Mrs. Clark Takes Stand For Defense

Defendant Admits Suicide Attempts. But Denies Responsibility For Shortage

The defense tried its case in the empanelment trial of Mrs. Lillian C. Clark at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and the prosecution prepared to call back several witnesses to the stand, following a 15 minute recess. It was expected to begin later in the afternoon.

Crying quietly, Mrs. Lillian C. Clark related to a tense, packed and silent courtroom this morning that, while distressed because of her husband's resentment over her daughter's marriage plans, she had read rat poison on a slice of bread and ate it.

The long-acted dramatic moment of the empanelment trial began when Ernest Housholder, Mrs. Clark's attorney, asked her, "Now Mrs. Clark, tell the jury what happened when you went home on May 9 and what happened to you and what you did the next day."

Mrs. Clark said that she took some little transfers home to work on that night and that as she was about to go to bed she saw a bundle of registration cards which she noticed were connected with the missing Report No. 129. Thinking she would fabricate them, she said she took them home, too. That night she said she went to a Pilot Club dinner and that when she came home she was too tired to do the work and went to bed. She said she had suffered a headache for several days. Before she went to sleep she said she had an argument with her husband about his suspicions that her daughter intended to run away to be married before she graduated from school that June.

She said that he "repeated his suspicions over and over, and it disturbed me terribly."

In the morning she said she prepared her husband's breakfast and that he went to work, after which, while she was spreading the beds, she discovered some pictures of her daughter torn up in a trash box. She said she went to the office but couldn't get herself composed enough to do any work and eventually went home.

She said her older daughter took her home and left her resting, that after a while she realized

Railroad Strike Cancelled After Deadline Is Set

CLEVELAND—Chiefs of three big railroad unions today cancelled a strike set for Monday on New York Railroad east of Buffalo.

Commenting on the mediation effort, the chief of the engineers, firemen and conductors accepted a Railway Mediation Board plea to postpone a strike beyond the Monday deadline set for 11 p. m. EST.

The chief also told their representatives negotiating in New York with the railroad to delay strike plans in deference to government mediation.

Commenting on the mediation board's request to postpone the strike, the Brotherhood chiefs issued this statement:

"Mediation efforts under the Railway Labor Act were exhausted once in this case two years ago without satisfaction to the workers."

"However, in the public interest, we are making reluctantly that our members bear the burden of another round of the same process."

NEW YORK—A strike of engineers, firemen, engineers and conductors will start against the New York Central Railroad east of Buffalo Monday at 11 p. m. (EST), officials of three unions announced today.

The National Mediation Board today Thursday night had asked the union to postpone any strike action and had called for a union management conference with board representatives today.

Union officials, in announcing the strike, declined to comment on the mediation board's efforts.

The dispute revolves about clearance of tracks and other grievances by the union.

A strike, besides tying up the road's long lines, would hit 50,000 or more New York City commuters.

The strike was announced in a statement signed by Thomas J. Harkins, assistant grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; H. Keown, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers; and J. P. Casey, senior vice president of the Order of Railway Conductors.

A fourth union involved in the dispute, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, would be prevented from striking by a prohibition law.

Job Purchase In U. S. Postoffice Is Being Probed

CHICAGO—U. S. Attorney Otto Kerner Jr. said today his office is probing a report that "at least 30" supervisors in the Chicago Postoffice system paid large sums for their promotions.

The report was submitted to Kerner's office by postal inspectors and was based on an investigation which began six months ago. Copies of the report also are in the hands of the postmaster general and the attorney general, Kerner said.

Kerner declined to discuss contents of the detailed report. Jerome T. Williamson, chief postal inspector in Chicago, who headed the investigation, said he could not comment on the matter since "it is a confidential investigation."

Kerner said, however, that "at least 20" supervisors were involved in the investigation. He said this number may be increased as the investigation continues.

From other sources, who asked anonymously, it was learned that the postal inspectors reported the supervisors paid $500 each for their promotions.

Investigation of the big Chicago postoffice was begun last February after a grand jury indicted Frederick P. Wall, secretary to the William L. Dawson, Chicago demagogue. Wall was charged with taking money in exchange for promotion in the influence to put temporary postoffice workers on Civil Service rolls.

Wall and three others indicted with him are awaiting trial.

Meanwhile in Washington a new round of ten-day resignations in the Justice Department was reported in prospect today, and the axe is expected to fall on some U. S. district attorneys outside Washington.

At the same time, a relatively unknown attorney—Ross L. Malone of Roswell, N. M.—was slated to take over the department's No. 2 spot succeeding A. Devitt Vanech as deputy attorney general.

Vanech resigned Monday to seek the Democratic nomination for the unexpired term of the late Sen. Brian McMahon of Connecticut.

Impending new changes in the department now headed by James A. McFarland, were forecast by informed sources as amounting to a virtual clean sweep of officials.

Charge Of Forgery Is Lodged Against James E. Fulgham

James E. Fulgham, alias J. F. Smith, of Oviedo is being held in the county jail under a charge of "uttering and passing a forged instrument" following his arrest yesterday in the Florida State Bank by Chief Roy G. Williams and Chief William said today.

Mr. Fulgham, aged 20, has been fingerprinted and the prints sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was arrested while in the process of cashing a $50,000 check drawn on the account of C. T. Niblack, Oviedo circuit packer, after he had telephoned the bank the previous day and said he was Mr. Niblack and was coming in for a pay roll.

The bank, learning that Mr. Niblack was out of town on his vacation, notified the police, and when Mr. Niblack arrived, W. J. Tucker of the Personal Loan Department that "he's here" and, while Mr. Peacock stalled Fulgham, Mr. Tucker informed Chief Williams.

Mr. Williams and Bass handcuffed Fulgham and hurried him into a back room of the bank without a word of the customers or employees of the bank being aware of what was going on.

Fulgham, originally of Ashburn, Ga., has been working in Oviedo for six months and is reported to claim that he is backed by an international gang.

City Commission To Meet Monday

City commissioners will meet Monday night at 8:00 o'clock in regular session, and are due to hear City Manager Thomas Lennon's report regarding his consultation with officials of the Federal Home and Housing Administration in regard to the proposed city sewerage system.

Mr. Lennon yesterday declared that he had talked with many local citizens regarding an improvement of the sewerage system, and that all whom he had consulted to want the project started.

He expressed appreciation for the friendly spirit of co-operation that he has received here, and stressed the fact that Sanford has great possibilities for future growth.

