AIR CHIEF'S LARGE FALSE, MOTT S MOFFETT

Chief Is Strong In Denunciation of Mott S. Moffett

Army Officer Not Named By Name

Branded As An Unscrupulous Self- Seeker in Statement

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Categorical reply to charges made by Col. William Mott, former assistant of the army air service, concerning administration of aviation was issued last night by Rear Admiral William S. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics. After charges by Colonel Mitchell of the Shenandoah and No. 1, and the air races at the last October, in which Mott, Lieut. Alexander, while preparing for the crash had crushed his death, Mott declared: "The charitable way to regard charges is that their author is an unscrupulous self-seeker in statement."

PROHIBITION NOW FACES TEST, SAYS CHURCH COUNCIL

Doubt As to Final Outcome Expressed in Statement; Social Consequences Since 1920 Unfavorable Is Claim

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A belief that prohibition in the United States is facing a supreme test, with the final outcome in doubt, was expressed tonight in a report compiled after months of investigation by the Research and Education Department of the Federal Council of Churches.

"No one can say with positive assurance what the ultimate outcome of this test will be," said the report. "No cocksure optimism is warranted, nor is pessimism or 'defeatism' justified by the facts. Much seems to depend upon the development of public opinion in the near future."

An "unfavorable" and "disquieting" trend since 1920 in the social consequences of prohibition is seen by the investigators in statistics gathered from many sources, but the report declared no available statistical data could be accepted as conclusive and pointed out that the wholesome effects of prohibition are restricted in conspicuous ways which cannot be reduced to statistical tabulation.

Wrong Publicity

Many of the claims made by those on both sides of the controversy were discarded as virtually baseless. Publicity material circulated with a view to influencing public opinion was declared to have been based largely on questionable data.

"Prohibition publicity has suffered much," said the report, "from careless and unwarranted inferences. Much of the publicity given out by the prohibition unit in the Treasury Department has been of this unfortunate kind. On the other hand, unjust and misleading propaganda has been put out for the purpose of discrediting prohibition."

LONG DROUGHT IN SOUTH ENDS WITH SHOWERS

Rain Falls in Many Sections Following Assembling Of People For Prayer; Cooler Weather This Week Forecast

Relief Steps Taken By Georgia Officials

South Carolina Reports New Low Temperature Level For Month, Mercury Drops to 72

ATLANTA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A break in the drought which has hit most of the south with a firm grip many weeks causing heavy damage to crops and a curtailment in manufacture, came Sunday. In many sections people gathered in houses of worship, prayed for relief and in some instances rain fell immediately after the services. The governors of Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina and Virginia had issued proclamation calling upon the people to pray for rain, but the prayers were not confined to these states.

With the rain, cooler weather prevailed. Forecasters also predicted more rain would fall today.

Prayers Are Answered

A heavy rain began falling in Atlanta early in the afternoon. In some sections of the city persons, who only a few moments before had knelt in solemn prayer for relief, were drenched as they left the churches.

But they appeared not to mind the damage to wearing apparel. Children ran from houses, letting the water beat upon their upturned faces and playing in the swift running currents in the swift running streets. Late in the day, the sun broke from behind gray clouds and the rains ceased. Indications, however, were that it would be resumed during the night and tomorrow.

Especially impressive were the prayers for relief by the people of North Georgia, for there the crops have been badly damaged and in some cases ruined. Great suffering has been caused and state officials have taken steps to provide financial relief. Citizens in the southern part of the state where the drought has not been felt seriously, have offered to send trainloads of food to their needy neighbors.

In Nashville three-quarters of an inch fell last night and the weather man said more was in prospect. Memphis, where showers had fallen for two days, again was given a drenching as were nearby towns. Chattanooga was given a shower and a heavy downpour fell in the evening section.

Louisville, Ky., was doubly blessed with a steady downpour last night and today, the first in 20 days. Many persons who had traveled without umbrellas or hats, rejoiced that the drought had been broken.

Weather officials, however, could not say whether the rain had come in time to save the $2,000,000 potato crop in Jefferson county. Alabama was not so fortunate in rainfall but the temperature dropped which made blankets comfortable tonight. Showers fell in many sections of the state.

Alleged Negro Marauder In Nashville Is Apprehended By Officers Early Sunday

NASHVILLE, Sept. 14.—The pall of fear and mystery which has been hovering over North Nashville for more than 30 days, had been lifted when word that the mysterious night marauder had been arrested by Nashville police passed from house to house late Saturday night and today and the people living in humble homes under the shadow of the marauder's fiendish operations for the first time in weeks are resting in peace and calm.

With the arrest of Henry Horn, weighing more than 200 pounds and possessing almost superhuman strength, police are confident that prowler's activities are at an end.

This morning Detective Gua Kiger located two gold watches, allegedly stolen by Horn from two homes in which the prowler attacked women. Two charges of house-breaking and larceny were placed against the prisoner and as many cases of attempted criminal assault were chalked up against Horn.

Mrs. J. W. Litterell, 1501 Kirk Ave., both positively identified the prisoner as being the marauder who attacked them while they slept and who slashed them with a huge knife when they screamed. Mr. Litterell, whose throat was cut by the arch fiend, also identified the negro as his assailant.

CHINAMAN SLAIN; RESUMPTION OF FEUD IS FEARED

Hip Sing Tong Member Is Shot Down in Boston on Sunday; Hip Sings Meet This Week in Minneapolis

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—The killing of a Chinese in this city's Chinese district Friday, threatened a renewal of the Tong outbreak of three weeks ago which resulted in shooting and serious wounding of two Chinese, Chin Goo Woo, said to be a member of the Hip Sing Tong, was shot dead as he stepped from a China-town building to the sidewalk. His assailant then fled through a nearby basement.

The police believe that the shooting was in reprisal for evidence given against several members of the On Leong tong arrested in a recent raid here. Scores of crates of shoes, carried to their headquarters as soon as the killing became known. Detectives and plain clothes men mobilized in the district to avert further trouble and search for the killer.

Henry Chin, a cousin of the slain man, a Hip Sing leader, begged tonight that patrolmen and detectives be assigned to guard him and his tong comrades. He said that Kneeland street had been a boundary line to go north of which meant instant death for any Hip Sing member.

