

American Custom Of Keeping Up With The Joneses Is Satirized

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK. (AP)—Once upon a time a man named Smith, a man named Brown and a man named Johnson came to call on one of their neighbors—a fellow named Jones.

They found him clad in a silk dressing gown and lying on a $750 sofa in his luxurious living room. Jones was idly flicking cigar ashes on the sofa as he talked over the phone to his bookie.

"Put $25 for me on Silver Hoop in the sixth tomorrow."

He put down the phone, held out a box of fifty-cent stories and said:

"Have a couple, boys. What's your problem?"

"You are!" chorused Smith, Brown and Johnson.

"How come?" said Jones, surprised.

Smith, Brown and Johnson explained. They said his family was living too high for such a modest neighbor. They said their own families now wanted to live that way, too, and it was keeping them broke to try to keep up with the Joneses.

"Oh, that's just an old saying, boys," said Jones, tolerantly. "It doesn't mean a thing."

"It does around my house," said Smith. "Whatever your wife gets, my wife wants."

"Keeping up with the Joneses has made me a prisoner of the installment plan," moaned Brown.

"Why did you have to show off buying a 46-inch screen television set?" demanded Johnson. "Now my daughter won't even look at our old shabby 21-inch screen. She says the screen is so small it hurts her eyes."

Jones looked complacent.

"It is a matter of pride with the Joneses everywhere to live life to the hilt," he said. "Family pride. What do you expect me to do about it anyway, boys?"

"Change your name," said Smith.

"Never," said Jones. "I'm a born Jones."

"Have your wife take in washing," pleaded Smith. "Any little feature like that would help."

"We all have to try to keep up with the Joneses," grumbled Johnson. "What do you Joneses try to keep with?"

"Right now I'm trying to keep up with my bills," confessed Jones. "I'm up to my armpits in debt. If I had some ready cash, I'd sell my place here and 'float' away."

"You would," said Smith, Brown and Johnson. They put their disease. Other doctors may apply these temporary exercises at night—as support for weakened muscles when they are not being exercised. Many doctors say the Australian nurse made a major contribution polio treatment by weaning the patient away from overuse of splints and crutches.

As to exercise, the actual physical motions appear to be about the same whether prescribed by the Kenny school or by other doctors. The objective seems to be gradually to induce muscles to go through as great a range of motion as possible.

Among both Kennists and non-Kennists, "passive" exercise is first used—that is, the physical therapist moves the patient's limbs. Later "active" exercises are used, the patient being encouraged to try to work his muscles against resistance.

But there are different underlying philosophies of exercise between the two schools—and even among Kennists themselves.

Sister Kenny herself and some of her followers contend that many muscles that are loose and without function are not actually paralyzed to any extent but are just temporarily "forgotten" by the central nervous system.

Some Kenny people contend that "mental awareness" of such "forgotten" muscles can gradually be instilled in the patient. To that end, these Kenny therapists encourage the patient to "think" about the action of a particular muscle while the technician is putting it through a motion. The theory is that gradually the patient himself will be able to reproduce the action.

Most non-Kenny doctors contend that any impairment of function is a purely physical thing.

A few doctors on both sides of the fence sometimes use certain drugs designed to aid muscular relaxation and relieve pain. One of these is Curare, used by South American Indians as a poison for arrows.

Kenny people contend that in general this is the best treatment. Other doctors say it is difficult to deprive the patient of his own strength, and so-called "modifier" Kenny treatments or in fact any treatment.

The reason they say is that polio is marked by many "variations." At the outset one patient may appear to be seriously affected and then recover rather quickly. Another may seem to recover rather quickly. Another may seem to have only a slight attack and eventually become a helpless cripple.

The only way to make an evaluation, these doctors contend, would be to study many cases in various parts of the country, with half the patients in each area being given the particular treatment under study, and the other half being treated without it, but with all receiving a common basic treatment to ensure their safety.

A statistical estimate is that about 100,000 cases of polio are contracted each year.

supply. But the statement of Deputy Premier Fatimi ruled out this action. There had been fear that fire and explosion might follow the closing of the valves.

Other points contained in the communique said instructions had been issued for abolition of AIOC's Information Department and Iranian officials had been appointed to various posts in the company's Tehran offices and sales centers.

The communique said also that all income from oil sales should be deposited in Iran's national bank in the future in the name of the Iranian National Oil Company.

The communique, issued by Fatimi, said the temporary board of directors of the Iranian National Oil Company had been given "full authority" to run the affairs of the former oil company, including some 50 world-wide subsidiaries.

Another meeting of the cabinet was called for this evening. Fatimi said Mossadegh will address the parliament in closed session tomorrow morning.

The cabinet met amid darkening hopes for a solution to the British-Iranian deadlock over Iran's seizure of the billion-dollar properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. As it went into session U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady sent to Nationalist Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh this message:

"In the interest of Iran, may I take the liberty of responding to you what I urged yesterday—that is, that you and your advisors give the most careful consideration to the British proposal so that the negotiations between your government and the representatives of the oil company may not be broken off. It seems to me that the British proposals form the basis for meeting all your requirements with regard to nationalization."

That proposal was a compromise offer from the British of a financial advance, instead of turned, virtually all the profits of the ing over, as the Iranians demand, company since enactment of the nationalization law in March.

When Iran rejected this offer yesterday, the British representatives announced this meant negotiations had been broken off.

did not exist," said Hurley, "but the Secretary expressed both moral and physical fear."

At the time of Yalta, he said, America was in a position "to speak the only language the Communists understand, the language of power. The President of the United States at Yalta was in command of the greatest land, Navy and Air Force ever assembled on earth."

Hurley continued:

"One quiet sentence to Marshal Stalin in that language would have indicated that America would require him to keep his solemn agreements. That one sentence would have prevented the conquest of all the Balkan states, the conquest of Poland and the conquest of China. The sentence was not forthcoming."

"On the contrary, your diplomats and mine surrendered in secret every principle for which we said we were fighting. They talk about Stalin breaking his agreements, gentlemen. He never had to break one. We cowardly surrendered to him everything that he had signed and we did it in secret."

Hurley said to the committee at one point:

"You may ask me now: 'What is wrong with the present foreign policy?'"

"The answer is that since Yalta, it does not support the principles of individual liberty, self-determination and justice for which we said we were fighting."

"The policy has been changed to support imperialism and to appease Communism."

Hurley discussed, too, an occasion when he was ambassador in China and sent some State Department representatives home. He said James F. Byrnes, then Secretary of State, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at the time that the men were "nice boys who had reported to their superiors, and that we should approve reports made with in the department by men in the field to their superiors."

Hurley said:

"My charge was that these men were favorable to Communism and against the policy of the United States in China, and that is very different from being subordinate to me or reporting to my superiors over my head. I didn't make any such charge. But I was not permitted to answer Secretary Byrnes."

In other high spots, Hurley:

1. Identified that terms of the Yalta accords were "kept secret from me as ambassador to China, from the president of China, from the Chinese people, and from the people of the United States" but that the Russian and Chinese Communists and the Japanese knew of it. He added: "I learned of its existence through the Chinese armed Communists."

2. Denounced as "absurd" what he described as Acheson's testimony that "the Chinese people liked the betrayal at Yalta. Hurley said that there (in China) at the time and I know that it is not true."

3. Said he still supports the principle of collective security, such as the United Nations was founded to achieve, but that some "N. Allies have 'sent only token forces to Korea, and at the same time profited by trade with the enemy."

was fined $10,000.

