Drug dealer gets leniency

By Bill Kerna
Staff Writer

Sentence reduced by three years for testimony against cop

SANFORD — A cocaine dealer will serve a reduced sentence for helping federal agents build a case against a Sanford police officer who is accused of giving him drugs.

Antonio Holley, 26, of Sanford, who prosecutors said ran his drug business from a Sanford music store, was sentenced Tuesday to 92 months in prison. He told a federal grand jury that Sanford police officer Darlene Ladoczky, 34, supplied him with sex, drugs and tipped him off to investigations. Ladoczky was indicted last month.

U.S. District Judge Patricia Fawcett cut the sentence by more than three years. Holley will receive a further sentence reduction if he testifies against Ladoczky in June when her case goes to trial. He pleaded guilty on Jan. 26 to two counts of possession with intent to distribute cocaine.

In addition, Holley is charged with possession of a controlled substance in a separate case pending in Seminole County.

Ladoczky and her family maintain that she is innocent of the charges, and that she did not have a sexual relationship with Holley.

"I find it hard to believe, to be honest," said her father Raymond Sears, 63, at a sentencing hearing for Ladoczky in March. He said that his daughter is not capable of doing what she is accused of.

Ladoczky is also accused of lying to federal agents. Last week, the indictment

Civic leaders honor Harry Hagle

Harry Hagle was a basketball coach long ago when everyone took under-handed free throws. But make no mistake — that was the extent of the under-handedness in Harry Hagle's life.

To show how much they appreciated his two decades of contributions to life in Seminole County, a who's who of community leaders honored the 85-year-old Hagle on Tuesday.

They came to the Seminole County Service Building for a Continental breakfast, followed by a resolution of deep appreciation from the Board of County Commissioners.

Hagle, called "The Father of Affordable Housing" in the county, gladly and selflessly involved himself in numerous activities designed to raise money for non-profit organizations that specifically serve the poor of Sanford and Seminole County.

"Harry's pet peeve is that there are people who are not concerned about the poor," said Thelma Mike, director of the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford. "I can think of no one with a bigger heart than his. His whole life has been one of giving to others."

For a number of years, Hagle chaired the Board of Directors Good Samaritan, a resi-

Election set for June 27 to fill Mac's seat

Perennial candidate Dean Ray announces his intentions; two others not sure they will run

By Bill Kerna
Staff Writer

SANFORD — The mourning may not be complete, but the campaign to replace deceased City Commissioner A. A. "Mac" McClanahan will soon begin.

A special election to fill the vacancy left on the City Commission by McClanahan will be held June 27. Qualifying for the District 3 seat will begin May 1, and end at noon May 12.

According to the city's charter, a special election must be held within 90 days of McClanahan's death on Wednesday, April 19.

McClanahan was in the second year of his term. He replaced Kerry Lyons, who decided not to run for a second term. At the time, Lyons said he only wished to serve one term. He now says that he is undecided about running again.

"I'm just going to wait and see what happens," Lyons said. "I really don't know yet. I'd like to wait and pay respects to Mac."

In March 1999, McClanahan gained 361, or 68 percent of the votes in the District 3 race over Tom Carpenter and Dean Ray. Carpenter had 89 (17 percent) votes, and Ray had 79 (15 percent) votes.

Ray said that he will seek the District 3 seat. Ray is also running for the County Commission. He said he will drop out of the County Commission race if he wins the City Commission seat.

"I'll be in there," Ray said. "I can't take Mac's place, but I'd be proud to take up where he left off. His place was in people's hearts."

Meanwhile, Carpenter said that he has not decided whether to run for the City Commission.

"It really is too soon," Carpenter said. "I might run, but we can talk about that later. I'm still in mourning about Mac."

McClanahan, 74, took his own life at his Editha Circle home on Wednesday, April 19. He had suffered from illness for several months, including an undiagnosed stomach condition. McClanahan served on the City Commission from 1972 to 1979, 1987 to 1995, and 1999 to present.

Funeral services were held at the Central Baptist Church of Sanford. Interment with full military honors followed at the Evergreen Cemetery.

McClanahan served 26 years in the U.S. Navy, and retired in 1970 as Lt. Commander.

How to qualify for Sanford City Commission, District 3

End: noon, May 12
Fee: $450
Election: June 27

Candidates must live in District 3. Candidate packets will be available at the City Clerk's Office by Friday, April 28. For more information, call 407-328-2611.

Popular Sheriff's Office employee dies

By Russ White
Staff Writer

SANFORD — The flag outside the Seminole County Sheriff's office is once again at half mast following the accidental death Monday of 27-year Sheriff's Office employee, Nancy Engebretsen.

Beginning as a telecommunications specialist in 1973 and working more recently in criminal records, Engebretsen was one of the most popular employees in the department. Her husband, Jim Engebretsen, is a deputy.

The Engebretsens were married 15 years ago while on horseback. The late Sheriff John Polk married the couple.

"Nancy called herself 'the Old Mule Woman,'" Chief

Deputy Sheriff Steve Harriett said Tuesday. "She trained mules at the Engebretsen property."

Engebretsen

Harriett said that Mrs. Engebretsen was training two mules to pull a load when she was thrown and hit her head, fracturing her skull. Engebretsen was airlifted to Orange County Medical Center where she died. She was 49-years-old.

"If you made a 911 call to the sheriff, you probably spoke to Nancy," Harriett said Tuesday. "She took emergency calls for years. Everyone here knew Nancy. She was thoughtful and friendly to everyone."

"Nancy always remembered your birthday ... she'd make a special card or give you something unusual," Harriett said. "One Christmas she sent me a towel with embroidery that read, 'Mule tide greetings to you.'"

In addition to her husband, Nancy Engebretsen leaves one son, Marshal Diamond, 25.

Sheriff Don Eslinger asked that everyone keep the Engebretsen family in their prayers. A memorial service is scheduled at 11 a.m. Friday at Central Baptist Church in Sanford. Nancy Engebretsen will receive full law enforcement honors.

