

Diplomatic Immunity Privilege For 1500 Visitors On UNO Staff

WASHINGTON—The 1,500 or so men and women who will work regularly on the United Nations staff will enjoy a set of special privileges known as "diplomatic immunity."

Their jobs will make them, in effect, international citizens—not citizens of their home countries, not citizens of the United States, where they'll be living—but workmen beholden to 51 nations, with no special ax to grind for any single nation.

As such they'll escape some of the laws which govern United States citizens.

They'll escape, for instance, all the red-tape when they arrive in the country. Their luggage can come through without inspection, and they'll pay no duty on anything they bring in. Their brief cases—any papers they have with them—will not be subject to examination.

The United Nations, as an organization, will pay no property tax, and UNO employees will pay no income tax.

The staff cannot be held for infractions of the law when they're on official duties, but they can be held when they're just on their own.

For instance, a gentleman from Belgium, might have a collision with another auto when he was rushing to the airport to get a bag diplomatic mail off. He could not be sued for damage to the other car.

But if he had a collision when he was just rushing down to the seashore for a weekend, he'd be just as liable to suit as any American citizen.

These international citizens, however, are open to ordinary civil suits, except as you and I suppose the wife of one of them wants a divorce and files her suit in an American court. The gentleman will have to appear.

Or suppose one of them "forgets" to pay his tailor bill. The tailor can file suit.

These are about the same privileges that all nations have always granted to the diplomatic corps—and about the same privileges that the staffs of the embassies and legations in Washington have always enjoyed.

The main difference is that a diplomatic representative may not be tried on any charge without the consent of his government.

To keep the record clear, on just who gets these special privileges the United Nations will present a list of their names and identities to the secretary of state. The secretary will then certify that the people on the list shall enjoy diplomatic immunity.

The 1,500 or so will be the regular staff that keeps business running at the United Nations headquarters—the delegates named to agencies that will work all the time, research men, translators, secretaries and so on.

But from time to time that figure will probably double, when the Assembly holds its annual meetings. Then the delegations will arrive from the 50 other nations, with their secretaries, translators and advisers. They also, for their short stay in the United States, will be granted the special privileges.

Governor Caldwell Extends Welcome To Veterans of the first of its kind in the State of Florida for its veterans. He told the veterans that he hoped after their rest and vacation they would take an active place among the citizens, "we can't stand still, we must be progressive."

Following the speaking, everyone trooped over to the softball field for the big barbecue to which Governor Caldwell was escorted by three State Highway Patrolmen. Close after him followed J. H. Dowling, former chief engineer of the State Road Department and Rep. M. T. (T-Bone) Smith.

Feeding a multitude of more than 5,000 persons is no small task, according to Gus Schmah and his crew of loyal assistants who put in a lot of time and downright hard labor in preparing and barbecuing more than 2,500 pounds of pork and beef which was served this afternoon at the lake front softball park with Boy Scouts, Future Farmers and 4-H girls assisting.

Among those preparing the barbecue were Fred Bolly, Dick Vernay, E. V. Turner, Harold Kastner, Phil Bach, Esley Swagerty, G. S. Thomasville, Ed Smith, E. H. Royal, Brown Miller, H. J. Humphrey, E. L. Humphrey, Leo Butler and others. J. A. Young and George Wardwell had charge of the coffee making.

Andrew Stine, president of the Sanford Merchants Association, which financed and provided the decorations in the downtown section with red, white and blue banners, had charge of incidental supplies for the occasion. On hand were 350 loaves of bread, 5,000 paper plates, 3,000 cups, 4,000 spoons, 10,000 napkins, 125 pounds of salt, 14 gallons of dill pickles and 10 gallons of sweet pickles, milk, mustard and black and red pepper. Tubs for mixing things in were secured by Mr. Stine.

Colored City employees dug the long barbecue pits several days ago and all night and this morning were trundling wheel barrow loads of hot coals from the oak wood fires to the barbecue pits. The meat was frozen solid when it arrived yesterday afternoon from Orlando, and the large square chunks had to be attacked with hammers and chisels before it could be sawed into smaller pieces to place on the wire netting over the barbecue pits. The soft drink concession was in charge of Herbert Prevatt.

