested

SANFORD — A DeLand High School teacher was arrested for lewd and lascivious acts on a child by Seminole County sheriff's officers on Saturday night.

William Bird, 42, allegedly accosted a 14-year-old New Jersey boy in the swimming pool of the Days Inn near Sanford and removed the boy's swimming trunks.

Deputies said the boy and his family live in Newark and were visiting the area.

Bird was released from the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on Sunday after posting $10,000 bond.

School board to meet

SANFORD — The Seminole County school board will meet for their regularly scheduled public meeting on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30.

The agenda includes a reorganization of the facilities department and a revised version of the student conduct and discipline code.

The meeting will be in the county board room, 1211 S. Mellonville Ave., Sanford.

One ticket takes $17 million

TALLAHASSEE — The holder of a single ticket can collect the entire Lotto jackpot, estimated at $17 million, Florida Lottery officials said Sunday.

The ticket was sold in Jacksonville. It bore all six of the numbers drawn Saturday night: 10-18-23-34-45-48.

There were more than 291,000 other winners. The 278 players who matched five of six numbers can collect $1,496. Another 15,127 who played four of the numbers drawn can exchange their tickets for $66, and the 275,820 tickets with three numbers are worth $5 to their holders.

The $17 million grand prize resulted from a rollover. This week's jackpot is estimated at $7 million.

New eviction policy

Housing authority to probe drug activity

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford Housing Authority Board of Directors will be asked in a few days to define a policy on evicting tenants involved in drug activities to try to reduce such crime in public housing.

Phyllis Richardson, housing authority executive director said she will put the question on the May 19 meeting agenda.

"I do need a definitive policy from the board on how they want me to pursue this," Richardson said. "Depending on the sentiment of the residents, the board may opt to adhere to the old way."

For about a year, there has been a provision on the public housing lease making the head of the tenant. After consulting with housing authority attorney Ned Julian, Richardson said she was advised a drug conviction is not necessary to evict, only proof of drug activity.

Housing officials have encountered difficulty in drug related evictions. Sometimes tenants deny individuals arrested for drug activities are living in public housing or were guests. Other times, Richardson claims, a suspect gives police a public housing address when they are arrested, but they don't live there. Many times, if a person is convicted of a drug offense, he or she voluntarily relinquished the housing unit, nullifying the need to evict, according to housing officials.

household responsible and subject to eviction if drug use, possession or sale can be proven against anyone living in the unit or even a guest on the premises.

Richardson said up until now, housing authority officials thought it was necessary to have a conviction on a drug offense in order to evict a tenant. After consulting with housing authority attorney Ned Julian, Richardson said she was advised a drug conviction is not necessary to evict, only proof of drug activity.

SANFORD — Despite competition from the opening of the Central Florida Greenway and the Kentucky Derby, the weekend kick off to the Sanford Preservation Week activities was quite successful, according to the organizers.

Sanford's downtown residential and commercial historic district has been brought up from the brink of disaster to one of the most finely preserved areas of central Florida.

Today, backed by strong groups in the Sanford Historic Trust, the Sanford Main Street program and the Sanford Museum, the area is growing into one of the most beautiful historic areas in central Florida. See Historic, Page 5A

Lake Mary studies Rinehart Road's future

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission and staff is working on establishing a concept of Rinehart Road, for the years to come. An initial presentation was made on several proposals Thursday night.

Rinehart Road has extended from Lake Mary Boulevard north to C.R. 46-A, concluding at the Oaklawn Memorial Park cemetery.

In recent times, a Rinehart extension has been added to the north, which will eventually be one of the main approach areas from the south, to the Seminole Towne Center Mall.

The original Rinehart is completely within the Lake Mary city limits.

As land development continues at the mall site, city leaders have expressed more and more concern over the impact the opening of the mall will have on the city, especially the Rinehart Road connector.

Thursday night, acting on a city commission request, City Planner Matt West made a presentation of what is being considered as a Rinehart Road Small Area Study. West admitted the study is still not complete, but explained the various approaches being taken in determining the best way to govern the developments along the roadway.

West cited several possible uses including making it a strictly commercial corridor, a residential development, or a mixed use area with both commercial and residential.

"What we are leaning toward at the present time as the best possible solution," West explained, "is making it a target industry district, that is, to call for the area development See Rinehart, Page 5A

Finding fitness

On Friday, the City of Sanford presented its fifth annual health and safety fair at the Sanford Civic Center. Representatives from organizations and businesses who cater to improving the lifestyles and fitness of local residents were on hand to discuss health and safety issues with the attendees. There was something for everyone from Smokey Bear and immunizations for the little ones to exercise and home health care information for the elderly. From the Weight Loss and Nutrition Center to the Sanford Police Department, exhibitors showed how everyone can lead healthier and safer lives if they have the right information and products to guide them.

Evidence taken against hog dog rodeo

TALLAHASSEE — Organizers in Glades County went ahead with their hog dog rodeo over the weekend despite Attorney General Bob Butterworth's opinion that the events violate state animal cruelty laws.

"Until a judge says it's against the law, we're going to have it," said Ronnie Carter, organizer of a rodeo near Muse, west of Lake Okechobee. The rodeo, which features dogs chasing wild boars, was attended by about 75 people, police said.

Glades County sheriff's investigators attended Saturday, but made no arrests.

They will review photos and videotape of the event with the state attorney's office to determine whether anyone will be prosecuted, said Det. Robert Bronson of the Glades County Sheriff's Department.

Bronson said no arrests were made because there were no gross violations of the statute on animal fighting or baiting. Handlers and promoters of the event could face felony charges, while those in attendance could face a misdemeanor charge.

The rural sport includes dogs chasing, barking and nipping at the heels or ears of wild hogs to corner them in a fenced-in arena. The dog which does it best with the least amount of unnecessary roughness wins. Owners can earn up to $1,000 in prize money from entry fees.

Boot camp closed because of escapes

PENSACOLA — State officials have given up on a juvenile boot camp here plagued by escapes, a disturbance and staffing problems and say they may, instead, help pay for a similar facility about 100 miles away.

The Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services discontinued its $1.3 million contract Friday with the Pensacola Private Industry Council to operate the camp at Pensacola Naval Air Station.

The money probably will be awarded to the Bay County Sheriff's Department, which plans to open a juvenile boot camp at Panama City, said Mike Berry, acting juvenile justice director for HRS District 1.

Although Panama City is in a different district, children from District 1 could be sent there, Berry said.

The Pensacola camp opened in tents while awaiting construction of permanent facilities, but it was temporarily shut down in February after only a couple of months. It never reopened.

The closure came on the heels of four escapes and the disturbance intended to provoke a mass escape of the camp's 16 inmates.

Two divers die exploring Bahamas cave

GRAND BAHAMA ISLAND, Bahamas — Two certified cave divers — one a scuba instructor, the other a former commercial diver on Gulf Coast oil rigs — died while exploring an underwater chamber off Grand Bahama Island.

Michael Brown, 37, and Randy Smith, 30, were part of a 10-person group from Fort Myers that had chartered the Shear Water out of Riviera Beach for a four-day dive trip in the Bahamas. While diving in waters near Freeport, they entered a blue hole that led to a cave in about 120 feet of water, said Ken Johnson, a crew member on the Shear Water.

"These guys were technical divers," Johnson said. "They were the most experienced individuals in the group."

But the two veteran scuba divers did not leave a trailing rope to the cave entrance or bring enough lights into the dark cavern, violating cave diving rules and leaving themselves vulnerable for accidents, Johnson said.

Bahamian authorities are still investigating the cause of the Friday accident. An autopsy was scheduled for today in Freeport.

Brown organized the dive trip through Southwest Scuba, a Fort Myers dive shop that he co-owned. Jim Norris, who dove with Brown on this and other trips, said it was "incomprehensible" that two divers of such skill would die underwater.

Potts released early despite concerns

LAKELAND — Convicted child molester Frank T. Potts served less than half his prison sentence and was released even though officials were warned he was deeply disturbed and posed a threat of committing more violent offenses.

Potts, 50, served six years of a 15-year sentence after being convicted in 1982 of molesting an 11-year-old girl.

Investigators suspect Potts has a role in up to 13 disappearances in several states, including the deaths of 12-year-old Jennifer Odom in Pasco County last year, a 14-year-old Lee County girl in 1992 and a 13-year-old Wahneta girl in 1981.

On March 11, investigators discovered the skeletal remains of Robert Earl Jines, 19, buried near Potts' Alabama cabin. Potts has been charged with the death of Jines, who disappeared while visiting Potts' property five years ago.

Potts remains in the Polk County Jail on charges he molested another 11-year-old girl and in connection with Jines' death.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Lawmakers voting record dejected

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Members of the Florida Legislature missed an average of 35 roll-call votes each in this year's regular legislative session, or one out of every 20 votes.

The voting record was worse than Congress where the average member voted on 96 percent of all roll-call votes in 1993, the Tampa Tribune reported in Sunday editions.