Celebrating Earth Day

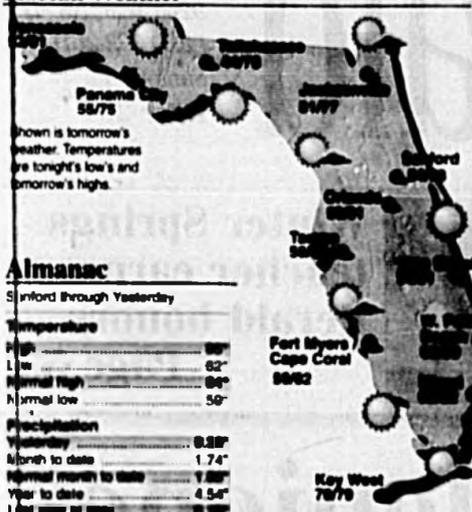

Sanford City Commissioner Brady Lessard and his son Casey receive Earth Day pins from Sanford Recreation Department Supervisor Evelyn Bennett and city landscape architect Howard Jeffries. Lessard and Jeffries spoke at the Earth Day ceremony in Fort Mellon Park, then participating in planting a Millennium Holly.

School Board OKs charter school for at-risk students

By Bill Kerne Staff Writer

SANFORD — A new charter school for at-risk students will open in August for up to 150 high school students.

The Seminole County School Board on Tuesday unanimously approved of the charter for Cyber High Charter School, clearing the way for the school to open Aug. 7 in the Riverboat Landing Shopping Plaza in Sanford, near Rays of Hope Charter School.

The charter school will offer a student-to-teacher ratio of 21-to-1, as well as expanded instruction through the Internet.

The school will customize instruction for each student, selecting a lesson plan to accommodate independent learning, school officials said.

"We're trying to help students achieve academic success by offering them a great deal of individual instruction," said Leona Rachman, director of Cyber High. "The students we work with have no doubt that they can achieve what they set their minds to."

Cyber High is the first private charter school in Florida to receive backing from a university. Nova Southeastern University provides support in personnel and on-line education services.

During the first year, only 9th and 10th grade students will attend the charter school. The school will expand to offer classes to 11th and 12th graders in the second year. In the third year, the school will receive full accreditation for issuing diplomas.

The school is designed to serve students identified as being at-risk of academic failure. Preference will be given to students who meet the following criteria:

- Score in the lower fourth of standardized tests that assess mathematics and reading skills.
- Have a grade point average of 2.0 on a 4.0 scale or below for grades 9 and 10.
- Possess writing scores of 2.0 or below on the Florida Writes exam.
- Have been retained at least one time, or if the student is two years older than the average age for the grade level.
- Students will also receive preference for admission who are deficient in credits for graduation.

Each student enrolled in the school will have at least 28 hours of instructional content per calendar week over the academic year. Instruction will be modified to fit each student, with emphasis placed on language, arts and mathematics.

The curriculum of Cyber High combines traditional and Internet instruction. It includes English, Reading, Mathematics, Sciences, Social Studies and Physical Education.

The school has met the minimum requirement of 100 enrolled students. However, Cyber High is still looking to hire additional teachers, school officials said.

against Ladoczky was revised to add a new charge of possessing a firearm during a drug-trafficking offense. If convicted, she could face 15 years to life in prison.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Matthew Perry presented evidence in a hearing last month that Ladoczky had a three-year relationship with Holley that included giving him cocaine, performing sex acts with him in her patrol car and providing details of a police investigation of his drug habit.

During a detention hearing in March, Ladoczky was released on $50,000 bail, with $10,000 paid in cash by her parents. She is confined to her parents' home and is electronically monitored 24 hours a day.

She was barred from contact with witnesses and with witnesses and law enforcement, except with her husband and agents on the case. The police department has suspended her without pay from her job.

During the March detention hearing, the prosecution played an audio-taped conversation that took place Jan. 28, in which Darlene Ladoczky told Wanda Grooms, the mother of Holley's two children and his current girlfriend, how to avoid being stopped by undercover police officers following her. She told Grooms that she could call 911 and have the cars pulled over.

The sport-utility vehicles following Grooms were, in fact, undercover police cars. The call was a set-up. Grooms had agreed to work with investigators in the hopes of helping Holley, according to the testimony of a federal drug agent.

Records presented by the prosecution at the detention hearing indicate that from Aug. 1 to Sept. 30 of 1999, Ladoczky placed 250 phone calls from her home phone to Holley's cellular phone.

Federal agent Lee Madearn of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency testified during the detention hearing that Ladoczky, a 12-year veteran of the Sanford Police Department, was so infatuated with convicted drug dealer Holley that she once stated she would "do anything" for him.

Madearn testified he provided money to Ladoczky on five occasions, ranging from $35 to $500. The $500 was to cover a mistake that was made in Ladoczky's checking account, and the smaller amounts for work on her hair and nails, Madearn testified. Ladoczky admitted to receiving money from Holley, Madearn said.

The DEA and Sanford Police Department investigated the actions of Ladoczky for six months before she was arrested in March.

Madearn said his testimony was primarily based upon statements made by Holley as well as evidence and interviews with several associates of Holley.

Holley told investigators that early in the relationship, Ladoczky tipped him off to a wiretap that had been placed on his phone, Madearn said.

Undercover officers had already videotaped purchases of crack cocaine from Holley on Aug. 25, Sept. 2, Sept. 9, and Sept. 17. Ultimately, 72 grams of crack were seized. He was arrested Nov. 22, and agreed to cooperate with agents in the investigation of Ladoczky's actions in the hope of a more lenient sentence.

In addition to providing Holley with information about investigations, Madearn said Ladoczky also supplied Holley with about an ounce of crack cocaine on one occasion.