Mr. Lennon expressed the hope that the recently formed Planning Board will be able to work out plans to take care of the problems created by growth and expansion of the city.

Flying Saucer Seen At Memorial Stadium

Is it a bird? Is it a baseball? No, it's another one of those flying saucers, at least that is what T. V. Davis, Bay Avenue, said it was when he observed a "flying disc of golden color" soaring along near the Memorial Stadium Monday afternoon.

Sanford thus joined the rapidly growing list of cities and villages in the United States to report these strangely elusive discs of purported astronomical origin.

The Warrant Officer expressed the popular feeling among those who haven't seen these phenomena when he said, "These people apparently saw something, but I'm sure I don't know what it was."

Hostile Lines Drawn Up On Greek Border

Bulgarians And Neighbors On South Face One-Another With Impressive Forces

(Editors note: Russell Brines, former chief of the AP Bureau in Tokyo, talked to leading officials in Greece and Turkey last November during a first-hand survey of Western European countries, and has kept in close touch with the situation since)

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON—The spearheads of nearly 300,000 well-armed troops face each other across the Greek-Bulgarian border, where a skirmish was fought Thursday for an outpost.

Greek and Bulgarian soldiers have been mobilized along the border for years. Both sides are ready to fight.

The skirmish was over the Gannina Island in the Evros River which forms the border. The Greeks, who claim the island, said Bulgarians had invaded it, and opened a mortar attack to drive them back.

Any clash between these hostile neighbors could have serious political implications. They form one part of an uneasy line stretching from the Mediterranean in the North Sea. Behind them are the massed forces of the West and East.

But most American officials in Europe believe that border incident would mushroom into major conflict only when the Kremlin decides on a bigger gamble than it has taken so far.

Nevertheless, the incident highlights the status of the explosive Balkan situation. The first study of World War I were fired almost 40 years ago.

Greens, one of the newest members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), is one of Russia's veteran opponents in the global hot cold war.

The Greeks fought and won a bloody campaign against Communist guerrillas, ending in 1949, in one of the first battles against Communist expansion.

The United States since 1948 has supplied arms and training to build a modern Greek army.

This force is based around 12 divisions, nearly 150,000 men with supporting air and naval units. The Greeks generally are well equipped, but they are short of heavy guns and aircraft. The army units are stationed along the Bulgarian border in Thrace, from where any land assault would come.

The Bulgarian Army is estimated to total between 11 and 15 divisions of approximately 10,000 each. They are armed with modern Soviet equipment, and at least two divisions are believed to be armored.

The Bulgars also face border forces of the modernized and tough Turkish Army in Thrace where the boundaries of Greece, Bulgaria and Turkey join.

Bulgaria is one main invasion route from Central Europe for any

Ike Presents Plans For Peace

IN HIS FIRST MAJOR SPEECH since he was nominated, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower addresses the 5th annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Los Angeles. The GOP Presidential candidate outlines a 10-point program for testing peace, honest government, equality of race, and loyalty in Federal service.

Vets Of Foreign Wars Condemn Teaching System

LOS ANGELES—The 5th annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Inc., opened a resolution condemning the teaching of Communism in public schools.

Speaking today they called "planned corruption of American children's minds and of the school system," the delegates Thursday passed a resolution saying in part:

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars believe that the teaching of Communism in our schools is a heinous and reprehensible act of unparalleled depravity to their own country, a deep understanding of its ideals, a deep respect for its institutions, a deep respect for its people, and a deep respect for the great in the world."

Larry A. Callahan, Republican nominee for commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said today that the resolution was a "strong statement of our conviction that the teaching of Communism in our schools is a heinous and reprehensible act of unparalleled depravity to their own country, a deep understanding of its ideals, a deep respect for its institutions, a deep respect for its people, and a deep respect for the great in the world."

Eisenhower GHQ Reflects Major Stir Of Activity

By The Associated Press
Eisenhower headquarters of Dwight D. Eisenhower reflected a major activity today.

The general's running mate, Richard M. Nixon and John Edgar Hoover, the party's national chairman, expected, met to map campaign strategy on foreign policy issues.

Out of the session may come a decision on how best to handle the situation in Greece and Turkey, the foreign policy of the Truman administration, and the European Defense Community.

Members of the Eisenhower campaign staff were seen today in the White House, where they met with the president's chief of staff, Sherman Kent, to discuss the campaign strategy on foreign policy issues.

McKellar, Dean Of Senate, Is Defeated In Tennessee Race

Senate Shakeup Is Forecast By McKellar Defeat

WASHINGTON—The defeat of Kenneth D. McKellar by Albert Gore, Jr., in the Tennessee gubernatorial race today, the long-anticipated victory of the Democratic Party in the state, is expected to bring a shakeup in the Senate.

The 81-year-old McKellar, dean of the Senate, is expected to be replaced by a younger man, possibly a Democrat, in the Senate.

McKellar's defeat is expected to bring a shakeup in the Senate, as the Democratic Party gains control of the state government.

War Vet Sons Of Worker Who Faces Deportation To Appeal To Truman

WENDELL, N. H.—The two war veteran sons of Carl Latva, 68-year-old Finnish born mill worker ordered deported because he signed a Communist membership card in 1941, say they will appeal to President Truman for the hope "he'll now fight for us."

His sons, Carl and Paul, told newsmen Thursday night they had sent a telegram to Mr. Truman asking him to assist their father from deportation to Finland, the country he left when a child of 13.

"My brother and I fought for the things President Truman believes in," they said. "We hope he'll now fight for us."

They served in the Navy in World War II.

Carl said they hadn't made up their minds what to say in the telegram "but we're going to tell the President just what happened to our father and ask him to please do something to help."

"I guess he'll receive it all right," Carl added. "He seems the type of man who would be interested in what happens to people like us."

Their father said he planned to go to Boston today to confer with his attorney, Frederick Frank Cohen, about appealing the deportation order to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

George Dorr, president of the Dorr Woolen Mill in nearby Goshen where Latva has worked for 30 years, has given his "faithful worker" a day off.

In Washington, meanwhile, Sen. Lehman (D-La.) said he would introduce a bill to repeal the deportation order "dramatizing the shameful inequity" of the McCarran Act and Sen. O'Connor (D-Mo.) said he was asking the Justice Department to make certain no injustice is done Latva.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

A real man is always magnanimous. Joseph, showed himself such. It's a good example. Little people harbor grudges. Forgive, I pray thee now, the trespass of thy brethren, and their sin.—Gen. 50:17.