In order to handle the heavy motor vehicle traffic on the lakefront and other sections, Police Chief J. Williams received the full cooperation of the State Highway Patrol including Lieut. J. G. Gallop and Patrolmen H. E. Douglas of DeLand, F. M. Thomas of Orlando, I. C. Bender of Sanford, and B. Braswell of Orlando.

At 11:45 o'clock the Seminole High School Band with Majorette Sophie McLaughlin leading, headed a parade in the downtown streets. Second in the parade was Anita Aiken who did hand springs and somersaults in expert fashion. The Seminole High School Celeryettes followed, and behind them came "Leonardy's Cavalcade" punctuated by the crack of whips, and the shouts of cowboys and cowgirls. John Leonardy rode on the same horse with an attractive young lady, and Sheriff Charles Hand was seen riding a fancy palomino in the parade.

Swiss Students Duel In Secret To Clear Honor

AP Newsfeatures

BERN, Switzerland — The ancient sport of dueling still flourishes in Switzerland among university students although it is forbidden by law.

The matches, whether for fencing practice or to settle a grudge, take place secretly, generally in a remote country inn. Seconds for the contestants, an umpire and a doctor always are present. Should the duelers, members of 11 student clubs which sponsor the sport, be caught, they face imprisonment, or a fine and confiscation of weapons.

"Dueling is not as dangerous as one might think," an alumnus of a dueling fraternity said. "A wounded fencer seldom has to be taken to the hospital."

To prevent wounds, duelers protect their eyes, throat, arms and chests. Sabers and rapiers are disinfected regularly.

Giving the reason for continuation of the old sport a veteran dueler said, "It is not important to win such a match. Most important is to behave as a man

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

SMALL AND SELFISH SOULS ARE JEALOUS OF THEM THAT SURPASS THEM IN ACCOMPLISHMENTS. IF WE ARE DEVOTED TO A CAUSE WE SHOULD RESOLVE WHEN OTHERS SURPASS US, WHEN WE HAVE OUR BEST THERE IS NO CAUSE FOR JEALOUSY: Saul has slain his thousands and David his ten thousands. — 1 Samuel 18:7.

The people of St. Petersburg have voted to have daylight saving time, regardless of what the rest of country does. That's what we like about St. Petersburg. They are individuals down there. Besides we like daylight saving time ourselves.

Three out of every ten families in the whole United States are being adversely affected by the current housing shortage. About nine million families, according to the Gallup Poll, want to build a new home, are simply waiting for labor and materials before doing it. And yet we worry about a new wave of unemployment, about another depression.

John Temple Graves grows positively poetic in his eulogy of Spring as he finds it in Alabama in this year of our Lord 1946. "Never in history," he writes in his column, "was there a Spring as good looking as this one of 1946." And then "referring back to notes," he adds reflectively, "we find the Spring of 1945 was equally good looking, and so was the Spring of 1944 and 1943. Yes, we do say, but you must have been quite a boy in those days, John."

A Times-Union columnist reports a return of courtesy to selling business as veterans get back from overseas. A filling station attendant, just back from three years in the Pacific, actually offered to sell some oil, as well as gasoline. He was rewarded, "The return of veterans to their old jobs is toning up organizational morale," this newspaperman declares. It is also helping to make better salesman out of others who must compete if they would hold their jobs.

While the Democratic National Committee is raw-hiding southern democrats to try to turn them into stooges of the G.O., the Republican National Committee is showing unusual talent in how to make friends and influence people by selecting a Tennesseean, Representative B. Carroll Reece, as its chairman, the first man from the South to be given that post. This may not be exactly a split in the Solid South, but it is a straw in the wind, a trend which may not become entirely obvious to some Democratic leaders until after the 1948 election.

A. B. Peterson has resigned as secretary of the War Price and Rationing Board, a position which he has held with distinction since the early days of the war. We don't know the reason of Mr. Peterson's resignation. It may be that he feels he has served in this office for comparatively nothing while others were getting rich as long as any reasonable interpretation of patriotic duty requires. Or it may be that he thinks rationing and price control has outlived its usefulness. In any event the people of Seminole County owe Mr. Peterson a debt of gratitude for making rationing work as well as it did in this county. It could have been an awful pain.

