COUNTY SOLON AIRS VIEWS ON FLY CAMPAIGN

Entminger Replies To Protests Concerning Proposed Inquiry Into State Plant Board

Representative C. W. Entminger today replied to protests which have been sent to him in connection with his proposed investigation of the State Plant Board. It was a sturdy defense of his position and a reiteration of his intention to do something that will bring the Plant Board's affairs into public scrutiny.

Mr. Entminger's message was addressed to John Meisch, chairman of the County Board, which held others in a protest, which an investigation would seriously hamper the work of the Plant Board in its efforts to exterminate the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Representative did not reveal specifically the nature of his complaints against the Plant Board but declared that "I am not in favor of destroying the people of any part of the state, but I am in favor of a more efficient and successful law enforcement and destruction of the property without due process of the law."

That there is some doubt in Mr. Entminger's mind as to whether the anti-fly campaign will be successful is seen in his statement that "my conclusion from Dr. Newell's statement this morning and the quarantine regulations now in force is that our country will be depopulated or starved to death and our property destroyed, with a question as to whether we will get rid of the fly or not."

"I have been listening to hear some word from our officials that would show some encouragement to a people whom I think deserve a little consideration but I have not up to this time heard anything."

"I expect to fight for our rights whether it be by opposing the appropriation or by opposing the investigation or by resolution in the House. If we are to be destroyed, root and branch, by our quarantine officials, either federal or state, without any consideration whatever, I do not see how any action that might take could possibly do any harm."

Time And Place Of Lindy's Wedding Is Definitely Settled

MEXICO CITY, May 9.—(INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne Spencer Morrow will be married at the Morrow summer home at North Haven, Me., and the wedding will take place early in June, it was authoritatively stated at the American Embassy today.

Mr. Lindbergh is expected to arrive in Mexico City on the 25th of this month, and the wedding will take place there soon after the Ambassador's arrival, it was said. There will be no secret marriage before the Ambassador arrives, according to Morrow, and the Ambassador himself will make an announcement to the press giving the date and place of the wedding. The other members of the Morrow family, now at Englewood, N. J., and Lindbergh are expected to precede the Ambassador to North Haven.

DIEGEL, HAGEN LEAD ENGLISH GOLF TOURNEY

Two U. S. Stars Burn Muirfield Course To Take First Place In British Open Match

MURFIELD, Scotland, May 9.—They had nothing up their sleeves but two pairs of good American arms and they strove to please the eye rather than to defeat it but Leo Diegel and Walter Hagen were none the less a couple of links magicians today as, with respective scores of 69 and 67, they spread the second round of the British open golf championship all over Muirfield's four landscapes. New magicians they were and more, for whereas the average stage trickster is content to pull the rabbit out of the hat, this pair went further. They pulled the birdie out of the hole.

Hagen's 67, an epic of purity in the matter of repressed control, lipped past by three strokes and bettered Perry Allis' course record of yesterday by two. It was one of the great rounds of all championship golf, a masterpiece of golf. But great as it was, all it got him was second place at the end of the day.

The leadership went to Diegel, whose 69 added to his 71 of the first round yesterday, gave him an aggregate of 140, two strokes beyond Hagen. Two strokes in luck of the sleek Walter came Abe Mitchell, of England, who produced another 72 today for a total of 144, while Allis supplemented his with a 76 to finish in fourth position at 145.

Their efforts alone saved England from the ignominy of an utter rout, for seven of the first 10 finishers were Americans.

They were Diegel, Hagen, Bobby Cruickshank with a 73 for 143; Johnny Farrell with a 75 for 142; Johnnie Walker with a 76 for 141; Gene Sarazen with a 74 for the same total; Tommy Armour with a 73 for 140 and Bill Mitchell, whose 74 got him a total of 148 and a tie with Armour and Aubrey Hooper, of England.

The remaining Americans finished with the following totals: MacDonald Smith and Jim Barnes, 151; Al Espinosa, Al Watrous, Ed Dudley, Joe Turnesa and Horton Smith, 152; Jimmy Thompson, 156; and George Von Elm, 157.

As it was decided that 64 players were to remain in the championship at scores up to and including 157, all of the 17 Americans remaining in the event for its two final rounds tomorrow, morning and afternoon.

The machine was invented by F. W. Mullenburg, a Gadsden, Ala., planter nine years ago. He got his idea by watching a brown cow "wipe" the cotton from the boll with its tongue in its search for the tiny cotton seed.

The American Cotton Picker Corporation is backed by a large group of eastern capitalists, Cole said. It has the endorsement of the American Cotton Growers Exchange, he explained, saying that A. V. Hoyer, president of the exchange, is one of the board of directors of the corporation.

The headquarters of the corporation will be in New York, he said. The plant in Memphis, Tenn., is the main distributing depot in Dallas. Other distributing depots are planned for Memphis, Harpers, Mo.; St. Louis, Mo.; mechanical engineer, perfecting the machine in its present shape.

The company expects an output of 20,000 machines in 1930, with deliveries beginning the first of the present August, Cole said.

Mr. Taylor to a florist shop where his niece Mrs. Maude Baker, whom Mr. Hamilton knew, "was not at home when called."

That was the first part of the family reunion to be followed later by a reunion with the late man's sister, Mrs. D. T. Vaughan, 360 Clifton Road, who sat up all last night talking with her brother.

So today Taylor went to Conyers to visit old friends at the scene of his boyhood and to visit the graves of his parents who died several years ago.

"I tried many years ago to get in touch with my people but I was returned from Conyers and I didn't know they had moved to Atlanta," he said.

Recognition between the men was mutual and the affair quiet.

Sinclair Pursues His Pill Rolling Behind Jail Doors Barring News Reporters

WASHINGTON, May 9.—For his gag rule been imposed upon Major Wm L. Peak, superintendent of the jail. He has been forbidden to admit even that Sinclair is in the jail. The unusual secrecy has given rise to many rumors.

