County declared emergency

SANFORD — Gov. Lawton Chiles declared a state of emergency in Seminole County and much of Central and South Florida late this morning, due to flooding and possible tornado damage. The area affected includes Orange, Volusia and Brevard Counties, said Tim Rucker, spokesman in the governor's Emergency Operations Center in Tallahassee.

Rucker said the declaration is to alert residents of localized flooding and to be wary of dangerous winds. The declaration also alerts the Federal Emergency Management Agency of potential damages, but does not authorize financial assistance, Rucker said.

Meetings cancelled

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Board of Adjustment meeting, originally scheduled for tonight at 7 p.m., has been cancelled. City officials say the meeting has been rescheduled for Dec. 7, also at 7 p.m.

SANFORD — The Seminole County Port Authority meeting scheduled for this afternoon has been cancelled.

Chamber luncheon

LAKE MARY — The Greater Lake Mary/Heathrow Chamber of Commerce will hold a Power Series Luncheon this Thursday. Guest speakers will discuss "The Future Working Together."

The meeting will begin at 11:45 a.m. at the Timacuan Golf & Country Club.

Speakers are to include Bob Turk of the Economic Development Commission, Lake Mary Mayor Lowry Rockett, and Seminole County Manager Ron Rabun.

Cost for the meeting is $12. Reservations are requested by phoning the chamber office at 333-4748.

Perez award time

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has begun seeking nominations for the annual Dr. Luis Perez Humanitarian Award. Organizations are being asked to submit the name of a candidate they believe would be worthy of the award.

The chamber has lists of criteria which must be followed in making a selection. Phone the chamber for information at 322-2212.

Deadline for submission of entries, in writing, is no later than January 3, 1995.

SANFORD — The city limit signs saying "Welcome to Sanford," don't pertain to Tropical Storm Gordon.

Police this morning said at least 16 streets were severely flooded because of the excessive rainfall in Sanford. Almost 7 inches of rain was reported as of 9 a.m. A tornado watch was to have remained in effect until midday.

Only one area, 15th Street at Sanford Avenue, was actually barred.

SANFORD — Seminole County officials are in a "SimComm 4" state of readiness this morning as they watch and wait for Tropical Storm Gordon.

Roads Division dispatchers report more than two dozen calls of street flooding were received by 9 o'clock this morning. No streets were formally closed.

County Manager Ron Rabun ordered parks closed at noon, but decided to keep libraries open at least until 6 p.m.

"Schools will remain open and so many of our libraries operate as informal latch-key operations after 5 p.m."

Education Week: Family affair

Area schools celebrate in different ways

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — This is American Education Week.

Schools across the district are celebrating in a variety of ways: from programs that encourage students and their parents to read to art classes in which students make posters praising the merits of education.

"The schools are each celebrating in their own way," said Dede Schaffner, coordinator of community involvement for the school district. "The needs and wants of each school is different, so they are each doing their own thing."

On Tuesday, for example, Goldsboro Elementary School in Sanford hosted a program called "Reading is a Family Affair," which LAKE MARY — An author, an assistant principal and a business owner have banded together to form the foundation of a new program at Lake Mary Elementary, and if everything goes as planned, students of the school may get to have their work published by a major New York publishing house.

Kathy Fuller is the business owner and through her contacts at her bookstore, Little Wing Books, she is trying to get Putnam Books to publish the five best works of the newly-formed Lake Mary Elementary Children's Writer's Guild.

She said that thanks to the efforts of her district sales representative with Putnam, Nancy Ramano, the

Commissioner pitches Baseball Hall of Fame

By NICK PPEIFAUF

SANFORD — Is Sanford ready for a Baseball Hall of Fame? City Commissioner Whitey Eckstein believes it is, and that it will bring many visitors into the downtown area.

Eckstein has suggested such a facility several times during past city commission meetings. Early this year, when an offer was made for the city to purchase the round brick building at the extreme northern end of French Avenue, Eckstein proposed it would be an excellent location for the attraction.

The purchase of the building however, never came about.

Monday night, Eckstein again tackled the concept of the Baseball Hall of Fame. "While I was watching the Veterans' Day parade downtown last week," he said, "I got to thinking about how the area lacks tourists coming in, and what a draw a Baseball Hall of Fame would be."

He suggested people who might be interested in such a facility should, "sit down and

Fall impales hunter's legs on his rifle

ORLANDO — A deer hunter was in guarded condition Tuesday at Orlando Regional Medical Center after falling from a tree stand last weekend.

Juan Cantu, 48, of Kissimmee, broke his neck in the fall. He will undergo surgery Thursday, said his wife, Sandra.

The 34-year-old employee was hunting Saturday at the Three Lakes Wildlife Management District in southern Osceola County when he apparently fell asleep in his hunting stand. He tumbled about 30 feet to the ground.

A search party found Cantu about five hours after the fall.

Contrary to reports that he impaled himself on his rifle, Cantu's wife said he only suffered a deep gouge on his right leg when he landed on the weapon's barrel.

Black leader to command Blue Angels

PENSACOLA — Lt. Cmdr. Addie Cochran have never worried much about son Donnie's ability to fly a supersonic jet fighter with Blue Angels aerial acrobatic team.

Lt. Cmdr. Donnie Cochran, who Tuesday became the first black pilot to command the Navy's flight demonstration squadron, had demonstrated his knack with machinery at an early age on the family farm in Pelham, Ga., his father recalled.

"Tractor work and all, he can do that, too," the elder Cochran said after the change of command ceremony. "We have our own combines where we combine corn, soybeans and peanuts. Well, he could operate all that."

The younger Cochran, the fifth of 12 children, flew with the six-plane air show team from 1985 to 1988.

His parents and several other family members were on hand when he returned to assume the title of "Boss" from Cmdr. Robert Stumpf at the National Museum of Naval Aviation.

The ceremony took place beneath four retired Blue Angels jets hanging in the team's trademark diamond formation from the ceiling of a seven-story atrium.

Cochran, 40, remains the only black Blue Angels pilot in the 48-year history of the squadron based at Pensacola Naval Air Station. He downplayed the aspect of being the first black among the 25 men who have commanded the Blue Angels.

Speaker-designate shores up position

TALLAHASSEE — Rep. Peter Wallace has solidified his narrow hold on the speakership of the state House by winning the support of the chamber's 63 Democrats.

The St. Petersburg Democrat secured the support Tuesday during a Democratic caucus vote with the help of Gov. Lawton Chiles. The speakership and other leadership posts will be decided next Tuesday during the Legislature's organizational session.

Chiles, the self-described "he-coon" of Florida politics, placed on Wallace the raccoon skin hat he wore Nov. 8 after defeating GOP nominee Jeb Bush.

Wallace told Chiles: "You pulled a miracle in the face of all the odds. I think we all know if you were not there, I would not be here."

For supporters, there will be more committee and subcommittee chairmanships to go around this year, Wallace said after the meeting.

All but one of the Democrats at the caucus signed support pledges for Wallace. The exception was Rep. George Crady, D-Yulee, who nevertheless verbally promised Wallace his support.

reports of flooding in some of the schools, but that students were being kept away from the dangers of flood waters in all cases.

Pine Crest Elementary School principal Doris Jennings said "half the school" has been closed due to flooding, but that students are doubling up in the classrooms or, in some cases, meeting in the auditorium. Pine Crest is located on W. 27th Street in Sanford.

And while students at Goldboro Elementary School were reportedly being carried over pond-like puddles to get there, classes were not called off.

"Numbers are low," said principal Geraldine Wright, "but we are in class."

Hagerty said that the decision was made not to close the schools yesterday when it appeared that the weather would not affect the ability of the schools to operate.

"This morning, it was too late to make an announcement," he said. "Some parents don't watch TV or listen to the radio in the morning. They just drop their kids off at the school or at the bus stop and head for work."

An announcement will be made before 4 p.m. today as to the status of schools for tomorrow, Hagerty said.