Among state lawmakers with the worst records were Senate President Pat Thomas and House Speaker Bo Johnson, the newspaper said in its review of nearly 1,300 roll-call votes during the 60-day session.

Thomas, D-Guiney, missed 141 out of 498 votes, or 28 percent, while Johnson, D-Milton, missed 229 out of 782 votes, or 29 percent.

Lawmakers said they missed so many roll calls because of illness, personal emergencies and work on other important legislation that forced them to be away from their desks when votes were being held.

Critics said lawmakers have few legitimate reasons for failing to vote and hurt public trust in government when they treat it lightly.

"The responsibility is to be there and represent the people," said Sen. Charlie Crist. "There are countries where people die for the right to vote. It's a cherished right that ought to be respected."

Crist, R-St. Petersburg, had the best voting record with only one missed vote.

Thomas said he missed one day to attend the funeral for a lobbyist's daughter and devoted much of his time on juvenile justice legislation. He did not have a reason for not voting when he presided over the chamber.

Thomas, who is seeking another term as Senate president, said he didn't expect his constituents to hold his voting record, or lack of one, against him.

"They tune in on where your emphasis is placed and what you get done and this year we really wrote a hell of a juvenile bill," he said. "It's difficult to shepherd legislation through and not miss votes."

Rep. Phil Mishkin, D-Port Richey, missed 318 votes and had the worst showing among all of the Legislature's 160 members.

Mishkin, who at 79 is the oldest state lawmaker, said unspecified health problems kept him in his Pasco County district during the last three days of the session when dozens of bills were being considered.

Mishkin has announced he is not seeking another two-year term.

"My constituents know my record on sponsoring legislation, fighting for legislation and voting for legislation that affects people throughout Florida," he said.

House and Senate rules require members to vote on all legislation, amendments on other matters unless excused by the presiding officers or "necessarily prevented from being present to vote."

Lawmakers also regularly register their votes hours or days after the official roll-call vote has been taken. The late vote is symbolic and does not affect the outcome of the legislation.

Some legislators said they feel obligated to record a late vote if they missed a roll call so their constituents know where they stand on an issue.

Other lawmakers said the system had been abused by those who want to avoid accountability.

"I have seen people sit there and not press their button," said Rep. Stephen Wise, R-Jacksonville. "It may be the toughest, controversial issues, so they don't vote, and then they say 'I wasn't there. I went to the bathroom.' That really irritates me."

State looks at who gets Rosewood payments

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A bill to compensate survivors of Rosewood is now law, but the work is just starting to determine whether those who say they fled a white mob that destroyed the black settlement 71 years ago actually lived there.

At least eight people have been identified as survivors, including four who were named as deserving of payments in the unprecedented $2.1 million legislation that Gov. Lawton Chiles signed into law last week.

An undetermined number of others are expected to apply for compensation.

The Attorney General's Office, which defended the state during legislative hearings into the Rosewood massacre, was given the job of putting together the process to verify the survivors who are eligible for payments.

The state wants to ensure only those with legitimate claims receive the money but officials want to move as quickly as possible. Many of the survivors are in their 80s and some have health problems.

Number of gang members double

By Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE — The number of gang members in this city has nearly tripled since 1991 and police are blaming the lure of ill-gotten gains as a major reason for the dramatic increase.

Police estimated the number of gang members has jumped from about 300 in 1991 to 875 today.

Instead of committing crimes for fun, some gangs have become moneymaking ventures headed by young adults who handle stolen property, police say.

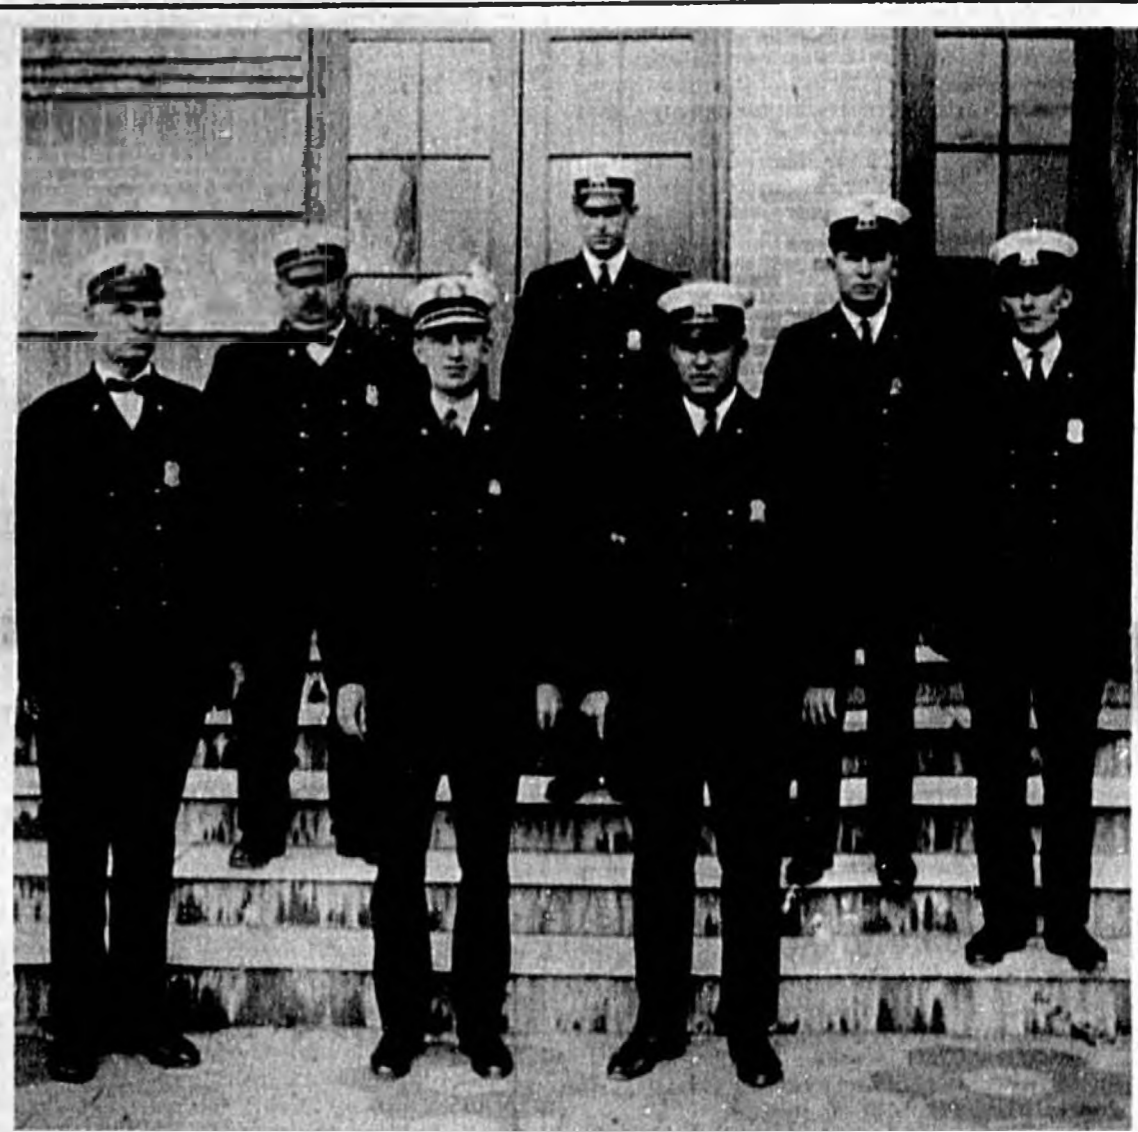

"They began making money off it," said Jacksonville Sheriff's Det. Ken Jones. "They found there is a lot of profit to be had."

That trend has apparently led gangs to become better organized and establish smaller "sets" with leaders who handle the goods and money. The gangs rarely deal in drugs, police say.

Police say most youths who are committing gang-related crimes are gang associates who aren't doing it for the money but for respect, acceptance or to relieve boredom.

Police estimated the city had about 1,200 youths aged 10 to early teens who were associated with gangs but not full-fledged members.

Most Jacksonville gangs have members scattered over several miles, making them likely to be more opportunistic than inner-city gangs that control a neighborhood or a few city blocks.

Way Back When

The Herald's 'Way Back When' columnist Julian Stenstrom has spent over a year trying to identify all the members of this picture of the Sanford Police Department made in 1920. From left to right is an officer whose last name was Wheeler, another officer whose last name was Tomlinson; next is young Sanford Police Chief Roy Williams, at the top of the photo is Arthur Beckwith Sr. and then an officer whose last name was Green. The two officers on the right have yet to be identified. If anyone can identify the last two officers or provide first names and initials of Wheeler, Tomlinson and Green, please contact Stenstrom at 322-2860. He would like to identify all these officers before presenting the original photo to the Sanford Museum.

POLICE BRIEFS

Drugs brought to jail

Angelina Michelle Inman, 24, 201 Franklin Arms, Sanford, was charged with introducing marijuana into a correctional facility and with introduction of cocaine into a correctional facility by Seminole County sheriff's officers on Friday.