The second shooting in the latest outbreak of tong warfare occurred early today when Chang Chong, 28, a laundry man, was seriously wounded by a charge fired from a heavy gauge shot gun by a fellow countryman.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Fear of a new tong war outbreak halted plans tonight for the convention of the Hip Sing tong, a Chinese secret society, scheduled to open September 18. The slaying of 4wo Hip Sings in New York Tuesday is given as the cause of the postponement.

Committee Plans To Begin Campaign Soon For Funds For Bryan Memorial

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Every admirer of William Jennings Bryan will have an opportunity to contribute a dime or a hundred thousand dollars to the memorial to be erected to his memory in the nation's capital. The memorial commission, organized here have announced that fact Sunday.

"We want the memorial to be a real tribute to the Commoner by the men and women of this country who loved him," said P. H. Callahan, of Louisville, Ky., secretary of the commission. "In no other way can they so fittingly express their sentiments than by having an actual part in the erection of the memorial."

Mr. Callahan is going back to his home, charged with the duty of organizing every State in the union for the collection of funds. There will be State organizations complete down to the county and township, all in operation, it is thought, within the next few months. "We expect large contributions from Mr. Bryan's personal friends and admirers," said Mr. Callahan, "and we also will receive hundreds of thousands of small money gifts. They will represent the tribute of such people as those who thronged to the railroad stations through Tennessee and Virginia to catch a glimpse of Mr. Bryan's casket on the funeral train—the real American people who believed in him."

CITY RECEIVES FINE PUBLICITY IN RADIO BILL

Atlanta Journal Broadcasts Possibilities of Sanford With Lumbdin, Kay and Miss Moody Taking Active Part

Trade Body Drive Is Described In Speech

Prominent Men of City Are Mentioned in Connection With Program Friday Night

Publicity for Sanford received a generous boost recently when WSB radio broadcasting station of the Atlanta Journal gave this city, and a number of its prominent citizens a lot of attention in broadcasting its program late Friday evening.

Lambdin Kay, popular radio artist, and Miss Moody, vocalist, entertainers billed on the program, were recently in Sanford as guests of the Chamber of Commerce, during the drive here which set a world's record in raising $10,000 for local publicity. During their stay here they were visibly impressed with the development of Sanford, and the spirit of progress that was shown in the campaign drive. Since leaving the city they had arranged for the program as it was presented Friday night.

Mr. Lambdin, in a rapid fire of witty comment directed at local celebrities, whom he termed, "Sanford millionaires and Celery Kings," overlooked none of the features of Sanford's attractions now being set forth in the national advertising campaign.

His observations here, to judge from his remarks, have convinced him of the possibilities in Seminole county. In speaking of the natural advantages of the locality, he stated:

"That Sanford has a great future is a recognized fact throughout the nation, it has many advantages over other communities in that it is so ideally situated at the head of navigation on the St. Johns River and is one of the Railway transshipping points of the state."

During Mr. Kay's stay in Sanford, he gave considerable thought to the city and cited many important facts concerning the expansion possible through a concerted effort on the part of its citizens.

"Sanford has a wonderful agricultural background," continued Mr. Kay, "and it can be justly proud of the results of its fruit and vegetable production. The celery, lettuce and corn crops bring in over several million dollars annually. This fact in itself makes a community self supporting and independent where food crops are concerned."

Location Declared Ideal

Industrial and Commercial problems for future expansion were also taken into consideration by Mr. Kay and thoroughly discussed. He says, "There are many sites in the surrounding territory which should be made available for business enterprises such as the manufacturing of dairy products, furniture, cash and doors and building materials, and then, too, canneries, vegetable products and easily marketed within a small radius of the city."

"Warehouses located here would reap the benefit of the low freight rates in addition to the economy of short haulage over roads leading to every section of the state."

Carolina Judge Is Claimed By Death At Raleigh Sunday

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Former Chief Justice W. A. Hoke of the North Carolina Supreme Court, died at a hospital here Sunday. Death came to the aged jurist at 9:10 o'clock yesterday morning and was caused by heart disease. The former chief justice, who was in his 74th year, was living in bed at the time he died and had been conversing with his nurse. He turned over as if to sleep and died instantly. "Heart block" was given as the cause of death.

Judge Hoke entered the hospital on Sept. 3 for a slight operation on the thyroid gland and had been improving rapidly. Doctors stated last night that the operation had no relation to the cause of death. "Heart block" was described as the blocking of a main artery into the heart, stopping its action and causing instant death.

The former chief justice had served on the Supreme Court since 1904 and was appointed chief justice in the spring of 1924, when Chief Justice Walter Clark died. Last March 16 he resigned his position because of ill health and W. P. Stacey became chief justice. Only recently Governor McLean had called on Mr. Hoke to preside at the term of court of Richmond county opening Sept. 28, when W. A. Cole will be tried for the killing of W. W. Ormond.

SANFORD HIGH SCHOOL OPENS FOR FALL TERM

Exercises Held This Morning With Talks Being Delivered By Prominent Citizens

Many New Members Added To Faculty

Prospects For Term Declared Bright By Officials of School

The Sanford High School reopened this morning at 9 o'clock, for the 1925-1926 term. Resumption of study for the year was marked by exercises, in charge of G. E. McKay, principal of the local educational institution, at which time the student body was introduced to the faculty, many of whom are teaching in the Sanford school for the first time. Mayor Forrest Lake, and County Superintendent T. W. Lawton addressed the student body, speaking in the interest of higher education and both offering sound advice to the re-assembled students.

Following a short session this morning, to insure the enrollment of all pupils, their registration and assignment to their regular classroom attendants, the school opened regular classes will begin tomorrow, according to announcement made this morning.

Ministers Attend Exercises

The summer vacation was officially closed shortly after 9 o'clock, when Rev. E. D. Brownlee, pastor of the Presbyterian church invocation, and the student body sang the school song.

Following the scriptural reading, by Rev. T. F. Armstrong, pastor of the Congregational Church, Rev. T. J. Nixon, pastor of the Methodist Church, offered prayer.

Mayor Lake stated that the need of well educated men of high moral character is ever growing, and urged all of the present senior class to pursue their quest of knowledge through some recognized college our university next year.

Praises Support of Schools

Mr. Lawton, in another brief talk praised the support given the schools by various civic organizations of Sanford, declaring that the aid rendered by these clubs and orders has been of inestimable assistance in raising the Sanford schools to their present high rating in the state. In stressing the need of Florida for men and women of character to mold the future of the state, Mr. Lawton directed the attention of the student body to the evil and danger of the present inflated condition of business in the State, and warned them to guard against the temptations of speculation, stating that the huge profit taking in real estate must result in corruption unless a high standard of morale is maintained.