Attorney General McGrath, in a statement today, saluted his aides in the FBI and the Justice Department's "division for their ability to act 'divisively' against the party's alternate leadership."

"In view of the recent ruling of the Supreme Court upholding the constitutionality of the Smith Act, I hope that the country, by this action today, will realize the department will continue vigorously to pursue and bring to account those leaders who would attempt to overthrow the government by force and violence."

The carefully planned roundup was carried out with precision over a period of just a few hours. In most cases, the federal agents waited near the homes of those slated for arrest and made their pickups on the street.

Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court will consider a petition tomorrow for stay until October in the case of the 11 top Communists. Should Jackson grant the stay, the 11 would not have to wait their prison terms until the whole court hears a petition for rehearing in October. Otherwise they are due to go to jail within the next two weeks.

They are Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the U. S. Communist party, and three other members of the so-called "American Political Bureau"—James J. Davis, Jr., Gilbert Green, Robert G. Thompson, John Gates, John B. Williamson, Carl Winter, Gus Hall, Jacob Stachel, Henry Winston and Irving Potash.

All but Thompson were sentenced in October, 1949, to five years in prison. Thompson, a World War II veteran, got three years.

Some officials have said the number of prosecutions could run as high as 12,000. However, most indications are that the government will not try to move on such a broad basis now.

Justice Department officials take the view that today represents a "second layer" of party officialdom.

damaged. The Fifth Air Force listed nine shot down, one probably knocked out and 18 damaged.

There have been no figures of U. N. losses if any in these air battles.

The Navy and Marine Corps have lost "approximately 300 aircraft" during the Korean war, which will be a year-old Monday, Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy announced. The losses are not the result of air battles, but included a bombing and strafing raid Wednesday morning on a U. N. bivouac area in the Hjongpuk sector north of Seoul. The new boldness of the Reds revived speculation that they are planning to unleash their Air Force, one estimated at 3,000 planes—possibly in support of a new offensive.

U. N. bombers pock-marked six North Korean air fields with explosives in Tuesday night raids.

Naval and Marine planes alone have rained 70,000,000 pounds of high explosives on Communist targets in the past 12 months, Joy reported.

The commander of Far East Naval forces said his airmen flew 67,000 sorties and inflicted 57,000 casualties on the Reds.

The Fifth Air Force, directing land based planes, reported Communist rail traffic increased Tuesday night but highway travel was only one third of normal.

Sharp ground fighting was reported for control of three roads—a secondary route near Kansong on the east coast, the highway running north from Yangpu on the east central front, and the Kumhwa-Kumang road in the center linking the fallen Red triangle with a new Chinese buildup area.

The abruptly abandoned Puchon line between the Kansong and Yangpu sectors.

North Koreans fought stubbornly for ten days in defense of ridges rimming the bowl on the south against a powerful U. N. pincer movement. One final ridge changed hands six times in several fighting Tuesday under cover of an intense artillery duel.

Allies charged the ridge again Wednesday morning. There was no one there.

A front line dispatch said U. N. artillery now can sweep the entire Puchon Bowl, making it useless to the Reds as an assembly area.

One U. N. patrol pushed three miles beyond Allied lines in this sector north of Inje and found only two Red snipers. Another patrol blew up a Red supply dump north of Yangpu.

To the northwest a battle raged for 24 hours east of Kumhwa. Front line dispatches said it finally broke off at 5 P. M. Wednesday, when Reds withdrew, leaving many dead and wounded behind.

Dispatches from across the front spoke of new Red defense lines.

Generally the front appeared to be settling down.

A Stars and Stripes (Army newspaper) correspondent reported "another day of watchful waiting" on the central front west of Kumhwa. Allied officers said Chinese were neither fleeing nor massing. They were reported preparing positions north of their former Iron Triangle.

AP correspondent O. H. King, in a flight over the front, observed "extensive" new defense positions" on both sides of the now quiet battle lines. His report was delayed five days by censors.

King got "the definite impression that perhaps nothing of major consequence is going to happen for the indefinite period."

Maj. General Charles D. Palmer, commander of the First Cavalry Division, agreed. He said the problem has how to create the opportunity to inflict further heavy casualties on the Chinese.

Warren Is Asked To Appear Before Crime Committee

WASHINGTON, June 20—(AP)—The Senate Crime Committee today for the third time asked Governor Fuller Warren of Florida to appear before it in Miami. It threatened "further action" unless he accepts or gives "satisfactory response" before noon tomorrow.

Chairman O'Connor (D-Md) sent Warren a telegram in which he said:

"Our committee hereby renews urgent request for your appearance and unless you accept same or give satisfactory response before noon Thursday, June 21, consideration will be given to further action . . ."

Warren had countered a second invitation from the committee with a suggestion that the committee sit in Tallahassee.

O'Connor told Warren it would be "impractical" to move hearings to Tallahassee "for the convenience of one witness."

"Information which it is alleged you possess personally regarding relationships between organized criminals from other states nesting Florida given under oath is essential to ridding country of this evil."

The committee is planning to be in Miami tomorrow and Friday for hearings on crime and narcotics.

Warren replied to the first invitation from the committee by saying he would be out of town

Senators Declare Mississippi Group Auctions Off Jobs

WASHINGTON, June 20—(AP)—A Senate subcommittee reported today it had found a "vicious job-selling racket" involving federal government positions in Mississippi.

It attributed the "deplorable situation" to the action of the Democratic National Committee which, the group declared, "saw fit to invoke political reprisals" on Mississippi Democrats who bolted from President Truman in 1948 and supported the States Rights ticket.

The seven-man expenditures subcommittee headed by Senator Hoyer spoke of a small group as having "corruptly extorted political contributions" from persons seeking postal jobs, but said the practice has ended. It said there is no evidence the National Committee got any of this money.

The subcommittee submitted a report at the time of the Miami hearing. In his reply to the second invitation, Warren suggested the hearing be moved to Tallahassee some time after July 2.

O'Connor told Warren every official "even more than (a) private citizen" has a duty to tell the committee what he knows about interstate crime relations.

Dade county (Miami) Sheriff James Sullivan, one of the committee's chief targets in Florida, resigned Monday after charging a "campaign of abuse and smear."

O'Connor told Warren his "assumption" that the "sole purpose of (the) inquiry concerns (the) Sheriff Sullivan case is incorrect."

"We desire to have you testify regarding other matters," the telegram added.

The Senate committee chairman explained to the Governor that because of Warren's "apparent misunderstanding" of the group's previous request for his appearance at Miami tomorrow, he was sending "this additional urgent request."

O'Connor said the request was approved by a majority of the Senate Crime Committee.

Truman Supporters Maintain Corrupt Patronage Machine

WASHINGTON, June 20—(AP)—The report named leaders of the Mississippi group it asserted had used political power "to extort contributions" from federal job-seekers and criticized the Post Office Department for failing to uncover "these illegal job-selling activities."

It noted that the pro-Truman group had sought the advice and assistance of Donald S. Dawson, presidential aide, and added: "However, in the opinion of the subcommittee the evidence is clear that the Democratic National Committee was responsible for turning over federal patronage" to the pro-Truman group.

The background of the matter is this:

In 1948 the regular Mississippi democratic organization bolted from Mr. Truman and supported the States Rights ticket. A pro-Truman faction, known as the Mississippi Democratic Committee, organized to support the President. In 1949 the Administration denied the Mississippi congressional delegation the privilege of recommending appointees to federal jobs and gave this privilege to the pro-Truman group. Leaders of the group included Clarence E. Hood, Jr., recognized by the National Committee as acting national committeeman for Mississippi, Frank F. Mize, Curtis Rogers, Forrest B. Jackson and B. C. Heasley.