Deputies said she was brought to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility by a bondsman.

During a pat down search as she was being brought into the jail for booking, deputies found less than 20 grams of marijuana and less than 20 grams of cocaine in her front pants pocket.

She was booked at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

Battery charges filed

Daniel Phillip Cannon, 20, 1008 7th St., Casselberry, was charged with battery-domestic violence and battery-domestic violence/child abuse by Seminole County sheriff's officers on Saturday.

Deputies said that he was involved in an argument with his live-in girlfriend when he became violent and hit her several times.

They said she told them that he also pushed her 5-year-old son off the bed, causing him to hit his head on a nearby table. Her 7-year-old son said that Cannon had done that as well.

Deputies said he had been arrested for violence against the girlfriend in the past.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

Domestic violence alleged

Theodore Roosevelt Oliver, 50, 1261 Dunbar Ave., Lake Monroe, was charged with battery-domestic violence by Seminole County deputies on Friday.

Deputies said his wife reported that when he arrived home he was "high." The two got into a verbal argument that turned violent, they said.

Deputies also said that he began throwing household goods around the living room and she tried to calm him down, but was unsuccessful in that attempt.

He then, deputies said, pushed her out of the way. Deputies said she had no apparent injuries and refused medical treatment.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $1,000 bond.

Sale of crack charged

Kethlan Donnell "Duke" Roberts, 18, 1114 Pine Ave., Sanford, was charged with the sale and delivery of crack cocaine by Sanford Police on Friday.

Police said they had undercover officers at the corner of Celery Avenue and Locust.

They said that Roberts agreed to sell a piece of crack cocaine to one of the officers in exchange for $10 cash.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $5,000 bond.

Pot, LSD found in car

Robert Wayne Reeves, 21, 1504 Canary St., Longwood, was charged with possession, sale and purchase of drugs by Seminole County sheriff's deputies on Saturday morning.

Deputies said he was in his car at the Sunshadow Apartments in Casselberry when they asked why he was there. He told them he and others were visiting friends who lived there.

Deputies looked for and received permission to search the car. They found a small amount of marijuana in a shoe and five squares of LSD.

They said he admitted the drugs were his. He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $3,000 bond.

Warrant arrests

Paul Casso, 50, 209 Lago Vista Blvd., Casselberry, on a warrant from the Florida Parole Commission. He was arrested at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was serving a sentence that required him to be at John E. Polk Correctional Facility for 10 consecutive weekends. He was held without bond.

Willie Jackson, 27, 153 Bethune Cir., Sanford, for violating the terms of his probation on possession of cocaine charges. He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

James Theophilus Morris Jr., 19, 1603 Williams Ave., Sanford on four counts of burglary to a structure. He was held without bond at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Natural parents named guardians of Kimberly

By Associated Press

SEBRING — The confusing adolescence of Kimberly Mays became a bit more complicated with an agreement that gives her three legal guardians — her natural parents and the man who raised her.

The teen involved in a baby swap will live with natural parents Ernest and Regina Twigg for now. The Twiggs on Friday reached an agreement with Robert Mays — whom the 15-year-old knew as her father from birth — and his wife Darlena, according to John Blakely, attorney for the Twiggs.

"It's a nice Mother's Day present for Mrs. Twigg, isn't it?" Blakely said Saturday.

He said he was contacted by Arthur Ginsburg, Mays' attorney, who suggested settling rather than returning to court on Tuesday to proceed with an appeal of last August's ruling that allowed Kimberly to sever all ties with the Twiggs.

After a week of negotiations, the parties reached agreement Friday morning, Blakely said.

"The final resolution called for the final judgment entered last year to be thrown out completely and a new judgment substituted for the old one," he said. "The new judgment will provide that the Twiggs be recognized as Kimberly's biological parents. As her biological parents they are also recognized as her natural and legal guardians."

A copy of the agreement was faxed to the 2nd District Court of Appeal in Lakeland on Friday. The case should bounce back to the trial court, where an amended version of the August ruling should be filed this week, said David Denkin, attorney for Kimberly's guardian ad litem.

"Hopefully there'll be no further court action," he said. "The parties can now put down their swords and bend them into more useful tools."

The deal also calls for the teen-ager to live with the Twiggs until she becomes an adult — or asks to leave.

That would be allowed "only if her request to leave is supported by Bob Mays and Ernest and Regina Twigg or, if they don't agree on it, if the request is supported by a court-appointed family mediator," Blakely said.

Leesburg attorney George Russ, who helped Kimberly legally end her relationship with her birth parents, said the settlement was a "good resolution" for Kimberly.

"She got the result she desired," Russ said. "Kimberly has special problems that aren't related to the Twiggs or Mays."

Mays declined comment. "I know the final agreement is acceptable to everyone, including Kimberly," Blakely said.

Previously, only Mays and his second wife Darlene had legal guardianship.

Darlena Mays adopted Kimberly in September; the adoption also is nullified and Darlena Mays has no visitation rights, Blakely said.

"Bob Mays has said to Kim that he will visit with her when she wants to," Blakely said. The agreement gives Robert Mays reasonable but unspecified visitation rights, according to the lawyer.

Kimberly left Mays to live with the Twigg in March.

Skyjacked plane lands in Miami

By Associated Press

MIAMI — Sixteen tourists calmly munched on ham and cheese sandwiches as they watched the crew of a Cuban airliner try to pry open the door to the cockpit where the captain barricaded himself to divert the plane to Miami, passengers said today.

The Nassau-bound Cubana de Aviacion twin-engine turboprop landed safely at Miami International Airport Sunday and the passengers were told they were landing in Nassau. The pilot asked for asylum.

"The crew was trying to pry the door open with a screwdriver and beating on it as the stewards passed out these trays with little pieces of rolled up ham and cheese and a piece of bread," said Karl Lindquist of Key West.

The 16 passengers included five Americans, five Bahamians, two Spaniards, two Italians, a Canadian and a Colombian resident of the United States. FBI spokesman Paul Miller said. There were seven crew members, including the pilot, he said.

The plane was diverted to Miami without violence, Miller said.

Two of the crew in uniforms "grabbed the pilot as he came down the ramp at the airport and started to knock him down, but security people got a hold of them before they could do anything," said Lindquist, who was accompanied by his wife.

Nicolas Clara, a boat captain from Barcelona, Spain, said he heard cries of "Defector" and "Traitor."

The other Americans were two women from Tampa and a Seattle man who was sailing to the Grand Caymans but had to stop his trip in Cuba because of trouble with his boat, Lindquist said.

The passengers were allowed to make travel plans to continue their trip, while Miller said the crew and plane would probably be picked when a plane from Cuba brings another pilot.

The Lindquists said they didn't realize the plane had been diverted until the captain announced the plane would be landing in Nassau, Bahamas in a few minutes.

"We looked out the window and saw parts of south Miami, so then we knew everything wasn't right," Lindquist said.

One of the Italian passengers, Guido Pietroni, said "the crew told us that the pilot asked the copilot to go get him something to drink," Pietroni said. "When he did, the captain locked himself in the cockpit. The copilot was using a screwdriver, trying to get in there."

"They tried everything to get in there," said one of the Bahamian residents on the plane, Charles Bowe.

Because Cuba and the United States have no diplomatic relations, the Cubana de Aviacion turboprop was going to the Bahamas, where people who wanted to go to Miami could book another flight.

Taking freedom for granted

It is, perhaps, unfair to compare the recent elections in South Africa with our local elections. Yet, there is one point to consider: the freedom to make a choice at the polls.

We allow voting for 12 hours, from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. only on election day. There is often a good turnout, if the ballot is long. In the 1992 election Seminole County had 85.7 percent of its registered voters turn out. In 1988 the number was 78.2 percent.

Seminole County presently has 134,949 persons registered to go to the polls. However, there are many people who have not taken it upon themselves to register to vote.

Non-presidential elections, and when the ballots contain only a few candidates hardly ever draw large voter turnouts.

In South Africa, the situation is different. Voters flocked to the polls in such large numbers that the two days of voting had to be extended to three.

The majority of Africans have never been allowed to vote. Until this time, they have been refused the right to name the person to oversee their government.

Now with the freedom to vote, many walked hundreds of miles to a polling place. Others voted even in the face of threats against their safety by those who did not want this change in voting rights.

Here in Central Florida, many will stay away from the polls if it so much as looks like rain. Should the ballot be small, people often have a tendency to ignore it.

How would we feel about our freedoms if the right to vote was taken away? If our federal or state government suddenly decreed, for example, that no one under six feet high could vote, wouldn't there be an uproar?

Our point is to call attention to the turnout in South Africa. Millions of people who have never voted are now allowed to do so. Their response to this new freedom should be an example to the entire world.

We urge local people who have not yet done so, to register. And whenever the opportunity comes up, go to the polls and make your choice count. Let's continue to make government of the people, a direct result of voting by all the people.

Response from Housing Authority

In response to the editorial appearing in the Sanford Herald on May 3, 1994, as director of the Sanford Housing Authority, I am providing the following response:

I agree drugs are prevalent in public housing nationwide. Sanford is no exception!