Schools in Brevard and Volusia counties were closed today. Orange County schools remained open today, but may be dismissed early and a decision on their status for tomorrow will be made by 2 p.m.

Prosecutor has no physical evidence Companion testifies in British tourist slaying

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

MONTICELLO — Prosecutors don't have any physical evidence linking 17-year-old John "Billy Joe" Crumitie with the slaying of a British tourist last year at a highway rest stop.

But they believe the testimony of friends and jailhouse informants will prove Crumitie was one of the youths involved in the fatal shooting of 34-year-old Gary Colley during a botched robbery along Interstate 10 near Monticello.

Carolette Speed, a neighbor of the suspect, testified Tuesday that Crumitie called her shortly after the Sept. 13, 1993, killing and asked her if she had "heard about the tourist murder."

"He asked me if I wanted to hear about it," said Speed, 24.

She said Crumitie proceeded to tell her that he and two other youths stole a car and drove to the rest area where they attacked Colley and his companion, Crumitie said the suspects wore white socks on their hands so they wouldn't leave fingerprints, she said.

Crumitie's lawyer, Dwight Wells, asked Speed if she was sure it was Crumitie who had called and not his older cousin who is an informant for the state in the case.

"It sounded like him — Billy Joe," Speed said.

Her testimony concluded the first day of Crumitie's trial which also included testimony from Colley's longtime companion, Margaret Jagger. Testimony was to continue today.

One of the accused, 18-year-old Deron Spear, has agreed to testify against Crumitie. Spear, the driver of the getaway car, has pleaded guilty to lesser charges and is awaiting sentencing.

Jagger said she and Colley were napping in their rental car at a rest stop when they were startled by a tapping on the window.

Two men, brandishing handguns, were standing on either side of the car, shouting at the British couple.

"The black youth, he was pointing his gun straight at me. He was sort of mouthing something to me, shouting at me, but I couldn't hear him. — I said to him, 'I can't hear you. I don't know what you want. What do you want?'" Jagger said as she wiped away tears.

When Colley tried to back up the car to flee, the gunmen opened fire, killing Colley and wounding Jagger.

Crumitie and three other youths were charged with first-degree murder and first-degree attempted murder in a case that damaged Florida's tourism business and spurred major reforms in the state's juvenile justice system.

Jagger, 36, said the couple were on vacation from their home in West Yorkshire, England, and were driving from New Orleans to St. Petersburg. They had stopped for a brief nap shortly after 1 a.m. when the gunmen approached.

After the shots were fired, the assailants fled, she said. She tried to prop up Colley to help him breathe but knew it was too late.

For their years of service

The City of Sanford and Mayor Bettye Smith recently proclaimed Nov. 20 as Retired Teacher Day. To celebrate the occasion, Smith gave a copy of the proclamation to Walter "Wall" L. Lee, president of the Seminole County Retired Educators Association (SCREA) as Lemuel Stallworth, the group's president-elect, and Ruth Carlton, SCREA's corresponding secretary look on.

Supreme Court stays execution until Friday

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — While attorneys sought a hearing to present new evidence, death row inmate Paul William Scott's mother pleaded with Gov. Lawton Chiles to halt her son's execution for the slaying of a Boca Raton florist.

Scott, 38, had been scheduled to die in the electric chair today. The state Supreme Court granted a stay until 7 a.m. Friday to consider his attorneys' request.

Attorney Martin McClain asked the court Tuesday to order a hearing on evidence he said the prosecution failed to present to the defense. He said it showed that an accomplice, Richard Kondian, struck the blows that killed florist James Alessi.

"The police know that, the state attorney knows that, the attorney general knows that, and Gov. Chiles knew that the day he scheduled my son's execution," Scott's mother, Dolores Carl, told a news conference.

Carl said she traveled from Long Beach, Calif., to try to see Chiles but was refused a meeting, Chiles' spokesman, Ron Sachs, said he wasn't aware Carl had tried to see the governor.

The proper time for such a plea would have been at a September clemency hearing Chiles and the Cabinet held for Scott — which Carl didn't attend, Sachs said. "Coming to town and not having an appointment is not the way that is going to happen."

Scientists trying to replace popular crop-protection chemical

By The Associated Press

KISSIMMEE — It will soon be illegal to use one of the world's most popular pesticides because it harms the environment, and scientists are rushing to come up with substitutes.

Methyl bromide is used on more than 100 crops in this country. Failure to come up with alternatives could cause American agriculture more than $1.5 billion in losses each year, one study says.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will ban methyl bromide within five years because the pesticide contributes to ozone depletion in the atmosphere. The ozone layer provides a protective barrier against the harmful effects of ultraviolet light.

Other countries also are banning its use.

"Our backs are certainly against the wall," said Kenneth W. Vick, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's national program leader for product losses and quarantine.

Scientists from 28 countries are meeting in Orlando to discuss new strategies.

The chemical now kills a wider range of soil pests than any other, and in some cases is the only protection available for some fruits, vegetables and other crops, said the USDA's Edwin L. Civerolo.

"It's probably the most widely used pesticide in the world," said Vick. "Growers apply methyl bromide to the soil to control insects, plant pathogens, nematodes and weeds in crops.

Troopers announce area safety checks

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Troopers with the Florida Highway Patrol have announced their monthly schedule of roadblocks on area roads during the coming weeks to ensure vehicles and their drivers are safe.

Troopers will stop traffic during daylight hours to check for such vehicle safety risks as worn tires, defective brakes and inoperative headlights. They'll also check for valid driver's licenses and vehicle registration. Any criminal law violators, such as drunken drivers, will face arrest.

Troopers may establish the roadblocks at the following locations:

- Nov. 18 to 24: Airport Boulevard, County Road 15, Markham Road, Orange Boulevard, Osceola Road, Upsala Road and Persimmon Avenue.

Reuse it ~ or lose it.

Heavy population growth and increased water demands are placing severe strains on Florida's precious fresh water aquifers. There is just so much water in Florida's underground reservoirs, and efforts must be made to conserve as much of it as possible.

One such method is reclaimed water. Reclaimed water is highly treated wastewater which is reused for irrigation at golf courses, industrial parks and other landscaped areas. Reuse helps the environment by reducing the withdrawal of fresh water from the aquifers, eliminating wastewater discharges into surface waters, and refilling the aquifers.

This is what SSU's reclaimed water projects are about: reducing non-essential uses of drinking water and preserving it for the future.

For more information on SSU's reclaimed water program, call the Communications Department at

On a Baseball Hall of Fame

Sanford City Commissioner Whitley Eckstein is promoting the establishment of a Baseball Hall of Fame in Sanford. He believes it will draw many visitors to the city, and help promote Sanford.

Some people, especially baseball enthusiasts, agree with the idea. Others may not, thinking it could not compete with the National Baseball Hall of Fame which has existed in Cooperstown, N.Y. since mid 1939.

People who have been area residents since the 1950s will recall the heyday of baseball, when the New York Giants occupied the old Mayfair Hotel, (present New Tribes Mission headquarters), and had dormitories built near Mellonville and Celery Avenues (present Seminole County School District offices).

Everyone went to Memorial Stadium to watch the spring training while the Giants were in town. At other times of the year, various leagues kept the stadium in almost continuous operation, and it became the birthing ground for many baseball players who went on to nationwide fame and recognition.

Many famous baseball stars have called Sanford their home, including Red Barber and Tim Lincecum.

There is no question that Sanford's history should include the years when baseball was the king.

There is a question however, regarding whether or not Sanford should attempt to establish its own Baseball Hall of Fame. Many questions would have to be answered, most importantly, where to have it, and how to finance it.

At the direction of the Sanford City Commission, Eckstein has been asked to spearhead the beginning of discussions. He has said he would try to obtain input from the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, Historic Preservation Board, Waterfront Master Plan Committee, Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association, athletic leaders, education officials, and various members of the city staff.

