Accident blocks traffic

SANFORD — A late afternoon accident yesterday, involving a bus loaded with passengers, a tractor trailer and a car, left no one injured, but caused a long delay for those traveling eastbound on Interstate 4, a Florida Highway Patrol spokesman said.

The Florida Highway Patrol reports that at about 4:30 p.m., a MCI bus, driven by Vincent Trapani, 68, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was traveling eastbound in the left hand lane of Interstate 4 over Orange Boulevard. A United Parcel Service truck, driven by John James Foster, 39, of Altamonte Springs, was traveling behind the bus in the right hand lane, according to the FHP.

The bus, carrying 45 passengers, attempted to change lanes, but struck the UPS truck, sending it into the guard rail, the FHP spokesman said.

Lauderdale recovering but alert

LAKE MARY — Charles Lauderdale continues to recuperate at Home Home's recent illness. The Lake Mary Public Safety Director was hospitalized last Friday for what was described as a hiatal hernia.

Lauderdale would not comment on any meetings that may be planned to discuss his medical leave of absence or any other subjects. "I consulted with my attorney yesterday afternoon," he said, "and have been advised not to make any comments about the situation at this time."

Regarding his present status this morning, he observed, "That was the first time I've ever been in a civilian hospital in my life, so I don't know how I'm supposed to feel on my second day out." He added, "But physically, I feel I'm doing well, although I have to go back for some more tests tomorrow."

50 years of life giving service

SANFORD — The Business After Hours event, normally held each month by Chambers of Commerce, will be a joint gathering tonight. The affair is open to the general public.

"We're inviting everyone to join us for this event," said hospital spokesperson Susan Prather.

The gathering will be in honor of the blood bank's 50th anniversary. "The blood bank is an outstanding part of life in our community," Prather said, "and helps so many people. They deserve our appreciation."

Business After Hours will be held from 5:30 until 7:30 this evening, at the Central Florida Blood Bank facility, 1302 E. Second St., in Sanford.

Parents vent anger

Extra-curricular drug policy hit

By VICKI BOBROWMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Angry parents vowed Tuesday night to defeat school board incumbents in upcoming elections over the school board's refusal to drop a proposed anti-drug policy for students involved in extra-curricular activities.

The school board approved interim superintendent Richard Wells' recommendation to advertise the proposed policy and to schedule a one-item agenda to discuss what changes might be made to it. The approval came despite 45 minutes of heated pleas to the board from parents opposed to the plan. No one spoke in favor of it. Scores of parents, some carrying placards, crowded the meeting room.

"The only change I want to see is that they eliminate the whole thing," said David Lester of Lake Mary. "I will do what I can to eliminate them in November. They just don't want to understand."

Two years ago, Lake Mary High School parents complained that their school had a such a policy, but that it was not district-wide. The school board

School board response to protest upsets some

By VICKI BOBROWMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Parents and teachers who were angry when they arrived at Tuesday night's school board meeting left frustrated by the board's response to their protest against the transfer of eight principals from one school to another.

Citing the fact that the transfer was an administrative, rather than a policy decision, board chairman accepted public input on the matter only at the end of the meeting after the personnel moves had been approved.

"That just appalls me," said Lisa Spak, a Longwood Elementary School parent. "They didn't even give the public a chance to be heard."

By the time the board was ready to hear their complaints, most of the protesters had gone home.

"What good would it have done for them to stay?" Spak said. "The decision had already been made."

Those who did stay to speak, however, received support in the form of cheers and applause from the audience.

"It's not a member of personalities," said Jamie Lear, a teacher at Keith Elementary School in Oviedo. "We will give our best to whoever is the principal. That is not the point."

The point, she said to thunderous applause and cheers from the audience, was that the school communities felt that this was not the time to be making drastic changes at the schools. Budget cuts were making things difficult enough at

Brutality probe sparks politics

By J. MARK SANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Accusations of political gaming have begun to fly with the release of a Seminole County Grand Jury's report Tuesday clearing the Sheriff's Office of allegations of the use of excessive force.

Sheriff Don Eslinger said he doubted the accusations of brutality by sheriff's investigators would have been made if he was not the sheriff.

And the former sheriff's employee who spurred the investigation says the length of time involved with the investigation suggests it was deliberately delayed.

The grand jury addressed the political overtones of the investigation in its report, which stated in part the investigation "had been characterized by some persons either as a 'whitewash' or as a 'witch-hunt.' These accusations have been made by persons who not only had their own opposing political agendas, but also did not know all the facts relating to the inquiry."

State Attorney Norm Wolfinger said, "I am not going to speak to what the grand jury referred to. You need to look at what was said before. I assure you, it was not a whitewash."

Sheriff Don Eslinger said, "I wonder if I wasn't sheriff, would certain people come forward. This is in no way to criticize the work done by Norm Wolfinger, the (Florida Department of Law Enforcement) or the grand jury."

Wolfinger said Tuesday afternoon the FDLE began the investigation in early 1991 after speaking with Millie Logan, former secretary to Duane Harrell, chief deputy to then-Sheriff John Polk. Logan now works as secretary to Oviedo Police Chief Dennis Peterson.

Sheriff will change CCIB procedures

By J. MARK SANFIELD

SANFORD — Sheriff Don Eslinger said he will change CCIB procedures to comply with a grand jury report released Tuesday which determined agents either used no excessive force or none could be proven.

The grand jury's report ended an investigation begun in early 1991 when a former sheriff's department employee told a Florida Department of Law Enforcement investigator she had heard of allegations of use of excessive force in the City-County Investigative Bureau.

The allegations covered a time period from 1988 to 1990, when then Lt. Eslinger was the commander of CCIB, an undercover investigations squad.

Lake Mary may amend charter

By MIKE PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

The role of the mayor, terms of office, and other matters will be aired tomorrow night. The Lake Mary City Commission is to make its first decisions on changes in the City Charter.

Charter Review chairman Lowry Rockett will make a feature presentation of his committee's suggested revisions during this week's City Commission meeting. The Committee and Commission already met on May 28 to discuss some of the revisions in a joint workshop session, but no official decisions on any of the points could be made.

Following the meeting, copies of the suggested changes were submitted to City Attorney Ned Julian, to obtain legal opinions. Julian has since modified some of the wording in various sections, and has submitted his recommendations which will also be considered by the Commission.

One of the changes recommended by the committee deals specifically with the role of the mayor. In one section, the identity of the mayor as "Chief Executive Officer of the City," has been eliminated. In its place, wording says he or she will be "...the ceremonial head of the City, shall serve as Chairperson during City Commission meetings, and shall serve as the head of City government for the purpose of execution of all legal documents."

The length of terms for members of the City Commission are also among recommended changes. The terms, presently running for two years, would be expanded to three. A limitation of six consecutive years on the Commission is also suggested.

In commenting on the terms, Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore said, "I think the three year length is very good. As it is now, a Commissioner spends his first year learning, and the second year campaigning for reelection. He can

Transit service growth discussed

By J. MARK SANFORD
Herald Staff Writer

¶ We will locate these near places that will serve the passengers while they're waiting ¶

-Paul Skouteles

SANFORD — Tri-County Transit authority members will consider adopting a five-year plan for bus and rail transit service next week that will expand the number of buses four-fold and establish a network of transfer centers throughout Seminole County.

The cost of the program won't be known for another four months, but authority director Paul Skouteles said revenue sources may include a special tax for transit. Other possible revenue sources for the plan would be state and federal revenues.

Skouteles said the plan calls for expanding the current Tri-County fleet of 120 buses to 600 buses by the end of the year 2000. The buses will establish a multi-tiered transit network flowing directly between locations in Seminole County and elsewhere to locations such as the Orlando Regional Airport, downtown Orlando and elsewhere.

The plan also may lead to an express route from Seminole County to Orlando on Interstate 4.

The express buses will leave from a series of 14 park and ride lots throughout the Seminole, Orange and Ocala County region served by Tri-County. The locations haven't been established, but Skouteles said Sanford, Lake Mary and the Wekiva River area would be prime locations for such facilities.

Each park and ride facility would have parking availability for up to 200 cars to allow commuters to drop off their cars and take a bus to work centers.

Another network of nine transit centers will be established throughout the Tri-County area, including a likely location in the Sanford or Lake Mary area, said Skouteles. The transit centers would act as small bus depots where several routes would merge to allow transit passengers to switch between them. Skouteles said two or three of the centers would be built in Seminole County.

The plan also calls development of "Superstops." Skouteles said the superstops would be enhanced bus stops located near convenience stores, dry cleaners or other retail service businesses.

"There will be more emphasis on customer amenities," said Skouteles. "We will locate these near places that will serve the passengers while they're waiting."

Skouteles said the superstops will be designed and landscaped to match the surroundings.

Scientists want support for sun power

COCOA BEACH — Relatively inexpensive fuels and a lack of grassroots support have helped to hold back the development of solar power, scientists and industry leaders say.

Gasoline is cheap and solar technology still presents problems in some areas, speakers told delegates to a convention of the American Solar Energy Society in Cocoa Beach.

Although research around the world has led to significant improvements in solar systems, formidable economic challenges remain in part because other fuels are modestly priced, said J. Michael Davis, assistant U.S. secretary of energy.

"Gasoline is cheaper than distilled water," Davis said. "It costs less today to drive 25 miles than ever — about $1."

Adjusting for inflation, a 25-mile drive cost $2 in 1988, $3 in 1949 and $4 in 1929, he said.

Farm workers leader promotes boycott

MIAMI BEACH — The years-old grape boycott is having an impact on the California grape industry, says veteran United Farm Workers leader Cesar Chavez.

"You do not need a majority to win in the boycott," Chavez told some 1,000 delegates of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union on Tuesday. "Our research shows that when we get 9 percent of the people to stop eating grapes, that is enough to have a successful boycott."

"We think we are about at 7 percent now."

Chavez launched the anti-grape campaign in the mid-1960s to protest what he said was excessive use of pesticides and general exploitation of farm workers by the California grape industry. The industry has said its grapes are produced safely.

Chavez said the boycott has helped cause a decline in grape prices, and he urged a complete rejection of grapes.