Allied Patrols Probe Northward Toward Red Capital City; Air Battles Cease

By OLEN CLEMENTS
TOKYO, June 21—(AP)—Allied patrols roamed far beyond their lines today on the western front, where officers predicted the Reds would launch a "limited offensive" by Monday, first anniversary of the Korean war.

United Nations patrols twice entered Kaesong, 25 miles north west of Seoul on the main highway to Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea. A thousand Reds in the hills made no move to intervene.

This is the most westward push of Allied units since Reds swept across Parallel 38 in the April offensive.

Three other U. N. patrols reached within four miles of Pyongyang, humping into Chinese outposts. Powerful Chinese forces were reported growing behind these outposts north of Pyongyang, northern tip of the Iron Triangle. Pyongyang is 92 miles southeast of Kaesong.

All along the quiet front U. N. scouts probed for Red strength. Rain clouds forming over Korea cut air attacks down to the lowest figure this month. The Fifth Air Force reported only 186 sorties, most of them in the early morning darkness before storm clouds blanketed the country.

For the first time in five days no Communist warplanes were sighted.

In the first four days this week the Reds rained across the Yalu River from Manchuria into flaming battles in the North Korean skies.

Far East Air Forces (FEAF) announced three Allied planes lost in the first four days. An American Sabre jet and a Mustang fighter were shot down. Another Sabre jet was missing.

FEAF revised Red losses downward. The corrected total listed Communist aircraft destroyed or damaged, instead of 28. Nine were listed as shot down (six MIG-15 jets, two Sturmovik attack bombers and a YAK fighter), one probably destroyed.

Commissars already destroyed or damaged, instead of 28. Nine were listed as shot down (six MIG-15 jets, two Sturmovik attack bombers and a YAK fighter), one probably destroyed.

Bad weather cut U. N. air activity to 186 sorties Wednesday, including 180 night attacks. Allied predictions of a limited offensive Chinese offensive before Monday were reported by AP correspondent Jim Becker.

Becker said officers pointed out Chinese activity on the western front is similar to that preceding their April 22 offensive.

"It's the same pattern on a similar scale," the officers said. Allied patrols roam almost at will in front of U. N. lines.

But, one officer observed, "We know the Chinese are there and probably watching us go by. They want us to develop a false sense of security."

MODERN WAR

MANILA, June 21—(AP)—Blowgun warfare flared between primitive tribes on Mount Bangbang today.

Fighting Malayan tribesmen had a few machine guns to add to their arsenal of blowguns, darts, throwing spears, stone axes and steel knives.

But they had only enough shells for an occasional bang-bang bang-bang.

Governor Louis Braganza of Abra Province reported two Malayan tribesmen and one member of the Danac-Holney tribe were killed in the fighting northwest of Manila. He dispatched a constabulary force to restore quiet to Mount Bangbang.

This drawing by Architect Elton J. Naughton reveals how the Oviedo Clinic and Hospital will appear when completed. Paul Campbell, contractor, was awarded the contract yesterday for the building.

Legislator Declares Bottom Of Bucket On Taxes In Sight

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Rep. Doughton (D-NC) asked the House today to approve a $7,200,000,000 tax increase, and said he didn't see how the rates could be located any higher.

The 87-year-old North Carolina head of the Ways and Means Committee, which drew up the bill, due to come to a final vote in the House late tomorrow.

He endorsed the huge proposed increase, largest in American history, as urgently needed to finance the nation's defense program. But he told his colleagues solemnly:

"I consider it unlikely that we shall be able to increase substantially the yield of the federal tax system beyond what is included in the present bill."

"I say this in all frankness and sincerity, for I consider it essential that we face up to the fact that any higher tax rate on either individuals or corporations or excises would be exceedingly burdensome and difficult to impose."

Doughton said that under the (Continued on Page Two)

Campbell Is Awarded $24 Thousand Contract For Hospital In Oviedo

Paul Campbell, Oviedo contractor, was yesterday awarded a $24,490 contract to build a combination clinic and hospital to serve the needs of the growing community of Oviedo.

In the hospital portion will be four semi-private rooms, two for white and two for colored patients. The bedrooms, 12 by 18 feet in size, will each accommodate two beds, and the rooms will have adjoining toilets.

An entrance porch at the side will provide access to the emergency operating room. Between this room and the doctor's office will be a shower and locker room for his use. Other facilities will include an x-ray and general laboratory room, a dark room for x-ray work, a kitchenette, and a furnace room with water heater.

Mossadegh Given Confidence Vote On Oil Measure

TEHRAN, June 21—(AP)—Prime Minister Mossadegh won a vote of confidence from parliament today amid demonstrations against the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

Crowds invaded the company's office and tore down its sign just before Mossadegh went before parliament with a warning that violence might follow if the legislators failed to support his bill.

They gave him a 91.0 vote of confidence.

Mossadegh told parliament he will proceed to take over the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. because the country demands it.

He sought the vote of confidence as a token of nationwide approval of his policy.

The measure, which would be no "compromise" with the British-controlled company. The government has taken control of its refinery and other operations in this country. No method for compensating the company has been determined.

The demonstrators were in a holiday spirit as they entered Anglo-Iranian's Tehran office to tear down its sign.

The demonstrators also threw AIOC publicity releases from the windows of its information office.

The cabinet has ordered the information office abolished. Iranian flags flew from out company offices.

Senate Group Is Told F.D.R. Asked Hurley To Ease Yalta Terms

Rumors Of Peace Jaycees Are Told Discounted By Of Life On Navy President Truman Aircraft Carrier

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—President Truman today discounted rumors of Korean peace proposals.

He told a news conference that no peace proposition had been taken up with him by the United Nations. He added he believed a thing of the kind would come to him if it were contemplated.

Mr. Truman had very little news at his first press conference in two weeks.

He fired "no comment" replies in quick succession to questions regarding Iranian oil, congressional action on inflation control proposals, and Senate votes cutting 10 per cent from requested appropriations for federal personnel.

He also declined to throw any light on his 1951 political intentions or to reply again to the MacArthur controversy.

A reporter asked if Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh, N. C. publisher and democratic national committee member, had shown anything more than sharp reprobation in his criticism of the administration Monday.

Mr. Truman would not say next year.

The president, grinning broadly, replied the reporter had stated the case exactly.

One of the many "no comment" replies was given when a reporter sought presidential reaction on a charge by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that Secretary of Defense Marshall was "incompetent."

As the reporter put it, a great conspiracy without the president's knowledge, Mr. Truman said he didn't know how that Senator could read his mind.

In a reference to the state visit of President Galia Plaza of Ecuador, Mr. Truman told questions that international relations in general are better than ever.

Majority Of Doctors Now Employ Kenny Methods In Treating Polio

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—So far, at least, statistics do not appear to show where the Kenny treatments stands in the fight against polio.

Officials of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis say that results so far reported from Kenny institutions appear to be about the same as those obtained in various clinics throughout the country where methods differing in at least some respects from the Kenny treatment are employed.

But foundation officials point out that statistics on treatment are difficult to appraise because of variations in such things as the severity of the attack, age groups involved, possibilities of recovery without any special treatment and other factors.

Sister Elizabeth Kenny, originator of the system of treatment that bears her name, said in an interview last summer that in her view the Kenny method is "fifty years behind in treatment, knowledge and everything else" concerning polio.

