FLORIDA BRIEFS

Report: Florida lags in mental health care

ORLANDO — Florida is "treading water" in its attempts to care for the seriously mentally ill because of state spending that ranks among the nation's lowest, a new report says.

Florida received fair to poor ratings for its hospital, outpatient care, housing and rehabilitation programs, the Orlando Sentinel reported Sunday. That put it 32nd among the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

"The state is treading water," said psychiatrist E. Fuller Torrey, who helped write the report. "Compared to other states, it's not making any progress."

The report was co-authored and financed by the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill and Ralph Nader's Public Citizen Health Research Group. Torrey said the report is the only effort to evaluate programs for people with long-term mental illnesses such as manic-depression and schizophrenia.

Florida's annual per person allocation for mental health is $25.30, Torrey said that puts the state in a small group of rich-but-miserly states that includes Texas, Nevada, Arizona and Hawaii, which ranked dead last in mental health care.

Florida spends about $450 million each year on alcohol, drug abuse and mental health services. That includes state, federal and local programs.

Report: Florida tops in middle-wage jobs

WASHINGTON — Florida gained more middle-wage jobs than any other state between 1979 and 1987, a Senate report shows.

The Senate Budget Committee report released last week also showed Florida gained 143,000 high-wage jobs in the eight-year period.

That outpaced even the "Massachusetts Miracle" touted by presidential candidate Gov. Michael Dukakis. Massachusetts gained 95,000 high-wage jobs during the study period.

High-wage jobs were defined as those paying more than $44,644 a year. Middle-wage jobs paid between $11,611 and $44,644 a year. Overall, Florida placed second only to California in good-wage jobs gained during the study period.

That, said Florida State University economics professor James Gwartney, indicates that skilled workers from economically troubled states are migrating to states with strong economies and good climates.

But Florida remains a relatively low-wage state despite its recent success, the report noted. Last year, 40 percent of Florida workers made below-poverty-level wages.

MIA's wife testifies today

PENSACOLA — A woman who sued the government for the "outrageous" way it identified bones as her missing husband then tried to bury them against her will is scheduled to testify in federal court today.

Anne Hart, 45, of Pensacola, her six children and mother-in-law, Vera Hart, filed a $20 million suit against the Army and Air Force in October 1986 over the way they handled the identification of Lt. Col. Thomas Hart.

The suit claims the identification of seven bone fragments as Hart's and plans to bury them at Arlington National Cemetery against Mrs. Hart's wishes caused intentional infliction of emotional distress.

She blamed the government for "outrageous behavior," in her suit which asks $10 million from both military branches.

Clinics confused over new consent law

TAMPA — Some abortion clinics are requiring patients to present photo IDs proving they are old enough to undergo the procedure without parental permission, while others have yet to draft policies dealing with the new consent law.

Employees at the Tampa Women's Health Center were taking no chances as the law took effect Saturday. They asked clients for identification with a photograph, then made photocopies of the documents before performing the abortion.

The law requires that unmarried teens under 18 have the consent of a parent or a judge for abortions.

Although some employees complain that the law turns them into detectives, workers at clinics around the state demanded that parents accompany minors to abortions and requested identification from clients.

Some clinics have yet to draft guidelines for dealing with the new law. Others have drawn up rules but are still confused, especially about how to refer teenagers who need to go to court.

Pesticide lack gets fruit growers buggsy

MIAMI — A lack of legal pesticides is forcing Florida's fruit and vegetable growers to choose between breaking the law or enduring years of crop damage while new pesticides are tested.

The problem is especially severe for farmers who grow exotic tropical fruits such as atemoya, sugar apples, mamey sapote and carambola, the Miami Herald reported Sunday. Those fruits are highly profitable, bringing up to $4 a pound, but there are no pesticides approved for use on them.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

NASA plans conservative future

By WILLIAM HARWOOD
United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — With Discovery's flight drawing to a close, NASA is looking to the future, accepting delivery of an exotic planetary probe this week and gearing up for the launch of the shuttle Atlantis in November.

Atlantis, scheduled to be hauled out to launch pad 39B late this month, is scheduled for blastoff around Nov. 17 on the 27th shuttle mission, the second since the Challenger disaster, to ferry a secret military spy satellite into orbit.

Unlike Discovery's heavily publicized launch last week, Atlantis will be launched with little fanfare because the flight, even its precise launch time, is classified.

Seven shuttle flights are scheduled for 1989 with 10 on tap in 1990, nine in 1991, 13 in 1992 and nine through September 1993. Of the 50 flights on the books, 10 are classified military missions.

"There are some pretty exciting flights coming up that were going to happen in 1986 but now are going to happen in the next year," NASA Administrator James Fletcher said in an interview.

Among those "pretty exciting flights" are:

—April 18, 1989: The Magellan probe is launched to map the hidden surface of cloudy Venus with high-resolution radar. The spacecraft is scheduled to arrive at the Kennedy Space Center Friday for pre-launch testing and checkout.

—Oct. 12, 1989: The Galileo spacecraft, the most sophisticated deep space science craft ever built, is launched to study Jupiter and its moons.

—Feb. 1, 1990: The $1.4 billion Hubble Space Telescope is placed in orbit.

The flight schedule calls for launching Discovery on the third post-Challenger mission around Feb. 18 to carry another Tracking and Data Relay Satellite into orbit identical to the one deployed last week and one already operating in orbit.

But NASA officials say that flight could be in jeopardy if Atlantis's planned November launch is significantly delayed, because of concern about preserving the Magellan "launch window" in April.

Because of the relative positions of Earth and Venus, and the power of the planetary probe's "inertial upper stage" booster, NASA must launch Magellan within a 30-day period or the agency will face a yearlong delay to give the planets time to return to favorable positions.

In the post-Challenger environment, launch processing is unpredictable, given a shortage of spare parts and manpower, and if Atlantis's rollout to the launch pad slips into November, pushing blastoff into December, Discovery's launch on the third post-Challenger flight could be in jeopardy.

Under that scenario, NASA managers might elect to assign Discovery to the Magellan mission, delaying launch of the third Tracking and Data Relay Satellite until later next year to make sure Magellan meets its launch date.

When the shuttle program was born in the 1970s, NASA managers talked of launching 24 missions a year.

But even before the 1986 Challenger disaster grounded the shuttle program, it was painfully obvious the space agency would never achieve such lofty flight rates with a fleet of just four orbiters and a limited budget.

And in the wake of history's worst space tragedy, a conservative safety-first philosophy was born that will make it even tougher to maintain a robust launch rate.

NASA was criticized in the post-Challenger accident investigation for frequently "cannibalizing" parts from one shuttle for use on another because of a general lack of critical spare parts.

The situation has improved in recent months, but "resource allocation," as the practice is now called, is still a fact of life for NASA. Indeed, several critical parts used by the shuttle Discovery were taken from Atlantis when problems developed with the original hardware during Discovery's launch preparations.

NASA talks publicly of launching up to 14 shuttles a year once a replacement for Challenger becomes operational in 1992.

But few observers believe the space agency can safely meet that flight rate in the conservative post-Challenger environment without more money to buy spare parts and to hire additional workers.

Miami 11th largest; coastal cities boom

United Press International

MIAMI — Miami-Fort Lauderdale ousted Cleveland as 11th largest metropolitan area last year and 18 other Florida communities, nearly all on the coast, posted double-digit growth in the latest U.S. Census Bureau ranking of cities.

The Miami-Fort Lauderdale population rose 11.7 percent to 2,954,100 as of July 1, 1987, fueled by a 14.2 percent gain in the Broward County portion of the region and 10.2 percent in Miami-Hialeah, a new report showed.

The Cleveland-Akron-Lorain area in Ohio lost 2.4 percent in population, sliding into the 12th place held by Miami since the 1980 Census.