Chiles, cabinet decide to extend loans

TALLAHASSEE — College graduates who got state loans to train as teachers should be able to get an extension on repaying the loan if they can't find jobs right away, Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet agreed Tuesday.

The loans were given in an effort to boost the percentage of Florida-trained teachers.

Not hiring these new teachers because of the state's budget problems — even though the state is getting close to 100,000 new students a year — is bad enough, Chiles said.

"Then to be dunning them for their loans would be adding insult to injury," he said.

Education Commissioner Betty Castor said the pool of graduates that might be eligible for an extension on their student loans under the rule change approved by the governor and Cabinet was around 3,600.

Trash bin deaths prompt investigation

TAMPA — The deaths of two 9-year-olds who crawled into a fumes-filled trash bin has prompted the FBI to investigate possible environmental violations at a Tampa plant.

Federal agents Tuesday were looking into whether the company, Durex Industrial Inc., violated any criminal or civil provisions of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.

The law governs the handling and disposal of hazardous waste, said Larry Curtin, spokesman for the agency's Tampa office. Curtin would not reveal the extent of the probe.

Daniel Scott Perez and Anthony Neil Storman were not breathing when discovered Saturday afternoon in a trash bin behind Durex, authorities said.

Young Perez died within the hour. His playmate died later that night.

Durex makes rollers used in the printing of items like newspapers and soda can labels, and disposes of various chemical-laden processing wastes in the trash bin, according to county environmental records.

Instructors to be court-martialed

PENSACOLA — Two Marine drill instructors will be court-martialed for alleged sexual harassment of female trainees at a naval aviation officer candidate school.

The courts-martial were ordered by Vice Adm. John H. Fetterman Jr., the ranking officer at the Pensacola Naval Air Station, Navy officials said Monday.

It brings the number of men facing sexual harassment charges at the base to four. Two instructors at the Navy's photography school, both sailors, are facing courts-martial in an unrelated case.

No trial dates have yet been set for any of the four defendants.

The Marines, Gunnery Sgt. Clifford W. Ford and Michael E. Wallace, have been charged with fraternization, failure to maintain a proper relationship with a subordinate, sexual harassment of subordinates and verbal and physical assault involving touching.

Ford also is accused of disrespecting a superior officer.

The next 'Grand Central Station'

By MARK SANFORD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Members of the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association heard of the city's transportation potential yesterday. Guest speaker Bob Mann projected his dream of a "Grand Central Station" for Sanford.

According to SHDWA spokesperson Kay Bartholomew, "Bob has been talking about his concepts regarding land transportation in Sanford for quite some time, and we asked him to meet with us and share his ideas."

Bartholomew was disappointed with the turnout. "There were only about 15 people on hand," she said, "including some visitors and new SHDWA members, but everyone was thrilled with what Mr. Mann had to say."

Mann is a former transportation supervisor for Trailways Bus Lines Southeast Region in Jacksonville, and a former agent for Piedmont Airlines. Bartholomew considers him, "our local historian."

Mann depicts Sanford as a center that would house a train station, buses, and tri-county transit, in addition to the proposed commuter railway system.

He didn't stop with transportation suggestions however. He expanded his projections to include suggestions for dealing with visitors through cafes and coffee shops, Chamber of Commerce and visitors bureau assistance, and taxi service between points of interest.

"He also has plans for linking the proposed Seminole Towne Center Mall with the downtown historic area," Bartholomew said, "as well as links between the downtown area, the mall, and the Central Florida Regional Airport."

Also on hand for the meeting was County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley, who is vice chairman of Tri-County Transit. Kelley joined in the discussion several times regarding Mann's proposals for various types of bus services.

Mann read from a 400 word text, adding comments from time to time, and keeping the SHDWA members interested in the many concepts. "It was an outstanding presentation," Bartholomew observed, "but I get the feeling that people will let it slide by as just one man's dream." She added, "Downtown Sanford needs to do something, and we can't wait until the future then look back and wonder why nothing was done."

Judge orders destruction of emaciated chickens

By Associated Press

PLANT CITY — A judge ordered a farmer to humanely destroy thousands of emaciated chickens after fears arose that the starving chickens could be discarded.

Meanwhile, authorities are investigating whether to file cruelty charges in the case. Daud Kiawani, owner of the eight-acre farm in Bealeville, south of Plant City, said a drop in egg prices

As many as 10,000 chickens died of starvation at the chicken farm in the past 10 days, Hillsborough County sheriff's officials said. And some 15,000 more were found starving on Monday, deputies said.

The judge's decision came Tuesday after the sheriff's office took the matter to court.

Illegal dumping charged

A Longwood man and a Winter Springs man were charged with illegal dumping Monday after a Seminole County deputy reported seeing them dump debris in a wooded area near Lake Mary.

The deputy reported seeing the two men trimming a pine tree in the Springs Landing subdivision Monday morning. The deputy said the two men then loaded a truck and drove to Lake Emma Road, where they turned onto Emma Oaks Road and into the nearby woods where they dumped the debris.

County precincts are being changed after redistricting

By J. MARK SANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Work has begun on the arduous task of completely revamping Seminole County's precincts to assure that voters are correctly assigned to their new congressional and legislative districts.

And unless a federal court approves new state legislative districts this month, it is a process that might delay candidate qualifying next month and possibly the Sept. 10 primary.

Elections supervisor Sandra Goard said she received a map and a legal description of the new congressional districts last week from the state Legislature. The districts were established by a federal court panel to assure minorities are given a voice in Washington, D.C. The districts were established using U.S. census data, not local precincts.

In creating a district with a black majority, portions of Sanford, the Markham Woods Road area and Altamonte Springs were shaved out of the rest of the county and placed in a sinuous district that spans from Orlando to Jacksonville and inland to Ocala. The rest of the county was placed in a district that takes in about half of Volusia County.

Jackson Heinzelman, county planning technician, said the legal description is being entered into a computer which already contains census tracts and county precincts established last year during the county commission redistricting. The process should be complete in about a week, Heinzelman said.

Next, Goard said the county must wait to receive state House and Senate districts which are under review by the U.S. Justice Department, again to assure minorities are fairly represented.

Goard said once the legislative districts are received, their legal descriptions will be entered into the computer to produce a map showing existing precincts and the three districts.

Goard said the precinct boundaries will then be altered to assure precinct voters correctly vote in all three governmental districts. New voter identification cards will be sent to only those voters who are moved into a new precinct.

Brian Berkowitz, counsel for the House Reapportionment Committee, said Justice staff are expected to complete its review today and report to a federal court judge. Berkowitz said Justice staff have asked some questions about certain areas, but have given no indication whether they find the districts acceptable.

But Goard said if the Justice Department staff oppose the districts, the process could stop until the issue is resolved between the state and federal government. Goard said if there are delays in the approval of the state districts, the July candidate qualifying period could be delayed and the first primary in September may be set later.

City sets affordable housing standards

By MARK SANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The city is establishing affordable housing regulations. Once completed, they will become formal guidelines in the Sanford Comprehensive Plan.

Cities are required by the state to establish a written document on how they will approach the need for low and moderate income housing. "We have several projects already underway," said City Planner Jay Marder, "and these regulations will help in making decisions and agreements with developers."

A suggested draft of the regulations and recommendations from the city staff will be discussed this Thursday night in a workshop session during the regularly scheduled meeting of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Among plans presently being considered Marder listed Monroe Meadows, which will be single family residences for both low and moderate income families. He also reported, "We are working on arrangements with the non-profit Golden Rule Housing Group. The city is giving them four or five lots at various locations."

Marder said there are other low and moderate income housing areas being considered at this time, "including one next to Regatta Shores."

According to Marder, "Sanford already has an ordinance dealing with deferring impact fees, but now needs to consider inserting a number of specific details into our Land Development Regulations."

Marder explained, "We have been working on this for several months, and we are now nearing the finalization."

Proposed additions to be discussed by P&Z this week include eligibility requirements, requirements for affordable housing sites, design guidelines, and maintenance codes.

Location requirements for low income housing sites include the need for accessibility to employment centers, paved streets, nearby public parks and recreation areas, adequate surface water management and solid waste collection, and, if possible, nearness to social service centers.

Eligibility requirements are based on income, age and residency. The proposal states, "The household shall derive at least seventy percent of its household income from gainful employment in the City of Sanford."

The City has determined that a low income household has "...income which does not exceed 80 percent of the median area income and adjusted to family size."

It also specifies, "Single persons eligible for affordable housing shall be 18 years or older." Residency requirements are at least 12 months within the city.

"Much of this," Marder said, "is a recap of what we have already established, while some of it is based on state requirements."

He commented, "The City Commission is scheduled to hear the suggested changes and additions during both commission meetings during July, and hopefully will give final adoption by July 27."

Casualties

War is a brutish business in which terrible things happen. The deaths of tens of thousands of Iraqi boys who probably saw themselves as warriors of the True Faith are one of the terrible things about the Persian Gulf War last year.

Another terrible thing is the death of nine British boys, mostly teen-agers, who were proud members of the Royal Regiment of Fusiliers, killed by accidental fire from two U.S. Air Force pilots. The Americans thought they were shooting at an Iraqi military column.

That is the nature of war. Battlefields are bathed in torrents of fire unleashed at enormous speeds spewing death and dismemberment across a wide area. And the majority of the victims of the fire — if the war is being fought according to the standards of such brutality — tend to be boys. Uniformed boys, but boys nevertheless. That is why war can never be a casual undertaking.

But a coroner's jury in Britain, responding to a case brought by a lawyer for the parents of the British soldiers, has now ruled that the American pilots are guilty of wrongful death. The lawyer says he will forward the case to Britain's director of public prosecutions for consideration of a case against the Americans. Labour Party members in Parliament are seizing the opportunity to hector the ruling Conservatives with the jury finding.

It is all nonsense. The Pentagon rightly refused to produce the pilots at the British inquest. And in the unlikely event that there is a prosecution, the U.S. government has said it almost certainly won't honor an extradition request.

The pilots say they weren't given proper instructions by a British flight controller. The flight controller contradicts that. Between what the flight controller thinks he said and what the pilots think they heard, we will never know precisely what happened, except that nine British soldiers died.

