Over $6 1/2 Million In Construction Is Reported In County

There was over $6 1/2 million in construction in Seminole County during the first six months of 1936, according to a report from the Seminole County Zoning Commission and its director, Robert S. Brown.

There were 726 single dwelling permits issued during the first half of 1936, said Brown, with an estimated valuation of $2,974,800. Additional permits issued included 17 for commercial construction at an estimated valuation of $150,000; five permits for the construction of churches, educational buildings, and parish houses etc. at an estimated valuation of $22,000; and 19 permits for the construction of duplexes with an estimated valuation of $229,500.

Total estimated construction for the county came to $5,540,300. This is the first half-year reporting period with no experience with which to compare. However, construction has continued from month to month with an up-and-down at an average pace of over $1 million a month.

The heaviest construction, shown in the report, is for single family dwellings and it is expected that this part of the report will continue to form the largest part of the release each month.

For the month of June, the last reporting month in the period, there were 179 building permits issued at an estimated valuation of $1,140,000.

In addition to the building permits there were 120 electrical permits and 148 plumbing permits issued by the Seminole County Zoning office.

Before an audience of 33 members of the Lions Club, along with their ladies, new officers of the Sanford Lions Club were installed recently at Lake Monroe Inn.

District Governor Jim Boyte of Leesburg was the installing officer following the annual banquet and a program of entertainment.

Outgoing president W. Hugh Duncan gave his report of Lions Club activities for the past year. He reported that the Sanford club began and completed 54 separate activities for community betterment.

Among the projects, reported Duncan, was the spending of $300 for the underprivileged who were in need of eye glasses; 41 eye examinations were made to determine corrections for eyes; and two red and white canes were given to blind persons of the community.

In addition, the club sent a local boy to Boys State, sent a boy representative to the annual Salvation Army camp, completed the 31st consecutive year of "Little League" baseball which is the oldest among Lions Clubs in Florida; sent a contribution to a Lions Club in Brazil to help in the building of a school house, sent a full quota of delegates to the State Convention, and the club was represented on the District Cabinet by W. Hugh Duncan who served as District Zone Chairman.

Officers installed at the banquet and annual meeting were H. W. "Buddy" Rawls, president; J. Q. "Slim" Galloway, first vice president; Bruce Padlock, second vice president; DeWitt Whitmore, third vice president; W. Hugh Duncan, secretary; Jack K. Morrison, treasurer; Frank Jones, Lion Tamer; and M. L. "Foot" Yelvington, Tall Twister; Howard Hood and Grady Duncan, new directors.

Out-of-town guests included International Counselor Earl Ziebarth of Ft. Pierce, Deputy Governor Milton Rutherford of New Smyrna Beach and Deputy Governor-elect Merle Kicklighter of Daytona Beach.

Farmers' Market Featured In July Issue Of Journal

Sanford received another big share of publicity when the Sanford State Farmers Market building was featured in the July issue of "The Florida Architect," official journal of the Florida Association of Architects.

A series of three pictures, one of the fire-damaged building, another when the new building was under construction, and the third of the completed building.

Pictures and story of the local market were featured in an advertisement of a cement company which pointed out that "Florida's original State-Owned Farmers Market" at Sanford is now its most modern, both in appearance and planning. The entire building is designed around prestressed concrete.

The advertisement, a full page on the magazine's first sheet, gave details of the building's construction and the use of various types of prestressed concrete units.

One Dies In Local Holiday Accident

One death and one serious injury marked the long holiday weekend in Seminole County.

Dead is Ernest B. Mock, 64, of the Oviedo section, and injured is Mrs. Violet DePew, 66, of Maitland.

Mock, said Florida Highway Patrolman Ollis Garrett, died in an Orange County Hospital at 10:40 p.m. Saturday night from injuries received when his car, a 1931 Ford coupe, plowed into the abutment of a bridge three miles west of Oviedo.

The automobile, the MHP officer said, left the road for about 80 feet before crashing into the bridge abutment. Mock was lying in the seat when officers arrived at the scene with a crushed chest and fractured skull.

Mock was first brought to Seminole Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment and then immediately transferred to the Orange County hospital. The accident occurred about 8:30 p.m.

Officers said the automobile was completely demolished. It was traveling west at the time of the accident. There were no passengers in the car.

In addition to the badly injured neck received by Mrs. DePew, there was property damage estimated at $1,000 in a two-car accident at the intersection of Highway 17-99 and State Road 436.

Mrs. DePew was taken from her car as she drove out in front of an oncoming car after stopping at the intersection. She was traveling east on 436.

According to witnesses, said Florida Highway Patrolman J. L. Sikes, Mrs. DePew was traveling alone and when thrown out of control and circled behind the Glass Tower hitting a propane gas tank, hit a power pole causing wires to short, hit the building breaking a jagged window, and then smashed into a steel tearing out a hot water heater.

Patrolman Sikes said the Casselberry Fire Department was called to the scene because of leaking gas and possibilities of fire, the power company and Suburban Gas Co. were also called to the accident scene.

Mrs. DePew pulled out in front of an automobile driven by Sidney Carroll Parker, 23, Blount Road, Pompano Beach, accompanied by his wife and daughter, traveling south to Kissimmee.