Tampa-St. Petersburg gained 21.8 percent in population to 1,965,100, jumping two places in rank to No. 20 and replacing Cincinnati and Denver, which grew more slowly. However, Tampa is likely to be replaced in the 1990 Census by Phoenix, which grew 29.8 percent from 1980 and continues to post rapid growth.

The Census report showed Florida boasts seven of the nation's 10 fastest-growing communities, led by Naples with a 48.8 percent growth rate, followed by Ocala, Fort Myers-Cape Coral and Fort Pierce.

Orlando joined the top-10 for the first time with growth of 33.5 percent and also became the largest statistical area on the list with 934,700, the report showed.

The full list of 282 consolidated metropolitan statistical areas — the government's unit for measuring population — showed 19 Florida cities growing at double-digit rates, and 15 cities growing faster than 20 percent.

Hurricane aid sits in Tampa

United Press International

TAMPA — A hoarding of supplies for hurricane-hit Jamaica, much of it unneeded goods, has left nearly 300,000 pounds of donations sitting in Tampa warehouses.

Already overloaded airlines in Tampa and elsewhere have been unable to ship the supplies to Jamaica, the St. Petersburg Times reported Sunday.

"I'm getting calls from Texas, Alabama, Georgia and just about everywhere, asking where can they send their stuff," said Air Jamaica's Miami regional manager Daniel Chin. "I have to tell them, I don't know, but don't send it here. We're filled up in Miami."

American Red Cross spokesman Tom Donia said distribution problems have been caused in part by the donation of unneeded goods.

Donia said donations of used clothing and outdated medicine had clogged the distribution system. What is really needed, he said, is bulk food and building materials that Jamaicans could use to rebuild their homes before the October rainy season begins.

"I think people don't stop and think what the real needs are," Donia said. "There is a tendency on an individual basis to clear out your closet, and on a corporate level to give away anything for a tax break."

Once supplies do get to Jamaica, Donia said, they are quickly distributed to Gilbert's victims.

Rollins, Stetson, FIU make 'best schools' list

United Press International

MIAMI — A national magazine ranks Rollins College, Stetson University and Florida International University among the top 25 comprehensive institutions in the nation.

U.S. News & World Report, in its Oct. 10 issue, ranked the three Florida schools as best of those colleges and universities with more than 2,500 students. The list was headed by Wake Forest.

However, well-known schools such as Florida State, and the universities of Miami and Florida were missing from the lists, as either best national university, best liberal arts college, best regional liberal arts school or best small comprehensive college.

U.S. News each year uses statistical data on the size and complexion of the student body, the depth of faculty and the per-student size of its instruction budget to compile the list. The Rollins ranked No. 10 among the comprehensive schools, Stetson earned a spot at No. 17 and FIU edged into the list as No. 25, the first time the state school has been listed.

Rollins, in Winter Park, and Stetson, in Deland, are private schools with branch campuses. FIU is based in Miami, with a campus in North Miami Beach.

All three Florida schools competed with 399 other institutions that enroll more than 2,500 students and award more than half of the bachelors degrees in two or more occupational or professional disciplines.

Wake Forest in Winston-Salem, N.C., Trinity University in San Antonio, University of Richmond in Virginia, The Citadel in Charleston, S.C., and Worcester Polytechnic Institute in Massachusetts ranked in the top five among those 399 colleges.

Rollins ranks just behind the State University College at Fredonia, N.Y., and just ahead of Providence College in Rhode Island. Stetson fell between St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia and Assumption College in Worcester, Mass.

FIU ranked behind Siena College in Albany, N.Y., Yale, Princeton, California Institute of Technology, Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology led the list of best national universities. Swarthmore, Amherst, Williams, Wellesley and Pomona colleges ranked as best liberal arts school.

Southwestern University in Texas, Simon's Rock of Bard College in Massachusetts and Transylvania University in Kentucky ranked at the top of the regional liberal arts list. Berea College in Kentucky, Illinois Wesleyan University and Alfred University in New York headed the small comprehensive list.

Police say woman chased by bat wielder

LAKE MONROE — A man who Seminole County sheriff's deputies said hit his wife and sister-in-law and then chased the sister-in-law while brandishing a baseball bat is jailed.

Morris Wayne Farrar, 34, 808 School Road, was arrested at home on charges of aggravated assault and battery at about 3:20 a.m. Sunday.

At the scene Farrar's wife told deputies he hit her mouth and head with his hands. Donna Farra, 23, suffered a cut lip.

Sara Jean Huffstatter, 25, Mrs. Farra's sister, who lives at the same location, told deputies that during a family fight Farrar hit her in the head and pushed her down. When she got up, she said, Farrar brandished a baseball bat and chased her down County Road 15.

While the women were talking to sheriff's deputies Farrar returned home on foot. He was carrying a baseball bat and was arrested, deputies said. Bond is $1,000.

Police find shotgun during arrest

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Three occupants of a car stopped by City County Investigative Bureau agents after the car stopped on North Street for a suspected buy of cocaine also face charges of possession of a short barrel shotgun and carrying a concealed firearm.

The three were initially charged with attempting to purchase cocaine at 12:30 a.m. Sunday. The other charges were filed after CCIB agents found a shotgun under a towel on the front seat of the car, agents said.

Charged are Randy Eugene Moses, 31, 833 Orange Ave., Longwood; Stewart LeRoy Hamilton, 22, Sorrento; and Kathleen Ann Connelly, 30, Orlando. Connelly is also charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana found in her purse, agents said. Bond for each is $1,000.

Four charged as suspected dealers

SANFORD — Late Saturday and early Sunday City County Investigative Bureau agents reported arresting four suspected cocaine dealers in Seminole County.

The reported deals with agents were all for $20 worth of cocaine.

Casterderria Davis, 31, 2751 18th St. W., Sanford, was arrested at 2:15 a.m. Sunday after allegedly selling cocaine on 18th Street at Southwest Road, rural Sanford. The man believed to have supplied him with the cocaine, Virgil O'Dell Gilley, 33, 1820 Mulberry Ave., Sanford, was arrested at the same time. Both are charged with selling, delivery of and possession of cocaine.

At 3:15 a.m. Sunday, agents charged Keith Harvey, 28, 704 Brentwood St. Altamonte Springs, with sell and possession of cocaine. The arrest was made on Magnolia Street. Agents said Harvey had the cocaine hidden inside his mouth before the deal was made.

Charles Edward Colton, 32, 1236 North St., Altamonte Springs, was charged with attempting to sell cocaine and possession of cocaine, at 11:52 p.m. Saturday after he and another man agreed to sell an agent cocaine, agents reported. The other man was not captured.

Man arrested after hitting officer's foot

CASSELBERRY — A Casselberry police officer arrested a man after the man knocked the officer's foot from the bumper of his car, police said.

The incident occurred on Timberlane Trail at about 3:52 a.m. Sunday when the policeman was asking Anthony Glenn Pearson, 27, 1124 Timberlane Trail, why his car was stopped on the wrong side of the road.

Pearson slapped the policeman's leg and when the officer tried to arrest him he resisted, the arrest report said.

Pearson is charged with battery on a policeman and resisting arrest with violence. Bond is $1,000.

Man charged with spouse abuse

LONGWOOD — A Longwood man accused of hitting and choking his wife is charged with battery-spouse abuse.

Longwood police arrested Michael Kent Allen, 31, 791 Wayman Ave., at home at about 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Bond is $500.

Man reports being punched by robber

LONGWOOD — Longwood police are investigating a armed robbery in which the victim's car was flagged down by a gunman.

Capt. Terry Baker said Eugen Hallam, 18, Geneva, told police his car was stopped in Longwood Plaza at about 9:30 p.m. Friday by the robber. The suspect punched him in the face and took a small amount of cash before fleeing north on U.S. Highway 17-92.