But, as has often been said, only the dead have seen the end of war. If we ask men to brave enemy fire and risk death or mutilation, it is beyond reason to also hold the threat of criminal prosecution over their heads if they make mistakes.

The rage of the parents is understandable. But the British soldiers are dead, victims of the horrors of war. No inquest and no trial can ever change the nature of war, and it is already terrible enough.

Sheriff wastes money

The lack of money is causing our schools to have to cut back, county and city government to restrict new projects, but our Seminole County Sheriff has money to waste. He is paying for an English class for his deputies to attend and paying those deputies time-and-a-half while they are there.

This money may, as he says, come from forfeited funds, but it is still money that could be better used by our schools.

Forfeited money is spent at the discretion of the heads of our various police departments in the manner of their choice. Sheriff Vogel of Volusia County spent $44,000 for fancy cowboy hats for his men and our own Sheriff donates money from this fund to various projects to enhance his re-election campaign.

It seems to me that it would be far wiser and much safer for the citizens if this forfeited money were turned over to some agency such as schools rather than being spent by those agencies that confiscate the property originally.

We're in the American pot together

We too often pay attention to the foam on the beer, not the beer in the mug. But if you want to see the future, foam-watching is the wrong way to do it. Ultimately, the foam gets absorbed into the beer, not vice versa.

New 1990 Census data have recently rolled out. Key headlines stress America's changing ethnography. "Immigrant Tide Surges ..." is the Page 1 lead story in USA Today. Others deal with "multiculturalism," "diversity," and the record number of Americans (32 million) who speak a foreign language at home. It is said that turbulent America is now "a mosaic," or perhaps "a salad bowl" — but no longer "a melting pot."

That's the head of foam. It's important. The 1990s were indeed a very big decade of immigration (9 million), mostly from Asian and Latin countries.

But what about the beer in the mug? It's changing too, and in ways that directly contradict the foamy story of hyperdiversity. In point of fact, the "melting pot" is now more prevalent than ever.

The proof of major melting is not in the latest statistics, which come from the middle part of the vast four-year Census publishing sequence. But it will be demonstrated as later and more sophisticated data emerge, and as scholars refine the material.

Thus, final 1990 numbers should show that for the first time the typical infant born in America will officially be of "mixed ancestry." That is, we are moving to a point where only a minority of us will be "pure" — pure English, Italian, Polish, Irish, Mexican, Asian, black, or pure anything else. Most of us will be "mixed" in this ever more "melted" nation.

Using earlier Census data, Professor Richard Alba of the State University of New York has calculated that 26 percent of people born in America prior to 1920 were "mixed"; by 1971-80 it was 48 percent. Sophisticated extrapolation on the back of an envelope brings the 1990 number to over half. (Moreover, according to Harvard Professor Mary Waters, mixed ancestry levels are substantially understated.)

In point of fact, the melting pot is now more prevalent than ever.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ben Wattenberg's one-hour PBS TV special, "The First Universal Nation," which deals with the theme of this column, is scheduled to be broadcast on WMFE TV Channel 24 at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Why so much "melting"? We practice "exogamy." That's the uptown word for "intermarriage," be it between ethnic groups, religions or races, a process often suffused with both personal pain and national gain.

The 1990 Census reveals that of Italian-Americans born before 1915, only 34 percent had intermarried. Of those born after 1955, 77 percent had intermarried. Polish-American rates were 53 percent and 83 percent. Young Hispanics and Asians were intermarrying at twice the rate of their elders — about a third compared to about a sixth.

So why all the fuss about "the immigrant surge"? No secret: Many Americans fear de-Europeanization.

That should become less of an issue as the years go on. Something else, very important, is happening beneath the frothy demographic foam. A new pluralist folk is aborning — bold, and tempered in turbulence — the legendary melted American. We're in the pot together.

Leadership: Women are worried

BOSTON — The word appears on every political menu. Leadership. Leadership, any way you like it. Our national craving has made it the staple of election year dining.

But this year we want our leadership fresh. Indeed, the opinion polls suggest that the popular Early Bird Special is something just out of the kitchen: Leadership Perot.

H. Ross Perot, entrepreneur and almost candidate, has thoroughly whetted the American appetite. More people have picked Perot from the pollsters' limited bill of fare than either of the other candidates.

There remains just one huge group of Americans who haven't yet developed as strong a taste for the jug-eared billionaire from Texas. Women.

Among the 37 percent of Americans who chose Perot in the Time-CNN poll, 45 percent were men and only 31 percent were women. That's a gender gap of some 14 points which is about as big as a gap gets. Moreover, it's a difference that's been growing, as men dig into the Perot dish and women just pick at it.

Now I am not sure exactly what makes Perot less appealing to the female taste buds. It may be the man's man thing. As Harriet Woods of the National Women's Political Caucus says, "There is a little nervousness about macho men from Texas."

It may be the little wife thing. Partnership marriages may be a female preference, but Ross didn't have long intimate conversations about his life plans with wife Margot. She found out he might go for president the way the rest of the country found out: by watching Larry King.

Then again, it may be the absent woman thing. There's a dearth of women in Perot's political inner circle and his business upper crust. He hasn't yet learned to bite his tongue before he says "girl." His company dress code requires skirts for women unless it's freezing. He talks about "grown men hiding behind their women." Women have learned to be sensitive to these hints of sexism in the sauce; they get hives.

But I suspect the main difference is in the way we understand leadership itself. Women are just as attracted to "leaders" as the next guy. It's just that women tend to see different ingredients.

Business management gurus such as Judy Rosener of the University of California, Irvine, divide leaders into two fairly distinct styles. Some belong to the command and control school. They are the take-charge, top-down people who promise to bring order out of chaos.

The others belong to the interactive school. They are inclusive, power-sharing people who believe that the answers come from many sources. The way to get things done, they believe, is to empower people to do them.

Rosener says that Perot, with his promise of town halls, television forums and direct access to the people, "talks interactive, talks about consulting people and bringing them in." But, when you look at his record at EDS, at GM and on Wall Street, she says, he behaves straight out of the command and control textbook. Or, should I say, cookbook.

The command model is, on average, less appealing to women than to men. We are not talking genetic differences here (see Margaret Thatcher) or gender stereotypes. But many women today have reservations about command and control figures. The men end up in command and the women end up controlled.

Democratic consultant Ann Lewis bears old alarms go off in women's heads when a man says, "Trust me, I'll take care of it." It's the second generation of phrases like, "Don't worry your pretty little head about it."

At the moment, women are also wary of Clinton and Bush. They have their own leadership conundrums.

The president, an uncomfortable, would-be command type, has lost some pro-choice Republican women to Perot. But he's lost more Republican men who liked him best and last when he was indeed a commander, during the Gulf War.

As for Clinton, the irony is that his history and style is the model of interactive leader. He's skilled at producing a consensus, finding common ground, including people. But many women still feel uneasy about Clinton's persona — Can they trust him? Many men tend to see his search for consensus as weakness, giving in to others. A lack of, you guessed it, leadership.

This is still — believe it or not — early in the presidential campaign. We're barely into the appetizers. When it comes down to the main course you can be sure that everybody will be ordering up their same dish: leadership. But we may be very surprised to see how different the plates look when they get to the table.

The main difference is in the way we understand leadership itself.

Why Fannie Mae have own PAC?

WASHINGTON — How much is an invitation worth to an after-hours chablis and cheese reception on Capitol Hill?

In the case of the Federal National Mortgage Association, known around town as Fannie Mae, the answer may be more than $144,000. That's the amount shelled out by its political action committee since 1985 to members of Congress and senators — not including tens of thousands of dollars contributed by its senior executives individually.

David Jeffers, vice president of corporate relations for Fannie Mae, suggests that Fannie Mae's political contributions are aimed partly at staying in the "reception circuit." "What [the PAC money] buys you is invitations to receptions," Jeffers told our reporter Andrew Conte.

While it may be business-as-usual for special interests to schmooze with legislators, what makes this case unique is that the "special interest" is a federal agency, lobbying for its own political agenda and self-preservation.

In fact, Fannie Mae is the only federal agency with its own PAC. Federal Election Commission records we reviewed revealed that of 175 Fannie Mae PAC contributions made since 1985, Democrats have received 122, and Republicans 53.

"One cannot make a reasonable case that a governmentally sponsored enterprise should be allowed to give contributions to the very legislators responsible for granting special privileges," House Banking Committee member Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, told us.

"It strikes me that when you have privileges dispensed by the privileged, you have a kind of mutual back scratching that takes on a particularly unseemly dimension when, in effect, money is transferred. Just as the Department of Defense cannot give money to legislators, I don't think a GSE should be allowed to make campaign contributions."

The privileges extend to executive compensation. Rep. Joe Kennedy, D-Mass., points out that of the 30 people who get paid $1 million or more in Washington, six of them work for government-sponsored enterprises. In 1990, Fannie Mae's president, Roger Blrk, cleared $2.2 million with cash compensation, stocks and a $1.1 million performance bonus. Fannie Mae is also the only federal agency whose head retired in 1991 with a lump-sum award of $27 million.

Kennedy, a leading critic of GSEs, told us, "Alan Greenspan (chairman of the Federal Reserve Board) makes $190,000 a year. I'm sure we could attract very good people into these jobs for less (than a million)."

Fannie Mae was created by Congress as one of several GSEs to expand the amount of money available and make it more affordable to finance housing. They are chartered by Congress but owned by private stockholders, and buy about one-third of all home loans made by lenders. Some are held and others are resold to investors.

Congress granted Fannie Mae and its sister agencies several huge advantages over private corporations. GSEs enjoy multibillion-dollar lines of credit with Treasury, exemption from Securities and Exchange Commission regulations, and from all state and local taxes except property taxes.

Congressional observers say it is no coincidence that most of the Fannie Mae largesse has been funneled to House and Senate members who serve on financial and housing committees — those charged with Fannie Mae jurisdiction and oversight.

The privileges extend to executive compensation.

Parents

decided that it was a good policy and that it should be used at all schools.
The disputed policy would require schools to suspend for one event and to enroll in an HRS-licensed drug treatment program any student involved in extra curricular activities who is caught drinking or using drugs. The policy would apply 24-hours a day, 365 days a year and to activities on or off school property.