In the early fall 1999, Madearn said that Ladoczky met Holley at his aunt's house at 105 Country Club Circle and gave him about one ounce of crack cocaine which had been seized at Lake Monroe Terrace, a public housing project in Sanford. Holley told investigators he re-sold the cocaine.

Police have no physical evidence that Ladoczky provided Holley with cocaine, and she denies the charge. After his arrest, Holley told investigators the exchange took place, Madearn said.

Ladoczky's lawyer, Charles Greene, contends that without physical evidence to prove his client supplied Holley with crack cocaine, the conspiracy charge is weak.

Ladoczky was a member of the Special Investigations Unit housed at the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, which handles drug investigations in the Goldsboro area of Sanford.

Darlene Ladoczky has been married to Longwood police officer Robert Ladoczky for 10 years. The 12-year veteran Longwood police officer had testified that he has never known his wife to use drugs or associate with drug dealers, insisting that the charges against her have yet to be proven.

dence for the elderly poor which also reserves a number of beds for homeless persons.

"Now and then someone would try to stop Harry from doing his mission," Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said. "One fellow threatened to shoot him. Didn't bother Harry. He just kept on plugging away. He's one of a kind. Bold, energetic, and kind."

"The greatest revenge of all," County Commissioner Randy Morris said jokingly, "is that Harry lived past all of his enemies. We're honored to have you here today and to have the opportunity to recognize all you did for the community."

Name the committee and chances are, Harry Hagle served on it — Planning & Zoning, Board of Adjustment, Seminole County Port Authority, Affordable Housing Task Force.

Hagle, Lieutenant JG in World War II, was born in Newburgh, N.Y., which he said is just above West Point. He was a track and basketball coach and taught at Des Moines (Iowa) High School before the War. He was in the heating business after service.

"I should be thanking you for the opportunity given to me to serve on the various boards," Hagle told the county commissioners. "Not many of us get that chance. This is a very special day — you are sincere loving friends. I am sorry my wife, Simona, cannot be here. Her heart is here, I assure you."

The Hagles have been married 56 years. Their three children, Mark, Ross and Joan attended Tuesday's celebration — a fine hour reserved for a fine citizen.

Ms Reno, please come to Sanford

Having rescued Elian Gonzalez from life without his father, U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno might want to solve the 'soup kitchen dilemma' that has pitted neighbor against neighbor in the Friendly City of Sanford.

This one shouldn't require federal storm troopers.

Should you accept our plea for help, Ms Reno, here's what's happening — a woman who wants to feed the needy is being opposed by a number of Historic District residents who prefer the woman do the feeding in some other neighborhood.

A mediator suggested a settlement that each party agreed to — but the city commission failed to stamp its approval. Now, that the city has said, "go," the plaintiff parties that originally agreed are saying, "no."

This ought to be a piece of cake — or chicken soup — for you, dear Attorney General.

Just as in the Elian custody battle, this is law not sentiment. We all know what is morally right, what God has taught us in the Bible. This is legal right against wrong. Does the law allow a soup kitchen to operate so close to where real people live?

Ms Reno, we don't want violence to break out in historic Sanford. As you know, this was once the Celery Capital of the World, the gateway to the paradise off the St. Johns. Mullet abounds here. So do midgets. Wait till you see Ft. Mellon Park. Captain Mellon died trying to save it.

Much of the kitchen controversy concerns a woman very much like yourself, Ms Reno — strong-willed, sensitive to a fault, smart and sassy. Her name is Jean Metts, and she's been doing volunteer work for many years. She's a tiger, all right.

Those opposing her are among the city's smart-set — well-groomed, civic leaders, theater goers (you must stay for the opening of the Helen Stairs Theatre, Ms Reno). Each has a nice home, front porches, luxurious lawns, precious plants and flowers.

There must be some way to feed those who can't afford meals and protect the splendor of those who dine with silver spoons.

You know, we're wondering about Elian. What's life going to be for the little fellow when he and his dad return to Cuba? Do you suppose Uncle Fidel will have a feast knowing that he was able to snatch Elian from Uncle Sam. Couldn't have done it without you, ma'am.

While you're on a roll, please come to Sanford.

Opinion

Vietnam 25 The good, bad and ugly

Twenty-five years after the fall of Vietnam, Americans are studying the ashes.

David Halberstam, whose "Best and the Brightest" showed how the elite led us into the jungle, offers us a tad of optimism. "There's something quite outstanding about America today," he ventured at the Brookings Institution seminar this week.

Could it be that this adventurous, hi-tech economy of ours owes a seedling of its genesis to the brazenly exploratory politics of the anti-war 1960s? That minds liberated by their generation's rebellion have exploded into a revolution every bit as iconoclastic?

Mary McGrory, the liberal columnist so sickened by Vietnam that she has refused for three decades to even watch a movie about it, finds hope in the late presidential campaign of Senator John McCain.

Chris Matthews

"He made it possible for people who were opposed to the war to look up to him, to admire him and to vote for him."

Halberstam pointed to "a certain nobility" in the way that McCain used the drama of his Vietnam captivity — not to wedge people apart as Richard Nixon did, but to bring voters of varying views together.

He finds the Democratic party still suffering from its horrid divisions from the Vietnam years. He imagines a giant football stadium where one team led by Robert Kennedy, Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern battles another led by Hubert Humphrey and Henry "Scoop" Jackson with tens of thousands of Republicans cheering from the stands.

"What is the foreign policy of the present administration?" he wonders aloud.

Even in 2000, Halberstam argues, President Bill Clinton is unable to state and execute a clear, explicable American policy toward the world. One reason is the "CNN effect," the ability of voters to see and count the casualties of war 24 hours a day. A dead G.I. is dragged through the streets of Mogadishu with the people back home watching the repellent image.

All this began, Halberstam notes, with the Vietnam conflict, which entered our national consciousness as "the living-room war."