George S. Wilson, who enjoys the title of director of public welfare in the district, is the official who has given jail officials the order to keep the matter quiet.

The bustling director of public welfare gave as his reason for the orders today that a score of reporters had been barred from the jail, and to permit no reporters to come within gunshot of the place. He has been a minor official in the district government for a number of years, connected with various charitable and reform activities.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 9.—Old King cotton, whose harvesting methods for years have related the ways of modern science, has at last bowed to the mechanical era.

Philip S. Cole of San Francisco, executive vice-president of the American Cotton Picker Corporation, today announced the perfection and production of the American cotton picker. He terms it the first practical cotton picking machine ever manufactured.

The announcement was made at a dinner given by C. W. Ward, president of the Moon Motor Car Company, which has contracted to build the cotton pickers.

The American cotton picker, which weighs about 300 pounds, is about the size of a motorcycle, contains a three-fourths-horsepower gasoline engine, and is operated by two pickers, and is capable of harvesting 700 pounds of cotton a day, Cole explained.

The machine was invented by F. W. Mullenburg, a Gadsden, Ala., planter nine years ago. He got his idea by watching a brown cow "wipe" the cotton from the boll with its tongue in its search for the tiny cotton seed.

Spanish War Veteran Is United with His Family After Absence Of 30 Years

ATLANTA, May 9.—(INS)—After 30 years absence in which he fought in the Spanish-American War, pioneered in the West and saw the world, J. W. Taylor, believed by his family to have been killed on San Juan Hill, is reunited with his relatives today.

Arriving yesterday at the Union Station, Taylor, who left his home in Conyers 30 years ago at the age of 23, could not believe that he was in Atlanta. Approaching policeman Clarence Hamilton, a veteran, he inquired: "Can this really be Atlanta?"

CHANGES WILL BE INSTITUTED IN U. S. PRISONS

New Head Of Federal Penitentiaries Will Seek Through Over- hauling Of System

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A complete overhauling of the government's prison system will follow the induction in office June 1 of Sanford Bates of Massachusetts, widely known penal expert, appointed superintendent of federal prisons, it was learned today.

While Attorney General Mitchell declined to disclose any of the tentative plans, he said that full responsibility for putting the prisons in order would fall on Bates. Mitchell declared that he considered Bates one of the most capable men in the country as a prison director.

Mitchell said that he probably would permit the post of warden at Atlanta prison to remain an office until Bates had time to consider the changes for necessary to John Snook, relieved from duty about a month ago.

Bates also will be called upon to determine whether the under-coverage system of investigating prison conditions will continue. Snook, called Department of Justice official in the prisons and these officials were partially responsible for his dismissal from office.

Some officials said that there must be a method of investigating federal prisons with conditions frequently also requiring use of secret agents.

Mitchell said frankly that he had not studied the technical job of administration of prisons sufficiently to know what would be done. "That was the reason for bringing Bates in—he is a penal expert and will be able to solve these questions," Mitchell declared.

Other officials pointed out that policemen in uniforms and brass buttons cannot be taken into prisons and obtain the information necessary to sound administration. From that it was assumed that the new investigating system would be set up by the new superintendent of prisons that could not be different from the undercover method which has aroused criticism was brought about by the committing of undercover men to penitentiaries under the guise of prisoners.

Whether personnel changes in the other prisons will take place was not disclosed.

Funds Being Raised To Punish Agents Who Killed Youth

ABINGDON, Va., May 9.—(INS)—A public fund was being raised here today to prosecute three state officers who Monday night shot and killed J. W. Kendrick, 17-year-old college student, on suspicion that the car in which he was riding contained funds for the strike. Congress had been released on $5,000 bond.

Kendrick died yesterday in a hospital at Bluefield, W. Va. Just across the state line, two companions, also students at Emory and Henry College, were injured in the shooting. The students were enroute to Bristol, Tenn.

The officers, policeman James McRaynolds, and Deputy Sheriff James Crowe and J. P. Worley, claim the students' car did not stop when halted. The shots, they said, were fired at the tires. Sterling Dutton, driver of the car, denied this, asserting he received no orders to "stop."

The dead youth made his home with an uncle, E. M. Kendrick, a wealthy farmer, who declared he would "spend every cent I have to prosecute the murderers of this boy."

No liquor was found in the students' car.

SHOOTING OF BOY BY FEDERAL MEN STIRS CONGRESS

Solons Disapprove Of Ruthless Killing Of Youthful Collegian

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(INS)—The fatal shooting of J. W. Kendrick, 17-year-old college boy, by Virginia sheriff, because they "suspected" his automobile might contain liquor, caused another stir in Congress today.

Senator Copeland (D) of New York characterized the shooting as a crime little short of murder. "How long, oh, how long will the American people tolerate the bloodshed caused by lawless underlings in the campaign for enforcement of an unenforceable law?" he asked.

"This affair was an outrageous invasion of private rights by unrestrained officials. If the process of liquor were inherently a crime there would be some excuse for the use of pistols other than in self-defense. Since it is a crime, merely by legislative enactment public sentiment will never endorse such assaults as these."

"It is time that people began to understand the psychology which is behind this wave of prohibition murders" throughout the country," said Rep. La Guardia, (D) of New York.

"Police and dry enforcement officers are making big graft money out of prohibition. They can't shoot or arrest the people from whom they are getting protection money. So they must initiate date others. You don't hear of bootleggers who pilot trucks along the highways being killed."

Rep. Cliney, (R) of Michigan, declared that he would fight to have every officer who kills in the enforcement of prohibition prosecuted for murder.

"I did this in Detroit," he said. "There had been a shooting spree in the city. Congress had a law enforcement into Detroit."

