DONT SEE THE JOKE YET

Some northern friends of Mrs. Victor Check to whom she sent the Sanford Herald of April first wrote her yesterday and asked her if President Harding really visited in Sanford on that date. Of course Mrs. Check merely asked them to read the fourth page of the Herald of April first and this will be sufficient to hold them for a while. It seems that people other than those residing in Sanford were taken in by the hoax. Some of them were sore, also, but we would say to them that all of us need a little fun as we go along and newspaper work is dry enough and filled with more kicks than compliments.

JUDGE HERRING TAKES EXCEPTION TO BORAH'S VIEWS

But He Does Not Know the Difference Between News and Views

Sanford, Fla., April 26th, 1922. To the Editor, Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fla.

In this issue of April 25th you published in your paper a letter from Senator Borah, written in reply to a letter sent him by a Post of the American Legion. The letter written by the American Legion was not published, and therefore only the garbled statement of Borah himself as to the contents of that letter were shown.

I am at a loss to know why this letter of Senator Borah was published at all. In the first place the letter does not state the truth; in the second place it is an insult to the intelligence of the community to quote Borah on any subject. Borah forsooth! The man, who, for selfish aims and partisan objects, made the vicious, slanderous and vile attack on the character of Woodrow Wilson; the man who voted and worked for seating the criminal Newberry in the United States Senate, notwithstanding the fact that the evidence in the contest, established beyond the faintest doubt, that Newberry had used every means of corruption known to the depraved and dissolute politician.

To quote such a political hypocrite and false prophet as Senator Borah is an insult to the intelligence of the people. Borah has stood always for depravity in politics, and opposed to the highest principals of American citizenship. He is a professional politician, a man without conscience and without honor.

We all know that the money interests profited most by the world war—have, for selfish and base motives organized against the compensation for the ex-service men. Ex-service men are intelligent informed and thoroughly alive to the means and methods being used by the money interests to cheat them of their pittance of compensation.

Therefore, be advised. Take a thought before publishing the false statements of the false and treacherous Borah and his ilk. These are the men who disgraced eternally the fair fame of America by repudiating the League of Nations and slandering Woodrow Wilson "the greatest Roman of them all." These are the men who brought contempt and ridicule upon the Senate of the United States by setting their stamp of approval upon the open bribery and corruption used by Newberry in his campaign for election to the United States senate.

Let me entreat you to consider the source when such articles as the one referred to come to your attention, and to support the feelings of the long suffering public and your patrons by refraining from publishing the views of the corrupt, dissolute and thoroughly depraved professional politician. Such articles only arouse the indignation and excites the contempt of all intelligent readers.

Very truly yours, GEO. G. HERRING.

Dear Judge: We will answer you because we want to set the public mind at rest once and for all on this subject of news gathering. We have the world news, the news of the U. S., the news of Florida, the news of our county and city and all of this news has nothing whatever to do with the policy of the paper. This is expressed only in the editorial columns and it is only this expression that you or any other man can take exception to at any time. Our world news is arranged by the Associated Press and if some man gives expression to his thoughts and the press dispatches quote him the

Friday and Saturday—D. W. Griffith's Greatest Achievement, "Way Down East".

THE PRINCESSES

Daily Herald gives the dispatch for what it is worth without any regard to whether it suits the views of the readers or not. There may be some readers of the Herald who think Borah is all right but whether they do or do not has nothing to do with the news of the day. The editor of the Herald has expressed himself on the bonus question in no uncertain terms and the letter above is entirely uncalled for and has no place in the minds of the members of the American Legion or yourself since we have at all times been in sympathy with the boys and their efforts to get what is rightfully theirs—in fact our position toward the American Legion needs no explanation or excuses and we will not make any.

And lastly, Judge, please give us credit for having sense enough to edit and operate a daily newspaper without any such suggestions from you or anyone else in the effort to separate news items from the press agencies and editorials that are written by the editor of the Herald, and no one else. Were you a newspaper man you would know the difference between the news and editorial opinions and especially in our case is your criticism unwarranted, untimely, unbecomingly, and "un" everything else.

Everything you said about Borah is all right. We have said as much time and again editorially. But news matter in news matter and editorial opinion is—editorial opinion and nothing else.