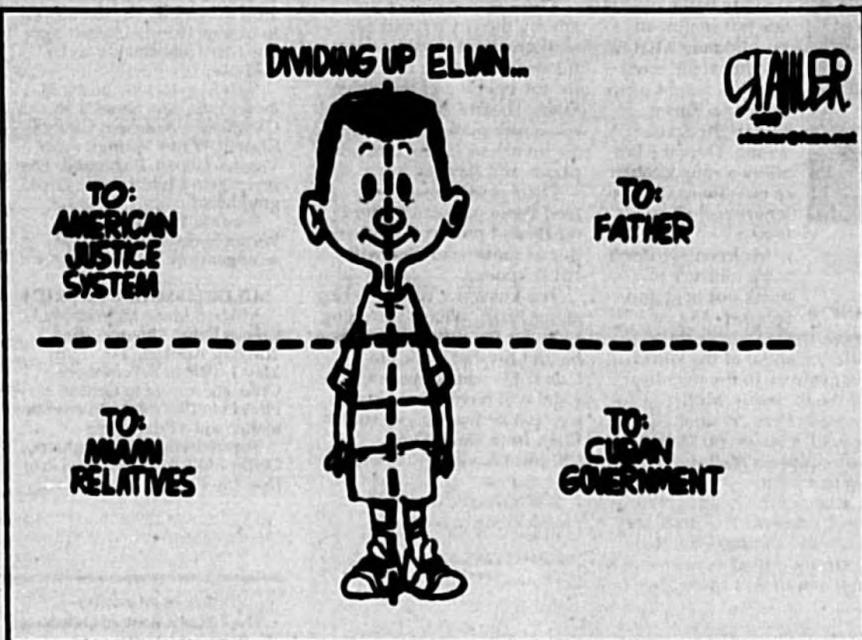

Richard Haas, a national security aide to President Bush, notes another legacy of that war: the termination of the draft and its replacement by an all-volunteer army.

One casualty has been the shared national experience of having been "in the service." Instead of being the great "leveler," Haas argues, military service is now the great divider, separating those who fight from those civilians who commit them to the fight. Presidents now find themselves surrounded by Ivy League-schooled advisers who never fought in war and know they didn't. They and their aides sit across the table from generals dripping in medals who wonder what these over-educated pencil necks know about war.

All things to consider as we commemorate the quarter-century anniversary of an event few of us could have imagined till it actually happened: the collapse of Saigon and, with it, a notion of American power and goodness.

(Chris Matthews, chief of the San Francisco Examiner's Washington Bureau, is host of "Hardball" on CNBC and MSNBC cable channels. The 1999 edition of "Hardball" has been recently published by Touchstone Books.)

Your View

Gailey thanks Stinecipher for her 'View'

To the editor:
We would like to thank you for the "Vintage View" pictures and items written by Grace Stinecipher.

We have lived in Sanford all our life and enjoy the Seminole Herald and look forward to the days The Vintage View is printed. We are among the fortunate to have known some of the people and occasions she writes about. We send some of the clippings to family members who live out of the area, and they enjoy them too!

Grace does a nice job of bringing back fond memories of our community. The most recent picture and write up was of the former Fire Chiefs was awesome and special since one of them was William C. Gailey.

Please thank her for taking the time to share with others the important occasions of the past. It is awesome, and we enjoy it.

May God bless you.
Sincerely,
Cynthia Gailey

Childrens' lack of conscience due to society

To the editor:
It started when Madeline Murray O'Hare complained she didn't want any prayer in our schools, and we said OK. Then someone said you better not read the Bible in school, the Bible that says thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not steal, and love your neighbor as yourself. And we said, OK.

Dr. Benjamin Spock said we shouldn't spank our children when they misbehave because their little personalities would be warped and we might damage their self-esteem. And we said, an expert should know what he's talking about so we won't spank them anymore.

Then someone said teachers and principals better not discipline our children when they misbehave. And the school administrators said no faculty member in this school better touch a student when they misbehave because we don't want any bad publicity, and we surely don't want to be sued. And we accepted their reasoning.

Then someone said, let's let our daughters have abortions if they want, and they won't even have to tell their parents. And we said, that's a grand idea.

Then some wise school board member said, since boys will be boys and they're going to do it anyway, let's give our sons all the condoms they want. They can have all the fun they desire, and we won't have to tell their parents they got them at school. And we said, that's another great idea.

Then some of our top elected officials said it doesn't matter what we do in private as long as we do our jobs. And agreeing with them, we said it doesn't matter to me what anyone, including the President, does in private as long as I have a job and the economy is good.

And then someone said let's print magazines with pictures of nude women and call it wholesome down-to-earth appreciation for the beauty of the female body. And we said we have no problem with that.

And someone else took that appreciation a step further and published pictures of children and then stepped further still by making them available on the internet. And we said they're entitled to their free speech.

And the entertainment industry said, let's make TV shows and movies that promote profanity, violence, and illicit sex.

And let's record music that encourages rape, drugs, murder, suicide, and satanic themes. And we said it's just entertainment, it has no adverse effect, and nobody takes it seriously anyway, so go right ahead.

Therefore, now we're asking ourselves why our children have no conscience, why they don't know right from wrong, and why it doesn't bother them to kill strangers, their classmates, and themselves. If we think about it long and hard enough it adds up to "We reap what we sow."

Ultraconservatives —leave Miranda alone

It's a strange time for an assault on Miranda, the landmark Supreme Court ruling that insisted criminal suspects be informed of their constitutional right against self-incrimination. In the 34 years that Miranda warnings have been part of the legal landscape and popular culture — "You have the right to remain silent..." — good police officers have learned to use it to their advantage.

Yet ultraconservative legal activists, with the support of overzealous prosecutors, have challenged that well-known precedent of the Warren Court, claiming that police officers should be able to admit any "voluntary" confession, even if the suspect has not been read the Miranda warning.

Why? Miranda has posed no threat to credible law enforcement. Across America, homicide and robbery are at their lowest rates in three decades. Indeed, some would argue that Miranda allows police to use more psychological coercion in gaining confessions than would be permitted without the warnings.