"This is another piece of news which is a piece of prohibition," said Rep. Shaffer, (D) of Wisconsin. "Even the most ardent prohibitionist must begin to realize that he and his family are not safe on the public highways."

Senate Passes bill Providing $500,000 To Fight Fruit Fly

TALLAHASSEE, May 9.—(INS)—The Senate yesterday passed the $500,000 King-Panish Government relief to be used to help exterminate the Mediterranean fruit fly. Carrying the largest appropriation so far in the 1929 session, the measure was passed during steady progress through the Senate's general calendar.

The senators also approved the direct use of voting machines in recent elections of the state. Received as new business another zoning bill and a proposed constitutional amendment aimed at the racing measures already in the legislature, which sought to prohibit gambling in any form in the state.

Among other pieces of general legislation adopted was a bill to revoke for one year the license of persons convicted of driving while drunk, a measure requiring school to stop upon approaching school houses halted to receive or discharge passengers, and a bill seeking $25,000 appropriation to conduct experiments on watermelon diseases.

For furthering the fruit fly campaign was made a special order of business following unanimous approval of the measure by the Senate committee on agriculture. Original provision was made for $250,000, but adoption of an amendment by Senator King, Orlando, one of the sponsors of the bill, raised the fund to the half million figure.

The emergency bill also was reported favorably by the house committee on citrus fruits to-night.

Local followers of Jack Walton, who are shining up their rods and reels preparatory to engaging in their favorite sport as soon as the present closed season has ended, must wait until May 16 to begin their fishing, according to a warning received by Sheriff J. P. McClelland from C. C. Woodward, state game commissioner.

Many local sportsmen are said to have gained an impression that they could begin fishing on May 15, but the Commissioner calls attention to the fact that the closed season includes that date.

Commissioner Woodward also wrote to spike rumors to the effect that the legislature has passed an act abolishing the closed season on fresh water fishing. "This is incorrect," he wrote, "and it is not probable that any such act will be passed and become effective before May 16."

Regarding Beensee, the official said: "There is no license required for a resident of the state to fish in the county in which he has legal residence. Residents are required to have a license to fish in the counties other than the county of their legal residence. For non-residents of the state there are two licenses provided, one a county license which permits non-residents to fish in the state at large."

17 PERSONS WILL UNDERGO TRIAL FOR CANNIBALISM

Czecho-Slovakian Ma- raders Are Unique In Modern Existence

FRAGILE, Czecho-Slovakia, May 9.—(INS)—Echoes of man's barbarous past will be heard at Kasehau soon when 17 men and two women go on trial for their charges of cannibalism.

The trial, which is to start on May 22, will be unique in European civilization. The documents of the prosecution, containing accounts of horror unparalleled in modern history.

The defendants, members of a Gipsy band, are accused of having terrorized for years the whole Moldavia region where they had their headquarters. Large troops of men would break forth from their camp and murder indiscriminately all who got in their way, the state charges.

According to the prosecution men, women and even children fell victims of the band, a murder being committed at times for only a basket of eggs or a few Czecho crowns. The gruesome part of the state's accusation followed.

According to these allegations, the Gipsy women would dress the bodies of the victims into the camp, dismember them, put pieces of them in a cannibalistic stew. How many of the victims were actually eaten will never be known.

Many of the victims were murderers working along the Hungric-Czecho-Slovakian frontier whose disappearance was rarely noted. The investigators traced 12 cases, although the prosecution is based upon six alleged murders, proof of which is believed to be conclusive.

Since modern law does not recognize the crime of cannibalism the technical charge against the defendants is murder. The defendants confessed repeatedly and then withdrew their confessions. Consequently many terrible scenes of their existence will never be heard of.

One of the most remarkable things about the prisoners is their youth, the youngest is 19, the oldest 29.

With Her Morality Doubted, Woman Sues Gotham Hotel

NEW YORK, May 9.—(INS)—A girl immoral just because her doctor is in her room with her at 11:30 in the evening?

That's what Mrs. Florent Bassett Stanley—a Mack Bennett-bathing beauty—indignantly inquires in a suit for $25,000 damages against the Hotel Harrgrave, instituted today. Mrs. Stanley comes from a southern family of beauty winners. Her sister, Pearl Bassett, was crowned Miss Atlanta.

On Apr. 30, Mrs. Stanley, who recently received a settlement of $50,000 to release her attachment of the heart for Jerome Stanley, Wall Street broker, slipped on the top step in the Bunded Auto Credit Corporation and tumbled to the bottom. She was taken unconscious to the Harrgrave, where she resided.

She called Dr. M. L. Trace, chiropractor, and while he was attending her injuries, in a room at the hotel manager. "You can't have a man in your room in this hotel!" shouted the manager.

Dr. Trace tried to explain, but the manager couldn't be convinced. A few minutes later, the Harrgrave management sent up Mrs. Stanley's bill with a request that she leave. The charges for medical were impounded against her.

Musical Programs Given At Kiwanis Weekly Luncheon

The program was opened with a quartet selection, "A Medley of Old Favorites," rendered by Mrs. Glenn, Mrs. Pippin, Mr. Rucker and Mr. Blincooper. The group sang as an encore, "Drink To Me Only With This Eye."

Mrs. Glenn and Mr. Blincooper sang "I Love a Little Cottage," and "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia." The "Venetian Boat Song" was rendered by Mrs. Colclough and Mrs. Phillips. The program concluded with "O Dear, What Can the Matter Be," sung by a quartet composed of Mesdames Colclough, Pippin, Glenn and Phillips.

Other visitors besides the entertainers included J. Putnam Lewis, honorary member of the club, and R. H. Bullen, who was voted in as a new member.

JONES MAKES DEBUT

MACON, Ga., May 9.—(INS)—Robert T. Jones, better known as Bobby Jones, had made his debut as a federal court attorney after having been admitted to practice in the United States court today.