Holiday traffic was routed around the wreckage in the center of the two-lane southbound road. It took 90 minutes to clear away and clean up the accident area.

In addition to the badly sprained neck, Mrs. DePew also received cuts and abrasions. "Damage is estimated at $1,000," said Patrolman Sikes.

Meeting regularly to discuss the first phase of the survey, the commission brought before it various heads of departments and elected officials to derive into the immediate program.

One of the members, Vernon Dunn of Casselberry, suggested a proposed recommendation. However, most members would not endorse the recommendation as a whole.

They fell, as it was expressed last Monday night in a lengthy meeting, that "additional study be given the proposal."

Frank Wheeler Jr., of Oviedo, chairman of the group, appointed a sub-committee to look into the proposed recommendation and "come up with a resolution" that could be presented to the Board of County Commissioners at a future meeting.

The sub-committee, composed of George A. Speer Jr., Mack N. Cleveland Jr., Robert P. Lamont, and Richard McCanna will present its recommendations and a proposed resolution at tonight's meeting.

Other members of the 11-man committee other than the chairman and the four members of the subcommittee are: Vernon Dunn, F. D. Scott, W. G. Kilbee, Denton Cordell, Al Lee, and Randall Chase.

MORE ALLOWANCE
SHEFFIELD, Eng. — (UPI) — Juvenile Court Judge D. J. O'Neill ordered the father of a boy charged with stealing 500 pounds ($1,400) of his savings to increase the boy's allowance from sixpence (seven cents) a week.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for Bernard Goldfine said today that the hotel room of Goldfine's secretary, Mildred Paperman, had been "ransacked" and a number of important financial records stolen.

Roger Robb, attorney for the Boston millionaire, said the records had a bearing on Goldfine's testimony before the House committee probing his relationship with Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams.

Robb said he had notified Washington police of the incident. Goldfine also lodged a complaint with the Federal Bureau of Investigation over secret recordings made by a subcommittee investigator and an associate of columnist Drew Pearson.

The investigator, Baron Shackleton, and Jack Anderson, Pearson's assistant, were discovered eavesdropping with a microphone in a hotel room adjoining that occupied by Goldfine's new publicity man, Jack Letto.

Subcommittee Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.), describing the incident as "very serious," called his subcommittee into an emergency session to consider the matter.

Letto said the FBI has assigned agents to investigate the eavesdropping complaint. Goldfine, through his staff, also filed a complaint with Oliver Gasch, U.S. district attorney for Washington.

Letto said that Miss Paperman, who probably knows more than any other person about Goldfine's operations, discovered that books, records, correspondence, lists, cancelled checks, photo copies, and other documents had been removed from the closet of her room.

According to Letto, here's what happened: Miss Paperman returned to the Sheraton Carlton Hotel at about 10:30 p.m. Sunday after she and the Goldfines flew in from Boston.

When Miss Paperman entered her room, she noticed that the bolt on the door leading to an adjoining room was open. The adjoining room had been retained and occupied by a member of Goldfine's staff. She thought no more of it and went to bed.

Documents Missing
This morning when she got up dressed and began assembling papers needed in Goldfine's testimony this week, she discovered that her files in the closet had been ripped open and a number of papers removed.

Committee Irons
Out Resolution
On Tax Policies

A subcommittee of the Advisory Commission to the Board of Seminole County Commissioners met this afternoon to discuss and iron out a "resolution" that would embody recommendations to the county regarding its tax policies.

The proposed resolutions, prepared this afternoon, will be circulated among the members of the entire committee for consideration at its next meeting.

The group of county civic leaders were appointed early this year to survey the problems of Seminole County and make its recommendations to the Board of County Commissioners to correct the existing problems.

First of the problems to be tackled by the group of civic leaders was the tax inequities, assessment procedure, and high millage.

Meeting regularly to discuss the first phase of the survey, the commission brought before it various heads of departments and elected officials to derive into the immediate program.

One of the members, Vernon Dunn of Casselberry, suggested a proposed recommendation. However, most members would not endorse the recommendation as a whole.

They fell, as it was expressed last Monday night in a lengthy meeting, that "additional study be given the proposal."

DeBaryite Has Interesting Musical Career

"It's been a lot of fun—music and sewing," says Mrs. Ludwig Kupeck, who lives on Bonita Road in DeBary.

And that statement becomes reality when Mrs. Kupeck sits at the piano to demonstrate her unusual musical talent.

Mrs. Kupeck was born in the suburbs of Vienna, Austria in 1892. She really wanted to study at the Conservatory in Vienna, but as she put it "being the youngest of six children, this was impossible."

In her eighth year she began studying piano with the best teachers they could get, and then when her family moved to Vienna proper, she attended a special school that also taught sewing.

Her instructors and the director of the school encouraged her to take up teaching, so in 1913 she entered the Teachers Training School. In 1915 she graduated and began teaching in the very same school in which she had studied years before.

During the war years, Mrs. Kupeck's knowledge of shorthand provided a position as parliament stenographer with the Austrian War Department, a position she held until the end of World War I.

However, all through these years she worked diligently at her music. She attended every concert in Vienna and became acquainted with almost every branch of music, piano, violin, voice and orchestration.

