INSTINCTIVE RECOGNITION OF HIS TRUTHS: For the Lord

cometh wisdom and understanding.
Proverbs 2:6.

STRAWBERRY MARK

From Florida Magazine of Verse
WAS it because it was a long summer, the season lived under the tree
From cocoon of bud to frayed
blossom,
With afterward the fruit slow in shaping,
Later, ripe-fallen on the ground?
With the child-best under my heart.

Mark Twain

Once upon a time, if the question were asked who was America's best beloved author, the answer would probably have been Longfellow. Nowadays the reply would probably be Samuel L. Clemens, much better known as Mark Twain, whose birthday will be celebrated on Nov. 30.

Double Darlin

Criminal prosecutions often make terms with one of the criminals. He turns state's evidence against his accomplices, and saves his own skin at their expense. It is regrettable, and no one admires the criminal who profits by it, but apparently it has to be done.

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (W of thousands of things—most of them small. For example, in a capital department store the other day a woman customer fumed and longed because the clerk refused to sell her a tube of toothpaste unless she turned in an old tube.

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 24.

merce has asked Dr. Ralph A.
Lester of the University of Florida to give a series of lectures on chemicals in the postwar period.

A Spending Spree

General spending is now surpassing that of the famous boom-and-bust year, 1929. Financial experts give surprising facts.
The amount of money circulating in this country is the greatest ever. The average citizen who thought he was very well off a year ago, with about $77 of loose money lying around, now has more than $105. Money in circulation has risen to an all-time record of $14,000,000,000.
People will spend about $52,000,000,000 this year for goods; instead of the $44,000,000,000 they spent in the famous boom-and-bust year of 1929.

Piano-Busting

You might not think that piano movers ever had a good time, but several dozen movers in an Ohio town have had the time of their lives.
It was piano-scraping day. Forty trucks were lent without charge, and the movers worked without pay. All day long they merrily wrestled with all kinds of pianos, big and little, heavy and light, sustained by the blissful assurance that it didn't matter how much damage they did.
In fact, the more damage, the better. For the instruments were meant for junk, and all that was required of them was their metal.

Navy Football Fans Hope To Shatter Army Jinx This Year

AP FEATURES
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24.—Navy football fans are hoping their Midshipmen can shatter an Army jinx this year that's been bounding them since the earliest days of the 43-year-old grid classic.

For the third time since 1918, Navy has a chance to lack up four straight Kaydet scalps when the series resumes here Nov. 28 and the Fallers are telling their followers they're going to do it.

After winning three straight between 1910-12, Navy lost 22 to 9 in 1913. Then between 1919-21, the Sailors measured the West Pointers three times hand-running again, only to lose on a field goal, 17 to 11, in '22.

During the last three years, Army hasn't had a look-in, and, in fact, its touchdown last year was the first the Greyhounds tallied since winning 14 to 7 in 1938. But another formidable West Point eleven is coming down here to tackle an unpredictable Sailor crew. And if Navy wants that fourth in a row, it'll have to get it the hard way.

For Army the "straight game" jinx never did mean much. The Kaydets twice have capped four in a row, 1901-04 and 1913-16.

And what Navy man can ever forget that troublesome 1922-34 era when the Sailors quailed for victory in 10 straight games with only ties in 1923 and 1926 breaking the monotony of Army triumphs?

Charlie Trippi Is Understudy For Sinkwich

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Features
ATLANTA, Nov. 24.—When all-America football honors are passed out this season, reserve a special place for Georgia's Charlie Trippi—let's the nation's All-America understudy.

Trippi, a six-foot, 180-pound slin of a lad from Pittston, Pa., came to Georgia billed as "another Frankie Sinkwich." As a freshman, he was terrific. In spring drills he outshone Frankie the Fireball—possibly because Georgia's All-America halfback was slowed by excess weight.

This fall, as Georgia plowed through opponent after opponent to gain top national ranking, he has been Frankie's alter ego. Frankie regularly starts at tailback, engineers a couple of touchdowns, and then retires while the Pittston trip-hammer disports himself.

What confounds his critics—and most of all his opponents—is that he's just as successful as he is. Even mournful Wally Hitts has decided it must be true.