Mr. Jones is a native of Georgia and was educated at the University of Georgia. He has been practicing law in Macon for several years.

He is a member of the Georgia Bar Association and the Macon Bar Association. He is also a member of the United States Bar Association.

Boxing Game Has Lost Its Former Tough Hitters Who Scored Through Knockouts

NEW YORK, May 8.—(INS)—The time one of these Professional Old Timers wants to tell you that boxing isn't as tough as it used to be, just reach right over and—well, just reach right over and shake hands on it, because he has you licked. Boxing, in comparison with that of the hard-balled school, is about as tough as a female impersonator with the professor, Mr. W. H. Hudson, says this isn't so, I expect he's talking merely to hear his teeth rattle.

The proof? Easy! You answer that question by asking one that can't be answered, to wit—What happened during the last few years of go, has won his title by a knockout? ... Greene-McCormack ... This is the only means by which a fighter's greatness was measured in the bad, bold days, no longer is necessary in the passage of a title from brow to brow. They dice deftly, they rattle each other's eyebrows, they flicking lefts, they wrestle, they embrace, they grin. But the punch that vital punch that sothes and crosses the victim into aylvan slumber! Where is it today? Quite so, it isn't.

You have to go back to the Dempsey of 1919 to 1923 for a heavyweight who was capable of winning and holding the title in the good, old-fashioned way. The rest of them couldn't knock your feet off a deck. The recent succession of light heavyweight champions, Loughran, Delany, Blalock, and others, have not held the title and defended it without, so far as I know, inducing anybody in particular to look the axminster. Loughran was down twice with Lomski but got up. Blalock, Corsock the perpendicular with Delany but was sent on to win the next time out. Delany won without the slightest evidence of vulgarity by either party; McTigue simply outstepped Siki for twenty rounds. Therefore, you have to go all the way back to Siki's knockout of Carpenter to get anything really decisive in this class.

In Other Classes
The same thing applies to the championship activities of our middleweight and welterweight title holders of the decade. Walker, Flowers, Greb and Wilson came into the middleweight title via official decisions. So did Dundee, Laro, Walker and Hamilton in the class immediately below.

Fifty Years Ago
No boxing isn't what it used to be and the funny thing about that is it never was. Fifty years ago, it wasn't what it used to be. They were beginning to get away from the bare knuckle idea at that time and old timers felt that the race was softening. Twenty years later, the final fight—so called because it always meant somebody's was a thing of the past.

ENGLISH WOMAN SEEKS TO BREAK U.S. SPEED MARK

Plans To Launch Fastest Speedboat Ever To Be Constructed

LONDON, May 8.—(INS)—Built at a cost of $100,000, what is claimed to be the fastest speedboat the world has yet seen will be launched within the next few weeks at Cowes, Isle of Wight, by Miss M. B. Carstairs, wealthy Englishwoman.

It is Miss Carstairs' intention to race the craft herself on Lake Michigan in September in a second attempt to sweep the Harmsworth and International Motor Boat Trophy from the American holders. The boat has motors capable of generating three thousand horsepower, and is reported to have a theoretical maximum speed of 140 miles an hour.

guaranteed to design a boat that will travel at well over 100 miles an hour.

Miss Carstairs accepted the proposition, and a design was made. The hull of the boat is understood to be 39 feet in length, with a beam of 9 feet, three of the latest Napier engines of maximum power of 3,000 horsepower are being fitted in line, running most of the length of the boat, and the drive will be taken through a gearbox to two shafts and propellers.

Peculiar Rudder
In shape, the hull is like a high-powered naval gun shell with an exaggerated curve towards the stern-like bow, and tapering off at its lines to the stern. It has a one-step hydroplane bottom. There is said not to be a nail of any kind in the hull, which would be too fragile to support the weight of the engines.

The outer hull is of mahogany inside this is a special water-proofed skin, and then another layer of this substance is applied. A tough alloy given a flexibility of hull hitherto unheard of, it is claimed.

The boat is reported to have an "enormous and peculiar rudder."

Maranville Has Disproved Theory That Ball Players Can Never Make Comeback

By Davis J. Walsh (International News Service) (Sports Editor.) NEW YORK, May 8.—

The champ who said "they never come back" undoubtedly was a smart cly feller and a big help to his dependent nephews but the crack he made simply doesn't go today, unless he was talking about shirts from the laundry. In any case, by no stretching of the most elastic imagination could he have been referring to Mr. Maranville, the venerable rabbit, who is doing a job of shortstopping for the Boston Braves in a manner most penny-wise and boy, that led him to be in and out of the National League for 17 seasons and no doubt the strain is beginning to tell on him. Almost any day now he is liable to break right down and make an error.

He finished his twelfth game yesterday without the semblance of a misce, which means that he hasn't licked one away since the 1928 season ended. A young fellow like that ought to be encouraged; he's kind of promising. That, as a matter of fact, was Maranville's trouble in the old, swashbuckling days. He was always promising somebody, mostly his manager. The best shortstop in the league at the time, he was permitted to escape from Boston and Pittsburgh. The Chicago Cubs then took up the white man's burden and even went so far as to name the rabbit manager of the club. He should have been good at that. He had had a lot of experience trying to usange himself.

We will pass quickly and humanely to the next scene which was laid in Brooklyn. The rabbit tried to get by there and was through in a couple of years. Usually when you are through in Brooklyn, life is just beginning for you in Council Bluffs, Anyhow, nobody ever expected to see Maranville in the Major Leagues again, including the gentleman himself. But the moral is that he turned to uplift and the finer things of life in Rochester and won his way to fame and fortune.

He came back with the cardinals last year. He helped to hustle them into the pennant and now he's putting life into the surprising Braves, to whom all things are possible. He has been in and out of the National League for 17 seasons and no doubt the strain is beginning to tell on him. Almost any day now he is liable to break right down and make an error.