There is no reason to believe that mobs of criminals are being let loose because of the "technicalities" presented by the constitutional requirement to administer the Miranda warnings.

But there is plenty of evidence on the other side — plenty of reason to believe that the innocent are being convicted of crimes they did not commit.

Even with the Miranda warnings, innocent criminal defendants fall victim to incompetent lawyers, politically motivated prosecutors and overly aggressive police who want to clear cases.

Since 1976, more than 80 inmates have been freed from death row because of evidence that showed their innocence. That doesn't count hundreds more who have been freed after being wrongly convicted of lesser crimes. If Miranda is reversed by the U.S. Supreme Court, more men and women will go to jail for crimes they did not commit.

There are few worse things the state can do to a citizen than to send him to jail for something he did not do. That's why the U.S. Constitution builds in protections for criminal defendants. Indeed, the Founding Fathers believed that it was better for a guilty man to go free than for an innocent man to be imprisoned.

Despite those built-in protections, however, the state exercises an awesome power when it accuses a citizen of a crime. The experience can be so intimidating that suspects sometimes confess to crimes they didn't commit, even after they've been read their rights.

In fact, the Miranda warnings may have made it easier for police, since judges are inclined to accept confessions, even if they were obtained through trickery or fraud, as long as the suspects were read their rights, according to University of Virginia law professor Anne Coughlin.

"Interrogators have developed a variety of psychological strategies to overcome (suspects') reluctance to talk. For example, officers frequently advise suspects that they have conclusive evidence of their guilt... when they have no such evidence at all... Sure the police have to give the warnings, but reciting those four sentences is a piece of cake. (Then) the cops are home free," she wrote last December. Police may not legally use physical violence, but intimidation, coercion and harassment are commonplace.

Still, it seems to me the Miranda warnings give the average citizen a reasonable protection in the midst of very difficult circumstances. With a criminal justice system too often prone to convict the innocent, the requirement that suspects be read their rights should not be overturned.

Education

Herald Teacher of the Week

Patti Crooks, who teaches ESE math and consumer economics at Wivier Springs High School, is the Seminole Herald Teacher of the Week. A 10-year veteran teacher, this is her third year at Wivier Springs High School.

From the time she was a teenager, Crooks knew she wanted to teach exceptional students. Her younger sister Maureen has Down syndrome.

Crooks holds a bachelor's in education from the University of Texas and is certified in varying exceptionalities. She recently shared her views on a variety of topics with Herald Staff Writer Bill Kerns.

Patti Crooks

Favorite part of teaching: "When you're so involved in an activity that the kids don't realize they're learning."

Most memorable experience as a teacher: "I had a pair of 18-year-olds in class who still were not able to count change. I knew that I had something to do with them successfully learning to count change after years of trying, and they are probably still practicing today."

Biggest challenge for teachers: "For me, I know it's really sad to know that some students go home each day to situations and environments that kids should not have to deal with."

Advice for parents: "Let your kids know that learning should never stop. Whether it is working on a job or simply programming the camcorder at home."

Advice for students: "Do it until you master it. The students don't always like that very much. They get tired of practicing."

Advice for new or prospective teachers: "Keep in mind the reason you became a teacher. Policies and trends will change."

Best advice you have ever received: "You have a special gift — use it. People have constantly told me I have patience, and I'm using it."

Person(s) who have inspired you: "Definitely my sister Maureen, who has Down syndrome. When I would accompany my mother to pick her up at elementary school, even though she had been teased by the kids she would hold her head up high. She didn't want my mother to think that anything was wrong. I knew when I was 14 what I wanted to be."

Favorite book or inspirational message: "The Red Stewart song 'Forever Young.' Especially the words 'when you finally fly away I'll be hoping that I served you well. For all the wisdom of a lifetime, no one can ever tell.'"

Hobbies: "I love any kind of project. But, with four kids of my own my hobbies have become watching them play sports."

If you would like to nominate a teacher for the Herald's Teacher of the Week, contact Herald Editor Dan Ping or Staff Writer Bill Kerns by fax, 407-323-9408, or E-mail, sbesdit@tdaol.com.

DEAR ABBY: I have read the letter from "Hank in Tacoma" — who was upset because his sister-in-law had urged his brother "Eric" into therapy and freed him from years of servitude to his family — I must admit I was surprised that you didn't let Hank and the rest of the family have it!

Dear Abby

Apparently Hank feels it is Eric's wife's fault that his brother has found his backbone. How dare Hank and the family make judgments about Eric's wife without even taking Eric up on his offer to join him in counseling sessions to learn more about the changes that are taking place.

Finally, how dare Eric put his children and wife first? Why, Abby, if more spouses put their significant other and children first, perhaps we would have fewer divorces and happier families in this world.

SUZANNE IN SAN FRANCISCO

P.S. There was one thing I didn't understand in your answer. What did you mean, "Eric has slipped his chain"?

DEAR SUZANNE: Simply put, it means, "freed himself from his shackles." When I wrote the phrase, I was envisioning a dog escaping from his training collar, or choke chain.

That letter generated a ton of response. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: In today's paper I read the letter from "Hank in Tacoma," and I recognize his family!

Hank: Wake up! Your brother Eric is no longer the family doormat.

Hank wrote, "He used to always put his family first, but now he favors his wife and children." Guess what a wife and children are. Hank? That's right, a family — Eric's family.

Eric is finally a person in his own right, thanks to his insightful wife, and he's probably happier than he has ever been. If he no longer squires your mother around town because Pop "doesn't like those events," perhaps YOU should jump in and volunteer to be the escort now and then. And you might find yourself the favored sibling, the one with all the footprints on his back from "your" family walking all over you! Good luck, Hank, and give my love and admiration to your brother, Eric.

FORMER DOORMAT IN DELAWARE

DEAR ABBY: Was "Hank in Tacoma" for real? By favoring his wife and children, Eric is putting his family first. Hooray for the new Eric. He sounds like a healthy adult and good husband and father to boot.

