Neiswender Gets Ready To Testify On Power Line

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

Plowing through the underbrush and marshland, Seminole County Administrator Roger Neiswender is boning up for his "day in court."

Neiswender said he considers the testimony he will give at hearings being held in Daytona Beach to gather information and determine the location of a proposed 500-kilovolt Florida Power & Light Co. (FPL) to be the same as testifying in court.

He consequently wants to have his homework on the issue completed in-depth, to be certain he knows his facts on the witness stand, he said.

Donning knee-high boots and work clothes Thursday, Neiswender set out on a walking tour of the proposed route for the power line through the County. The line would pass near the Geneva area, where residents have organized to strenuously protest its construction.

While Neiswender is busily digesting data on the project, County Attorney Nikki Clayton is in Daytona Beach mapping out her strategy for the county's presentation at the hearing.

The hearing is the first of its kind in Florida, Neiswender said. A new power-line location siting act passed by the state Legislature took the ultimate decision on where a power line would be located away from each county commission and put the final decision into the hands of the governor and his cabinet.

Under the new procedure, an independent hearing officer is appointed by the state. The officer, Chris Bentley, listens to all affected parties wishing to speak, compiles the information and presents it to the governor, who makes the final approval of the power location, Neiswender said.

Tentative agreements have been established between FPL and all counties where the power line will be located. Only Seminole and Brevard counties remain involved in the battle to determine where the line will run in this part of the state, Neiswender said.

Margaret Cammack, president of Owners of Seminole, the Geneva-based group fighting location of the high-voltage line in Seminole, says the line should be moved to one of two locations in Brevard.

Brevard, on the other hand, says the line location should stay in Seminole, for which it was originally proposed.

Mrs. Cammack says the line should be routed along either of two pre-established corridors. One follows Interstate 95, while the other is farther west in Brevard and is only partly established, Neiswender said.

From the Geneva residents' point of view, the proposed route affects many owners of relatively small tracts of land. The line should be moved to a location affecting property owners of much larger, undeveloped tracts of land, they say.

Brevard County says the I-95 corridor is an area of prime commercial development and out of the question. The other location, farther west, stops at State Road 50 and would pass through state wildlife preserves which are reportedly homes of the dusky seaside sparrow, an endangered species.

No one has determined exactly how many of the endangered sparrows, if any, actually live in the preserve, Neiswender said.

"To the detriment of our argument is a 115-kilovolt line already located in the one-mile corridor designated by FPL for the new 500-kilovolt line," Neiswender said.

The county administrator said he is not certain when Seminole County's presentation will be heard. Hearing Officer Bentley is still taking depositions from state agencies and the representatives of local governments do not testify until after the state has completed its presentation, Neiswender said.

The proposed line is part of a $450 million system FPL is building from Georgia to Martin County on the south Florida coast. They system would bring less expensive power from coal-burning plants in Georgia to connect eventually with a grid that would serve south Florida.

Redistricting Plans Change Almost Hourly

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Reapportionment — the dividing of Florida into legislative districts — is the major issue facing the Florida Legislature, and plans proposing district boundaries are changing on a daily and sometimes hourly basis.

At this point two major proposals are being considered for district boundaries in Seminole County. They are:

— "Plan A," proposed by the state House of Representatives subcommittee of which Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, is a member, calls for Seminole to be split into four separate House districts, only one of which is entirely contained within Marion counties.

While Seminole's two legislators have been going their separate ways in Tallahassee, Seminole's Republican Executive Committee has taken a position, and unofficially the Democratic Executive Committee is also taking a position.

The Republicans, at a meeting Thursday night, adopted a resolution directed to Brantley and all minority and majority chairmen in the Florida House stating their objection to any plan that does not include two House districts totally within Seminole County.

County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm took the proposal before the committee. Member Jim Stelling, who was Brantley's campaign treasurer in the 1980 election, fought the adoption of the resolution, saying it was a slap in Brantley's face. He also said Brantley is representing the county in Tallahassee, is a member of the reapportionment committee and is doing everything possible to see that Seminole is apportioned fairly.

Meanwhile, Winter Springs Mayor Troy Piland, county Democratic chairman, stated his support of the GOP resolution today. Noting that he is serving in a nonpartisan elective office, Piland said: "Our population justifies two House seats solely within Seminole and a good portion of a Senate seat.

"To fragment Seminole County is not only unjust, it reflects cronyism at its best. It appears the leadership of the Legislature is looking out for the leadership," he added.

Piland also said he can't understand why the Legislature is not making regular reports to the public on the status of various plans to keep people aware of what is happening. He said State Sen. Dempsey Barron, with his Senate apportionment plan which passed the Senate, followed the old precept of "CYA — cover your action."

Bill Wack, Democratic state committee member, with assistance from Piland, is attempting to form a bi-partisan committee to pressure the Legislature to keep Seminole County intact.

In addition, Wack has submitted his own reapportionment plan to Rep. Dick Batchelor, D-Orlando, for consideration.

Fire Ants Bait To Be Sold Tuesday

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Amdro, an environmentally approved bait for controlling fire ants, will be sold Tuesday at the Seminole County Agri-Center in Sanford, County Agricultural Extension Agent Frank Jasa has announced.

Jasa said fire ant infestation in Seminole County is at an all-time high, and to help bring the imported pests under control the public will be offered Amdro at about one-fourth the usual retail price.

The one-day sale will be conducted here by the Division of Plant Industry of the state Department of Agriculture at the Agri-Center, 4300 S. Orlando Drive (U.S. Highway 17-92), Sanford. One-pound bags will be sold for $2.50 and 25-pound bags for $47.50, Jasa said. Hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Jasa explained that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has provided some funding for fighting fire ants and the state is using the money to make the insecticide available at a reduced price.

The Amdro is available to anyone who has a use for it.

"It is the only feasible way at this stage," said Jasa. "It's up to the individuals to distribute the bait in infested areas. The ants take the bait back into their hills and it kills the young and the queen as well."

He said the cold weather drives the ants below ground but the unseasonably warm weather earlier brought them out. "Mounds began popping out," he added. They are higher in heavier soils.

The two-to-three-foot mounds cause problems in fields and pastures where they tear up mowing equipment, Jasa said, and cattle can't graze where there are bad infestations. The ants have been known to kill calves and pigs born near their mounds.

Citrus grove owners also have problems with imported pests, because workers refuse to pick fruit in groves infested with fire ants, he added. Mounds have also invaded roadways, school yards and parks.

The fiercely stinging fire ants pose a threat to humans as well, particularly in hypersensitive individuals. Their stings are painful and cause a blister and itching, there is the possibility of secondary infection. In allergic persons there can be severe reactions, causing shock, rash, trouble with breathing, and in some cases even death.

3 Held Without Bond In 2 Shooting Deaths

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Three men have been jailed without bond on charges of aggravated assault in connection with Monday's fatal shooting of a Sanford man and a DeLand man in Sanford.

Thurman C. Randall, 38, of Winter Haven, was arrested in Bartow and taken to the Seminole County Jail Thursday night. He has been charged with armed robbery involving the use of a firearm in Monday's shooting in the front yard of a duplex at 1910 Southwest Road, deputies said.

Arthur L. Bronson, 31, of Valdosta, Ga., and Willie W. Hayes, 27, of Lakeland, are being held today in the Valdosta jail on charges of aggravated assault in the shooting incident.