They never come back? It would be just too bad for the St. Louis Browns if they had to abide by a decision like that. Sam Gray, for example, either has come back or he is desiring an awful lot of people. As I understand it, the Athlete made the Gray trade a couple of years ago mostly to get a man who was satisfied or to satisfy the man they got. Anyhow, the deal gave Bing Miller, who was selling automobiles in Philadelphia during the off season, a chance to be near his work or something.

HORNBY MAY BE UNPOPULAR WITH CHICAGO OUTFIT

Rumors Of Inside Disturbances Already Are Being Reported

By COPELAND C. BURG (International News Service Staff Correspondent.) CHICAGO, May 8.—

Walter Hornby, a permanent fixture with the Chicago Cubs, may have been heralded as the emerald of the National League. But the rumors of "inside" trouble at the Cubs' clubhouses have been ailing.

Some Jealousy
Keen jealousy for the Texan is laid by some of the old Cub stars whose gloved hands once acknowledged the homage of Wrigley Field's denizens that is now going to Hornby. It is even related that McCarthy has been instructed to report to Owner Wrigley immediately at the first serious outbreak of trouble among the Cubs so that preventative steps may be quickly taken.

These rumors follow on those freely circulated last season, when it was charged internal dissension was disrupting the team. Last year the coming of Kiki Cuyler from Pittsburgh was held as the basis for the song of hate hummed by some of the old-time Bruins.

Newspapers have been blamed this season for creating most of the "green-eyed fever" under the clubhouse flying the flag of the House of Wrigley.

On opening day some of the 1928 stars of the Bruins were said to

Football Mentor To Place Numbers In Front And Back

EVANSTON, May 8.—(INS)

Football fans and sports writers may heap blame on the football field for the "Batter-Up" and called it a day for its "open art."

Mr. Hanley is going to have his front of their sweaters as well as on the back. The numbers, fore and aft, will each be twenty inches high and in brilliant color. The Purple leader believes this innovat on will be warmly welcomed by fans and especially by football writers and radio announcers who must follow the game for the stay at home.

Officials also will be benefited. "In the past it has been impossible to determine who has been carrying the ball when the player is running toward the stands. Frequently the player is tackled and takes his position back in formation before the fans and often even the officials are able to get a glimpse of the number on the back."

Some students of the game contend the double numbers will prove confusing and that the single number on the back is a more effective plan of marking the men. It is contended that the marking system will result in a mass of numbers from which it would be difficult to identify the players.

115 B & O MEN TEST 4 LEADING CIGARETTES

"Why should I change?" says the average smoker, when someone suggests another cigarette.
"I'm used to my brand... and it's a good smoke."
Of course it's good. Not even Old Man Habit can hold a smoker to a poor smoke. But being used to an old thing often keeps a man from getting acquainted with a better one. That's the reason for these "concealed name" cigarette tests now going on all over the country. To give a man a chance to find out, on the level, which cigarette his taste really does like best.

Look what happened at the Mt. Clare shops of the B & O in Baltimore, the other day. Most of the fellows there had been smoking that old favorite (let's call it Brand Y) for years. But when Chairman of Machinists, James E. Poulton, handed out the four leading cigarettes with paper "masks" over the names, 57 out of 115 picked OLD GOLD as the best cigarette. It was a walkaway for OLD GOLD!

"That only proves," said a chief mechanic, "that a fellow misses a lot if he gets too set in his ways."

A Good Beginning

The movement to inaugurate an advertising campaign to increase the demand for celery, thereby assuring a higher price for the product, was launched Tuesday night with every indication that it will prove a success. So enthusiastic were those who attended the meeting in the courthouse and so convinced were they of the wisdom of broadcasting their message over the country that growers, representing twenty per cent of the celery acreage in Sanford, voluntarily signed contracts which provide for the raising of approximately $100,000 for advertising purposes.

This demonstration of faith in the plan as outlined to the gathering followed speeches by men eminently qualified to discuss the advantages of advertising and by local persons who have taken the lead, in the face of little encouragement, to do for celery what California growers have done for their products, namely its identification in the minds of the public as an indispensable food factor. To those men who early saw the light and who have been relentless in their efforts to awaken the farmers to the fact that no business can be a success without publicity, should go the unflinching praise of Seminole County's citizenry, whose prosperity is contingent upon that of its growers.

In view of the auspicious start given to the campaign for enlisting the support of our celery raisers, failure to sign up farmers representing eighty per cent of the total acreage in the three principal celery districts of the state, seems impossible. Surely if the twenty per cent mark can be obtained without solicitation, the goal of eighty per cent, which will be necessary for the success of the campaign.

It takes little imagination to visualize the far-reaching benefits which will accrue to this section when the American housewife is taught that no dinner is complete without the salubrious presence of delectable sprigs of celery.

Hoover Not Shackled

In the selection of Charles Evans Hughes Jr. to be solicitor-general, President Hoover has again confounded the politicians at Washington. Young Hughes' name had not been among those mentioned as possibilities and his appointment has left many of the party leaders completely non-plussed, wondering what has happened and what is going to take place next. None has been so forward as to say that the appointee isn't capable, but he has taken little or no interest in national affairs and contributed nothing in a big way to the party, and these things, the leaders believe, are essential qualifications for a man who aspires to recognition in the matter of presidential favors. Be that as it may, Mr. Hughes is to be the next solicitor-general, succeeding Attorney-General Mitchell.