JACQUELINE M. IN LA.

DEAR ABBY: Please pass my message on to Eric in Tacoma. Good for you, Eric. You have obviously made some tough but important changes in your life, and you clearly have married well.

As to the family: Too bad Eric won't let you bully him anymore, but don't worry, you'll get over it. If you're lucky, you'll learn to appreciate him and his family.

It's time Americans reclaim the doughnut

I hate to sound like an alarmist, but our breakfast breads are going down the tubes. The flabby roll now served as a "croissant" in fast-food restaurants, for example, has nothing but its name in common with the light, multilayered, flaky crescent produced by trained bakers.

Likewise, the puffed-up rounds of dough ostentatiously masquerading as "bagels" these days have nothing to do with the chewy, boiled then-baked creations that old-fashioned artisans used to produce by the bushel. But I think the worst indignity has been heaped on the doughnut. Croissants and bagels, after all, are imports, and many Americans shouldn't be blamed if they can't tell the good ones from the bad. But a crummy doughnut?

Marialisa Calta

Come on, the days when every town had a baker who knew how to turn out impeccably-crafted doughnuts — sugared, filled and glazed — for the breakfast rush. Now we are stuck with flaccid, greasy, way-too-sweet horrors peddled by fast-food chains. Enough complaining. It's time to reclaim the doughnut. The good news is, it's surprisingly easy. Making doughnuts is not a whole lot harder than, say, baking a cake. Once you get the hang of frying them, you've got it licked. The recipes below are for simple, cake-like doughnuts, not the raised kind made with yeast. Think of them as beginner doughnuts. Master them, and move on.

Tips for making doughnuts: — Let the cut, uncooked doughnuts sit for 10 to 15 minutes before you fry them.

— If you don't have a fry-pan, use a Dutch oven or a wok. You will need to have about 3 inches of vegetable oil in the pan. Ten cups (3 pounds) of solid vegetable shortening works for a 4-quart Dutch oven.

— Heat the oil until it reaches 350 to 375 degrees. Use a candy/deep-fry thermometer to monitor the temperature, and adjust the heat as you cook to keep it steady.

— If you don't have a doughnut cutter, use two spoons to make doughnut holes (see recipe for Buttermilk Doughnut Holes, below).

— Don't crowd the pan. Fry a few at a time to prevent breakage.

— If topping with sugar or cinnamon, do it while doughnuts are still warm.

— Cake-like doughnuts freeze well. If you aren't going to eat them immediately, seal them in freezer bag and freeze up to a month.

PLAIN DOUGHNUTS

3-1/3 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 tablespoons solid vegetable shortening
2 eggs
3/4 cup milk, preferably whole milk

Solid vegetable shortening or vegetable oil, for deep-frying; confectioners' sugar, for dusting

Line a baking sheet with paper towels or a brown paper bag. In a large mixing bowl, stir together the flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon. Using a pastry blender or two knives, cut in the 2 tablespoons solid vegetable shortening.

In a small bowl, mix together the eggs and milk. Add to the dry ingredients and stir.

On a well-floured surface, pat the dough out until it is 1-inch thick. Cut the doughnuts with a well-floured doughnut cutter. Allow them to rest for about 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, heat 3 inches of oil in a Dutch oven until it reaches about 360 degrees as measured by a candy/deep-fry thermometer.

Using tongs, drop the doughnuts and the holes into the hot oil, a few at a time. Cook until quite brown, turning once, for about 3 minutes. Drain on the prepared baking sheet. Serve plain, or dust — while still warm — with confectioners' sugar.

Enjoy immediately or freeze up to a month. Yield: If you use a 2-1/2-inch doughnut cutter, you will have a dozen doughnuts and holes.

BROWN SUGAR DOUGHNUTS

2 cups brown sugar
2 cups cake flour
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1 egg yolk
4 tablespoons butter, melted
Vegetable oil or solid vegetable shortening, for deep-frying

Line a baking sheet with paper towels or a brown paper bag. Sift all the dry ingredients together into a large mixing bowl. In another bowl, whisk together the milk, eggs, egg yolk and the melted butter (be sure the melted butter has cooled a little). Pour into the dry ingredients and stir.

Cover and refrigerate 30 to 60 minutes.

On a well-floured surface, pat out the dough into a circle about 1-1/2-inch thick. Cut the doughnuts with a well-floured doughnut cutter. Allow them to rest for about 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, heat the oil until it reaches about 360 degrees as measured by a candy/deep-fry thermometer.

Using tongs, drop the doughnuts and the holes into the hot oil, a few at a time. Cook until quite brown, turning once during cooking — about 3 minutes. Drain on the prepared baking sheet.

While still warm, dust with confectioners' sugar. Enjoy immediately or freeze up to a month. Yield: If you use a 2-1/2-inch doughnut cutter, you will have about a dozen doughnuts and holes.

Solar Bears begin quest for Turner Cup tonight

ORLANDO - The Orlando Solar Bears begin the quest for the franchise's first International Hockey League Turner Cup championship this week as the squad begins the 2000 postseason with a best-of-seven series against the Cincinnati Cyclones.

The series opens tonight (Wednesday) with a 7 p.m. contest at TD Waterhouse Centre (formerly Orlando Arena).

With a record of 47-23-12 (108 points), Orlando will be the Eastern Conference's #2 seed during the 2000 Turner Cup Playoffs. The Solar Bears have qualified for the IHL postseason in all five seasons of the club's existence and have twice advanced to the Turner Cup Finals (1996, 1998).

The Cyclones will be making their seventh consecutive trip to the Turner Cup Playoffs, having qualified as the Eastern Conference's #3 seed with a 44-30-8 mark (96 points).