Fire damages front of pub

LONGWOOD — An arsonist threw a firebomb that damaged the outside front of Brother's Pub, State Road 434, Longwood.

A Longwood policeman discovered the fire at about 3 a.m. and extinguished the blaze with a fire extinguisher taken from his patrol car.

Capt. Terry Baker said the fire is believed to have been caused by a firebomb. He had no estimate of damage, but the blaze was confined to the outer front of the building. The case is under investigation.

Man found inside closed gas station

SANFORD — A Sanford policeman, responding to a report of glass breaking at the Amoco gasoline station, 1407 French Ave. S., at about 4 a.m., reported finding a window broken and a man hiding inside the shop.

Chile's opposition fears plebiscite may be disrupted

By TOM HARVEY
United Press International

SANTIAGO, Chile — Opposition groups fear the government may disrupt and later halt this week's plebiscite over the continued rule of Gen. Augusto Pinochet because the Chilean leader appears to be trailing in public opinion polls.

Opposition sources said Sunday they feared government agents may provoke incidents allegedly created by communist forces and use the disturbances as a pretext to halt the Wednesday plebiscite.

One source, a civilian who requested anonymity because he said he feared for his safety, said the army believes communist insurgents have distributed arms for use during the plebiscite and that radicals planned to sabotage power supplies.

Heraldo Munoz, member of the executive committee of an opposition coalition of 16 political parties, said "certain sectors" of the government may seek to obstruct the plebiscite because Pinochet appears to be trailing in polls and could lose.

Pinochet, 72, who came to power in a bloody 1973 coup, is the only candidate in the "yes" or "no" vote. Approval gives him eight more years as president, while a negative result leads to an open election in 1989.

The source said the opposition believes the alleged communist threat may be used should it appear Pinochet is losing.

Munoz said the opposition was calling on all opposition forces to act calmly the day of the plebiscite and cautioned that others should also be peaceful. "This doesn't only depend on us," he said. "It depends on the government."

A government official, asked if the army was concerned about communist attacks, said, "The massive distribution of arms is too grave to be ignored."

Crime van helps cops catch crooks

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sheriff's investigators can now work through the night to gather and analyze clues at major crime scenes, thanks to a new crime scene van, which is equipped with lights, air conditioning and generators.

"At times when you need the equipment necessary for a major crime investigation the vehicle can go to the scene and stay indefinitely," Lt. Marty LaBrusciano, head of the Seminole County sheriff's technical services division, said.

The $20,000 Dodge van also serves as a storage area for major pieces of mobile equipment such as a laser used to find fingerprints and video and other cameras, which are shared by several investigators. LaBrusciano said.

"It's self supporting. It has its own power. Investigators don't have to remember to stop at the office and pick up special equipment, which is not carried during day to day operation. This way, the equipment is better taken care of and is always ready at a moment's notice. You just hop in the van and drive to the scene," he said.

Before the van was delivered in June forensic investigators would gather their clues by day. If the crime occurred outside, scenes would have to be guarded by other sheriff's deputies overnight. The van allows for the on-scene probe to continue through the night and under unfavorable weather conditions, LaBrusciano said.

When not in use the van is garaged at the sheriff's office and its air conditioner runs constantly on low, to protect the delicate equipment and film stored in the van from heat and humidity. It also has a small refrigerator for preserving specimens.

"This is mainly for homicides," LaBrusciano said of the van. "Those are the most complex from a forensic standpoint. It might also be used in an arson or perhaps a robbery with shots fired. If we were going to be there for an extended period."

The van is compartmentalized, with a place for all supplies which are kept in stock. "We're always evaluating, replacing, supplementing and re-arranging things to find the most efficient arrangement," he said.

There is a small work space, which enables the investigator to "do it right there (analyze evidence) instead of waiting to get back to the office. Three or four people can fit in comfortably to review or plan," he said. Video tapes can also be reviewed. That means an investigator might not have to walk into a crime scene. He could review a tape made by another investigator, so on site

This type of vehicle is common to most metropolitan police agencies — "more complete law enforcement agencies," LaBrusciano said. He added that the van is available to assist other police departments in the county. To date it's been used in about a half dozen cases.

Soviets said to plan widening of personal freedoms

By NEIL ROLAND
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Soviet officials have told the United States that Moscow intends to revise laws used for decades to crush political dissent and religious observance, a senior State Department official says.

Assistant Secretary of State Richard Schifter said in an interview last week that the Kremlin plans later this year to introduce measures that would repeal a law making it a crime to "defame" the Soviet state and ease a statute banning the teaching of religion outside the family.

The State Department says

thousands of Soviet dissidents and religious observers have been convicted and imprisoned under those broad statutes in recent decades.

Soviet experts have said the changes, if approved and enforced, could prove to be of "historic" importance.

"In the Soviet Union, there's a yearning to be free," said Schifter, the Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs.

"The Soviet leadership has an increasing awareness of how they look in the world as a result of their failure in human rights. The fact that this administration has made (Soviet human rights) an issue has speeded up the process," he said.

Schifter said Soviet officials described the plans to him during U.S. Soviet human rights meetings in Washington Sept. 22 and 23. These working groups convened while Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze met with Secretary of State George Shultz.

Schifter said the Soviets discussed Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's plans to propose new laws for public discussion by the end of the year and submit them to the legislative Supreme Soviet soon afterward.

Among the changes detailed by the Soviets, Schifter said, were plans to lengthen judges' terms to make the judiciary more independent of government influence, and to allow religious groups to perform charitable work.

The Soviets also described new regulations they had drafted to lower barriers to emigration by Soviet citizens, the State Department has previously said.

In trying to ease restrictions on political dissent, the Soviets are said to be changing two articles in their criminal code.

The law to be repealed, Article 190-1, bans "circulation in any oral form of fabrications ... which defame the Soviet state and social system." A department official said the Soviets also intend to tighten the notorious Article 70.

Soviets open Vladivostok for conference

United Press International

VLADIVOSTOK, U.S.S.R. — The Pacific port city of Vladivostok has been opened to foreigners for the first time in 54 years, but a retired naval commander said the decision was opposed by some military leaders.

Retired Rear Adm. Nikolai Amelko told a news conference Sunday on the third day of an international forum on the Soviet role in Asia that the decision to open Vladivostok for the conference was a "political" one. "I would be a renegade of the Soviet armed forces to deny that disagreements have taken place," said Amelko, who is now an adviser to the Foreign Ministry.

Vladivostok, headquarters of the Soviet Pacific Fleet, was declared a "fortress city" in 1933, closing it to all foreigners and to Soviet citizens who did not have special permission or a pass.

An exception was made in 1974 when President Gerald Ford met there with the late Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev. On Aug. 28, the Soviet government declared the maritime region, of which Vladivostok is the administrative center, open to Russians.

Soviet authorities opened the city to foreigners for the start of the conference Saturday, which has brought together delegates from 345 nations, including the United States, the Philippines, Malaysia and Japan.

The development is seen as a signal that Moscow is seriously pursuing opening its vast store of raw materials in the Soviet Far East for development and strengthening economic and political ties in the region, and an indication the port is soon to be open to regular foreign visits.

For the military, Amelko said, "That decision is somewhat difficult to digest."

But, said the former Pacific Fleet commander, "On the other hand, the Soviet army and navy are integral component parts of the overall family of Soviet agencies."

The retired officer said the Soviet fleet was no longer concentrated in Vladivostok, but at a few other points on the Soviet Pacific coast.

Amelko grew somewhat testy when asked by an Australian correspondent specifically how the Soviet fleet was deployed.

'Dumbing-down of textbooks

The "dumbing-down" of textbooks used in the nation's public schools is proceeding omnibusly, as numerous publishers continue to insult the intelligence of our youth.