The vehicle believed to have been used as the getaway car following the incident has been impounded by Valdosta law-enforcement officials.

Murder charges are pending against

Randall, Bronson and Hayes following extradition from Georgia of Bronson and Hayes, said John Spolski, Seminole County Sheriff's Department spokesman.

The two men killed during the incident, which occurred in a driveway adjacent to Joe's Tavern in Sanford, were Lige R. Powell, 23, of 1805 W. 15th St., Sanford and John Cleveland Donar, 46, of DeLand and a Valdosta address.

Deputies said the incident appeared to be the result of an armed robbery. However, the possibility that the incident may have been drug-related has not been ruled out, Spolski said.

He said two men, one identified as Powell and another as Thomas Maner, 27, of Sanford were sitting in a car in the driveway when they were approached by several men with guns. Powell and Maner reportedly resisted the "apparent burglary" and Powell was killed, along with suspected burglar Donar, he said.

U.S. To Aid In Cleanup Of St. Johns Pollution?

It's unlikely that federal money will be available to purchase massive areas of marshes and wetlands along the St. Johns River for the purpose of increasing its flow.

But federal dollars may become available to speed up development of sanitary sewer plants along the river to clear up pollution in the body of water.

This was the message from U.S. Rep. Bill Chappell, D-Ocala, Thursday to members of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Task Force to save the St. Johns, representatives of the St. Johns River Water Management District, and county and Sanford city officials.

Chappell said he will sponsor legislation to grant funding for transmission lines from various parts of Orlando to the Orlando Regional Sewer Plant at Iron Bridge, near Oviedo, to help clean up the river. And it was brought to his attention that Sanford also needs about $5 million to update and expand its sewer plant.

County Administrator Roger Neiswender explained to Chappell that the state Department of Environmental Regulation has changed its mind about permitting Sanford to dump highly treated effluent into Lake Monroe, preferring a land-spreading technique for disposal. The land spreading would mean the city would have to acquire large tracts of property, several hundred acres, to land-spread.

While the St. Johns River Water Management District has been recommending that more than 160,000 acres of wetlands be purchased for water storage to increase the flow of the river, Chappell said studies show this method would not be successful.

Chappell said the flow of the river, according to studies, has not changed in volume since 1900. Water management district officials have said that numerous canals at the river and the development of wetlands have decreased the river's flow. Chappell said that is not correct.

He said the answer to saving the river, instead, is concentrating on water quality and upgrading the water in the river through better sewer treatment facilities.

Douglas Stenstrom, task force chairman, said the state already has allocated some $70 million to $80 million to the water management district over a 10-year period to acquire wetlands for storage. Chappell said this information will be of major value to him when he submits his legislation on the St. Johns.

The legislation would permit the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to purchase a limited amount of land for water storage, he said. — DONNA ESTES

Women's Ministries Group Organized For Outreach

Twenty-two women from the Geneva and Chuluota areas attended a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Bob Brown (Lola) in Chuluota Saturday.

Mrs. Brown served a buffet of cold sliced ham, deli rye bread, potato salad, fresh assorted vegetables, deviled eggs, chips and dip, cup cakes and tea or coffee.

Most of the women at the luncheon were members of the First Assembly of God Church of Chuluota, and gathered to hear Mrs. Betty Hummel of Orlando, the Sectional Representative for the denomination, explain the forming of a Women's Ministries group.

It was decided after the meeting to form a Women's Ministries for fellowship and outreach. Thursday, Jan. 21, the women held their second meeting to discuss election of officers. For information on future meetings, you may contact the pastor's wife, Mrs. Eva Shelton at 365-3004.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Schacter have returned from their honeymoon at the Royal Plaza at Lake Buena Vista following their Dec. 26 wedding at the Geneva Church of Christ.

Mrs. Schacter, the former Teresa Hampton of Geneva, is employed at the Flagship Bank in Sanford, Mitchell is in the Military Police with the U.S. Army. The couple plan to be at home in Altamonte Springs for approximately two months before being transferred to Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Nancy McNamara, principal of Geneva Elementary School, reminds everyone that Jan. 29 has been designated as a Teacher Work Day. Parents, don't forget this means no school for students.

A few new faces have come on the scene at the elementary school. Six new students have been welcomed — Lisa Wood, Adam Bono, Brian Kane, Timothy Murray, Angel McElroy and April Bondurant, along with a new school crossing guard, Rebecca Angle.

The Rev. and Mrs. Chester Smith will be bidding farewell to their friends and church members at the Geneva Church of the Nazarene to assume new duties at the Central Church of the Nazarene in Meridian, Miss.

Rev. Smith said he and his family will be moving Feb. 2, and although they have made many meaningful friendships here in Geneva, and have close family members who live in Orlando, they are looking forward to their new assignment.

The Geneva Citizens Association has been prompted by the rash of break-ins to have a representative from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department on hand at their next meeting, Feb. 1 at 8:00 p.m. at the community hall.

A proposed neighborhood crime watch program will be discussed in detail. Everyone is urged to attend this important meeting, as block captains are needed if the program is to be effective.

Arbor Day was observed at Geneva Elementary School Jan. 15 with a special program and tree planting ceremony, according to principal, Mrs. Nancy McNamara.

More than 200 students attended the program which included selected readings and songs by each class.

While a portion of the program was given to the history of Arbor Day, the importance of trees to all people was stressed to the students.

Special literature on the importance of conservation was made available by the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services Division of Forestry.

Following the program, students took part in planting trees shipped from the Division of Forestry nurseries. The small trees were offered at no cost to Geneva Elementary School and to all other schools in the state.

Visitors on Arbor Day included many of the parents and friends of the school.

Gardening

Pests Cause Damage To Citrus Fruit

The Agricultural Agents' office receives many calls concerning citrus fruit with holes in them, accompanied by little insects inside or around the fruit. These holes are usually surrounded by a circular brown spot. The holes are not, however, caused by the insect.

Tom Davis
Urban Horticulturist
322-3228

The punctures are usually caused by birds, chiefly the sapsucker or woodpecker. Punctures can also be caused by mechanical damage such as might occur during a heavy wind when a thorn from a tree limb rubs against the fruit. The brown spots occur because the protective covering of the fruit is broken and a fungus enters, causing the fruit to break down.

The accompanying insects are opportunists which can feed upon the citrus after the protective seal has been broken. These insects do not attack sound fruit.

There are some insects which can affect the fruit from the inside and these are the fruit flies. The female deposits her eggs just beneath the surface of the citrus fruit, through a hole as small as to be invisible to the naked eye. The maggots then hatch and bore into the pulp of the fruit, and thus ruin it.

The first indication of the maggots in the fruit is a series of soft spots where decay starts in the interior of the fruit. After completing growth, the maggots eat their way out of the citrus fruit.

These fruit flies are not common. An eradication program was begun to eradicate the most serious, the Mediterranean Fruit Fly. The Caribbean Fruit Fly only attacks thin skinned citrus such as the Calomondin, and

Fire Ant Bait Offered

Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service will offer Ardro, fire ant bait product, at a special price on Jan. 26. A truck will be in the parking lot of the Agricultural Center, 4320 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. This offer will not be repeated, according to Tom Davis, Urban Horticulturist.

Artists Air Jewelry Making

The regular monthly meeting of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association was held Jan. 11 at the Chamber of Commerce Building, Sanford.