Some man just rushed into the office and said the barometer was falling and it would rain sure today. Unless he has police protection something worse than the barometer will fall and fall on him. We don't want anyone to trifle with us on this weather subject.

Just received a valuable communication from Washington that stated that General Pershing endorsed Physical Culture Week. We are certainly glad to know this. We were afraid he would not endorse it and then where would the United States have been? What is it all about, anyhow?

We believe we have this dry weather deplored out now. There is no much water going to waste further north in the big floods that there is none left to drop on Florida. Capt. DeCottes and the machine gun company will have to shoot a few holes in the sky and let out some of the water.

The Sanford Herald is right when it says that the nine-foot road belongs to the back woods class and not to this modern age. And that they are abominable when one drives from Sanford to Orlando with two wheels off the brick all the way. Even if the sides were rocked and rolled for a distance of three feet on each side of the nine-foot nuisance it would help wonderfully. But some way or other we always meet the autos when the sand on the side of the road is the deepest.—Florida Post.

CELERY DID IT

The First National Bank of Sanford has purchased the most desirable corner lot in that fast growing city and will commence at once the erection of a modern banking building that will cost $100,000. The building will be six stories high, 50x117. That's what celery does for Sanford.—Clermont Press.

Well, celery had something to do with it but Sanford spirit is responsible for the most of it and the fact that Sanford men have built Sanford and none from the outside so far have done any of the city building. When you stop to consider that Sanford money alone and unaided has accomplished all that has been done here it is nothing less than marvelous.

THE BEAUTIES OF FLORIDA WAITING TO EMBRACE YOU!

This is the time of year when to really live a man must get out and associate intimately with nature. The trees, gloriously green in their garbs of the season; the fields, swaying stretches of color in the light; breezes that stir indolently under the weight of many perfumes—all these are common in early summer. And search the world over, from East to West and from North to South, and nowhere will the season of early summer be more wonderful than here in Florida, where all the forces of nature combine to make it a veritable paradise.

The open roads beckon, winding themselves like gray ribbons through arbors of God-mad beauty, and it is almost a solemn duty for us to follow them to get out and fill our lungs with the air that is packed with the very joy of living!

The silent places call, the places that are visited by few human beings and which offer without limit the wonderful inspirations of silence—the boyhood pleasure of sprawling in the honeysuckle vines and watching the clouds drift by, each shaping itself into a castle you and your warriors would later capture.

And there's the water—great silver blankets that sparkle myriad-colored lights when kissed by the sunshine, kissed by the sunshine of Florida that looks down upon a multitude of these silver blankets, all beautiful, all quietly musical.

The beauties of Florida are waiting to embrace you.—Jacksonville Metropolis.

Dawgone, is that so. We have certainly been missing something around here.

WELCOME JACKSONVILLE

We welcome the busy business men of Jacksonville to Sanford today. They are busy but not too busy to visit the entire state in a trip that took them away from their business for a week or more. It is the right spirit and should do much to cement the state to Jacksonville and bring out a better feeling of understanding between the cities of Florida and the big city of Florida. And the greatest asset in the trip is the fact that Jacksonville business men will see more of Florida and learn more of Florida on this trip than they ever saw or ever knew before.

It takes this trip, this mingling with the people to get better knowledge of the state and the people and Jacksonville like every other big city has been so busy with her own affairs that she had but little time to think about her neighbors. We are glad to have our friends from the big city here if only for an hour. It would take a day or more for them to see the celery fields and the farms and groves and allied industries in and around this city and we are sorry that they only had an hour. However, we accept the spirit for the deed and know that the party of Jacksonville business men will feel that they have seen something in the way of winter gardening here at Sanford, they have seen a growing city here at the head of the St. Johns river, they have learned that Sanford and Jacksonville at each end of this great artery of commerce have much in common and should get together on the big things in the way of improvements that mean much to the entire state. The Jacksonville men have learned that there is something doing outside of their own particular bailiwick and the other sections of Florida can be assured of a better hearing, of a bigger co-partnership, of a better understanding of the state problems among our Jacksonville friends in the future. And the same feeling will also be noted in the attitude of the cities of Florida toward Jacksonville. It is a good thing to "know thy neighbor."