At the Vienna Opera House, famous the world over, she attended every performance possible. In 1918 a pupil of one of the best known singing teachers gave Theresa Kupeck the opportunity to accompany him. She played for this baritone singer for four years.

During the bitter war years she had to do without her piano for a time but begged one of her neighbors for the chance to practice on their piano.

In April 1923 Theresa Kupeck and her husband came to America and among the first pieces of furniture they bought was a second hand upright piano. As soon as her knowledge of English improved she began teaching piano.

It was in Springfield, Gardens, L.I., where the Kupecks bought their first home and present piano, that she had many pupils. She started to play with chamber music groups in New York and Brooklyn.

Moving to Baldwin, L. I., she helped in the founding of the Long Island Symphony Orchestra under a Mr. Jaffe who had been playing first violin with the NBC Orchestra for Toscanini.

Coming to DeBary a few years ago, Theresa Kupeck has worked with Laura Pitt Brown and Helger Casini, the conductor of the DeBary Symphony Orchestra. She is a member of the chamber music group, teaches piano students, is the accompanist for the DeBary Woman's Club Choral Group, sings in the alto section of the DeBary Choristers, and has accompanied many local singers and soloists.

Theresa Kupeck has enjoyed a fabulous music career, created by that early desire to study and know music. "It's been fun," she said. Not only is Mrs. Kupeck a fine musician but a dressmaker of note.

Members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club will learn more about "how a home, a building, a factory" is started.

John A. Burton IV, local architect, will be the principal speaker at the noon luncheon meeting Wednesday of the Sanford Kiwanis Club.

David McNab, program chairman of the meeting, says that Burton's topic "will be along the lines of his profession with some emphasis on local points."

The Kiwanis Club meeting is held at the Sanford Civic Center.

Alaska Welcomed As The 49th State To Brotherhood Of States

Nearly half a century has passed since a new state was last admitted into the Union. This year the nation is going to make up for lost time by bringing in a whopper. We join millions of other Americans in welcoming Alaska, belatedly but nonetheless warmly, into the brotherhood of states.

Alaskans are small in number, but their exuberance is great and lusty to match the vast territory that will soon be the 49th member of the United States of America. They have celebrated with gusto, and the end is not yet. There has been dancing in the streets; there have been mighty bonfires, and pageantry, and the wild pealing of bells. It is a time of joy for the men and women of Alaska.

But this celebration, like others, will pass into history. The time for sober assessment of assets and liabilities, and for hard work

Small Business Gets Big Boost

The Senate acted wisely, the way we look at it, when it approved a proposal to make a permanent agency of the Small Business Administration. Without permanent status, the agency has been handicapped in various ways. Under the proposed new setup, it should be able to give far more effective aid to the nation's small business enterprises.

There is little question but that such enterprises are entitled to have an agency working in their behalf. Small business, like the individual farmer, is faced with special problems. And, again like the farmer, small business is a vital factor in the national economy.

As a permanent agency, the Small Business Administration ought to be able to attract more bank participation in its programs. It will have a better chance to keep a good staff.

Safe from the threat of being abruptly cut off, it also should get a better hearing from those who make huge Defense Department purchases. Small business will benefit, and so will the economy as a whole.

More About Driver's Attitude

When there is talk about developing better drivers to meet the challenge of faster, busier traffic, one basic requirement of a good driver is often ignored. This requirement might be called a social conscience. The phrase implies an active concern for the rights and benefits of other.

Without such concern, the most skilled of drivers is a menace — perhaps not consciously, but a menace nevertheless — to everyone else on the road.

The mechanical skills of driving, the ability to judge speed and distance accurately, an aptitude for getting out of tight scrapes—these are only part of the equipment needed by a good driver. They are important, but less so than an attitude of watching out for the other fellow's interests, yielding a bit when that is helpful.

The U. S. Supreme Court has handed down a decision upholding the right of a non-union employe to recover damages from a union because its picket lines prevented him from working in his regular job. The damage award came to $10,000—$500 for loss of pay, and $9,500 punitive damages.

Spokesman Warns Of Red Subversion Rise

(Editor's Note: One of Asia's outstanding statesmen is Pote Sarasin, secretary-general of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO). Former prime minister of Thailand and his country's long-time ambassador to Washington, Sarasin is to Asia what NATO's Paul Henri Spaak is to Europe. In the following exclusive interview with the United Press International manager for Tokyo, Sarasin discusses SEATO's problems and hopes.)

By ARNOLD DIBBLE
 United Press International
BANGKOK—(UPI)—Communist subversion is on the rise again in Southeast Asia and the free world must become better organized to fight it, SEATO Secretary-General Pote Sarasin warns.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press International, the Thai statesman declared that the side of freedom had the greater number of supporters but was in danger of being itself through the lack of will or skill to hammer out a common policy.

Even though outnumbered, he pointed out, the Communists can win through discipline and organization.

Sarasin reviewed current Asian problems from turbulent Indonesia to the recent election reversals to the West in neighboring Laos where the leftwing Pathet Lao scored heavily despite the greatest per capita U. S. aid any place in the world.

