MOSQUITOES: Swarming Bugs Blamed In Two Accidents, Business Damage Thousands Of Dollars

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Swarming blind mosquitoes blitzed the Sanford lakefront Wednesday night and early today causing thousands of dollars damage in two traffic accidents and shorted out a neon sign at the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe.

Sanford police said the millions of little black midget mosquitoes, hatching in increasing numbers for several months on the Lake Monroe waterfront, were major contributing factors in the accidents in which a tractor-trailer and an auto collided with utility poles.

Dead mosquitoes on U.S. 17-92, along Lake Monroe coupled with rain, coated the highway, turning it into a slippery traffic hazard. Patrolman Richard Bennett said the truck, driven by William F. Pratt, of 118 Country Club Circle, Sanford, skidded on the slick roadway, jackknifed and the tractor stuck a light pole. Pratt wasn't injured and no charges were filed. Bennett said.

Several hours later, at 6:30 a.m.,Gordon J. Padgett, 18, of DeBary, lost control of his compact sedan on the slick roadway and it collided with a steel pole at U.S. 17-92 and Seminole Boulevard, police said. Patrolman Larry Monti said Padgett was treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital for facial injuries. His auto was termed a total loss.

The car hit a swarm of blind mosquitoes "that covered the windshield and headlights completely so he could hardly see," Monti reported. No charges were filed in the accident.

Lanny Greene, manager at Holiday Inn on the lakefront, said today that the pesky midges coated the motel's large neon sign so thick Wednesday night that they caused an electrical short and a transformer burned out.

"It's going to cost $2,000 to repair the sign," Greene said. The blind mosquitoes have been worse than ever this season, Greene said, "and cleanup and repair costs at the motel due to the pesky insects the last three months has already topped $42,000 the cost for a five month period last year."

"I'm buying 62 new room air conditioning units now," Greene said. The mosquitoes clog air conditioner intakes and coat the filters cutting the useable life of the air conditioners to about three years - half normal use expectancy, he said.

"It's terrible," Greene said of the mosquito blitz. "The rains appear to be causing them to hatch in three-day cycles. They get super bad then ease up for about three days and then it's super had again."

The county's agricultural center said the mosquitoes actually aren't blind and their eggs hatch in two-to-seven days from the mud and stagnant waters along the weed-choked shoreline of Lake Monroe. The adults live about 10 days, duri- which the female returns and deposits about 850 eggs on the water's surface. These sink to the bottom and many are eaten by fish. Russian Experiments Show

White Amur Useful In Eliminating Hydrilla Weeds

By MARK WEINBERG Herald Staff Writer

A study of experiments conducted in Russia with the Asian weed-eating fish called the white amur confirms the fish would be useful in Seliminating South American hydrilla weeds from Lake Orienta, says an Altamonte Springs city commissioner.

The commissioner, Sandra Glenn, led an unsuccessful attempt earlier this year by the Altamonte Springs City Commission to gain approval from the Seminole County Commission to stock the white amur in Lake Orienta.

She doesn't intend to bring any white amur proposals before the county commission at this time because she doesn't think the county commission would support any such proposal Mrs. Glenn said today.

"The se reaffirms the fact that theish are a good possibility use in an ongoing program weed control at the lake," ac ting to Mrs. Glenn. experimeally in 13 of Florida's 50,000 lakes to determine the fish's usefulness in eliminating hydrilla and other weeds.

Orange county is experimenting with the white amur in Lake Holden, and the weed-eating fish is the subject of experiments in Madison Pond (Madison County) and Broward Pond (Broward County.)

Dr. Miley's study of the white amur in Russia concluded that: -The amur would be most effective for control of aquatic weeds in "small enclosed bodies of water," with no natural outflow into streams or rivers.

Reproduction and massive stocking of the amur in flowing bodies of water "has not resulted in the establishment of large populations" of the fish. - The weed-eating fish ad-

-The amur could become acclimated to Florida's environment and reproduce, but "it is quite unlikely to result in the establishment of large populations of grass carp."

As Anita Approaches Texas

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) - Hurricane Anita moved toward the Texas Gulf Coast today, her 100-mile-per-hour winds causing coastal residents to board up homes, secure boats and flee inland from lowlying areas. Larry Mooney, chief forecaster for the National Weather Service in Corpus Christi, predicted that the storm would hit between Corpus Christi and Brownsville. Red Cross emergency stations were at the ready and more than 4,000 National Guardsmen were on two-hour standby, state officials said.