Outspoken statements like that have made doctors bristle over the years since the Australian nurse first came to this country.

In 1948, Dr. Hart Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation, declared at a congressional hearing:

"Miss Kenny is not a physician.

Marine Colonel "Big Foot" Brown Maintains Leatherneck Tradition

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR
SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, June 20—(Delayed)—(AP)—The First Marine Regiment in Korea is getting used to heavy commanders.

First Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller and now William (Big Foot) Brown.

When Colonel (now brigadier general) Puller led the regiment in at Inchon and fought it through Hungnam, the men got used to vocal firework from "the old man."

For four months under Col. Francis McAllister, an able but soft-spoken commander, the regiment became less wary of the Colonel's command tent.

They step lively around it now. "Big Foot" does not even take a back seat to "Chesty" in speaking his mind.

Brown calls his Marines—and everybody else—"agents" and he does not hesitate to tell them when they are bad, or good.

"I raise enough hell around here, I may as well tell them when they are good," he says in a voice that can carry from Pusan to Pyongyang.

Brown has commanded the regiment a month.

He has been in every rank in the Marine corps except a drum major and a general, and I am never going to make either, in the way he sums up his career.

Brown joined the Marines as a private in 1918, won a Purple Heart in World War I, and afterwards entered the Naval Academy

Soft illumination for the service was furnished by lighted tapers in graduated candleholders. Against a background of palms white gladioluses decorated the altar and the chancel rail. Alternating arrangements of gladioluses and fern were placed on the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely in her gown of white embroidered organza over taffeta designed with a scalloped, off the shoulder neckline and a fitted bodice with bracelet length puffed sleeves. The skirt, formed of three scalloped edge tiers of organza, extended into a short train and a fingertip veil of illusion fell from a helmet of scalloped organza. She wore white nylon socks and carried a lace handkerchief, which was also carried by her mother and sister in their weddings, topped with a bouquet of Chrysanthemum, Fern, de Annoni and streamers of ivy.

other, business, such as making rugs.

And what does he think about movie stars?

"They do their best to be pleasant, especially to a newspaperman," he observed. "They also seem to strive to be intellectual; they seem to feel that is part of being a movie star. Some of them even are intellectual. In that class I would name Robert Montgomery, James Cagney, Laurence Olivier, Vivien Leigh and Bette Davis. And in the other creative fields, there are many highly intelligent men."

I asked Brady if there was anything he would miss about Hollywood.

"I don't think so," he said. "In fact, I don't think I'll even miss going to movies. When I was in the Navy, I saw 10 films in three years. I may even break that record."

HOLLYWOOD

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 21—(AP)—How would you like to have Shelley Winters throw her arms around you and say, "Hello, Tom?"

Sounds like fun, huh? Except if your name happens to be Bob, as in my case, Miss Winters' confusion is shared by a number of people in Hollywood. It stems from a similarity they claim exists between myself and Tom Brady, Hollywood correspondent for the New York Times.

The confusion will soon be lessened. For Brady has checked the works. He has resigned his post to spend a year in France studying French literature. Since he has been one of the most astute observers of Hollywood since 1938 (minus three years in the Navy), I asked him if he had any parting thoughts on the future of the motion picture industry.

"I think the future of the motion picture industry is going to be closely connected with the television industry," he replied.

"Right now the movie business is in the position of a man who has found the girl and wants to get married, but can't afford the wedding ring. The producers want to join TV but can't figure out the way to make it happen."

"No sponsor can afford to pay the price for a new feature picture. It is up to both industries to devise a method for the public to foot the bill."

What will happen to all the movie theaters?

"They will probably go by the board. There will still be showplaces like the Radio City Music Hall, but most other theaters will be in jeopardy. However, I don't expect this to happen soon. Despite the divestment of production from theaters, there are still certain real estate considerations."

I asked Brady if TV was the entire reason for the industry's plight.

"Not entirely," he replied. "Part of it is self-induced. Censorship has limited the kinds of subjects that can be treated on the screen, so that subject matter becomes repetitive. Dramas must deal in emotions, but censorship has limited emotional subjects in crime and war. Naturally, the public's interest has lagged because of that diet."

Some writers who leave the film town to write against the "Hollywood state of mind." But Brady didn't fit into the pattern.

"I don't think there's any 'Hollywood mind,' any more than there is a 'Broadway mind,'" he said. "The people here are the same as any other segment of show business, dating back to P. T. Barnum. The highs and the lows of human behavior are exaggerated because the people here are extraverts; they would be in some

Miss Nancy Ruth Bockler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bockler of Gainesville, became the bride of Mr. David Collie Howard, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Howard in a ceremony which took place June 12 in the University Methodist Church in Gainesville.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Thaxton Spangfield, pastor.

White gladioluses and oleander with palms were used in the chapel.

Mrs. Robert Jameson, organist, and Mrs. John Olson, contralto, presented a program of wedding music. Mrs. Olson sang "I Love Thee," preceding the wedding, and The Lord's Prayer during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pale pink suit with white hat trimmed with white flowers across the front. She carried a white prayer book covered with a lavender orchid.

Miss Carol Bockler, sister of the bride and maid of honor, chose an aqua suit with white accessories. Pink sweetheart roses formed her corsage.

Donald Howard, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and usher; were H. Forrest Smith, of Palatka, and George Patterson of Jacksonville.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Bockler, was in a tan and white figure of silk dress worn with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Howard, mother of the bridegroom, chose a dusty blue sheer with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. E. E. Dix, of Miami, aunt of the bride, gave a reception after the ceremony in the church lounge.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. W. E. Hale.

The bride's table was covered with a linen damask cloth. White gladioluses and miniature ivy encircled the tiered wedding cake. The top tier was a fruit cake to be cut on the bride and groom's first wedding anniversary. The wedding cake, decorated with doves and bells, was topped with a wedding bell and gladioluses and gardenia blossoms.

Mrs. Jane Ford presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. J. Miles Varner and Mrs. Robert Frazier assisted in serving the wedding cake.

Mrs. Jack Bissell kept the bride's book.

Mrs. Howard was graduated on June 11 with high honors from the University of Florida, where she received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Education.

The bridegroom who has also been attending the University will finish his work for a Master's Degree in Absentia. He is now employed by Radiation, Inc., at Melbourne, where he and his bride will reside.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Stowe, Mrs. Charles Volovich, Mrs. R. H. Squires, of Sanford; Mrs. E. E. Dix, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Root, Barbara and Clifford, of Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard left for a short wedding trip. They will be at home in Melbourne after June 18.

Birth announcement for Betty Wilkinson.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard Silver of Indianapolis, Ind., announced today the birth of a son, Robert, June 20. Mr. Silver is the former Betty Wilkinson.

Joe Engel Burns As Mobile Beats Chattanooga 8-0

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Last night's limited Southern Association action fanned more heat into Joe Engel's burn on league president Charlie Hurth. Chattanooga's May 27 victory over the Mobile Bears was thrown out by Hurth and the Alabama copped last night's replay, 8-0, as a prelude to a regulation tilt which followed. Engel, Chattanooga's colorful head man, ducked out of Engel Stadium recently via a side door rather than greet Hurth, who showed up unexpectedly to watch the Lookouts play. After dropping the replay, Joe may be poking pins into a Hurth effort today and calling on east Tennessee vociferous for assistance.

Bob Ludwick, a slim, 22-year-old lefthander, was the winner in both contests.