As custodian of the agency, I was operating on the premise of having been advised at sometime in the past that convictions were necessary to evict for drug-related violations. Upon consultation with legal counsel, and his review of the federal regulations, I was advised that convictions are not necessary for drug case evictions. However, we must have proof of violations of the lease agreement concerning drug-related activities.

Enforcement of the lease agreement that is drug related will be placed on the agenda for the May 19, 1994 board of commissioners' meeting at 7 p.m. at Redding Gardens. I will be requesting specific board policy and directives as a means of taking affirmative action to continue our efforts toward drug elimination.

The majority of our residents are law abiding people. Those who are in violation of their lease do not deserve assisted housing!

Locking up the Fourth Amendment

"The poorest man may in his cottage bid defiance to all the forces of the Crown. It may be frail — its roof may shake — the wind may blow through it — the storm may enter... but the King of England cannot enter. All his force dare not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement."

So said William Pitt, Earl of Chatham, but that was in another country in another century. The poor who live in America's public housing projects cannot afford, says Bill Clinton, the same degree of privacy that William Pitt guaranteed his countrymen. For their own good, America's public housing tenants should be required to have included in their leases a clause giving consent to the police to break into their apartments without a warrant in a search for guns and gunslingers.

This policy was designed by no less an authority in constitutional law than Attorney General Janet Reno, and by the usually thoughtful Housing and Urban Development Secretary Henry Cisneros. Moreover, its enthusiastic supporter, the president, is a graduate of Yale Law School, taught constitutional law in Arkansas, and was an attorney general of that state.

Unimpressed by so distinguished a trio at the highest level of government, Dorothy Tillman, a Chicago alderman, demurs. She represents the residents of the Robert Taylor Homes on the South Side of Chicago — where children, at an early age, learn to duck when the gun-fire starts.

"I think," she told National Public Radio, "that when you take a group of citizens, who are poor, and you treat them differently from other citizens in this country, I think that's a very immoral act, and I think that (the president) is using the Robert Taylor public housing project to push his crime bill."

Rather than "immoral," the operative word is unconstitutional. That was the immediate and fiery response of Ed Koch, the former mayor of New York, now a radio talk-show host. Koch, who had a number of bruising battles with the American Civil Liberties Union while in office, agrees with it now that a waiver of Fourth Amendment guarantees in a public housing lease "clearly violates the Constitution."

This is called the slippery slope, and once the descent begins, who knows where it ends?

Koch likened the Clinton undermining of the Fourth Amendment to "the yellow dog contract" of yore. For those in his audience who are not old-timers, Koch explained that some employers used to require newly hired workers to sign an employment contract pledging they would never join a union. "Only a yellow dog," Koch explained, "would sign such a contract."

When the Clinton-Reno-Cisneros yellow dog contract gets to court, one issue will indeed be whether the government can require a waiver of a fundamental constitutional right as a condition of getting a public housing apartment.

Furthermore, it is hardly inconceivable that people desperately wanting such an apartment will fear that if they don't sign the waiver, they will be denied public housing. Also — a point raised by the ACLU — if a tenant does not sign the waiver, he or she may be targeted for criminal investigation.

U.S. needs leaders, not whiners

What was once a trickle of despair has become a torrent of horror. Seemingly from one end of the globe to the other, atrocities mount and mass murder becomes the norm. Names we barely knew or had rarely heard, like Rwanda, Bosnia, Somalia and Haiti, have become synonyms for unrestrained bestiality and unchecked repression.

In the face of the appalling images and shocking reports, there is a growing tendency to believe that since the United States cannot actually solve all of the world's problems or prevent all the looming catastrophes, the path of isolationism is to do nothing. It is a new kind of isolationism created not from old prejudices but from the impact of too much knowledge too quickly absorbed. We Americans show signs of becoming either anesthetized or immobilized.

Something else is also involved. The Clinton administration, which is to say the president first and foremost, has shown a genius for taking confusing, complex situations and making them worse by its own murky inconstancy. President Clinton is a man of rare intelligence and highly developed verbal skills who frequently substitutes words for action and pronouncements for programs. In his administration, consistency is no virtue and a tendency toward frequent shifts in foreign policy, or the way policy is explained, is no vice.

Everybody gets to play. If the president seemed to have a policy du jour toward Bosnia for the first 14 months of his administration, his minions frequently expressed variations for every new cycle. If Secretary of State Christopher was clear about the meaning of the Clinton human rights policy and Most Favored Nation status for China, high officials in the Commerce and Treasury Departments were not.

We have expressed warm feelings about the possibilities of multifunction under the U.N. umbrella, and then we have cooled. Administration spokesmen have been publicly supportive of Haiti's exiled president, and have been as ardently negative in background briefings. The United States has an obligation as the remaining superpower to help sustain a peaceful international order, we have been told, but of course cannot impose itself on NATO or the United Nations or "world opinion." Murderous outrages have been roundly condemned, then studiously ignored.

Small wonder that many Americans have decided the world is too much with them and therefore too much for them. It frequently appears to be no less for the men and women charged with leadership in Washington, who tend to carry on publicly about the sheer complexity of it all. It would be easier to sympathize if you could forget how avidly they sought the responsibilities they now appear to regard as the unfair burdens of an inexplicably difficult world.

Occasionally you are offered painful contrasts against which to measure the White House's performance abroad. Margaret Thatcher, the lioness in winter, was in Washington the other day. As always, the world for the former British prime minister is not a place of grays, but of black and white. As always, there is much that she says with which reasonable people can strongly disagree.

But about one point there is little room for argument. As Thatcher says, in the end it all comes down to leadership. Those with power must choose, and having chosen, must stay the course. Passively waiting for a consensus to form is like waiting for Godot. It will not appear. The public at home and our friends and enemies abroad are as one in their potential responsiveness to a clear articulation and steady pursuit of American goals. They are also as one in their befuddlement about the administration's un-falling inclination to speak first and adopt a policy second.

About the time this column appears, I will be traveling in the Balkans with a small group of Americans concerned about the potential for disaster in and around the new nation of Macedonia, until recently a Yugoslav territory. If the world is not careful, long-festering hatreds with roots going back through the centuries could erupt in a conflict that could make Bosnia look like an warmup. There are already 1,000 U.N. personnel on hand. The president has sent over 100 American servicemen as a signal of our determination to avert the fight so many ethnic and political factions, inside Macedonia's borders and within those of its immediate neighbors, are spilling to begin.

The administration must learn from its recent past. Having sent troops, it has apparently decided that Macedonia's fate matters to the United States. That being so, it should stop vacillating and promptly and repeatedly tell the American people what is at stake and how it intends to avert calamity.

Then it must hold the policy line, coolly, calmly and over time.

Americans show signs of becoming either anesthetized or immobilized.

Clinton backs engine sale

WASHINGTON — Two divergent priorities for the Clinton administration — promoting human rights abroad and boosting American exports — are crashing together in a controversial engine sale to China that has intelligence officials scratching their heads in disbelief. In this case, export dollars are apparently more important than human rights or arms proliferation concerns.

The case involves a Phoenix-based engine company, Garrett, which has been trying to sell the People's Republic of China dozens of its advanced turbofan engines since 1986. Officials at AlliedSignal, Garrett's parent company, say the engine technology is 2-3 years old and widely used in business aircraft around the world. Other companies also make similar engines, so the technology is hardly a state secret.

To a number of intelligence officials, however, the sale of these engines could enable the Chinese to upgrade its Silkworm missiles, which it has been selling without compunction to Middle Eastern countries like Iran and Syria.

The history of the sale is complex, and often classified, but we've put it together from sources and documents provided by congressional sources concerned about the sale.

Discussions between Garrett and the Chinese began in 1986, and a deal was concluded in 1987 to sell China an initial lot of 30 engines, to be used in a light military jet known as the K-8. In early 1989, the Department of Defense was informed of the initial sale, though at the time it slipped between the cracks. Despite the Bush administration's new restrictions on China after the Tiananmen Square massacre, which prevented the sale of military equipment, the deal continued to bump along. In May 1990, the Commerce Department granted the Chinese permission, in accordance with the original sale agreement, to export four K-8 trainers, with the U.S. engine inside, to Pakistan.

Eighteen months later, in November 1991, the Commerce Department gave Garrett permission to expand sales to China without additional export licensing. The Defense Department was not consulted.

All hell broke loose in July 1992, when, almost by chance, the Pentagon's top technology proliferation experts read a classified cable between the U.S. Embassy in Beijing and State Department headquarters in Washington alerting them to the sale. The Pentagon demanded a series of closed-door meetings on the issue, and various agencies were asked to analyze the implications of the sale.

A month later, the CIA weighed in with the first classified report establishing that the Chinese could use the Garrett engines in a super-improved Silkworm missile. The report's implications were that the United States might be selling China technology that could seriously threaten the U.S. military from a third country.

The Defense Intelligence Agency weighed in with another classified report on Sept. 30 agreeing with the CIA that these engines could end up in the wrong hands. According to the documents, however, the sale progressed and four more engines were shipped to China in September and October of 1992.

