U. S. PREPARES FOR NEW DRIVE ON KIDNAPERS

More Coordinated Quiz Of Lindbergh Case Prompted By Recent Successful Moves

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(A.P.)—Recent success in rounding up kidnapers has prompted the Justice Department to undertake a fuller, more coordinated investigation of the 20 month old Lindbergh kidnaping.

Sanctioned by the President in his desire to consolidate all kidnaping investigations under the Justice Department, the move follows the disclosure of a withdrawal from the case of a lone income tax investigator that has been working on it.

This agent, Frank Wilson, ace of the Internal Revenue bureau's intelligence unit, has been employed on the case since a few days after the kidnaping. Attorney General Cummings, after conferences with the President, has ordered Director Hoover of the Justice Department's investigation bureau to assume jurisdiction over the Federal activities in the Lindbergh case, with a view to giving New Jersey authorities the benefit of data on known kidnapers amassed since the passage of the Federal kidnaping law.

If it's any satisfaction to her, Miss Babe Scott of San Francisco was assured last night that she had dumbfounded the greatest detectives in the country and thrown the Department of Justice into a state only describable as agony.

Miss Scott, hereinafter known as Babe, is a 17-year-old girl, weighing 112 pounds, and is the daughter of a fishing boat. Until she stuck her nose into things, the Department of Justice was progressing nicely with plans to send 200 of the nation's most desperate criminals to Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay. "Machine Gun" Kelly was going out there because Alcatraz is a rocky, isolated dot on the map from which nobody could possibly escape.

"Deep, swift-rushing water," according to the Department, surrounds the island, and anyone who attempted to leap from the rocky coast and swim to freedom would wind up leader than last year's Paris styles. So what? So Babe goes out to Alcatraz, puts on her bathing suit and leaps from the rocky coast into the deep, swift-rushing water. Forty-seven minutes later she walks up on the mainland beach, wipes her hair out of her eyes and announces: "It was easy. I could jump in and swim right back again."

Machadist Group Said Planning Return Home

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(A.P.)—The Evening Post said yesterday that a new Cuban junta, composed of members of the deposed administration of President Gerardo Machado, is pushing ahead in New York with plans for a restoration. Machado has made two secret trips to New York from Montreal, his place of refuge since he fled from Havana, the Post reported.

Leading members of the junta were said by the Post to include Dr. Orestes Ferrara, former Cuban secretary of state, and Miguel de Cespedes, former minister of public works.

Machado, it was said, is negotiating with President Roosevelt for permission to make his home in New York. Dr. Ferrara, asked for comment on the Post story, said General Machado had made no trips to New York City. He characterized the junta report as "absurd and without any authentic basis."

Revenue Bureau Plans Use Of Authority In Effort To Halt Distortions Of Tax Returns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Guy T. Helvering, is releasing today to the field offices of the Bureau instructions directing their co-operation with brokers and other agents of taxpayers to the result that the Government may obtain from the accounts maintained by them with their customers information with respect to profits and losses during each of the several years 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932 and succeeding years.

The Commissioner and representatives of the brokers have agreed upon a plan which it is believed will impose the least possible burden upon the latter in the preparation of the data needed by the Bureau, and appropriate forms have been prepared for their use in furnishing the information.

The Revenue Acts of 1928 and 1932 authorized the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to call upon every person doing business as a broker to render correct returns showing the names of customers for whom such person has transacted any business, with such details as to profits, losses or other information as will enable the Commissioner to determine whether all income tax due on profits or gains of such customers has been paid.

HIGH SALARIES OF EXECUTIVES SEEN DOOMED

Gathering Of Data On Wages Of 2000 Heads Of Firms Is Prelude To Change In Belief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(A.P.)—Action to limit high salaries of big business leaders was privately forecast in official circles yesterday after the federal trade commission announced it was asking 2000 companies to furnish data on the salaries of their executives and directors.

Following President Roosevelt's inquisitive glance at movie salaries, the commission's inquiry was described in informed circles as a prelude to more definite action.

The inquiry authorized by a Senate resolution, is immediately concerned with gathering facts for Congress. What will be done with them will remain for Congress to decide.

There have been demands from some members for a redistribution of wealth. How far the President is inclined to go in this direction has never been definitely disclosed.

The same Senate resolution ordered the federal reserve board to obtain salary data from all member banks in the reserve system, directed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to report salaries paid by banks borrowing from it and instructed the federal power commission to learn about the compensation of public utility officials.

While no legislation has yet been formulated, some officials expressed the belief that continuous publication of salaries probably would have the effect of keeping them down.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(A.P.)—Attacked from within and without, Tammany Hall on Tuesday faced the making of its annual tally. Alfred E. Smith yesterday fought to save the city of New York from the grasp of Mayor James J. Connelley.