Bad Organization
 It was in connection with Laos that the former Thai foreign minister and long-time ambassador to Washington developed the major theme of the interview.

"Most of these voters are not Communist as we know it," he said, "they merely were voting to better their own lot, and the Communists skillfully exploited them."

"But even then the democratic candidates would not have done so badly had they been organized," he pointed out that the West's candidates were supposed to have gotten together and decided upon a single slate, but failed to do so.

As a result of poor organization, the vote was split, allowing the well-disciplined Communists to maneuver their men into power.

Sarasin warned that the West must not give up merely as the result of one defeat. He didn't say so, but it was inferred that he was speaking of threats to cut down or cut off U. S. aid as a result of the elections.

But, he said, the West must develop more spectacular economic aid projects as well as the long-range projects.

Too Late To Classify

By Russell May
 Right now, Tampa is having a sure enough knock down and drag out gasoline price war with gas selling anywhere from 17c to 18c per gallon. Motorists are having a field day, their only complaint is that most of them have only ONE tank to fill.

Nobody seems to know how the war started or why. Ask the retailer and he thinks this or that but he doesn't know the answer. Question the distributor and he is completely in the dark.

The answers you do get are vague. Too much competition. Too many filling stations, big fish trying to eat little fish, etc. They tell you, "We ought to pass a law."

Some folks think we should have a petroleum commission to control and regulate the industry similar to the Railroad and Public Utility Commission or the Milk Commission. God forbid! We have such commissions now. We don't need more government in business.

A number of states and cities have established regulatory bodies to control gasoline business but outside of providing jobs for politicians and bureaucrats they don't help the consumer, and usually turn out to be a pain-in-the-neck to all concerned. Rules and regulations specify the size of a sign a dealer can display, the hours he may remain open, the price he must charge and it is good-by free enterprise and competitive operation.

You never hear the motorist screaming for regulation if he really knows that it means, if a dealer through better management, bet-

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Mongolian People's Revolutionary (Communist) Party has 42,000 card-carrying members and more than 4,500 candidate members.

Total strength of the party is roughly one-tenth of the country's total population.

Mongolia, which became a Communist state when the party took leadership in November, 1924, has had two five-year economic plans since 1948. And according to Communist claims, the country today is well on the road to socialism.

What has socialist Mongolia achieved during the past 10 years? Mongolia basically is the home of nomad herdsmen tending their livestock. Communists, therefore, herdsmen incorporated in state-operated herdsmen's cooperatives.

Gains Claimed
 According to Dordja Damba, first secretary of the central committee of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party, by the end of the country's second five-year plan (1957) "85 per cent of herdsmen's households and 8.5 million head of livestock had been enrolled in cooperatives."

Damba pointed out that the figures were "a great leap forward" from those at the end of 1952—the end of the country's first five-year plan—when only five per cent of herdsmen's households and half a million head of livestock were in cooperatives.

He said that cultivated areas expanded 30 per cent during the five-year plan from 1948-1952.

On the industrial side, the party secretary said that at the end of the 10-year period, industrial output made up 41 per cent of the country's total production. The number of workers employed by the factories was roughly 27 per cent

Spokesman Warns Of Red Subversion Rise

(Editor's Note: One of Asia's outstanding statesmen is Pote Sarasin, secretary-general of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO). Former prime minister of Thailand and his country's long-time ambassador to Washington, Sarasin is to Asia what NATO's Paul Henri Spaak is to Europe. In the following exclusive interview with the United Press International manager for Tokyo, Sarasin discusses SEATO's problems and hopes.)

By ARNOLD DIBBLE
 United Press International
BANGKOK—(UPI)—Communist subversion is on the rise again in Southeast Asia and the free world must become better organized to fight it, SEATO Secretary-General Pote Sarasin warns.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press International, the Thai statesman declared that the side of freedom had the greater number of supporters but was in danger of being itself through the lack of will or skill to hammer out a common policy.

Even though outnumbered, he pointed out, the Communists can win through discipline and organization.

Sarasin reviewed current Asian problems from turbulent Indonesia to the recent election reversals to the West in neighboring Laos where the leftwing Pathet Lao scored heavily despite the greatest per capita U. S. aid any place in the world.

Bad Organization
 It was in connection with Laos that the former Thai foreign minister and long-time ambassador to Washington developed the major theme of the interview.

"Most of these voters are not Communist as we know it," he said, "they merely were voting to better their own lot, and the Communists skillfully exploited them."

"But even then the democratic candidates would not have done so badly had they been organized," he pointed out that the West's candidates were supposed to have gotten together and decided upon a single slate, but failed to do so.

As a result of poor organization, the vote was split, allowing the well-disciplined Communists to maneuver their men into power.

Sarasin warned that the West must not give up merely as the result of one defeat. He didn't say so, but it was inferred that he was speaking of threats to cut down or cut off U. S. aid as a result of the elections.

But, he said, the West must develop more spectacular economic aid projects as well as the long-range projects.

Too Late To Classify

By Russell May
 Right now, Tampa is having a sure enough knock down and drag out gasoline price war with gas selling anywhere from 17c to 18c per gallon. Motorists are having a field day, their only complaint is that most of them have only ONE tank to fill.