Yet another classified study was completed Nov. 20, estimating the increased range and payload if the Silkworm was modified to suit an upgraded Garrett engine. Such an improved Silkworm, analysts warned, could have a minimum range of 332 nautical miles with a 1,000-pound payload, and a top range of 581 nautical miles with a one-pound payload.

In this case, export dollars are apparently more important than human rights.

First flight across Atlantic 75 years ago now little remembered

By BILL KAGZOR
Associated Press Writer

PENSACOLA — Whenever Charles and Betty Cunningham fly on an airliner they give the pilot an envelope with this question written on the outside: "Who flew the first flight across the Atlantic?"

The answer is in a pamphlet inside.

The cover shows a huge, ungainly airplane with a maze of braces and wires connecting a boat-like fuselage to double wings, a box-kite tail and four engines — three facing forward and one to the rear.

"The only one who ever said he knew and was correct was an ex-naval officer," Mrs. Cunningham said in a telephone interview from their Asheville, N.C., home. "Everybody thinks that Lindbergh made the first flight."

Eight years before Charles Lindbergh made the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris, six American airmen were first across the Atlantic Ocean in the Navy seaplane NC-4. It is now in the National Museum of Naval Aviation at the Pensacola Naval Air Station.

They departed 75 years ago Sunday from Rockaway, N.Y., and arrived 19 days later in Portugal, on May 27, 1919.

Their commanding officer and navigator was Lt. Cmdr. Albert C. "Putty" Read. Mrs. Cunningham's father.

The pamphlet features letters to his wife, Beas Burdine Read, whose father founded the Burdine's department store chain in Florida.

"History has failed to give Putty the distinction he deserves," Mrs. Read wrote in the pamphlet. The flight, however, was front-page news in 1919.

Mrs. Read, who died two years ago, found the letters in her home in Coconut Grove, a Miami neighborhood. Her daughter, Mrs. Cunningham, has donated them to the museum in Pensacola. Read, who later became an admiral, died in 1967.

"I wished that he lived two years longer," Mrs. Cunningham said. "In '69, we landed on the moon. He knew that would."

Retired Navy Capt. Walter Schirra, one of the first seven astronauts and an aviation historian, drew a parallel between the space race and NC-4's flight during a 75th anniversary program at the museum in February. The Americans were competing with several British teams.

"They spent that much time and effort making sure this nation was first across the Atlantic, just as we were the first nation to put men on the moon," Schirra said.

Three Navy-Curtiss flying boats, NC-1, NC-3 and NC-4, began the flight. With wingspans of 126 feet — 18 feet more than a Boeing 727 jetliner — the fabric and wood seaplanes were made for anti-submarine duty in World War I. Another "Nancy," NC-2, was cannibalized for repair parts.

Unlike Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis, the seaplanes were unable to cross without refueling. Stops were planned in Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and the Azores.

NC-4 was barely on its way when engine trouble forced an unplanned stop at Cape Cod. Newspapers dubbed it the "lame duck." The airmen also found out they had an unexpected competitor, the Navy dirigible C-5, in Newfoundland.

"It was more or less of a dirty trick," Read wrote. But a storm tore C-5 from its moorings, blew it out to sea and out of the competition on May 15. The next day, the seaplanes left Newfoundland on the longest leg of the flight — 1,380 miles — to the Azores.

The Navy stationed ships about 50 miles apart to guide the fliers, but fog and clouds obscured some. NC-1 and NC-3 landed to get their bearings. The landing damaged NC-3 and, unable to fly again, it drifted to the Azores. NC-1's crew was rescued by a freighter after rough seas prevented a takeoff.

Scientists monitor watermelon disease in Florida, Georgia

By ELLIOTT MINOR
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, Ga. — Two years after an unusual disease created rotting watermelons that burst, the disease has been discovered again in Georgia and Florida.

The disease, called watermelon fruit blotch, gained national attention in 1992. It rots the inside of the fruit, causing a buildup of pressure that makes the melons pop open and spew a foul-smelling ooze. The bacteria that causes it can be spread in seed and water.

"It's not widespread," said Nancy Childers, executive director of the Georgia Watermelon Association. "It is something we're keeping an eye on. Hopefully, it will not spread like it did in '92."

The disease is being studied by scientists at the University of Georgia, the University of Florida, Purdue University in Indiana and by a private firm.

Fruit blotch has been found in Indiana, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina since 1989. Georgia, usually ranked third or fourth in watermelon production, has 40,000 to 43,000 acres this year. The crop generates about $20 million for the state's growers. Other top producers are Florida, Texas and California. It has been detected on young seedlings in Georgia this year, but it is too early to tell if it will cause crop losses.

"It's something you have no control over," said Crisp County grower Oren Childers, who is no relation to Nancy Childers.

There's no sign of the disease on his farm. His 200-acre crop is in excellent condition because of ample rainfall and plenty of sunshine and is running five to seven days ahead of schedule, he said.

Contaminated watermelons are culled out before the crop is shipped out to be sold.

Ron Gillette, a plant pathologist at the University of Georgia's Coastal Plain Experiment Station in Tifton, said there may be a new strain.

"We're not quite sure what to expect," he said. "It may not be as aggressive as what we've seen in the past."

Georgia's harvest won't begin until early June. The state's peak marketing period is just before the Fourth of July, when its watermelons are shipped throughout the East Coast and Midwest.

Florida researchers are studying diseased plants to determine if they have fruit blotch, or another ailment with similar symptoms, said Tom Kucharek, a plant pathologist with the Florida Extension Service in Gainesville.

Seniors begin month of celebration

The City of Sanford kicked off its annual celebration of Older Americans Month with a luncheon at the Sanford Civic Center last week. Charlotte Adams, Rose Lauricella and Susie Greenman enjoy refreshments and each other's company during the kickoff ceremony. Other activities planned for the month include a Golden Golf Tournament, today, May 9; a daytrip to Silver Springs, May 12; Senior Arts and Crafts Show, May 13-15; Senior Saturday in downtown Sanford, May 14; Line Dance workshop, May 21; and a grand finale Memorial Day Picnic and Party, May 27. For information or to register for activities, call 330-5699.

Historic

On Saturday, a week of activities got under way with a Victorian high tea and walking tour, starting at the home of John and Jamie Meeks, 621 S. Park Ave.

"It was beautiful, quite well done," said Kay Bartholomew, who attended the event despite a full schedule of other events.

Sandwiched between manning the historic trust's booth at the Greenway events and winning enough to take some friends out to brunch at a Kentucky Derby party, Bartholomew said the high tea was elegant and well-attended.

Following tea, the Preservation Board handed out awards for the best preservation work done this year. The awards, presented by the Sanford Historic Trust, were given to Barbara Farrell, who renovated the old Sanford Fire Station; Jean and Cheryl Theard, 717 Magnolia Ave.; John and Barbara Thompson; John and Juanny Mercer, 900 S. Palmetto Ave.; the All Souls Catholic Church Rectory, 902 S. Oak Ave.; and Walt and Bert Padgett for the Higgins House Bed and Breakfast Inn.

On Sunday, an open house at the Sanford Museum drew a small crowd. Those in attendance were able to tour the newly-reopened facility and see an exhibition of the Sanford Historic Trust's residential award winners.

A spokesman for the museum said the crowd was small, but very appreciative of the work that had been done at the museum and on the houses that were featured in the photographic exhibition.

At the Higgins House Bed and Breakfast Inn, 420 S. Oak Ave., an old-fashioned Sunday dinner and carriage ride through the historic district brought about 65 people to celebrate Mother's Day in grand style in Sanford.

"I think it was beautiful," said Walt Padgett, owner of the Higgins House. "There were people here from Orlando, DeLand, Mt. Dora, Winter Park, all coming in to see what we are doing here in Sanford. A lot of them were surprised at what it is we have here."

Padgett said the carriage ride gave participants a "unique view of what Sanford was and what it is becoming."

Tomorrow, Jim Robison will be at the Sanford Library at noon recounting some "tales of Sanford history."

On Wednesday at noon at the Magnolia Square clock there will be a lunchtime walking tour of the downtown historic district.

Another walking tour will begin at noon on Thursday at the Cultural Arts Building at Fourth Street and Oak Avenue.

Also, on Thursday evening, architect Jerry Mills will present a seminar on "hands-on home restoration." The workshop is free and will begin at 7 p.m. at the Sanford Library.

The Preservation Week celebration will conclude on Saturday with a celebration of antique cars, sales, entertainment, food, costumes and photographic window displays in the downtown business district from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

"We've celebrated Preservation Week before," said Bartholomew. "But this is the first time we've had the cooperation of three groups in putting the event together. Next year, we plan to include the county museum as well. This cooperation is a sign of some very good things to come."

Housing

the "guests" are considered to be living there and are required to be reported to the authority.

Neighbors sometimes tell housing officials about unreported "guests" and the lease holder is asked to clarify the person's status.