Bob McGee, instructor at Seminole Community College, presented a program on the art of jewelry making. He began by showing slides representing jewelry from its earliest design to the present form and also how the process is accomplished. Many beautiful hand crafted pieces were shown, as well as precious and semi-precious stones.

President Ed Senkarik reminded members of the overripe fruit. The common fruit flies such as Drosophila are small and will only attack fruit which already has some sort of opening.

Rodents also can cause a bit of difficulty to the mature fruit. Rats sometimes will gnaw into oranges for the seeds, and they can also gnaw the bark of the trunks and limbs. A prepared rat bait can be used to control the rats. Another route that can be followed is to fashion a metal guard around the tree in a mushroom shape, so that the rats cannot gain a foothold up the tree trunk.

Splitting of citrus fruit is a problem that also is commonly encountered. It appears that the majority of fruit split is a physiological condition brought on by periods of heavy rainfall or by overwatering. This excessive water pressure causes the citrus rind to separate or split. Mature citrus trees need little or no watering except in periods of extreme drought.

Fruit splitting on the current crop cannot be stopped, but it can be lessened on the future crops by application of a citrus type fertilizer with the necessary minor elements and by protecting the tree from overwatering. This can be done by using a sprinkler guard or perhaps shielding the ground with a plastic tarpaulin during watering or periods of heavy rain.

Golden Gloves

Sanford's Sherman Ware unloads on Victor 'Taco' Perez during training drills in a 17-year-old student at Seminole High School.

Sanford's Glenn Robinson tunes up for tonight's Golden Gloves with some shadow boxing at the Second Street Gym. The 17-year-old veteran has 10 amateur fights.

Boxing Returns To Sanford Tonight

There is still something refreshing in sports when the label amateur is attached to it.

That's why the return of boxing to Sanford tonight and Saturday night at 8 should be quite an event at the Sanford Civic Center.

The Golden Gloves still carries a golden label despite the talented professional ranks. When you have amateurs competing, you can be sure of one thing — action.

The action does not have the style of Sugar Ray Leonard or Tommy Hearns, but, after all, that's why they are called amateurs. Golden Gloves area director Kent Foyer has brought the Gloves to Sanford because he feels Seminole County has been more supportive of this pugilistic sport in the past.

"We found out that most of the fans that attended fights at the old Orlando Sports Stadium came from this county," points out Foyer. "It was only natural that we would hold the district here."

The first thing Foyer did was to call on Victor "Taco" Perez to get the ball rolling with local fighters. Perez, once the Southern Junior Middleweight champ, has a good stable of four fighters.

Jerry Dickerson, a 165-pounder, is the best of the lot. Newcomers Frank Mann and 17-year-old Sherman Ware (see related article) along with veteran Glenn Robinson give local fans somebody to root for.

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

Perez has worked hard with his boys to bring about a good show. Foyer has gotten together with the Greater Chamber of Commerce's Jack Horner to put countless hours into promoting the event.

There isn't quite anything that can match the anticipation leading up to the first bell. I can see it now. The smoke hangs over the ring. The luminaries are introduced. The fighters make the long walk from the dressing room. The mike cord tumbles down. Some guy in a tuxedo says, "In this corner, from Sanford, Florida, weighing..."

See you at 8.

Let me tell you how important the Golden Gloves is. Seminole cage coach Bill Payne heard wind of the Gloves being in town tonight, so he purposely scheduled an off night for his Tribe. The 'Noles get back into action Saturday night when powerful Evans comes to town.

Dickerson, a 6-1, 165-pounder, used to play basketball for Payne.

Payne isn't the only Seminole faculty member who has an interest in tonight's Golden Gloves. Whitley Eckstein, Tribe history teacher and golf coach, prompted Ware to take up the sport in history class.

No doubt Whitley will be there to see if Sherman can give his opponent a few lessons.

Stan Gallup, national executive director for the Golden Gloves, has decreed Orlando merchants that were duped into buying advertising for last year's July 17 proposed bouts will be appeased.

A 16-page ad insert is on the way for the Feb. 4-5 Regional Golden Gloves at Orlando.

Gallup said punitive action is being considered against Frank Cariello, Pennsylvania Gloves director, who masterminded the proposed show.

Ware, Robinson Have Similar Goals

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Golden Gloves boxers' Sherman Ware and Glenn Robinson are about as different as night and day.

Ware, a 17-year-old junior at Seminole High School, is an untested rookie. He's only been boxing about four weeks. He's already missing a tooth, but uncharacteristically, Ware didn't lose it boxing, but playing basketball.

Robinson, on the other glove, is a seasoned veteran. Despite the fact that he hasn't fought competitively in eight years, he started the game at age eight. The 27-year-old Rochester, N.Y. native admits to 10 amateur bouts.

Tonight and Saturday, nevertheless, Ware and Robinson become similar. Each wants to make an impressive showing in the Golden Gloves District Tournament at the Sanford Civic Center. The first bell rings at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the door. Ringside is just $5. General Admission goes for $3.

Like the age difference that spans a decade, the two styles are completely different as well. The youngster Ware is more of a banger at 160 pounds. Robinson is a tough counter puncher who builds up points with his 150-pound frame.

Golden Gloves

"He's my old pro," trainer Victor "Taco" Perez says about Robinson. "When they come in here (the Second Street Gym) they don't want to admit to any fights. But we got him to attest to 10."

The 10, however, were a while ago. The flame still flickers for Robinson, though, as his daily workouts show.

"I wanna see if I still got it," Robinson said recently when asked why he put the gloves on again. "I was pretty good at one time and I wanna see if it's still there."

Robinson admits as to not being in the best of condition, but he thinks he'll be able to last—even if he's matched up against some young roadrunner.

"I think I can last three rounds," he laughed. "I try to build up points. That's the way I usually fight. But I'd rather knock them out."

Another boxer with knockouts on his mind is Ware.

The Fighting Seminole student took a pretty unique way into the fighting game.

"My history teacher Mr. (Whitley) Eckstein used to tease me that I looked like a boxer," relates Ware. "He made it out as an everyday thing."

One day, though, Eckstein called his pupil up to the desk and the teasing was over. He had an application form that Perez had run in the Evening Herald advertising for fighters.

"I met Perez at Sambo's and he introduced me to a couple of other boxers and we took it from there," remembers Ware.

Boxing has been more than a sport for Ware, however. It has given him confidence. He admits he hasn't been successful at a lot of things he has attempted, but since putting on the gloves that has changed.

"I feel good cause they're letting me do something with myself," said Ware. "I've tried a lot of things, but now I feel this is the way I'm supposed to be."

The only thing that will compound that good feeling would be a knockout tonight.

"It's my intention to go with everything I have in the first two rounds. That way if I have a close third round I'll have built up enough lead to win," reasoned Ware.

He doesn't discount the fact, though, that he'd like to end it early as would Robinson.

"I can't say whether I'll knock him down."

It sounds like the teasing is, indeed, over.

M&M Rams Too Sweet For Saints

Sophomore Fred Miller tossed in 15 points and Darryl Merthie helped out with 14 as Lake Mary's Rams trounced St. Johns, 61-43, in prep basketball Thursday night at Lake Mary.

"It's kind of hard to evaluate this win," said Ram coach Willie Richardson, whose team improved to 5-3 for the season. "I don't like to run up the score. I've been on both ends of that."

"Most recently I've been on the wrong end," he laughed.