If you can't find anybody in his office these days, just so down to the Court House. He'll be down there.

Sanford is not the only place having growing pains. The outgrown and outmoded government of Hillsborough county needs a general re-organization and overhauling. A Tampa Tribune staff writer reports a recent state audit says:

49th STATE. One of our editors, just back from a trip to Vermont, reports the following comment from an excited little girl who was staying with her grandparents: "My mommy and daddy went West to see the cowboys. They've never been there before. They're going through the South, and through Mississippi and Mississippi."—This Week.

City Manager Larson, is of the opinion that some aid can be expected from the federal government on Sanford's sewerage problem. Robert Ames, consulting engineer, seemed to think that as much as $300,000 might be secured from the government on a $1,200,000 program. That would leave $900,000 to be raised by the City. This should not be too much to finance if an adequate sewer tax were levied to guarantee repayment of the bonds.

Sen Heilner has an article on back seat driving in last week's "This Week". He said he broke his wife of back seat driving by giving her a job to do. He made her Chief Lookout Penitentiary, New as they scurry along through the countryside, she warns him of approaching intersections, traffic cops and who have you before he sets into trouble instead of afterwards. Not a bad idea, either. Seems to us. Frank Evans once told us he had pretty much the same system.

Law enforcement officers have no right to search an automobile for lottery tickets once they have arrested the driver for reckless driving. The Supreme Court says. Do not be too critical of law enforcement officers when lottery operators escape arrest even though you know, and probably the police know too, they are lottery operators. For knowing that a man sells lottery tickets, and proving it, are two different things. And the police have to prove it. You do not.

The other day we were wondering why the shortage of clerks stenographers and office boys and pointing out the tremendous increase in state job holders. Today we see where civilian employment in the federal government increased 112,999 last year. The total number of civilians employed by the gigantic Washington bureaucracy as of June 30 was 2,596,690. What this means in dollars and not sense is shown by the fact that the total payroll in May of this year amounted to $408,906,000.

South Carolina joins Georgia and Mississippi in supporting the Stevenson-Spartan ticket. Senator Russell joins Governor Byrnes and Governor White in pleading allegiance to the Democratic Party. This is the strictly orthodox view. The Southern Democrats won a stunning victory in the recent Alabama convention. They whipped the Yankee Democrats on every count. So they will go along with the Stevenson ticket, though they themselves have been known to support the Truman ticket.

Investigation Closed

On May 16, 1948, the body of George Polk, American radio news correspondent, was found floating in the bay off Salonika, Greece. A short time later Polk's press credentials were mailed to the Salonika police, an indication that the murder had political implications.

Recently a committee of newspapermen and radio newscasters completed a three year investigation of the murder with a report on their findings. In their effort to uncover the truth of the affair the newsmen enlisted the aid of the state department and several prominent independent citizens. It is believed that Polk, an astute and thorough newsmen, was seeking a personal interview with Greek guerrillas who were in rebellion against the government. Since Polk was critical both of the government and of the Communists, his murder could have been committed by extremists of either the right or the left.

The purpose of the committee of American newspapermen was to see that Polk's slayers were brought to justice. The group also wished to make certain that no innocent persons were convicted in whitewash attempts.

One man, an admitted Communist, was brought to trial along with his mother. The woman was acquitted but the man was sentenced to life imprisonment. The two men who were believed to have committed the crime were tried in absentia and found guilty. These two were never apprehended.

Although the committee did not succeed completely in its purpose it did let the world know that American newspaper correspondents cannot be killed with impunity. Those who gather news on foreign beats are serving the American people. The American people should be aware of the dangers they sometimes face and should stand behind them when they encounter difficulty.

Fields And Farmers

Portions of our country are experiencing the worst drought in many years. In time everyone will become aware of the effects of the long dry period for prices will rise in the grocery stores and some of the items on the shelf will be scarce. But the full impact of the drought will be felt by the farmers who watch their sun parched fields in helpless desperation.

Farming at best is a perilous business. Nature can be friendly or it can be hostile; in either case a farmer must pay his bills, must meet the payments on the mortgage, must feed and clothe his family. Besides money a man who works with the soil puts something of himself into each crop he plants. Sometimes his sweat and his strength, his patience and his skill can produce a great harvest. Sometimes he harvests only disappointment.

The farmer knows that in many ways man is still at the mercy of nature. He has invented marvelous machines to do his bidding. He has devised systems of plowing and planting and harvesting that wrest from the earth a more abundant harvest. But if the rain does not fall his machines are useless, his fertilizers ineffective, his scientific study a mere waste of time.

Yet each planting season the farmer goes out to fields. He knows that his labor may be to no avail. Yet he puts his hand to the plow and his eyes to the future.

The rest of us can only watch the farmer who watches his parched crops and offer what sympathy and assistance we can in his time of trouble. But it is impossible for us to grasp completely his feelings as the fields grow brown. We can only marvel at the courage and the determination which will set him to planting again when the season is right and hope guides his plow.

One Way To Hamper Crime

The 90th birthday of George Le Brun, just celebrated, should have more than local recognition. He is the author of New York's Sullivan Law, which has made more trouble for criminals than almost any other on the state statute books. This is a law forbidding the possession of dangerous weapons without a license, which, incidentally, is not given readily.

An official in the Chief Medical Examiner's Office, which in New York corresponds to the coroner's elsewhere, Le Brun was struck by the ease with which criminals could get deadly weapons. He suggested a law to restrict their distribution, and got as its sponsor State Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, a Tammany warhorse. It has been in force since 1911. Few if any other states have copied New York's example. Le Brun thinks because of the opposition of the pistol manufacturers.

The Constitution guarantees the people the right to bear arms. This does not mean that everyone who wants them should have them. Almost every day comes word of the death of some child who found his father's revolver and started playing with it. A Sullivan law would prevent many such tragedies.

Eisenhower

may let fly against Truman's Far East policy in general. Eisenhower began today's meetings cheered by reports from two party leaders who backed Sen. Robert A. Taft for the nomination. They said they would give their full support to the present ticket. Gen. Len B. Jordan of Idaho and George T. Hansen, national committeeman from Utah, passed this word along to him Thursday, adding that prospects looked bright for the GOP in their states.