Orlando posted a record of 6-3-2 versus Cincinnati this season, including a 5-1-0 road mark against the Cyclones. The Solar Bears won the last meeting of the 1999-2000 regular season between the two squads, claiming a 5-1 victory on April 4 at Firstar Center in Cincinnati.

Orlando leads the all-time series with a mark of 21-11-4 against the Cyclones, 10-6-2 at TD Waterhouse Centre and 11-5-2 in Cincinnati.

The two clubs have met once in IHL playoff competition with the Solar Bears claiming a 4-3 series victory in the 1996 Eastern Conference Finals.

Orlando was led offensively in the season series versus the Cyclones by right wing Herbert Vaaljeva 16 points on four goals and 12 assists. The Cincinnati offense was sparked by left wing Gilbert Dionne's 14 points on six goals and eight assists in the 11 regular season matchups between the clubs.

Solar Bears netminder Richard Shulmeister made three starts against the Cyclones, posting a 2-0-1 mark with a 2.33 goals against average (GAA) and a .894 save percentage (SPCT). Cincinnati's Randy Potruk started five games against Orlando during the 1999-2000 regular season, notching a 3-2-0 record with a 4.38 GAA and a .882 SPCT.

The following is the full schedule for the Eastern Conference Semifinals between Orlando and Cincinnati:

Winter Springs boys pull away from Oviedo in District 3 finals

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

WINTER SPRINGS - Winter Springs scored six consecutive goals in the second half to pull away from Oviedo and defeat the Lions 11-5, winning the District 3 boys lacrosse championship at home Tuesday night.

Oviedo (7-6) overcame a 4-0 first quarter deficit to tie the contest 5-5 on goals by Jason McDonald and Bryan Van Dahlen early in the third quarter. Then, the No. 1 ranked Bears (11-3) took over the contest.

Eric Blake scored three of his five goals in the fourth quarter, and Mike Robinson also scored in the final period.

"They could have blown us out, but we scratched and clawed our way back," said Eddie Norton, Oviedo's head coach. "We kept it close, but they broke it open in the end. Give them credit."

Blake's five goals for the Bears were a game-high. Brian Curran also scored three goals for Winter Springs. Meanwhile, Brian Jones scored twice for Oviedo.

The loss represented a disappointing finish for an Oviedo team which defied the odds throughout the year, and came into the tournament ranked No. 3.

"We felt we hadn't played as well as we could have," Norton said. "Winter Springs had a lot to do with that, though. Our guys deserve credit for just getting in this position. A lot of people never thought we could get this far."

Winter Springs will now take on District 4 champion Lake Brantley (15-2) in the first round of the regionals on Thursday.

The regional finals will be on Friday with the winner's advancing to the State Championship Game opposite the South Regional winners at Disney's Wide World of Sports complex on Saturday, May 13th.

Seminole advances to 5A-5 title game

SANFORD - All season long the Seminole High School baseball team has been unable to generate much offense.

Such was not the case Tuesday evening.

Lead-off man Chris Krall had three hits, including a home run, and drove in six runs as the Fighting Seminoles walked past Lyman, 14-3, in the semifinals of the Class 5A-District 5 Baseball Tournament on Rinker-Stenstrom Field at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium.

Krall was one of three Triple players to get three hits in the game as the hosts ripped the ball for 17 hits, including five for extra bases, to back the pitching of senior lefthander Brian Nielsen.

Nielsen (4-5) scattered eight hits over six innings before leaving with a slightly sprained ankle in favor of Dominick Petracca, who worked a scoreless seventh inning.

Nielsen allowed three earned runs in the third inning and left the game with six strike outs, two walks and two hit batters.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Host Lake Brantley appeared headed for a shot at No. 1 seeded Lake Mary holding a 3-0 lead late in its Class 6A-District 3 Tournament Quarterfinal game on Tuesday.

But DeLand rallied to tie the score and then rallied again in the seventh inning, ousting the Patriots, 5-4.

Lake Brantley, which had been playing very well late in the season, broke a scoreless tie with a run in the top of the fourth inning and then tacked on a pair of runs to its lead in the top of the fifth inning.

But the No. 5 seeded Bulldogs evened the game by scoring three runs in the bottom of the fifth inning.

After a scoreless sixth inning, the Patriots took the lead again with a run in the top of the seventh inning before DeLand came back again, plating the tying and See Softball, Page 2B

Former Seminole High School star Tim Raines Jr. is blazing a record-setting trail for the Class A Frederick (Md.) Keys, having stolen 22 bases, without being caught, in just 17 games. The outfielder, a 1998 Baltimore Orioles draftee, is hitting just .238, but has scored a team-high 18 runs.

FREDERICK, MARYLAND - Former Seminole High School star Tim Raines Jr. is following in the fleet feet of his famous father, and in fact, may be bettering him.

The younger Raines, a 1998 SHS graduate, has gotten off to a tremendous start with the Class A Frederick Keys of the Baltimore Orioles Organization, having stolen 22 bases in just 17 games and has yet to be caught stealing.

The outfielder is hitting .238 with 15 hits, including two doubles and a home run, driven in four runs and scored a team-high 18 runs. He has also walked 13 times.

Another ex-Fighting Seminole, David Eckstein, who was one of the top players in the Minor League's last year and was the No. 1 pick in the Winter League draft and was with the Major League Boston Red Sox in Spring Training, has gotten off to a slow start offensively in his first season with the Class AAA Pawtucket PawSox, hitting just .198 through 13 games.

But the lightning quick second baseman, who holds many University of Florida records, still has pretty good stats, with nine hits, including a pair of doubles, two RBI, eight runs scored, seven walks, two stolen bases and a .339 on base percentage. He has also been hit by a pitch three times.

Yet another former SHS standout, Lance Odum, left Daytona Beach Community College after his freshman year and signed with the Minnesota Twins. The hard-throwing righthander is pitching with the Quad City River Bandits in the Midwest League, a Class A Minnesota Twins team, and had no record and a 7.94 ERA.