And against Chattanooga he shifted Sinkwich to fullback and gave Trippi the starting berth at tailback. The punch of two triple threats in the same backfield was like putting two detonators on a single stick of dynamite. The explosion was heard all the way to south Georgia's Okefenokee Swamp.

BACK AT THE HELM - By Jack Sordis

Between them, Sinkwich and Trippi accumulated 277 yards rushing and 94 more by passing, pushing their joint ground and aerial total for the season to 2,919 yards.

Sinkwich has played an estimated 250 minutes of a possible 480. Trippi about the same. Except for the season's opener against Kentucky—when Trippi made a traditional sophomore debut in six minutes of nervous football and the bitterly-fought Alabama game, he has played as much or more than his All-American captain.

For effectiveness, there's hardly a pin to choose between them—but Frankie is the "money player" who wins 'em when the blue chips are down. Against Kentucky, with Georgia trailing, 0-6, in the last quarter, "Sinky" pitched and plunged 63 yards in nine plays to put across the tying score so specialist Leo Costa could boot the winning extra point.

In the Alabama game, it was Sinkwich again who did the job, completing nine out of 13 passes for two touchdowns with cancelled Hama's 10-0 lead.

Trippi hasn't had to deliver the goods under fire yet, and Wally hopes he won't be called on to do it, at least until next season.

As a yardage-gainer, he compares well to the man he understudies. Sinkwich has carried the ball 134 times for 792 yards; rushing; Trippi has carried 81 times for 552—an average of 5.9 yards per try for Sinkwich and 6.8 for Trippi.

On passes Sinkwich is credited with 67 completions out of 128 thrown, with a total of 1,123 yards. Trippi has found his target 23 times in 45 attempts for 452 yards. Sinky's punts average 36 yards, Trippi's 37.

Bowl Officials Can't Decide On Teams To Play

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Sherman was right when he made his famous statement—and you can take that from ex-asperated officials of the Rose, Sugar, Cotton, Orange and Sun Bowls.

With many teams storing their uniforms and most of the others facing their final game, these potentates of post-season pigskin parties still don't know to whom they should start making overtures. At this late date only two of the seven major conference races have been settled, the Western and the Missouri Valley, Ohio State, the Big 10 sing comes out of a clan that spurns New Year's parties. And for most of the invites, Tulsa, the Missouri champ, is considered small potatoes.

Which leaves these gentlemen in something of a lather hoping they are first on the scene Saturday evening when most of the "name" teams close up shop. Brother, believe me, it's going to be a mad-rush.

These gentlemen with the gilt-edged contracts and the ball-bearing fountain pens blame their predicament on the changing fortunes of a wacky wartime foot-

300,000 Nazis Hemmed In By Soviet Troops

German Losses Total 80,000 And New Red Assault Has Not Reached Peak

(By Associated Press)

Russia's armies have squeezed the German "escape corridor" from Stalingrad down to a bare 30 miles, engulfed 12 more towns and villages and boosted enemy losses to 80,000 in the violent seven-day-old offensive which the Nazis admitted had not yet reached its peak. It was reported today Moscow pictures of German soldiers estimated at 200,000 troops, as hemmed into a narrow passageway extending 120 miles westward from Stalingrad, with the Russians attacking furiously from each side.

In addition to 80,000 Nazis killed or captured, unofficial reports said about 120,000 were wounded.

The Red Army broke the three-month siege of Stalingrad yesterday, smashing into the city from the north and swept forward as much as 25 miles on a 200-mile front in a great offensive in which 77,000 Axis troops have been killed or captured, the high command announced earlier today.

Russian troops, forging deep into the big bend of the Don and shattering the flanks of the German wedge jutting into Stalingrad, captured a dozen towns and villages on the fifth day of their drive.

Our troops advancing north of Stalingrad, having occupied the inhabited localities of Tamliank, Anzovka and Matashanka on the bank of the Volga, joined hands with the troops defending the northern part of Stalingrad, a special high command communiqué said.

Thus Adolf Hitler's most ambitious and costly venture of the year was frustrated. At the same time the German offensive against the Soviet offensive gathered momentum like an avalanche.

The Russians slaughtered another 15,000 Germans yesterday, the special communiqué said, and took 12,000 more prisoners, running their toll to 41,000 killed and 16,000 captured in five days.