Nobody seems to know how the war started or why. Ask the retailer and he thinks this or that but he doesn't know the answer. Question the distributor and he is completely in the dark.

The answers you do get are vague. Too much competition. Too many filling stations, big fish trying to eat little fish, etc. They tell you, "We ought to pass a law."

Some folks think we should have a petroleum commission to control and regulate the industry similar to the Railroad and Public Utility Commission or the Milk Commission. God forbid! We have such commissions now. We don't need more government in business.

A number of states and cities have established regulatory bodies to control gasoline business but outside of providing jobs for politicians and bureaucrats they don't help the consumer, and usually turn out to be a pain-in-the-neck to all concerned. Rules and regulations specify the size of a sign a dealer can display, the hours he may remain open, the price he must charge and it is good-by free enterprise and competitive operation.

You never hear the motorist screaming for regulation if he really knows that it means, if a dealer through better management, bet-

Garden Gate

JACARANDA CIRCLE
By Mrs. W. B. Nelson

With all the hot weather so typical of this month most of us can think of nothing except vacation time; however, there are a few garden chores necessary to keep the yard in tip-top condition.

One good pointer is to mulch shrubs and annuals if you have not already done so. Mulches help to conserve moisture, to keep the soil temperature lower, and to discourage weed growth. All of these are important items, particularly if you're leaving on vacation and don't want weeds to run rampant. Any type of mulch will do—leaves, pine straw, peanut vines, hulls, or similar materials. Mulch all of your plants to save yourself a lot of trouble.

Azalea leaf-tip burn is a common problem in some areas of Central Florida where artemisia well water, high in soluble salts, is used in irrigating the yard area. Elegans and Pride of Mobile varieties are particularly susceptible to this burn. The only cure is to stop using the well water and wash the soil with pure water. You can have your well water tested by various chemical laboratories to determine if this is the culprit. Other plants—camellias, mangos, and avocados will also show this symptom.

Zinnias, Crocus Myrtle, and a few other plants are subject to a powdery mildew attack. Squelch this fungus by dusting the plants with sulphur.

July is generally a poor planting month except for a few heat-tolerant favorites. If you seed balsam, cosmos, marigold, tithonia, or similar now they should bloom by the end of summer or early fall.

Unless you're overly ambitious it might be best to do less planting and spend most of your time preparing seedbeds for the August and September plantings.

July is a good time to divide many of your herbaceous perennials, such as daylilies. While in the process of dividing daylilies why not also cut the bulbs of your prized amaryllis to increase your planting? The bulbs may be cut vertically into six or more pieces. Care should be taken so that each piece has a portion of the stem tissue or basal part of the bulb attached.

Insert these wedges in flats containing a moist mixture of peat moss and sand in equal parts. In this weather small bulbs will begin to form between the scales of the bulbs and usually will be large enough to pot off after one growing season. These new plants should bloom within two or three years.

Careless Handling Of Picnic Food Can Cause Poisoning

By JEANNE LEBEM
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UPI)—The picnic season is a mixed blessing. It cuts down on dish-washing and other housekeeping chores, but it increases the possibility of food poisoning among careless picnickers.

The U. S. Public Health Service reports an average of 11,000 food poisoning cases annually. But authorities regard this figure as a gross understatement because many health boards fail to report case totals to the federal agency. There also are no statistics showing how many cases are due to careless handling of picnic food.

Whatever the figure, it could be cut greatly with cleanliness and refrigeration, says the New York Department of Health.

This includes bread, cookies, crackers and dry cakes, such as pound or sponge cake. It also includes all raw fruits and vegetables, fruit juices, dry and cooked cereals, cooked vegetables, stewed fruits, cheeses, canned fish, canned baked beans, fried or boiled eggs, jellies and jams.

This rules out traditional picnic items, such as ham and chicken salads, potato or macaroni salad, dairy foods and mayonnaise. They are more readily contaminated, the health department said. If you do use them, don't mix in the mayonnaise or salad dressing until serving time, because the solid food will reduce the dressing's acidity which protects it from contamination.

Restore a shrunken blanket by soaking it in water at body temperature for about 5 minutes. Stretch it gently but firmly while it is still wet.

Sikes - Gallant Engagement, Wedding Plans Revealed

Mrs. L. W. Hagstrom announces the engagement of her foster daughter, Virginia Ann Sikes to Philip J. Gallant of Daytona Beach. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. D. E. Moore and the late Mr. C. W. Sikes. Philip Gallant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alpha Gallant of Leominster, Mass.

Virginia Ann Sikes attended Florida Southern College and graduated from Stetson University. She is currently a member of the faculty of Seminole High School where she teaches English. The groom-elect served three years in the U. S. Navy and graduated from Stevens Business College. He is presently employed in Daytona Beach.

The wedding will be an event of August 1 at the Trinity Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m. Immediately following the ceremony a reception will be held in the Social Hall of the church.

Although there will be no invitations sent, all friends and relatives are invited to attend the wedding and the reception.

Corset Makers Say Chemise Won't Cut Sales

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The ice cream cone usually is something to eat. But to the corset designer, it's a figure type; the woman with broad shoulders, generous bosom, a lost waistline and no hips.