In the second game, Ludwick replaced starter Tom Lakos and pitched Chattanooga the rest of the way or his fifth triumph and second of the evening.

Lefty Ed Brooklyn took the first Chattanooga loss; newcomer Ernie Groth was tagged with the second defeat.

Following a day off for travel, all the teams return to action tonight. Atlanta entertains Memphis, Nashville opens a set with New Orleans, and Little Rock journeys to Birmingham. Chattanooga take on Mobile again.

Home Runs Pay Off As Jacksonville Takes League Lead

By VERNON BUTLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
For the second night in a row, home runs paid off for the high-flying Jacksonville Tars. Last night's divided was a 10th inning triumph which catapulted the Sailors into the Sally League lead.

Outfielder Ernie Yellen's disputed four-bagger with Bob Horning on base gave the Tars a 6-4 decision over the Augusta Tigers, Bengal pilot Ivy Griffin and the Augusta players followed plate umpire Dave Schreiber to the pitcher's dressing room door, claiming vehemently that the ball left the park foul.

Clyde Stevens hurled all the way for Jacksonville, posting his seventh success against one loss. One of the nine hits he allowed was a home run by Augusta outfielder Frank Dunlap which ended the right-hander's scoreless skid at 20 innings.

Savannah's Indians lost a doubleheader to the Macon Peaches and the league lead as well as veteran Stan West blanked the Tars, 1-0, with a five-hitter in the abbreviated opener. Johnny Langgood homered for the Peaches. The loss was hung on Savannah's Ed Hrabesak.

Homer Spargins capped his second straight decision in the nightcap since joining the Peaches from the Birmingham Southern Association. Barons' The big right-hander chilled the Redskins on three hits, one a homer by Otis Stephens—his eighth of the year. Langgood added another four-master for Macon Savannah made five errors in this one.

Columbus pulled a pair of doubleton multiplets for 16 hits to ruble the Rebels, 13-7. George Dries, recently acquired from the American Association Columbus Red Birds, went the route for the Georgians and shared offensive honors with Jim Dickey. Each collected three hits in four tries.

NEW YORK—Cliff Chambers' no-hit no-run game against the Boston Braves is proof that a pitcher must be a little wild in order to pitch a hitless effort.

Three days before Chambers checked his string of nine good eggs as the Braves' Manager Billy Meyer said: "You never know where Chambers is going to throw the ball."

Through sick in bed with the flu, Meyer was well enough to talk about the victory his Pirates scored the day previous in Brooklyn. Chambers beat Brooklyn, 6-2, on six hits. But he walked five, plunked Roy Campanella in the fifth and made a wild pitch.

Chambers walked eight men and made a wild pitch in his hitting the Braves. It was reminiscent of the near no-hitter the Yankees' Bill Bevens pitched against the Dodgers in the fourth game of the 1947 World Series. Bevens set a Series record by walking 10 batters. The one hit he allowed beat him, 1-2, in the ninth. Bevens faded out of the majors after that World Series game.

Even Rex Barney pitched a no-hitter. He won two games in 1950 and has drifted farther away than Bevens.

However, while Chambers is wild there is no indication that he'll turn out to be another Bevens or Barney, even though he's a left hander.

Lt. Gen James A. Van Fleet, commander of United Nations ground forces in Korea, started at right halfback for Army against Navy in the 1941 season. It was all he needed to earn his only major A. In 1942, his 1951 contract was only filed on April 11 at the baseball commissioner's Cincinnati office.

Dr. Robert Brown of the Yankees technically was under suspension "for failure to report" at the beginning of the season. However, he was "reinstated" on April 24. President Bill DeWitt of the St. Louis Browns says Frank Saucier, heralded rookie, failed to report "because he said he could make more money in the oil business and that baseball offered no future."

"What if I break a leg?" DeWitt quoted Saucier as saying.

Princeton baseball coach Emerson Dickman, ex-Red Sox hurler, was forced to take it easy with Pitcher Dave Sleser this spring.

The son of baseball's immortal George and brother of the Phillies' Dick Stiles cut his finger in a chemistry lab and didn't start until the Tigers' debut in May. Half-completed. After two starts he relief tabs he had

Jaycee Meeting

In describing his duties as a plane captain, he told of being forced to crawl rather than walk on deck because of the tremendous force of air driven back from propellers of planes parked in a row.

Other suggestions included free admission to the City swimming pool and to other City-sponsored functions.

Comdr. Atkinson emphasized that it was necessary to make the men feel as if they were a part of the programs designed to provide them with recreation or much of the benefit would be lost.

Gordon Bradley announced that the Jaycee meeting for next week will be held at 8 P. M. June 28 at which time John Kader, president-elect of the club, will take over the gavel.

Guests at the meeting included T. E. Tucker and Frank Bowen.

Hurley Testifies

(Continued from page one) world war two was fought. He said Roosevelt was "already a sick man" at the time, and he did not lay the blame to Roosevelt.

Hitting again at the State Department, Hurley accused it of making "a deliberate attempt to disparage me" in its 1949 "White Paper" on China.

Hurley, world war two ambassador to China, was testifying in a pre-war Communist spy ring. Senator Milley (R-Wis) brought out that one of those who attended the Yalta conference was Alger Hiss, a State Department official since jailed for perjury.

Wiley asked if Hurley thought the Senators should call Hiss before them and get his story of the Yalta conference. Hurley said he didn't believe "you could get Mr. Hiss to tell you the facts about Yalta."

President Truman was asked, meantime, at his weekly news conference for comment on the MacArthur inquiry but declined to discuss it.

He refused comment specifically on MacArthur's assertion that presidential orders "silencing the president's witnesses" had kept the inquiry for developing the "full facts" about Mr. Truman's part in the General's dismissal.

Hurley, when contending the State Department had tried to "disparage" him, cited the omission from the "White Paper" of laudatory statements President Truman made about him in a message to Chiang Kai Shek in 1943.

At the State Department, press officer Lincoln White commented that portions of some documents were omitted to save space. He added: "Certainly nothing was done to disparage the fine record of General Hurley."

The matter came up at the MacArthur hearing with Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds and a member of baseball's executive committee.

Baseball club owners twice refused to renew his contract which would have run until May 1, 1952.

Arthur inquiry when Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) asked Hurley to give the background of the removal of the late General Joseph Stilwell from command of U. S. forces in China during World War II.

Hurley said President Roosevelt sent him to China in 1943 to settle a controversy between Stilwell and Chiang.

Hurley then said the State Department, in its "White Paper", had quoted Mr. Roosevelt as having told Chiang in August 1943: "I have this proposal to make; that General Patrick Hurley be designated by me as my representative to you. He should be of great service in adjusting the relations between you and General Stilwell."

Hurley said that was not the full text of the President's message and he believed the rest was left out "because it would be too difficult for them (the State Department) to overcome in their deliberate attempt to disparage me."

Hurley read what he said was the complete message. It included such additional statements as these: "General Hurley has had broad diplomatic and political and business experience. He is well known and a respected figure in public life in this country. He served actively in the first World War and knows our Army. He met you in Chungking many years ago and appears highly qualified for this important post."

Hurley told the committee his purpose in putting that in the record "is to show that the White Paper publishes only such parts of my record as can be construed to be disparaging. It doesn't even quote President Roosevelt correctly."

TRUMAN REBUFFED

WASHINGTON, June 21—The Senate Banking Committee today approved a wage-price control bill denying President Truman most of the broad new controlling powers he requested, and forbidding price rollbacks beyond the average for Jan. 23-Feb. 24.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) said the action was taken by a 12-1 vote of the committee, Senator Dirksen (R-Ill) casting the lone dissenting vote.