The high command's Tuesday midnight communiqué said the Russians were on the offensive in Stalingrad after being relieved by the "break-through" troops "advanced slowly," capturing several dozen dugouts and blockhouses.

On the southern outskirts of the city after an artillery and mortar barrage, the Soviet troops struck suddenly, seized a strategic height, and wiped out about three German battalions numbering possibly 3,000 men.

Far to the west, northwest and south of Stalingrad, the Russians were swarming through German positions, shattering, raiding, burning 74 miles west of Stalingrad in the heart of the Don bend, fell to Soviet forces which evidently had swung southeastward from rear-mounted positions.

On the opposite wing of the Stalingrad front, the Russians captured 1,000 prisoners and 17 miles from Tuzlovsk, taken a day earlier.

Jeffers Determined to Ration Entire Nation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23, (AP)—William M. Jeffers, director of the War Relocation Authority, said today he is determined to ration the entire nation.

Jeffers, who is expected to be named administrator of the War Relocation Authority, said today he is determined to ration the entire nation.

He said a house rationing committee will be set up in each city to control the distribution of rationing stamps.

Jeffers repeated the previous statement that a national rationing committee will be set up in each city to control the distribution of rationing stamps.

Finland Says She Will Still Pay War Debts

HELSINKI, Nov. 23, (AP)—The Finnish government today said it would continue to pay war debts to the United States.

The traditional American Thanksgiving Day of 1942 will be observed in all quarters of the United States fighting men get their turkey, stuffing, cranberry sauce and all the trimmings at their posts, no matter where they may be stationed. From barren Iceland to the verdant islands of the South Seas, the Army is seeing to it that American boys do not miss their annual feast.

Parachute Troops To Land Here On Tactical Problem

Parachute troops will land in this vicinity as part of tactical exercises between Nov. 28 and Dec. 1. Lt. Col. E. F. Luna, of the Army Air Force School in Orlando, advised today. Airports within a 20 to 30-mile radius of the Orlando Air Base will probably be used in the exercises part of which will consist of dropping parachute troops from transport planes during daylight hours.

Participants in the maneuvers are "friendly American soldiers" and civilians are requested to refrain from any activity or action which might cause injury to these troops and there is no cause for alarm among the county residents, Col. Luna explained.

Fighting Marine Recruiter To Be Here Nov. 26-27

ORLANDO, Nov. 23, (Special)—Hunting license on an open season will be issued to all men between the ages of 17-36 by Sgt. John Rosier, "U. S. Fighting Marines," at the Sanford Post Office on Nov. 26 and 27.

In addition to securing the license men will receive seven weeks of the finest military training and a complete course in how to use the Springfield and Grand rifle. Men completing the preliminary work will then be eligible for some 22 advanced specialties courses ranging from demolition to glider pilot training.

The first woman to wear the new uniform of the "SPARS" will be its director, Lt. Comdr. Dorothy B. Stevens, 62-year-old widow of a Navy aviator who was killed in action.

1621—THANKSGIVING—1942

The traditional American Thanksgiving Day of 1942 will be observed in all quarters of the United States fighting men get their turkey, stuffing, cranberry sauce and all the trimmings at their posts, no matter where they may be stationed. From barren Iceland to the verdant islands of the South Seas, the Army is seeing to it that American boys do not miss their annual feast.

Sanford Civilians Will Observe Tomorrow As Day Of Thanksgiving

President Roosevelt, Governor Holland and Mayor Hill have issued proclamations setting aside tomorrow as a day to celebrate with the thanksgiving and Sanford civilians will observe the holiday by attending church services and recreational activities arranged by local organizations.

Men in the armed forces, including the personnel of the Naval Air Station, will be allowed only a short time away from their regular duties to "get turkey and the trimmings" at noon and the Home Hospitality Committee for service men has arranged dinner invitations for sailors.

While the various churches will have special Thanksgiving services, the Thanksgiving services will be held at the First Baptist Church tomorrow at 10 A. M. and the Rev. Joe A. Tolle will deliver a sermon.

Both banks and the local stores will be closed and Mrs. Mae T. Holly, acting postmaster, stated that Thursday will be observed as a holiday and no services will be required of either the city or rural carriers. Post Office windows will be closed from street corners between 1:30 P. M. and 2:30 P. M.