Thankfully, an alarmed Florida education officials have told book publishers that it won't tolerate mediocrity. An entire series of science and math books, for example, were refused approval until they were upgraded. There will be other massive revisions again this year unless the publishers improve their reading texts for students in kindergarten through eighth grade.

Many of the books under consideration are so vapid that the California Curriculum Commission has recommended their rejection, and the board has deferred its decision on the adoption of a new generation of these books until October. This ought to get the publishers' attention, because that state accounts for 10 percent of the nation's textbook market. Most publishers fight for a place on the state's approved list because many other states follow California's lead. Though smaller, Florida does have one of the largest school populations among the 50 states. Listing in this state is also important to textbook publishers.

Book sellers who reduce classic children's tales to mush in order to make them more "readable" are not likely to get on that list.

A prime example of such mush is Open Court Publishing Co.'s rendition of "The Little Engine That Could." It has the tiny locomotive minus its cargo of dolls and toys for "good little boys and girls" pulling a long train of cars up a mountainside for no apparent reason than, one assumes, to reach the other side. Then there is a Scott, Foresman primer that changes hot porridge in "The Three Bears" to hot fish, presumably because fish is easier to pronounce. And a McGraw-Hill text revises the Aesop's fable "The Tortoise and the Hare" to "The Turtle and the Rabbit."

What further adaptations may be in the offing? Let's see. Pinocchio and Geppetto are difficult to pronounce, so why not call simply them Big Nose and Shorty? Inasmuch as the "Uncle Remus" characters are so hard to keep straight, what with Brer this and Brer that, they could be called simply Rabbit, Fox, and Bear. Perhaps one of "The Three Little Pigs" should go to the corner 7-Eleven because some children are unfamiliar with the market. And "Little Miss Muffet" cries out for editing. Tuffet definitely has to go, as do furds and whey. Rather, the diminutive lass could be sitting on a beanbag pillow eating some Pop-Tarts and washing them down with some Mountain Dew.

Publishers who transform the graceful poetry of these stories into choppy, unimaginative prose deprive countless children of the joy of reading. These hucksters should not be allowed to peddle their counterfeit wares anywhere.

Broad concepts and general impressions

WASHINGTON — The first debate, and perhaps the campaign, boiled down to an old story told in two clichés: The incumbents say don't switch horses in midstream and the challengers say it's time for a change.

What that means, unless the campaign changes significantly and soon, is that Americans who care enough to vote five weeks from Tuesday will have to make their choice between the vice president and the Massachusetts governor largely on the basis of broad concepts and general impressions.

At the risk of becoming what early New Englanders called a "common scold," it has to be noted that both candidates were asked to be specific about their plans, and, partly because of time restraints, gave replies that were unlikely to help anyone make an informed choice between them.

Dukakis, for example, was asked to name three specific federal programs he would cut to reduce the federal deficit.

His reply was, "certain weapons systems ... and I've outlined those in detail," "invest in economic growth" and "bring interest rates down." He added that spending cuts could be made with new farm and welfare policies.

Then he went on to accuse Bush of wanting "to give the wealthiest taxpayers" a $40 billion, five-year tax cut and suggested the Republican would have to raid Social Security to finance his programs.

Bush had only half the time given Dukakis for rebuttal, and used it to defend his proposal for a capital gains tax reduction as a way of increasing federal revenues, to accuse Dukakis of raising taxes five times in his state and to describe his own program as "a flexible freeze" that "permits the president to sort out the priorities." And, he added, "I will not raise taxes."

So much for that issue. The candidates did get back to defense spending later. Bush said he would cut weapons called A6F, DIVAD and Minuteman penetrator systems.

replies that were unlikely to help anyone make an informed choice.

Dukakis said he was for the stealth, D5 and advanced cruise missile, but against "Star Wars" and the MX on railroad cars.

There are some people who know exactly what that meant, but most of them work at the Pentagon. It seems likely that to most of the people watching the debate the "discussion" was gibberish and little help to the average citizen trying to understand what these two men would do to defend the United States.

The point of all this is that we got a good look at both candidates in a semi-spontaneous situation at the first debate, but we got precious little useful information.

The debate idea is a good one, but what really is needed here is some way to find out, in detail and in terms ordinary people can understand, what these people plan to do about the problems that face the United States.

It may be corny, but the fact is the candidates are nothing more than job applicants who want to manage an enterprise we own. We have every right to know and ought to demand that they tell us exactly how they would do it.

GEORGE F. WILL

Winner? Are you kidding?

WASHINGTON — The winner? Are you kidding? Do we give a trophy for being a millimeter less tiresome than the other guy?

It was a national embarrassment. Michael Dukakis was marginally less embarrassing than George Bush was, if only because his canned thoughts were laddled out in understandable syntax. However, the small-mindedness and tactical over-turning were so oppressive on both sides that Bush may benefit. Boredom and disgust may drive down voter turnout so much that Bush (Republicans are more reliable voters) may benefit from the ennui.

Dukakis wanted to look less than he usually does like an alderman unveiling a bust of himself. He did that, if just barely, by smiling—at least, that probably was a smile—and by a closing statement (faint praise here) that made more sense than Bush's.

Bush wanted to prove that he could perform well, or at least passably, when not scripted, as he was in his convention acceptance speech, by a gifted writer like Peggy Noonan. Bush's Sunday-evening performance raised this thought: Why not elect Noonan and cut out the middleman?

Bush is not famous for his concision, but oh, my. Here he is on housing (we join him in full flight): "And how does that grab you for increasing housing? Housing is up. We are serving a million more families now. But we're not going to do it in that old Democratic liberal way of trying to build more bricks and mortars (sic). Go out and take a look at St. Louis at some of that effort. It is wrong." He was referring to a St. Louis public-housing project so bad it was dynamited. You probably understood that if you also understood his references to the McKinney bill.

Bush and Dukakis witticisms are recognizable by the complete absence of one attribute of true wit: spontaneity. Their attempts at humanizing humor were heavy enough to be weighed on truck scales and obviously had been tamped into each candidate by handlers. Why should the humor be different than the serious stuff?

Tracing a Bush thought back from its manifestation in speech to its origin in his thinking is like seeking the source of the Blue Nile. The problem with Bush sentences that reel drunkenly around a topic is not just aesthetic. Neither is the problem only—only!—that syntactic chaos is a sign of a chaotic mind. The basic and alarming problem is that Bush's chaotic mind seems to be a consequence of a lack of public purpose.

Sure, he has a purpose: He wants to be President. But he seems to want that only because it is the next rung up, and climbing the ladder of public life is his life. This is an old axiom: Some people seek office to be something; others seek office to do something. Bush is one of the former. In this, the contrast with Ronald Reagan is complete.

Dukakis has public purposes. Although Bush called Dukakis an "iceman," Bush was more correct when contradicting himself, saying that Dukakis has passions, but the wrong ones. Indeed the most disagreeable aspect of this campaign is Dukakis' dis-

Dukakis' disingenuousness, his disguising of his leftward inclination. Again, the contrast with Reagan is instructive: Reagan hardly hid-if anything, he exaggerated—his rightward leaning.

In politics, one does what one is and becomes what one does. Bush skitters like a waterbug on the surface of things, strewing fragments of thoughts, moving fast lest he linger so long that he is expected to show mastery of, or even real interest in, anything. It is well to dwell on him because he is ahead, the clock is running and every indecisive day, like Sunday, serves him.

It is said that about one-third of the supporters of both candidates are so lightly attached to their candidates that they could be detached. It is unlikely that either candidate's support was substantially solidified Sunday night. So Bush left North Carolina in a position to do what the North Carolina Tarheels basketball team sometimes does when it has a lead. It goes into a four-corner stall to kill the clock.