In Springfield, Ill., Gov. Stevenson was reported ready to kick off his campaign with a Labor Day speech in Detroit, followed by a swing into the South to hold the Dixie vote in line. High on his list of musts in the days ahead is the naming of a new Democratic national chairman to succeed Frank E. McKinney, reportedly on his way out.

Those considered for the post, according to speculation, are John Bailey of Connecticut, Democratic state chairman; Jim Doyle of Wisconsin, a top state leader; and Rep. John M. McCormack, Massachusetts, House majority leader. Elsewhere on the political scene: Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland opened fire on Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama. McKeldin said Stevenson's one-time endorsement of Alger Hiss is a "legitimate and proper point of attack" in the campaign. He said Sparkman was named by the Democrats to buy Southern votes.

Sen. Douglas (D. Ill.) accused that Stevenson was in the company of at least half the nation's independent voters, and that he was not a true Democrat.

In government charges are based on fact.

Even if Russia has no intention of risking major warfare now in this vital region, the long and tense Balkan borders provide another opportunity to heighten pressure in the cold war.

left over from the regime of Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath, and before him, Tom Clark. The departure of Vanech left the eighth major vacancy in the department's top echelon—starting last April 4 with the firing of McGrath at the height of President Truman's government "house cleaning" campaign. McGrath stepped down after he had first fired Newlands Morris, his special "house cleaner."

Behind much of the shake-up in the Justice Department has been the investigation launched last spring by a special House judiciary subcommittee headed by Rep. Frank Costigan (D. N.Y.) and Rep. Kenneth Keating (R. N.Y.). Costigan and Keating's committee headed by a Michigan attorney, reported that Morris had been a member of the Communist Party, U.S.A., and that he had been a member of the House of Representatives.

that she was not relaxing but only legitimate to feel more tense and that she got up and picked up the picture which had been partially destroyed. "I thought about taking my life, then," she said, "and thought about John's pistol first, but then I realized that—well, I handled a pistol since I was a girl and wouldn't know how to use it. So I thought I remembered some time ago when we put out some rat poison and I asked John what made it smoke and he said that was proof it was poison. So I decided on that."

She said she spread the poison on a slice of bread, ate it, and then went back to bed and lay down. She said she called her husband then on the phone and that when he arrived he was "all to pieces," and kept asking her why she wanted to do it.

"Oh, don't get so worked up about it," she said she told him and asked for salt water to drink. She said he asked her how strong she wanted it and she said, "Strong."

She said her husband called the hospital and that the next thing she remembered was the ambulance coming. She said that at the hospital the nurses tried to give her an antidote and that she asked for a straw so she could drink it.

When she had finished this part of her testimony, Judge Millard Smith asked the jury if they would like a short recess and they said they would.

When the court reconvened Judge Housholder continued his examination with: "Mrs. Clark, did you have any information on May 9 about any shortage in the tag department at the Tax Collector's office?"

"No, Sir, I did not."
"Are you glad now that you are alive, Mrs. Clark?"
"Yes, Sir, I wouldn't have fought so hard to live if I hadn't wanted to live."
"You fought hard, Mrs. Clark?"
"Yes, Judge Housholder, I did."

Mrs. Clark testified that she brought the registration cards which she had taken home on May 8 to the office on May 21 and gave them to Mr. Smith, the Motor Vehicle Commission's auditor. She said she told Mr. Smith about the "short" way I had been let out" by Mr. Galloway in a special delivery letter delivered to her home on May 16.

She said she asked Mr. Smith if there was a shortage in the office and that he didn't seem to know. She said she told him she would do anything in the world that she could to help out but said she didn't remember saying anything about mortgaging her home.

She said she saw Mr. Galloway on May 15 when he brought by check to her but that at that time there was no discussion of the shortage, that Mr. Galloway only mentioned to her that the missing Report No. 120 had not yet been found.

The next day she said he told her he held her responsible on her bond as office manager for "things not being right" and that it was that day which she received her dismissal.

She said she had a later conversation with Mr. Galloway in the grand jury room of the Court House and with Mrs. Harvey present at which time he asked her about this case and Mr. Galloway's shortage. She asked him how much it was, but he didn't tell her and asked her to raise the money for her $4,000 bond.

She said he also told her at this time that C. R. Kirtley wanted to help her and advised her to talk to him. She said that she did not tell Mr. Galloway at this time nor Mr. Kirtley later that she had taken an unauthorized $500 from the tag department accounts.

She did say that in January she had taken $200 and put her check in its place and that this was customary procedure for everyone in the office including Mr. Galloway. She said that there was an envelope in which these checks were kept and that there were several of Mr. Galloway's in it.

She testified that she took up her check in March and returned the $500 in cash and that Mrs. Helen Bryan, who testified for the prosecution yesterday, counted it for her. She said that Mr. Galloway knew she had put it back and told her he had deposited it in the bank.

She further said that when anyone in the office but Mr. Galloway took up a check they would get someone to count it with them for protection. She said that Mr. Galloway was responsible for this to himself.

She said that she did not owe the Tax Collector any money after March except a small check for less than $15 which Mr. Galloway said he had deducted from her salary when he brought it to her May 16.

She said that Mr. Kirtley offered to tell her husband about the shortage but that she said she would tell him herself when she returned from Georgia where she was going to see her daughter graduate from school.

She said she returned from the graduation in the middle of June and was present at a meeting in Lloyd F. Boyle's office at which Mr. Boyle, Mr. Galloway's attorney, asked her, "Lillian, did you take that money?"

"No, Sir, I did not," I told him, and Lawyer Boyle turned to me and said, "Well, he said you held it with it. I asked Mr. Galloway if he wanted me for anything else and he said he didn't, so I left. That was my mistake."

Throughout the examination Mrs. Clark spoke slowly but distinctly and smiled frequently except during the testimony about her attempt on her life. She appeared to make a distinct impression on the packed gallery which followed her testimony with rapt attention.

Just before she took the stand, Dr. Leonard Munson testified for the prosecution that he attended money for her $4,000 bond. She said he also told her at this time that C. R. Kirtley wanted to help her and advised her to talk to him. She said that she did not tell Mr. Galloway at this time nor Mr. Kirtley later that she had taken an unauthorized $500 from the tag department accounts.

Throughout the examination Mrs. Clark spoke slowly but distinctly and smiled frequently except during the testimony about her attempt on her life. She appeared to make a distinct impression on the packed gallery which followed her testimony with rapt attention.

