

Sanford Theater News for the Coming Week

STEMS FROM THE MAIN STEM—Margaret Lindsay, Ann Sheridan, and Marie Wilson as the three Broadway girls who head the cast of "Broadway Musketeers," which opens at the Ritz Tuesday.

COVERED WAGON DAYS will be recreated on the screen when "Valley of the Giants," Warner Bros. huge Technicolor production comes to the Ritz Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday. Left to right in the wagon are Wayne Morris, Claire Trevor, Jack LaRue, Cy Kendall (standing).

"Marie Antoinette," Magnificent, Historical

After a year of research for history's doubles, a record-breaking cast of 182 players was assembled for "Marie Antoinette," co-starring Norma Shearer and Tyrone Power. The spectacular story of one of the world's great empresses will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Ritz Theatre.

Among the prominent players featured in support of the stars are John Barrymore, Robert Morley, Anita Louise, Joseph Schildkraut, Gladys George, Henry Stephenson, Cora Witherspoon, Harriet Parker, Reginald Gardner, Henry Daniell, Leonard Penn, Albert Van Dekker, Alma Kruger, Joseph Calleia, George Meeker, Scotty Beckett and Marilyn Knowlden.

Hundreds of tests were made before actors and actresses could be found capable of recreating such famed historical characters as King Louis XVI, Madame du Barry, the Empress Maria Theresa, Danton, Lafayette, Benjamin Franklin, Robespierre and others.

Robert Morley, young English actor who portrays King Louis XVI, was discovered in London by Producer Hunt Stromberg. Although Morley never had been on the screen his amazing likeness to the French King won him consideration for the part, together with a dozen other candidates. He traveled the 6,000 miles to Hollywood for a test that assured him the role. One of the most fascinating characters ever brought to the screen, King Louis gives Morley a definitely star-making part in the picture.

Wade Crosby appears on the screen for the first time as Danton, fiery Revolutionary leader. Crosby was a theatrical sign painter when Max Reinhardt saw him two years ago and selected him to star in a picture depicting the life of Danton. The picture was never made and Crosby gets his big opportunity in "Marie Antoinette."

IN "MARIE ANTOINETTE," opening at the Ritz Theatre Sunday Norma Shearer resumes her brilliant screen career as the little Hapsburg archduchess who became the last queen of France in one of history's most dramatic and romantic chapters. Tyrone Power is co-starred with Miss Shearer as the nobleman who attempted to save her from the guillotine, and the star-studded supporting cast includes John Barrymore, Robert Morley, Anita Louise, Joseph Schildkraut, Gladys George and Henry Stephenson.

The Austrian Queen, Marie Antoinette, will be seen as Benjamin Franklin on $100 bills. John Burroughs will be seen as Benjamin Franklin, the result of a make-up inspired by the engraving of the

"Valley Of The Giants," Lusty Lumber Picture

"Valley of the Giants," produced by Warner Bros. in beautiful Technicolor, with Wayne Morris and Claire Trevor heading a brilliant cast, is scheduled to open at the Ritz Theatre next Tuesday.

Based upon the famous Peter B. Kyne novel of the same name, the picture tells a story typical of the valiant fight waged some thirty-odd years ago to prevent the utter despoliation of California's noted redwood forests by ruthlessly selfish lumber interests.

Graft and corruption, legal trickery and plenty of outright physical violence were employed by the would-be despoilers to gain their ends, and all of this is strikingly depicted in the tense and exciting course of the unfolding of the new Warner color picture.

Most of the action of the picture takes place outdoors and all of these outdoor scenes were filmed in the heart of the redwood country, with the result that the picture is not only an exciting piece of drama but also one of the most beautiful and one of the most impressive productions ever filmed. For people who have never seen these forests of giant trees, the film probably will also be a rare educational treat.

LOVE'S FATAL arrow strikes Jean Parzer and John Beal, the romantic leads, in the new Bob Burns comedy-drama of home town life, "The Arkansas Traveler," which opens Friday at the Ritz Theatre.