We don't suppose many people realize that the newspaper situation since the war has become worse instead of better. Twice this winter we have been absolutely cleaned out of one size of paper which we needed, forcing us to go either to a larger size or a smaller size. The larger size we are ill equipped to fill with an inadequate staff and means. It's a pity the smaller size compels us to leave out all verified and news stories which the people want. The problem is not solved, either. Every newspaper is up against the same situation, some of them were forced to cut out quantities of subscribers, others to have cut thousands of dollars worth of advertising. And reports of the U. S. reports indicate the situation will get worse before it gets any better.

Senate Importance

President Truman thinks that Senators should stay where they are instead of seeking other governmental posts. This was his advice to Senator Ernest W. McFarland of Arizona, who had been suggested for federal judgeship.

The position of the Senate has fluctuated up and down with relation to other positions in the government, notably cabinet offices. While senators have generally been willing to leave the upper house to become secretary of state (Cordell Hull was the latest example), other cabinet posts have for many years not tempted them.

When Claude A. Swanson of Virginia became secretary of the navy under President Roosevelt in 1933, he was the first senator in a long time to accept the headship of any but the state department. Had Thomas J. Walsh of Montana lived, he would have been another; but he died in 1933 before he could assume the post of attorney-general, which he had promised to take.

Federal judgeships, being for life, naturally have a greater appeal than those of lower grade. Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach left the Senate for a judgeship, as did Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black. But in general, service in the Senate is one of the most valued of all federal honors.

Books and Stamps

Why are there so many more stamp-collectors than book-collectors? The sale of the first part of President Roosevelt's stamp collection suggested this question to Jacob Black, writing in the Publisher's Weekly. His explanation is simple; anybody with 15 cents can start to collect stamps, while books are generally thought to cost considerably more.

This was never quite true, and wholesale publishing methods are steadily making books less expensive. No great expenditure of money is needed to form an interesting book collection on some topic. The history of the home town, books printed there, the town's leading industry or some notable man who was born or lived there—material on all these may be obtained cheaply, often by gift, and soon mounts up to something worth while.

Catalogues of booksellers often contain interesting items at low cost. A great collector once said truly, "No one has to spend much money to get a really interesting book collection."

More Grain Acreage

Department of Agriculture officials are abroad in the land urging greater planting of grain this spring. The goal is an increase of 9,000,000 acres over last year, and slightly less livestock products. This is part of the plan to send life-giving grains to Europe and Asia.

Back-yard gardens will be urged on Americans again. Most of them will plant with pleasure, and others with a grim sense of duty. But there is no fear that Americans will not rise to the present need as they always have done to relieve suffering when they know about it. It is good to have people here thinking and working for peoples in other lands as well as for themselves. Feeding the hungry helps to unify the world.

SANFORD FORUM

Editor, The Sanford Herald, Dear Sir: Commenting on L. E. Reel's letter in last Friday's Herald, every serious minded person living here wants the town to be prosperous, and shares his unwillingness to see Sanford lose any major industry.

We know nothing about the Florida Power & Light Company incident mentioned, but we know Mr. Reel is at least partly right about the circumstances of our losing the big ACL locomotive shop several years ago. It is said this shop might have been built at Ucita (Tampa) any day, but no one living here then doubted that considerable indifference on the part of both the people and the then city government contributed to some extent to the removal. It is also true this payroll approximates a million dollars annually.

There is a big difference however, between that incident and the question of our possibly losing the big transfer freight station. The locomotive shop was a divisional facility, and could be appropriately and conveniently placed at any one of several points. Tampa was one, Sanford another, Lakeland a third. No such possibility exists in the case of our freight station, because this facility is maintained at Sanford in its present size and form primarily because this city is at the convergence of several radial branch lines, all and it is seldom profitable to go contrary to these natural influences.

Sanford is the natural place for this transfer station—a fact the railroad managers know better than anyone else.