Dukakis, by speaking about medical care and other traditional Democratic issues, is going to find out if there is a Democratic majority out there. And he also has this hope: In the days before the debate, the campaign's dynamics began to change. The change was driven in part by journalists' impatience with Bush's "flag factory" path to the presidency. Thoughtful television journalists are debating whether they have a duty to put on the air whatever spectacle a candidate decides to make the centerpiece of his campaign day.

But back on the trail, Bush is back on a script. In each of the final 40 days he needs 15 seconds of telegenic thoughtfulness. That totals 10 minutes of mind until the final buzzer. He might just make it. (C) 1988, Washington Post Writers Group

Feds target corruption

BOSTON (NEA) — As a recent extortion trial here shows, the Justice Department is backing wide federal attempts to stamp out local police corruption in America's big cities.

In a controversial three-month trial — the culmination of an FBI probe that began in 1982 — seven current or former Boston police detectives were accused of collecting money from nightspots. They were found guilty of violating federal anti-racketeering laws, the so-called RICO statutes.

In recent years, similar trials and convictions have been obtained in both Miami and Philadelphia. Justice Department sources report that investigations of local police corruption are underway in a half dozen other major cities.

Fifty-six of the 58 counts in the indictment against the seven Boston detectives accused them of systematically extorting money from bar, nightclub and restaurant owners. This, in exchange for favors that included interceding on their behalf to get them out of scrapes with the Boston Licensing Board.

All the officers involved worked in the police district where the local bar scene is centered. Two of the defendants were also charged with mail fraud in another alleged extortion scheme. After six days of deliberations the federal jury returned guilty findings on all counts but one.

The case has badly split the Boston community. The payoffs involved ranged from $100 to $1,400 — a total of only about $18,000 over eight years.

One count even charged an officer with accepting free food from a restaurant owner who he walked to a local bank each night so she could safely deposit the day's receipts.

The officers involved in the trial defended themselves by saying the money they received was meant as "holiday gifts," and it was given out of gratitude for good service. Several nightclub owners even testified to this fact.

However, extensive evidence was presented — including tape recordings and secretly videotaped meetings — showing that the officers had extorted the money and had especially targeted owners of gay bars. Several club owners testified that they saw the payoffs as the cost of doing business in Boston.

Though the jury ended up siding with the government, the critics have not been silenced. They contend that all the officers involved have long records of accomplishment and bravery commendations. They believe the amounts involved are so small that, at best, the officers deserve only internal departmental disciplinary proceedings — not a federal racketeering trial that has cost taxpayers millions of dollars.

One such critic is Boston Globe columnist Mike Barnicle who wrote: "The trial is a disgrace. It has been a waste of time and money. It has only succeeded in brushing every policeman and woman with immaculate and rumor — the trial has been nothing more than the unarmed robbery of taxpayers. A new law."

But Diane Kottmyer, one of the assistant U.S. attorneys who tried the case, said the verdict "sends the message that no one is above the law. Police cannot break the law with impunity.... If you sell yourself cheap, you still sell yourself and the person who's bought you still owns you."

Market active, prices dip

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 22.23 last week, was down 2.85 to 2110.06 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 484,283 among the 1,164 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 7,046,000 shares.

The stock market broke out of its recent malaise for one day last week and on the strength that bounce the Dow reclaimed the 2100 level.

The week began with analysts describing the market as dull, lethargic, directionless and the numbers confirmed those characterizations.

On Monday the Dow fell 5.51 on volume of 116.4 million shares. On Tuesday the Dow slipped 2.84 on volume of 113 million. And on Wednesday, while the Dow tacked on 3.20, volume remained anemic at 113.7 million shares.

That all changed Thursday as volume increased to 155.8 million shares and the Dow surged 33.78, to close above 2100 for the first time in two weeks.

"There was no direct cause for the move, with the exception of a stronger bond market," one New York market analyst said.

Construction spending down

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Sagging spending on both public and private building projects pushed construction spending down 0.6 percent in August, following a 0.7 percent rise in July, the Commerce Department reported Monday.

New construction projects were launched in August at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $396.1 billion, down 0.6 percent from the revised July rate of $398.3, the department's Census Bureau said.

The poor showing reflects continued weakness in the construction industry.

July's revised performance was also worse than the previously estimated $401.0 billion, the second month in a row the bureau made big downward revisions for the previous month.

July's rate was still 0.7 percent above June, the bureau said.

Democrats question Quayle's defense policy positions

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Democratic presidential camp says Sen. Dan Quayle, R-Ind., differs with President Reagan on defense policy and some of his positions show he "is very far outside the mainstream when it comes to national security."

Quayle, the Republican vice presidential candidate, used an interview published Sunday to point up his differences with GOP presidential nominee George Bush on defense matters.

Quayle and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, running mate of Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis, met in Omaha, Neb., Wednesday for a 90-minute debate similar to the Sept. 25 face-off between Dukakis and Bush.

The presidential candidates had little on tap Sunday. Dukakis spent the day at his home in Brookline, Mass. Bush was to leave Andrews Air Force Base early today to fly to California, where he was to greet the returning astronauts of the space shuttle Discovery when they landed at Edwards Air Force Base.

While the differences between Bentsen, a conservative Democrat, and Dukakis, the Massachusetts governor, have provided fodder for GOP campaign speeches, Quayle said in an interview Sunday in The New York Times that he has differences of opinion with Bush, particularly over national security matters.

But Quayle said in the interview that if the Republican ticket is elected Nov. 8, he will follow administration policy.

Paul Brontas, chairman of the Dukakis presidential campaign, criticized Quayle's suggestion of a possible change of method in the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks under way in Geneva.

"Two of President Reagan's most significant foreign policy accomplishments have been the elimination of an entire class of nuclear missiles through the INF treaty and the establishment of a framework for U.S.-Soviet agreement on strategic arms reductions to be completed by the next president," Brontas said in a prepared statement.

"Dan Quayle opposed the INF in the Senate, and now he seems ready to stand in the way of START. This demonstrates that Dan Quayle is very far outside the mainstream when it comes to national security."

Thousands of spectators began arriving at this sprawling Air Force base Sunday and Vice President George Bush planned to be on hand to greet the five spacemen at the conclusion of their 17 million-mile, 64-orbit odyssey.

Wearing bright-orange spacersuits as part of a post-Challenger emergency bailout system, Hauck and Covey planned to fire Discovery's two braking rockets over the Indian Ocean for two minutes 50 seconds to drop the 194,000-pound spaceplane out of orbit for the hourlong, powerless descent to California.

Discovery's flight path called for it to cross the California coast between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara at an altitude of 115,400 feet at more than four times the speed of sound. Eight minutes later, the ship was scheduled to touch down on runway 17 at Edwards.

Fifteen of the 24 previous shuttle landings were marred by brake damage, but Discovery was equipped with beefed-up brakes and landing gear as part of a post-Challenger effort to improve overall shuttle safety, and no problems were expected.

Left behind in orbit was a $100 million NASA Tracking and Data Relay satellite crucial to the space agency's plans for a space-based communications network between shuttle crews, other satellites and mission control.

But the satellite launch, no matter how important to NASA's long-range plans, was insignificant compared to the resumption of the nation's manned space program after a 2 1/2-year hiatus.

Readying Discovery for its descent, Hauck and company took time out Sunday to read an emotional tribute to the seven astronauts who died Jan. 28, 1986, in the Challenger disaster.

Killed on that cold, bitter day were commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, co-pilot Michael Smith, Judith Resnik, Ellison Onizuka, Ronald McNair, civilian satellite engineer Gregory Jarvis and New Hampshire school teacher Christa McAuliffe.

Hollywood Teamsters go on strike

LOS ANGELES — The 2,100 Teamsters who drive the trucks that keep Hollywood in motion went on strike early today in the second major entertainment industry walkout this year, despite last-minute talks with producers.