Just before she took the stand, Dr. Leonard Munson testified for the prosecution that he attended

Mrs. Clark on the morning of May 9 at the hospital. He said that someone told him she had taken rat poison but he couldn't remember who it was.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Leon Bryan, an employee in the Tax Collector's office, testified that while Tyler B. Smith was in the office in April of 1951 to speed records of tag sales she saw Mrs. Clark report from a pile of four which were to be mailed and said that she did not believe there was enough money in the bank to cover it.

It was several weeks later, on May 8, that Mr. Smith returned to Sanford looking for a missing Report No. 120.

Mrs. Bryan further testified that on May 9, the day after the office copy of Report No. 120 was discovered missing, Mrs. Clark did not come to work. Mrs. Bryan said she went to her home to look for her, and later found her at the hospital. She had a conversation while there in the hall with Mr. Clark, but was not allowed to re-enter this in court since it was out of the hearing of the defendant.

Mrs. Bryan testified that her duties in the tag department were somewhat similar to those of Mrs. Clark in his tag department. She said that if there had been a shortage in the tag department she would have known it, and further testified that there had never been a shortage in the tag department in all the time she had been working in the office.

She further testified that in a year the tag department handled approximately $175,000 while the tax department handled about $200,000.

She said that she has been doing the work on the sales of tags ever since Mrs. Clark stopped working in the office and that she would know immediately if there was not enough money in the tag drawer to take care of the registration cards for the day.

In cross examination Mr. Housholder asked her, "Do you remember, Mrs. Bryan, when I talked to you about a week ago about this case and Mr. Galloway came in and sat right up on the desk?"

"Yes, sir," she replied. "Did you at that time tell me anything at all about Mrs. Clark removing one of those four reports and putting it up on top of the safe?"

"No, sir, I did not."
"Well, didn't you say you would tell me everything you knew about the case?"
"I said I would answer your questions."
"And didn't I ask you if there was anything else you knew about the case?"

"Yes, sir, you did."
"And you forgot to tell me this about Mrs. Clark and that report?"
"Yes, sir."

She also testified under cross examination that she had no independent knowledge of who got the tag department money, and she said that she and other clerks in the office occasionally helped with the balance sheets for the tag department. She insisted, however, that Mrs. Clark customarily did this work.

She also said that she made up the deposits in the morning and gave them to Mr. Galloway who took them to the bank. She said she always checked to see that the total of the deposit corresponded with the total on the balance sheet for the previous day's business.

She said she couldn't remember the exact date when Mrs. Clark removed the report from the stack of four for the mails, but reiterated that it was while Mr. Smith was in the office to speed up the reporting.

Mrs. W. E. Varn, another employee in the office, testified that the cash register tape of the sales of license tags was not kept for some time before the shortage was discovered under the orders of Mrs. Clark. Mr. Galloway previously testified that he had given instructions that this tape should be kept.

She also said she had heard Mrs. Clark ask for her job back and that Mr. Galloway had told her he couldn't give it to her because it would be impossible to get a bond on her.

Both Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Varn vigorously denied that they got any of the money for the sale of tags. Mrs. Belle Grantham, employee of the county agent, C. R. Lawson, also testified yesterday afternoon.

GAMBLER'S WIFE KILLED
MIAMI — The wife of gambler Howard G. Pinder was found shot to death Thursday night in the bedroom of her home and homicide detective J. J. Palmer said it was "definitely murder."

Mrs. Dora Pinder, 40, died of a bullet wound in her mouth, Palmer said, but the death weapon was not found and there were no powder burns on the body.

Pinder who had been arrested several times on gambling charges said he was out "collecting some bills" at the time. He said robbery couldn't have been the motive because $150 in his wife's purse and $500 in a dresser drawer was untouched.

ped last fall by the Cleveland O. C. federal court after a "kick out," a union spokesman said. The strike announcement came after a union-management conference early this week had aroused expectations that a walkout would be avoided. Although talks were on on Wednesday, the National Mediation Board in Washington set up a conference aimed at heading off a threatened strike.

CITY ENJOINED

JACKSONVILLE — Circuit Judge Boyard B. Shields has stipulated the city of Jacksonville from enforcing an order restricting passenger pickups by the airport limousine service.

He issued a temporary injunction Thursday calling city commission's action last month "unreasonably and arbitrary. The commission has banned pickup and delivery of passengers at hotels. Mayor F. A. Don Burns said the operator of the limousine service, R. W. H. W. was issued a federal gambling tax stamp and the commission action was aimed at forcing the service out of business.

Track at the Ume said a stamp issued last year naming him as co-holder was never used and he has no interest in a place holding a gambling stamp.

NEGROES HELD FOR MURDER

GAINESVILLE — Two Negroes are charged with first degree murder in the fatal beating of Fitzhugh Lee Cain, University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station employe.