At this point, it is not for us to project whether or not a Baseball Hall of Fame will work in Sanford.

The concept deserves serious consideration by our leaders and officials, and a great deal of research and planning.

Certainly, Sanford has seen groups meeting to discuss similar proposals many times in the past. Some have failed while others have met with success.

Let's not toss this one aside until we give it chance. It could be futile, but then again, it could be an outstanding plan to help promote Sanford's future.

When called upon to sit in on discussion, we urge cooperation and support. Pass or fail, it must be given a chance.

LETTER

Hatred

So, people are again, dismayed, appalled at the atrocities that are occurring.

Susan Smith surprised a nation by assassinating (no, that's a term reserved for high officials), terminating (too professional of a term) killing her two sons in South Carolina.

People who have known her since her conception are totally appalled by her atrocities. They say she (is) was a hard worker. They say she (is) was a devoted mother who loved her kids.

I am not shocked, but saddened that a country that allows hatred, racism and prejudice to be so entrenched into its system would be shocked by such actions—the displacement of hatred.

How many of us use the term nigger, spic, dirty Jew, wetback, savage, hunky or would burn a cross in someone's yard? If we say I do to any of these, then we can proudly say, "My displayed hatred has taken another victim."

Racism, prejudice, hatred and mistrust are variables that can cause us to do unspeakable things and it's all according to the group or individual for what the end results will be.

Hatred breeds hatred which, like a ricocheting bullet, kills physically, emotionally or mentally innocent victims.

Master Langston Menefee

Voters send firm mandate to GOP

It's morning in America. And the Democrats have a hangover. The party of Clinton has absorbed its worst midterm thrashing of the past half-century. About the best thing that can be said for the lame duck majority is that at least they still have one of their own in the White House. For now.

The Democrats might take some small bit of solace in their miserable showing at the polls if they could chalk it up to an anti-incumbent virus infecting the body politic.

But GOP incumbents lost not one race for Congress in either the Senate or House. And not one Republican governor was denied re-election. The American voters were not anti-incumbent on Election Day. They were anti-Democrat.

The message the American people sent is unambiguous. They are profoundly troubled by the direction in which the nation has been led during the past two years, with a Democrat in the White House and a Democrat-dominated Congress. They now view the GOP as the party of the American mainstream.

Moreover, by delivering a landslide to Republicans nationwide, allowing the GOP to post midterm gains of historic proportions, the electorate has given the party of Bob Dole and Newt Gingrich a clear mandate.

Not simply to oppose the policies of Clinton and the Democrats. But to pursue their own agenda, as spelled out in the House GOP's "Contract With America," the package of congressional reforms and legislative initiatives that Republicans promised to bring to floor votes within the first 100 days of the next Congress, if the American people put them in charge.

The first order of business for the new Republican majority is to change the way Congress does business. Three reforms ought to be introduced within the first 10 days.

One, require that Congress abide by the same labor, health and safety and civil rights laws that It's morning in America and the Democrats have a hangover.

apply to the rest of the country. Two, cut congressional committee staff positions by one-third. Three, commission a private audit of all congressional accounts, including the infamous House Post Office.

After adopting these internal reforms, the Republican majority can then move on to the legislative agenda outlined in their Contract With America.

Among the planks: a constitutionally required balanced budget, a revision of social spending in last summer's crime bill (in favor of increased funding for prisons and law enforcement), welfare reform, tax relief for families with children, stronger national defense, regulatory relief, reduction in unfunded federal mandates, tort reform and congressional term limits.

While Clinton and the Democrats — not to mention their loyalists in the media — tried to conjure up scary scenarios as to what would happen if the GOP agenda is enacted, the fact is that most of the planks are widely favored by the American people.

By turning control of Congress over to Republicans for the first time in more than four decades, the American people have signaled that they embrace the Republican agenda.

SARAH OVERSTREET

Party lines blur, as voters get mad

The editorial board meeting was more entertaining than usual during election week, as we discussed the Republican tidal wave that swept the country Nov. 8.

Our editorial board is comprised of an interesting mix on any day — one ultra-conservative, three moderate conservatives, one moderate liberal, three flaming liberals and one guy who can be counted on to surprise us no matter what the subject. We meet weekly to argue the issues we'll cover in the upcoming week and the lines between conservative and liberal often blur.

The lines between conservative and liberal often blur.

This session the flammies conjectured that Americans just like to snivel, that in the greatest country on earth where our tax dollars at least go to social programs and new roads instead of self-indulged despots, we ought to be grateful. The moderates and the Big C won several points, however, and even got them to agree with us a few times. Before the discussion ended, one of the liberals was even grumbling that state employees get a paid hour off to vote. "Aha! Gotcha!" cried the rest of us.

Two of us had talked to a veteran political reporter who covers four states for a national wire service, and others of us had talked to voters as the election process wore on. We shared the opinion that many voters are so frustrated they'll go with whomever talks the best game on the week they go to vote, and last time the boys in the Bus gave better talk. "Hey, I voted straight Democratic ticket, last time and straight Republican this time," one man who had just bought a business and began handling his own payroll told me. "I'm being taxed to death, and if these guys don't do any better, I'll be back to the Democrats next election."

The boys in the Bus promised they'd deliver and, in so many voters' eyes, didn't. First, they all but excluded Republicans from formation of their health care plans and, second, scared the wadding out of middle-classers who believed they'd lose their doctors and be unable to bear the tax burden of what was put on the table. When Clinton and Gore did enact some measures that cut popular programs and reduced the deficit somewhat, they did a poor job of telling us.

Voters seem to feel they have very little to show for the slice of their earnings taken for taxes, and executives in agencies funded by those taxes have done an equally poor job of informing them what their money is doing. They get a sour taste in their mouths every time someone yells "entitlements," and wonder why programs begun as a bridge between dependency and self-sufficiency have become something that recipients now consider their "right."

Our discussion moved on to just how much these voters want cut from our expenditures. The guy who surprises us believes we're expecting to get the budget balanced by only cutting the "fat," and that there's not enough grease on the menu to make much difference. The rest of us arrived at the point where we agreed that what we expect from our government is that it play by the same rules, by which we have to play.

If we don't have enough money to cover our debts, we find a way to cut back. If we've spent more than we should have on our credit cards and the interest is killing us, we find a way to cut other expenses until we bring the balance down. We cut where we can: entertainment, the kind of food we eat and where we eat it, the clothes we wear. We may decide to live in more economical homes or drive lesser cars.

ELLEN GOODMAN

It's been an anti-civics class

BOSTON—On the morning after the night before, the country was drowning in metaphors. There was water, water everywhere, a tidal wave, a watershed, a sea change, a tsunami.

The waterlogged change in the House and Senate was nowhere nearly as astounding as the internal change in the politicians. Some were transformed—eek—into incumbents. They were—ohmygawd—insiders, legislators.

Many who had mercilessly trashed their opponents as "career politicians" who released mass murderers from prison and corrupted "our values" suddenly reappeared at their victory allies thanking their "worthy opponents" for their "service to the state" and wishing their families well. Have a nice day of defeat.

On Monday, Newt Gingrich had compared the Democrats to Susan Smith, suggesting that voters opposed to murdering toddlers should vote Republican. By Wednesday, he had changed back to Dr. Jekyll, talking about his "obligations" and promising a search for "common ground" with the Democrats.

Bob Dole, for that matter, a man whose wit has been eroded by acid over the years, used the unfamiliar word "responsibility" three times in one sound bite. As in: We have a responsibility to govern.

At the risk of running the water metaphor down the drain, we all need a shower after this election. Before the 104th Congress sits down in the seats they so loved to loathe they ought to all be locked in a room and forced to watch at least two hours of the campaign ads they ran against their opponents and against the institution that they now have to make work.

Having run attack ads on the "airline," they are now in the pilot's seat. How do you get the people back on board?

The story of 1994 wasn't very different for men or women. Two years ago in the much ballyhooed Year of the Woman, female candidates were the personification, the genderification, of change. They were the different voice.