Mr. Reel ought to be commended for his speaking up to the interests of the community, and his employers. We do not hear enough such expressions nowadays.

After all, the Atlantic Coast Line is the biggest business we have here, and the largest employer. They deserve unprejudiced consideration from everybody here, at all times.

Sincerely, E. H. Guthrie.

Coast Line Nears End Of Its Large Program Of Repair

Jacksonville, Apr. 4, (Special)—The Atlantic Coast Line, according to an article in Railway Age by John S. Vreeland, engineering editor, is pushing to completion what is probably the largest roadbed and track rehabilitation program in the country in order to meet high speed competition.

This program includes a large proportion of the tracks and other fixed facilities on the entire road and, when completed, its double-track main line between Richmond, Va. and Jacksonville will be well adapted to high speed haulings.

The road is quoted as having spent a far larger proportion of its income during 1939-1944 for Diesel motive power and other equipment than any other large class I road in the country. Operating expenses during 1945 for a right of way and structures on the road amounted to more than $26,000,000, and approximately $4,700,000 was spent for additional and betterments, to bring the roadbed, tracks and other fixed facilities up to modern standards.

The rehabilitation program was instituted in the latter part of 1943 and it is anticipated that it will be substantially completed by the end of 1947. By that time all principal main lines and secondary main lines will have been relaid with heavier rail, rehabilitated with crushed rock or washed with cross-tie replacements, and the roadbed stabilized by programs of bankwidening, ditching and right of way grading. Eventually, it is intended that branch lines will also be brought up to new high standards of maintenance by similar improvements.

Both tracks of the main line between Richmond and Jacksonville, and all the single-track main lines between Jacksonville and Tampa, will be relaid with new 131 pound rail, releasing 100 pound rail. The total of 131 pound track laid since 1943 was 513.82 track miles.

Bank widening and ditching have been completed for some distance south of Richmond and north of Jacksonville. The cuts have wide ditches and flat slopes, and the embankments are being widened with flat slopes. Low smoothed to permit power weed mowers to mow the entire right of way.

Vets Buying More Than Half Of Some Surplus Property

ATLANTA, Apr. 4, (Special)—Veterans of World War II are buying over half of all trucks, passenger cars, and motorcycles sold in the south as surplus government owned property, H. L. Kennon, regional director of War Assets Administration has announced.

Mr. Kennon made public statistics covering the sale of surplus vehicles in the seven southeastern states during the period from last Nov. 28 through Mar. 14, and said these figures refute unfounded stories that veterans are unable to obtain their share of surplus vehicles.

"These statistics show that of 7149 trucks sold by WAA, veterans bought 3,918, or 54.8 percent of the total number," he said. "They show that of the 550 passenger cars, veterans bought 364, or 66.2 percent, and of a total of 150 motorcycles, veterans bought 94, or 62.7 percent. In the sales of jeeps, veterans bought 25 out of 157, or 15.9 percent, and in the sale of cargo trailers, veterans bought only 189 out of a total of 1152 sold or 16.6 percent."

Federal agencies, which have first priority in buying surplus property, bought 20 percent of the trucks, 35.3 percent of the jeeps, 8.9 percent of the passenger cars, 1.3 percent of the motorcycles and 11.8 percent of the cargo trailers.

States and local governments holding second priority bought the following percentages: trucks, 2.8 percent; jeeps, 47.2 percent; passenger cars, 7 percent, and trailers, 1.6 percent.

Dealers and others eligible to buy what veterans and the other priority groups decline, bought the following percentages: trucks, 22.4 percent; passenger cars, 24.2 percent; motorcycles, 36 percent; cargo trailers, 70 percent. They were ineligible to buy jeeps.

Mr. Kennon again pointed out that WAA no longer certifies veterans for purchase of passenger cars because there already are more eligible veterans than there will be surplus vehicles of this type. "We have done this to save the veterans' loss of time and money and to save them from false hope," he said. "Our statistics show that only 550 passenger cars have been available for sale in this entire region since November yet there are thousands of veterans already certified as eligible to buy cars for business use."