Last night's debate became so heated that, at one point, board chairman Nancy Warren had to call a five minute recess in order to regain control of the crowd by giving tempers a chance to cool.
"I've never had to do this before," she said, "but I think we needed a time out."

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said this morning that Ken Bovio, the district's coordinator for elementary education who was in attendance at the meeting for another item on the agenda, called the department to request that an officer come to the school board in case things got out of hand.

"We just put someone in the parking lot to be on the side of caution," Harriett said.

He reported that there was no need for action on the part of the officer.

Allison Garcia, the parent of a Lake Mary High School student, told the board that the policy should not be advertised in its present form.

"This violates the students' rights," she said. "You are denying them due process."

Garcia believes students who are caught with a beer, for example, should not be treated the same as those who abuse drugs.

"They are not making a distinction between use and abuse," she said. "And they completely blow off that the kids' names will stay in the HRS system as having been in drug treatment for five years. Do you know what will happen when they try to get a job or join the military and that comes up?"

Penny Rizzo, who is the parent of a Lake Mary High School student and a teacher, said she believes the students are told to say no to drugs and alcohol through the policy, but they are not given the education to back up that expected response.

"You are holding these best and brightest students to a higher standard than others," she said. "But that doesn't mean that he or she knows how to say no."

District officials argued, however, that drug and alcohol abuse education is a part of the curriculum from kindergarten through 12th grade.

Other parents argued that the policy would be unenforceable.

"How are you going to implement this?" asked Sheila Sawyer the mother of a Lake Mary High student. "Are you going to use informants? Or 24-hour surveillance?"

Sue Berger, the mother of an Oviedo High School student, said she didn't want the school district "looking in my window."

She added, "I've done damn good with my kids. I don't want your help now."

Pat Forrest, whose son attends Lake Brantley High School, said there is a sign at the school which says the school is not responsible for the safety of the students before a certain hour.

"Explain that to me," she said. "It will be like the Gestapo. And, we don't have the money to do this."

Jeanne Morris, board vice chairman, argued that students rights would not be abridged by the policy.

"These students will not be suspended from class, and class is what they have a right to," she said. "If they don't want to live within the law, they shouldn't sign up for extra curricular activities."

Lake Mary attorney Howard Marx said he often volunteers his services to the ACLU and he found "serious constitutional problems" with the (proposed) policy.

"I can guarantee that if we believe we can win this case," he said. "We will seriously consider challenging this."

Guards fired over beating

By BOB PUGHAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Corrections officers Roberio Rodriguez and Robert Casese have been fired. A third officer, Nancy Mueller, has been temporarily suspended for 30 days.

The terminations were made yesterday by Seminole County Sheriff Don Ealinger. The action was taken as the result of a complaint filed by an inmate, Robert Chapman, who reported mistreatment by the officers on April 27, while he was confined to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

According to Sheriff's spokesman George Proechel, "The complaints were turned over to Internal Affairs for investigation, and their findings were turned over to a disciplinary review board." He added, "Although the board recommended 30 day suspensions for all of the officers, Sheriff Ealinger chose to terminate two of them."

The investigation concluded that the two men had apparently removed the prisoner from his cell, and had an "alleged physical encounter", after which he was returned to his cell rather than taken to the medical area. It also reports that when Rodriguez was questioned about the incident by his superior, "Rodriguez did not advise Sgt. Speed of Chapman's injuries, which is a deliberate omission of an important fact."

Politics

Wolinger declined to comment further and FDLE officials did not return calls.

Logan said she is an active supporter of the sheriff's bid by Beau Taylor. Her husband, Burt, is Taylor's campaign manager. Logan denied any political motives on her part when she discussed allegations of police brutality with an FDLE agent in early 1991.

"There was no campaign then," said Logan. "Whenever anything with the department is brought up, he (Ealinger) brings up politics. Politics are involved because it's an election year. This is not politics. This is 'Did it happen or didn't it.'"

Taylor said this morning he did not know of Logan's interview with the FDLE agent at the time it occurred, but said he first asked Burt Logan to be his manager in early 1990.

Logan suggested the time involved to perform the investigation suggested Wolinger or the FDLE did not pursue the investigation aggressively.

"Because of the March to September time frame, something is very wrong with the system," Logan said. "I don't know what is wrong."

Logan said this morning she was interviewed by FDLE agent Mark Zadra in either February or March of 1991 about her knowledge of the sheriff's crime lab. The crime lab was under investigation after drug test results of CCIB agent Gehe Taylor led to his arrest, but were later found to be false.

Logan said after she was questioned about the crime lab, Zadra asked her "if I had anything else I want to say about the sheriff's department."

Logan said she was aware of allegations of the use of excessive force on the part of CCIB agents because sheriff's Sgt. Mike Messer had come to her office in March 1989 asking for a transfer request form so he could be removed from CCIB.

Logan said Messer had told her that CCIB agents routinely used undue force in subduing suspects and cited one example of a paraplegic who was pushed from his wheelchair.

"That really stuck with me, so I mentioned that," said Logan.

Wolinger would not discuss the investigation, but Messer said he was interviewed Sept. 9, 1991, six or months after Logan first volunteered information about the allegations.

In an April 8, 1992 letter to Gov. Lawton Chiles, Messer and Sgt. Ron Gilbert wrote "The ensuing investigation of which was further marred by the apparent indifference and lackadaisical attitude exhibited by FDLE case agent John Doughtie and the state attorney of the 18th Judicial District, Mr. Norman Wolinger."

"If someone occupying the office of sheriff can ignore, condone or personally participate in such activities and the office of the state attorney can turn a deaf ear and blind eye, the 'POLITICS' has reached a new pinnacle and should be re-defined in Webster's under abuse," the two sergeants wrote.

Tuition

ucation told the college that an increase in tuition would be necessary for the school to be able to keep up with the cost of operation. Budget cutbacks at the state level, have left schools with little money to maintain current programs and the need to cut back on others.

There will also be an increase in the student activity and services fee from $2.50 to $2.80 per credit hour and an increase from $1.25 to $1.40 per credit hour for the scholarship fee. Those fees are the same for both Florida and non-Florida residents.

In the vocational area, there is no tuition charge for Florida residents so the increase does not apply to those classes. Fees charged in the vocational area are calculated according to a different schedule.

School

the schools. she noted, this would not ease the problems.

Also, parents and teachers pointed out, the move to more accountability at the school level for school performance, required stability in leadership.

"We felt like we were cut off at the neck," Lear said. "We feel that we were being sabotaged by the county office."

Assistant superintendent for instruction Marion Dailey said that the timing of the moves had been well thought out.

"As we move toward the Effective School programs and strategic planning, we want principals to be a part of the planning process," she said. "We don't want principals to come in next year after plans have been made and not have any part in the planning."

Interim superintendent Richard Wells pointed out that year round education would also be implemented in many of the affected schools in the 1993-94 school year (and in all district schools by 1994-95) so transfers made now, would allow principals to be a part of that planning.

District officials pointed out that transfers of principals are made routinely when principals have been at a particular facility "too long."

Still, parents were frustrated with what Donna Kirkland, a parent from Keeth Elementary, called a "last minute, back door decision."

She suggested that the board review the administration's practice of transferring principals.

"Why are these principals being moved," she asked, "when some high school principals are left in place for 27 years?"

Carlton Henley, principal of Lyman High School in Longwood, is beginning his 29th year at the helm of that school.

Charter

never focus his attention on being a Commissioner."

Jore is also interested in the Commission elections in cases where there are more than two candidates. The Charter Review Committee has eliminated the sentence, "There shall be no run-off election."

In its place, they have suggested "if no candidate receives a majority, then the two candidates receiving the most votes shall have a run-off election to decide the winner." The committee suggested the run-off be held the first Tuesday in December.

"In cases where there were three or more candidates for the same office," Jore said, "I believe it would be much better if they ran in the primary election. Then, if one of them got 50 percent plus one of the votes, or more, he or she would be elected. If not, the two highest vote-getters could run in the general election."

Yeltsin OKs arms treaty, asks aid

By TOM RABIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Russian President Boris Yeltsin is taking his plea for Western economic aid to a skeptical Congress in a summit that already has produced a breakthrough on nuclear disarmament and an astonishing development on U.S. prisoners of war.

Yeltsin was previewing his appeal to Congress for financial aid at a "business summit" today with corporate executives at a downtown hotel. Later, he was addressing a joint meeting of Congress, becoming the first Russian or Soviet leader ever to do so.

But Yeltsin's bid for congressional support for a $24 billion Western aid package may have been undercut by his own surprising revelation that missing Americans from Vietnam and other wars still may be alive in Russia.

Bush brushed off such suggestions from some lawmakers.

"They've got it backwards," said the president. "This man is trying to go the extra mile."

While President Bush stressed that "we have no evidence of anyone being alive," he and Yeltsin announced that a joint commission would scrutinize Communist Party and KGB archives for information about possible American prisoners.

Some leaders on Capitol Hill suggested the POW issue must be resolved before action can occur on the aid package, which had been put on a back burner even before the POW disclosures.

Yeltsin's disclosure — and his offer that "no stone will remain unturned" in helping to discover the fate of the missing Americans — overshadowed the centerpiece of the first post-Soviet-era summit: a sweeping proposal to cut nuclear weapons.

Bush and Yeltsin were to wrap up their two-day summit meeting today by signing the agreements — which they announced Tuesday in the White House Rose Garden

AMA to doctors: Ask about abuse

NEW YORK — Doctors should routinely ask women patients about domestic violence and help battered women find safety, the American Medical Association says.

The new AMA guidelines suggest asking women such questions as whether their partner has hurt them physically or threatened to, forced them into having sex, made them feel afraid, or kept them from leaving the house, seeing friends or getting a job.

Before asking, the doctor should make an opening statement like, "Because abuse and violence are so common in women's lives, I've begun to ask about it routinely," the guidelines say.

Polls show Perot's support

NEW YORK — Americans who think Ross Perot is the presidential contender best able to handle the economy outnumber those holding the same view of President Bush and Bill Clinton combined, an Associated Press poll found.