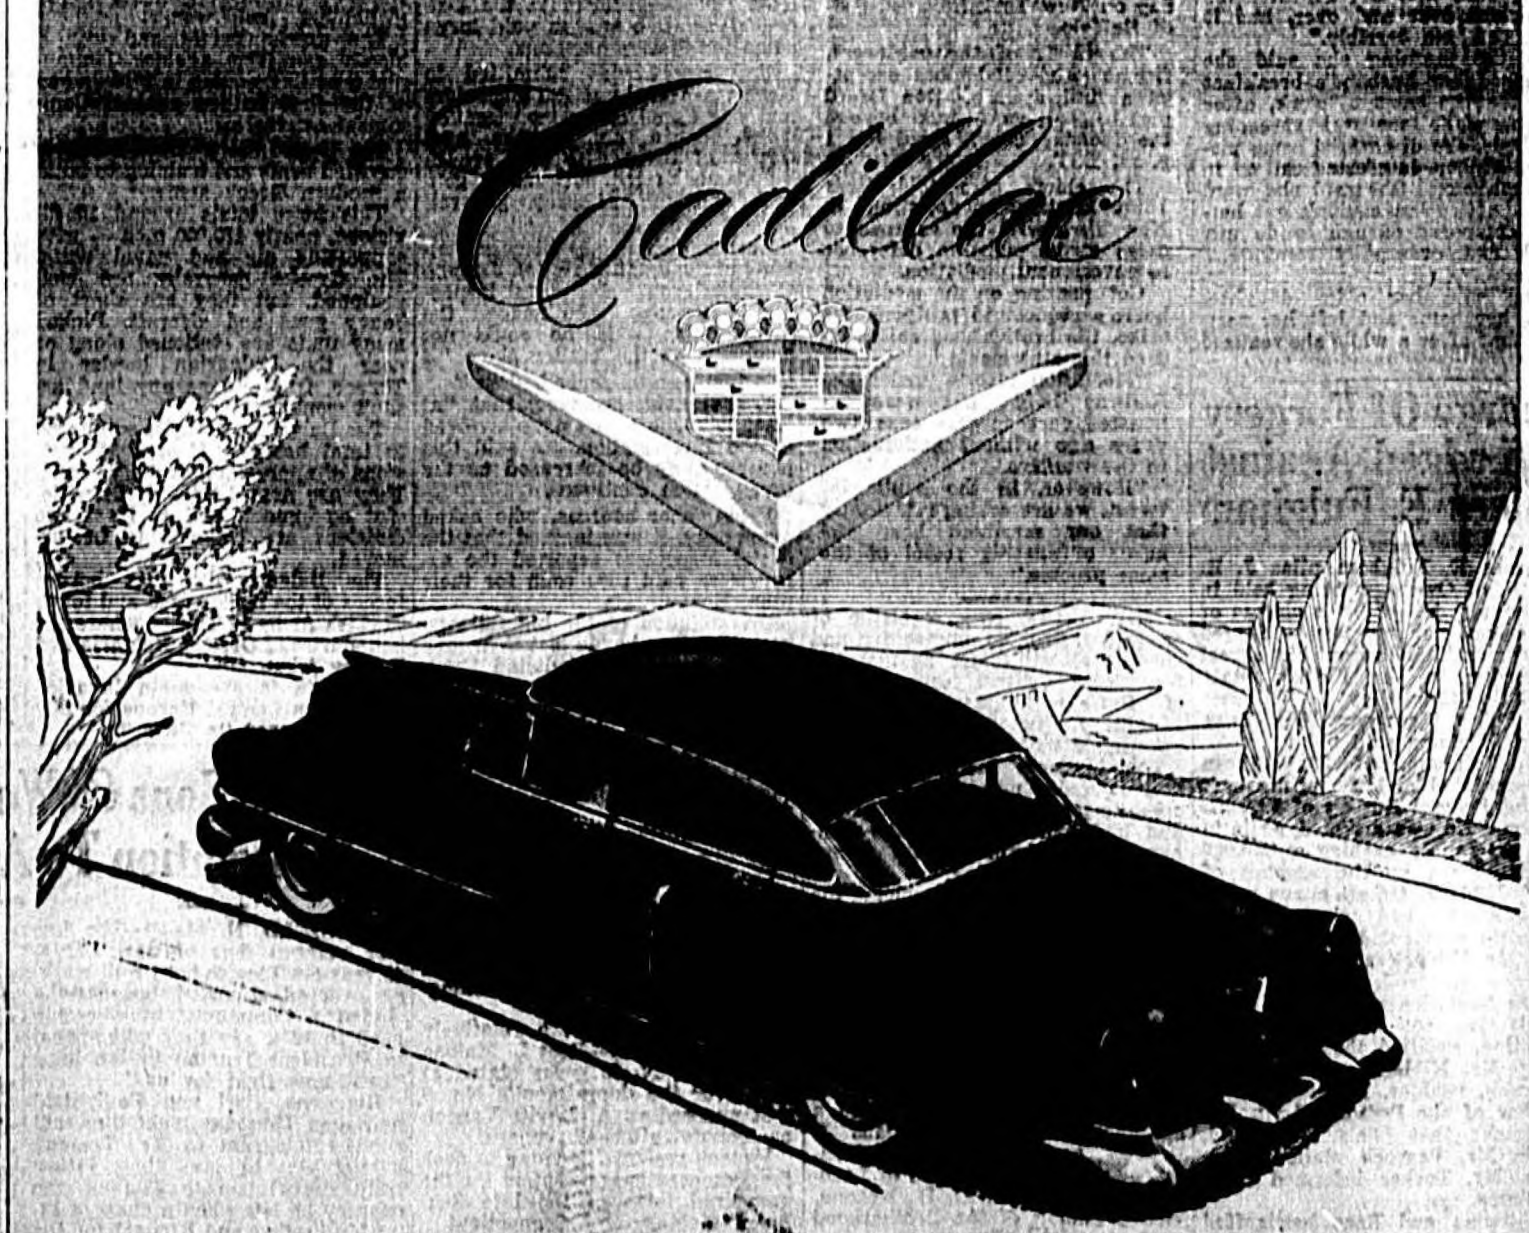

Cain died Thursday. Police Chief W. D. Jones said he was beaten Sunday night after he attempted to buy beer in a Negro look. The police officer attributed the attack to robbery.

The chief identified the Negroes held on murder charges as William Ingram and Willie Lee Mobley. Two others are being held as witnesses.

ARMY PAYROLL STOLEN

SYDNEY, Australia — Soldiers of the Australian Southern Command are getting paid today despite the theft in Melbourne Thursday of their $3,597 pound ($15,000) payroll. It was the biggest cash steal in Australia's history.

Police said the stolen money, in small notes and in an ammunition box, disappeared from a strong-room where it was awaiting armored car delivery to the army. Another payroll was provided.

You Can Whisper—and Be Heard!

We should like to have you come in for a ride in a Golden Anniversary Cadillac. And when you do, we hope you will just sit back and relax... and listen! And what will you hear? Well, you'll hear the soft sound of the wind as it slips past the streamlined body... and, possibly, the quiet ticking of the electric clock. But aside from these—you'll hear almost nothing. In fact, you'll find you can actually whisper—and be heard by your fellow-passengers! We want you to experience this because nothing speaks more eloquently or more convincingly of motor car quality than—silence! It tells you, free of all, that here is automotive engineering at its supreme best. For such silence of operation can only come when every phase of the car's performance is in perfect harmony. It speaks of precision—for only the greatest accuracy in design and construction can result in such remarkable freedom from vibration. It is a testimonial to fine craftsmanship—to quality materials—and to scientific styling. And, of course, this marvelous quiet foretells many of the pleasures and satisfactions you would enjoy as the car's owner. It promises rest—and relaxation—and peace of mind... and a minimum of upkeep expense. So why not take our suggestion—and come in and drive this beautiful Golden Anniversary creation? Let it tell you its own wonderful story through the things you cannot hear!