This is not the first time the President has gone contrary to the wishes of the professional leaders. His short stay in the White House has resulted in a succession of precedent-scattering acts. Mr. Hoover has clearly demonstrated that he is doing his own thinking, and that while he desires to follow the wishes of his advisers as far as practical, he feels in no way bound by their dictates, especially if he thinks they are trying to reward favors instead of merit. The President first incurred the disfavor of administration heads when he cast party lines aside to tender the portfolio of attorney-general to Mr. Mitchell, a Democrat who had successfully filled the post to which Mr. Hughes has been named. Mr. Mitchell was a man from the ranks and his brilliant record, Mr. Hoover felt, entitled him to promotion. These evidences of the Hoover independence in thought and action are serving to instill more reliance in the administration and are drawing praise from the nation, which recognizes in them an unmetakable effort to divorce the presidency from the selfish influence of party politics and an effort to restore that office to the exaltedness with which it should be surrounded. Mr. Hoover's attitude may be regarded with suspicion by many but by the vast majority it is looked upon with favor, and with an increasing measure of confidence. It may mean political suicide for the President to continue his ways but he cares little for that when the people have been served honestly and efficiently.

MERGERS

Domestic Commerce, lauded by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the United States department of commerce, tells us that a preliminary statement has been issued by the finding relative to mergers in the study of industrial tendencies undertaken by the national bureau of economic research for the committee on recent economic changes, a continuation of the president's unemployment conference. A steady increase in the number of mergers was found, the tendency towards mergers appearing to be most active in times of prosperity and to show a marked decline during depression. The public utilities are reported to have been most conspicuous in consolidation activities in recent years. The iron, steel and machinery group is reported to have accounted for about one-fifth of all mergers in mining and manufacturing since 1919. The oil group, greatly in evidence in 1928, has since jettisoned out of the picture while there has been a steady increase in the foodstuffs group. It was found difficult to secure information on vertical integration, or the effort of some large companies to reach back to the source of raw materials and to carry these through the various processes up to the finished product. This tendency is reported particularly marked in the case of the motion picture industry. The estimate is made that perhaps 5,000 of the 20,000 motion picture theaters of the country in 1928 were owned or operated by large producers and distributors. The number of mergers recorded grew from 89 in 1919 to 207 in 1927; while the number of concerns merged were 292 in 1919 and 678 in 1927. During the same period the net number of concerns disappearing was reported to be 438 in 1919 and 870 in 1927, a total of 4,953 for the nine years. Figures for 1928, grouped according to capitalization, showed that 98 out of 304 companies merged or purchased had a capital of $1,000,000 or over, the capital of two of these being more than $100,000,000. Mergers in former years were chiefly for relieving, but those effected in 1928 and contemplated for 1929 have been undertaken rather as a means of overcoming competition and of facilitating necessary research as to products and markets, cheaper and more efficient production being reported a secondary motive.

HOW TO STOP WARS

It is almost certain that the issue of war or peace between two great civilized nations no longer depends upon the word of one man if it ever did. But William C. Redfield, if correctly quoted, flatly stated the other day that William Jennings Bryan in 1913 prevented war between the United States and Japan by a well-turned phrase. Mr. Redfield, who was secretary of commerce in the cabinet of which Mr. Bryan was the head, told of a call paid to the secretary of the state by the Japanese ambassador, who made some proposal, that he would not agree to. Then, the story goes on, the ambassador, very much aroused, took up his hat to leave the room and Mr. Bryan walked with him to the door. "Mr. Secretary, is this final?" the ambassador said. If Mr. Bryan had said "yes," it would have meant war. But the secretary of the state, with his gentle spirit and winsome personality, said: "Nothing is ever final between friends." This softened the ambassador. He came back and sat down, and Mr. Bryan, with his kindness and tact, was able to work out a solution and avert war. The story is plausible enough. But the implication that was even in 1913, was so easy to start or stop is a considerable strain on the credulity. "If Mr. Bryan had said 'Yes,' it would have meant war. That is a big beyond belief. And this is the assertion that Mr. Bryan has said the wrong one.

Strange as it may seem, Harry Sinclair in jail is more popular than he ever was out of it. Sympathy is a beautiful quality but it is the curse of the American people in matters of law enforcement. Un-American, particularly when they sit on juries, learn the difference between pity and forgiveness. These will not be much good of importance in this country's progress of justice. It is one thing to be sorry for a wrong-doer facing just punishment. It is another and vicious thing to let that commission pass.

If Owen D. And the quality will have been increased considerably more.

The beautiful and wise Ivy Cough Johnson of the Leesburg Commercial suggests that this year's election should be for boys. Aren't we all?

The most interesting recent proposal against the fly is the use of poison gas.

The son of Charles Evans Hughes has been appointed solicitor general of the United States by President Hoover and is apparently well qualified for the important post. Hardly do sons of great men achieve an equal greatness for themselves but America has many present and past instances of men whose distinguished fathers have not stopped them from becoming able and useful citizens this side of greatness.

"If wars are so easy to prevent, the world, with its League of Nations, its permanent court of international justice, its Kellogg pact and all the other agencies set up during the last decade, need not, it would seem, fear an outbreak of conflict. But if so much depends upon a word uttered by the secretary of the state, it is rather disturbing to think that even Mr. Bryan might have said the wrong one.

AUGUST HECKSCHER IS GENEROUS

Advertisement made in New York recently as a gift of a new fund of $4,000,000 to expand the work of the Heckschers Foundation for Children by the establishment of day nurseries, dental clinics and playgrounds in the congested areas of Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx. There will also be established a summer camp near New York, the additional donation having been offered upon by August Heckschers very recently. Mr. Heckschers, who is well known the country over and a great friend of Florida, where he spends considerable time each winter, has indicated that the new fund is to carry the service of the Heckschers Foundation to the children. He has been studying the housing problems in New York for some time, and finds that the solution is yet some ways off. But he also finds that it was possible for him to do something helpful for children and for over-burdened mothers.