Representatives of Teamsters Local 399 and the Alliance of Motion Picture and Television Producers met past a midnight strike deadline in the latest round of talks, but negotiations broke off about 1:45 a.m. PDT, said Earl Bush, chief negotiator and secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters local.

He said pickets would begin assembling at various locations at daybreak.

Members of the Crafts Services Union, including the laborers Local 724, plasterers Local 755 and electrical workers Local 40, were expected to join the picket lines in support of the Teamsters.

Man says police mistake ruined life

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Leonard Buchanan says his life has been destroyed by a case of mistaken identity by Crime Stoppers, which publicized him on its Top 10 Fugitives list.

Crime Stoppers ran his picture in The Tennessean, Nashville's morning newspaper, and several area grocery stores after a 17-year-old escapee from the Spencer Youth Center was found in a motel room with three men on April 30. The girl picked Buchanan out of a photo line-up after telling police she had sex with one of the men.

Buchanan was subsequently placed on the list, which called the crime "rape" instead of "statutory rape." Crime Stoppers offers rewards for information leading to the conviction of criminals.

A Davidson County General Sessions Court judge recently postponed Buchanan's preliminary hearing on the charges after the district attorney asked for more time to investigate the matter.

Dollars will determine space goals

WASHINGTON — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has warned NASA that cost-consciousness probably will determine its job into the next century, even though the space agency is reinvigorated by the shuttle Discovery's mission.

But NASA officials say they are ready to reclaim America's leadership in space with the successful four day journey into the cosmos by Discovery's five-man crew, scheduled to land today in California at Edwards Air Force Base.

Earth-bound decision makers debated the aims of the American space program Sunday amid the first U.S. manned mission since the shuttle Challenger blew up Jan. 28, 1986.

Proxmire, a ranking Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee, said the primary concern for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration now is money. The next president will have to decide whether to spend it on ambitious, expensive projects, such as the planned space station and a manned mission to Mars, he said.

Debate may bring Omaha millions

United Press International

OMAHA, Neb. — Nebraska's largest city spent a year chasing a presidential or vice presidential debate and now is faced with the task of paying for one.

City fathers remain confident the estimated $700,000 to $800,000 will be raised — even with taxpayer dollars — and efforts are under way to welcome the 2,000 to 3,000 people expected for Wednesday's vice presidential debate.

The Greater Omaha Chamber of Commerce estimates the area economy could gain as much as $2.24 million from the debate between Sens. Dan Quayle, R-Ind., and Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

The chamber has said the outsiders will spend $200 to $300 daily.

"These are not your typical tourists going bargain hunting," said Ro Trent, the chamber's marketing and advertising manager. "They have lots of special needs and requirements."

The late Mayor Bernie Simon, who died of cancer last spring, envisioned the debate being held in the splendor of the Orpheum Theater — headquarters of the Omaha Symphony — and the City Council voted to proceed with negotiations.

One of those on the council committing Omaha to a debate was Walt Callinger, tapped by his colleagues to succeed Simon as mayor.

Nagging delays in the selection process fueled nasty exchanges of blame between Republican Gov. Kay Orr, a member of the sponsoring Commission on Presidential Debates, and state Democratic Party officials.

Once the city was selected Sept. 14, Callinger hailed the result as a "bipartisan effort."

Callinger, a Democrat in a nonpartisan office, sidestepped the political controversy, saying "there's plenty of glory to go around."

The debate site was the most pressing problem since the Broadway musical "Cats" was booked into the 2,700-seat Orpheum during the debate and the city declined to spend more than $200,000 to buy out the three performances.

The city and the Commission on Presidential Debates settled on the 7,000-seat Civic Auditorium most frequently used for concerts, pro wrestling and boxing matches and Creighton University basketball games.

Tickets for the debate are being distributed through a lottery conducted by 18 daily newspapers in Nebraska and Council Bluffs, Iowa, just across the Missouri River.

The city's official debate theme "Smile Omaha! The world is watching" will be bolstered by pro-Omaha note cards for cab drivers, 2,000 buttons, 2,250 posters and 34 banners.

Lawyers doubt Haitians to be treated as refugees

United Press International

NEW YORK — A federal prosecutor dismissed a suggestion that the government might grant refugee status to three Haitian army deserters who stormed a U.S. jetliner in Port-au-Prince but soon surrendered their weapons and sought political asylum in New York.

The director of the political asylum project at the Lawyers Committee for Human Rights, said the Haitians' political background likely will determine their handling by the courts.

"The question is are they unworthy of refugee protection in the United States," said Arthur Helton, who has not been asked to represent the soldiers. "To be unworthy of protection they have to have committed a serious offense."

"It really gets down to: Are they fugitives from justice or refugees from persecution? If this was a desperate act of flight they should not be barred from refugee protection in the United States," he said.

But Jonny Frank, deputy chief of the criminal division of the U.S. attorney's office in Brooklyn, said Sunday that the U.S. government considers the soldiers' actions a hijacking that threatened the lives of the plane's passengers and crew.

"I think their actions speak for themselves," Frank said. "If you enter a plane with three weapons, I don't know how you can call that peaceful."

Frank added, "We probably will be charging them with air piracy, which carries a prison sentence of 20 years to life."

Edouine Noel, 24, Nicholas Normil, 23, and Jean Charleston Ben-Aime, 23, were to be arraigned this afternoon in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, and prosecutors planned to ask that the men be denied bail and held in preventive detention, Frank said.

The FBI arrested the uniformed soldiers Saturday night as they stepped from an American Airlines Airbus A-300 on arrival at John F. Kennedy International Airport, officials said. They were being held at the federal Metropolitan Correction Center in Manhattan.

Armed with loaded semiautomatic rifles, the three were on an airport security patrol when they rushed onto Flight 685 as the jet stood at an airport gate in Port-au-Prince just before its scheduled departure for New York, airline officials said.

No shots were fired and none of the 224 passengers and nine crew members was injured. The soldiers made no threats, readily gave their weapons to a retired Haitian army colonel on board once the plane was aloft and were described as well behaved, airline and FBI officials said.

The three rifles were carefully unloaded and stowed in the cockpit during the flight to New York.

The three told the colonel they were members of the army's Leopard Corps but their fatigue uniforms carried no rank designations. The Leopards were created as an elite counterinsurgency force by self-appointed "President-for-Life" Jean Claude Duvalier before his February 1986 ouster.

The soldiers immediately requested political asylum in the United States, but the FBI did not disclose the grounds on which refugee status was sought.

Officials at the State Department and at the Immigration and Naturalization Service were not immediately available for comment.

Haitian activists in New York said they hoped U.S. officials would give serious consideration to the soldiers' asylum application.

"They may charge them for hijacking," said Daniel Huttinot of the Haitian Information and Documentation Center in Brooklyn, the largest Haitian community outside of the Caribbean island nation. "But even the FBI agrees that they threatened no one."

Huttinot noted that a Haitian soldier who commandeered a U.S. aircraft in 1984 and sought asylum in New York was convicted of air piracy and imprisoned.

Troops help strikers return to work

RANGOON, Burma — Workers facing a government ultimatum to end a seven-week general strike or lose their jobs trudged reluctantly back to work today under the watchful eyes of thousands of troops backed by dozens of armored cars.

Soldiers moved in quickly to break up anti-government demonstrations by a small group of banner-waving youths at Iron Market and Bandulla Street, witnesses said, but there were no immediate reports of shooting.

The military government, which seized power Sept. 18, set today as the deadline to end pro-democracy strikes that have rocked Burma since Aug. 8.

The government has warned that those who fail to return to work will be fired and that anyone belonging to organizations that support the strike can be punished by up to five years in prison.