The economy remains the No. 1 concern — even more so than a year ago — and Perot is neutralizing the advantage the Republican Party built up in that area over the last three presidential elections, the poll found.

Only one-third of those who generally think of themselves as Republicans say Bush could deal best with the economy, and only one-third of Democrats say the Clinton could do best.

Former Secretary Weinberger indicted

WASHINGTON — The Iran-Contra scandal could offer up three politically embarrassing criminal trials in this election year, including that of former Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

The CIA's role in the Reagan administration's worst scandal will be laid out in detail if prosecutions go forward against two former high-ranking CIA officials. One of them, Clair George, the spy agency's retired operations chief, is scheduled to go on trial next month.

Weinberger's indictment Tuesday on five felony charges of lying and obstruction adds a new dimension to what prosecutors say has been a high-level cover-up.

Liddy's back for Watergate anniversary

WASHINGTON — G. Gordon Liddy has never been shy about promoting his Watergate connection; he's made a mint lecturing about it and tools around town in a car with "H2O-GATE" vanity plates.

And today, on the 20th anniversary of the bungled burglary he's credited with masterminding, the burglary that ultimately drove a president from the White House, Liddy is returning to the scene of the crime.

Rock not same after concert 25 years ago

By ELIZABETH BISHMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — When it was over, after Jimi Hendrix had set fire to his guitar, after Janis Joplin had belted out "Ball and Chain" and after Otis Redding had broken through to a larger audience, rock music would never be the same.

It was 25 years ago this week, during the Summer of Love, that the Monterey International Pop Festival was held.

"It was the most amazing and historic concert in rock history," said San Francisco Chronicle rock critic Joel Selvin. "It signaled the passing of an era."

Selvin and San Francisco photographer Jim Marshall threw a party Tuesday night to introduce their book, "Monterey Pop," which chronicles the festival, held June 16-18, 1967.

The book contains about 100 photographs and interviews with performers, managers and fans. Marshall's cover photo of Hendrix kneeling on stage over his burning Stratocaster is probably the most famous image of the guitarist.

While the show was relatively small — about 50,000 attended — Monterey Pop was the first large-scale rock festival, and it paved the way for Woodstock — which drew 400,000 fans in 1969 — and other festivals.

"It was the height of the Summer of Love. The whole rock movement was in a state of purity," recalled David Getsy, drummer for Big Brother and the Holding Company, Joplin's band at the time.

Emerging bands, including Jefferson Airplane from San Francisco and the Who from London, reached the powerful Los Angeles music industry that produced and attended the festival. The timing was perfect: Disc jockeys nationwide were replacing bubble gum hits with folk music and acid rock.

Until his Monterey appearance, Redding appealed to a relatively small black audience.

"On Friday night, Lou Rawls sang 'On a Clear Day You Can See Forever,' the height of supper-club soul. On Saturday night, Otis Redding came out and announced what the future would be," Selvin said. "People do not remember that Lou Rawls played the Monterey Pop festival."

Some schools give credit for vote

From Staff and Wire reports

Though there have been voter registration drives in Seminole County high schools, students here have not joined tens of thousands of high school seniors around the country in having earned that card as a part of a social studies class.

Concerned by anemic turnout among the youngest, eligible Americans in the 20 years since 18-year-olds got the vote, teachers have joined with registrars and advocacy groups to transform registration from a dull chore, if that, into a rite of passage or even an extra-credit project.

Special curricula make in-school registering the culmination of classroom study and debate on citizenship issues. In some cases, teachers are even sworn in as deputy county registrars. "Don't forget to vote," blares over the loud speaker on primary day.

No extra credit was given out for registering to vote.

County Commissioner Larry Furlong required applicants for his Commissioner's Choice Award $800 scholarship to be registered voters or to pre-register if they were under 18 years old.

The only criticism from students and some officials is that the lessons don't last longer for what some call "the lost generation" of voters.

"It's one of our responsibilities to train citizens," said Angela Baucom, an administrator in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County Schools, one of 20 major school systems adapting teaching materials from groups as diverse as the League of Women Voters, the local Board of Elections and People for the American Way.

The latter group, a Washington-based organization, created a teaching unit called "First Vote" after a study it commissioned three years ago produced some "pretty bleak results," said Sanford Horwitt of People for the American Way.

It found 60 percent of 15- to 24-year-olds questioned said they knew little about how government works, and roughly the same percentage expressed scant interest in following news about politics and government; only 24 percent said community involvement was important; and just 12 percent mentioned voting as a basic tenet of citizenship.

"Democracy's kind of a complicated idea," Horwitt said. "And if it doesn't get passed on from one generation to another it gets lost."

Walter Moore practices his swing even when not holding a golf club. Moore has already entered the 1992 Golden Age Games golf and long drive competition.

Athletes already signing for Golden Age Games

By MARK FRANKAMP
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The 1992 Golden Age Games are still five months off but people are starting to practice their skills.

The full schedule of events has already been determined for the big event, and entry forms are starting to come in from Sanford residents as well as all over the country.

In Sanford, Walter Moore has been honing his skills in preparation for the golf and long drive competition. "I don't think I've missed signing up for those two events since the Golden Age Games first started here in Sanford," he commented.

During the past years, Moore has already won several gold, silver and bronze medals in the Sanford games. "I don't really remember how many I've won as of now," he said. "I don't keep track of them, but I'm hoping to add a few more as a result of this year's competition."

"As the games get closer," he commented, "I'll be practicing more and more, although I already spend quite a bit of time out on the course." Moore added, "With golf scored by the callaway system, I don't know whether I'll be able to win any medals, but I believe I should do well with the long drive competition."

Moore, who lives at 167 Pinecrest Drive, has been a resident of Sanford since 1955. "Like many of my friends," he said, "I came here because I was assigned to service at the Sanford Naval Air Station, and by the time I was discharged, I had already considered Sanford as my permanent home."

"Actually," Moore added, "I didn't start playing golf until I came here to Sanford."

The Golden Age Games are divided by age groups. Moore, now 68, will be participating in events for ages 65 to 80.

This year's events are being chaired by Lisa Ellis and Jim Adams of the Sanford Recreation and Parks Department. "Hardly any of the actual events have been changed from last year," Ellis said. "We are offering just about the same athletic, table games, and festival events as during the 1991 games."

"One thing we'll be offering this year," Ellis said, "is a complimentary breakfast for the participants." The breakfast will be served at the Civic Center each morning at 7 a.m.

This will be the 18th annual games in Sanford. Ellis commented, "This year's games will also be serving as a qualifying site for the 1993 U.S. National Senior Sports Classic, to be held June 12 through 18 in Baton Rouge, Louisiana."

By the first week of June, staff members indicated possibly as many as 25 completed forms per day were being received.

The Golden Age Games will begin Sunday, Nov. 1, and will continue through Saturday, Nov. 7. Opening ceremonies will include the annual lighting of the torch ceremony and several guest speakers.

Sewage being treated, but facility not fully functional

Disposal system expected to be pumping by August

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

YANKEE LAKE — About 250,000 gallons of sewage from the Lake Mary area is being treated each day at the county's Northwest Regional Wastewater Facility at Yankee Lake, but the facility is not expected to be fully functional until August.

"We've begun to put some flow through the plant last week," said Public Works Director Larry Sellers. "But we don't expect to begin pumping through the wetlands disposal system before August."

The $10 million state-of-the-art sewage treatment plant has been operable since April 1990, but Sellers said not enough "flow" was available for the facility and there was no place to dispose of the up to 2.5 million gallons per day (gpd) of sewage.

So, once a week for the last two years, the county has circulated thousands of gallons of wastewater through the facility to keep it in operable condition. Last Monday, the county diverted about 250,000 gallons of wastewater from the 1.6 mgd being treated at the Greenwood Lakes facility near Lake Mary to the Yankee Lake plant. The highly-treated wastewater is disposed into a large pond designed to accept up to 2.5 mgd, said Sellers.

The current treatment phase will continue until August when the county expects to begin pumping the treated wastewater into a nearby wooded area where it will flow overland to the St. Johns River. The pond will be retained as a backup to the wetlands system.

The Yankee Lake wastewater is treated to a slightly higher degree than Sanford's new wastewater reuse system by removing nitrogen and phosphorus, said Jim Bible, former deputy county manager and project manager for the Yankee Lake facility.

The county first planned to discharge the treated wastewater into a series of 11 rapid infiltration basins, RIBs, that allow the wastewater to soak into the ground. But the county decided to switch a wetlands disposal system that sprayed the wastewater into a nearby wooded area allowing it to flow overground to a canal leading to the St. Johns River,

County unveils a new format for newsletter

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County employees will now have a glimpse "inside Seminole" every four months.

The county Employee Relations Department unveiled their new employee newsletter last week. The new design is the result of the design and writing efforts of Deputy County Manager Sharon Goode LaSalle and four county employees, graphics supervisor Margaret Fountain, senior personnel analyst Eileen Long, recycling coordinator Sherry Newkirk and tourist development coordinator Jack Wert.

The six-page quarterly printed publication replaces the county's previous monthly newsletter, a four-page produced on county photocopy machines. Personnel analyst Nancy Tallent said future editions will likely have only four pages.

"It's a new format, something a little different," said County Manager Ron Rabun. "We decided to go from the monthly format to quarterly and give more information. It's a good way to communicate with a large organization."

Tallent said 1,500 copies of the six-page newsletter cost $250 to produce. Employee Relations Director German Romero said the costs are financed from his department's printing and binding budget. Copies are distributed to the approximately 1,000 county staff. Extra copies are available to the public at various county buildings.

The newsletter features a section from Rabun, "County Corner," identifying and thanking the employees who participated in the April 5-11 National County Week activities. The column ends with a cheery "Keep up the good work!"

The newsletter also includes a list of new employees hired during the previous three months, a profile of the Agricultural Extension Service written by Long, and short profiles of two recent "Employees of the Month." The newsletter also includes photographs from National County Week and Road and Solid Waste crews cleaning up after the March hailstorms.

More than 200 tons of debris were picked up by county crews, the newsletter reports.

Disney ups theme park ticket fees

Associated Press

LAKE BUENA VISTA — Walt Disney World has increased its one-day theme park ticket for adults and children by $1, and the costs of its four-day and five-day multipark tickets rose more.