In some instances, Richardson explained, evictions for other lease violations, like non-payment of rent, sometimes have been unsuccessful. Before trying to pursue a drug-related eviction, housing officials wanted a solid case they were reasonably assured of winning in court.

"That's why we are so cautious (on drug-related evictions) because the residents will get the feeling 'it won't work. They can't put us out,'" the director explained. Although arrest information is readily available from police or published records, tracking the cases through court can be time consuming.

Chris White, chief of operations in the state attorney's office, said housing officials could check with his office to see if charges are filed after drug arrests, then check again in a few months for the outcome.

"I can assure you, if it can be proven, we will certainly evict," Richardson commented, "because we are trying to improve the image of public housing."

Dennis Morgan, acting executive director of the Orlando Public Housing Authority, noted that authority does not have a drug addendum on their leases but pursues evictions for drug related activity under two other sections of civil law.

Orlando Housing Authority officials pre-screen applicants with the help of police to determine that applicants do not have any record of drug or violence related offenses.

"Cause evictions are difficult and they do take an extreme amount of time," Morgan commented. "By that I mean walking through the process. It might be a six months process. We have found it is worth the effort if you are going to have a drug-free environment."

Orlando has about 1,800 units of public housing and another 1,800 under the section 8 program where individuals find housing in the private sector and the major portion of their rent is paid by the government. Sanford has 480 units and 80 section 8 vouchers.

Morgan estimated his agency has gotten 40 or 50 drug related evictions.

There is such a demand for public housing in Sanford there is a waiting list which cannot be filled in the next three to five years. The housing authority has suspended taking new applications.

In an effort to promote healthier lifestyles, the Sanford Housing Authority in conjunction with the Center for Drug Free Living is presenting monthly drug education programs for residents.

lamps, tree plantings for shade and other similar facilities. In addition, railings, turn-outs and picnic facilities are envisioned.

Marder has admitted the projected costs of the project are generalized at the present time. Even if the city approves seeking the grant, additional considerations may play a part in the overall concept.

The application would also be reviewed by the Regional Bicycle-Pedestrian Committee, which could recommend changes. The Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee is also involved. It has entered into a contract with the University of Florida School of Architecture to develop design alternatives for the Lake Monroe waterfront and downtown Sanford area.

Discussion of the proposal is scheduled for the work session of the city commission beginning at 4 p.m. this afternoon in the City Manager's Conference Room at city hall.

The regular commission meeting will begin at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Remembering how things were then

Happy Mother's Day

The Sanford Woman's Club hosted a luncheon in honor of mothers on Saturday. Members and their daughters had a beautifully catered luncheon and the chance to enjoy one another's company for an hour or two at the event. Viola Frank and her daughter-in-law Donna Frank were among those who celebrated Mothers Day a day early with the Woman's Club.

Young actors take first bows

The Pre-Kindergarten students in the Seminole County Early Intervention Program at Lyman High School were so excited when they saw the high school's production of Annie they wanted to do a play of their own. So, after reading Are You My Mother? they decided to put on a production of that work. After making all their own costumes and putting on a spectacular show, the little actors deserved the applause

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Phillies end streaks

MIAMI — Ricky Jordan hit a home run, two doubles and a single and the Philadelphia Phillies stopped an eight-game road losing streak with a 9-2 win over the Florida Marlins.

Danny Jackson (4-0) stopped Florida's home winning streak at five. He gave up seven hits, including a homer by Orestes Destrade.

Pete Incaviglia also homered for Philadelphia. The Phillies scored single runs in the first five innings and three times in the sixth.

Hurricanes blank Spartans

MIAMI — Freshman J.D. Artega pitched 6 and 1/3 scoreless innings and Danny Graves another save as the Miami Hurricanes downed the Tampa Spartans 3-0 Sunday.

Graves pitched 2 1/3 scoreless innings, worked out of a bases-loaded situation with nobody out in the eighth inning. The shutout was the eighth of the year for the Hurricanes.

Artega improved to 7-1 on the year.

Gamecocks outlast Gators

GAINESVILLE — South Carolina centerfielder Mac White smacked a three-run homer to left field in the top of the 15th inning to boost the Gamecocks to a 6-3 win over Florida.

The defeat in Florida's home finale marked the only loss against an Southeastern Conference opponent at home all season.

South Carolina improves to 34-19 and 10-11 in the SEC, while the Gators fall to 36-16, 16-4.

AROUND THE NATION

Hawks eliminate Heat

ATLANTA — The top-seeded Atlanta Hawks used an outstanding performance by Mookie Blaylock for a 102-91 victory over the eighth-seeded Miami Heat to advance to the second round for the first time since 1988.

The Hawks, with the best record in the NBA Eastern Conference who had evened the series 2-2 with a 103-89 win Thursday night at Miami, thus avoided becoming the second No. 1 seed ever to lose to a No. 8. On Saturday, Seattle, the top seed in the West, was ousted by Denver.

Blaylock finished with 13 points, eight rebounds, four steals and 18 assists.

Kevin Willis led Atlanta with a game-high 24 points. He also had 12 rebounds.

Miami, making its second playoff appearance in its six-year history, was led by Grant Long with 22 points, 15 in the fourth quarter.

Clemson whips FSU

CLEMSON, S.C. — Junior right-hander Jeff Sauve pitched 4 2/3 innings of perfect relief while Shane Monahan went 2-3 with a home run and a triple as Clemson defeated Florida State 9-5 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Florida State (41-17, 11-8 ACC) was led by designated hitter Colby Weaver, who was 2-4 at the plate with two home runs and two RBIs.

Clemson, which tallied 11 hits in the game, is now assured at least a tie for the ACC regular season championship. The Tigers improved to 47-13 overall and 18-2 in the ACC.

USF Bulls outscored

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — Ryan Kritscher hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning as Southern Mississippi beat South Florida 10-9 in the third game of a high-scoring Metro Conference series.

Kritscher, who had four RBIs in the game, hit his sixth home run of the season after South Florida (37-15, 10-5) had taken the lead with a four-run outburst in the seventh inning.

Southern Miss (32-20, 9-6), which lost the opening game of the series 11-10 before winning 15-14 in 11 innings, moved within a game of the league-leading Bulls in the Metro standings.

Cancer claims Finks

NEW ORLEANS — Jim Finks, the New Orleans Saints' president and general manager who nearly became NFL commissioner in 1989, has died of lung cancer. He was 66.

Finks, who learned two weeks ago that he had an advanced case of the disease, died Sunday night at his home, a Saints spokesman said.

A front office dealmaker for the Bears and Vikings as well as the Saints, Finks also had success in baseball, helping the Chicago Cubs win the National League East title in 1984 — their first division title since 1945.

In 1989, he was picked by a committee to be commissioner of the NFL, which he had served for 40 years as a player, coach and manager.

However, he was able to get only 18 of 21 votes from the owners. The job went to current commissioner Paul Tagliabue, who made Finks chairman of the league's competition committee — the body that recommends rules changes.

A heavy smoker, he became ill in April 1993.

Silva, Pope, Kotseos collect titles

From Staff Reports

TAMPA — While Lake Mary High School just missed winning its second boys' state tennis championship in three years, the Rams kept their string alive of returning home with some hardware.

This year, Vilmar Silva and Derek Pope, Lake Mary's No. 1 and No. 2 singles players, won their respective division's championships and combined to win the doubles crown in the Class 5A state tournament at the City of Tampa Courts on the campus of Hillsborough Community College.

In the process, Silva and Pope led the Rams to a second-place finish in the team standings behind Plantation, which outscored Lake Mary 14-13.

Earlier in the week, Oviedo's Tracy Kotseos won the individual girls' singles state championship.

On Saturday, Silva worked by Plantation's Iray Shimony 7-5, 7-6 in the No. 1 singles championship match while Pope knocked off Francis Connor, also from Plantation, 7-6, 6-1 for the No. 2 singles crown.

Silva and Pope rallied from a first-set loss to defeat Kai McGreevy and Steven Roach of Melbourne 4-6, 6-4, 7-6 for the No. 1 doubles championship.

Shawn Perce and Randal Brown, Lake Mary's

No. 2 doubles team, were eliminated in the semifinals of their draw.

Last year, Lake Mary's Jack Whigham won the boys' singles championship. In 1992, the Rams won five of the seven singles and doubles titles on the way to the Class 4A state crown. The year before, Jason Appel and Jason White claimed the doubles championship.

The Lake Mary girls also gave a strong showing this weekend, finishing third with eight team points behind Miami-Killian (19) and Dr. Phillips (10).

Yvonne Carrio and Deanna Tran reached the championship matches at No. 4 and 5 singles, respectively, for the Rams while Carrio and Megan Kraft were semifinalists in the No. 2 doubles playoff.

Kotseos, who is headed to the University of South Carolina next year, lost all of 10 games on the way to winning the girls' individual singles state championship.

In her semifinals and finals matches, Kotseos lost just two games. After defeating Eliana Agüero of Jacksonville-Mandarin 6-1, 6-1 in the semifinals, Kotseos swept by Saddlebrook's Kathy Herring 6-0, 6-0 in the championship match.

