Only Student Officers Were Aboard Undersea Craft Is Claim Of Steamer Owners

Rescue Work Aided By Giant Derrick

Only Slight Hope Held Out That Members Of Crew Are Alive

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Advices to the submarine base here at noon today were to the effect that conditions of the sea and weather at the locality of S-52 wreck were so bad that rescue operation had to be suspended for the time being.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—After being sheltered from a heavy sea in the lee of Block Island during the early hours of the morning, the Monarch's giant derrick, in which naval authorities pin their hopes to raise the S-51, was started toward the scene of the disaster at 10 o'clock this morning.

An early message to the submarine base here stated the sea was calm after a night of heavy wind. Although every effort is being directed towards the rescue work, only slight hope was held out that any of the 23 men who went down with the craft, would be found alive.

When informed this morning by the Associated Press that owners of the S-51 had an affidavit which stated the S-51 was commanded by student officers, Lieutenant Commander H. A. Flanagan, executive officer of the submarine base here, denied that any of the officers on the submarine at the time of the disaster was inexperienced.

Unavoidable delays, due to the absence of powerful derrick equipment and the tests of divers who reported that there could not possibly be life in the crushed hull of the submarine on its ocean bed 123 feet beneath the surface, saddened but did not discourage the rescuers.

Repeated attempts to raise the sunken craft by means of compressed air pumped from her sister vessel, the S-50, failed and last night the naval officials on the scene awaited impatiently the coming of the great derrick ship Monarch, due to arrive today.

While the rescue forces labored, officers at the submarine base still refused to see the darker side of the picture. Relatives and friends of members of the S-51 crew, frantic with suspense, besieged the base Sunday and all were advised not to abandon hope.

Lieut. Commander Flanagan, the base executive officer, insisted that when the submarine was rammed a large number of the crew were in a position to lock themselves behind the water-tight doors of the torpedo and motor compartments in the bow and stern of the submersible. There, provided the air held out, they would be safe for at least 72 hours, which would give the derrick ship time to make the attempt at raising her.

Officials in charge of the rescue work admitted that the delay in raising the S-51 afforded the most depressing aspect of the situation. The most optimistic estimate as to the length of time men might live in the compartments was 72 hours, and two-thirds of that time has passed since the sinking.

The reports of naval divers who were the first to reach the wreck added to the hopelessness of the workers. Chief Torpedoman J. W. Ingraham, the first diver to go down, said there was no possible chance that any of the imprisoned men were alive.

"I made up my mind to this one minute after I reached the vessel and found the conning tower hatch wide open," Ingraham said. "There is a hole in the portside three feet wide and 8 or 9 feet long, located between the deck gun and the cut water about the conning tower.

OFFICIAL SAYS RED TAPE HAS HURT AIRBODY

Hearings Are Resumed Today When Major Kilner Testifies That Service Should Be Handled by Flying Man

Mitchell Keeps Mum Until He Is Called

Officers Selected For This Week's Quizzing Were Selected By The Committee

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Resuming its inquiry into the aircraft problem today, the president's special board was told at the outset that army red tape hinders work of the army air service and that operation of the service should be entrusted to flying men.

Maj. Walter G. Kilner, executive officer of the air service, was first witness and he declared that difficulties confronting the service were not one of "personalities" but of organization.

Col. Mitchell continued silent today regarding his criticisms of administration air policies, declaring he would have nothing to say until called by the board.

The officers summoned for today were selected by the board, which made clear that for the rest of its inquiry it would call its own witnesses and pass upon the nature of the testimony received.

The first three days of the investigation were devoted to hearing officials of the war, navy, postoffice and commerce departments, the board feeling that those charged with the operation of air activities should be given the first opportunity to present such information as they desired.

Approved Project Costly Disclosure to the president's air board by war department today was that the approved project for expansion would cost approximately 79,000,000 a year for the first 10 years and $60,000,000 a year thereafter to maintain a peace time fleet of 2,500 planes and other auxiliary aircraft.

Some of these, which are regarded as even more urgent from a national defense viewpoint than the military air service expansion, involve almost equally as many expenditures in addition to present army budget figures. There is much speculation at the department as to whether the president's air board will not find it necessary to weigh these and similar non-military projects.