"The new pricing reflects our ongoing investment in new shows and attractions for each of our parks," Disney spokesman John Dreyer said Monday.

The price increase was the second this year for Disney's four-day and five-day tickets. Its single-day ticket was last boosted on Feb. 17, 1991.

Effective Sunday, the one-day, one-park price for adults went to $34. For ages 3-9, the new price is $27.

AROUND THE STATE

Allison still leads...barely

DAYTONA BEACH — Five NASCAR Winston Cup drivers are within 109 points, giving all a chance to take the lead in the upcoming race at Michigan International Speedway.

Davey Allison maintained his lead in the stock car standings, as he has all season long, after Sunday's Champion Spark Plug 500 at Pocono International Raceway in Pennsylvania.

But the lead is a close 21 points, 1,933-1,912, over Bill Elliott. That would be as little as the difference between first and fourth in a race.

Alan Kulwicki moved into third with 1,875 points. Harry Gant is fourth with 1,840, while Dale Earnhardt fell to fifth with 1,824.

Terry Labonte is sixth, followed by Mark Martin; Morgan Shepherd; Geoff Bodine and Ernie Ivan.

Pee Wee players honored

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department honored its youngest baseball participants with a banquet and awards ceremony at the Sanford Civic Center Tuesday night.

The banquet was the first of three that the Sanford Recreation Department will host. Tonight, the Little Major League will be honored, with the Babe Ruth banquet planned for Thursday. Both banquets will start at 7 p.m.

Tuesday's banquet was for the Pee Wee League, which is for children ages 7-9 and played its season on Saturday mornings at the Ft. Mellon Softball Field. The league is set up to teach the boys how to play baseball and to develop a love for the game without the pressure of winning.

This year's nine team Pee Wee League attracted 139 players and 14 coaches.

Since the league does not keep score or records, each of the coaches and players for each team were given a trophy to thank them for their participation this year.

Sanford Recreation Department supervisor Jim Schaefer (with tie, right) presented a trophy to all the players in the Pee Wee Baseball League, including the Royals, to thank them for their participation this year's league.

Sanford Recreation Department Superintendent Rocky Ellingworth, along with recreation supervisors Jim Schaefer and Jim Adams, welcomed the players, coaches, sponsors and parents and friends to the banquet and handed out the trophies.

Crossroads clinches share of league title

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Crossroads Paint & Body came within one step of claiming the title on a low scoring night in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Tuesday Night Spring Softball League at Chase Park.

It was an odd night overall as none of the six teams scored in double figures and, in fact, two of the winning teams were outbit by their opponents.

But while it was a low scoring night, it was still a night for the favored teams. Crossroads bested Riptide 8-2, while second-place Ameribuilt Construction shut out Myers Tree Service 5-0 and third-place Wheelch & Howard outscored Willa Springs Merchants 9-6.

With only two weeks left in the season Crossroads' 8-0 record clinches at least a tie for the league championship. Ameribuilt is 6-2, Wheelch & Howard 5-3, Riptide 3-5, Myers Tree Service 2-6 and Willa Springs Merchants 0-8.

Crossroads will try to claim the title outright next week as they host Ameribuilt at 6:30 p.m. The rest of the schedule has Myers Tree Service playing Willa Springs Merchants at 7:30 p.m. and Wheelch & Howard taking on Riptide at 8:30 p.m.

Crossroads and Riptide were tied

Willa Springs Merchants	204	000	0	-	4	11
Wheelch & Howard	004	100	2	-	0	9
Myers Tree Service	000	000	0	-	0	0
Ameribuilt Construction	101	100	2	-	0	0
Crossroads Paint & Body	000	000	1	-	0	12
Riptide	010	100	0	-	2	0

at 2-2, but Crossroads took advantage of three hits, three errors and a sacrifice fly to score three runs in the fifth inning and went on to the victory.

Contributing to the Crossroads offense were Keith Acree (double, two singles, run, RBI), Tom Gracey (three singles, run, RBI), Robert Stevens (double, RBI), Rodney Turner and Danny Lee (one single, one run and one RBI each), Jay Crutchfield (single, two runs), Aaron Johns (single, run), Curtis Tabor (single, RBI), W.L. Gracey (run) and Barry Hysell (RBI).

Facing the Riptide offense were Wayne Walker (double, two singles, run), Sonny Eubanks (double, RBI), Todd Morgan (single, run, RBI) and Tom Clark, David Jones, Wayne Gager and Dan Gort (one single each).

Providing the offense for Ameribuilt were David Goff (three singles, run, RBI), James Bruce (two singles), Steve Wagner (single, two runs), Rod Vermilio (single, run).

Bullets, Mudcats split NABF doubleheader

By TONY BOSSNER
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — After finishing in the bottom half of the Seminole Athletic Conference standings this past spring, the Lake Mary and Lyman high school baseball programs are using this summer to try to keep that from happening again next spring.

Like prospectors panning for that elusive nugget of gold, coaches Dave Campbell and Kelly Waincott — assistant coaches during the school year but the leaders of the Lyman and Lake Mary summer programs, respectively — will spend the next two months searching for the necessary pieces.

To expedite the process, Campbell and Waincott followed Ernie Banks' advice and played two Tuesday night at Lake Mary High School.

The Lake Mary Mudcats won the first game, 5-1, while the Seminole Animal Supply Bullets (Lyman) took the nightcap, 5-2.

Bullets	000 010 0 - 1 5 3
Mudcats	200 201 2 - 5 0 3
Katsoukas, Lewis (4), Weigermuth (4) and Grandt, Vossy, Bukley (5) and Thomas. WP — Vossy (1-0). LP — Katsoukas (0-1). Save — Bukley (1st). 2B — Bullets, Goodall. 2B — None. HR — None.
Game 2
Bullets	000 000 0 - 0 0 0
Mudcats	000 000 2 - 2 3 2
Herrbach, Shuckey (5) and Keller, Marotta, Carr (4) and Hershner. WP — Herrbach (1-0). LP — Marotta (0-1). Save — Shuckey (1st). 2B — Mudcats, Carr. 2B — None. HR — None. Records — Seminole Animal Supply Bullets 1-3, Lake Mary Mudcats 1-3.

Both teams will return to action Thursday, the Bullets (1-3) traveling to Lake Howell for a 4:30 p.m. game while the Mudcats (1-3) host the Altamonte Springs Dodgers (Lake Brantley) in a 7 p.m. game at Lake Mary High School.

Afterwards, Campbell and Waincott had similar comments about what their respective goals were for the summer.

"Right now, we're finding out who can help us and who can't," said Campbell. "We have a lot of sophomores. We're going to be young.

"We're going to have to score some runs if we're going to win some games. Tonight, we got a little aggressive, put the ball in play and scored some runs. We got two decent pitching performances that kept us in the games until we could score some runs."

Even though several players who figure to be key members of next year's varsity team were unavailable Tuesday for one reason or another, Waincott didn't see that as a problem. If anything, he said it helped him along toward the greater end.

"We're just trying to learn to play and learn who can play," said Waincott as he watered the home plate area and pitcher's mound. "Winning doesn't mean a thing during the summer. It's nice to win, but it's not the most important thing. We have some people at some camps and on vacation right now. That just lets the younger kids have a chance to play."

Patterson notches Modified main event victory for brother

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Wally Patterson raced to an emotional victory Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway as he won his first-ever Modified feature event.

Patterson, a Scottsmeer resident, took the lead from Kenny Heckle with an outside pass on the second lap. Once on the point, Patterson charged away from the field and built a comfortable lead as the crowd rose to its feet, cheering him on.

With three laps to go, Jay Hawk looped his car around to bring out a caution flag. On the restart, Wrey Shaffer pulled even with Patterson and the duo raced side by side for almost the remainder of the race.

Coming out of turn four, Patterson pulled to a slight advantage going to the checkered flag. The crowd in the stands and the onlookers in the pits cheered as Patterson nipped Shaffer at the finish line by less than two car lengths.

"This is a great victory for me," said Patterson, who has been racing for 15 years. "I race for my brother, Tommy. I think this is what keep's him going. This win is for him."

Tommy Patterson had been competing at local speedways for almost 18 years until he was diagnosed as having Lou Gehrig's Disease three years ago. In failing health, he is now confined to a wheelchair.

"Tommy comes to the garage every time we work on the car," said Wally Patterson. "He still helps us set up the car. We have little signals that we use so we know what he's telling us. He keeps me going when I want to quit."

With Patterson out in front, Shaffer and Hawk had settled into a battle for second place until Hawk spun in the middle of the track, bringing out the yellow flag that allowed Shaffer to challenge Patterson.

Crossing the stripe behind Patterson and Shaffer were, in order of finish, Bill Coody, Boaty Boatwright and Hawk.

"He had the people on his side tonight," said Duke Southard of the Southard School of Racing. "The Pattersons have always been a class act and everyone wanted this win for Tommy as well as Wally."

Patterson Racing does not have a sponsor, so they race strictly low budget. During last week's Modified championships, driver Dave Dunkin gave the three he used in his two nights of racing to Buzzy Berry, a racing equipment distributor, with the understanding that they were to go to the Pattersons.

"The Pattersons are known and respected everywhere," said Berry. "They are such a good family. Wherever you see Wally, you see Tommy. Wally brings him to the races every week and when they work on the car, he has Tommy with him. They are as close as two people can be."

In other action last Saturday night, Longwood's Ronnie Burkett held off Daniel Keene and Pete Orr to win his fifth Late Model feature event of the year. Rounding out the top five were Ricky Wood and Junior Simmons.

Dale Howard dominated action in the Sportman division to win his second consecutive feature race. Behind Howard were Rick Johns, John Haygood, Barbara Pierce and Bill Loomis.

Bobby Sears raced to his 15th Mini Stock feature win of the season. He was trailed by Jerry Symona, Ted Vulpis, Richard Newton and Guy Lingo.

Tank Tucker cruised to his sixth Limited Late Model win of the year. Ron McCreary, who was involved in a crash with Dave Savicki earlier in the race, came back to finish second. Rounding out the top five were Jim Crowe, Don Roberts and Jason Burkett.