Mr. McKay, in introducing the faculty, predicted a record year for Sanford High School, and urged the hearty support of the student body, co-operation between them and the school heads.

Accident Details May Grow Sugar Given By Rodgers, In West Florida Commanding PN-9 State Heads Say

(Continued from Page One) be fifty miles north of the Aros-took station. We fired a radio antenna on the plane and received without much difficulty everything that was in the air. We sailed before the wind, endeavoring to work the plane in toward the Hawaiian Islands hoping to make Oahu. We made fifty miles a day, that is, an average of two miles an hour although the plane appeared to be making much better speed.

Rig a Foresail
We cut the fabric from the lower wing and rigged a foresail. Weather conditions were moderate, although during the afternoon the seas were high. The plane at all times behaved very well. After the first day we felt sure that unless the weather changed very much for the worse we could make Oahu, or, failing that, we would certainly be able to make Kauai. Our only concern was a question of water supply. We knew we could get along without food, of which we had small emergency rations. We were depending on a small water still for water. This supplied water, but the plane still required gasoline as fuel.

We managed to get the still going on the sixth day by burning wood from the trailing edges of the lower wings. On the seventh day we made a canteen and a half of water in about five hours. The water in the radiators of the engine was undrinkable due to being impregnated with a patent solution to prevent leaks. We managed to make our small original supply of water, about two canteens a man, stretch over seven days. On the eighth day a heavy rain squall passed over us and we caught about two gallons in the fabric which had been cut from the lower wing. This enabled us to survive, and consequently we were in very good condition when we arrived off Nawiiliwi.

All during the trip we realized that an extemporized radio set would solve our difficulties in a few hours by giving our position to the searching ships. We tried rigging one up but were unable to make one which worked a sufficient distance. The receiver, as I have said, functioned perfectly all the time. We knew just what was going on about us.

Steamer Passes By
Crossing the steamer lane from Honolulu to the coast a steamer crossed our bow about five miles ahead, in the early morning. Particularly to the fact that the sun was low and directly in the eyes of the observers we were not seen.

On the seventh day Lieut. Connell devised lee boards which enabled us to crab off the wind about 15 degrees and were of great assistance to us in getting across Kauai channel. Without them we could not have made Kauai.

We passed Oahu about forty miles distant, the island being clearly visible, the afternoon of the eighth and headed and close hauled for Kauai. We had reached a point about 15 miles off Nawiiliwi and were trying to signal that port when we were sighted by the patrolling submarine, ten miles off Nawiiliwi, were taken in tow and towed into the harbor where the whole island population was out to receive us.

The most exciting part of the whole journey was getting the plane anchored in the harbor of Nawiiliwi. Finally we got it well secured in a safe place and went ashore.

We were taken care of by the good people of the island, who insisted on treating us as invalids; whereas, as a matter of fact, we were in very good shape and perfectly capable of taking care of ourselves.

The outstanding feature of the trip was that there was no failure of material at any time either in air or on the water. We believe that the PN-9 is a great plane in the air, capable of maintaining itself on the surface of the water in ordinary weather almost indefinitely.

The morale of the crew was high. They were always cheerful and worked with as much energy as if they had been getting a full ration every day.

GAINESVILLE, Sept. 12.—(A)—M. R. Ensign, extension entomologist and pathologist, and J. Lee Smith, district agent for North and West Florida, plan to make an extended trip over the western part of the state in the near future in the interest of sugar cane growing. They will leave here September 14.

Sugar cane growers of this section are encountering considerable difficulty with a disease called mosaic. This disease causes the leaves of the cane to become mottled, and is usually accompanied by dwarfing of the entire plant and consequent reduction in yield. Conservative estimates place the loss per acre from this disease at about $44.

In 1920 the State Plant Board shipped some disease-resistant cane, a variety known as Cayana 10, into the counties of West Florida, and this is becoming more and more widely established. However, there are still hundreds of farmers who should use this variety, it was said, and Mr. Ensign and Mr. Smith plan to check up on available seed supplies and urge growers to adopt the Cayana 10.

After they have completed their survey of available seed, these men and the Agricultural Extension Div. at Gainesville will be in position to answer inquiries as to where seed can be obtained, and give other hints on growing the crop.

A. P. Spencer, vice director of agricultural extension, in discussing this letter, said: Farmers of Western Florida should certainly avail themselves of this service on the part of extension pathologist.

Curio Hunters Loot Blimp Wreck

If a company of the Ohio National Guard had not been called out to guard the wreckage of the Shenandoah, the navy department the navy department would have had little debris to remove. A few hours after the crash people came by the thousands to view the wreckage. Souvenir hunters at once started to pick up everything that could be removed, including parts of radio sets, pieces of the silver canvas, furniture and utensils aboard the ship and even big girders. Here are three men taking away all they can carry.

Florida Building Will Be Placed Upon Stable Foundation, Says Jerry Carter

TALLAHASSEE, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Hotel Commission to place building in Florida upon a stable foundation, which will meet all requirements of the state laws, he announced at his office here. Mr. Carter stated that the Hotel Commission is keenly desirous of getting the general public interested in new building in the state to come forward with written suggestions of a constructive character at the forthcoming semi-annual meeting of the commission's Board of Supervising Architects, to be held at Orlando on September 15.

and Board of Maintenance will be held during the three-day session. The principal business to be taken up, however, will involve a proposed revision of the commission's adopted rules and regulations, with the view primarily of not only carrying out the state's building laws in the strictest sense, but to conform to the desires and wishes of those vitally interested in construction work. All amendments must be submitted in writing at the meeting, Commissioner Carter stated, or they will not gain a reception. The rules and numbers must be copied off, he stated. A large section of Florida, is co-operating with the commission when new building is undertaken, the commissioner declared, but there are some sections, he added, which attempt to dodge the law.