Nation Is Split On Solution To Price Problem

Housewives Disagree With Producers On Need For Controls

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK, June 21—(AP)—The housewife who hopes for lower prices and the producers and merchants who say they are being hamstrung by controls are squarely at odds again today.

Congress talks of hog tying of feet to roll back the prices of beef, clothing and shoes. It talks of making it easier for dealers to sell autos and household gadgets on time, and of allowing rent increases; in short, of relaxing inflation controls that have aroused bitter opposition of many farmers, manufacturers, merchants, and landlords—good voters, all.

No one has a good word for inflation. It sends the cost of living to painful heights, and it cuts the real value of savings accounts, insurance policies, bonds, and pensions.

But a lot of people enjoy inflation in practice. Pay checks are fatter, even if they buy less per dollar at the store. Income from things they grow and produce is greater. Corporations, sales, earnings and dividends climb fast in dollar volume. In other words, inflation looks just like "good times" increased several fold—until the bubble bursts.

Deflation—or a drop in the cost of living and a rise in the value of the dollar—looks mighty tempting to everyone, on paper. But when you try to bring it about through controls and real it, curbs on pay raises, and roll-backs in prices, deflation is about the most unpopular thing around.

It means that farmers and other producers of raw materials get fewer dollars when they sell the fruits of their labor. It means processors of these materials get less for the finished product, and may be caught with the goods on hand and lose a lot of money.

It means that fighting inflation by credit curbs leaves auto and household appliance dealers with stock they can't move, and many lower income people are denied the goods they want because the payment terms have gone out of their reach.

It means that controls bury one and all under an avalanche of paper work and red tape with confusion twice confounded. And always controls breed more controls.

Those who favor the Administration's plan for controls argue:

1. Prices of many commodities have soared out of reason and must be curbed, or rolled back.
2. Buying on time was increasing so fast that credit totals were feeding inflation and increasing prices.
3. Inflation since January of 1949 added $21 billion to the cost of living, according to Evin Johnson, administrator of the Economic Stabilization Agency.
4. The real cause of inflation—through huge government spending for rearmament—is to hit this coming fall and winter. The government will ask for still more billions of dollars for expansion of the armed forces here and abroad.

Against this, those who favor the hamstringing of controls argue:

1. Prices are starting to fall naturally. Commodity prices have slipped since March. Retailers are reducing mark-ups to move goods.
2. Production is rising. Enough goods for both the military and the civilian are being produced now, and can be produced next year with new industrial capacity.
3. Shortages of consumer goods didn't appear in spite of all the cries of "wolf, wolf!"
4. Consumer demand is much less than producers—and planners—thought it would be.
5. Present controls are too severe—they are hurting merchants and not helping consumers.

And then, there is a clincher—Americans just don't like controls, anyway.

Base officials said they believe he is only the second person to survive such an experience.

Air Force Man Is Not Fazed By Being Sucked Into Plane

CHANUTE AIR FORCE BASE, Ill., June 21—(AP)—Cpl. Lawrence C. Flusche, 19, a jet engine mechanic student who was sucked into the nose of a jet plane and lived, still wants to be a jet mechanic.

He is recuperating at the Chanute Field Base Hospital from several fractured vertebrae, a bone break above the left elbow and a broken bone in his left shoulder.

Flusche stepped around the nose of an F-84A Sabre jet that was testing its engine May 25. The next thing he remembers is waking up in the hospital two weeks later and learning what happened from 12 eyewitnesses.

He was sucked head first into the air intake and shot with rocket-like speed against the engine screen seven feet deep in the nose of the plane.

The instructor at the plane's controls cut off the fuel when he felt the plane shudder, but Flusche was in the air tunnel nearly one minute.

Base officials said they believe he is only the second person to survive such an experience.

Air Force Officer Complies List Of Standard Military Cliches

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK. — (AP)—Are you finding the war news a bit hard to understand? Maybe it's the military gobbledegook—stand on both sides—that has you confused. Generals as well as doctors sometimes have a hard time explaining their operations in the language of the common man.

Perhaps a serial Haeckler putting their key phrases into ordinary English might help you. Well, one has been drawn up—all in full—by an Air Force officer in Korea. It was relayed to me by Gordon Gammack, Des Moines Tribune columnist.

"With war once again dominating newspapers, radio, politics, and the cigarette ads," the anonymous Air Force officer said in preface, "it is timely to publish a short guide to military phraseology to the American people may better understand the true conditions of the subject."

He then listed, as the key phrases "likely to be employed in this war and the ones to follow," these clichés . . . and their translations:

"Planned withdrawal to strengthen positions . . ." (We're running.)

"Fleeing in confusion . . ." (They're running.)

"In this hour of crisis, it would be folly to change horses . . ." (Election year, Democrat.)

"In this hour of crisis, we must remove the bungling, inept . . ." (Election year, Republican.)

"Forced by inclement weather to shift secondary target . . ." (They changed us off and we bombed the ocean again.)

"Unnecessary charge in the face of bitter enemy resistance . . ." (We're advancing.)

"Suicide attack by crazed oriental fanatics . . ." (They're advancing.)

"Spokesman described the results as 'satisfactory' and said . . ." (We missed again.)

"Captured two major rail towns in a lightning assault . . ." (We took two towns.)

"Withdraw from two minor villages in order to . . ." (They took them back.)

"Crazily Dneprovsk Stalin Okak . . ." (Run like hell, men, the Russians have taken over the radio station.)

Bolita Man Is Questioned By Crime Probers

Governor Warren Denies Getting Any Campaign Money From Racketeers

MIAMI, June 22.—(AP)—The Senate Crime Committee today ordered that Governor Warren of Florida be subpoenaed for a Washington hearing opening July 9.

MIAMI, June 22.—(AP)—Gambling czar Frank Costello, 61, was sought for a "liberal policy" Miami Beach newspaper which was falling despite heavy backing from a Capone gang member, the Senate Crime Probe Committee was told today. Mrs. Oretta (Rita) Volterra, 48, former wife of Martin Leo Accardo, said in a grand appearance on the witness stand that Harry O. Volter, publisher of the now defunct Morning Mail, "told me he was trying to get Costello interested in the paper and needed his backing." Later, after the newspaper suspended publication Feb. 28, 1950, after 18 days of plugging a "liberal policy" of legalized gambling, Volter asked me to go to New York with him and to try to contact Costello," she added. The Mail once published an editorial favorable to Costello and next day a guarantee was made an appointment for Volter to see Costello, then in Florida.

MIAMI, June 22.—(AP)—The Senate committee probing interstate crime took a look at Tampa gambling today by questioning Angel Daniel who identified himself as a Bolita peddler. Daniel said a message through Daniel to Red Italiano, reputed Tampa underworld leader, that the committee is still looking for him. Italiano fled to Italy when a subpoena was issued for him for a contempt hearing at Tampa last December.

Daniel testified that Italiano has returned to this country and has talked with him by telephone but said he didn't know where he could be located.

The information of Bolar's case stated that on Apr. 14, had held a shot gun on Corine Brown, Negro, and had assaulted, beaten and bruised her.