"Not the type who looks best in the chemise," said Estelle Popp, a foundation garment designer for 40 years. "But she is the type who needs us most."

There are those who believe the chemise silhouette will cut deeply into corset and brassiere sales, which last year totalled $650 million. But most industry representatives think the opposite will happen.

"We are in a controlled figure era that began when the flapper period ended," explained Miss Popp. "Women put on girdles again in 1920, after the so-called carefree years, and have been wearing them since."

"The chemise requires as much control as the sheath... only the distribution is different. Girdles now trim down the hips and let the waistline relax. Pantie girdles are longer. Brassieres shape a softer look now than they did B.C. (before chemise)."

"I don't think American women will give up their waistlines. But I do think they're ready to ease them for a season or so."

Miss Popp has seen many silhouettes and many corsetry styles come and go in her design lifetime. Her career began when women were still wearing front and back lace corsets and brass which created a "monobosom" effect. Then came the uplift bra, two-way stretch fabrics, the slide fastener.

"The industry switched from construction to control," she said.

The designer said the first consideration in foundation design is the outer silhouette. "Chemise to us equals high control, equal long leg pantie girdle," she explained.

At the same time she has to think of price range and figure type—such as the ice cream cone, with only six inches difference between waist and hip measurements; the junior size, with very slim waist, and the more or less average figure, with hipline nine or 10 inches larger than waist.

Space Designs

"We used to think of the ideal figure as 34 bust, 24 waist, 34 hips," said the designer. "But Hollywood and television have changed this. The bust measurement is up at least an inch. Maybe more."

Miss Popp said there are so many influences upon corsetry design it is hard to say which is most important.

"Of course there's the same influences which re-shape the ready-to-wear silhouette," she said. "People, events, even things—like the airplane."

"It takes so little time now to get plants and extraneous fashion ideas, that no designer can create in a vacuum. And of course, everybody is trying to improve everybody else, so we have frequent silhouette changes."

Co-Workers Fete July Bride-Elect

Those present at the shower were Miss Patricia Lightfoot, Mrs. J. L. Lightfoot, Mrs. J. K. Long, Miss Edna Lightfoot, Mrs. Fred Fisher, Mrs. William Coleman, Mrs. W. A. Cagle, Mrs. Cecil Leggett, Mrs. A. O. Olliff, Miss Dawn Ann Pearson, Mrs. Esther Rive, and Miss Mary Jo Robinson.

Set Aside Shelf For Sweet, Salty Food For Nibbling

Start a "snack shelf" in the kitchen, a spot where you can quickly assemble some tidbits when guests drop in for a chat. It does away with those anxious moments every hostess has when unexpected company arrives.

Your refreshments needn't be more than finger snacks, however, that can be arranged on a plate or in a bowl in seconds. On the shelf keep cans of salted nuts, packages of popcorn and potato chips. For the "sweet" nibblers, provide an assortment of tiny candies. Mint patties and bits come packaged in a colorful and flavorsome variety today that keep well.

Many of these candies are available in lightly sealed cellophane overwraps which retain freshness indefinitely.

Remember though, to be completely successful as a convenient snack food shelf, the tidbits must be replaced as they are used. And don't be hesitant about trying out new nibbling foods as you see them at the grocer's.

"See How They Run" To Open Soon At Silver Springs Playhouse

"See How They Run", one of this nation's most produced farces, will be the next production at the popular Silver Springs Playhouse. The show will replace the current "Time Out For Ginger".

The play, reported by many theatrical producers of stock and touring companies as the most popular show for laughs, opens Monday, July 7, for a two-week run.

Bill Fegan, producer of Silver Springs Playhouse, has already appeared in over fifty performances of the piece and Will Sams, the theatre's director, has portrayed the Bishop of Lux in the show almost as many times.

Other major roles in the farce include Edna Hurd as the vicar's wife, Kitty Culpepper as the nosy old maid, and the role of the Air Force corporal is portrayed by John Cragin. Others to be seen in the madcap evening are Sara Reed, Tom G. Evans, and Bill Porter.

Reed And Redwood New For Decor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Reed and redwood—that's the room divider combination for a contemporary look.

Reed curtains and screens in closely woven meshes or in gracefully looped open designs merely hint at a separation for entries or dining areas.

Slim wands of rattan curved into birdcages or shallow baskets hold plants or decorative dividers when suspended from the ceiling or over chairs.

Redwood boards, carefully cut for floor to ceiling height, fit into a vertical louvered entry marker in a matter of minutes.

Small metal clips with non-slip rubber backing over the top of each board to hold it snugly angled. Bank the new entry with plants, and the job is done.

Inexpensive and easy to work with, both the reed and the redwood can be installed and removed at the homemaker's whim.

Think what will happen, she suggested, when the first space ship bears to the moon:

"Seventh Avenue (heart of New York's garment district) will rush through all kinds of costumes for space travel. I hope I'm around to design the first girdle for interplanetary commuters."

THE CARD OF THANKS
Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have contributed but also a courteous acknowledgment of the services and attentions of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.

Newspaper Cards of Thanks are accepted as socially correct. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.

There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the occasion comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.