"GIRLS ON PROBATION," a sensational expose of the marked women of tomorrow comes to the Ritz Tuesday.

Army Sources Give Amendment Support

TALLAHASSEE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Two army sources joined yesterday in supporting a proposed national guard amendment to Florida's constitution which drew fire Wednesday from Governor Cone.

Maj. Gen. A. H. Blanding, chief of the national guard bureau in Washington, disagreed with Governor Cone's statement that the amendment would increase state taxes.

The Army and Navy club at Jacksonville announced its full support for the constitutional change, which would remove national guard officers from state control and base their appointment and removal solely on army standards.

General Blanding's views were telegraphed to Capt. Carl Owenby of the United States Infantry reserve. He said most of the states have provisions similar to that on which Florida voters will pass in the Nov. 8 general election, and added:

"I do not see that the amendment could have any possible effect on taxation."

11,000,000 In U. S. Affected By Wages Cut

New Regulation Represents Broadest Industrial Legislation Since NRA

Law Is Put Into Effect Quietly

Federal Act Places Floor Under Wages, Ceiling Over Hours

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—The far-reaching Federal Labor Standards Act went into effect today, putting a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours of an estimated 11,000,000 American workmen.

This regulation of virtually all persons in interstate commerce represented the broadest industrial legislation since the NRA.

In striking contrast to the fanfare and hubbub of Blue Eagle days, however, the wage-hour law was put into operation quietly. There were no parades, and no great concentration of businessmen in Washington.

The main provisions are a 25-cent minimum on wages, which will be raised to 30 cents on Oct. 24, 1939 and 40 cents after Oct. 24, 1940; a maximum work week of 44 hours, becoming 42 on Oct. 24, 1939, and 40 after Oct. 24, 1940; and the prohibition of employment of children under 16 in mining or manufacturing occupation and children under 18 in industry declared to be hazardous.

The new law was enacted by Congress last session, after bitter and protracted controversy, in response to President Roosevelt's appeal of May 24, 1937, for extension of "the frontiers of social progress."

It deals only with wages and working conditions, whereas the outworn National Industrial Recovery Act provided also for regulation of trade practices.

The statute applies only to industries in interstate commerce. It is intended to bring about a 40-hour work week and a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour in such industries eventually. But, for the first year, an employer's regular work week may be 44 hours, and he may be paid as little as 25 cents an hour.

For the next six years, the general minimum wage will be 30 cents an hour; after that, 40 cents. The maximum work week will be reduced progressively during the second and third years to 42 hours and then 40.

Employment longer than the statutory maximum hours will be prohibited, but workers on employment must be paid in cash at the rate of time and a half the regular wage scale.

In general, the act also prohibits employment of children under 18 years of age in hazardous occupations. Children are forbidden to work in a manufacturing or mining industry if they are under 16, and youngsters between 14 and 16 may be hired only under certain conditions.

Administrator Andrews has conceded that the law may be tested quickly in the courts. Since many of his definitions and regulations are too general to apply to a given industry, an appeal to the courts for a judicial determination will be the only way to answer positively many questions concerning the act's application.

Need Of Oil To Lead To Further Nazi Conquests

By PRESTON GROVER

Four years with low major supply, increased oil. Since then, industrialization of arms has proceeded rapidly. Germany's principal striking weapon, the air force, would be provided with out oil. And one of the disadvantages of synthetic oil is that it is not self-sufficient.

Consumption of oil in other motorized equipment of the army is much greater than in the air. Germany boasts of the last striking power of her motorized armies. Yet its military chiefs have recognized the crippling possibility of a shortage of oil by retaining a considerable body of horse cavalry and horse artillery.

Nothing much ever is said about this particular wing of the service. It is known among military men to be Germany's ace in the hole against a time when fuel no longer would be available and the fighting and landing would have to be done with horses which could be fed from the countryside.