Meat Producers Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two federal agencies are taking joint action aimed at forcing the manufacturers of meat products to prove that no health hazards are posed by their use of sodium nitrite. The Food and Drug Administration and the Agriculture Department say the government is considering banning sodium nitrites and nitrates as food additives. For years, food manufacturers have used these substances to prevent the growth of deadly botulism in meats. But the government has raised questions about evidence that nitrites and nitrates combine with certain amino acid compounds when bacon is fried to form nitrosamines, substances shown to cause cancerous tumors in laboratory animals.

A Good Start For School Year

Patience, rationality and reason seem to have prevailed in Seminole County between teachers and the school board. It is a positive sign.

After months of intense negotiations, the Seminole Education Association Tuesday night accepted a school board offer of an $8,700 salary base - a hike of $400. The SEA represents all 1,695 of the county's teachers, with signed-up members totaling about 1,200.

The teachers, all of whom would be affected by any final settlement, originally had sought an increase of $500 to a base of $8,800.

The teachers were not satisfied, but agreed to keep the doors open. This avoided the calling of an "impasse" by Ernest Cowley, chief negotiator for the school board. Such an impasse would have meant introduction of a "special master" procedure, public hearings and other lengthy proceedings.

"We told the board we would like a few days to consider their last offer," Gene Grooms, executive director of the SEA, had said last week when the $500 bid was rejected.

It is evident now that the teachers did consider and that, for the time being, have decided that the $400 offer is sufficient.

The next step is for them to make it official by a vote on the tentative pact. No vote date has been set, but prospects for approval appear bright. We are pleased that the responsible attitude and approach adopted by Mr. Grooms and the patience displayed by Mr. Cowley and the Seminole County School Board apparently have paid off. The development is a welcome one, particularly with the opening of school doors in Seminole County only six days away. The educators, school board and others responsible for the education of our children have enough problems without having to cope with an extended negotiation involving the expenditure of unnecessary time, energy, and resources.

Right To Talk, Talk...

The five Republican senators who are suing the Senate for the right to speak - for a fee - are unlikely to win much public sympathy. They claim that the limit on outside earnings featured in a new Senate ethics code "chills their freedom of speech and association...limits their right to earn a living and also to serve in the U.S. Senate... and deprives them of property." The recent hike in Senate salaries, however, to some $57,000 annually is considerably above the poverty level. The $8,625 limit on outside earnings has not discouraged the preparations of aspirants to run next year, nor has it triggered any resignations. And there is room for suspicion that the big fees some senators formerly demanded – and got – for speeches were based more upon the senator's influential position than upon what they might have to say. Lecture fees, it seems, often are paid by organizations with a stake in legislation.

If the senators actually are concerned about free speech, of course, they are not limited in the number of talks they can chedule or the number of words they can use. They can merely waive their fee.

The tales were not of places they had been and things they had done. There were serious. hushed, flat-toned tales of murder in the neighborhood, of a shooting and of theft.

It was a Denver backyard, but it could be anywhere in our big cities. All of us know the undercurrent of alarm, the same sense of helpless resignation and danger that such talk stirs. It cries out for the police to cure. But they seem tragically unable to solve it.

More police patrols? Well, a few more cars can swing through. It's a big city, though, and after a few nights of driving through, perhaps stopping a kid or two, the police move on to another park of their precinct where things are stirring. There is no one we can turn to, really, no on we know. The men and women in those police cars are strangers to us, now, people we only meet when we are snarling mad over a traffic ticket or in shock over a crime. Their work pattern breaks their living style into shifts of mornings, afternoons and midnights. So we seldom see them, even if they live iown the street. They become another, like newspaper reporters who often find the company of outsiders boring and flat. Little by little they have been withdrawn from he neighborhoods they are supposed to protect. The automobile has taken them away from the sidewalks. The two-man patrolling has given them a partner instead of relying on friends in the homes and businesses around them. The police car gives immense mobility. But it also makes the police remote and anonymous and spreads them too thin. Most neighborhood crimes are local - not ome known and clever felon plying the rooftops for treasure but simply wayward children of a failed family.

In some cities, police are instructed to control any situation they find on the street. This makes hem aggressive and hostile, unwilling to tolerate any backtalk. They are dealing with a generation of young people who feel driven to speak up for their rights. The combination is

For a policeman, the stress is heavy and he pays a terrible toll in suicide, illness, stomach rouble and divorce.

Perhaps, then, it is time to re-think the deployment of police. Perhaps it is time to break off the military-like training, to downplay the scout cars and begin to buy policemen homes in the neighborhoods at city expense. Install them and their families in every section of town. Give them the neighborhood as their own turf. Let them work the hours they need to amcag people they know who look to them for help. The man who knows the neighborhood can deal with its problems with skill and understanding. City hall, give us back our policemen again.