TONGAY BARRED

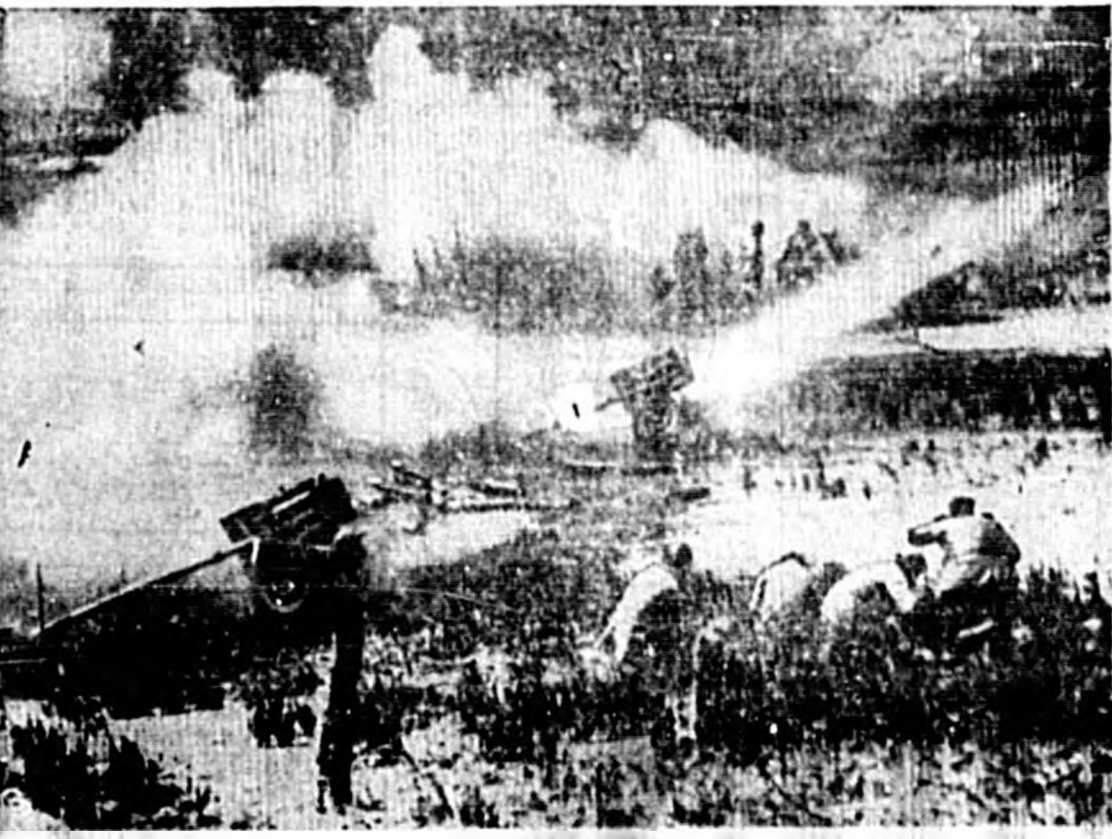

LONDON, June 22.—(AP)—The swimming Tongay family from Miami was barred today from England.

Immigration officers at London Airport said Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tongay and the two children they had planned to send on an English Channel swim would be put aboard a New York-bound plane in the morning.

No immediate reason for the refusal to grant them an entry permit was given to newsmen at the airport.

There had been widespread protests both here and in America against the channel swim project by Bubba Tongay, aged five, and his sister Kathy, four.

Iranians Warned Technicians May Resign En Masse

Vital Oil Supplies For Europe Could Be Cut To Trickle

TEHRAN, Iran, June 22.—(AP)—The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company warned the Iranian government today that its refineries at Abadan—the world's largest—may be forced to shut down because of "mass resignations" of British technicians.

The warning came as the government gave all non-Iranian employees of the British-owned company it has moved to nationalizing a seven-day ultimatum in which to report what they will continue to work for the government-controlled Iranian National Oil Company. That is the government's new name for the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

A British embassy spokesman said warnings were prompted by new Iranian demands that Eric Drake, AIOC general manager in Southern Persia, cancel all leaves of company employees. The spokesman said the warning was given by B. R. Jackson, head of the AIOC negotiating team, shortly before he returned to London today. The team was then broke down Tuesday.

The government also had demanded that Drake declare in writing whether he is prepared to serve as an employee of the National Oil Company, and that he issue a circular to all employees directing compliance with a recent cabinet decree that all orders must be counter-signed by the government-appointed National Oil Board.

The embassy spokesman said Jackson, in a letter to finance minister Mohammed Ali Vazirath, declared these new demands—particularly for cancellation of leaves—might lead to mass resignations that would require the Abadan plant to shut down for (Continued on Page Eight)

Truman Demands Workable Health Insurance Plan

President Expresses Willingness To Compromise On Issue

By ERNEST R. VACCARO, BETHESDA, Md., June 22.—(AP) President Truman offered today to "go along with them" if opponents of compulsory medical insurance "come up with a better proposal—or even one that is almost as good."

He said it must be a plan, however, "that will enable all Americans to pay for the medical care they need" at a time when skyrocketing medical costs are passing millions of Americans into the medically indigent class.

The President spoke of the laying of the cornerstone of the 340,000,000 National Institutes of Health Clinical Center in this suburb of Washington.

Declaring that the "noble purpose" of the center was to save lives and prevent suffering, Mr. Truman attacked "totalitarian dictatorships" under which, he said:

"People are herded into slave labor camps by the millions, and allowed to die like flies from starvation, or disease, or beatings."

The President reviewed his unsuccessful effort since 1945 to persuade Congress to pass a national health insurance plan which would provide payroll taxes—similar to the present Social Security withholdings—for payment of medical bills.

The American Medical Association has led a long, bitter fight against the proposal, declaring that it would be a first step toward "socialized medicine." Proponents of the plan deny this.

Mr. Truman said today he still believes in the recreation program and the nation would be greatly benefited by it.

Red Air Force Is Beaten Back In Fierce Fighting

2 Russian Made Jets Downed In Battle; Allies Pushed Back

By OLEN CLEMENTS, TOKYO, June 22.—(AP)—The Red air force was beaten for the fifth day this week in two tiring jet battles over North Korea today. American Sabre jets shot down two Russian made jets and damaged three, the U. S. Fifth Air Force announced.

That raised Red losses this week to 11 planes shot down, one probably destroyed and 17 damaged—a total of 29.

Eighty-nine jets were involved in the two battles, which were fought within 12 hours of the first jet battle over North Korea today.

As Reds stepped up their attack to new heights, their troops pushed Allied forces back in the biggest ground actions reported.

Thirty Red-made MIG-15s roared out of Manchuria and across the Yalu River Friday morning to renew the jet war after a one day lull. Twenty-eight Sabre Jets swooped down on them 30 miles from the Manchurian border.

The MIGs were shot down and two damaged in the engagement fought at the comparatively low level of 10,000 feet.

Another MIG was damaged in a second battle in the same area about noon. Six Sabre Jets took an estimated 25 MIGs in that fight.

The Fifth Air Force did not say whether any American planes have been lost in the war, which will be a year old Monday, and 301 Communist planes destroyed or damaged.

De Gaulle Warns Of Dissipation Of Strength In Asia

PARIS, June 22.—(AP)—General Charles de Gaulle warned today that Russia is trying to draw the world's attention to the fact that Europe has considered the main theater.

"The war has already begun in Korea with arms," he said. "We hope it will not be extended. Without arms, the war is going on all over the planet. The Soviets are trying to draw as much of our force as they can into Asia. It would be wrong to consider the defense of the democracies as the defense of Asia."

The General, who led his country's resistance to Germany, spoke by newsmen for the first time since his political party won the top spot in parliament at last Sunday's general election.