The air army expansion project it founded on proposals submitted by Chief General Mason M. Patrick, major of the air service to Secretary Weeks two years ago and referred to the board headed by Major General William Lassiter, then on the general staff, for findings. It involves a material and personnel expansion program covering ten years to reach a peace strength of 2,500 aircraft and 25,000 men operating 2,500 planes. Two Trains Meet In Head On Collision Near Thomasville, Killing Four And Injuring 35

THOMASVILLE, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Wreckers today were clearing the Atlantic Coast line track at Newark, near here, where two passenger trains Sunday afternoon collided head on, taking a death toll of four and injuring 35.

The trains met on a double curve and neither engineer saw the other until the locomotives were upon each other. The front part of the westbound train was virtually obliterated and the engines were a tangled mass of wreckage on both sides of a 10 foot embankment.

Samuel B. Parker of Waycross, engineer on the westbound, suffered injuries to the head, which are considered dangerous. Conductor R. B. Ballard, of Waycross, one of the older men on the road in point of service, suffered a compound fracture of the leg and a local hospital condition. He is at a local hospital.

Injured List As Given: S. V. Paul, Pullman conductor, Savannah, slight injury to leg. O. S. Story, Dothan, Ala., ankle sprained. J. M. Sims, Jr., Dothan, Ala., postal clerk, slight injury to head. V. D. Wilkins, Waycross, baggage master, slight contusions. Mrs. M. A. Weiss, Folkston, Ga., bruised slightly.

Freight Embargo Will Be In Effect Tuesday; Young Buys 12 Ships

MIAMI, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The embargo on "dead freight," lifted by the Florida East Coast Railway a week ago, becomes effective again at midnight Tuesday, officials announced today. All stations from West Palm Beach to Homestead, south of here, are included in the new order.

Buy 12 Freight Boats HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Sept. 28.—(AP)—To meet building demands of the city, largely caused by the Florida East Coast embargo, which was endangering construction programs underway here, Joseph W. Young, developer of this city, announced today the purchase of a fleet of 12 boats, which will be used to transport building materials to this city.

Needy Wife Of Rum Runner Exposes Huge Bootleg Ring In New York City

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Eagle today tells how the shortsightedness of the "higher ups" of a huge New York bootlegging ring in failing to provide for the needy wife of one of their run-running captains led to the smashing of the ring and the arrest of its leaders.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Annie F. Fuhrmann, wife of Hens Fuhrmann, then the captain of a rum running vessel at Greenport, L. I., started out to get her husband out of the illicit trade, or failing that, to "get" the ring leaders who kept him in it.

Mrs. Fuhrmann, on May 10, wrote her story and sent a copy to Mrs. Willbrandt.

"I want to get my husband once and for all out of rum running," she wrote. "He is highly capable, but when he goes out on one of his trips I do not see him for months at a time, and when he does return he has spent all of his money on liquor parties, and must again hire himself out to rum runners to earn more."

CAILLAUX MAY OFFER U.S. BODY NEW DEBT PLAN

Two Commissions To Meet Again Today When Matter Will Be Gone Into More Fully Than At First Meet

French Spend Sunday In Discussing Formula

Many Difficulties on Both Sides Hindering Negotiations, Leaders of Each Body Say

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The French and American commissions concerning the founding of France's war debt to the United States will meet again today and it was indicated that Finance Minister Caillaux will have a new offer ready for submission at that time.

The French delegation spent most of Sunday and will be busy again today in calculations designed to produce a formula for a settlement that will more nearly conform to the American view as expressed yesterday by Secretary Mellon in putting aside the first proffer made by M. Caillaux.

There are serious difficulties yet to be surmounted and spokesmen for both sides made no attempt to minimize them. Yet the feeling was apparent that progress had come from the discussions which were carried on at dinner and luncheon tables at which Under Secretary Winston and M. Caillaux have been hosts.

Head of the French delegation had luncheon with the French minister today at the French embassy. The meetings over the tea cups are to continue, for Mr. Mellon leaves this morning for Washington for informal exchange of views that is mutually helpful.

Assume Policy of Afloatness. It was apparent last night that both Mr. Mellon and M. Caillaux desire to hold aloof so far as possible from the misleading impressions to which they believe formal printed documents are susceptible.

The personal talks give the commission head greater leeway in discussing various terms and offers as to their acceptability before they reach the negotiating groups, thus precluding to a great degree any serious impasse.

M. Caillaux could not say definitely last night whether his new offer will be in complete form for discussion at Mr. Mellon's luncheon today, but his advisers declared it likely that he will have enough of the points in mind to give the treasury secretary a rounded view of it.

The belief prevailed, therefore, that if the conclusions again are too far from the American view, M. Caillaux will announce tomorrow so that changes could be made before the Monday session.