Graham Brothers Announce Another Price Cut On Trucks

Announcement of a reduction of $100 in the price of Graham Brothers one-ton truck, effective September 9th, has been received by J. W. Phillips, local Dodge Brothers dealer. "So substantial a reduction in the price of this one-ton truck, coming less than four months after the announcement of a previous reduction of $80," says L. Urban May, "is in line with previous assurances that the truck buyer will always benefit equally with Graham Brothers in every economy effected through increased production." Graham Brothers, now first in the world as exclusive manufacturers of motor trucks, are able to make this second reduction and at the same time to make even further improvements in the quality of their trucks. "In addition to their greatly increased production—their production for the first six months of 1925 was equal to the entire output of 1924—the enlarged and im-

Business Women Back Rum Running Venture

LONDON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Behind a rum running venture which possibly has been reported for putting thousands of gallons of contraband spirits into the hands of American bootleggers is declared to be a very capable business woman. The Daily Sketch says she is Mrs. Mabel Casarex, junior, wife of the son of a wealthy Argentine merchant. The newspaper says it understands the husband has nothing to do with her venture. Before 1917 the Cape of Good Hope was called the "Cape of All Storms," there being a storm there almost every day, no sailing ship ever having been able to pass it before the time of Diaz. The consumption of porridge in Scotland has decreased by more than fifty per cent over that of twenty five years ago.

A divorced Motien woman can marry again only if her previous husband permits.

LONG DROUGHT IN SOUTH ENDS WITH SHOWERS

(Continued from Page One) during the week-end, bringing fleecy clouds in sharp contrast to the clear blue sky of the past month. Forecasters believe the drought has been broken and the rains are expected to be of much benefit to the apple and feed crops. Rain also fell in North Carolina. Greensboro reported a light shower brought virtually no relief from the oppressive heat and that at six o'clock tonight the mercury stood at 87 degrees. Encouraging news came from Asheville and the surrounding western section of the state. Drought conditions have been greatly improved by rains during the past three days. Although the water supply in the mountains has not responded much to the precipitation, continued rain is expected to bring the necessary relief.

Rodgers Would Rather Remain on Sea Duty, He Cables Secretary

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Commander John Rodgers of the PN-9 No. 1, appointed Assistant Chief of Bureau Aeronautics, advised Secretary Wilbur today that his personal preference is to remain on sea duty with airplanes. Commander Rodgers added, however, that he would accept the position if in the opinion of the Secretary "my services will be more valuable in the department." The message was sent by Rodgers by radio from Honolulu. It conveyed the thanks of the crew of PN-9 No. 1, and his own appreciation for "the honor attached to my selection as Assistant Chief of the Bureau."

Mob of Men Tars And Feathers Two Women

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A mob believed to have been the first in Florida and one of the few in history of United States where white women have been tarred and feathered by a mob of men, occurred in Duval county late Saturday night when two women, claiming to be sisters, were so treated by mob estimated at 150 unmasked men. Today these women, who were let out on a downtown corner, early Sunday, clad only in feathers and a gunny sack, are said to have disappeared, probably having left Jacksonville.

Sanford High School opens for fall term. Disposition of PN-9 is still undecided. Honolulu, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The disposition of the nudated airplane PN-9, No. 1, was the leading subject of discussion today by persons visiting Pearl Harbor Navy Yard to view one of the most famous ships in the history of the United States navy. Although Commander John Rodgers is still being guarded by physicians and friends against inquiries, it is understood he believes that the seaplane on which he made his flight by air and by sea should be repaired for another trip to the Pacific coast to Hawaii. Movement is under way to request the navy department to re-equip the boat after its useful days have ended, brought to Hawaii where it would be placed in Bishop Museum or some other public place for a lasting memorial of an epochal flight. Since December 4, 1924, the Shoreland Company, owners and developers of Miami Shores, have set a remarkable pace in their building and development program. Miami Shores' natural advantages, incomparable location, and remarkable accessibility, were there no other inducements to offer, make a truly wonderful investment opportunity.

The buying public has, however, in Miami Shores, in addition to all of this, the definite and positive assurance of the Shoreland Company that $35,000,000 will be expended by Shoreland Company in building and development during the coming year—subject to material and labor conditions.

This is not a random statement. It is a statement of a definite and already carefully defined program, which includes:

- the building of four hotels, contracts already let
- the building of a yacht and country club house
- the building of business blocks and apartments
- the building of 200 homes

—in a word—the expenditure of $18,000,000 in actual building construction, the balance of $35,000,000 to be expended on city improvements of all kinds, including the causeway to Miami Shores Island and the beach.

Consider, then, as a well-informed, analytical and exacting investor, just what the assurance of this means to you as a potential Greater Miami investor!

Miami Shores, with this program back of it, we believe, is the best buy out-of-doors.

QUIET SPEECH: There is more strength in quiet speech. Than all our angry shouting; The rude the things the loudest screech, That they themselves are doubting. The wisest never need to yell, For life will prove, and time will tell; They only need the truth to state, And smile a little, and to wait. There is more power in quietness Than all of our contention; Noise never made one measure less, Nor altered a dimension. I'm sure a rod is still a rod, Though fools may stamp upon the sod, I'm sure that shouting never made A lie the truth, a heart a spade.

There is more strength in rocks of old, Than all the winds that riot. The noisy winds blow hot and cold, The chancelless things are quiet. If there is something that is so, Yes, something that we know we know, We need not yell it loud and long— For even then we might be wrong. —DOUGLAS MALLOCH

Oh, B. M. M., come back and take that police court reporter off your column. Say, Proxy, why don't you read up a little? Ocala was on the map of the United States before California, and its name is original and its own. Your super-heated, mushroom city down by a tepid ocean, in which most of the healthy salt water is tainted by spilled bootleg liquor, took its name secondhand from an unimportant town in the Indiana corn belt. Ocala is older than St. Augustine; older than Santa Fe. It was the capital of Central Florida before Columbus discovered America, and then as was a pretty good town. Go soak your head, Lyre by Proxy.—Ocala Star.

We'd like to know what all of this has to do with increasing the width of balloon trousers?

Motorize The Automobile Passenger

If you sit on the back seat of an automobile don't think for one minute that you are driving the car. Don't get the impression that the man at the wheel is depending on you for advice or for information. He is the driver, not you. He takes the responsibility for the safety of the car and the passengers, not you. And in all probability he knows far more than you do about driving the car. So keep still.

It is interesting to note the number of people who try to drive a car from the back seat. Frequently we have approached a corner directly in the rear of another car and three different hands would shoot out from the car ahead to inform us of the driver's intention to turn. Often some passenger, thinking the driver, expected to turn, would take it upon himself to do the signalling with the result that it was all wrong.