Lee Tracy Film Opens 2 Day Run At Milane

Described as the most unusual story ever to form the nucleus of a film plot, "Turn Back the Clock" opens today at the Milane Theater with Lee Tracy in the starring role.

Edgar Selwyn and Ben Holt are the co-authors of "Turn Back the Clock" with Selwyn also responsible for the direction. This story is built on the premise of what would happen if a man were given a chance to live his life over again, benefited by his experiences of the past.

Tracy, as Joe Gumbel, is the man to whom this fortunate opportunity is given. First seen with his wife, Mary, living a miserable existence as the result of a crime he committed in a store in New York, he now, again, the wealthy Elvira, a girl from his home town, whom he once might have married and whose money would have paid him an entirely different position in life.

Through the magic of profit in the money, Joe has had a chance to start all over again, to make a new life for himself. To accomplish this, he must first get out of the miserable existence of his present position, however, some complications and adventures attend the going forth to the end he has never anticipated. In the end, he is brought to the realization that to make a new life for himself, he must first be a better man.

Mrs. Clarke, remembered for her sensitive performance in "Waterloo Bridge" has the role of Mary. Another prominent role is filled by the noted stage actress Otto Kruger, who makes his first talkie appearance in the picture following triumphant Broadway roles in "Countdown at Law," "Private Lives" and "The Royal Family of Broadway." Completing the cast are George Barbier, Peggy Shannon, C. Henry Gordon, and Clara Bloland.

Missionary Societies Discuss Future Work

Over 250 persons, representing 26 Woman's Missionary Societies of the First Methodist Church, attended a meeting of the DeLand and Orlando Zone held yesterday beginning at 10 in A. M. at the First Methodist Church in the city. Mrs. C. O. Rapp, district secretary of the Orlando District, had charge of the entire meeting.

The program for the day was based on the subject, "The Finished Task," with Mrs. S. H. Bowman of Clermont, vice president of the conference, and Mrs. L. C. Jenkins of Orlando, as the principal speakers.

Mrs. Jenkins elaborated on the subject by calling her talk the "Missionary Reorganization Act," emphasizing to the members the fact that with their hands they could spread Christianity to the four corners of the earth. She also urged the members of the conference to meet in St. Augustine recently.

The first part of the meeting was devoted to a memorial service for Mrs. W. F. Dinkley, of Tallahassee, former conference secretary, who died in Oklahoma recently. The church was decorated for the service with garlands and flowers, accentuating a solemn atmosphere of grief and prayer.

Following Mrs. Rapp with the Memorial service were Mrs. James A. Hudson, organist, who played while Mrs. F. E. Housholder read, "Crossing the Bar," by Tennyson and Mrs. George Harden, Mrs. W. H. Goodrich, Mrs. R. S. Steele, and Mrs. C. O. Rapp, who formed a quartet which sang "Resting On The Wings of Angels" led by the members of the choir.

At the noon hour a luncheon was served in the church annex by the local society. The afternoon session was devoted to reports from the 26 societies which were given and explained by Mrs. Rapp. After the reports, Mrs. Rapp gave a short, but complimentary, talk to the women in their wonderful work of the local mission of the conference, this year, because of the unusual social display by the women during the present hard times.

Mrs. Johnson was served by the members of the choir, and that was followed by the singing of the hymns. The meeting was brought to a close in the afternoon with a talk, "Why Should We Go to the End of the Earth?" by Mrs. Bowman of Tallahassee. She was assisted by Mrs. Jenkins, two other members of the Tallahassee society.

Roosevelt Puts New Force Back Of NRA Program

washed his hands of NRA, was leaving the Blue Eagle to look after itself and was shifting the administration, feverishly, into the more orthodox channels of credit expansion.

On the contrary, it now appears that the President, while pushing credit and all sorts of other means, still is not going behind General Johnson and still regards the Recovery Act as one of the major vehicles of the administration program.

Mr. Roosevelt was at the conference when he received his orders to give the Blue Eagle to the Federal Reserve Bank, which is to be the public check down on him, and the continuation and misunderstanding involved in the Blue Eagle withdrawal, in some of the New Deal's N. Y. cases, had tended to shift confidence in the government.

Even within the cabinet there was skepticism as to Johnson's fate, and he is in a precarious position. This has not only cramped the quarters of the NRA, but also the program.

The situation had reached the point where either the President had to be told to take the Blue Eagle out of his hands, or let it hang in the air, or the altar of national credit and stability.

It is thought that the President will not take the Blue Eagle out of his hands, but will let it hang in the air, pending a further decision of the cabinet.

The withdrawal of the Blue Eagle from circulation is a considerable step, and it is thought that the President will let it hang in the air, pending a further decision of the cabinet.