Finance Minister Caillaux and his associates completed plans last night to go before the American debt funding commission today in a defense of the French debt funding plan.

M. Caillaux drew up a declaration of intent, which follows in full: "I have no ambition to become a sheriff, or a detective, but I desire to do what I can in creating a sentiment which will make law enforcement not only possible but popular.

"We dare not attempt to advance with our eyes closed to the testimony of history. If we fail to make the passion for righteousness in Seminole county the predominant one, we shall but repeat the history of Natchez, Baby, and Nassau, and the name of the man who will become a reminder of a people who did not have the courage to maintain a worthy standard, and our failure to enforce the law will invite such forces of wickedness that Seminole county will become a cesspool of iniquity.

High Rail Officials Touring State, Spend Sunday In Sanford

President of C. C. & C. And Traffic Heads Amazed at Strides In Progress Here

Met By Committee Upon Arrival Here

Are Shown Development In Vicinity; Laud Enterprise

Officials of the Clinchfield, Carolina and Ohio Railroad Company, headed by L. H. Prettyman, president of the road, spent Sunday in Sanford.

The party, arriving shortly after nine o'clock yesterday morning, were met at the Atlantic Coast Line station by a committee of the local Chamber of Commerce, composed of Mayor Forrest Lake, A. P. Connelly, R. J. Holly, Edward Higgins, Paul Shoemaker, E. P. Foster and Henry Klein, Jr. A tour of the city, planned by the local committee, occupied the afternoon, during which the visiting officials were shown the various points of interest in this vicinity.

Members of the party of railroad men in addition to Mr. Prettyman included C. A. Smith, general freight and passenger agent for the C. C. & O.; C. W. Walker, assistant general freight agent; E. P. McEwan, of Cincinnati, general western freight agent; and J. H. Hendry, general Florida freight agent, of Jacksonville.

Taken on Tour of City The tour of the environs of Sanford, it is announced, included the Sanford Country Club, Municipal Golf Course, Athletic Field, the Hotel Forrest Lake, now under construction and a number of industrial and agricultural developments in this vicinity and are reported to have been visibly impressed with the progress and civic spirit shown by residents in this community.

Interest of the party in local realty developments is declared to have been particularly keen. Members of the reception committee stated that the party is making a tour of the state for the purpose of later making certain recommendations, as it is reported that several of the guests announced their intentions of returning to this city in February to investigate local markets further.

Mr. Prettyman lauded the expansion seen in Sanford, and spoke highly of the evidence of co-operation observed during his visit here.

Prosperity Beyond Expectations "I have heard a lot about Sanford," he said, "through its location, and I welcomed Judge P. H. Smith's invitation to visit your city. The progress and industry evidenced here is far beyond my expectations."

Other members of the party, some of whom have visited Sanford in the past, were amazed at the growth of this community during the last two years, reiterating Mr. Prettyman's praise of local civic co-operation. It was the unanimous opinion of the entire group that the future of Sanford is assured, by reason of its geographical location, and because of the agricultural and industrial activity seen here during their stay.

Speaking today regarding the visit of the railroad heads Sunday, Mayor Forrest Lake stated the members of the committee were favorably impressed with the officials, whom, he says, were astounded at the extent of agricultural activities, particularly of local industry. He stated that members of the party had signified their intentions of returning here during the winter, at which time they expect to spend some time in this city.

Members of the party left Sanford, in their private car, shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Citizen. Citizenship in this county carries with it great responsibilities. Citizens under the most solemn obligation to obey the law, and to elect fully qualified officers in the enforcement of law.

It was evident after Calliaux and his colleagues had made a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon as the guest of Mr. Mellon and later had lunch with the treasury secretary that the two delegations regarded the negotiations as now having come strongly under the influence of the public opinion of two great peoples.

The sheriff and his deputies charged with a worthy and a serious task. To them the men of the county entrusted the duty of thoroughly enforcing the law. In the faithful performance of their duty these officers may be exposed to perils.

One of the most honored men known was a county sheriff. His name was placed before the people as a candidate for the office. He made this declaration to the voters: If you elect me to office of sheriff, I'll enforce the law. His private life had won admiration of the community, and the confidence of his wife and children.

When Seminole county citizens determine to support our officers, when our officers go forth with courage and determination to defend and to bring to justice these slanders who are almost open in our traffic, this deplorable and contemptible and lamentable bootlegging will be brought to an end, and this county of such marvelous possibilities will get a spring in every corner of this country.