Back seat driving is a menace and if it is at all possible to do so, some efforts should be made to impress on automobile passengers that it is the person behind the wheel who does the work.

An effort is being made by the American Automobile Association to "motorize the automobile passenger." An enthusiastic response to the campaign is being manifested everywhere to the polite way of trying to squelch the back-seat driver. Every operator of an automobile who has suffered from the suggestions and comments of those he has had with him, and we doubt if there is any driver who doesn't bump against people like this every day or two, will agree with the slogan of the campaign that "better passengers make better drivers."

"Long regarded as a nuisance, the back-seat driver has, under the present-day conditions of traffic, become a positive menace," says the Boston Transcript. "The operator of a car must of necessity concentrate all his faculties upon his vehicle and upon the road. He is looking and listening. He is feeling the response of every part of the car to his hand and he is even smelling. He sees the car ahead or the crossing, and it doesn't help any to have a passenger exclaim, "Look out," or to remark, "I saw a bad smash here the other day." He is listening for the horns of other cars, for the railroad crossing bell or the locomotive whistle, and singing in the back seat does not improve his chances of hearing the signal. And the driver knows that the smell of rubber burning is from a passing car and that his own is not on fire. Furthermore the experienced driver is content to catch his glimpses of the scenery when he may do so safely without having his eyes taken from the road by exclamations that he may take to mean some imminent danger that he has not detected."

Passengers who have limited knowledge of motoring, should learn to keep still and to refrain from making remarks that tend to unnerve or confuse the driver. Such passengers need to be educated in the acquisition of a motor sense. They should use a little ordinary, common sense and come to realize that when they entered the car they put themselves in the safe keeping of the person who was to drive, and that they can be of absolutely no assistance by offering advice, or by acting as a lookout, in the operation of the automobile.

Two Few Who Know How to Play

"It is difficult for any clear-thinking doctor to avoid the conclusion that the hustle of modern life, the pace at which we go, the nerve strain involved and the expense of spirit entailed have become larger factors in the incidence of disease and of diseases of a different type from many with which we were formerly acquainted."

Speaking to great company of United States and Canadian doctors in convention in London, Sir Thomas Horder, in these words expresses the fear of too great mental activity.

When we look around us and see everyone running to and fro, trying to accomplish several things at once, worrying over this or that, figuring out new schemes, new stunts, we cannot but wonder what the result of it all will be. This is a fast age in which we are living and especially here in Florida where developments are coming so thick and fast and where the best minds of the country are working out new methods and schemes for doing things quickly, are the high-speed type of persons found who allow themselves to run without a governor-belt.

Modern life imposes a strain on our minds and bodies, and while great things for the world have been accomplished in late years, still the words of Dr. Horder are worth considering and pondering over to a certain extent.

In the busy life of the average individual, physical condition, and good health must not be neglected, if that person would continue to accomplish great things. The fellow who feels that he must work from early morning until late at night, at fever heat, without relaxation and recreation, is quickly bringing himself to the day when he may have accumulated fortunes but when he will have lost his ability to enjoy his earnings, through loss of good health.

We like to see busy men. When a man is extremely busy, as a rule, he is making a success in his particular line of work. It seems as if the busier a man is the more work he has thrust on his shoulders, and the saying that if you want anything done you will have to get a busy man to do it is indeed very true. We like to see busy men. It means business is good. But we also like to see busy men relax, and keep in good condition by playing, by exercising, and by getting all out of life that it is possible to get.

Here in Florida nearly everyone knows how to make money but there are entirely too few who know how to play and make health.

IF YOU WANT a good example of what advertising will do, just take a look at Florida. It is the same state it has been. The same land is there. No gold mine has been discovered. No oil well has been dug. Just advertising, simple advertising, is all. Some of us might learn a lesson from them.—The Commerce News.

As Brisbane Sees It

Washington Will Shudder. And Is Not Christian! 4 Portraits, $1,000,000. What? Beer, Wine and Sober? BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

PREPARE FOR first-class shuddering in Washington. The Communist member of parliament, Saklatvala, is one of the British delegation to the parliamentary conference at Washington. Saklatvala, in a public speech said, among other things, this of the British flag:

"The Union Jack is the symbol of enslaved labor all over the world. It is the weapon with which the worker is downtrodden. In the name of the British worker I demand that the Union Jack shall cease to function. I say, let us abolish the Union Jack."

Suppose a communist or socialist member of our Congress said that about the Stars and Stripes. What would happen to him? Would he be sent as a member of a Congressional delegation to London, or would he be sent to the morgue?

THE BRITISH are a queer people and allow Britains to think what they like, and say what they like. That's one reason why they go on adding to their empire, and one reason why King George and his family still hold the throne. They find it wise to let men think and talk.

IF SAKLATVALA tried to pull down the Union Jack they would put him in jail quickly enough. The queer British, although they haven't any constitution with free speech in it, seem to take free speech seriously. We, presumably more enlightened, have free speech in our constitution, but forbid it in practice.

THE GOOD missionaries in China find dissatisfaction among converted Chinese. The "psychology of the converts" seems to be still Chinese, not "Christian," and students at Christian missions are organizing anti-Christian demonstrations.

THIS SHOULD not surprise or discourage good missionaries. Scratch a Christian Chinese, and you find a Confucian, or Taoist, without going very far under the skin. It is easier to change a man's nominal religion than to change his character or thought.

HISTORY TEACHES that Asia does not take to Christianity or its teachings. Christianity originated in Asia, but Paul had to take it to Europe to establish it as the dominating religion. It has never taken hold in any part of Asia, where it was born.

HENRY E. Huntington, of California, pays more than a million dollars for four paintings, by Gainsborough, Reynolds, Romney, and Copnoble. You are glad that Huntington will have these pictures to look at the rest of his life, and glad that he has the money to buy them. He has portraits, with all his other magnificent paintings, his magnificent library, and the house in which he lives, have already been given away and are now the property to the people of California. When a man gives what he has to the people, the more he has the better.

CHIEF POLICE Surgeon Owen brings from Europe to Philadelphia this statement:

"When I asked them in London and Paris about drunken policemen, firemen and taxi drivers they laughed at me. There simply aren't any. The solution over there is, give the police and firemen their light wine and beer; it's a cure for drunkenness. There is no prohibition to interfere with their inhibiting of wine and beer and there is no drunkenness."