This year, they sounded less like something called "women." They won and lost as Republicans and Democrats, challengers and incumbents. It wasn't a bad year for women if you look at the raw numbers. The painfully slow climb is still up. There will be two more women in the House, one more in the Senate.

But the faces have changed. A half-dozen of the Democratic women who won marginal districts in 1992—from Marjorie Margulies-Mezvinsky in Pennsylvania to Karan English in Arizona—appear to have lost. In the last Congress all but three of the women were pro-choice. In the next Congress, nine define themselves as pro-life.

The voices have changed even more. In this campaign whatever archaic or hopeful ideas the country had about the female difference were pretty well shattered.

Many used to assume that women shouldn't and wouldn't go negative. Not anymore. Even Dianne Feinstein barely won with an advertising slugmatch against an empty suit with deep pockets. Nowhere could you tell the candidates' chromosomes from their commerals.

Nevertheless, the turnoff factor of this gruesome campaign season may have a disproportionate effect on new women in politics. As Ellen Malcolm of EMILY's List admits, "I can't tell you how many women I approached this year who said they wouldn't want to run for office. They see the process as personally destructive and totally unappealing."

So do men, but the numbers tell a gender tale. For the first time since the Center for the American Woman and Politics has been keeping records, the number of women running for state legislatures—the political farm—has dropped. As the center's Ruth Mandel acknowledges, "The Price has been rising, so has the personal cost. They may be asking, 'Do I want to put myself through this?'"

That's a question that will resonate with other would-be candidates and with, to use a quaint term, citizens. Negative ads work. Everybody says so. They work against the other candidate. The more insidious victory is against government. Any government.

In the words of Ann Richards, who will be sorely missed, "This is not the end of the world. It is the end of a campaign." But what an anti-civics class this has been.

Collectively, we've just been subjected to a $350 million sales pitch on the evils of our own political system. A tidal wave of nastiness, a tsunami of negativism, a flood of hostility. Gosh, it makes me thirsty just thinking of 1996.

Have a nice day of defeat.

Storm

closed and closed to traffic this morning. Sanford Public Works Director Jerry Herman spent most of the morning with his crews inspecting storm drainage areas and flooding.

In Lake Mary, no city streets were required to be closed as of 9:30 this morning, but the rain continued to fall.

Most forecasters predict the storm, presently stalled on the state's southwest coast, will begin travelling northeastward directly toward Sanford and the Seminole County area. The predictions, however, are only tentative, as weather officials say there is no way to determine a specific direction.

The Seminole County Port Authority meeting scheduled for this afternoon has been cancelled.

The City of Lake Mary has cancelled a Board of Adjustment meeting scheduled at city hall tonight. The meeting has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. on December 7th.

Other governmental meetings are scheduled for this Thursday night. As of this morning, no changes in those were expected.

Lake Mary City Manager John Litton said depending on where the storm is tomorrow, a decision could be made at that time on whether or not to postpone the city commission meeting.

Sanford's Planning and Zoning Commission meeting, also Thursday night, was still scheduled as of this morning.

More flooding is expected with continuing rain.

Law enforcement officers urge extreme caution for all motorists, as an unexpected stand of water in a street could cause a driver to lose control, or a motor to stall out, which would result in an additional roadway hazard.

The beginning of Tropical Storm Gordon's tour of Florida has already caused several deaths and some destruction.

A tornado killed at least one person and destroyed 50 to 100 mobile homes in the Brevard County retirement community of Barefoot Bay, officials said. Elsewhere, three twisters ripped the roofs off two homes and tossed sheds in the air.

The deadly tornado, reported just after 7 p.m. Tuesday, damaged at least 500 homes in the community of 7,000 between Sebastian and Melbourne, authorities said. The victim's identity was unknown, Mark Francesconi, the Brevard County Fire Department's battalion chief, said early today. Forty other people were injured.

The department had opened two shelters for people left homeless by the twister that bounced for two miles. Francesconi said 150 people had moved in.

Early today, the National Hurricane Center also reported tornadoes touched down in Lake Worth, Delray Beach and near Jupiter Inlet late Tuesday. No serious injuries were reported. Tornado watches were posted for east central and some south Florida counties for the morning.

The death toll for Florida stood at four, including the tornado victim and a woman who died Monday after being ejected from her car and run over.

At 4 a.m. EST today, Gordon was nearly stationary in Gulf of Mexico with maximum sustained winds of 50 mph. The center was at 25.7 north latitude, 82.6 west longitude, about 115 miles south of Sarasota, 200 miles from the tornado sites.

Gordon moved into the Gulf after drenching the Caribbean and south Florida earlier in the week. Homestead was hit the heaviest with 8.63 inches of rain in the 24-hour period ending at 5 p.m. EST Tuesday. But Central Florida could still see some more tornadoes.

The storm was expected to continue its northeasterly movement up Florida's west coast through today.

Tornado watches were in effect for Brevard, Highlands, Indian River, Lake Okechobee, Orange, Osceola, Seminole and Volusia, Glades, Hendry, Martin, Palm Beach, St. Lucie and Dade counties.

school gets out," Rabun said.

Administrative staffing will be reduced to allow many county workers to get home safely, Rabun said. All public offices will remain open, Rabun said.

Assistant Roads Superintendent Tom George said crews were working to keep State Road 420 open in the vicinity of Van Arsdale Street. Flooding there has forced the closing of one lane of that busy road, said George. There are some reports of flooded streets in Geneva, Chuluota and the Hunt Club area, George said.

A drainage ditch along State

Road 40 near Airport Boulevard breached this morning, forcing state road crews to urge motorists to take caution. The road was not closed, said Victor Igbo-Nwoko, acting district maintenance engineer.

Rabun said the county has been in a watchful state since Sunday night. Vehicles were fueled and minor repairs were quickly completed to get as much repair equipment on the road when needed. Extra gravel was brought in for emergency road repairs, Rabun said.

A preparedness meeting was held at 4 p.m. Monday and road crews were sent home early to get plenty of rest before the long hours likely to face them.

diabetic foods or baby food, formula, diapers and bottles.

Water is the most important item to have on hand not only in a shelter but also in your home. Two quarts of water per person, per day is recommended.

Hot environments and intense physical activity can double that amount. Children, nursing mothers and ill people will need more.

Stored water should be changed every six months to keep it fresh.

Include water purification materials in your emergency supply kit. Water purification agents are available at most drug stores and enable you to use water from sources that may not be clean.

When purifying water, use 4 water purification tablets or 12 drops of iodine, or 8 drops of chlorine bleach (unscented) for each gallon of water. If the water is not clean even after filtering, double the amount of purifying agent.

Flashlights and fresh batteries for radios should also be kept on hand along with non-prescription drugs such as pain reliever, anti-diarrhea medication, antacid and syrup of ipecac.

In case evacuation is necessary, the food, water and other supplies should be kept in an easy to carry container such as a large, covered trash container, camping backpack or duffel bag.

An informal survey of a number of local supermarkets early this morning indicated only a slight increase in the sales of bottled water and batteries. There was no rush by shoppers to stock up on canned foods by 9 a.m. However, as the storm pushes inland more people may try to make last-minute shopping trips. In Sanford, the rain and flooded streets were apparently keeping most customers indoors and out of the stores.

brainstorm the idea. There might be other things we could do," he continued, "but I haven't seen a better idea that would guarantee more traffic into downtown Sanford."

Eckstein cited a number of outstanding baseball professionals who would be highlighted including Jeff Black, Tim Raines, Andre Dawson, Willie Mays, Leo Durocher, Red Barber, and many others. "Just think of the memorabilia we could have in a Hall of Fame."

encouraged families to read together as a funtime activity.

At Idyllwild Elementary School in Sanford, businesses that have supported the school will be invited later this week to join the students for a Thanksgiving feast.

Parents at Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary will have the opportunity to learn about education first hand this week as they are allowed to accompany their children into the classroom to learn with them.