We need them.

Mom generally is the worrier. She sometimes closes her eyes on a jarring tackle, opening them only to see if her son got up. Just as the lessons of the gridiron are good for him, ditto for her. It's called letting go. Or, using shorter apron strings.

Dad? He's the block watching the chip. And with education carrying such a high pricetag, football can also be a superb vehicle for college education. A few of them are handed out every fall in every community. There are times when too much importance is place, on the game, on winning and on just playing. Winning is a primary directive. Without it, the game would hardly matter. Therefore, I consider striving to win as the most important factor in athletics. Eyebrows raising?

The key word was striving, not win. Anyone who strives to do his best can't go too far wrong. Keen competition in sports doesn't hurt. You see, it's that way in life.

JOHN D. LOFTON, JR. How Lawful Are The Criminals?

WASHINGTON - I am not what the anti-gun nuts (AGN) in their rhetorical recklessness would call a gun nut. I do not own any firearms. I have never hunted. I have never even fired a gun. However, I am constantly amazed at just how stupid and law-abiding the AGN's think criminals are.

In a letter to the editor to The Washington Post, Susan Love, communications director for the National Coalition to Ban Handguns, addresses herself to the recent mass murders in New York City committed by the so-called "Son of Sam." Asking the question why these senseless killings occurred. Ms Love answers, in

"In the absence of effective gun-control laws, T fear begins to take hold and spread among citizens who realize that virtually anyone can obtain a gun - usually on short notice. Had a simple, nationwide licensing and-or registration law been in effect, Son of Sam's purchase of his .44 cal. handgun would very likely have been a matter of public record - a record that would help to solve the mystery of his identity." Now, think about this observation for moment. Does anyone really believe that a person planning to commit a crime with a gun, especially a murder, is going to commit this illegal act with a firearm either licensed or registered in his or her own name? Isn't it much more likely that anyone contemplating a criminal act using a gun would use a gun that is either stolen or registered or licensed somebody else's name? Of course.

In fact, the day after Ms Love's letter apeared, David Berkowitz was arrested and charged with the Son of Sam murders and from NEW YORK (AP) — while the cane of the set of economic goals that many economists feel are unrealistic, a nervousness, even foreboding, the forgotten in the somic scheme of things, that forgotten in the somic scheme of things, that they must make the set of the army buddy, Billy Dan Parker, who bought it legally from a local pawnshop in Houston, Tex. What Ms Love's letter does is once again raise the question of gun control laws and just how effective they really in deterring crimes like the one allegedly committed by the Son of Sam. SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - Ambassador Andrew Young and British Foreign Secretary David Owen brought the British-American peace plan to Prime Minister Ian Smith today after he won a landslide election victory that strengthened his earlier rejection of its key proposals. Owen and Young arrived from Nairobi, Kenya, where they waited out the election Smith called Wednesday to strengthen his hold on the Rhodesian Legislative Assembly.

Residents Protest 'Albert's' Ouster

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) - A 12-foot alligator that amused folks at a trailer park for two decades has been removed by authorities - much to the chagrin of the residents. And of "Albert," who didn't want to go.

It took several Pinellas County deputies, a game warden, one wrecker and several hours of concentrated effort to load Albert onto a truck for his trip to Busch Gardens in Tampa. Some 50 onlookers didn't help either.

In fact, they let the authorities know in no uncertain terms, they favored the gator. Fred Conrad, one of the trailer park owners, argued in vain that sinceAlbert was on his property, the sheriff's office had no right to take him away. "He's a gentle guy," Conrad said. "And he's always been that way." Conrad said Albert had been at the trailer park since 1956. Conrad explained that a resident at a nearby condominium was the one who first summoned the game warden to have Albert "And she was new there, or she wouldn't have called them," he said. "Albert's real popular with everybody around here. She said she was sorry afterwards." Conrad said he and his family will try to get Albert back.

"We're gonna call the Fish and Wildlife Service in Lakeland tomorrow," he said. And if they can't get Albert back, Conrad said, all his friends will simply have to go and visit him at Busch Gardens.

That stimulus, Toye recognized from the start, had to be Brazil's Edson Arantes do Nascimento - better known as Pele the greatest soccer player in the world. It was a name that was known from Tokyo to Timbuktu, Manchesterr to Madagasgar. "My pitch was always the same: 'You are the only man who can make soccer a big time sport in the United States.' Finally, in March, 1975, in Brussels, his resistance weakened. 'I understand,' he said. 'What do you offer?"