That statement, shocking to good prohibitionists, confirms what Thomas Jefferson said more than a hundred years ago. He urged Congress to encourage light wine and beer in order to get rid of whiskey, which, said he, kills half of our men and ruins their families. Prohibition has succeeded in getting rid of light wine and beer, not of whiskey. But it has been on trial a short time only.

PROFESSOR PRICE, who teaches geology in Nebraska, is angry at the British who shouted him down when he smacked against Darwin. Says he: "Ten millions in America are against Darwin." The professor might also say, "Eighty millions in America don't know anything about Darwin, and don't therefore know really whether they are with him or against him."

NEW YORK'S POLITICAL SIDESHOW

MIAMI TRIBUNE

The City of New York is being treated at present to one of its periodic political sideshows with the main purpose being to select a new mayor and several lesser officials for the administration of the city's affairs. A somewhat unusual condition has arisen by reason of the fact that Tammany Hall, usually united for politics' sake at least, is now divided against itself, the present mayor, John Hylan, having been selected to run for the primaries in opposition to the candidate Senator "Jimmie" Walker selected by the Tammany boss and the Tammany representation in Manhattan.

The present Mayor, who has ambitions for a third term, and supported by one of the leading democratic bosses in Brooklyn, claims in advance victory at the polls, while his opponent is not less certain by statistics and other arguments of the fact that the present mayor will be "snowed under."

Governor Al Smith who is campaigning for Senator Walker is proving a strong opponent to the mayor, who he claims, has been more or less subservient to William Randolph Hearst, whom Governor Smith calls Hylan's "super-boss."

There are three republican candidates in the primary republican campaign who are also battling against Tammany and Mayor Hylan, particularly, one of whom is Mr. Frank Waterman of fountain pen fame. The slogan of the five cent fare upon which Mayor Hylan won his last campaign seems to be the present slogan of all of the candidates now running for the mayor's office, while Mayor Hylan is always, in delivering broadsides against "the interests," and seems to see in every opponent a representative of Wall Street and his perpetual enemy, "the Interboro." The outcome is still on the knives of the gods since the population in New York, like that of Miami, has grown so rapidly of late years, and especially in New York being increased by so much of the foreign element that the old predictions about suffrage are difficult to make.

There is no doubt however, that the majority of the older inhabitants of the city with probably a majority of the leading business men, will be lined up in opposition to Mayor Hylan who they believe has played politics and catered to personal publicity in a way to bring considerable ridicule upon the city. Governor Smith in his opening speech of the campaign also intimated that Mayor Hylan was lacking in loyalty to the democratic cause during the last Democratic Convention in New York and finds the present mayor quite incompetent in judgement and caliber of mind to even know or to analyze the problems relating to the government of a great city. Incidentally, more than one newspaper man would be glad to see a new mayor in New York, if for no reason than that they are tired of setting up front page headlines about Mayor Hylan and his various attacks upon "the interests."

During the last period of office especially, there has been almost a continuous squabble between the mayor and various city officials, and the leaders in civic movements in Greater New York.

A large portion of the population are weary enough of the "time out" for political controversies centering about the City Hall. Meanwhile the population of the country metropolis goes on about its business in the usual way, and whatever may be the outcome of the approaching primary the business of the city will be carried on without appreciable change, subways and increasing numbers of people who can get sufficient money together will move out of the city to occupy the new subdivisions in Long Island and Jersey. Like every other city, New York is struggling with the great problem of transportation.

It is to be hoped that, as this matter of transportation is so widely emphasized by all the candidates of the present political fight, whoever is finally nominated for mayor will get action far more suitably rather than talk and fight.

A KENTUCKY CRITIC

TAMPA TRIBUNE

There is no special occasion for The Tribune to give free advertising to the Park City News, of Bowling Green, Ky., but after all that sheet has been giving Florida a lot of free advertising.

That paper for a long time has been using up space on its editorial page trying to keep Bowling Green from being depopulated, but in spite of its efforts, a former resident of that town informs us that there are something like 200 people from there in Tampa alone. Whether the estimate is accurate or not, there must be a lot of them down this way. The same gentleman, who like most of the others is doing very well here, says Bowling Green had a big boom from 1920 to 1924, and the News did not use any space whatever in advising people of the United States to stay at home and keep away from Bowling Green and oil stock. Even if it was an unusually nice oil boom, we doubt if people made as much money as they are doing in Florida, or if everybody there so generally participated in the benefits as in Florida.

The News was called down some time ago by the Sanford Signal for one of its editorials derogatory to Florida. So on September 3 the News hits back with some personal remarks about Sanford, all along the line summarized: "Whenever you think of Florida boom, of course you always think of Miami, Tampa and St. Petersburg, but never of Sanford. Where is Sanford, anyhow?"

The News said: "We have never said a word about Sanford and did not consider it of sufficient importance to mention it." But the News is now finding out that when anybody knocks any part of Florida, all the rest of the state rallies to the defense. Whenever anybody not familiar with Kentucky thinks of Kentucky, he thinks of Bowling Green. It is probably news to the News that Sanford for many years before the present activity has been a prosperous Celery City, and that now Sanford has the largest Chamber of Commerce per capita in the world. Where does Bowling Green stand, anyhow?

That paper is happy that another small town paper, the Elizabethtown (Ky.) News, has joined it in warning people against selling out all they have and going to Florida. But the latter paper has always been a great believer in Florida, and we of Florida ourselves endorse its advice against burning all bridges and sinking all one's savings in speculation.

If the editor of the Bowling Green paper has a little extra cash and a little judgment, he can make money on the side, in Florida—much more than he will ever make out of his paper, judging by its appearance.

TAMPA GIRL TO BECOME BRIDE OF YOUNG SANFORD BUSINESS MAN

An announcement of unusual interest in this city is the engagement of Miss Mary Louise Dickenson of Tampa to Paul Lake of Sanford. Miss Dickenson has visited in this city on several occasions and was an attendant in the Lake-Hutton wedding last spring.

Mr. Lake is a prominent young business man of Sanford and has made his home in this city for several years. Friends of the couple will be delighted to learn that after their marriage, which will be an event of Oct. 22, they will reside in Sanford.