Similarly, Lakeview Middle School in Sanford has invited parents to take some time to experience their children's day by taking their classes and eating in the cafeteria with them.

At Lyman High School in Longwood, teachers and other staff members will be recognized throughout the week.

Midway Elementary School in Sanford will sponsor programs which allow them to correspond with retired teachers, to write essays on ways to build the future and to read with their families.

Sanford Middle School will celebrate the contributions of colleges, Seminole High School and their own teachers to the educational process.

"It's very exciting," Schaffner said. "We want to involve families, the community and businesses in the education of our students."

vice president of sales, Margaret Firth, has agreed to accept five manuscripts from the writer's guild for publication in some form.

Deborah Wright, the assistant principal at Lake Mary Elementary, said the idea to form the writer's guild had existed but nothing had been done with it until Wright spoke with Fuller in conjunction with signing a Partners in Education "contract" for the school year. Fuller said that she would make the contacts necessary to find a publisher.

Wright is coordinating the efforts at the elementary school. Wright said the students in the fourth and fifth grade and gifted classes will be encouraged by their teachers to submit their work. These will be writing efforts made in the course of the everyday curriculum at the school. For example, Sherry Jackson's fifth grade class is currently working on poetry books. Wright said the opportunity will be offered to all the students and it will then be up to the student to decide if he or she wants to make the commitment.

lately be attracted to this." Mayor Betty Smith suggested that because Eckstein was so strongly in favor of getting people together to discuss the concept, he might be willing to spearhead the move.

Eckstein agreed, and suggested meeting with members of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, the historical boards and others, and possibly going to the extent of asking for Tourist Development money with which to help launch the project.

"Just look at what Sanford has right now," he concluded. "We have many antique stores and what would blend in more than this Hall of Fame with baseball from our past history."

Dawn Reno, a published author and an instructor in writing children's literature at Seminole Community College, Fuller asked her to act as an editor, meeting with the children, going over their work and making suggestions on how to improve it.

After Reno edits the writing, the five best pieces will be submitted to Putnam and the others will be sent to various children's magazines such as "American Girl", "Boy's Life" and "Highlights for Children."

Wright said that while there are children who already have well-developed writing styles, and these children will be the first to meet with Reno, "it will take a couple of months to find the kids who are really committed to writing." Wright said this year is the starting point to what she hopes is an ongoing program. Fuller said she doesn't know of any publishing companies printing literature written by children so this is quite an opportunity for the students at Lake Mary Elementary.

Editor's note: This is Part I of an occasional series. Dawn Reno will conduct her first meeting with student writers Sunday at Little Wings Bookstore. The Herald will follow the progress of the project.

Lowering cholesterol hardest for fattest

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

DALLAS — Yes, nature can be unfair. A study shows that lowering cholesterol is hardest for overweight people, who need it the most.

Obesity has long been linked with high cholesterol, and doctors often exhort overweight people to reduce their cholesterol levels by eating less fat. Typical dietary guidelines recommend that people limit fat to less than 30 percent of their daily calories.

The study shows that the success of a low-fat diet depends on people's size and shape. Skinny people's cholesterol levels drop sharply on a sensible diet, but overweight people's levels hardly budge at all.

Researchers aren't sure why. "There is something about obesity that makes people less responsive to diet," said Dr. Judy S. Hannah. "This is a major public health concern as we become a more obese nation."

The study was presented Tuesday at a meeting of the American Heart Association.

Hannah and colleagues from Mediantic Research Institute in Washington, D.C., put 29 men and 33 women on cholesterol-lowering diets.

At the start, the volunteers were getting 37 percent of their calories from fat, including 15 percent from saturated fat — a typical American diet. Their cholesterol levels averaged 237, which is moderately high.

The subjects were placed on four different diets that limited total fat to 30 percent of calories. The diets included varying proportions of saturated fat, which raises cholesterol levels, and polyunsaturated and monounsaturated fat, which lowers cholesterol.

Overall, the diets worked. Cholesterol levels fell an average of 11 points. But when researchers divided the people into four equal groups, they saw large differences.

Cholesterol levels in the skinniest quarter of the volunteers dropped 19 points. In the fattest quarter, they fell just a point. Those in the middle two quarters reduced their cholesterol an average of about 14 points.

"Overweight people are much less likely to respond to a low-cholesterol diet," Hannah said. "They may need additional efforts, such as weight loss."

Whether fat people truly would lower their cholesterol better if they lost weight remains to be seen, but other experts agree this is likely to be true.

"I suspect that if these people could get their weight down, they would respond to diet," said Dr. Dawn C. Schwenke of Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem, N.C.

More than just fatness is probably involved, however. The study also suggests that body shape also may have something to do with cholesterol levels.

The study found that some women with big behinds and relatively thin waists were able to lower their cholesterol, while none of the women with large stomachs lowered their levels.

Sex and race had no bearing on people's ability to reduce their cholesterol levels, the study found.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Readiness of fighting force slipping

WASHINGTON — Blaming the expense of foreign peacekeeping missions, the Clinton administration acknowledges it is slipping in one of its highest military priorities: maintaining the readiness of the fighting force.

In a hastily arranged news conference Tuesday, Pentagon officials said five of 12 Army divisions are below the top level of combat readiness, three of them to a point where they suffer "increases in vulnerability" and require "significant compensation" to make up for deficiencies.

No immediate threat to the safety of the nation looms as a result of the problem, senior Pentagon officials said. The three divisions that received poor readiness grades are backup forces that would relieve the leading edge of a U.S. battle force weeks or months into a conflict. The other two are slightly below the top readiness level.

Still the Pentagon, citing security concerns, refused to identify the divisions involved.

The announcement, coming only hours after the Pentagon spokesman said readiness "remains at a high level," left President Clinton open to criticism from congressional Republicans that he is neglecting the military.

Catholic bishops issue statement

WASHINGTON — In the wake of a mean political season, leaders of the nation's largest church are considering calling upon Americans to reject the "false choices" of jails or jobs, family values or a welfare state.

Women should take their places in the top ranks of church theologians, administrators and activists on social issues, the U.S. Catholic bishops' Committee on Women in Society and in the Church said in its proposed statement "Towards Strengthening the Bonds of Peace." However, the committee ruled out female priests.

In particular, the proposal called on the all-male Catholic hierarchy to reject authoritarian conduct, establish structures to respond to the concerns of women and encourage women to pursue studies in the fields of scripture, theology and canon law, traditionally dominated by the clergy.

"In no way should these commitments be construed as 'ecclesial political correctness,'" the bishops said. "They are theologically correct. They are rooted in our baptism and in our understanding of the Holy Spirit, who works in the church to build it up through the gifts of its members."

In their statement on violence, the bishops sought a new civility in public policy debates that would replace attack politics and "war rooms" with concern for the common good.

DOT rejects GM request

DETROIT — In what promises to be a public relations disaster for General Motors Corp., the Transportation Department has decided to proceed with a public hearing on whether to recall millions of pickup trucks.

Families of crash victims and survivors of fiery accidents are expected to testify at the Dec. 6 session on the safety of GM's 1973-87 C-K pickups. Critics say they are prone to explode in side-impact collisions because the fuel tanks are mounted outside the frames.

GM, which has promised to fight a recall, had asked that the hearing be canceled so it could proceed straight to court. The company called the hearing a waste of time and an "orchestrated talk show."

But the Transportation Department said Tuesday that such meetings help it gather additional information before deciding whether to order a recall.

Transportation Secretary Federico Pena scheduled the session last month, declaring that the pickups present an "unreasonable risk" of fire or explosion in side-impact collisions.

Pena acknowledged that the trucks met federal safety standards, but said the law requires they be safe in "real world conditions" as well. He said 150 people had died in crashes they might have survived if the fuel tanks had been placed elsewhere. GM insists the trucks are safer than most vehicles on the road.