The Rams started the game in a full-court press and hit their first seven shots of the game to build an 18-4 bulge. St. Johns turned the ball over four times against the pressure to give Mike Rouse and Miller easy baskets.

Freshman Merthie, who didn't start because he's a bit under the weather, entered midway through the period and scored on a nice spin move where he laid the ball in with his left hand.

Merthie then found Miller for an easy layup with an excellent blindsided pass. The 6-0, 175-pounder then hit his next four shots, one on a nice rebound effort, as Lake Mary connected on 11-of-13 first-quarter attempts.

Richardson took the press off near the end of the quarter.

In the second quarter, the Rams turned the ball over seven times and allowed the Saints to stay in range at halftime, 34-18.

Neal Wellon and Mike Rouse scored inside for Lake Mary, while the Saints stayed under 20 down on long-range jumpers by Bruce Reynolds and Mike Touchet.

Lake Mary was 16-of-25 from the field during the first half for 64 percent. The Rams turned the ball over nine times. St.

Johns connected on 6-of-20 attempts. It had 13 turnovers.

St. Johns closed within 53-39 with seven minutes to play, but John Daniel and Miller, on a backdoor pass from Merthie, scored from the Ram delay game to cement the victory.

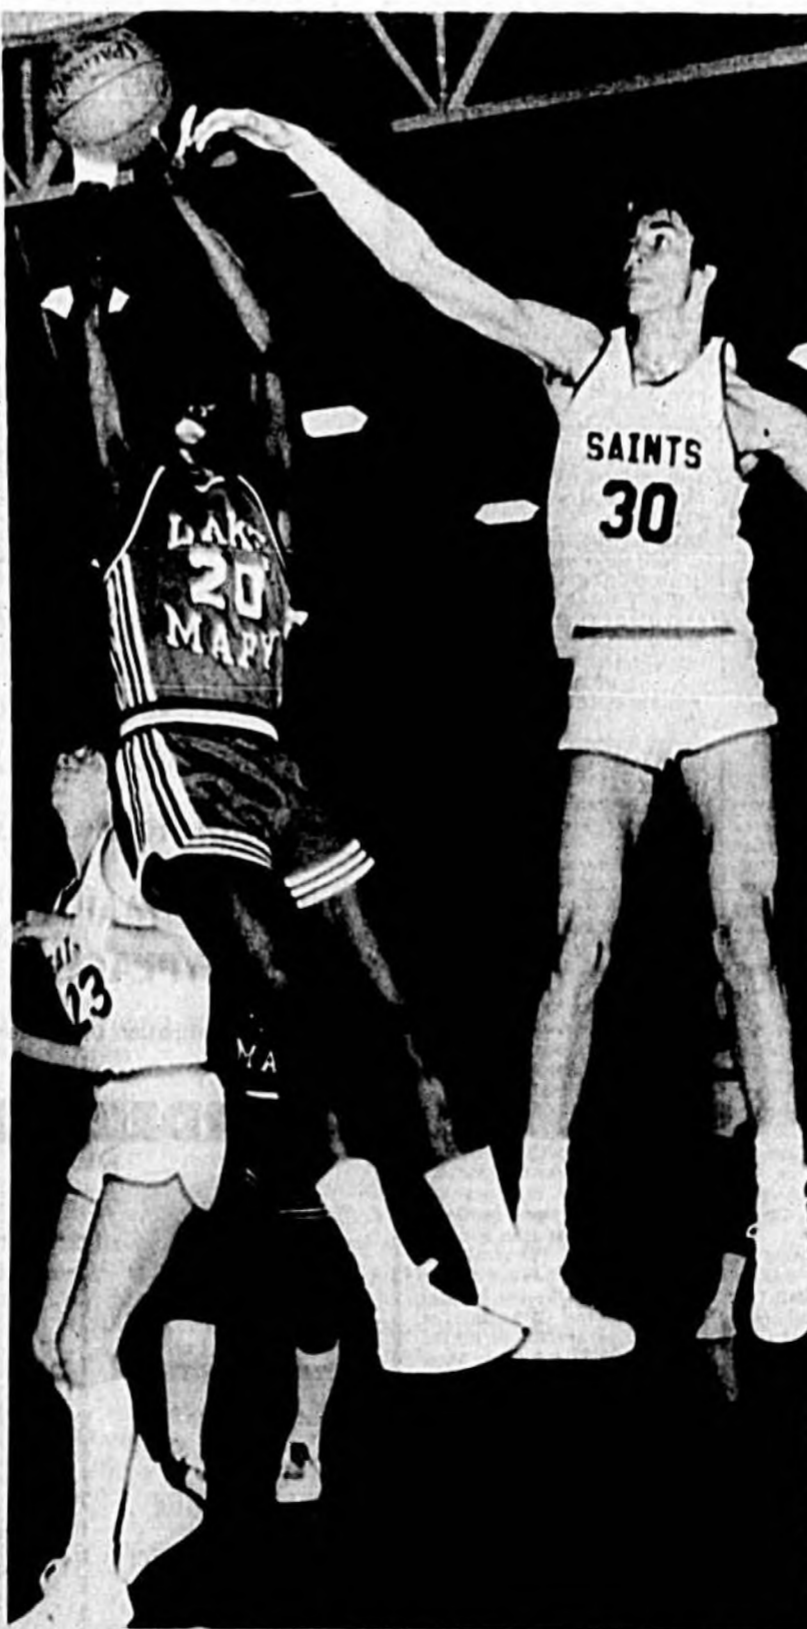

Kyle Frakes handed out eight assists and Miller doled out nine.

Tonight, the Rams will be looking for revenge at Lake Highland, who dropped Lake Mary by one-point in the first meeting.

"That was my fault. I didn't make an adjustment on defense the first time. Every time I look at the films I get sick," moaned Richardson. "We'll get them this time. You can quote me."

Lake Mary Girls Squash Lutheran

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Lake Mary's Lisa Gregory saves her big scoring games for the big teams. So, it's a wonder that she even showed up Thursday night when the Rams girls battled overmatched St. Johns of Ocala.

Michelle Swartz and Peggy Glass each scored 16 points and Kim Averill tallied 14 as the Rams battered the Lady Saints, 69-26 at Lake Mary.

Gregory scored just two points, but paved the way to numerous Rams buckets with eight first-half assists.

"They were open so I thought I could get it to them," said the blonde-haired sophomore after the game.

And get it to them she did as Lake Mary bolted to a 25-3 advantage after just eight minutes. "We started the press early and it blew them out of the game," said coach Bill Moore who watched his girls win for the 11th time in 14 outings.

"Lisa was content to pass the ball tonight," pointed out Moore. "I've checked the scorebook. When we play the tougher opponents, she gets her points."

While Swartz, Glass and Averill took care of the scoring load, Donna Peterson and Andrea Johnson controlled the backboards with 10 rebounds each. Wilease "Lightning" Buggs grabbed eight.

Lake Mary travels to Lake Highland tonight.

In junior varsity girls action, Lake Brantley nipped Lake Mary, 42-39.

Tracy Meikel dropped in 13 points while Michelle Brown and Kelly Lubenow hit 10 each. Lubenow will compete in the "Hotshot" competition in Tampa this weekend.

May Ravenal and Lisa Simkins had 10 points apiece for Bob Wagner's Rams.

In other varsity action Thursday night, Lyman's Vikki McMurrer continued to shred the nets for the Lady Greyhounds as Lyman upended Lake Howell, 54-39, at Howell.

