There are many unknowns, many impositive to be researched and resolved before the school crisis is finally settled in Florida.

We believe men and women of good faith, coupled by a common desire for success, will find most of the answers.

Among the biggest posers is the matter of tax reform.

Where is the money going to come from? A complete overhaul of Florida's tax structure is as long overdue as a new state constitution.

Gov. Kirk laid it on the line when he met with the new group in Tallahassee within minutes after the announcement of the school crisis truce:

"Your job is to make a searching and comprehensive study of taxation in Florida... both state and local and it includes a hard look at what our tax dollars buy."

Church Bends for Girl, GI

MIAMI (AP) - The Catholie Church bent where the U.S. Army and the State of Florida wouldn't last weekend to make a wedding possible. The future looked bleak for Barbara Lynden, 21, and Army 2nd Lt. Ray Chisolm last Thursday when they went to apply for marriage license for their scheduled Saturday wedding. "Neither of us knew there was three-day waiting period," Barbara said. Getting Florida to bend the three-day rule was impossible, the newly commissioned bridegroom had an unbreakable date with the U.S. Army for a trip to Germany, and the Catholie Church discourages marriages on Sunday, a day already crowded with regular services. long ceremony Sunday made them Mr. and Mrs.

The Chicago Institute for Early Childhood Education said all children can benefit from good pre-primary instruction; however, those who need it the most are the culturally underprivileged. The institute said the culturally underprivileged child is, in effect, a retarded child . . . ene who never catches up. . To prevent this artificial retardation, the institute said government and private insitutions have made great efforts to stimulate a child's curiosity and provide him with those early skills which are the foundation for primary education. Nursery schools for these children have been springing up across the country. The most notable effort is the Head Start

Policeman Loses Police Cruiser

CHICAGO (AP) - Policeman Michael Debella spotted two young men early today who appeared to have sampled too much wine. So, he placed one of the youths in his police car and set out on foot after the second. But while Debella was on the chase, the squad car pulled away with engine roaring and tires shricking. "It was quite frustrating standing there on the sidewalk with no transportation," Debeila said later. "I thought the guy in the car would take a little nap until I got back.