O'Neal, Magic thrash Bullets

ORLANDO — Shaquille O'Neal dominated at both ends of the court, getting 29 points and 13 rebounds as the Orlando Magic beat the Washington Bullets 122-102 Tuesday night.

O'Neal, the NBA's leading scorer, also blocked five shots and had six assists. Horace Grant added 21 points and 13 rebounds as the Magic avenged a season-opening loss to the Bullets.

Nick Anderson and Donald Royal each scored 18 and Anfernee Hardaway 16 for Orlando.

Reggie Miller, who beat the Magic with a shot at the buzzer in the opener, led Washington with 17 points. Scott Skiles, who had 11 assists, and Kevin Duckworth scored 16 points apiece.

AROUND THE STATE

Miner leads Heat over Mavs

MIAMI — The Miami Heat, behind Harold Miner's 23 points, earned their first win of the season Tuesday, beating Dallas 115-102.

The win came after an 0-4 start, Miami's worst since its inaugural season in 1988.

Miner, settling into a starting role in a lineup revamped by two recent trades, had just 23 points in the first four games.

Kevin Willis matched his season high with 24 points for Miami. Glen Rice added 16.

Jamal Mashburn, who scored 50 points Saturday against the Chicago Bulls, had to settle for 24 against Miami. Jim Jackson had 25 for the Mavericks.

Dolphins release Higgs

DAVIE — The Miami Dolphins on Tuesday released Mark Higgs, who was their leading rusher the past three years before slipping to the bottom of the depth chart this season.

"I kind of figured it was coming," the 28-year-old Higgs said. "We had seven running backs in camp, and I wasn't playing. I'm probably a little relieved. I really wasn't playing and I was a little frustrated with that."

Despite Miami's injury problems in the backfield, Higgs carried just 19 times this year for 88 yards. He totaled 2,648 yards rushing with Miami, fifth-best in team history.

AROUND THE NATION

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Michelle Palmisano, a transfer from UCLA, led No. 12 Vanderbilt with 16 points as the Commodores downed No. 16 Florida International 80-63 Tuesday night in the first round of the Women's Preseason NIT.

Alben Branzova led Florida International with 21 points.

Palmisano led the Commodores in outside shooting the first half with 13 points, hitting three 3-pointers as Vandy moved to a 41-29 lead at the break.

AL awards Gold Gloves

NEW YORK — Cleveland, Toronto and the New York Yankees each placed two players on the American League Gold Glove team announced Tuesday.

Cleveland's choices were shortstop Omar Vizquel and outfielder Kenny Lofton. Selected from Toronto were outfielder Devon White and second baseman Roberto Alomar. First baseman Don Mattingly and third baseman Wade Boggs were picked from the Yankees.

Also chosen for the American League squad were outfielder Ken Griffey, Jr., of Seattle, catcher Ivan Rodriguez of Texas and pitcher Mark Langston of California.

The team is picked every year by Rawling Sporting Goods on a vote by each league's managers and coaches.

LONGWOOD — For the last several years, the Lyman High School girls' basketball teams of Coach Steve Carmichael have earned a reputation of playing ferocious defense.

While Carmichael has no intention of abandoning that style of play this season, his 1994-95 team showed an unusually offensive (for them) tendency in Tuesday night's 58-39 season-opening win over visiting Eustis.

"We're real happy to score 58 points in our first game of the season," said Carmichael. "We have players like Kate Brown, Angel Rhodes, and Carolyn Cramer who have some offensive abilities and are willing to take advantage of them."

"I'm proud of our effort tonight and happy for the girls. This was a good win to open the season with, especially since we only dressed eight players."

While Brown, the only senior on the Greyhound roster, had just six points, she broke her own school record for most assists in a game by handing out 11. She also collected four steals,

Liljenquist leads Lions by DeLand

From Staff Reports

OVIDO — One week ago, senior Lisa Liljenquist was a member of the Oviedo High School volleyball team, getting ready for the Lions' trip to the Class 6A state semifinals.

Once Oviedo was eliminated, Liljenquist — along with Stephanie Nourse, Holly Dunsworth, and several junior varsity players — joined the Lion varsity basketball team, which opened its season Tuesday with a 48-42 win over DeLand.

Liljenquist scored a game-high 17 points, including 12 points and seven rebounds during Oviedo's 22-14 fourth quarter finish.

First-year Oviedo coach Tom Bieri, who made the trip to New Port Richey for the Lions' match with Miami-Northwestern in the semifinals Friday, hopes the momentum generated by the volleyball team's extraordinary season carries over to the basketball team.

"They're a little down now because they lost, but they have that taste from being there (at the state tournament)," said Bieri. "With a few breaks, we could do that. The talent is there."

While the Lions showed considerable rust — they missed 25 free throws and a slew of layups — Bieri said the squad played much better than the score indicated.

"We ran the break and did everything we tried to do," said Bieri. "It's going to take some time. I have to learn them and they have to learn me. They're just rusty."

The Lions also won Tuesday's junior varsity game, 25-20. Oviedo visits Colonial Thursday.

First-year Lake Mary coach Carl Brown (left) and his young Rams started off their season by leaping into the deep end, taking on the highly-regarded Mainland Buccaneers Tuesday night. And while Lake Mary lost to Mainland by eight points, Brown saw reason to be optimistic about the Rams' chances this season.

Talented Buccaneers run down Rams

By DEAN SMITH

LAKE MARY — Carl Brown didn't exactly get a pushover to start his varsity coaching career.

The new Lake Mary girls' basketball coach led his young team onto the floor to open its season against highly-regarded Daytona Beach-Mainland Tuesday night at Lake Mary High School.

And while the Rams did not pull off the upset, falling 68-60, the local squad showed that it could be very competitive this year.

"We ran out of gas," said Brown, who took over for the retired Anna Van Landingham. "I told the team that I was proud of the way we played. We made a good comeback, but we just could not get ahead for anything. I thought we were going to get ahead, then calm down and take control of the game."

"But it's early and we have a long way to go. We have a lot of things to improve on. I knew Mainland was going to be tough because they have most of their team back from last year. But I wanted to see where we stood and I thought we gave a good account of ourselves."

Mainland is now 1-0, while Lake Mary fell to 0-1. The next game for the Rams will be next Monday night, when they host the Deltona Wolves. The junior varsity will play at 6 p.m. with the varsity taking the floor at 7:30 p.m.

After a close first quarter, the Buccaneers took control in the middle of the second period, leading by as many 10 points and taking a 33-25 advantage into the

The third quarter and the first half of the fourth stanza belonged to Lake Mary, which trailed 47-43 after three periods and was down by just two points, 57-55, with 4:06 left in the contest.

Also contributing for the home team were Sheri Gehl (four points, five rebounds, two assists, one steal), Courtney Harris (one point, six rebounds, five assists, one steal), Debbie Duber (three rebounds) and Dana Raptoulis (two assists).

Balough drives maimed Late Model to victory lane

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — New Smyrna Beach driver Gary Balough came back from a spectacular first-lap wreck to win the Late Model feature event Friday night, Nov. 11, at OrlandoSpeedworld.

At the drop of the green flag, one of the Late Models failed to fire, piling up traffic back in the pack. In the ensuing melee, Raymond Lovelady got drilled in the rear end. Upon impact, he drove over the top of Balough's car, causing extensive sheet metal damage.

While under the caution period, Balough retreated to the pits — with the ambulance in tow — to evaluate the damage to the car. Despite severe damage to the car, Balough elected to resume racing, sending the ambulance back to the infield.

Balough restarted the race from the 10th position. By the fifth lap, he was in second place, challenging Darren Gould for the lead. Two laps later, Balough took over the No. 1 spot and held off challenges to win his third race in three starts on the new season.

"I guess from the outside, the incident looked pretty spectacular," said Balough. "I saw the car come up on my rear deck, drive down my windshield and come off of the hood."

"I got bounced around a bit, but I didn't get hurt. The car wasn't as lucky. It's a little trashed."