The Herald will not publish an editorial on page two.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, a day of Thanksgiving has again been set aside by proclamation of the President of the United States and by the Governor of Florida whereby we, the people of a free nation and state may render thanks to our Creator for the blessings bestowed upon us, and

Whereas, the Pilgrim fathers of this country likewise set aside this day for giving thanks that their crops had been harvested and the light of freedom, liberty and justice had been permitted to be born anew on this continent, and

Whereas, the blessing of freedom has again been threatened by the evil forces of tyrants and dictators, and our liberties and existence challenged by their cowardly attacks, and

Whereas, that challenge has been and is being met by the spirit of an aroused people, and by the strength of their industrial might to provide the armaments of war for both our own brave soldiers and sailors and for our gallant allies, and

Whereas, nature still smiles upon us, and in the warmth of our Florida sunshine, bountiful crops grow, and men train for greater tasks ahead, giving assurance that these blessings will endure when the course of war has vanished;

Now, therefore, I, the Mayor of Sanford, do hereby call upon every man, woman and child to observe this 26th day of November as a day of Thanksgiving, that in due humility we may give thanks to God for the strength and courage which will carry us as a nation to an early victory.

"Too Much Money" Proves Downfall Of Negro Laborer

The "too much money" pay for a week at the Sanford Naval Air Base was the self-admitted cause for the downfall of a Negro laborer, Police Chief Roy G. Williams stated yesterday.

"Cruel Man," who according to Chief Williams spent his youth in reform school and most of the rest of his past in jail for a multitude of offenses, has during his many past jail terms, here, earned a very valuable and good natured worker around the jail house and his polishing of police cars has been unexcelled.

However, said Chief Williams, when "Cruel Man" is out of jail he just runs wild. He will have a chance to cool off a bit as the result of getting straight 30 days on each of three charges in City Court Monday evening drunkenness, disorderly conduct and assault against another Negro.

"Cruel man" in his cell yesterday failed to show any noticeable pang of remorse for his past, and blew music on his fist resembling a whole negro band. He modestly admitted having recently stolen (minus fare) on the Streamliner from here to Jacksonville, by lying face downward and clinging to a handle on the top of the car.

"I might have done gone clear my noth," said "Cruel Man," but I had to get off—it was too windy."

Economist Praises Price Control Bill

CHICAGO, Nov. 23, (AP)—The government's price control policy "reaches to the heart of the inflation problem and further substantial increases in prices can be avoided by the firm administration of existing laws," Dr. Harold G. Mullin, president of Brookings Institution, said today.

The noted economist said no predictions can be made regarding the administration of the laws, but asserted there appears to be sound reason for believing that price increases during the next 12 months will be very much less than for the case during the past year.

"Critical Phase" Reached In Battle For North Africa

Scout Executive Speaks To Civic Club At Meeting

Harold V. Pace, of Orlando Scout Executive, today told the Sanford Civic Club that the battle for North Africa has reached an "exceedingly critical phase." Capping this ominous statement, however, he declared the British First Army, strongly supported by United States troops, is making its way eastward over enormous distances at the utmost possible speed.

Other reports said the Germans, desperately seeking to hold the key North African state of Tunisia, had landed still more troops at the back door of their Berber-Tanis perimeter defenses and were throwing heavy reinforcements into the Tunisian front. British commandos maintained their presence on Rommel's retreating columns along the Tunisian coast between Algiers and El Agheira.

Had weather not restricted the fighting on land and in the air, the Axis might have been driven from Tunisia in a matter of days.

Mr. Pace told of how he and other scout executives from the four southeastern states formed part of an audience of at least 1000 representatives and leaders of scout groups of Atlantic coast states at a luncheon held at the Hotel Mayfair in London last August. He said that the British Boy Scout Association had a grip on the situation.

Each of these boys had a different story to tell. One told of the terrible phases of the war in the Pacific, another of the following of a scout group from the United States to the Philippines.

Another told of his own part in the war in Europe, and falling bombs during air raids and delivering special messages when telegraph and telephone lines were down and no one else could be reached. He said that his last words were "I got my scoutmaster's hat I got the message through."

The scout executive said that the boys have shown an extraordinary courage and bravery in the face of the most terrible conditions to be shown by boy scouts.