As a freshman in 1991, Kotseos won the No. 1 singles title in the team tournament while leading the Lions to a second-place finish.

Pohira defends state golf crown

From Staff Reports

VENICE — Lake Howell High School senior Ann Pohira became the 10th female golfer in Florida high school history to win back-to-back state championships last Thursday at the Venice Golf and Country Club.

She opened the two-day state championship with an even-par 72 on Wednesday, then came back and carded a 73 on Thursday.

Pohira's total of 145 put her four strokes in front of Jennifer Dugan from Tampa-Chamberlain and Dr. Phillips' Virginia Costa.

Last year, Pohira charged to the state title by firing a 65 on the second day of play.

Pohira, who has accepted a scholarship from the University of Florida, joins Betty Lou Wolfe (Tavares), Rhonda Glenn (Lake Worth), Liz Pooley (Gainesville-P.K. Yonge), and Constance Chillemi (Naples) as repeat champions. Pooley and Chillemi were both three-time champions. Chillemi was the last to repeat as state champion, claiming medalists honors at the 1973, '74, and '75 state tournaments.

Royals clinch playoff berth

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — It took eight innings, but the Rotary Club Royals clinched a spot in the Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Baseball League playoffs.

The Royals (8-4) had to score a run in the seventh inning to send the game into extra innings, then eliminated the Kiwanis Club Orioles (5-7) from playoff contention when Nathaniel Cline doubled in two runs with two out in the eighth to pull out a 6-4 victory at Zinn Beck Field.

In the other game at Zinn Beck, the American Division champion Nobles Construction White Sox won their 12th game with a loss with an 18-1 thumping of the Blue Jays (1-11).

In Sanford Memorial Stadium, the National Division was thrown into a three-way tie for the lead as the Seminole Produce Marlins (3-9) scored two runs in the fifth inning and two more in the sixth to upset the Moose Lodge Pirates (7-4), 8-7, and the Elks Lodge No. 1241 Cubs (7-4) whitewashed the Baggs Produce Expos (3-9), 11-0.

Red Sox win division again

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League heads into the final week of its regular season with a couple of questions still to be answered before the start of the city championships on May 19.

Randy Ford hurled a two-hitter as the defending City Champion Sunland Corporation Red Sox (14-0) repeated as American Division champs with an 11-0 whitewashing of the Fisher, Laurence, Deen & Fromang Blue Jays (2-11) at Roy Holler Field Saturday.

Also decided Saturday were the two representatives from the National Division as the Railroaders Cubs (12-1) dumped the Expos (2-12), 16-6, and the Binker Materiala Dodgers (10-4) eliminated the Fabri-Care Marlins (7-7), 12-2, at Lakeside Field.

But, because of rainouts, still up for grabs is the second spot in the playoffs for the American Division and who will be the champion of the National Division.

The Disabled American Veterans (DAV) Royals (10-3) clinched at least a tie for the second American slot with a 17-2 clubbing of the First Union Banks A's (1-13), but the Cook Construction Orioles (8-6) kept their slim playoff hopes alive by scoring five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to eliminate the Stairs Realty White Sox (7-7), 14-13.

The Cubs will clinch the National title by winning one of its last three games or having the Dodgers lose one of its last two. But if the Dodgers win both games and the Cubs lose all three, they will be tied with 12-4 records.

In other game Saturday, the Freddie Howard Pirates (5-8) edged the Fun World at Flea World Cardinals (4-10), 21-20.

Tuesday, at Roy Holler Field, the Pirates battle the Dodgers at 5:45

Church winners overcome 'adversity'

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Normally, taking an early lead is a good thing.

Four of the five teams that won in the Spring Season of the Sanford Church Softball League trailed after either the first or second inning and the other was behind in the fourth inning before rallying for victory Saturday at Chase Park.

The two best games of the day featured interdivisional matchups between teams from the Competitive and Fellowship divisions.

Fellowship-leading Sanford First Nazarene looked like it might stay undefeated after taking a 3-0 lead. But the Deltona Trinity Assembly of God-Majesty (2-3) came up with five runs in the third inning and single runs in the fourth and fifth innings to hold off Nazarene (3-1), 7-5.

Is soccer boring? Like anything else, it can be

Opinions are like glutenous regions; everybody has one. But just like some glutenous regions, some opinions are better kept private.

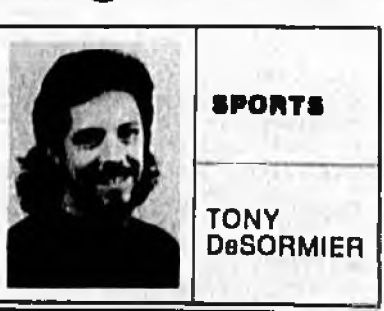

Take, as an example, a recently published diatribe by a writer about soccer in general and World Cup organizers in particular, who are insisting that all media covering this summer's tournament submit to a background check.

I can't argue with someone who says soccer is boring. To the uninitiated or unwilling, it can be tedious. For most Americans, soccer is, at best, an acquired taste. And you must be willing to acquire it.

Also, there are few athletic spectacles more aesthetically lacking than a poorly played soccer match (the one exception that comes to mind is a junior varsity volleyball game, which redefines the concept of eternity).

Certain well-executed soccer tactics can test the patience of even a soccer aficionado. The absence of a shot clock and a field surface exceeding 7,000 square yards can make a game seem like 90 minutes of nothing if it's done right.

For example, the soccer equivalent of basketball's four-corner delay is called bunkering, where one side concedes technical superiority to the other and combats it by keeping all or most of its players on its half of the field. As a result, there's no room to do anything, at least not anything entertaining.

SPORTS

But perhaps the biggest thing working against soccer — in terms of being accepted by a majority of American adults — is the idea that defense is dull, that an exceptionally well-played 1-0 match is more boring than a 5-4 horror show.

These are the same people that think pitchers' duels in baseball or 7-0 defensive wars in football are boring. It's that mentality that gives us the designated hitter, the three-point field goal, and rules geared to benefit the offense in football.

However, I have the distinct feeling I'm preaching to the converted. We know what we like and why we like it. We feel a kinship with the fans we see while watching Soccer Made In Germany or the like, a kinship I imagine baseball fans around the globe feel when watching our "members only" World Series.

Like anyone who finds pleasure in an activity, we'd like to share that experience with others. But like I said, acquiring a taste for anything, be it soccer or sushi, requires a willingness to experience it with a reasonably open mind.

Everyone's entitled to his or her opinion, different strokes for different folks, one man's meat is another man's poison, and whatever other cliché you can think up... having an opinion also carries with it the responsibility of respecting the opinion of others.

If you don't like soccer (or the Orlando Magic or whatever), fine. But to take that position and gleefully flaunt it like some absurd banner in the faces of those who enjoy that given activity exceeds the most extreme limits of having and stating an opinion.

And to challenge or be offended by the security measures of the organizers of an international event such as the World Cup is ridiculous.

We respond with self-righteous horror to the actions of soccer hooligans or terrorists who use events like the Olympics to make a statement, saying that it could never happen here while ignoring incidents like Dead Heads storming the O-rana or riots in Los Angeles forcing games to be postponed.

World Cup organizers are faced with the delicate task of trying to make everything as safe as possible for the players and fans visiting this country. To do this, they're attempting to screen most everyone who will have access to the games, from volunteers to the media.

Should the media be exempt from this screening process? Are reporters somehow more trustworthy than someone hired to sell programs? How arrogant is that?

It would be wonderful if none of it were necessary, but recent history suggests otherwise. And those who ignore the lessons of history, etc.

Organic gardening in Florida

By MARY FEAR
Seminole County Master Gardener

It is probably much more difficult to be a strictly organic gardener in Florida than in other parts of this country. Most of us are starting with white sand and so the first thing we must do is add organic matter in large quantities. Peat, compost, manures, sawdust, leaves all contribute organic matter to the soil. Probably the most satisfactory of all is your own compost made from what you can collect. Grass clippings, household kitchen waste and weeds make a compost which will decompose more quickly than will oak leaves or sawdust. Compost making can be a very scientific activity or it may be nothing more than piling these substances in a hidden corner and waiting for them to decompose. If one has the patience, leaves, stable waste and grass clippings can be piled in the area in which one wishes to garden and left for several months when this material has partially decomposed, it can be tilled in and the bed prepared and planted. Cover crops grown on ideal parts of the garden and tilled in are excellent soil improvers. In both cases three or four weeks should pass after tilling before planting. The process of breaking down materials such as green manure or sawdust robs the plants of needed nitrogen.

Insects and diseases are more prevalent in Florida than in parts of the country where cold weather controls these problems to some extent. However, many safe controls have been found. Insecticidal soap will take care of many insects. Possibly your household dish detergent will do just as well. Worms, such as corn earworms, tomato worms, and cabbage caterpillars can be effectively controlled by Bacillus thuringiensis which kills only worms and does not affect beneficial insects. There are many more beneficial insects than injurious ones, and we should keep this in mind when we have to resort to a pesticide such as pyrethrum or rotenone. These are non-poisonous to humans, but they will kill bees and other beneficial insects. Use these late in the day when the bees are no longer active. Predator insects can be obtained for specific infestations, but they may leave when they have finished the job for which they were ordered and not hang around for the next problem. Slugs and snails can be controlled with diatomaceous earth or wood ashes. Mulching will help control nematodes and weeds and keep the soil cool and moist.