Taking the checkers behind Balough were Gould, Steve Dorer, Bruce Everett, and Craig Reynolds.

Ronnie Burkett, the 1992 FASCAR Late Model champion, set the pace to win the Modified feature event in only his second time behind the wheel of a Florida open wheel Modified.

Burkett, who led every circuit in securing his victory, was trailed to victory lane by Wayne Parker, Bruce Thompson, Jon Compagnone Jr., and Bill Gunn.

By lap seven, Jim Robinson had a 10-car advantage on the Sportsman field until a caution on lap 10 hunched the field for a new start, putting Chris Lawrence and Barbara Pierce on his rear bumper for the second green flag.

Robinson was able to withstand repeated challenges by Lawrence and Pierce to take the checkers.

Completing the top five behind Robinson, Lawrence, and Pierce were Dale Clouser and Bill Loomis.

Harley Gibbons went green flag to checkers to win the Bomber headliner. Randy Newby and Glen Castro battled door-to-door over the last five laps for second place, Newby gaining the advantage coming out of turn four.

Fourth place went to Jerry Puffington with Bob Bell coming in fifth.

Tony Newsom, fresh off of a victory the previous Saturday at New Smyrna Speedway, outraced Bobby Sears and Mike Todd to the checkers in the Limited Late Model main event.

Rounding out the top five were, in order of finish, Mark Muckewelder and R.J. Marconi.

Other feature event winners were Derrick Reeves (Mini Stocks), Rodney Davis (figure 8 race), Jim Erb (school bus figure 8), Darrell Erb (Mini Stocks), and Carl Peters (Run-Abouts).

Crown holiday meal with sensational desserts

Thanksgiving is traditionally the most memorable and spectacular meal of the year. And those luscious desserts that complete the feast are usually the crowning glory.

The special meal just wouldn't be complete without pumpkin pie so why not try this easy-to-prepare Sensational Double Layer Pumpkin Pie for a sensational taste treat.

The Cranberry Cream Cheese Mold will add brilliant color as well as this simple Holiday Trifle. And for extra richness, as well as, oh my goodness, add a creamy Delicious Double Layer Chocolate Pie.

All of these desserts have been tested in the kitchens of Kraft General Foods Inc.

SENSATIONAL DOUBLE LAYER PUMPKIN PIE

4 ounces cream cheese, softened*

1 tablespoon milk or half-and-half

1 tablespoon sugar

1 1/2 cups frozen (thawed) whipped topping

1 graham cracker pie crust (6 ounces)

1 cup cold milk or half-and-half

2 packages (4-serving size) vanilla flavor instant pudding & pie filling

1 can (16 ounces) pumpkin

1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

1/2 teaspoon ground cloves

Mix cream cheese, 1 tablespoon milk and sugar in large bowl with wire whisk until smooth. Gently stir in whipped topping. Spread on bottom of crust.

Pour 1 cup milk into bowl.

Add pudding mixes. Beat with wire whisk 1 minute. (Mixture will be thick.) Stir in pumpkin and spices with wire whisk until well mixed. Spread over cream cheese layer.

Refrigerate 4 hours or until

set.

CRANBERRY CREAM CHEESE MOLD

1 1/2 cups boiling water

1 package (8-serving size) or 2

packages (4-serving size) cranberry flavor gelatin or any red flavor

Make this Thanksgiving extra-special with Sensational Double Layer Pumpkin Pie or Cranberry Cheese Mold.

1 1/2 cups cold water

1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1 medium apple, chopped

1 cup whole berry cranberry sauce (optional)

1 package (8 ounces) hilly

cream cheese, softened*

Stir boiling water into gelatin in large bowl 2 minutes or until completely dissolved. Stir in cold water and cinnamon. Pour

2 cups of the gelatin into medium bowl. Refrigerate about 1 1/2 hours or until thickened (spoon drawn through leaves a definite impression). Reserve remaining

1 cup gelatin at room temperature.

Stir apple and cranberry sauce into thickened gelatin. Spoon into 6-cup mold. Refrigerate about 30 minutes or until set but not firm (should stick to finger

when touched and should mound).

Stir reserved 1 cup gelatin gradually into cream cheese in small bowl with wire whisk until smooth. Pour over gelatin layer in mold.

Refrigerate 4 hours or until firm. Unmold. Garnish as desired. Store leftover gelatin mold in refrigerator.

Makes 6 cups or 12 servings.

HOLIDAY TRIFLE

2 cups boiling water

1 package (8-serving size) or 2

packages (4-serving size) brand cranberry flavor gelatin or any

red flavor

1 cup cold water

2 cups cold milk

2 packages (4-serving size) Jell-

O vanilla flavor instant pudding & pie filling

1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1 tub (8 ounces) whipped topping, thawed

1 package (12 ounces) all butter pound loaf, cut into 1/2 inch cubes

1 can (11 ounces) mandarin

orange segments, drained

Microwave autumn's bounty of fresh fruits and vegetables

In case you've not already discovered it, your microwave oven does a perfect job cooking most fruits and vegetables. And it helps retain many of the natural vitamins and minerals. Fresh fruits and vegetables are ideal for supplying the natural fiber that our bodies need each day.

Our fall harvest of fruit and vegetables continue long into the winter months in Florida. We're able to enjoy fresh foods just about year-round. Now is the time to take advantage of Florida grown fruits and vegetables and include them in your family meals.

with an orange-ginger sauce. Allow about 30 minutes preparation time with fresh beets.

ORANGE GLAZED BEETS

1 1/2 lbs. fresh beets

1/2 cup water

1 orange

1 tablespoon margarine or butter

1 tablespoon brown sugar

1 teaspoon cornstarch

1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

Leave about 1-2 inches of green top on each pot. Discard remainder or cook for a separate dish. Scrub beets well. Place in a 2-quart microwave casserole.

Add water. Cover.

Microwave (100%) 10-12

minutes or until beets are tender. Drain and cool in cool water until easy to handle. Slip

Meanwhile, grate 1 teaspoon orange peel. Place in 1-quart micro-safe casserole. Squeeze juice; add water to make 1/2 cup.

Add to casserole along with margarine, brown sugar, cor-nameth and ginger; mix well.

Microwave (100%), uncovered,

1 1/2-2 minutes or until mixture boils and thickens, stirring frequently. Slice beets into sauce; stir lightly to coat. Cover.

Microwave (100%) 3 1/2-4

minutes or until heated through, stirring once.

Matchstick-sized carrots combine with raisins for a low cholesterol side dish.

GLAZED CARROTS AND RAISINS

2 cups julienne carrots (1 1/2 inch long)

1 tablespoon water

2 tablespoons raisins

1 tablespoon margarine

1 tablespoon brown sugar

1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel

1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine carrots and water in

1/2 to 1-quart micro-safe case-role. Cover with casserole lid.

Microwave (100%) in 4 1/2-5 1/2 minutes or under tender-crisp, stirring once. Drain. Add raisins, margarine, brown sugar, lemon peel and salt. Mix lightly;

cover.

Microwave (100%) 11-1 1/2

minutes or until margarine is melted. Stir to coat evenly.

A bright red apple can add color and flavor to this salad.

APPLE-CABBAGE SLAW

1/2 cup sugar

1 tablespoon cornstarch

1/2 teaspoon celery seed

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon dry mustard

3/4 cup water

3 tablespoons vinegar

1/2 cup mayonnaise

6 cups shredded cabbage

1 apple, cored and chopped

Combine sugar, cornstarch, celery seed, salt and dry mustard in 2-cup glass measure.

Gradually stir in water and vinegar until smooth.

Microwave (100%), uncovered,

3-3 1/2 minutes or until mixture boils and thickens slightly, stirring once. Refrigerate until chilled, about 3 hours. Mix in mayonnaise.

Combine cabbage and apple in bowl. Pour dressing over cabbage; toss lightly to coat. Serve immediately or refrigerate several hours.