The engagement of Miss Dickenson was made at a lovely courtesy given for her in Tampa Saturday afternoon, an account of which appeared in Sunday's issue of the Tampa Tribune as follows:

"Pink roses, heart and cupid motifs, were charmingly featured at the luncheon given yesterday by Miss Marie McKean at the Tampa Yacht and Country Club, in honor of Miss Mary Louise Dickenson, whose engagement to Mr. Paul Lake, of Sanford, was announced upon that delightful occasion.

"Centering the luncheon table was a large heart-shaped, rose covered piece bearing a miniature cupid holding pink ribbons extending to each guest's place, inviting each to draw for pretty favors. The place cards, seating the guests were bride's coronas, and beside each place was a dainty white nut cup overhung by a wedding bell. Before the guest of honor was a daintily wrapped package, tied with white satin ribbons, which revealed upon opening a handsome lizard skin purse worked in penny-point design, the gift of the hostess.

"Gathered about the luncheon table as Miss McKean's guests were: Miss Mary Louise Dickenson, honoree, Miss Virginia Wooten, Miss Katherine Frazier, Miss Katherine Broadus, Miss Margaret McMullen, Miss Angie Allen, Miss Joyce Prince, Miss Orleze O'Brien, Miss Elizabeth Range, Mrs. Frank Davies, Mrs. W. B. Dickenson and George B. McKean.

Dickerson-Lake

Mr. and Mrs. William Booth Dickenson, of Tampa, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Louise, to Paul Lake of Sanford, the wedding to take place Oct. 22.

Miss Dickenson, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dickenson, of 301 South Boulevard, long prominent in Tampa, graduated from the local high school, later completing a course at the Florida State College for Women, at Tallahassee. She is a member of the Chi Omega national sorority.

Mr. Lake, who has made many friends in Tampa, comes originally from South Carolina. He is a graduate of the Citadel at Charleston, S. C. Mr. Lake came to Florida several years ago, and is now engaged in the real estate business in Sanford.

The Modern Library

Editor's Note: The following is an address on library work and its importance to a community, delivered recently before the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs of this city. The Herald reprints the address upon the request of a number of members of these two organizations.

"We librarians find that people often have vague ideas about public libraries, as well as curious impressions regarding both ourselves and our work. Perhaps you have heard of the book agent who inquired of the busy housewife if she had a Charles Dickens or a Nathaniel Hawthorne in her home, to which she replied in angry tones: 'No, we have not, I suppose you have got us mixed up as usual with the boarding house next door.' And as this good woman confused these great writers with the everyday people about her, so many citizens have confused ideas of this great institution, which dates back to the early days of history. They think of it perhaps as a library which she replied in indignation when she saw the Alexandrian in Egypt, which was carefully arranged and catalogued.

"During the Middle Ages books were mostly to be found in the monasteries, and the monks were the guardians of learning. These collections formed the beginning of many of the famous libraries of Europe today, that of the Vatican having some of the richest treasures in the world.

"France has the largest library in the world in the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris, and next to this is the British Museum in London, with contents of equal value. Our own Congressional Library at Washington, which ranks third, has one of the most magnificent buildings in the world. Its frescoed walls and classic paintings are familiar to every visitor to our Capitol.

"Next to this comes the New York Public Library, of which I have many pleasant memories, as I served on the staff there for several years. It is the largest circulating library in existence, and is said to be the first library in the world in point of use. Its central building on Fifth Avenue, which cost nine millions, exclusive of the grounds, houses its great reference collection, and is the headquarters for the forty or more branches which radiate to every part of the city, extending even to Staten Island.

"The United States furnishes the finest example of free public libraries to be found anywhere. The modern library movement began in 1876, when the American Library Association was founded. This has a large national membership, in which are found men and women of the highest intellectual type. Its aim is 'to promote library service and librarianship,' and its motto: 'The best reading for the largest number at the least cost.'

"It may be of interest to know many types of libraries there are, each distinct from the other, the largest ones are mostly for reference, subdivided into various departments. In these you will find special rooms for Oriental literature, Americana, Incunabula, or books printed before 1500, rare editions, Genealogy, books for the Blind, Genealogy, collection of Music and Art—in fact, books of every class. Then there are University, College and High school libraries, State, County, Traveling, Hospital, Prison and Camp libraries, even the 'Library on wheels,' as the library book wagon is called. But the most important of all to the average citizen is the free public library, which is the most democratic institution in the world.

"May I tell you what a few of even those who use the library the leading men of our day have said about its value and worth?

"Horace Mann, the great educator, said: 'Public libraries are an essential part of a complete system of public education.'

"William Jennings Bryan called the system of free public libraries now established in this country 'the most important development of modern times.'

"To quote Theodore Roosevelt: 'The free public library, after the church and school, is the most effective influence for good in America. The moral, mental and material benefits to be derived from a carefully selected collection of good books, free for the use of all the people, cannot be overestimated. No community can afford to be without a library.'

"Andrew Carnegie remarked: 'I choose free libraries as the best agencies for improving the people, because they give nothing for nothing. They only help those who help themselves. They never perish. They reach the aspiring, and open to these the chief treasures of the world. For these and other reasons I prefer the free public library to most if not any other agencies for the happiness and improvement of a community.'

"What are some of the things it does for a community? It is first of all 'the People's university,' a carefully selected school, or 'a university in continuous session.' Education is a lifelong process, and libraries furnish that education which is not synonymous with schools or their teaching. It furnishes information to all those whose work helps the welfare of mankind, and to those whose work requires technical knowledge. It provides the field of self-education for those who have lacked early opportunities—the Adult education about which we are hearing so much these days. This is carried on in large libraries by a Reader's bureau, conducted by a trained staff of specialists and division heads, each an expert in his line of work.

"In this connection I read only a day or two ago the following remarkable statement made by the Librarian of the Milwaukee Public Library in which he said: 'There are as many adults seeking education after working hours as there are pupils in all the grade and high schools of the country.' This certainly gives our libraries much food for thought as to their work for the future.

"Libraries also make the town more attractive to the class of people we want as residents and neighbors and helps to keep them there. It affords the best kind of entertainment, and thus lessens crime and disorder. 'It is the one institution by which the life of the entire community is enriched,' and which has something to offer all people for all time. There are no social lines to bar the entrance, no credits to be subscribed to. The doors open at every touch. Even the aristocracy of intellect does not count. It serves the rich and the poor, the old and the young, the educated and the uneducated, the well and the sick, those seeking practical help in the business of life, and those needing escape from that business. And this is because 'for every human need there is a book.'