Mrs Clark Is Found Guilty Of Embezzling

Sentence Postponed Pending An Appeal; Verdict Returned For Sum As Charged

Mrs. Lillian C. Clark was convicted Friday night by a jury of six men of embezzlement in the whole sum of $9,871.85 mentioned in the indictment. The pleadings of the first attorney continued past 6:00 o'clock and before he gave the case to the jurors Judge Millard Smith asked if they would prefer to retire for supper first. After some hesitation they decided to get it over with immediately. Judge Smith then read his charge to the jurors, in which he instructed them that if they were convinced the evidence showed Mrs. Clark to be guilty of embezzling any sum at all they were to find her guilty and specify the sum.

The jury then retired, deliberated 55 minutes and brought in the verdict of guilty at 7:50 p.m. While they were out they asked for the charge once and later came out to get the indictment. The courtroom remained packed until the verdict was delivered and most of the spectators remained to watch Murray Overstreet request the judge to send the jurors back to change their verdict to embezzlement in the sum of $9,871.85 less the $150 which Steve Farlin, state auditor, had testified might have been taken prior to Oct. 15, 1949 and hence would not come within the statute of limitations.

The audience sat tense and quiet as Kayle Housholder, attorney for the defense, argued in a studied tone that he did not see how the verdict could be returned to the jury for amendment after it had been filed by the clerk, O. P. Hanson.

The judge decided for Mr. Housholder and discharged the jury at 7:45 p.m. Members of the jury were John T. Brady, foreman, Earl N. Roth, Giles Chapman, Arthur, Phoebe, Murray Overstreet, Jr., and Amos H. Barr.

The arguments of the opposing teams of attorneys to the jury continued throughout the afternoon and evening sessions from the 11th to the 12th. The state attorneys Overstreet and Hubert Griggs reiterated that no other persons in the office were so continuously employed in the tag department that they were so far from successfully evading detection in embezzlement.

Mr. Overstreet emphasized, too, the testimony of C. R. Kirtley, a local produce merchant, and of Steve Farlin and other witnesses, all interested witnesses, that Mrs. Clark confessed to them that she had taken $500.

"An embezzlement case by its very nature," Mr. Overstreet said, "is not the kind of case where you see a man taking the money. You don't have eyewitnesses. You must depend on circumstances and facts that point to the guilty party, and the circumstances in this case point the finger of suspicion directly at Mrs. Clark."

Mr. Overstreet asked the jury why Mr. Galloway should want to take money out of his own fund for running his own office, a fund a large part of which went to pay his own salary, and which he had been completely used up during the slack season which was coming up when the shortage was discovered.

"Tell me why Mr. Galloway would want to take his own money?" Mr. Overstreet asked as he effectively paced the floor between the jury and the judge's stand.

He also emphasized that all the money did not have to go at once, that some could have been slipped out over a period of time without it being noticed because the reports of the office were so far behind and there was plenty of money to pay for reports currently being made.

As to her version of the suicide attempt he asked the jury if it (Continued On Page Six)

Russell Says Stevenson Will Win

U. S. SENATOR Richard B. Russell, of Georgia, and Gov. Adlai Stevenson (right), the Democratic Presidential candidate, talk to newsmen after a two-hour conference in Springfield, Ill. Russell, the South's unsuccessful candidate at the convention, predicted that the Illinois Chief Executive will carry the South by one of largest majorities in history.

National Guard Finishes Camp At Fort McClellan

Proudly bringing home two trophies, 78 enlisted men and four officers of Company I, 124th Infantry, Florida National Guard, arrived Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Atlantic Coast Line Depot following two weeks of training at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Competing with other companies in the Third Army, the men of Company I won the General John Pershing trophy on individual qualifications for small arms. Ability in individual firing also brought them another trophy from the State of Florida, said Warrant Officer Terrence P. Brown.

It seemed as though half of Sanford was waiting with automobiles at the depot to welcome us and take us to the Army where the men were dismissed," he declared.

Capt. David M. Gatech was in command of the Company, and was assisted by Second Lt. Glenn Lingle and Jack Tinberg and Warrant Officer Brown.

The latter termed the instruction very good and said that the men had a worth while experience, plenty of recreation facilities, were well fed, and added the camp was one of the best at which they had trained since the war.

Another honor was the Company I kitchen, which had the best rating in the Third Battalion.

While the days were warm, the nights were pleasant, the men reported. There was some rain during the second week.

FORT McCLELLAN, Ala. (Special) — Seven Trophies, honoring seven officers of the famed 124th Infantry Regiment, killed in action during World War Two, were awarded to outstanding units of the 124th during its final ceremonies at Fort McClellan, Ala., today.

The awarding of the seven trophies during the second straight year that these trophies have been awarded. They were first inaugurated during the 1951 encampment.

The trophies were presented in an impressive Regimental Review which concluded the two week training period of the 124th Infantry.

Awards presented were: For Efficiency, a cup, to the Medium Tank Company from Lake City, presented in honor of Capt. Elmo E. Struth, who enlisted as a private in the 124th's Second Battalion Headquarters at Starke, in 1933. He was inducted into Federal Service in 1941 as a sergeant, and later attended Officers Candidate School, where he was commissioned as a second lieutenant.

He was later promoted while serving in the 34th Infantry Division. He was killed in action in the Pacific in Mindanao, in June of 1945. (Continued On Page Eight)

Ridgway Sees Threat Of War Great As Ever

SHAPE Commander Declares There Are Serious Weaknesses In West Buildup

By HARVEY HUDSON
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE
—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today the threat of war is still as big as ever, and there are serious weaknesses in the West's buildup to meet this threat.

The supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe laid a news conference there no doubt as to whether the Western Allies could reach their 1952 goal of 50 divisions—23 active and 25 in reserve—and 1,000 planes.

Ridgway also said he favored last year's military services—something European nations are to discuss in Paris Tuesday amid indications they will not adopt it.

Belgium has already been hit by French protests her two-year draft term.

Ridgway, former United Nations Commander in Korea, took over the SHAPE command in May from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"The most serious deficiency to date," Ridgway said, is the SHAPE buildup in the logistics field.

The problem of building warehouses, troop installations and air fields is broad and complex, he said, and "I haven't had time to go into the almost innumerable details of that program."

On the question of British and French units they may not be able to reach their target numbers because of economic difficulties or failure to receive sufficient United States aid, he said that is "above military and political control."

He added, however, he felt the question "can and will be adjusted without damage to the SHAPE program."

He said the new superweapons being developed are exceedingly difficult to evaluate and it was very difficult to estimate whether the number of ground troops could be cut down to the target level.