Valerie Jackson helped out with 14 points. Mary Johnson paced the Hawks with 10. Christy Scott, who was named Burger King Player of the Week last week, was held to two points.

Lyman is 4-8, while Howell is 6-10 for the year.

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots took it on the chin at Apopka, dropping a 45-39 decision to the Lady Darters.

HOROSCOPE
By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Saturday, January 23, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
January 23, 1982
Several lessons you've learned from painful past experiences will be put to good use this coming year. Rather than repeat old mistakes, you'll turn losing conditions into winning ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Normally you're quite good at handling adverse situations, but today you may feel impelled to run for cover at the first sign of problems. Stand your ground. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in each of the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
You have more going for you today than you may realize, so don't let negative conditions intimidate you. Draw upon your hidden strengths for success.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your ideas and concepts are likely to be better than those of your associates today, but unless they are presented skillfully it will be difficult to gain support for them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Coworkers could lack your optimism and drive today and cause frustrating delays. Try to be self-reliant and not too dependent on others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Today you must first show companions your willingness to be cooperative if you expect them to act likewise. You set the mood. They'll behave accordingly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You're likely to be enthusiastic in beginning projects today, but you may wish should anyone question or criticize your efforts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Dealings with influential contacts should go off smoothly today, but there's a chance small-minded persons could cause you unnecessary headaches.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Don't let your enthusiasm for improving your surroundings cause you spend more than you should for items or materials, just because you want them now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Innately, you're quite creative today, but you may fail to use your bright ideas because it might interfere with the ways others are accustomed to doing things.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Something materially promising could unexpectedly develop today. For some reason you might not feel you're entitled to it, and fail to do anything about it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
If left to your own devices today you should be adroit at working out tricky financial situations. When others interfere, they'll dull your edge.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Be hopeful today, but keep your expectations within reason. Your possibility for gains at this time have their limitations.

Pumping Iron Into The Golden Years

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 66 years old, 5-foot-9 and weigh 135 pounds. I read The Health Letter number 5-4. Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control. It was very helpful. Now I need additional help. You certainly encouraged me when you wrote older muscles could be exercised into increased strength.

I have been jogging four miles a day for the past 24 years, but I feel the need to increase my strength as it seems to be diminishing. I have a barbell set and an exercise bench. Will you please prescribe an exercise routine you think will be best for me?

I have been using the weights as you suggested, Monday, Wednesday and Friday each week. Would it be better for me to alternate the jogging and weight workouts so I jog three days a week and do weight training three days a week? I have been weight lifting now for six months and I think I have made a little progress. I do have bursitis in my shoulders which makes it difficult to do presses.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Are there any vegetables that makes one have better vision? I have heard that if you eat a lot of carrots that helps.

DEAR READER — Yes, you can increase muscle strength and usually muscle size regardless of age. There is some loss of muscle fiber as you get older but the remaining fibers can and will increase in size if you exercise them against resistance or when loaded with a weight.

Alternating your exercise program as you suggest between jogging and weight training is a good approach. If you are so active that you consume there will be no calories left over to provide the energy you need to hook amino acids together to form new protein for new muscle. Your weight suggests your calorie intake related to energy use may be marginal for developing new muscle mass and strength. You don't need lots of extra protein but you do need enough calories.

I cannot give you a prescription as it must be based on what you can now

DEAR READER — Vitamin A is essential in forming a chemical in the retina at the back of the eye, particularly essential for night vision. Carrots and other pigmented vegetables are a good source of vitamin A. This includes green leafy vegetables such as spinach. If you happen to be deficient in vitamin A then such foods would improve your ability to see in the dark. If you are not deficient in vitamin A they will have no effect at all on your vision.

Vitamin A is important for many functions, including growth and the health of cells covering surfaces inside and outside the body.

It is difficult to be deficient in vitamin A today if you eat a balanced diet. There is an abundant amount in milk, margarine and butter as well as that in pigmented vegetables.

Sparkling Reflections Of A Bygone Era

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Anyway you cut it, the 10th Annual Depression Era glass show in Sanford will put a sparkle in the eye of glass collectors and admirers everywhere.

This year's show, to be held Jan. 30-31 in the Sanford Civic Center, 401 E. Seminole Blvd., will feature 35 booths, each displaying a wide variety of colorful glass items created during the Depression years.

Also, Nora Koch, publisher and editor of the "Daze," a newspaper for collectors, will be honored at the show for her participation in the event since its inception.

The annual Depression-era glass show was begun in 1973 by glass collector Sara Myers, of Lake Monroe, and has become an annual tradition in Sanford.

"In glass collecting, the field is so large and it takes so much glass because there are so many patterns and most shop keepers would not and could not have a large enough inventory to supply the collectors," Mrs. Myers says.

So, in 1973, the Depression Glass Show was begun to provide glass buyers, collectors and admirers with an outlet to view, trade and purchase the exquisitely designed, transparent reflections of an era now passed. But, exactly what is Depression glass?

"Depression glass was the very first mass produced glass in the United States," Mrs. Myers says. "It is collected mostly in dinnerware sets in pinks, greens, yellows and a few other colors. There are well over 100 patterns to choose from."

Mrs. Myers said no imported glass will be allowed at the event. She said the show will feature only glass made by American glass companies before, during and after the

Only One Actor Plays 'Dallas' Shrink

DEAR DICK: Though not a word has ever been said about it, my wife and I agree that the actor playing the psychiatrist on "Dallas" was changed after a few episodes. Has the actor playing Sue Ellen's psychiatrist been changed during this series? RICHARD O. SMITH, Springfield, Mo.

You and your wife are both agreeing on being wrong. Jeff Cooper is the only actor who has ever played Dr. Ellby.

DEAR DICK: Jack Klugman plays the part of Quincy. What is Quincy's first name? BETH A. RICCIARDONE, Malden, Mass.

He has none. At least not yet. Klugman says that maybe someday, perhaps on the last show they do, he will give his character a first name. Any suggestions?

DEAR DICK: Some time ago I sent an original manuscript to Chad Everett. I contacted his agency and received instructions from them on mailing the manuscript to them for delivery to Everett. I requested the manuscript be returned to me if he was not interested, which they promised to do. It was never returned and I contacted them by phone, letter and even a personal letter to Everett, to no avail. Everett does not impress me as this type of person. What should or can I do, as this was an excellent manuscript. DOUG SULLENS, Albuquerque, N.M.

Unfortunately, there is nothing you can do. In the first place, Everett probably never saw or even heard about your manuscript. Stars don't read unsolicited manuscripts as a rule. It was almost surely intercepted by some lackey and probably tossed out without even being read. They get so much that they generally throw things out unless there is a return envelope and postage. Moral of the story: Don't send manuscripts to stars; first get an agent and submit things through him.

DEAR DICK: Our circle of friends is at a standstill. None of us can recall the name of the dog on "Petticoat

Ask Dick Kleiner

Junction." He looked like Benji. Can you help? KATHY MILLER, Saginaw, Mich.

Anything to start your circle moving again. The dog on "Petticoat Junction" was called, simply, Dog. He was played by a critter named Higgins — and Higgins later played Benji. Same dog.

DEAR DICK: Are Robert Culp and Don Murray related in any way? They look so much alike. P.S. My mother wants to know what happened to Randolph Scott in the past 20 years. D.B., Vancouver, Wash.