The New York Herald-Tribune, telling of the splendid gift made to aid mothers and the little folks of the city, quotes the benefactor as saying that next to decent homes for the under-privileged the "crying needs in this anti-hoop dental clinics, playgrounds, and the like are so modest, but locally available for the smaller children," and summer camps. Six units containing some or all of these features are to be established as soon as the localities in greatest need are determined and adequate sites can be secured. An amendment to the foundation's charter, widening the scope of its activities, was passed at the last session of the legislature. For the present the income of the fund will be used to purchase sites and build

HOW?

Florida at the present time, according to Mr. Dawe, are:

1. How to meet heavy obligations in the face of declining valuations and declining percentages of collections;
2. How to secure a more equitable distribution of the tax burden upon all classes of property;
3. How to overcome the failure of property owners to make tax returns;
4. How to bring about closer collections;
5. How to bring reverted acreage back to the tax roll without doing injury to those who have been paying their taxes;
6. How to make the whole governmental machinery more efficient.

Erbe answers, "How?"
Adopt on the Carter tax plan whereby the users of the roads would pay the road and school debts and maintenance, by an additional automobile tax and by imposing of the gas-line tax may help to ease burdens. Economy in government may do its share. Proper check on county and city collections and expenditures will help. Development of a better morale upon taxpayers, so that generally depressed conditions are not made the excuse for tax-dodging, will contribute its bit.

THE SKIRT QUESTION

The action of the girl society of Heckschers, who have decided that, while the rule providing for skirts only fifteen inches above the ground is a good one, some discretion will be exercised in the case of skirts that have shrunk through washing, appears to us in the opinion of the writer of this article, a problem of how long skirts will be. As it will know, the trouble arises from this: Whereas women prefer their skirts short for comfort, coolness and style, the textile manufacturers prefer them long, so they will require more. Thus there is a continual strife. But why not apply the principle now put in effect at Heckschers and not everything right? That is to say, why not let the textile manufacturers have their way as to the original length of skirts, and bringing the hem down to the ankle if need be, and thereby in-

KISSING

Opinions on kissing differ. First the health experts warned us against it as a promulgator of colds and more serious illnesses. Now science tells us that kissing is an exercise that makes for health by speeding up sluggish hearts and increasing the circulation of the blood, and recently a group of chorus girls took part in a self-titled kissing test which showed that the stimulus of kissing created a real good response from a health standpoint. We are waiting for the doctor to begin prescribing kisses, and for men and women to walk about with special doctor's certificates entitling them to spoon in public for the sake of health. Men who haven't done so far years will begin kissing their wives with great ardor, and differences that will make in matrimony, and the entire field of domestic relations! And then perhaps kissing will be made compulsory in the interests of science and health. What we are afraid of is that once this happens people will begin to kiss strangers in the honored game of "cavalry."

THE REAL "COLLEGIATE"

The "collegiate" young man logged in a coonskin coat and distinguished otherwise by sloechny attire, roasting habits and a fearful conceit, has been accepted in the college sections and in the standard type of American college student. Some students at college are like that, of course. But most people have always known that the rowdy "collegiate" is not really representative of the campus at all, and now comes Henry Gratian Doyle, dean of men at George Washington university, with figures to prove it. Dean Doyle recently sent questionnaires on the subject to the deans of more than 200 colleges and universities, asking them if that comic-strip type was at all prevalent on the campus today. Without exception, the deans replied in the negative. The real college student, they declared, is studious and quiet, usually neatly dressed, seldom given to rowdy talk or conduct, conceitedly mostly with getting an education, and full of vast contempt to be a "collegiate." There is a matter of fact, a good deal of optimism to be gained by a study of the dean's replies. In all sections of the country, these educators seem to be seeing a new spirit on the part of youth. From every quarter comes the remark that "our students are better, more socially and scholastically than were the students of two decades ago." You could fill a column with quotations to that effect, some come from such widely known institutions as Yale, Southern university, Colorado Agricultural college, the University of Toledo, Connecticut Wesleyan university, and Stanford. Oh, the list could be greatly extended.

A musical program was presented for the remainder of the evening. The rooms where the class was assembled were decorated with red bougainvillea and Easter lilies combined with fern to carry out the class colors of green, red and white. The refreshments which were served late in the evening by the hostesses, further emphasized the color note.

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTES
"IT'S TOASTED"

Conflicting Arguments

have been unable to halt the rapidly increasing tendency of the public to adopt Lucky Strike as its favorite cigarette. Lucky Strike is a blend of choice tobaccos whose toasted flavor thrills the taste, whose toasting process eliminates impurities, and, as 20,679 physicians testify, makes Luckies less irritating. Toasting elevates Lucky Strike to a plane of quality which no other cigarette can approach. The constant care of experts assures the quality of Luckies. Its choice by millions proves its superiority and is the truthful answer to selfish claims.

BRITAIN AIDS ITS FILM INDUSTRIES IN FIGHT ON U. S.

Government Helps By Passing Laws To Advance Film Making

LONDON, May 5.—(INS) The British Government is doing every thing possible to aid the British film industry in its struggle for existence alongside American competition.

Having passed the famous quota bill in the hope that the inflow of American pictures would be restricted sufficiently to enable British producers to compete on the market, the Government has now taken steps to assist in the production and distribution of British films. For the first time film companies are to be allowed legally to take scenes in London and Scotland Yard will assist the producers in the taking of these scenes if necessary.

Up to this month there has been a restriction against "shooting" films in London streets and the police have been instructed to move on these attempting to do so. The strict enforcement of this restriction brought loud protests from the various film companies who complained that they could not hope to compete with foreign films when the authorities hampered their production.

Thus, the Home Office finally decided that they should be given the virtual freedom of the City, so now producers can film London to their heart's content.

Camera-cars may shortly be seen whirling around Piccadilly Circus or shooting murder scenes under Nelson's column in Trafalgar Square, while the majority of "movie" wedding scenes will probably be taken with Westminster Cathedral as a background.