Convoys of up to 40 trucks packed with troops wound through the streets in several areas of the capital. The convoys included two types of armored cars and 20-foot artillery pieces towed or mounted on truckbeds.

Hundreds of troops with German-designed G-3 assault rifles at the ready surrounded City Hall and lined the street in front of it.

Court allows party role in elections

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — A Supreme Court decision overturning a controversial law enacted by the late President Mohammad Zia ul-Haq will allow candidates in next month's national elections to run under party banners for the first time since 1977.

In southern Pakistan Sunday, violence subsided with troops enforcing curfews in some areas to prevent a recurrence of ethnic unrest in which 234 people have died since Friday.

The high court in Islamabad Sunday upheld a petition by the opposition Pakistan People's Party of Benazir Bhutto and struck down a 1985 amendment to the constitution which it said "fails to recognize the participation of political parties in the process of elections."

Zia had dissolved the National Assembly and dismissed Prime Minister Mohammad Khan Junejo in May before announcing that elections would be held next month.

But the former martial law ruler declared the polls would be on a non-party basis, which would have barred political parties from using their symbols on ballot papers in a country which is 85 percent illiterate.

Botha: Mandela release not imminent

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The South African government is trying to tone down Zairean President Mobutu Sese Seko's interpretation of Pretoria's plans for the possible release of black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela.

Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha issued a statement Sunday that appeared to suggest Mandela's freedom was not as imminent as Mobutu had suggested after a meeting Saturday in Zaire with President Pieter W. Botha. Mobutu was quoted as saying Botha assured him Mandela would soon be released unconditionally after recovering from tuberculosis at a Cape Town clinic.

But Roelof Botha, while neither confirming nor denying Mobutu's statement, said the two leaders agreed only to say in a joint communique that Mobutu was "encouraged" by Botha's "flexible" attitude toward the imprisoned 70-year-old leader of the outlawed African National Congress.

Renewed attention on Mandela comes at a crucial time for President Botha, who is being forced to balance the broad spectrum of political thought among the white minority of his country and worldwide demands for reform of 40 years of apartheid.

Botha's National Party faces a popularity test in Oct. 26 municipal elections against the right-wing Conservative Party, which is expected to make new gains among poor whites opposed to racial reform.

Gorbachev imposing control on KGB

United Press International

MOSCOW — Western diplomats say Mikhail Gorbachev is stripping the KGB of its enormous political influence in a bold bid to impose a systematic rule of law in the Soviet Union.

In what diplomats described Sunday as another sign that the KGB's power and influence is waning, Gorbachev deprived the secret police of representation in the ruling Politburo.

The Soviet leader, in a hastily called Communist Party Central Committee meeting Friday, removed Viktor Chebrikov as head of the 71-year-old KGB as part of a sweeping purge of the Soviet leadership. Chebrikov had been chief of the organization since 1982.

Gorbachev

At a Supreme Soviet, or parliament, session called Saturday to confirm Gorbachev as president and rubber stamp the reshuffle announced the previous day, the Soviet leader handed control of the KGB to an apolitical technocrat.

Diplomats and Soviet government sources have said they believe it was the support of the KGB that put Gorbachev over the top in his power struggle with Grigory Romanov and Viktor Grishin after the death of Konstantin Chernenko in 1985. Chebrikov's promotion to the Politburo that same year was thought to have been a reward for his support.

While Chebrikov remains one of 12 voting members of the Politburo, the ruling body of the Communist Party, he no longer represents the interests of the KGB.

Control of the secret police organization moves to his deputy, Col. Gen. Vladimir Kryuchkov, 64, a 20-year veteran of the KGB thought to have little political influence and no aspirations. He has been one of nine deputy chairmen of the organization since 1978.

"There is no doubt that he has turned now on the KGB," one Western diplomat said. "If Gorbachev is serious about returning this country to a system of rule of law then reining in the KGB is an important step. The first thing to do is to cut its political influence high up and he has done that."

The KGB, which became a law unto itself while conducting the bloody purges under Josef Stalin, now slips a notch below the Soviet military establishment in its political clout. The military is represented on the Politburo by Defense Minister Dimitri Yazov, one of eight candidate or non-voting members.

While Gorbachev was busy consolidating power and sweeping out much of the old guard in the party bureaucracy and military, he had left the KGB very much alone — until recently.

Apparently feeling more secure in his position and eager to move ahead with social and political reform, Gorbachev felt it was time to end the alliance of convenience and bring the KGB under control.

Deng cracks down on Chinese corruption

United Press International

BEIJING — Senior leader Deng Xiaoping has cracked down on a major business firm linked to his eldest son that was accused of abusing special privileges in a move to smash official corruption, Chinese sources said today.

Deng, 84, stripped major conglomerates of their tax privileges over the weekend and virtually dismantled the state-owned China Kang Hua Development Corp., which was siphoning its profits to a charity run by his crippled eldest son.

Another government order has been prepared that will enforce measures to regulate some of the 42 largest companies in China linked with the children or other relatives of top leaders, sources said.

"We must begin our surgery close to home," the sources quoted Deng as saying to senior leaders in a blistering speech, possibly aimed at quelling criticism from political opponents by setting a personal example, on the need to combat corruption.

The speech was Deng's fiercest assault on graft and nepotism since he launched capitalist-style reforms a decade ago. Corruption has threatened to scuttle China's ambitious but troubled economic reform program.

The move marks the climax of a propaganda campaign by the media against "official profiteers" — state-owned companies that use political contacts and special privileges to obtain scarce state-controlled goods and materials, which are then resold at a huge profit on a fledgling free market.

The focus of Deng's offensive was Kang Hua, the sprawling conglomerate closely linked to the China Welfare Fund for the Handicapped, the charity run by Deng Pufang, the leader's crippled eldest son, the sources said.

Kinnock again leads British Labor party

United Press International

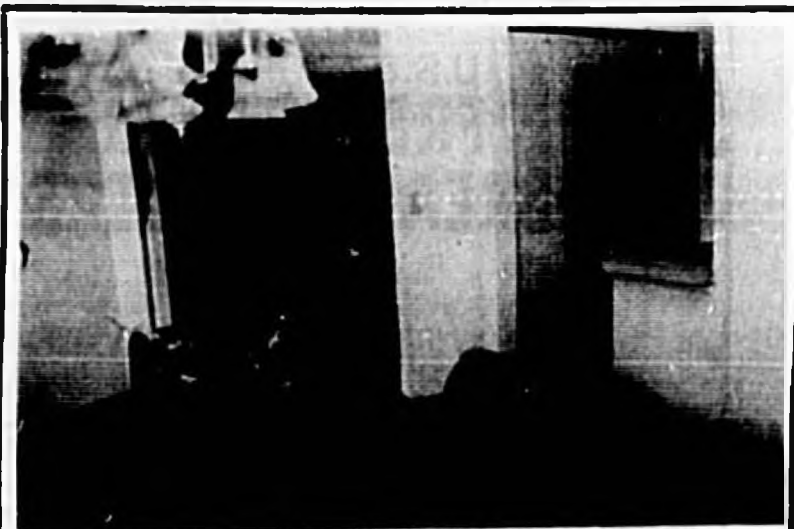

BLACKPOOL, England — Neil Kinnock, winning his sixth mandate as Britain's opposition Labor Party leader, attacked Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's economic policies despite voter concern his party can do better.

Kinnock, 46, won 88.63 percent of the vote Sunday at a convention to choose a Labor leader who must steer the party through its worst crisis of confidence during the nine years of Thatcher's Conservative Party rule.

A party official at the weeklong convention in Blackpool, 200 miles north of London, said the vote would give Kinnock a free hand to press for policy changes.

"We can show by what we say and what we do, by the views we express and the sincerity with which we express them... that we don't just take ourselves seriously. We take the British people seriously," Kinnock said.