THE "IN MEMORIAM" NOTICE
It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memoriam" notice in newspaper classified columns. They find a real solace therein. Preservation of recollections. As Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:

"How cruelly sweet are the echoes
That start
What memory plays an old tune
On the heart."

Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.

If you are hesitant to express your tender thoughts in words, you may avail yourself of the Herald's collection of original verses. These express in poetic beauty the emotions of the bereaved. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstance.

THE RATE
Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column inch.

'Disciples Of Christ' One Of U. S. Largest Protestant Bodies

By LOUIS CASSELL
United Press International

In the East, they are known as "Disciples of Christ." In the South and Midwest, they go by the name, "Christians."

Some say they've never been able to choose between these traditional appellations, their official name being both. The International Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) is one of America's largest Protestant bodies, with 2,000 local congregations and about 2 million members.

Three main denominations, which were transplanted to America and from Europe, the Disciples followed originated in the United States in the early 19th Century.

Sought Unity

The founders did not intend to start a new denomination. Just the opposite. Their dream was to end divisive sectarianism and realize all followers of Christ in one great brotherhood.

Alexander Campbell, a Pennsylvania Presbyterian who became principal leader of the movement, believed that unity could be achieved by restoring the simplicity which characterized the earliest Christian churches.

From the "Testament," Campbell concluded that the primitive churches were very loosely organized, with each congregation controlling its own affairs and ministers holding no special rank over laymen.

He also decided that the early churches had no detailed theological creeds to quarrel about, but were united around one essential article of faith, summed up in Peter's confession to Jesus: "Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God."

Work Together

These two principles — congregational autonomy and "no creed but Christ" — are still the foundation stones of the Disciples movement.

Local Disciples churches, now found in every part of the United States and 48 other countries, work together on foreign missions and educational programs through their international convention, which meets annually. This convention is only a "voluntary association." It can make "recommendations" to member congregations, but it has no control over them. Any Disciple may attend meetings of the convention and vote.

Like most Protestant bodies, Disciples lay great stress on the Bible, and especially the New Testament, as the sole authoritative source of doctrine. The only doctrinalistic doctrine is the baptismal "test" for membership in Jesus Christ. Beyond that, each believer is free to interpret the Scriptures in his own way.

Some Disciples are fundamentalists who read the Bible literally. Others are liberals who believe that modern Biblical research is a great help in discerning the true word of God.

Group Was Split

One extremely conservative group of Disciples split off from the main body many years ago and became the ancestors of a Pentecostal group called the "Churches of Christ." The latter local congregations with upwards of 1,700,000 members, is often confused with the Disciples. But there is actually little similarity except in name.

Disciples share with Baptists an insistence on baptism by total immersion, because that is the way Jesus was baptized in the River Jordan. They observe the Lord's Supper every Sunday, because Jesus is breaking bread for his disciples in the Upper Room said, "This do as often as ye shall meet, in remembrance of me."

True to their historic tradition, Disciples have been in the forefront of the church unity movement which has blossomed in recent years. They have contributed many outstanding leaders to such ecumenical organizations as the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches, body, which now has some 16,000

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERR

SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE arrived in Paris one Sunday evening, and ordered a taxi driver to deposit him at the Ritz hotel. "Delighted to oblige you, Monsieur Doyle," said the driver who could speak fair English.

"Amazing!" declared Doyle. "How did you know my identity?"

"Elementary," countered the driver. "I read that you were arriving from the Riviera. Obviously you are an Englishman. Also, only a barber on the Riviera would give a man such a haircut."

"Incredible!" applauded Doyle. "And you had nothing else to go on?"

"One small additional fact," admitted the driver. "Your name is prominently plastered on every one of your seven suitcases."

Ah, those tactless tom-agoes! Mrs. Andre Blumenthal, of New York, Conn., overheard her young son tell a girl in the back seat of the family car. "I'm certainly glad you can go to the club dance with me tonight. I rang up about seven others and they were all busy."

Jobs For Heart Victims Studied

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — What do employers think about job applicants with heart disease?

Preliminary findings from a Minnesota State Health Department survey of industry indicate many companies are reluctant to hire persons with heart disease because they don't believe they have suitable jobs available.

But Dr. Wayne Matly, U. S. Public Health Service official working with the department in heart disease control programs, said most people with heart disease can do almost any kind of work for which they are trained.

"If the employee has been placed at a job for which he is suited," Matly said, "the employer generally runs no special risk. The worker with the unknown or unsuspected heart disease is a much greater risk to the employer."

Matly said an objective method of evaluating the capabilities of cardiac workers is needed for selective placement in positions where they can perform fully without overtaxing their capacity or becoming an economic risk for the employer.

"Such a means of evaluation would be a major step in putting cardiacs back to work so they can remain independent and self-supporting," Matly added.

Another health department heart disease control program is aimed at the homemaker. The average woman with heart disease can usually continue to manage her household, if she learns work-saving methods which require a minimum of physical exertion, health officials said.

With this in mind, they are co-operating with the University of Minnesota in setting up a series of classes, taught by a home economics graduate, to show simple, inexpensive methods of making kitchen, laundry and other household work easier.