One-day smokeout on tomorrow

DEAR READERS: Tomorrow, Nov. 17, will mark the 18th Annual Great American Smokeout, a one-day campaign to encourage smokers to quit smoking for 24 hours. Last year, 9 million smokers tried to quit for the day. This represents 20 percent of the nation's 46 million smokers.

Breast cancer used to be the biggest killer of women. But the No. 1 cause of cancer death among women and men today is lung cancer. Because women are not quitting at the same rate as men, lung cancer is on the decline in men — but on the increase in women. It's estimated that early in the next century, more women will die of lung cancer than men. Tobacco claims one life every 13 seconds. An estimated 153,000 will die of lung cancer in 1994.

And now a word about smoking-related diseases — emphysema, chronic bronchitis and heart disease: This year, an estimated 419,000 will die from one of these. This total exceeds the number of U.S. battle deaths in World War II; it's eight times as many as died in the Vietnam War, and 10 times as many people who die in automobile accidents annually.

According to a congressional study, health costs from the adverse effects of smoking have reached a new high of $100 billion a year in increased medical bills and lost productivity. The loss in death and disability cannot be measured.

What about secondhand smoke? Is it damaging to non-smokers to be in the presence of those who are smoking? Oh yes. A 1993 report on secondhand smoke issued by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency categorizes secondhand smoke as a class A carcinogen on a par with asbestos and radon. And studies reveal that the children of smokers are more prone to lung problems and allergies than are children of non-smokers.

For years I have begged my young readers, "If you smoke, quit now. If you don't smoke, don't start!" Yet cigarette companies sell $1 billion of cigarettes to children every year, and an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 kids light up for the first time every day.

Quitting "cold turkey" is the hardest way to quit—but my readers tell me it's the most effective and, in the long run, the best way. Those who need help to break their habit: Call your local chapter of the American Cancer Society, or call 1-800-227-2345 for information. LOVE, ABBY

Will Florida shrimpers invade Georgia?

By The Associated Press

BRUNSWICK, Ga. — Georgia shrimpers will be watching for invading shrimp boats from Florida now that that state's voters have approved restrictions on shrimpers.

Florida shrimpers may be about to move north, the Georgians warn.

An amendment approved in Florida last week bans entangling nets and most shrimp trawls from inshore state waters. The ban will take effect next July.

Georgia fisheries officials said the 10,000 Florida fishermen who will be displaced cannot settle into Georgia waters automatically.

"They'll need to get a license and it'll all have to be done legally," said Susan Shipman, Marine Fisheries chief of the Coastal Resources Division of the Department of Natural Resources.

Jack Amason of Sea Garden Seafood in Valonia, a coastal town about 40 miles south of Savannah, said last Tuesday's vote in Florida was a "sad day" for Georgia shrimpers.

"Thousands of people will be hurt (by the ban)," Amason said.

Georgia shrimp boat owners and industry officials are considering asking the state legislature to issue a two-year moratorium on new commercial fishing licenses.

No decision is likely until officials have studied the possible impact of the ban and until shrimpers groups officially ask for the moratorium, said Jim Musick, commercial fisheries program leader for DNR.

He said Georgia is particularly vulnerable to an influx of fishermen from other states because proper licenses allow open access to the state's waters.

"I think the fear is founded because we don't know what's going to be happening with the large trawlers, who will be sitting around with nothing to do. We're already getting calls from other states asking if we have a moratorium here," Musick said.

Critics of the amendment also are concerned other states will follow Florida's lead and try to impose similar bans.

Intestines may be cause of spasms

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm in my 40s, two years post-hysterectomy, and have begun suffering debilitating once-a-month cramps that last as long as two hours per session. Could this be a hormone imbalance?

DEAR READER: I doubt it. Monthly cramps in menstruating women are usually caused by uterine spasms. Inasmuch as your uterus was removed, such contractions are impossible.

You may be experiencing pain from muscle spasms in other organs, such as the intestine. Ask your family doctor about this. He may wish to obtain certain tests, such as a barium enema; at the very least, he will want to give you something for pain relief.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm writing to you as a last resort. I'm 80 years old and my eyes water almost constantly - especially when I concentrate and have to read things. Three specialists say it's due to age, my eyes are too dry, I should use a lubricant at night, and that the ducts have shut down. Should I have an operation to open the ducts or is there a simpler remedy?

DEAR READER: As people age, their eyes often dry out, leading to irritation and tearing. Your doctors may be correct in suggesting the use of lubricating drops, such as Tears Plus or other similar products.

On the other hand, the fact that your eyes water excessively when you try to read suggests that your symptoms may be the result of eye strain that often affects the elderly as their vision changes.

You should request a referral to the eye clinic at a teaching hospital. These specialists will examine you and advise you whether an operation to open your tear ducts is appropriate.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please give your opinion of the hundreds and hundreds of people drinking wine from the same chalice at Sunday church services. Is the small wipe with a white linen cloth enough to kill all the germs that must be on it, or perhaps the alcohol in the wine kills all germs? I shudder to think of the diseases that can be spread in this holy or unholy way of the church.

DEAR READER: Drinking from a common cup, as is common in many church services, is certainly - at least in theory - unhygienic. Many viruses can be spread in this manner, as can a variety of bacteria. Wiping the lip of the chalice pays little more than lip service in terms of eradicating harmful microorganisms. Although I am unaware of any medical reports showing that a common communion cup has been the cause of infection, some church fathers are concerned enough about the practice to alter the tradition and use small individual cups, as the Presbyterians employ.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

I think Henry Kissinger had the right idea when he summed up the Cold War thus: "The superpowers often behave like two heavily armed blind men feeling their way around a room, each believing himself in mortal peril from the other, whom he assumes to have perfect vision."

In bridge, some players act as if they were blind. They claim they cannot visualize the layout without actually seeing everyone's cards. True, visualizing can be difficult. But it is not impossible; it just requires a willingness to try.

Today's deal is easy if you can picture the distribution in your mind's eye.

South had to play in four hearts. The defenders began with two rounds of diamonds before switching to a spade. How should South have continued?

South's only problem was a 4-1 (or 5-0) club split. Because of East's opening pre-empt, West was more likely to be long in clubs. So, South won trick three with dummy's spade ace, drew trumps and cashed his spade king. Then he led a club to dummy's jack.

If it had lost to the singleton king, East would have been endplayed, forced to concede a ruff-and-discard. (South's remaining club loser would have disappeared.)

However, when the club jack won the trick, South continued with a low club from the dummy. After East discarded, South played low from his hand. West won the trick with the nine, but was endplayed. A club lead would have sacrificed his potential trick there, whereas his spade switch conceded a ruff-and-discard.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Nov. 17, 1994

In the year ahead, you will be more successful working alone than with a team. Bringing in weak partners could drag you down professionally and financially.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't kid yourself: your companions don't agree with 100 percent of your opinions. If you sense some resistance, there's no call to pressure them. It's only natural to dissent occasionally. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be reasonable about what you charge for your services today. Inflated prices keep customers from returning.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Although you aren't usually a showoff, today you might try to upstage your friends to be the center of attention.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not waffle on a matter you need to finalize. The arrangement is worthless if it isn't closed properly.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Situations you can normally assess in an instant may be deceptive today. Take your time and analyze circumstances carefully; don't jump to conclusions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) For your economic well-being, avoid extravagant companions. If you try to keep up with big spenders, you'll soon regret it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today's important decisions should not be made by persons with questionable judgment. Speak up and make your own choices.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone in a position to assist you might turn you down today. No one likes being asked to help with things you can easily do for yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Strive to think positively today, but at the same time be realistic. Castles built upon the sand are easily washed out to sea.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not allow self-doubt to paralyze you today. It's better to make a mistake than not to try at all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today, avoid debating subjects about which you're unsure. You'll look smarter saying nothing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Beware of someone trying to manipulate you today. He/She would like to take advantage of your generous nature.