Access to the Rumanian oil fields would solve Germany's oil problem. Rumania ranks fourth among the great oil producing countries. It now produces 1,500,000 tons annually and could be expanded. It would be a long haul from Rumania to the western front or to a Russian front but the Transilvanian water route and railroads another.

The battle for the Rumanian oil fields might transfer the major war front far to the East. In that event, England and France would be hard pressed to defend them from capture unless Russia should step in as an ally. And Russia seems to be cooling off toward France since the Czechoslovak affair.

DaBoll Left Farm To Begin Career As Plane Pilot

Immediately following the plane crash at the Municipal Airport which was fatal to R. J. Reel, local automobile dealer, and William H. DaBoll, little information could be obtained regarding the identity of the Lakeland pilot.

It has since been learned, however, that DaBoll, 39, was born near Clyde, N. Y., not far from Rochester, and that he was a farmer before he started his barnstorming career.

Nine years ago, DaBoll left his farm three miles east of Clyde to get a pilot's license and then moved to Geneva, N. Y., where he started his flying career. From there he went to Amboy Airport in Syracuse and then to Corland, N. Y.

Four years ago he went back to Clyde and sold his farm which he still owned. Moving to Lakeland, Fla., he conducted a barnstorming tour, taking up passengers at fairs. He was also an expert machinist.

His first wife, Ellen Louise Harkness, died four years ago, leaving two children, David, 16 and Virginia, 18. He had remarried. He was also survived by two brothers, Raymond, of Chicago and Louis, who is located in Florida. Two years ago he flew to Clyde to visit friends and relatives.

Unemployment From Wages, Hours Act Foreseen By Lay For Limited Time

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 24. (AP)—E. P. Lay, executive secretary of the Associated Industries of Florida, Inc., and a member of the state industrial commission, said last night he believed the federal wage-hour law will result in "considerable unemployment for a limited time."

Lay said many Florida employers did not understand fully the measure which becomes effective today and provides for a minimum 25-cent hourly wage and a standard 44-hour work week for all workers producing a product going into interstate commerce. There are certain exceptions.

"Until they determine just how they will be affected," Lay declared, "some employers will have to close down their establishments and others will have to dismiss some employees, which will result in unemployment."

Lay declared it would be difficult to estimate how many Florida workers would come under provisions of the regulation, but "in my opinion, it will be many more than is now thought."

Lay said he believed the lumber and cigar industries would be the chief ones in Florida affected by the new regulation.

"While the citrus industry will be under the law," he continued, "I don't believe it will affect them adversely very much."

He pointed out that many of the first processors of agricultural or horticultural products were exempted from the maximum hour provisions for 11 weeks.

Citrus industry wages generally are above the minimum, Lay continued, and exemption from hour regulations can be claimed during the peak of the fruit season.

Lay said the Associated Industries had written its members advising all employees "who are in doubt about whether they are covered to comply with the law until such time as they can find out definitely whether they are under it."

"They also were advised to make every effort to comply with the law in every respect."

"While many employers opposed passage of the law, we believe that since it has become law it deserves a fair trial," Lay said.

Not that the pines were dark there,
nor mid-May dogwood heights there,
nor swells more swift in summer air;
It was my own country,

having its thunderclap of spring

its hills bent low within my reach,
its river birch and upland beech
were mine, of my own country.

Now the dark waters at the bay
fold back, like earth against the plow;
foam brightens like the seaweed
now
at home, in my own country.

"Cotton Ed's" Farm Plan

Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, who piloted the AAA through the Senate last winter, is now dead set against the Act as impracticable and is planning to introduce a new agricultural bill of his own during the coming session of Congress. In a recent interview to the Country Home Magazine,

"Cotton Ed," survivor of the recent "purge," is framing a farm bill which he predicts "will blast AAA to kingdom come" when he throws a bomb into the next meeting of the Senate Agricultural Committee. If it becomes law he believes it will solve all the country's major farm problems, end subsidies, and for the first time in history place American agriculture on a basis of equality with industry. The proposed bill is described by the magazine, a national farm publication, as follows:

"In its simplest definition this bill, based upon the success of the United States seed loan laws, would set up a system of state banks for farmers similar to the Federal Reserve Bank system. Co-ordinated under one Federal agency, these banks would grant farmers two to three year loans, would take liens on their crops, provide storage and storage houses for holding the farmers' surplus in their crops, and become a marketing agency for the produce, distributing it as marketing conditions warranted.
 "This system, Sen. Smith explained, would do away with land banks and intermediate credit banks. It would also provide for soil conservation, because the farmer advanced a loan would have to prove that he was taking care of his land and farming by the most approved methods.
 It would also take care of surpluses because each bank covered by farmers themselves, would keep its credit informed of national and international agricultural demands and advise them on the most profitable crops to raise."

In support of his plan, Senator Smith says: "I may be a large order but I am sick and tired of farm laws framed by hysterical and wild-eyed dreamers. We have had enough butterfly rule. The AAA won't work. It won't work because it attempts to mold farmers to the law instead of law to the farmers. I piloted the AAA of 1938 through the Senate. I voted for it. But I warned those who framed it that I didn't think it would work. I merely hoped for the best. Now I know it won't work.
 "I was reared on a farm," he concludes. "I have been a farmer all my life. I shall create my bill out of the experience of farmers and not out of the theories of men who would starve to death if they were tossed on their heads in a cotton patch."

"No News"

Up-starting Old Sol had come to the little city of Elkhart, Indiana, on a cloudless August day. It was too hot to think of going out to work, it was too hot to think of it going at that. Everybody felt that way, so it wasn't surprising when the city editor of the Elkhart Truth, the city's daily paper, walked into the managing editor's office and said, in an editorial gloom, "There's no news today; what'll we do for Page One?"

"What? No news?" exclaimed the managing editor, comfortable in his conditioned room. "Well, that is news!"
 he yelled, and swished around to his typewriter and wrote in screaming headline, "35,000 People and No News!"

Then followed a two-column front-page story about
 "Thirty-five thousand people dwelling in harmony, politeness on baking hot beats with no exciting work to do, workmen shuttling between home and job and no labor trouble, folks watching the baseball scoreboard, fish peddlers dealing out bait to hopeful anglers, mothers and wives cooking suppers in tranquil kitchens, kids in the swimming pools, the women chatting at the back doors.

"No news? Ten thousand families, and not a single murder to sing, its dirge of violence in screaming headlines. Fifteen thousand automobiles and no serious accident to send ambulances roaring down the streets to the hospitals with bleeding cargoes of dead and maimed humanity. Ten thousand families and not a single sensational line of divorce to set gossip's tongues wagging.

"Just a community of 35,000 good folks, going peacefully about their tasks or pleasures, quietly and, to all appearances, happily. Did anything like that ever happen before? No news? That is the biggest piece of news you've ever happened." Sunshine Magazine, Richfield, Ill.

Johnson Forsees School Training For Employment

In 1938 vocational English and vocational mathematics teaching were begun.

Some $17,500 is invested, Mr.
Johnson said, in vocational equipment here. In order to teach vocational subjects such equipment as typewriters, bookkeeping equipment, sewing machines,
cook stoves, and similar items are essential, Mr. Johnson added, pointing out that the agriculture department's farm building is one of the best of its type in the South.

NOW IS THE TIME TO FIND OUT

OUT OUR WAY BY J. R. WILLIAMS

WEEKLY NEWS COLUMN BY TOR HENDRICKS

(The final column of the series of three on the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Next week I shall give you general
news again.)

TRAINING LAW ENFORCE-MENT OFFICERS—One of the great contributions which the Federal Bureau of Investigation has made to the protection of the citizens of our Nation has been through the medium of perfect training methods. Immediately after J. Edgar Hoover's appointment as Director of the FBI he revolutionized the training facilities of the Bureau and shooked old time law enforcement officers by requiring that new Special Agents must be graduates of recognized law schools, expert accountants or have had extensive law enforcement experience. Today over eighty-five percent of the G-Men are either lawyers or accountants who have been thoroughly trained in the FBI Schools.