Toye almost broke a speed record rushing back to confer with Chairman of the Board Steve Ross and executive officer Jay Emmett of Warner Communications, the giant conglomerate which owns the Cosmos.

"They asked, 'Who is Pele?" Toye said. "I explained. They said, 'If he's that important, get him.''' Pele signed a staggering $4.7 million contract, intending to play only two years. He played three. ''It's not what Pele did on the field-it's the magnetism he

Martha Perkins, William A. Dunn Exchange Vows

Thursday, Sept. 1, 1977

Martha Louise Perkins and William Arnold Dunn were married in the chapel of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford, at 6 p.m. on Aug. 19. Rev. Leroy Soper performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B L. Perkins, the granddaughter of Mrs. Effie Durden and the grand niece of Miss Bonnie Byrd and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Leffler, all of Sanford.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold Dunn, also of Sanford. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of candlelight crepe, fashioned along the empire silhouette. Lace trim enhanced the bodice and sleeves.

Her headpiece was a coronet of baby's breath and she carried a bouquet of white roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Patsy Perkins attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a pale yellow, blue and pink sleeveless gown designed with a ruffled, scooped neckline. She carried a yellow rose and a pink rose interspersed with baby's breath.

Scott Larson served the bridegroom as best man. Braxton Lee Perkins III was the usher. Immediately following the ceremony; the bride's parents entertained at a wedding reception at their Sanford Avenue home.

Following a wedding trip to Florida West Coast, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford. The bride is employed by Gifts by Nan and bridegroom is associated with Kader Jewelers.

wimming team, in love - and job that will uproot the family from Oregon and take them to Wakefield's script weaves between poignance and pure fun, and Broadway director Joseph | Looking For a New Home? - Checi Hardy sensitively puts it all to- the Want Ads for houses of every gether. As James, Lance Kerwin gives a touching performance of awkward adolescence, particularly in his fumbling attempts to "make out" with his girlfriend.

The rest of the cast is also first rate: Melissa Sue Anderson as his girlfriend, Kim Richards as his sister, Linden Chiles and Lynn Carlin as his parents. and Kate Jackson as a free spirit James meets on the road when ridicule at his new school and an aching heart send him back to his girlfriend.

There is an added element here. Whenever James is confronted with a crisis he daydreams a triumphant solution. When the first one flashed on early in the film I started to cringe. But don't worry, they work beautifully, and who hasn't had similar fantasies?

Wakefield, 45, a journalist and novelist living in Boston, had never written for television when he got a call out of the blue asking him to write the movie.

NBC programming executive Paul Klein had told David Sontag of 20th Century Fox he was looking for something on a teenage boy. Sontag, remembering Wakefield's novel on growing up in the 1950s, "Going All the Way," called the author.

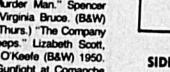

Wakefield said he brushed up on contemporary adolescence in sessions with students in Boston.

"I knew I wanted it to come to Boston simply because I like to have my writing set in a place I know about," he said. "Most everything on television is set in os Angeles, until you get the feeling everyone lives in Southern California. I thought it would be nice to get the feeling of an Eastern city."

ingered over the massive ownpour of blind mosquitoes in Northern Seminole County, which were blamed for two accidents and extensive damage this week, the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce today formed a task force to end the mosquito plague.

Sanford Realtor John Krider will head the task force, to onsist of "six to 10 members." according to Tom Hunt, chairman of the chamber, who appointed Krider to lead the effort. The two will select task force members.

"Our goals are an immediate preventive program and altimately, a program to the blind mosquitoes," said . Hunt. "Public support is our best hope of achieving success in this allout war against this health said Hunt.

"We'll be contacting our county commissioners, state egislators and federal epresentatives to get action,"

The mosquitoes have inundated "the downtown Sanford and lakefront areas from Lake Jessup to the Interstate 4 bridge over Lake Monroe," according to a statement by the chamber. mosquitoes - which ctually aren't blind - hatch rom the mud and stagnant waters along the weed-choked shoreline of Lake Monroe. The mosquitoes don't bite, but they swarm in such numbers that the results are often botherome and sometimes tragic.

"When people speak of Sanford after returning home, you can be sure the blind mosquitoes will be their No. 1 topic. This problem must be recognized and corrected."

Visitors to the Seminole County Courthouse must cross a pesky barrier of the insects when they enter the building. Swarms of the mosquitoes coated the neon sign at the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe Wednesday night and caused an electrical short and transformer burn-out. The damage will cost $2,000 to repair, and "cleanup and repair costs at the motel due to the pesky insects the last three months has already topped $42,000," said Lanny Greene, manager of the