No, Culp and Murray are not related, and I don't see much of a resemblance, but that's your problem. Scott is retired, but I see him very often around town (Beverly Hills), still straight as a ramrod, although very gray, and he looks marvelous.

DEAR DICK: How can I find out which group made the recording of "Sweet Georgia Brown" that the Harlem Globetrotters use for their practice? It has one of the best rhythms I know of. At my record store, they told me there are about 100 recordings of that song. MRS. HELEN J. DUNN, Ventura, Calif.

It's a recording by a performer called Brother Bones, who gets that great rhythm by deft manipulation of spoons. You won't find it at a record store, but the Globetrotter people sell it at their performances, or you can order it by mail — $2 to Harlem Globetrotters Inc., 5746 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90028.

Reggie On 'Archie Bunker'

What does the company and crew of a hit television show do when a baseball superstar shows up for a guest appearance?

There is a buzz of excitement, an unusual number of set visitors and an accumulation of jackets, baseballs, scripts and scraps of paper in the visitor's dressing room, accompanied by requests for autographs.

The guest inspiring such respect was baseball great Reggie Jackson, who appears as himself on "Archie Bunker's Place," Sunday, Jan. 24 on CBS. In the show, Archie's old truck smashes into Reggie's Rolls-Royce.

When Reggie drops in at the bar to report $3,000 in damages, Archie can't help making a crack about their respective incomes. Things between the two go downhill from there.

"What I like about all this," said Jackson, "is being able to add to and change some of my lines. It's like playing a game — you get better after you loosen up."

Archie gets in digs about Jackson's home-run record, his six World Series (including the 1981 encounter with the Los Angeles Dodgers) and problems with New York Yankee owner George Steinbrenner.

Is this the start of a new career? Only as it applies to Jackson's ultimate goal of being a sports broadcaster, whereby he hopes to help fans understand "what the player himself is really thinking about and going through. Nobody does that now."

This role came about after Jackson had a chance meeting at Elaine's, the New York nightclub, with series star Carroll O'Connor and his wife, Nancy, an ardent Yankee fan.

"We kind of hit it off, and I asked Carroll to keep me in mind if something came up on the show I could do," said Jackson. "After the World Series, they called me. I was flattered — Sammy Davis Jr. is the only other guest who's ever appeared as himself."

This isn't Jackson's performing debut on television. He played himself on episodes of "The Love Boat" and "Szyzzyk" and he portrayed a gym manager in "Diff'rent Strokes." He also has been a talk show guest, has co-hosted "The Mike Douglas Show" and he appears in many commercials.

"It's part of an overall campaign to improve my image," he said. "I know the sports press pictures me as being arrogant."

During the taping, he was most affable, chatting on the set about smoking ("Don't do it around me, please!"), his favorite foot gear ("I'm wearing them in the show, 7-year-old snakeskin boots that are really comfortable") and his love of cars ("I own a lot of out-of-production, hot-engine models").

NBC's 'Gimme A Break' Worse Than Not Funny

By DAVID HANDLER

Nell Carter is an immensely talented musical comedy performer. The star of Broadway's "Ain't Misbehavin,'" She bubbles over with warmth, humor and song. She's saucy and joyous. She's also enormously fat. Unfortunately, Nell Carter's weight is the only part of her that has survived the television process.

"Gimme a Break," the sit-com NBC has designed as a star vehicle for her, is an incredible waste of Nell Carter's talents. And an outrage. Admittedly, a star who is built like an Amana No Frost is not easy to wrap a show around. But that doesn't excuse what the network has done — it's turned her into Gary Coleman.

Just as it's supposed to be outrageously funny that a pint-sized black youngster talks about sex with earthy candor, so too a jumbo black woman. Just as it's supposed to be outrageously funny when a pint-sized black youngster "acts black" by shake, shake, shaking his hams to a get-down beat, so too a big black mama.

I don't think it's outrageously funny at all. I think it's degrading.

Miss Carter plays Nell, a sassy, man-hungry housekeeper for widower Carl Kanisky and his three teenaged daughters. Kanisky (Dokph Sweet) is a police captain — a big, gruff, "dees, dems and dos" kind of guy. Being the only man in the house is his idea of "moydah."

He tries to keep the kids in line — won't let them watch too much TV, for example. "TV is furniture that talks," he says.

I don't think it's funny. Actually,

"Gimme A Break," an otherwise routine sit-com, leaves a bad taste in my mouth.

Kanisky turns out to be pretty much of a softy — not nearly the Archie Bunker sort of foil for Nell that would seem to be indicated. She occasionally makes fun of his clothes ("Somewhere there's a motel with a shower curtain missing") but there's very little verbal sparring.

Kanisky's three daughters, in the tradition of sit-com progeny, all sound like they keep framed 8-by-10 glossies of Don Rickles hanging over their beds. Sam (Laura Jill Miller) is the tart-tongued tomboy who goes to hockey games with her pop and roots for the shark in "Jaws." Julie (Julie Hendler) is the tart-tongued ugly duckling, Latie (Kari Michaelson) the tart-tongued, pretty and popular eldest.

We keep an eye on their comings-of-age, but mostly we watch Nell. Nell can't find a man because she's fat. Cute premise, huh?

In one episode she goes to a singles bar with a friend, where she gets a chance to shake her immense behind and to be told by a swinging bachelor she is "a totally round human." She is dismayed. "Don't give up," says Kanisky. "You're a great person underneath all that ... beauty."

Ever the good guy, Kanisky invites a handsome bachelor cop home for dinner. He flirts with Nell, invites her out for a nightcap. When she goes to her room to slip into something more comfortable the cop winks at Kanisky and says, "Her idea of something more comfortable is the Houston Astrodome." Turns out the guy is an ambitious snake trying to get on Kanisky's good side. He gets thrown out instead.

In another episode, Katie nominates the homely Julie to her exclusive high school sorority, the Silver Slippers. Katie shows her how to dress, but when she tries to teach her to dance Nell steps in. "When it comes to dancing," says Nell. "It's not what you do but what you do it with."

And here we go again with the shake, shake, shaking. And there we go again with the laugh track.

Like I said, I don't think it's funny. Actually, "Gimme a Break," an otherwise routine sit-com, leaves a bad taste in my mouth.

FDR Is The Subject Of Two News Specials

Three of the world's foremost experts on Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be major contributors to "FDR," an upcoming ABC news special on the former president.

Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., Pulitzer Prize-winning historian and noted Roosevelt scholar, will act as principal consultant for a two-hour retrospective on FDR to be broadcast Friday, Jan. 29 on ABC. Also acting as consultants for the broadcast are political scientist and Pulitzer Prize-winning historian James leaders here and abroad.

ABC news will examine how FDR changed the course of history, the role of government and the nature of the presidency.

Said Schlesinger: "In his unprecedented dozen years in the White House, Roosevelt recast the structure of American society and the values of American life. Before Roosevelt, there was no Social Security, no unemployment insurance, no farm price supports, no labor relations act, no minimum wage. Today each of these programs is undergoing a re-examination to determine if government has gone too far."

NBC is also planning a special. "Nothing to Fear — the Legacy of FDR" will analyze Roosevelt and his impact on the nation. It will air Sunday, Jan. 24 on NBC, with NBC news correspondent John Hart as the reporter.

The broadcast will examine the Roosevelt years during the Great Depression, the radical change in the role of the federal government under his leadership and his program, known as the New Deal. It will show what life in America was like before his election, and how his presidency affected the lives of the people of this country.