The top five finishers in the Bomber division were, in order of finish, Darren Gould, George McKeach, Gray Froh, Mike Pepler and John Mitchell.

In Run-Around action, the top five monet winners were Mike Trokie, Dave Stephens, John Ranhan, Wes Railing and Donald Blake.

The Demolition Derby produced a three-way tie at the end of 23 minutes of slam-bang action. Sharing the honors were Tim Cordell, Danny Tyler and Dean Cichowicz.

Tuesday, Campbell and Waincott opted to play a doubleheader, using their younger players in the first game and the veteran players in the nightcap.

In the first game, Mudcat pitchers Bob Vessey and Mike Bukey, both of whom will be freshmen next year according to Waincott, combined to beat the Bullets on five hits, striking out six and walking four.

The Bullet mound trio of starter Eric Katauskas, Brad Lewis and Matt Wolgemuth were almost as effective, allowing two earned runs on eight hits. But they were hindered by five errors committed by their infield, leading to three unearned runs for the Mudcats.

Providing the offense for the Mudcats were Rich Alexander (two singles, one run, one RBI), Jim Razuri (single, two runs), Bukey (single, one run, one RBI), Jason Reynolds (single, one run), Dan Story and Nick Alexander (each with a single and an RBI) and Vessey (single).

For the Bullets, Mike Hench singled and scored on Jason Gronert's single. Mike Goodall doubled while Kyle Gaines and Jon Brown each hit a single.

In the second game, Todd Herrbach and Kevin Stuckey combined to toss a three-hitter at the Mudcats, surrendering only a pair of unearned runs in the bottom of the seventh inning. Herrbach got the win while Stuckey was credited with a save.

The Mudcats were done in by one bad inning as the Bullets scored all five of their runs in the top of the fourth inning off of starter and looper Brian Marotta and reliever Mike Carr.

In that fateful inning, the Bullets were able to capitalize on three hits thanks to two walks, a hit batter, a wild pitch, a pass ball and a Mudcat error.

Except for the fourth inning, the Bullets only had three runners advance as far as second base. By comparison, the Mudcats had a runner reach second with less than two out in the first, second, third and sixth innings before finally scoring in the seventh.

The Bullets' offense was provided by Mark Theisen (two singles, one run), Mike Krupa (single, one run), Ted Koiler (single), Chad Beland, Brian Saunders and Gaines (one run scored each) and Stuckey (one RBI).

Rain washes out Late Model, Mini Stocks

Special to the Herald

BARBERVILLE — A torrential downpour and continued showers curtailed what was scheduled to be a full NASCAR Winston Racing Series programs this past Saturday night at Volusia County Speedway, washing out the final two feature races.

Recording wins in the main events of the Sportman, Street Stock and Charger divisions were David Clegg of Bunnell, Orange City's Chris Lawrence and Jimmy Heffner of Ormond Beach, respectively.

DeLand's Mark Stevenson took the early lead in the 20-lap Sportman feature. But by the second lap, Clegg had hunted him down, then took him on the inside on lap three.

Clegg then began to distance himself from the field, but a strong running David Ponder, also of DeLand, was on the move, taking over the second spot just prior to the halfway point.

Ponder continued to charge until having an altercation with the turn two wall on the 15th lap, bringing out the caution flag. When the field went back to green, Clegg held tough and went on to win.

In the 15-lap Street Stock main, it was a close battle to the finish between Lawrence and Scott LeCates of Ormond.

Lawrence held a commanding lead in the early going, but by the 10th lap, LeCates had charged his way to the front of the pack and had his sights set on Lawrence. LeCates first tried the high side, then the low side, but didn't quite have enough to pass Lawrence.

On the final lap, the two went door-to-door right to the stripe, Lawrence taking the checker by a nose.

Heffner was back on track this week in the Charger ranks. After having met with misfortune a week ago, Heffner came on strong to dominate the 15-lap feature and chalk up another win. Altamonte Springs' John Bennett tried to reel him in, but to no avail and had to settle for the runner-up spot.

Due to the rains last Saturday, double features are scheduled for the Late Model Stocks and Mini Stocks this Saturday night to highlight a full, five-division program scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

Volusia County Speedway is located on Highway 40 near Barberville.

Good work of any kind deserves praise

DEAR ABBY: I cannot forget a letter you had in your column some time ago. It was written by a person who didn't know what to say when he (or she) was asked what he did for a living. From the tone of the letter I concluded that the person was working for minimum wage, or doing some kind of manual labor of which he was somewhat ashamed.

This, coupled with the following remark a school principal made to my son, prompts this letter. My son was having problems in school, so his teacher took him to the principal. In talking to my son, the principal asked, "Do you want to be a ditchdigger all your life?" My son replied, "What's wrong with being a ditchdigger? It's honest work."

The principal called me to school because of my son's "smart mouth." When the principal repeated what my son had said, I responded: "Nothing was wrong with what he said. If there were no ditchdiggers we'd be up to our necks in water and filth." I also told the principal he was dead wrong to demean ditchdiggers, and repeated what my son had said. "It's honest work."

Then I went on to say: "I am a professional who works with professionals, and I get really steamed when my co-workers look down on people who are minimum-wage laborers. If no one picked up the garbage, cleaned the septic tanks, laid sewage pipes, picked the crops and worked in the fields, where would we be? This country was founded on hard work — most of it manual labor. Pride comes in doing the best you can with whatever talents you possess."

I will close with a comment I heard a long time ago. I don't know the author, but it goes something like this:

"Use what talents you possess, for the woods would be silent if no birds sang, except the best."

C.V.J.
DEAR C.V.J.: Hear, hear!

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to people who use a little imagination when leaving a recorded telephone message:

Three years ago, when my husband and I decided to have an answering machine, I wrote this little poem that has been on our machine ever since. My husband and I recorded it, and this is it:

Me: "This is Kristal."
Him: "This is Scott."
Me: "Maybe we're home."
Him: "Maybe we're not."
Me: "Leave a message, short and sweet."
Him: "And don't forget to wait for the beep."

KRISTAL AND SCOTT DANIELS, EMMAUS, PENN.

DEAR KRISTAL AND SCOTT: Very clever. Many readers sent in their imaginative messages. How's this for a one-of-a-kind message:

"Hello! You have reached the home of Vincent Van Gogh. Sorry we can't come to the phone right now, but if you care to leave a message, please make it brief — and please don't talk my remaining ear off. Wait for the beep."

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is probably unlike any you have ever received. I am a 26-year-old woman who is about to be married. I have never had sex, but when I was 24 years old, I agreed to be artificially inseminated and gave birth to a child for a couple who wanted one, but the woman was not able to have a child.

Now here is my question: Am I still a virgin? My husband-to-be is well aware that I want to wait until our wedding night to make love, so he has never pressured me. I need to know if I am still a virgin.

YES OR NO?

DEAR YES OR NO: Since you have never had sexual intercourse, you are still a virgin.

If your fiancé is not aware that you have given birth to a child, I suggest that you tell him.

DEAR ABBY: I recently remarried. My new husband was also previously married. How should I introduce my first husband's relatives who are my former in-laws? I am very friendly with my ex-husband's nieces and nephews, too.

SECOND-TIME-AROUNDER DEAR SECOND: There is no reason to call attention to the fact that you were formerly related by marriage. Just introduce your ex-in-laws — nieces and nephews — as "dear" or "old friends," and save the explanatory details for subsequent meetings.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 68446, Los Angeles, Calif. 90068. All correspondence is confidential.)

Dad's Day kitchen duty OK with him

By DEBORAH VINGLING
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Robert Yingling will be in command of the kitchen this Father's Day. That's not a new role for him. He began his culinary career with the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1941. He admits he had no other training in the kitchen before the Armed Forces sent him to cook's training school in Ft. Lee, Va. "My sister and mother wouldn't let me in the kitchen (at home). They did all of the cooking," he reminisces from his Longwood home.

His cooking career in the Army Air Corps came to an end in 1945 when the Army decided it needed more infantry troops. Yingling and many of his comrades were given an Honorable Discharge from the Air Corps and were immediately inducted into the Army Infantry before being sent to fight in the European Theater during World War II.

Yingling has continually added to his kitchen skills by trying new recipes. He loves to experiment with new dishes and avidly reads cookbooks, magazines and newspapers for new ideas. He likes making main courses the best but he is also an accomplished baker. He often made special cakes for the officers and enlisted men while serving in the Army. "I made a cake shaped like a B-52 bomber for an officer's birthday," he says.

Before retiring, Yingling worked as a manager for a major supermarket chain in Philadelphia. He also served as a deacon at a Baptist church in New Jersey where he was frequently called upon to use his kitchen talent to make cakes for festive celebrations at the church. One of the cakes was actually a model of the church building made for the dedication of a new recreation wing. Another was in the shape of a lady's hat covered with flowers for a member of the church who was celebrating her 80th birthday.

No specialty cake sculpture seems to be a complex for Yingling to tackle. He has made cake castles complete with towers that had flags flying from tall spires and a drawbridge stretching across an icing moat and bibles from cake with printed scripture references on the open pages.

Their father's prowess in the kitchen has been a relief to his working wife and an inspiration to one of his daughters. After his retirement, Yingling always managed to cook the meals for his family while his two daughters attended college. Swedish meatballs, pork chops with scalloped potatoes and chicken wings were some of the specialties the family enjoyed.

Robert Yingling has been cooking since his Army days, 1941.

Today, Yingling concentrates his efforts on low fat, low calorie cooking. His family isn't complaining since his current cooking style allows his wife and his single daughter to stay slim. The healthy recipes he specializes in now help him keep a watchful eye on cholesterol and sugar counts.

He says that the most interesting thing he learned while attending the Army Air Corps cooking school were the survival cooking techniques. "They taught us how to boil bark and what wild plants could be eaten safely," he recalls. Yingling doesn't have to cook anything that austere today, thankfully.

It has been said that an army marches on its stomach. The Army expects a whole lot of marching from its enlisted men. While cooking for the Army, food had to be made in huge batches according to the instructions of the Army dieticians. Yingling says, "We would prepare 500 lbs. of potatoes. On Sundays, we prepared 50 dozen eggs in order for everyone who wanted them, however, they wanted them, scrambled, sunny-side-up, over easy, or hard."