Make New Demands
Distributors, aware of the ease with which they and the producing companies secured the passage of the Quota Bill, demanded recently that in view of what has been done for producers, something more should be done to increase distribution, especially in the dominions.

As a result, the Secretary of State for the Colonies has appointed a special committee to investigate the best methods for encouraging the exhibition of British films throughout the Empire, in other words, to aid the British film industry in its fight to compete with Hollywood.

This is openly admitted by the chairman of the Committee, Captain W. Brass, Conservative member of Parliament, who says: "In many of the colonies with which we have to deal the people

Dry Solon Is Freed On Whiskey Charge; Brother Arraigned

Solon over long distance and advised him of the trunks being seized and asked him to aid in having them shipped on to Chicago.

Under cross examination Gann admitted that the party had only six trunks when they left New York and that three additional trunks had been bought in Panama.

Asked if the trunks had been purchased to accommodate two kegs of rum and 12 quarts of liquor alleged to have been found in them, Gann refused to answer the question.

Q—"The trunks you bought in Panama were of cheap fibers, were they not?"

A—"I would not say they were. They were a bargain."

Q—"Who bought the trunks, did you buy them?"

A—"No."

Q—"Did Mr. Michaelson, A—"I believe he did."

Q—"And you mean to say your brother-in-law bought you and Mr. Rain each a trunk?"

A—"Mr. Michaelson and Mr. Rain were handling the finances of the trip."

Q—"Do you know Mr. Rain's baggage contained liquor on his arrival here?"

Again the witness claimed his constitutional rights and refused to answer. He claimed the same right in refusing to answer a question as to whether or not the trunks he had asked Rep. Michaelson to bring in under his courtesy contained liquor.

Q—"You asked Michaelson to bring in two of your trunks."

A—"I did."

Q—"Is it not a fact that you asked him to bring in two of your trunks for you knew your baggage would not be searched?"

The witness again refused to answer.

Q—"You mean to tell this jury you imposed on your brother-in-law and asked him to bring into this country two trunks that to your knowledge contained intoxicating liquors?"

The witness would not answer.

Sinclair Continues Pill Rolling Behind Door Barring News

reporters around the jail the first day "hurt the morale" of the office staff. Wilson is strong for morale. Curiously neither Major Peak nor M. M. Wilson himself has visited the jail since Sinclair surrendered himself. "I am acting in my own light and I am entitled to my own judgment," Wilson said today.

Prior to the issuance of his order there were comparatively few reporters or Washingtonians in general who knew of Wilson or his authority. Members of the press corps "who is he?"

Wilson "savored" a bit under pressure from the reporters, but after a visit to one of the members of his board of welfare—a prominent Washington banker—he found a renewed determination to protect Sinclair from unwelcome publicity at all costs.

Major Peake, said Wilson, could give out no information about his prisoner or about any activity in the jail, and "under no circumstances were reporters to be allowed in the jail."

Wilson said he considered "the publicity about Mr. Sinclair deplorable. The millions of barrels of oil may be prisoner 10,520 to a lot of people, but is always "Mister" Sinclair to the diminutive director of the district's welfare.

European Songs Live Long In Hearts of American Public

RUTH ETTING

Ruth Etting of Broadway Finds a Few Foreign Songs Have "It"

New York City.—Not songs are purely American and could never be written by any other nation. This is the opinion of Ruth Etting, one of Broadway's newest stars.

"Europe loves our comedy and nut numbers, but cannot write them," she declares. "A European can only burst into song over love, sorrow or beauty, and then not in the American rhythm."

"There have been two songs, however, 'Valencia' from Spain and 'Mon Homme' (My Man) from France, which have come to America and lived as few of our own numbers have. 'My Man' was first brought to this country eight years ago, after Mistinguette had sung it in Paris. It was the first foreign number which had adapted the American rhythm. Now after eight years, it has been revived and is featured in a talking picture, 'My Man'."

"It is psychologically interesting to watch Europeans try to understand our rhythm. Yet when they do get it, they go on one letter. Their ballads have a lasting quality which many of our writers somehow fail to achieve. Probably it is the foreign interpretation, but there is something different in what they give us. As the younger generation abroad takes more and more to our music, I expect to see most European music written in our rhythm."

Hudson Shows Big Net Earnings For 1st Quarter Period

DETROIT, Mich., May 5.—Hudson Motor Car Company reports net earnings for the three months ending March 31, of $4,507,761, or $2.86 a share on its 1,556,000 shares outstanding. This is the largest first-quarter earnings in Hudson's history. It is announced, comparing with the following figures: $4,207,373 in 1935; $4,026,516 in 1934; $2,716,023 in 1933 and $3,826,932 in 1932.

William J. McGueeny, president of the company, said in connection with the report: "Not only our earnings for January, February and March the largest first-quarter total we ever have known, but our present sales situation and our prospects for the year are correspondingly favorable. Since the middle of February our plants have been operating at their top capacity of 1,900 cars a day, or around 45,000 a month, and yet a survey of stocks of cars in the hands of distributors and dealers shows that the number is below normal."

A year ago there were 33,000 Hudson and Essex cars on hand in the field. Today, with business far more active and the demand higher, there are only 30,000 cars. Usually we consider that a normal stock of cars in the field is a month's supply, which would be around 45,000. Thus we have today 15,000 less than a normal stock of cars in the country, and the active buying season is just opening a number of important buying centers, there is today a shortage of Hudson and Essex cars for delivery to the public."

POLICEMAN EXONERATED

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(INS) Policeman Clyde O. Rouse was exonerated for killing a 21-year-old youth, Otmer H. Fleming, in a run chase. Rouse was chasing an automobile, suspected of running liquor. The car laid down a smoke screen, and the officer fired five shots into the back of the car, killing Fleming instantly.