In a prepared statement opening the news conference he said "Some unobvious people are quite genuine in overlooking the obstacles" in setting up an international command.

For his part, he said "I would like that such harmonious ties" had been formed in such a short time.

Snyder Says People Are "Going" To Get Honest Tax Bureau

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Treasury, Snyder, said today the American people are going to get a federal revenue service of top efficiency, unquestioned integrity and maximum operating economy.

Snyder spoke at ceremonies in veying the "new" national headquarters of the Internal Revenue Service, which is being gradually expanded under a plan advanced by President Truman and approved by Congress against a profitable backdrop of corruption charges.

In a prepared speech, Snyder, who took the oath today, said that he would be pleased to see the American people get a federal revenue service of top efficiency, unquestioned integrity and maximum operating economy.

At today's ceremonies, three tax service career men were sworn in as assistant commissioners, titles formerly held by political appointees. They are:

Justin F. Winkle, 41, Seneca Falls, N. Y., native who started in the service as a messenger at 16. He will supervise general operations, including the field service and collection work.

Norman A. Sugarman, 35, Cleveland, Ohio, native who entered the revenue service 12 years ago. He will supervise technical functions, including rule and regulation making.

Edgar E. Hoppe, 44, native of Tharfield, Tex., who joined the bureau in 1935. He will direct the inspection service, charged with insuring honesty and efficiency.

Robert E. Barlett Hurt In Accident

Robert E. Barlett, 50, of Orlando, was injured this morning at 11:35 o'clock in an automobile accident on the Orlando Highway near Seminola Drive, the race track road. He was taken to Orlando Memorial Hospital, Orlando, for emergency treatment.

State Highway Patrolman K. D. Harrison stated that Barlett was hurt when a passing automobile, cutting in too close ahead of him, caused his refrigerator service truck to skid and overturn. At the time of this statement the extent of the injuries had not yet been reported.

Damage in the truck, the property of Foremost Dairy Service, was estimated at $750. Identity of the driver who cut in too close has not yet been determined, said Mr. Harrison.

Special Session Is Urged On President By Two Congressmen

White House Visitors Advise President He Should Do Something About Prices

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
WASHINGTON — Two House members urged President Truman today to call a special session of Congress and ask for a tightened price control law. They said they saw "nothing definite" from him as to whether he will.

Rep. Karsten (Missouri) and Price (Illinois) Democrats went to the White House to plug for a special session on an issue which has split the administration's top economic command and is opposed by some Democratic leaders including Sen. John V. Sparkman, Alabama, the party's vice presidential nominee.

Karsten said he and Price advised the President they felt he should "do something" about prices and that a special session was "his only weapon."

A reporter asked whether Karsten thought a special session would accomplish anything since Congress has already refused to vote Mr. Truman's price control recommendations.

"I think so," Karsten replied. "Some of the people who supported controls now have had the chance to go out and talk to the people, as I have done. These talks may have changed their minds."

A formal recommendation for a special session has been made by House Rep. Arnold.

But Economic Stabilizer Roger Patterson said Sunday night he saw no need for it unless prices keep climbing at a rapid rate.

Other opposition was voiced by a spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation and by Rep. Jacob V. Aron (R. N. Y.).

In the meantime, new standards being set up by Arnold's agency, the Office of Price Stabilization, apparently assured higher retail prices as a result of the steel, aluminum and copper price boosts recently granted.

All of these developments were continuing ripples from the storm kicked up over the steel price dispute settled July 21. The Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM), on that date approved a half-billion dollar price increase for steel—$100 million for carbon steel and a $500 million for alloy steel.

Arnold called on Mr. Truman Wednesday. He handed in his resignation and urged the President to order a special session of Congress. Mr. Truman took no action on the resignation but said he was considering a special session.

In New York, Patterson said on an NBC radio television program he was a sign of "a runaway" on food prices. He said he believed a special session is not needed now, but added:

"If prices go up in the next month as fast as they have gone up in the past month, yes."

The powerful Farm Bureau's secretary-treasurer, Roger Fleming, attacked the whole idea of special congressional action. In a statement to the radio, he said radio delivers he called it.

"An obvious attempt to hitchhike a publicly rule on the drought troubles of farmers and to divert the public's attention away from recent government actions to boost wages and prices."

Fleming said, however, only about half of the raw material cost boost would be allowed to be passed on to consumers. He said requests for higher ceilings, based not only on higher material costs but on higher labor and transportation expenses as well, are coming in by the scores.

These, it was explained, would allow higher ceilings for makers of consumer goods because of increased costs of steel, aluminum and copper.

Mr. Tolar started work as an engineer with the J. P. and K. W. Railroad in 1902, served with the Plant System, and with the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, which took over the Plant System in 1909.

After serving as engineer of many passenger trains between Jacksonville and Tampa, Mr. Tolar retired on Jan. 27, 1945. He was born in Cairo, Ga., June 16, 1875.

A number of local railroad officials are due to be present at the presentation. Those will include O. V. Horner, district superintendent; Mr. Cornell; J. W. Plant, trainmaster; H. V. Nelson, road foreman of engines; M. Carroll, night shop foreman; J. R. Pilla, car foreman. Friends and members of the Tolar family are also expected to be present. Mr. Tolar is a brother of Dr. J. N. Tolar, Sanford physician.

City Commission To Meet Tonight

The City Commission will meet this evening in the City Hall to discuss the suggestion of Robert Brown, chairman of the Planning Commission, that leaders be constructed along the bulkhead of Lake Monroe.

Other matters slated to come up for discussion are the applications of the Motors Inn to build an additional room on the rear of their main building, for a permit to sell beer and wine at 3505 Sanford Avenue, for transfer of a beer and wine license from James M. Burch to Norman Taylor, and of Nathaniel Jackson to operate a woodyard at 1715 W. Eighth Street.

CIO Steel Workers Go Back To Jobs

BUFFALO, N. Y. — CIO steelworkers returned to the Republic steel plant today, ending a walkout that started Saturday.

Members of Local 1743 voted to end what the company described as a "wildcat strike."

Joseph P. Molony, USW district director, said meetings would start immediately with local management in an effort to iron out differences.

"Considerable resentment has been expressed by members of the union at the company's attempt, since the steel strike, to assign additional work to employees and reduce the size of crew."

It is claimed, Molony said, "that the company is attempting to recover the wage increase by making the men work harder."

Molony said safety was involved and Republic had asked workers to do jobs for which they were not qualified.