The United Nations, he told them, must consider the defense of Europe its first duty. But, he said:

"We should prepare to defend Europe without withdrawing in Asia."

And he added:

"We must be in a position to deter peace throughout the world and make the Soviet Union give up its ambition to dominate the world, or make it disappear."

On domestic politics, he said: "It is up to us to be at the head of the government," he said. "We are ready to do so with whomsoever is ready to help."

He made it clear, however, that he did not expect the center parties to permit his Rally of the French People (RFP) party to take the leadership, at least not yet. Taken together, the center parties have a majority in parliament, with more than twice as many seats as the DeGaullists. De Gaulle emphasized that he would not collaborate with the other parties—they would have to come to him.

City Commission To Hear Reports On Water Wells

Information on test wells will be received this night by the City Commission and the local oil supplies will be reviewed by Manager Clifford McKinnon stated this morning.

He pointed out that Arthur Ferguson, representative of First Bank, Morgan and Co., builders of the two 150-horsepower local engines at the water pumping station, is here to make a thorough examination and check of the engines.

The pumps which furnish water at high pressure to the city water mains are 150-horsepower engines and belts connect the engine shaft generators which furnish electric current to the water well pump current to Sanford.

About 1,000,000 gallons of water a day is available from the well field. In order to reach the large amounts of water needed in hot weather and in dry periods such as was experienced at (Continued on Page Eight)

Insanity Is Shot Away In Attempt To Commit Suicide

LONDON, June 22.—(AP)—The story of a man who tried to commit suicide, but his disposition by putting a bullet through his own head was today in a British doctors' journal.

Dr. John Sloboch of Hastings said that instead of killing himself he would be able to go home by performing a rough breast-otomy. This is an operation to remove the frontal lobes of the brain. It has been found to be effective in some types of insanity.

Writing in the Weekly Lancet, Dr. Sloboch said the patient had now recovered and no longer needed the operation.

The man, a 35-year-old retired army officer, had been suffering from paranoia—a mania featured by depression and delirium of persecution.

One night in his bedroom he shot himself in the right temple with a .38-caliber pistol. The bullet went through his brain and out his left temple.

Instead of dying, the ex-officer got up next day, dressed himself and cooked his own breakfast. His wife found him calmly sitting with a slight trickle of blood from both sides of the head.

He was taken to a hospital, where the wound was dressed and bone fragments removed. He had lost his memory, but his physical condition was good.

"After three months," reported Dr. Sloboch, "he was mentally alert, rational, more interested in his surroundings, cooperative, and read the daily papers."

Another two months and the patient was able to go home with both his wound and his memory restored.

Although her husband is now sane, Dr. Sloboch said the wife is still tormented, unreasonable and difficult to live with as before.

Two Aged Solons Fight Briefly In House Corridor

Phillips Lap Is Cut By Cannon As Representatives Brawl

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—The House refused today to send its tax bill back to committee and approached a final vote on the record $7,000,000,000 measure.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Rep. John Phillips (R-Calif.) suffered a cut lip today in a fist fight with Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.).

Cannon, 77-year-old Phillips, 63, both are members of the House Appropriations Committee and the fight was during a House partisan argument over committee procedure.

Phillips was reported to have gone home after being treated in the office of Dr. George Fisher, a local physician.

Cannon returned to the House floor, unmarked.

Rep. John Taber (R-Me.) an eyewitness, told reporters Phillips "started after Cannon" when the latter called Phillips a name.

"Cannon struck him and I grabbed Cannon and got between them before anything else happened," Taber told newsmen.

Taber said he did not remember whether Phillips struck Cannon. Cannon didn't recall, either, nor did he admit that he struck Phillips.

"You know," he told reporters, "that there are no many details involved in these appropriation bill discussions that no one can remember all of them."

Phillips' appointment was made in the House today at Phillips' suggestion.

Cannon also was reported to have argued over appointment of House members to serve with Phillips in seeking a compromise on the independent offices appropriation bill.

Cannon said it was "preposterous" and contrary to a previous agreement for Taber to have been appointed a committee member to such matters, he added Cannon and Taber had a fist fight in May, 1945, in Cannon's Capitol office.

Cannon acknowledged that he and Phillips argued over appointment of House members to serve with Phillips in seeking a compromise on the independent offices appropriation bill.

Cannon said it was "preposterous" and contrary to a previous agreement for Taber to have been appointed a committee member to such matters, he added Cannon and Taber had a fist fight in May, 1945, in Cannon's Capitol office.

CRAZY DAZE
The Omaha Post of the American Legion is sponsoring a comedy show, "Crazy Daze," the first performance of which will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock at the Omaha High School Auditorium. Proceeds will go to the Legion building fund.

The show features a Mother Goose review with many children participating, a somersault-walking contest, a show business quiz, and in addition to the three act show.

In connection with this series of articles, I wrote to Sister Kenny in Australia and asked her: "Do you believe that the Kenny treatment is superior to all other methods? If so, what is the evidence?"

In reply, she referred principally to several medical articles written between 1941 and 1945, praising the Kenny treatment and saying results were superior to those achieved by methods employed prior to 1940, when Miss Kenny introduced her treatment in North America.

Today there is no argument about that.

Doctors generally agree that methods most widely used prior to 1940 put too much emphasis on casts and splints, which actually often contributed to crippling effects.

Most of the medical profession opposes Miss Kenny's concept as to the nature of polio but grant

Far East Commander Backed MacArthur On Use Of Troops, Committee Hears

General Matthew B. Ridgway, now Far East command, supported Gen. Douglas MacArthur's use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the mainland of China.

The war developed today at the Senate inquiry into MacArthur's demand for publicly advocating use of the Nationalist troops and other forces at Red China.

Senator Kenneth C. Culkin put into the record a communication from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, dated Jan. 22, 1951, in which he stated that he was in favor of the use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the mainland of China.

Senator Ridgway, then field commander under MacArthur, said late in December to General J. Patton Collins, Army chief of staff:

"I am in favor of the use of MacArthur's Nationalist troops in South China would have been only moderately successful, unless pressure on our forces in Korea."

There was a time when United Nations forces had been driven back in Korea by overwhelming numbers of Chinese Red troops, which entered the Korean peninsula.

Ridgway told Collins he and MacArthur had agreed that the action should be taken to permit the Nationalist forces under Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa "to operate without delay and without limitation against the mainland of China."

President Truman told MacArthur he publicly advocating a new offensive in China and building a Manchurian base, as well as use of the Chinese Nationalist troops.

Postmaster Field Returns From Meet Of Postal Group

Postmaster Paul Field and Mr. Field returned today from their annual convention of the National Association of Postmasters.

Mr. Field was a special guest at the meeting, presided over by Mr. Arthur M. Miller, postmaster at Columbia, Ga., and the last postmaster, J. M. Smith, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

At the convention, Mr. Field told the Georgia postmasters of the proposed plan to build a post office and recreation building at the new project for boys, Rainbow Ranch.

This building, it is stated, will be located in honor of St. H. Anderson, post office, in the charge of the postmaster, Fredson. Mr. Field visited the Georgia postmasters, to assist in building this post office.

He pointed out that the Florida postmaster had made a special contribution toward the erection of the post office building at Rays Estate, Fla. This was erected in honor of Mrs. Donaldson, postmaster general, and was dedicated on May 6.

The Georgia postmaster and Mr. Anderson, expressed much enthusiasm for the Rainbow Ranch post office project, said Mr. Field, who added that Mr. Anderson is very popular with post office employees of the division.