The documentary will present film footage of the late president in his private and political lives, as well as interviews with a wide range of people — farmers, labor leaders, artists, well-known politicians and legislators who helped shape the New Deal.

DAVID BRINKLEY

MacGregor Burns and diplomatic historian Robert Dalleck.

This special report, marking the 100th anniversary of Roosevelt's birth (Jan. 30, 1882), will be anchored by David Brinkley, with ABC news correspondents Peter Jennings, Robert Trout and James Wooten.

The program will combine historical film footage of the Roosevelt era with interviews of former Roosevelt associates and of current political and governmental

Altman Directs 2 Plays For ARTS

Film director Robert Altman will direct a pair of one-act plays to appear on the Alpha Repertory Television Service on March 16. The two plays, "Precious Blood" and "Rattlesnake in a Cooler," both by playwright Frank South and known collectively as "2 by South," were recently produced off-Broadway at the St. Clements theater and directed by Altman in his New York debut as a stage director.

"Precious Blood," a story of the reactions of a man who had a violent childhood, stars Guy Boyd and Alre Woodard. "Rattlesnake in a Cooler," a monologue about a Kentucky doctor whose aimless drifting winds up in tragedy, stars Leo Burmester.

Robert Altman is among the most successful and critically acclaimed contemporary film directors. He first became famous with the release of "M A S H," a black comedy about life in a mobile military hospital during the Korean war.

Enberg Top Sportscaster

NBC Sports' Dick Enberg, who won his first Emmy award as television's "outstanding sports personality," has been honored for the third consecutive year as "national sportscaster of the year" by the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association.

Enberg, who handles professional football, college basketball, baseball and selected events for NBC's "Sports World," will receive the award in April. In addition to his three national awards, Enberg was previously cited by the NSSA as California "sportscaster of the year" four times.

New drama serial
"King's Crossing," a saga of an American family in transition, runs as a regular Saturday evening serial, as of last week.

The series focuses on the lives of Paul and Nan Hollister (Bradford Dillman and Mary Frann) and their two daughters, Carey and Lauren (Marilyn Jones and Linda Hamilton), who move to the small village of King's Crossing to begin new lives for themselves. Each week, the program will offer a complete story while adding a new chapter to the family chronicle.

Joining the cast are Doran Clark as Jillian Beauchamp, Daniel Zippi as Billy McCall, Dorothy Meyer as Willa Bristol and Beatrice Straight as Louisa Beauchamp. Also starring are Michael Zaslow as Jonathan Hadary and Stephanie Braxton as Carol Hadary.

'Sound' returns
"The Sound of Music," the film classic that won five Academy awards, will be rebroadcast on NBC's Peacock Showcase Sunday, Jan. 24.

Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer star in the 1965 film from 20th Century-Fox, which won awards for best picture, best director (Robert Wise), best score (adaptation), best film editing and best sound categories. The movie received a total of 10 Oscar nominations.

The film, based on the hit Rodgers and Hammerstein Broadway production, tells the sentimental story of the musical von Trapp family of Austria in the years prior to World War II. Andrews stars as Maria, a girl who aspires to be a nun but decides to become the governess to seven children — and wins the heart of their stern father, the widowed Captain von Trapp. Maria and the captain marry and the family becomes a top concert attraction, but they are forced to flee when the Nazis take control of Austria.

Hampton and friends
A White House salute to jazz pioneer Lionel Hampton and a non-stop performance by jazz greats at The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts are the basic ingredients of a musical special, "Great Vibes! Lionel Hampton & Friends." It will air on PBS Wednesday, Jan. 27. (Local times may vary; check listings.)

The one-hour "jam session" will launch the 1982 season of "Kennedy Center Tonight," which is produced by WQED-Pittsburgh in association with the Kennedy Center.

Flanked by Pearl Bailey, Stephanie Mills of "The Wiz" and Betty Carter, Hampton is joined by Dave Brubeck on piano, Milt Hinton on bass, Louis Bellson on drums, Clark Terry, Illinois Jacquet, Zoot Sims and Al Grey.

Lee 'Fall Guy' Majors A Likeable Leading Man

So what's the story — has Lee Majors been taking acting lessons or has he just improved with age? For an actor whose most convincing prior role was Steve Austin — part man, part $6 million circuitry — ABC's "The Fall Guy" is a major breakthrough.

It's a solid, entertaining, hour action show and the reason for its success is Lee Majors. He's relaxed, charming and displays a surprising flair for light comedy. He also produces the show and croons the theme song. Next thing I expect to hear is that he can also tap dance.

Majors plays Colt Seavers, a raspy-voiced, somewhat battered, Hollywood stunt man who calls himself "one of America's great unsung heroes." After all, he points out in the theme song, he takes all of the risks for the likes of Farrah and Sally Field but never gets the girl — Burt Reynolds does. Colt smokes cigars, drinks beer and usually wears a baseball cap, windbreaker and jeans.

He lives in a nifty ranch house with an outdoor bathtub and drives a souped-up pick-up truck.

In between stunt jobs, while his ribs are supposed to be mending, he works as a bounty hunter. He gets his bounty jobs from a curvy ball bondswoman named Big Jack (Jo Ann Pflug). Usually, his young, wide-eyed and handsome cousin, Howie (Douglas Barr), who is his manager, comes along for the ride as his straight man. Also along is Jody (Heather Thomas), a tough blonde stunt gal.

You could describe "The Fall Guy" as one part "Hooper," two parts "Magnum, P.I." It blends stunts, chases, snooping and one-liners. It's the sort of show I used to devour whole when I was 13, and have never lost a taste for.

Like "Hooper," Burt Reynolds' irreverent salute to the guys who get all of the bruises, "The Fall Guy" serves as a stunt showcase. Guys jump out of planes without parachutes, dive from one moving car into another, leap from the back seat of a convertible onto the wing of a low-flying plane. Real stars pop up for cameos, like Robert Wagner, Milton Berle and Farrah — our hero's real-life ex-wife — for whom he drives a stunt car clad in a dress and wig. She urges him to take care of himself. He puffs on a cigar, adjusts the strap on his dress and limps off into the sunset. What a guy.

As a bounty hunter, Colt is a definite cut below top grade, mostly because he's such a softy. That's the "Magnum" influence. One week, for instance, he and Howie head down to Mexico in search of a milquetoast (Henry Gibson) who robbed a bank to profess his love for a two-timing showgirl. Colt gets his man, but ends up giving him his fee from Big Jack so the poor guy can get a good lawyer. "You'll die broke," warns Howie. "And with a smile on my face," he replies. Another week he breaks into a maximum security prison to clear an innocent guy who was framed for a crime. Colt was against it until the guy introduced him to his wife and their new baby. Real cute baby.

His stunt skills serve him well as a bounty hunter. Sort of. He's handy with explosives, great behind the wheel. But when he uses a catapult device to spring over a country club wall he displays more of his true self. Gets over the wall OK, but lands in a water hazard.

It's a surprise to see Lee Majors blossom into such a deft, likeable leading man. Also a pleasure. He's taken a lot of unwarranted abuse through the years from the critics and gossip columnists. "The Fall Guy" puts him on top to stay. Good for him.

Actor Steps Into Director's Shoes

By RUTH THOMPSON
Does an actor get a better break when the director is, or at one time was, a working actor?