CUTTING DOWN THE BILLBOARDS

Kenneth Roberts writing in the Saturday Evening Post about Florida touches on the unsightly bill boards that flare into your face everywhere in Florida just when you are getting ready to admire the beautiful scenery. He speaks particularly of Miami but he could have seen the same thing in Seminole or any other county in the state. One or two boards were not noticeable but when they commenced to build a solid wall of them from Sanford to Orlando and south to Tampa it is high time the county commissioners of this and every other county took a hand in the game and take the position of the Orange County commissioners who ordered all the sign boards from the public roads. The Lakeland Telegram commends their action in the following:

"State wide comment is being heard over the action of the county commissioners of Orange County in ordering the removal of all advertising signs on county property. There is no objection nor could there be any legal obstacle, to any advertiser renting ground space beyond the highway right-of-way as is the custom in almost all parts of the country but in these latter days there has been such conglomeration of rusty tin and delapidated and splintered boards that the aspect of the average highway is anything but pleasing. The Orange county commissioners had previously set Saturday, April 15, as the date for the disappearance of the signs and their order had the hearty endorsement of the local bill board company which immediately ly sent out a force of men to remove the bill boards and place them back on private property. It is not often the artistic bill board sign that offends most but the unsightly monstrosities that litter the roads of Florida from one end to the other. Everywhere throughout the United States those interested in highway beautification are having unsightly sign boards and other advertising matter removed, to give way to ornamental trees and shrubs. Surely no State has better opportunities of facilities than has Florida for highway beautification. That will undoubtedly come after the roads have been hard-surfaced. The main thing now is to get somewhere. When that has been brought to pass then will highway "brinking" be in order and we are going to look to the women of Florida to see that this is done and done properly."

UNCLE HANK

Many a man can speak from experience of the "widow's night."

THE GREAT DROUGHT.

We often hear of weather that stamps the oldest inhabitant and the continued drought brings out the fact that few seasons in the minds of the oldest inhabitants have been as dry as this one and it will play havoc with fruit and vegetables if it continues much longer. But if it is the driest spring it is not as dry as some of the summers have been and one needs only to go back about fifteen years ago to remember that the summer was so dry that pine trees died in the woods for lack of water. The Times-Union sums up the situation in the following:

"Florida is parching. At least that part east of the Apalachicola is, and in South Florida conditions are particularly acute. Little or no rain has fallen for several months in the sections mentioned. The rains pass north of Florida but, for some reason, avoid the state.

In the country are dry roads and dried-up fields. Vegetables and fruits are suffering and the former dying for lack of moisture. In the cities the atmosphere is impregnated with fine dust which insinuates itself into even closed apartments. It would be difficult to estimate the loss to Florida by such a drought as the present one.

This dry spring roughly balances a rather wet winter, such as the last one was. Some will attribute it to the gradual disappearance of the forests, but there is little reason to lay the blame for the phenomenon to the door of man's greed and heedlessness altogether. In the matter of the forests that greed and thoughtlessness have enough to answer for. Yet history indicates that in the case of a climate so mild as that of Florida every drought may be taken as a warning that continual denudation of the land will result in an utter loss of fruitfulness in the course of time.

Others will be sure that "the climate is changing." Every meteorological inconvenience awakens that cry. Yet it has been proved from the records that it has not changed for several centuries, and the idea is entertained only by the very young or those with poor memories. There have been cycles of wet ones, when the irrigation schemes prompted by droughty conditions were allowed to fall into decay.

Fruit is beginning to drop, but that is only nature's way of pruning to meet the situation—throwing off some fruits in order that others stronger and better situated may take nourishment from the parent tree, may continue to grow. The winds blow the loose soil about, but that's nature's hint to man. She is producing a dust mulch to prevent the dislocation of the soil from proceeding too far by checking the evaporation under the influence of the over-ardent sun's rays.