Former Lake Brantley star shortstop Felipe Lopez is hitting .290 with two home runs and five RBI with a Toronto Blue Jays minor league team, and former Oviedo High School and Auburn University second baseman Mark Bellhorn is hitting .184 with four RBI with the Oakland Athletics AAA squad.

Infielder Chris Lourisma from Seminole High School is working out in Melbourne at extended Spring Training with the Florida Marlins but will soon be heading for the Marlins' Class A team in the New York/Penn League in New York.

No information is currently available on Oviedo's Ben Knapp, a Baltimore Oriole pitcher; Seminole High first baseman Clyde "CS" Williams III, a Montreal Expo farmhand; and Oviedo/UCF outfielder Todd Bellhorn.

Baseball

Seminole got to Greyhounds starter Paul Cross, with some help from the Lyman defense, in the top of the second inning.

Jason Louwsma led off with an infield single and advanced to second when Jacob Davis reached on an error.

Cross then threw the ball into centerfield on a pick off attempt and the runners went to second and third. After a ground out, Willie Bennett, a football star who showed Tuesday that he's a pretty good baseball player too, bounced a ball over the Greyhound first baseman for an infield hit, with Louwsma crossing the plate.

After a strike out, Krall reached on the third Greyhounds error of the inning, allowing Davis to score.

The Fighting Seminoles increased the lead to 5-0 in the third inning, chasing Cross.

Chris Bahaund led off with single to center and was safe at second when the Lyman short-stop dropped a throw after and attempted bunt by Louwsma. After a pop up, Uriah Kimmig forced Louwsma at second before Bennett ripped a double into the right-centerfield gap, scoring Bahaund and moving Kimmig over to third.

Will Troutman walked to load the bases before Krall lined a two-run single to center. After Anthony DiFonso walked to reload the bases, Cross was lifted in favor of Paul Wojtowicz and he got a ground out to end the inning.

The Greyhounds finally got to Nielsen in the bottom of the third inning and put themselves back into the game.

Chris Ballard led off with a walk and moved to second on a ground out by Mike Cahill. J.T. Williamson then clobbered the first of back-to-back booming doubles to score Ballard and he scored on Wojtowicz' two-bagger. Wojtowicz advanced on a grounder by Kyle Sommerville and scored on a single by Cross, making the score 5-3.

Lyman would have several more chances to score in the game, putting two runners on base in the fourth, sixth and seventh inning, but each time Nielsen and Dominick Petracca were able to get the big out to keep the Greyhounds at bay.

Seminole started to put the game away in the fifth inning, scoring two runs.

Bennett reached on an error to open the inning and then went all the way to third on a wild pick-off. With one out, Krall singled to center to score Bennett and DiFonso singled and Angelo Petracca walked to load the bases, before Krall scored on a single by Bahaund to make the score 7-3.

In the sixth inning, Kimmig singled with two out and Bennett and Troutman smacked back-to-back singles to score Kimmig before Krall crushed a line drive into the fence above the 330 foot sign in left for a three run home run.

The Fighting Seminoles closed out the scoring in the top of the seventh inning as Angelo Petracca tripled off the wall in center and scored on a passed ball. Bahaund got his third hit on a shot off the pitcher's glove and Louwsma walked before Davis doubled to deep right, scoring Bahaund and pinch-runner Justin Cooper to complete the scoring.

Krall did what lead off man is supposed to do, get on base. He led the Tribe attack, going 3-for-4, including the home run, was hit by a pitch, reached on an error, scored two runs and drove in six.

Also contributing were Bennett (3-for-5, double, three runs, two RBI), Bahaund (3-for-5, two runs, RBI), Angelo Petracca (2-for-4, triple, double, run), Kimmig (2-for-5, run), Davis (double, run, two RBI), Troutman (single, run, RBI), Louwsma (single, two runs), DiFonso (single) and Cooper (run scored). Providing the offense for Lyman (12-16) were Williamson (2-for-4, double, run, RBI), Cahill (2-for-4), Sommerville (2-for-4), Wojtowicz (double, run, RBI), Cross (single, RBI), Ballard (single, run) and Matt Ruttkay (single).

With the victory the Fighting Seminoles (13-15) automatically earned a spot in next week's regional play and will take on No. 1 seeded Lake Howell, which also already has a guaranteed spot in the regionals in the district Championship Game this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on Rinker-Stenstrom Field at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The game has significance because the winner will earn a home game in the regionals, but it would also be the Silver Hawks' first ever district title should they win and would be the Tribe's fourth straight district crown if they can pull off the upset.

The Class 6A District 3 Tournament will get back into action this evening at Lake Brantley High School with No. 1 seeded Oviedo taking on No. 5 seeded DeLand at 5:30 p.m. and No. 2 seeded Lake Mary backing the No. 3 seeded Patriots at 6 p.m.

Tonight's winners will advance to Friday's 8 p.m. Championship Game at Lake Brantley High School and automatically secure a spot in the regionals.

Bombats, Liberty Mutual I open Lake Mary AAA Co-Ed Spring League with wins

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

LAKE MARY - The Bombats eked out a sweep and Liberty Mutual I nipped I.S. as the City of Lake Mary Parks and Recreation Spring AAA Co-Ed Slow Pitch Softball League opened its season last Wednesday night at the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

San Johannes' three-run home run in the bottom of the sixth inning after a pair of walks erased an 11-10 deficit and gave the Bombats a 13-11 victory over Cross Bones to get the season off to an exciting beginning.

The Bombats then built a 12-0 lead on the strength of an 11-run second inning highlighted by Dave Marchand's grand slam in the second game, but Liberty Mutual II fought back to make a game of it before falling 19-13.

In the nightcap, Liberty Mutual I trailed 9-6 before exploding for five runs in the bottom of the fifth inning with Jason Proodian hitting a three-run home run and a two-run triple by Rich Notaro.

I.S. got a run back and had the tying run on second with one out, but could not score again as Liberty Mutual I held on 11-10.