According to Charles Siebert, "Actors may not always make the best directors. That's if they feel an actor should do a role in the way they would do it instead of developing the environment where the actor can contribute."

Charles, who plays the rigid Dr. Riverside on CBS' "Trapper John, M.D." series, is a man of gentle humor and patience, unlike his Riverside role. He also has heady credentials, including training at the London Academy of Music and Art. His directorial bow will come in this season's final episode of "Trapper," for which he thanks his bosses, 20th-Century Fox Television.

Can This Shrink Forecast TV Hits?

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — If I owned a network, I think the first thing I would do is put Dr. Gregory G. Young on retainer. The second thing I would do is let him look at all my new shows and, if he said they would work, I would go with them, and if he said they wouldn't work, I'd drop them immediately.

Young is a Dayton, Ohio, psychiatrist, whose specialty is the study and analysis of personality. He has written a book, "Your Personality and How to Live with It," which divides everybody up into 12 distinct personality types.

Because of his work, Young says, he can look at a new TV show a couple of times and tell if it will be a hit or a flop.

"The most popular TV shows," Young says, "have characters with very obvious personality styles. They are always consistent to that style, and they are always recognizable. We, as viewers, invite people into our homes because we know what to expect, and TV actors have to have personalities we understand. "I can tell what shows will be successful by watching them for two or three weeks, by studying the personalities of the main characters."

He predicts, for example, that Tony Randall's new show, "Love, Sidney," won't make it.

"His character has an 'influencing' personality," Young says. "But, so far, they have not delineated that personality very well. I think it's gone as a series."

He also thinks that the Smothers Brothers' new series, "Fitz and Bones," is a loser.

"I can't even pick out their personality styles," he says, "and if I can't, then certainly the public can't. And there can't be any public loyalty unless they understand the personalities of the stars."

Young's 12 personality types are: adaptable, ambitious, influencing, accomplishing, idealistic, patient, anticipating, perceptive, sensitive, determined, persistent and conscientious.

Generally, actors do better playing the same kind of personality that they are in real life. Jack Klugman, for example, is a "conscientious" personality, and the character he played on "The Odd Couple" and the character he is currently playing on "Quincy" were both "conscientious" personalities, too.

"It's possible," the psychiatrist says, "for an actor to play a personality different from his own once or twice, but not week after week. It's all right in one movie, but even that is difficult."

"Clint Eastwood is a 'sensitive.' And he's marvelous when he plays a 'sensitive.' But, in 'Bronco Billy,' he played an 'accomplishing,' which wasn't him, so the picture was a failure."

Young cites the success of "M-A-S-H" as an example of how his theories work. He says that every character on that show "is very clear in his personality, and sticks to it consistently."

Hawkeye (Alan Alda) is

"idealistic," and Young says they write his character week in and week out to fit all the nuances of the "idealistic" personality — "it's almost as though they read my book." Hot Lips (Loretta Swit), on the other hand, is a "perceptive" personality. Young says those two personality types inevitably clash, and so a Hawkeye-Hot Lips marriage, if it ever took place, would be doomed to disaster.

Among other TV favorites whose personalities are consistent are Lou Grant (Ed Asner) who is, Young says, "a 'perceptive' personality, and 'perceptives' are good for TV because they are very open with their feelings, outspoken, affectionate, emotional."

J.R. (Larry Hagman) on "Dallas" is an 'ambitious' type, as is Boss Hogg (Sorrell Booke) of "The Dukes of Hazzard." Young says that, in real life, Hagman is 'ambitious,' as is his mother, Mary Martin, and Young says that illustrates his theory that personality type can be an inherited quality.

He was, he says, fooled only once in his ability to judge TV shows quickly as to their ultimate success or failure. The show that fooled him was "Mork and Mindy."

"But that's because Mork had no personality style at all," he says. "Where he comes from, there is no personality."

Modern dance is said to have begun with Isadora Duncan, born in San Francisco in 1878.

....Glass Show

Great Depression. Glass made by such companies as the now-defunct Hlesey, Cambridge & Duncan Miller firms also will be shown.

China, and pottery displays will be available for purchase. A special setting of children's dishes and furniture in regular and miniature sizes will be "displayed only" at the show, under the theme of, "Child's Play."

The show is an ideal place, also, to find that missing piece of a dinnerware set you have at home, Mrs. Myers adds.

"Just bring along a carefully wrapped goblet or dish to make sure you don't get your pattern confused with those on display," she says. "There's always the possibility you'll find the piece you're missing."

But, how much it will cost to attend the show and to purchase the glassware should the breathtaking beauty of these reflective images strike your fancy?

Mrs. Myers said admission to the show is $2 per person. However, glasswares can sell from 50 cents to $5,000, depending on the design, age and manufacturer of the particular item.

"I can guarantee that there is something here for everyone," she says. "First of all, there's an education in glass. There's the rainbow-like colors ingrained in glass and the reunion of friendly people who see each other maybe once a year at this show."

The show also offers a grand door prize of a 15-piece cake set in Monax "American Sweetheart." The drawing will be at the show at 4 p.m. Sunday. The winner does not have to be present to win.

"This show is the oldest privately promoted show in the southwest and was named one of the best in the country by the national magazine, "Rareties," Mrs. Myers says.

Show times are 10 a.m. — 5 p.m. Saturday, and 11 a.m. — 5 p.m. Sunday.

Muppet Spinoffs Will Inhabit Cable

Home Box Office and Henson Associates, creator of "The Muppet Show," will produce a new weekly half-hour series called "Fraggle Rock," to debut on HBO in late 1982.

Jim Henson, mastermind behind the Muppets, said "Fraggle Rock" is a delightful show featuring a large cast of Muppets — all new and created just for this series. The show has a kind of rollicking sense of nonsense that the Muppets operate in as a matter of course."

Henson's new creations for the series are called Fraggles and populate "a small place existing just beyond everyday reality" known as Fraggles Rock.

Averaging 18 inches in height, they come in all shapes, colors and ages. They like to sing, dance, wear silly hats, go to parties, stomp "Doozers" and have adventures. While there are 10,000 Fraggles, viewers will get to know only a select few, such as Gobo, the brave leader, Wembley, the kid brother of the group, the chronically pessimistic Boober, the impetuous Red and the sensitive dreamer Mokey.

Black Entertainment Television will expand its programming hours from its current Friday-evening-only schedule to seven evenings a week beginning in May 1982.

The new schedule will include programs on black gospel music, feature films starring top black actors, public and international affairs with black journalists and political and business leaders.

Other programs are: "Old Gold Specials"—one-hour concert and variety specials that look back at well-known black performers.

"Jazz Hour" — featuring giants such as Duke Ellington, Dizzy Gillespie and Count Basie.

"Family Hour" — drama, humor and entertainment directed at teens and young adults.

"Lay It on the Line" — a 30-minute live interview and national telephone call-in show for young people who want to talk to their peers about parents and problems.

"Video Soul" — a 90-minute video concert series hosted by an on-air DJ with the country's top black recording artists.

"Body & Soul" — an exercise, diet and fitness show for women.

"Black Woman" — a program covering male-female relationships, beauty, fashion and today's business and social scenes.

"Face to Face" — from Los Angeles, interviews with black Hollywood stars.

"BET Sports" — seasonal coverage of football, basketball and tennis from the nation's black colleges.

"Sports Report" — the latest in black sports news.