"It is said that the best cities have the best libraries, and that good cities insist on having good libraries. Why? Because they give significance and vitality to all the worthwhile things, help to combat materialism and are allies to the fine and good things of life. To give an illustration: New York City spent in 1923 over a million dollars in its circulation department and over another million in its reference work. California has the finest system of county libraries to be found anywhere, and joint annual income is nearly a quarter of a million dollars. Its last biennial appropriation for its State library work, not including city libraries, was $152,000; Ohio's $86,000; Oregon's $75,000; Illinois' $10,000; Texas $24,000. Florida is at last coming into her own, as the last legislature appropriated $12,000 for the beginning of a State Library.

"Let us glance for a moment at how our libraries are operated—the modus operandi by which we get our work across to the public. It has often been remarked that graph records and music scores are also loaned.

"A record is also kept of the members, each of whom is classified as a resident, non-resident or temporary resident. Overdue notices are sent impartially to all alike, and those who do not finally return books are placed on the delinquent list. It is very creditable to Sanford that out of 25,000 books loaned last year and over 1,000 members, only two living in town and four who moved away, failed to do their duty, and in every case they were young people.

"This is called 'the century of the child,' and this is apparent in the library as elsewhere. The books found there are selected with especial care, as we feel we are helping to make the future citizen. With the wealth of splendid books being published in increasing numbers for children each year and the many beautifully illustrated editions, there is no excuse for finding the mediocre or second-rate on their shelves. In a well-managed library the parent need have no misgivings as to the books his child will find there. Of course in the adult department a much wider latitude is allowed. In addition to the Story hours and Reading clubs special attention is given to the collateral reading of the high school students, and instruction is often given by classes in the library as to the use of the catalogue and reference books and the arrangement of the shelves.

"In the Reference room subjects are looked up on named topics for the adults as well as the juveniles, and the magazines and newspapers are in daily use, especially by the men.

"Then there is the business side, the correspondence, keeping the accounts by journal and ledger so that they may be examined by the City treasurer or State auditor, the daily statistics and reports, the making of schedules for the staff and planning and supervising their work, interviewing the public who call and giving a polite refusal to book agents, keeping the library open according to schedule, and before the public eye by means of printed notices and book reviews.

"It may be of interest to know what some of the books asked for by the business men of Sanford. The subjects asked for the most are History, Psychology, Agriculture, Evolution, Real Estate and technical subjects, while the fiction usually means either a detective or a Western story. While of course Zane Grey, Curwood, O'penheim, Joseph C. Lincoln and Harold Bell Wright are the most popular authors, it is very gratifying to know that the solid novelists like Thomas Hardy, Galsworthy, Hergesheimer and Dostoevskii are also in constant demand.

"Sanford has reason to be proud of the start she has made in her public library. We have an attractive building and fine equipment, with over 5,500 books in our collection, and everything has been organized according to modern methods generally used. It is our aim to give impartial service to all alike, and nothing pleases us more than to be able to meet the needs of the everyday man or woman, who comes to us with a serious request. We find that many of the newcomers make the library one of their objective points, and it would certainly give us great pleasure if those of you gentlemen who are not members would add to the 35 per cent of the men who already belong, and help us to make it a strong and flourishing institution. We always especially welcome the business man and try to satisfy his requirements for our four funds will permit.

"And so it is that those of us who take an active part in presenting the library drama to our wide and varied audience feel that the library is one of the torch bearers of civilization, and that this 'modern temple of knowledge' has become the symbol of universal progress and takes a permanent place among the educative forces of modern democracy."

ST. PETERSBURG EVENS SERIES BY BEATING TAMPA

Houston Allows Tampa Only Four Scattered Hits While Saints Garner Seven Off Oscar Estrada, Tampa Ace

TAMPA, Sept. 14.—(P)—The count is all even again in the Florida State League post season series for the pennant with St. Petersburg winning from Tampa Saturday afternoon, 4 to 1.

Oscar Estrada, Smoker twirler pitched a steady game throughout except in the fourth inning when he was touched for 3 of the 7 hits he gave up and 3 runs were scored. An extra tally was shovelled over by the Saints in the ninth when Block doubled and scored on Houston's Texas-leaguer to right.

S. Doyle drew a base on balls with one down in the fourth and Brown sent him to second with a single and the latted scored on a single by Cox, Brown advancing to third. Brown scored when P. Doyle grounded out to Snead and Barnes sent Cox over with a single to left.

The Smokers put over their lons tally in the seventh when Lopez led off with a single and was safe at second when Messner dropped the throw on Jesmer's grounder. Lopez went to third when Allan forced Jesmer at second and the Tampa catcher scored on Snead's sacrifice fly.

Houston twirled a great game, holding the Smokers to four hits, no two of them in any one inning. Although wild at times and hitting batters, he staidied in the pinches and turned the Smokers back when runners were on.

The final game to decide the pennant will be played in St. Petersburg Monday afternoon. More than 4,000 people witnessed today's game.

PHILADELPHIA IS HELD HITLESS BY DAZZY VANCE

Dodger Ace in Brilliant Form and Fans Nine in 1st Game; Phillies Take Final Game; Cards Beat Pirates Twice

BROOKLYN, Sept. 14.—(P)—Brooklyn split a double header here with Philadelphia Sunday. Dazzy Vance twirling a no-hit game in the opener which Brooklyn won 10 to 1, while the Phillies took the second, 7 to 3.

It was Vance's first no-hit game of his major league career. He was in superb form and fanned nine batters. The run scored off him came in the second inning. Johnston made a two base maff of Hawk's fly and then threw wild to second permitting Hawks to take third. Frieberg followed with a sacrifice scoring Hawks.

Hawks' home run over the right field wall with the bases full scored the second game in the third inning. Leach also hit for the circuit with one man on base in the fourth, driving Grimes out of the box.

Hargreaves and Harper collided at first base in the seventh inning of the final game and were parted by the umpires just as they were coming to blows. When Harper went to his place in left field he was greeted with a shower of pop bottles, some of which struck him but did no harm. Play was stopped several minutes while the field was cleared.

Thomas Watson, California hermit, has decided to move to Mexico to obtain real seclusion. For years he lived undisturbed near Newport Beach, Calif., but a little publicity caused the curious to flock to his hut. He says they asked so many "foolish questions" he decided to move.