Usually disease is harder to deal with. Plants which are kept growing quickly and which are healthy are not as likely to be attacked. Sulphur compounds are recommended to deal with fungus and mildew problems. If gardening organically is so much trouble, why not do as has been done for many years and use chemicals. There are several reasons. Whether the produce is tastier is a question which has been discussed for years. Certainly where organically grown produce is available, some people are willing to pay premium prices for it. Literature on the subject is filled with instances of increased resistance to disease in both animals and humans when organically grown foods are eaten. To my knowledge, there has never been a blind study undertaken to prove this. However, to have "allowable amounts" of pesticide on market produce is of concern to many. In recent months concern about the pollution of our earth has gained much attention and articles on the subject appear even in popular magazines.

Usually organic methods of gardening cover a period of time will result in a rich dark soil which is rewarding to work with. Weeds will pull out easily and your plants will have the bloom of health. An added bonus is additional years of youthfulness from all that exercise.

While Tricia Thomas is out on maternity leave articles will be written by several volunteer master gardeners.

Church youth to sell Zellwood corn, other veggies straight from the farm

The youth group of the First United Methodist Church of Sanford are getting ready for their annual Zellwood Corn Sale Saturday, May 14, at the church, 5th Street and Park Avenue, Sanford, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Yellow, white and bicolor corn will be for sale by the crate or by the ear. An assortment of other vegetables, watermelons and cantaloupes straight from the farm will also be available. Getting primed for the event are (front row, from left): Jeremy Spragg, Jasi Howard, Melissa Kyle, Kim Clouse and Katie Hartssock. (Back row, from left): Michael Hartssock, Ian Quick, Chad Gaugh and Stephanie Hauser.

Unsafe boaters can turn to floaters

DEAR ABBY: You would have served "Mrs. N.M. in Maryland" and millions of boaters well if you had suggested she advise "Fred" to take a safe boating course offered by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary or Power Squadsrons in their area.

We are well into the boating season, and many boaters are at risk of losing their boats, or lives — and their guests are at risk of serious injury or loss of life — because of the lack of safe boating habits.

Members of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary are dedicated to serving the boating public through public education programs for a nominal materials charge.

Please note the toll-free phone number on the back of the enclosed "Federal Requirements" booklet (800) 368-5647, where people can get safety information and attend a boating safety class in their area.

Once again, Abby, you could do a tremendous service for the boating public if you would print this. You may use my name.

DAVID A. DAY, SEMINOLE, FLA.

vessel should be given a pre-departure orientation concerning the location and use of all safety equipment, life jackets, fire extinguishers marine radio, etc.

The guest should also be given a basic orientation as to the operation of the vessel. What if the skipper becomes injured or otherwise incapacitated? Any person on board asking to use a life jacket ("personal flotation device," or PFD, in boating terminology) should be allowed to do so without question.

I would recommend to "Fred" that he enroll in a boating safety course taught by the local Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadron or other qualified boating group. With his attitude alone, Fred sounds like a menace on the water.

GARY STEWART, PLEASANTON, CALIF.

that apply to boating — the ocean doesn't care if you are in a 20-footer or the Queen Elizabeth II. I've done ocean sailing for more than 30 years, and whenever friends sailed with me, I always pointed out the location of life vests, fire extinguishers and first aid kits. The ship-to-shore radio was monitored and guests were given instructions on how to use the "mike."

Results: thirty years of safe, family-fun sailing.

Unfortunately, the free boating courses offered by the Coast Guard are not mandatory for owning and operating a boat.

JOHN OLSSON, SANTA ANA, CALIF.

DEAR JOHN OLSSON: Everyone who operates a boat should be required to take a course and be "licensed," as automobile drivers are. All passengers should know how to operate a boat should the driver become incapacitated.

Ask skin specialist to diagnose rash

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a terrible rash on my feet and palms. At first I treated it as athlete's foot or ringworm, but it keeps exfoliating and itching. Do you have an answer and remedy?

probably need more than simple cartilage surgery -- or an injection. Therefore, I'm not at all sure that the Canadian injection would be suitable for you.

DEAR READER: Rashes on hands and feet can be caused by ringworm (fungal) infection, but other disorders -- such as eczema -- are common as well.

In my opinion, you would be better off having the necessary surgery performed by a doctor you know and trust in a hospital

Rather than merely guessing at the cause of (and cure for) your problem, I recommend that you see a dermatologist. Such a skin specialist will diagnose your condition and prescribe treatment, such as topical creams.

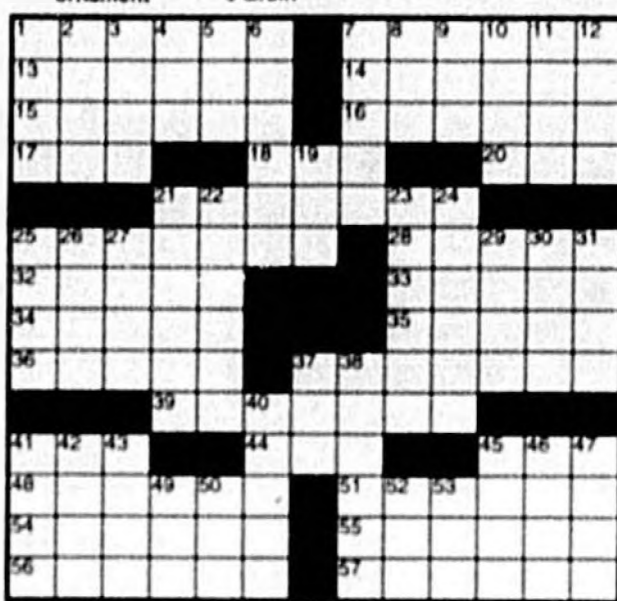

DEAR DR. GOTT: A recent television show revealed many Americans flocking to Canada to have their knees injected with a cartilage material called hylo, thus avoiding total knee replacement. I'm a candidate for knee replacement and would appreciate your input.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

How do you view luck? As an integral part of life? Or like Jean Cocteau, who said, "We must believe in luck. For how else can we explain the success of those we don't like?"

spade. South let out an audible groan. There was no way to recover and win 10 tricks.

At another table, South started the same way: club queen, heart to the queen, heart ace. But now he led his remaining club. West wasn't fooled. South could have drawn the last trump, so it couldn't be right to ruff. West discarded a spade; once more, one down.

In today's deal, on the only Friday the 13th this year, if you play well, you will win 10 tricks. Against your contract of four hearts, West leads the club four: queen, eight, five. How do you continue?

As West must have led a singleton, you should play a low spade from the dummy at trick two, planning to insert the nine. You must organize a spade ruff in the dummy as your 10th trick. (If East plays an honor, win with the ace and continue with the spade 10, hoping West must win the trick.) Later, when the heart king tumbles in two rounds, you receive a cigar or coconut, according to choice.

North's bid of three hearts is questionable. With such a good club suit, he should raise to three no-trump.

Declarer won the first trick and naively assumed that West had led from the 4-3 doubleton. At trick two, he finessed the heart queen. Then he cashed the ace, luckily dropping East's king. South drew West's last trump and led his remaining club. When West discarded a

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 10, 1994

Romantically and socially speaking the year ahead could be a rather exciting period of time for you. Dan Cupid and yourself might hit the ground running.

this time who has the potential to become a good friend. Be open and friendly to all today, even to individuals who make a poor first impression.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Proper timing can spell the difference today between success and failure. Be patient and wait for just the right moment to jump in and make your move.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Money can be generated from two different sources at this time, provided they are not allowed to overlap or draw from one another. Treat each circumstance in a singular fashion. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail #2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10183.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something you've learned from personal experience might be of immense value to you at this time in outwitting your competition. Methods that worked previously are still valid today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Subdue impulses for instant gratification today pertaining to something expensive you've been wanting to buy. You may be able to get this item in the near future at a substantial savings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Respond to your inner urges to carry out something new you've been considering, even if you can't explain your aspirations in detail to others. They can be filled in later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Partnership arrangements in which you're involved today could produce long lasting, favorable effects. The secret is to give the other guy as much as you want for yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might meet someone new at

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your luck today in fulfilling your ambitious aims could be in proportion to the efforts you expend. The harder you work, the luckier you'll get.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are now in a cycle where you could find yourself more in demand socially than usual. This is a good time to do all you can to enlarge your circle of friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Even though the day might start out somewhat sluggishly, your well directed efforts in the afternoon should make up for any lost time you experience in the a.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Ideas or concepts you develop in association with others could be the ones earmarked for success today. Teamwork can produce a product, individualism can't.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Generally speaking, you are presently in a brief cycle which could be good for you in financial and commercial ways. However, you must take control of matters and not leave them up to chance.