The training program that has been established for G-Men three years ago this summer was extended to law enforcement agencies throughout the Nation in order that police instructors might be trained who upon their return to their local communities might there establish police training schools. In all since 1935 there have been two hundred and twenty-three representatives of law enforcement agencies graduated from the FBI National Police Academy and in most instances upon their return to their home towns they have that the day will soon come when every Sheriff's office and every town in Florida will have on its staff of law enforcement officers a graduate of the FBI National Police Academy.

Feds To Begin Preparation For Tilt With Ocala Eleven

By JULIAN STENSTROM
Herald Sports Editor

The Seminole High School Celery Feds will take to the practice field this afternoon in preparation for one of their hardest Northeast Conference tilts which takes place Friday night when the locals travel to Ocala for the first out-of-town game.

The Ocala outfit will seek to run up its second straight victory over the Celery Feds as last season then came from behind in the second half to knock down the locals by a 20 to 7 count.

In 1936, the Feds ran wild over their Wilcox opponent when a young Celery Fed aggression swamped Ocala by a score of 36 to 6.

Ocala has played one conference game to date and that resulted in a 20 to 14 win over New Sheela which gave the Feds their first conference triumph in two years. They leave played Williston, Brewster, Newberry, L. C. of Jacksonville and New Smyrna.

The Feds have been victorious in three of four conference tilts and are second in the conference standings. They have scored 73 points and have a 6 to 1 record. Lake City, and a 20 to 7 win over the Deland Bulldogs are suffering a only loss to Deland High by a 14 to 7.

Head coach McLucas will probably work his squad in the afternoon this week due to the Wilcox strong offensive. It is expected that the Feds will rely heavily upon their aerial attack for this season. The Feds have done very well with their passing. Last week the Fed yarded 125 yards from the air completing four of six passes, none passes ending in touch downs.

The Feds will go up against the Wilcox team with danger of losing their non-conference record but to date the locals have played 32 football games since being held scoreless.

The Feds showed up well in the Deland tilt and the work of Coach Wooten, Dorell Ferguson, Art Williams, Robert Howell and Fred Johnson were always part of the game which has his career football game and his debut. All passes from center were accurate and his blocking of the line was the best.

H. M. SHEVANN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Angebilt Hotel, Orlando, Friday, only, October 28, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Mr. Shevann says: The Zotic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the ruptured area.

Florida's prison population reached 2,573 during September, a gain of 27 over the previous month. 1,750 are inmates of the penitentiary at Raiford, the balance in road camps throughout the state.

THE GREAT WALTZ
BEATRICE FABER

Synopsis: In 1945 young Johann Strauss, called Schani by his friends, had become a moderate success in Vienna as a composer of waltzes. Despite the popular conception that a such a music is barbaric, the waltzes of Schani were everywhere and they were loved by the masses.

But one day, in the midst of the revolution, he again wrote a waltz which he had scored as an orchestra. Schani rescues her from the crowd and they drive to the Vienna woods where he composes a new song, Count Hohenzollern, a waltz of a waltz.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Chapter Ten

The weeks had gone by - empty, crowded, hectic weeks - in which Poldi saw little of Schani and heard much of him as the glorious Countess Donna. No one but herself - and possibly Schani's mother - knew of the lump of ice which Poldi had packed in her chest at those terror-filled nights when she had faced the arrogant moon and her dreary, twisted and twisted moon.

Now the great night had come. Polding the theatre that afternoon had seen the poster which announced the new Cunic Opera by Johann Strauss II, the opera which would be the triumph of his name. The linking of their names thus, had wrenched her frame. And it was when she had decided not to attend, how could she...

"Darling, maybe you'll change your mind."

she, when every note of his music would be singing his love for the other women?

"The maid entered now, and looked sorrowfully at the evening dress she had laid out. "Shall I put these away, Mrs. Strauss?"