Investigators have said that brought renew the soil by drawing up to the top soil the fertilizing elements which abundant rains have previously carried down into the sub-soil, so that when the rains come again the soil is richer than it would be under the influence of continued cropping and cultivation. If the thickening of the sap and scarcity of moisture make the late oranges smaller, they are the sweeter for it. Present losses through the drought may be compensated by greater gains later—this year or the next—when the more abundant rains result in crops all the greater and better for the drought of these spring months. Forecaster Mitchell's report for the week, ending last Tuesday is quite discouraging, but the rains of summer may put a different complexion on affairs agricultural, when they come."

GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

The pupils of the Sanford High School have been bothering their heads about essays on "Good Citizenship" and other important topics for the past two weeks and Good Citizenship takes in so many angles and curves that but few people of mature years can hardly write a composite essay on this subject. The Tampa Tribune gives up an erudite editorial on the subject as follows:

"We hear the term "good citizenship" referred to frequently these days. We hear much about "100 per cent Americanism." Naturally the aim of each being laudable and high and the proper chief end and aim of sovereignty in the United States, the proper and adequate definition of such terms becomes of vast importance.

How, then, shall we get universal agreement as to just what it is which constitutes either good citizenship or acceptable Americanism? It will be agreed, we presume, that the definition of one term will be acceptable as the definition of the other or at least synonymous.

The only acceptable authority must of a certainty be that instrument which creates the government and fixes both the privileges and the obligations of the citizen subjects of that government, to-wit, the federal constitution.

It will not do to say that good citizenship in any case means the arrogation of certain privileges and rights by a certain clique, faction or class. No agreement can be had on such hypothesis, because that would be directly in conflict with the constitution. Probably no American citizen whether professing himself to be 100 percent or merely 10 percent, would give adhesion to such a monstrous doctrine as that.

No, in order to proceed at all we must accept the clear, unmistakable guarantees of the constitution and the ideals it sought to establish. And the very first of these is that every citizen of this republic enjoys precisely the same privileges and is under the compulsion of rendering precisely the same service to the state. Thus good citizenship in the United States of America first of all requires that the citizen must concede to every other citizen, the same rights, privileges and obligations that he claims or recognizes as his own.

And why pursue the examination any further? Does not that express the solution of all controversy, all personal or class or factional differences? The constitution of the United States gave official recognition to the golden rule. For any man or set of men to talk about good citizenship or 100 per cent Americanism, unless that man or set of men readily concede this great point in citizenship, is utterly absurd.

There may be varying percents of Americanism; we cannot say. But our own opinion is that a man is either an American or he isn't. And the best type of Americanism is lived rather than talked, practiced rather than preached. We have native-born Americans who are as far from the spirit of the constitution and the ideals of the fathers as day is from dark, and we have foreign-born citizens who live Americanism in its pristine perfection and beauty.

But that Americanism which seeks nothing for itself that it does not readily grant its fellows is the true type, the safe type and the type which stills discords, respects authority and does not seek to make a fraud."

There were five tables of players, and the guests included the members of the T. N. T. and Seminole Bridge Club with a few extra guests.

The rooms where the card tables were placed were beautifully decorated with quantities of white oleanders in silver baskets.

This jolly party left the Sanford docks at four o'clock, and enjoyed a most delightful trip on the Lake, going to Wekiwa, where they enjoyed supper around a huge camp fire, returning home by moonlight.

The members of the Club are greatly indebted to Capt. Atkinson, for his kindness in entertaining the Club in such a delightful manner.

Mrs. Harry Heeren was hostess yesterday afternoon, entertaining in her usual charming and gracious manner, the members of the Merrie Matrons Bridge Club. There being two tables of players.

The hours passed quickly in the interesting game of bridge played, and the prize for high score, a pottery basket filled with sweet peas was won by Mrs. D. P. Drummond.

Following the awarding of the prize the hostess served tempting refreshments consisting of strawberry ice cream, angel food cake, salted almonds and coffee.

Substituting for an absent club member was Mrs. David Caldwell. The club members who enjoyed Mrs. Heeren's cordial hospitality were Mesdames R. J. Holly, D. P. Drummond, C. E. Henry, A. W. Fitts, H. B. Lewis, Fred Walsma and W. T. Langley.

The card game proved most interesting, and the prize, for high score silk lingerie, was won by Mrs. H. B. Lewis, while the cut prize, a dainty fan, was won by Mrs. George De Cottes.