Today, Yingling still makes recipes in batches, although not quite as big, and freezes them for convenience to serve later. His turkey chili is always a family favorite and he usually has a couple of containers on hand in the freezer. Another dish that is popular in the Yingling household is lasagna roll-ups, which also freeze well. He just reheats them in the microwave for a few minutes, makes a salad and dinner is served.

This delicious chicken dish is suitable for family or company and it's low in fat and calories. Yingling makes this to serve over rice or vermicelli.

LEMON-CAPER CHICKEN

2 lbs. chicken breast, skinned and boned

Salt and pepper to taste (a dash or two)

4 tsp. olive oil

2 cloves garlic, minced

4 Tbsp. dry white wine

4 Tbsp. capers, drained

4 tsp. fresh lemon juice

1 Tbsp. whipped butter

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Heat oil in a nonstick skillet, add chicken and brown lightly over high heat, about 3 minutes, on each side. Remove chicken to plate and keep warm.

To same skillet, add garlic and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until golden, about 30 seconds. Add wine, capers, and lemon juice and bring mixture to a boil. Turn heat off. Add butter to pan and stir until melted. Slice chicken diagonally and return to pan and baste with sauce. Chicken can be cooked a little longer over medium heat if necessary. Serve over rice or cooked vermicelli.

These Swedish meatballs make a great buffet dish. They have been a Yingling family favorite for years.

SWEDISH MEATBALLS

3 slices bread, crumbled

1/2 cup milk

1 lb. ground beef

1 small onion, grated

1/2 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. pepper

Dash of ground nutmeg

2 Tbsp. corn oil

1 (1/2 oz.) packet of brown gravy mix

In nonstick skillet heat margarine over medium-high heat until bubbly and hot. Add garlic and saute until golden. With a pastry brush, apply the butter-garlic mixture to the cut side of bread. Use about 1/2 tsp. of the mixture on each side and leave the rest of margarine in the pan. Arrange bread, cut side up on a baking sheet. Add the mushrooms and onions to the skillet and saute over medium-heat for 5-8 minutes. Let stand, covered 5-10 minutes before serving. Serve warm or chilled. Makes 6-8 servings.

Perfectly cooked rice can be easily achieved each time

Perfectly cooked rice can be achieved every time in the microwave. There is no stirring and no possibility of burning or sticking. And once the rice is removed from the oven, it can stand, covered, and will remain hot while you cook other foods in the microwave.

I usually cook more rice than is required for a recipe. Leftover rice can be frozen and used later in recipes that call for cooked rice, such as rice pudding.

Follow these easy steps to perfect rice.

Place rice and liquid in 1-quart dish, cover tightly with plastic wrap and microwave as follows:

1 cup raw rice (white, long grain) — 2 cups liquid — 5 minutes on 100 percent, then 12-15 minutes on 50 percent power.

1 cup brown rice — 2-2/4 cups liquid — 5 minutes on 100 percent power, 40-55 minutes on 50 percent power.

1 cup raw rice (white short grain) — 1-1/2 cups liquid — 5 minutes on 100 percent power, 12-15 minutes on 50 percent power.

Combine cooked rice with ground beef for a dinner that is sure to become a family favorite.

BEF AND RICE DINNER

1 lb. ground chuck

3 cups cooked rice

1 (12 oz.) can whole kernel corn, drained

1/2 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. pepper

2 (8 oz.) cans tomato sauce.

MICROWAVE MAGIC

Midge Mycoff

Rice is the bed for meat and vegetables.

1/2 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Place cooked rice in 2 qt. casserole. Combine cottage cheese, sour cream, hot sauce, salt and Worcestershire sauce. Stir into the rice to mix well. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 6-8 minutes, stirring after 4 minutes. Sprinkle cheese on top. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 2-3 minutes. Makes 6-8 servings.

Making this old favorite is so easy with a microwave. It takes about 20 minutes and can be enjoyed year round because microwaving is cool cooking.

OLD FASHIONED RICE FUDING

2 eggs

1 (15 oz.) can evaporated milk

1/4 cup water

1/4 cup seedless raisins

1/4 cup sugar

1 tsp. vanilla

1/4 tsp. salt

1/2 tsp. cinnamon

1/4 tsp. nutmeg

3 cups cooked long grain rice

Combine eggs, milk, water, raisins, sugar, vanilla, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg in a 2 qt. casserole. Stir in rice. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave on 100 percent power 2 minutes. Stir well. Cover. Microwave on 50 percent power 8-10 minutes. Stir well. Cover. Microwave on 50 percent power 8-10 minutes. Let stand, covered 5-10 minutes before serving. Serve warm or chilled. Makes 6-8 servings.

high heat, stirring, until lightly browned. Reserve. Next, in another nonstick skillet, cook broth over medium heat until liquid begins to simmer. Add roast beef and cook until heated completely. Remove the slices of beef from the broth. Reserve broth. Divide beef into four even portions and place on bread. Top each with 1 oz. cheese. Broil 6 inches from heat source until cheese is melted and lightly browned. While the sandwiches are under broiler, add onion and mushroom mixture to the reserved broth and cook over low heat. Transfer cooked sandwiches to serving plates and top each with the gravy mixture.

Yingling freezes this easy-to-fix version of lasagna for quick dinners. He suggests serving this dish with a fresh, tossed salad.

LASAGNA ROLL-UPS
8 curly edge lasagna noodles, uncooked
2 Tbsp. olive oil
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cups (1 1/4 oz. can) stewed tomatoes
1/4 cup (6 oz. can) tomato paste
1 1/2 cups (15 oz. container) Ricotta cheese
1 (10 oz.) package frozen, chopped spinach, thawed and well-drained
1 cup shredded, low fat Mozzarella cheese, divided into 1/2 cup portions
1 egg, lightly beaten
2 Tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground black pepper

Cook lasagna noodles according to package directions and drain. Lay each noodle flat on foil to cool. Heat oven to 350°. In skillet, heat oil and add onion, cooking until tender. Add tomatoes and tomato paste and heat to boiling. Reduce heat. Simmer for 5 minutes and stir to break up tomatoes. Set aside. In a bowl combine Ricotta, spinach, 1/2 cup Mozzarella, egg, Parmesan cheese, salt and pepper, mixing thoroughly. Spread each cooled noodle with 1/4 cup of cheese mixture. Leave 1 inch on each end of noodle uncovered. Roll up each noodle like a jelly roll. Spread 1/4 cup tomato sauce in a 12 x 8" inch baking dish. Place roll ups in baking dish with seam side down. Top with remaining sauce. Cover with foil and bake for 35 minutes. Uncover and top with remaining Mozzarella cheese and continue to bake until cheese is melted.

Stroke patient needs exercise

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What can be done to counter the effects of contracting muscles in a stroke patient? Physical therapy after my stroke was limited, and my right leg is bending more and more at the knee. The right arm and fingers are already closed up, yet prior to my surgery, I was a very active 83-year-old.

DEAR READER: Continuing active and passive exercises, under the supervision of a nurse or physical therapist, will help retard the development of flexion contractures, a major complication of stroke.

Muscles are activated by nerves that cause flexion or extension. When nerve damage occurs from injury or stroke the muscles of flexion overpower the muscles of extension. This leads to permanent deformity, unless physical therapy is employed to correct the muscle imbalance.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm concerned about my 8-year-old daughter's eating habits. She refuses any form of meat, vegetables or fruit. Her diet consists of crackers, cereal, milk and occasionally very small portions of cheese, peanut butter or raisins. Her pediatrician tells me she is growing properly; however, I remain concerned because she is often lethargic and, at least in school, inattentive. Can her diet be associated with these other symptoms?

DEAR READER: Yes. Therefore, I share your concerns. Proper growth doesn't necessarily indicate balanced nutrition. Your daughter could still develop a deficiency.

Perhaps you misunderstood your pediatrician. If not, seek a second opinion from another certified pediatrician. From your brief description, I'd worry that your daughter may be setting the stage for some developmental problems, such as poor muscle growth, as she ages. At the very least, she is not establishing good dietary habits; this will cause her future difficulties nutritionally and, probably, socially.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Even when you're in a good contract, don't assume that everything will be hunky-dory. It is possible that the key honors will be badly placed. Try to find a line of play that will work, whatever the lie of the opposing cards.

Cover the East-West cards in the diagram. Against your contract of four spades, West leads the diamond queen. East wins with the ace and returns a diamond to your king. What is your line?

North's three-spade response was a limit raise, showing about 11 points and at least four trumps.

After winning with the diamond king, declarer played a trump to dummy's king, ruffed the diamond seven high in his hand and drew the last trump.

Next, he finessed dummy's club jack. East won with the queen and returned a low club. Declarer won with dummy's king and played a club to his ace. When clubs didn't split favorably, South led a heart to dummy's king. However, East won with the ace and returned a heart: one down.

"Look at that!" cried South. "I needed the club finesse, or a 3-3 club break, or the heart ace onside. It must be over an 80-percent line."

True, but why not adopt a 100-percent approach when one is available? After eliminating the diamonds and drawing trumps, all South has to do is lead a club to dummy's eight. East may win with the nine or 10, but what does he return?

Whether it is a heart to dummy's king, a diamond (conceding a ruff-and-discard), or a club into dummy's K-J tenace, declarer loses only one heart trick and makes his contract.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 18, 1992

Your probabilities for increasing earnings through a second source look good in the year ahead. You might do this through an investment or a sideline endeavor.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An impressive promoter might tell you all about a get-rich-quick scheme today. It makes for a fascinating story, but it is likely to be devoid of substance. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might be pressured to make a critical decision today about something you haven't had adequate time to investigate. If you make it in haste, chances are you'll be sorry.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unexpected disruptions in your routine today could throw you off schedule. However, don't use them as excuses to avoid doing your duties.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In relating information to others today, you might think you have all the facts at your disposal. But there is a good chance you've been only partially informed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There might be a sudden shift in your material affairs today upon which you hadn't contemplated. Have an alternate plan ready, just in case you have to make a revision.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's best not to ignore your better judgment today and go along with someone who historically has been unstable. Follow your more sensible inclinations.