Schani's mother motioned to her then leaned over toward Poldi who was bent over some sewing. "Poldi darling, maybe you'll change your mind."

"No mother. Put the dress away, Anna."

A graceful silence Anna carried the gown to the closet. Mrs. Strauss put down her needlework.

"Poldi, I don't want to say you're being difficult, but you really belong here. What will people think?"

She looked up at the evening dress she had laid out. She mustn't talk it over openly, she and Schani's mother. That would be too much. It must be kept secret. A hideous gasp within her. She smiled grotesquely. "Mother please, I'm too excited. I am so much happier here than elsewhere. I can pray for you with all my thoughts. After the performance was so splendid. This is the best night of my life. Mrs. Strauss went to the window. "Think the carriage is stopping in front of our house. There."

Her tongue ran away with her before she could think. "Schani has sent for me." Breathing, she ran from the room and down to the front door, calling to Anna. "Never mind, I'll open it."

But a moment later she was facing a stranger, a distinguished appearing person in formal dress uniform. A shiver of apprehension went over her.

"Is Mrs. Strauss in?"

"I - I am Mrs. Strauss."

He gave her a quick little glance of appraisal and saluted. "I am Anton Hohenzollern."

"Come in, my lady," he said, and he indicated a chair for her.

"Thank you." He remained standing however. Twice he opened his mouth but did not speak. This was going to be difficult no matter how he went about it. How appalling she had seen the poster which announced the new Cunic Opera by Johann Strauss II, the opera which would be the triumph of their names thus, had wrenched her frame. And it was when she had decided not to attend, how could she...

Surplus Fruit Disposal Plan Is Given Okey

Government Contemplates Buying Five Million Boxes Of Excess Grapefruit

Growers Divert Similar Amount

Canners Requested To Establish Minimum Of 20 Cents A Box

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The national citrus conference approved a surplus disposal program for the season's record grapefruit crop...

The program, similar to one adopted last night for oranges, contemplates the government purchase of 5,000,000 boxes of grapefruit for distribution to needy persons.

In return, the industry would keep low grade grapefruit off the market by diverting approximately 5,000,000 boxes to non-competitive products, such as fertilizer and livestock feed.

In addition, the government arrangement included adoption of marketing agreements to regulate the grade and size of fruit to be shipped from Florida and the California-Arizona area...

AAA officials said citrus canners would be asked to cooperate by placing a minimum price of 20 cents a box on all grapefruit purchased for canning purposes.

California Farm Industry Overrun With Communists

Dies, Committee Gets Charge Of Intent To Seize Government

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Here, investigators of anti-Communist activities heard testimony today that California's agricultural industry is overrun with Communists...

James Knowl, of Oakland and Bay View of Los Angeles, representing a radical socialist committee of the California American Legion, told the committee that the branch of Communism in California is a forerunner of their intention to overthrow the government of the United States.

One of the significant features, Knowl said, had been the great assistance given to the agitators in the agricultural field by the International Longshoremen's Association of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific.

Diamond Ball Field Seems To Be Assured

Commissioners Told By McCracken Materials For Project Will Cost Only $875

Construction of a diamond ball field with games two or more nights each week seemed assured by the city commissioners when they approved the plan...

Members of the Recreation Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and the Diamond Ball committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce again discussed before the commissioners at their regular meeting with definite plans as to the approximate cost of materials for construction of the proposed diamond.

W. R. McCracken, chairman of the Recreation Committee, acted as spokesman for the committee and told the commissioners that estimates of $875 on the cost of materials for fence, bleachers and lighting equipment had been secured.

Mr. McCracken also told of cooperation shown by local merchants in their desire to see the project started.

The committee at their last meeting, after a long session of the second project between Hood and Bahette Avenue on the lake front for construction of the diamond and although Mayor Edward Higgins pointed out that there were no funds available to purchase materials for the project...

Details of the proposed project will be worked out at a meeting on Oct. 24.