O'NEAL UPHELD BY TRUSTEES OF ROLLINS COLLEGE

The trustees of Rollins college met yesterday and informed Hon. W. R. O'Neal, treasurer of the college, that if he resigned the resignation would not be accepted and that they had the utmost confidence in his integrity and ability to manage the financial affairs of the institution.

A committee of Winter Park citizens, Del Mason, Mrs. W. C. Temple, Mrs. C. H. Morse, Edward Keezel, Walter Schultz and Miss Peschman, was informed that a competent audit of the books had been made from year to year and by a public accountant in the last seven years. According to members of the board of trustees, this committee left the meeting satisfied that there had been a misunderstanding. In fact, it was asserted members of the committee were indignant at what was characterized as the unwarranted attack that had been made upon the present administration and declared that full publicity should be given the true state of affairs at the college.

Del Mason, a member of the committee, stated that he would take the matter up with the Men's Club of Winter Park and explain the question in full to its membership.

Mr. O'Neal, who returned earlier in the week from Chicago and Indianapolis where he had been on business in connection with Rollins has made no statement. Orlando Sentinel.

CHINESE SECRETLY LAND NEAR TAMPA

(By The Associated Press) TAMPA, April 25.—Federal and county officers throughout Florida were warned by local Government agents yesterday to watch out for twenty nine Chinese who were secretly landed near Tampa Saturday morning. All avenues of escape from the city have been under guard for the last thirty-six hours. Other officers have been notified as a precautionary measure to prevent the escape of the foreigners from Florida.

William Hood, captain of the auxiliary schooner Etta Mildred, and five members of the crew are under arrest, charged with smuggling the Chinese into this country from Cuba. They were arrested at a customs officers found signs on a vessel that indicated smuggling, according to authorities, have been referred to the charges.

NEW FREE BRIDGES IN DAYTONA

DAYTONA, April 27.—Plans for the proposed two new free bridges are made public on Monday evening at the first bridge will have two entrances on the Daytona side. One at Orange avenue and the other at Magenta avenue. These two ends will be in V shape to the channel and from that spot to Daytona Beach side there will be one bridge. Daytona already has four bridges and this will give the city the fifth bridge of that kind. If all are used to the public there will be no more for any one for remaining on the side of the river at all.

Lakeland Ad Club has recently initiated a Golden Rule sale day in Lakeland, and the newspapers of that city declare that it worked splendidly. The account of the first day's sales doesn't tell what the general rules and regulations are, but it is presumed that merchants were expected to offer bargains at cost, or near it, and the result was a regular volume of shipping and the turning of a lot of goods into cash. Any sort of a bargain day will bring the shoppers, and there are times when the merchants need to exchange goods for money.

"A boom in grove sales follows higher prices for oranges," says the Orlando Sentinel. "Valencias are doing well, with many growers holding out for seven and eight dollars a box. Real estate is active." The story goes on to say that great activity is noted in real estate in that section, and the demand for groves, big and little, is increasing. Orange grove property cannot be bought for a song any longer, and those owning young groves are appreciating the start obtained and will have to be well paid to give them up. The demand for oranges is better than it has ever been, and late varieties will not grow a nice sum.

"Half the desired number of acres to be planted in strawberries in this vicinity for the next season were picked at a meeting held here recently," says the Arcadia News. "The meeting was attended by about seventy-five persons, and considerable enthusiasm was shown for the chamber of commerce proposal to have a start made this year in the establishment of Arcadia as a berry and truck growing center." While the plan has been to secure, if possible, the promise of a hundred acres, the start will probably be followed up, and possibly others will come into the scheme. With a fair acreage planned, it will be easier to get buyers and have all other arrangements made for the shipment of large amounts of berries.

HELPED HER MOTHER WONDERFULLY

In these days of "flu," coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, it is well to know that every year there are used more bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar than of any other cough medicine. Mrs. S. L. Hunt, 515 W. 6th St., Cincinnati, Ohio, writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar relieved me of a hacking cough, tickling in the throat, wheezing and pains in the chest. It is helping my mother wonderfully." That's why druggists recommend Foley's. Sold everywhere.—Adv.
