Monday, March 10, 1924. BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY THE FIFTH COMMANDMENT—Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.—Exodus 20-12.

What is it that's making the old world go round?—Work! What's keeping a lot of good folks above ground?—Work!

What is it that saves us from manifold ills?—Work! What is it that satisfies, pacifies, fills?—Work!

It's sure if you say, "perk!" That gives "perk" and "perk"! No man is a "slaver" whose heart's in his work!

What is it that fills us with sweet, restful peace?—Work! What is it that gives us from heartaches surcease?—Work!

Don't think that you're "slaving" While "lucky" ones shirk; The loafers are craving—What you find in work!—James Edward Hungerford.

The Candler's are having a hard time to keep their money. A few days left in which to tie income tax returns.

Local politics will "pick up" when candidates gather for the all-day meeting and picnic planned by the executive committee for next month.

Government statisticians estimate that this year's yield of citrus fruits will exceed twenty million boxes—twelve million orange and eight million grapefruit.

Monogrammed eggs is the latest fad. A thorough Leghorn hen belonging to Mrs. Luella Perrine of Rocky Grove, Pa., laid an egg that had on one end a perfect letter "R" inside a circle.

Key West is to build another modern tourist hotel, a large mortgage company having offered sixty per cent of the funds necessary for its construction.

Miss Marguerite Doctor, information clerk for the United States Steamship Lines answers more than a thousand questions a day. Men have been often known to wait under less talking than this woman does.

Reports from Tampa state that Sheriff Spencer has not as yet apprehended the guilty parties in the Green Lantern Road House-escape. Perhaps the sheriff is too busy cleaning up other road houses and enforcing the liquor laws to find these men.

The "Wets" And Enforcement.

In a battle on Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, recently between bootleggers and prohibition officers, Senator Greene, of Vermont, was accidentally shot and seriously injured either by prohibition officers or by bootleggers.

Thirty-six federal agents and more than one hundred state and municipal law officers have been ambushed and murdered by bootleggers while engaged in enforcing the eighteenth amendment.

One innocent person, Senator Greene, was struck by a stray bullet said to have been fired by a prohibition officer. And now the "wets" led by Senator Edwards of New Jersey, are trying to start propaganda against the Federal prohibition enforcement laws.

It will be remembered that Senator Edwards while Governor of New Jersey boasted that he would like to make Jersey as "wet as the Atlantic Ocean." He is trying to do it.

Prohibition agents have to deal with the most desperate and crafty criminals in America. Bootleggers do not hesitate to commit murder. They strike in the dark and shoot from ambush.

Statistics show that prohibition has decreased the consumption of liquor in this country about ninety percent. It has saved annually two billions of dollars for the people enabling them to share more largely in the substantial benefits of life.

Progress is being made in enforcing the prohibition laws. Despite what such men as Senator Edwards and other "wet" advocates may try to do, prohibition will continue to be enforced and more efficiently as the years pass.

Try This On Yourself.

Many of us have utmost confidence in our ability to "make good" and hold down our present position in business but suppose that tomorrow one would be compelled to go out and find a new job, what then?

As Brisbane Sees It

No Improved Bible, Thanks. In Fewer Words. Hope for Sufferers. Common Sense Taxes. Copyright, 1924

"MODERNIST" RELIGIOUS gentlemen propose to broadcast prayers and imitation Bible texts based on Present-day conditions. This they believe will be a great improvement on the Bible, which is out of date.

Modernist improvements on the Bible would compare with the badly managed orphan asylum compared with a real mother.

At Geneva, the International Union for Saving Children publishes in thirty-six languages a solemn assertion of children's rights on this earth.

Two hundred thousand children die in this country every year because their mothers are neglected in childbirth, and most interesting of all, hundreds of thousands of American children are deprived of their one chance in life by the brutality of child labor.

THE WORST agony in life is not physical. It is the dreadful pain in the heart of those that work others—mother, father or child—slowly dying in pain.

THE BODY has two sets of nerves. One, the "afferent nerves," carry information to the brain. What we call "pain" is the nerve telling the brain that something is the matter and should be attended to.

A SIMILAR operation is familiar to veterinary surgeons. With horses suffering from the excruciating pain of a "neuralgia" dissection in the hoof, a nerve is cut in the horse's foreleg, below the knee.

PAIN IN childbirth might be eliminated if doctors could find a way to deaden temporarily the pain-carrying nerve without interfering with the afferent nerves and their stimulation of the muscles necessary in labor.

THE HUMAN body is like a modern building. The skeleton is the steel frame. The lungs are the ventilation; the heart is the power; the nerves representing the wiring system.

MR. MELLON, Secretary of the Treasury, suggests a surtax on big incomes of 25 per cent. Such a tax actually collected, instead of being evaded by tax-free bonds and various other ingenuities, would supply more money than the nation would need, with all the public extravagance, and soon wipe out the public debt besides.

It is now proposed to "compromise" by making the surtax thirty-seven and a half per cent, instead of twenty-five.

WHY COMPROMISE in a matter of government business? Mellon understands finance as well as any man in the United States. He declares that the twenty-five per cent tax will more than supply money needed.

Taxes should weigh most heavily upon the most prosperous. The government protects them in the possession of their—wealth in possession of their fortunes and they should pay proportionately for that protection.

Prophecy is dangerous in science but it seems improbable that explorers ever will get very deep in the ocean. They can learn the secrets of the ocean's depths by clawing dredges at the end of long cables. They can lower strong cameras, electrically operated and emitting enough light to take pictures at certain depths.

This Would Expedite Matters Considerably.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Harry B. Hunt. WASHINGTON, Mar. 10.—The least perturbed person in Washington, these days, so far as outward evidences go at least is President Coolidge.

Through all the heat of the controversies and conflicts arising from the day-by-day disclosures of the Senate investigating committee, Coolidge proceeds calmly and unemotionally about his job as president. History looks but says little.

Up at the White House there are none of the appearances of frazzled nerves and frayed dispositions that are so apparent "down on the Hill." While the senators and representatives, the national chairmen of the parties and their national committeemen—issue sizzling interviews, meeting personal and party charges with hot denials and counter-charges, "Silent Cal," "Cool Cal," "Coolidge" goes right along qualifying better than ever before for his whole galaxy of nick-names.

That Coolidge is doing a lot of thinking, however, if little talking, is evidenced by his course in selecting a successor to replace DeLoach as secretary of the navy.

An experienced executive! Executive ability and experience, not ad-hoc prestige or influence he decided, should determine his choice.

Pushing to one side the whole list of "political" recommendations, men whose chief qualifications were that they had been or are politically influential, had served on naval committees in Congress at some time or could deliver Coolidge delegates at the coming national convention, Coolidge set himself the job of finding—what?

Five thousand years ago, in the stone age, primitive men in England used jagged that to dig a big oak tree. They hollowed out of the trunk a boat eleven feet long and three feet wide.

This boat, the most ancient ever discovered, was dug out of the Elmly marshes, deep down in the mud that had preserved it from decay.

Picture the men who slowly and laboriously carved the boat into shape. They knew nothing of the earth except the territory of a few miles in which they roamed. But something urged them to explore farther and farther through the dense forests. The same something prompted them to make the trunk boat and venture down the nearby waterway.

That "something" was curiosity, the mighty force behind all progress.

Scientists believe that man has lived on earth at least 500,000 years. Yet it was not until 300 years ago that Europe, which at the time imagined itself highly civilized, learned of the existence of the American continent through the curiosity of Columbus.

In a few centuries we have mastered the unknown parts of the world until only a small section of the globe remains uncharted.
