Twins' third was "the killer."

"Battey's hit wasn't a very good one, just a flubber, but it killed us."

Drysdale's downfall came when he fell while fielding Jim Grant's bunt in the third and threw on a hop to first hase, but second baseman Jim Lefebvre bobbled the ball for an error.

"I went for Grant's bent, set myself and then all of a sudden my knee gave way and I fell," said Drysdale.

"The same thing happened to us in the '50 Series with Chicago. We get clobbered in the first game, then won three straight and went on to take the Series. We're certainly not going to quit," ier business of politics? This is not to imply that Lincoln should have turned down a small business loan from the government, had such been available at the time. It is certainly not to say that anyone should be denied the opportunity, because of financial reasons, to obtain the education necessary to prepare him for the career of his choice. It is simply that none of us has the wisdom to make all the right choices at all the right times-not for ourselves, much less for anybody else. There are desires, ambitions and aptitude tests. There is also luck, pluck and happen-stance.

Many of us-perhaps most-are not working at the job we would really like to have Happily, however, somewhere along the way the realization comes to most of us that we have been doing the thing we are best suited for, after all.

ORLANDO (UPI)—A unique co-operative consumer adver tising program is under consideration by tomato growers in Florida and Mexico. Such a program would pool advertising resources from both areas on a voluntary basis for a concentrated adver-tising program throughout the nation rather than have sep-arate programs as has been the case in the past. The Florida Fruit and Vege-table Association revealed the proposal and said a represen-tative group of tomato shippers in each area will survey others in their area to determine if there is enough interest for such a voluntary ficient number of growers agree to participate, articles of incorporation and by-laws would be drawn up by the National Tomato Council. The FFVA said growers in both areas direct their fresh tomatoes toward the entire consumer market in the United States, rather than to 4 certain section, and both areas Thomas D. Bailey, son of a circuit riding Methodist minis-ter, received his tributes for 17 years service as state school superintendent. He said his only regret was that his parents couldn't have lived to hear the praise given him by his fellow members of the State Cabinet.

Bailey, 67, retired and will take a position with an insur-ance firm headed by former Gov. Farris Bryant.

Although Floyd Christian officially took over as school