Washington See-Saw

By HENRY CATECARY
Central Press Association
Washington Editor

WASHINGTON — Senator Joseph Javits, New York Republican, currently is espousing a code of ethics for federal government employees and officials as an aftermath of the Sherman Adams affair.

Javits would set out lines of behavior to avoid future incidents of the kind which saw President Eisenhower's chief-of-staff accepting payment of a hotel bill, an Oriental rug and material for a lush vacation cost.

The New York senator has modeled his proposals after the so-called "Dewey Code," which was put into operation in the Empire state while Thomas E. Dewey was governor, and administered by Javits when he was the state's attorney general.

There is nothing new in this business of advocating a uniform code of ethics for government officials. A similar code was widely talked of on Capitol Hill during the height of the "Truman scandals" in 1951.

Nothing became official then, and it isn't likely that anything will come of Javits' suggestion. To paraphrase Mark Twain, every one talks about ethics, but no one does anything about them.

PUBLIC DEBT — Many debts are attributed to the nation's post-war economic recession. Perhaps the most long-lasting one, however, will be the size of the federal debt. It now stands at $275 billion, and is heading higher.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Texas Democrat, has estimated it will increase $5 billion this year. Other estimates are that it will rise overall $10 billion to $15 billion. It now costs American taxpayers some $7 billion a year, just to this figure. The rise in the debt is the prospective increase will add another $300 million a year to this figure. The rise in the debt comes not only from increased federal spending for public works as an anti-recession measure, but also from lower tax collections resulting from smaller personal incomes and corporate profits.

What is needed over the long pull, some observers think, is a measure of responsibility and self-discipline that neither political party has been willing to shoulder in the past. When the next cycle of prosperity returns, corporate and personal taxes, they say, should be increased for a period to make a significant reduction in the size of the national debt.

Only in this way, the argument goes, will the interest on the debt be reduced to manageable proportions, and the constant drain on the taxpayers eased.

MAN IN SPACE — Some members of Congress and government officials are showing signs of restlessness about all the talk of getting a man into space. Typifying this sentiment is Senator Stuart Symington (D, Missouri), who has charged a Pentagon scientist with "misleading the people" regarding Army Project Adam.

"Adam" contemplates sending a man into space in a missile nose cone, and, upon reaching a height of some 100 miles, having him released and parachuted back to earth.

Senator Symington, and others, argue that the project is nothing more than a stunt, and that it would contribute nothing to scientific knowledge.

On the other hand, should it fail, it could have serious repercussions on the space program, for it would be difficult to convince the public that the loss of a human life was necessary in this kind of experiment.

Educator Favors Study In Africa

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dr. Douglas Steere, recently back from Africa, says expanding opportunities for a year of study in African universities are permitting American students to get firsthand knowledge of a continent in transition.

Steere said he hoped more American students will take advantage of the openings in Africa, and proposed that a number of "mature" students do their third year of college work in one of the multi-racial African universities.

Steere, Thomas Water Brown Professor of Philosophy of Haverford College, Haverford, Pa., and his wife visited Africa under sponsorship of the American Friends Service Committee which periodically sends Quaker leaders on good-will missions throughout the world.

Steere said several universities in Africa are ready to accept American students for a year of study. Makerere College at Kampala, Kenya, is one which will be willing to consider accepting carefully screened applicants.

July-March Term

"Not only is the college eager for these students," Steere said, "but the winter in moderate African climates would welcome the opportunity to have western undergraduates living in their excellent dormitories where they could exchange ideas."

"This is a magnificent opportunity for learning some of Africa's problems of first hand. The term runs July to the following March for a year of American students. The students could use the remaining months to visit in East Africa, the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, South Africa, the Belgian Congo and Ghana."

Steere said some of the most interesting features in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland are the two-week session and an average daily attendance of 40. (Photo by Cox)

DeBary Lady Recalls Colorful Career

A colorful career, a hobby of genealogy, and a love for antiques combine to create a busy but happy life of one Delia lady.

MRS. LAWRENCE TINSLEY: her hobby is genealogy. (Photo by Cox)

As a young lady, Mrs. Tinsley spent several years doing organization work for her college sorority and was the third national president of Delta Zeta.

When her work there was completed, she bought a resort on the northern Black Hills, married Lawrence Tinsley who was working for the Forest Service at that time, and then for 30 years operated the famous "Litching Inn."

From the very first Mrs. Tinsley liked DeBary and the people there. Not only that, she has many friends and acquaintances throughout Central Florida to make her feel right at home.

Mrs. Tinsley, for 11 consecutive years, has attended the National Congress of the D.A.R. in Washington, D. C. She has served in various state offices of the organization in South Dakota, including that of State Regent. She is now the Honorary State Regent.

Her interest in patriotic organizations spreads far and wide. In South Dakota she organized the Daughters of American Colonists and Daughters of Colonial Wars. Mrs. Tinsley is also a charter member of the Indiana Society of the Huguenots. She has transferred her active D.A.R. membership to the Selby Harrison Chapter in Sanford, and is an associate member of the Orlando chapter.

Besides all of her activities, Mrs. Tinsley's real hobby is genealogy. With it she has spent many hours in the research of her own family and the families of many others.

Her love for antiques is reflected in the many beautiful pieces in her home.