Republicans Demand Higher Ethical Standards

Dick Van Der Weide Agrees

If you're a Seminole County Republican, this year's primary elections may seem confusing. Negative attacks have been commonplace. Outright lies and distortions have surfaced.

It sounds like dirty politics, and that's just what it's been: Good Republicans being attacked by new aspiring candidates.

And of even greater concern: These negative newcomers are backed by power brokers looking for pawns.

One candidate, Dick Van Der Weide, has steadfastly refused to be involved in these "politics of personality." He has clearly defined his goals and proudly stood for Republican principles.

Truth takes back seat in close elections

You can tell when an election is close and candidates are getting spooked. Pertinency is out, truth is shaded and wrongs are implied. Take the two Republican runoff races for County Commission-Districts 3 and 5.

I was shocked when I read in a Jennifer Kelly ad running this week with the statement, referring to her opponent, "He does not live in the district for which he runs."

Shocked because not only does Dick Van Der Weide live in the district, but she knows he does.

Kelly called me sometime back to say that Dick Van Der Weide had not moved into District 5 and his children hadn't changed schools. I checked and found that he had moved, but, true, the kids had not changed schools: two are in college, the third attends a private school.

Early last week, when she was in, I relayed my findings and she replied, "Yes, I know."

I've been unable to reach her to ask if she planned to run a correction - the woman does work the hustings. Van Der Weide at first said his advisers suggested he ignore it, but as the ads continued it got under his skin: There is talk of his filing a complaint with the elections division.

(The offending line was pulled late Wednesday after a complaint was filed with The Sentinel by Van Der Weide's campaign manager.)

I agree with Kelly: It doesn't seem right for someone to move into a district in order to run for a specific commission seat as Van Der Weide did; but it is legal. Indeed, two of her own running mates this year did just that: Pat Warren, who won in District 1 in the first primary, and Jeff Eichberger in District 3. Ned Johnson, who lost a District 5 primary bid also, moved to run...

Games close amid pride, relief

SEOUL, South Korea — Bursting with a sense of pride and relief, South Korea passed on the Olympic flag to Spain Sunday at a Closing Ceremony that featured a shimmering display of sound and light.

"I declare the Games of the 24th Olympiad closed and, in accordance with tradition, I call upon the youth of all countries to assemble four years from now at Barcelona to celebrate with us the Games of the 25th Olympiad," said Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the International Olympic Committee.

The athletes from 160 countries solemnly watched, many moved to tears with the conclusion of the 16-day, $3.1 billion extravaganza.

For that poignant moment, global hostilities eased, uniting Iraqis and Iranians, Israelis and Arabs, Greeks and Turks in the celebration to commemorate their athletic excellence.

Holly Farms 400 rained out

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. — Rain at North Wilkesboro Speedway Sunday forced postponement of the NASCAR Holly Farms 400, marking the first time this year a Winston Cup event has been rained out.

The 400-lap race at the .625-mile track was rescheduled for Monday at 11 a.m. NASCAR has a policy of holding postponed Winston Cup races on the next clear day.

The race was scheduled to start at 1 p.m., but the cars' engines weren't fired until 2:20 p.m. because of the rain. Then at 2:35 p.m. it started raining again and NASCAR announced the postponement.

Charles wins Senior Challenge

ROSWELL, Ga. — Bob Charles won his fifth PGA Seniors event of the year Sunday, taking the Senior Challenge when tournament officials canceled the final round because of rain.

Charles, who stood at 4-under 139 through two rounds, collected $45,000 and became the second five-time winner on the Tour this year, joining Gary Player.

"Obviously, I am delighted to have won," Charles said. "I feel sorry for the sponsor — Pepsi — and all the people who have worked so hard."

Dick Hendrickson, Harold Henning and Bert Yancey tied for second a stroke back.

Charles entered the second round two shots behind co-leaders Hendrickson, Yancey and George Lanning, and one shot behind Doug Sanders. Saturday, Charles shot 3-under 69, using birdies on the first, sixth, ninth, 11th and 18th holes to offset bogeys on Nos. 12 and 13.

Chang wins first pro title

SAN FRANCISCO — Sixteen-year-old Michael Chang of Placentia, Calif., captured his first Grand Prix professional title Sunday, defeating Johan Kriek, of Naples, Fla., 6-2, 6-3 in the final of the $425,000 Transamerica championships.

Chang, the youngest winner in the tournament's century-long history, needed only 75 minutes for the victory and earned $59,500. Kriek, a native of South Africa, took a 2-0 lead in the first set, but was broken three times as he made repeated forced errors.

Chang won eight consecutive games to take a 2-0 lead in the second set before Kriek held serve. Chang served in the fourth game of the second set, leading 2-1, and went to five deuce points before Kriek hit a backhand into the net to give Chang the advantage, and a forehand into the alley, giving the teenager the game.

Chang led 3-2 in the sixth game, which produced six more deuce points. Kriek lost his serve and the match in the ninth game.

Kriek said a key occurred in the fifth game of the first set, when Chang took a 3-2 lead.

MIAMI — The Miami offense finally put enough points on the board to parlay a fine showing by the defense into victory.

Twice this year, a 9-6 loss at Buffalo and a 15-13 defeat at Indianapolis, the Dolphin defense didn't yield a touchdown, yet Miami's potent offense struggled. The offense broke out of its slump Sunday to help the Dolphins gain a 24-7 triumph over the Minnesota Vikings.

Dan Marino threw for 264 yards and two touchdowns and the Miami defense intercepted four Tommy Krainer passes. The offense had scored only 50 points in the first four games of the year.

"We're going to be fine with our passing game," said Marino, responding to recent criticism of the offense. "Today, once we got ahead 24 points, we tried to run the ball a little more."

The six-year veteran threw two second-quarter touchdown passes en route to the Dolphins' 17-0 halftime lead. The Vikings, 3-2, had allowed 47 points entering the game and were ranked second in the NFL in defense. Miami improved its record to 2-3.

Lorenzo Hampton scored two touchdowns — on a one-yard pass and a five-yard run in the third quarter.

Jim Jensen caught a three-yard scoring pass and Fuad Reveiz kicked a 38-yard field goal. Marino completed 20 of 37 passes for 264 yards and threw three interceptions.

Testaverde hits key passes, Bucs win

United Press International

TAMPA — After Tampa Bay's lopsided home loss to Philadelphia in the season opener, Coach Ray Perkins vowed quarterback Vinny Testaverde would eventually "turn those boos to cheers."

Testaverde needed less than a month to make Perkins prophetic.

Struggling off four interceptions and a renewed chorus of boos, Testaverde combined with Bruce Hill for the game-tying touchdown and a key completion to set up Donald Igwebulke's 44-yard field goal with 12 seconds remaining in Sunday's 27-24 triumph against the Green Bay Packers.

"We had to score twice to win the game and that is a great feeling inside knowing that we did," said Testaverde, who completed 20 of 37 passes for 306 yards. "I didn't let the boos bother me and affect my performance. The reason we were in that position was because of the four interceptions. If we would not have won, I would have felt totally responsible."

The Buccaneers, 2-3, took possession at their own 42 with 47 seconds remaining in regulation. Hill, who tied the score 24-24 on a 19-yard reception with 1:52 left, grabbed a 28-yard pass down the middle to the Green Bay 32. Two plays later, the steady Igwebulke drilled the kick that kept the Packers the only winless team in the league through five weeks.

"We made far too many mistakes, penalties and dropped balls, but we were able to make big plays when we had to," said Perkins, who has refrained from direct criticism of Testaverde, the NFC's lowest-ranked passer. "I'm still very disappointed in our offensive point production."

Testaverde was 4 for 5 in the 72-yard drive that tied the score, sustaining the eight-play march with a 22-yard strike to Mark Carrier on third-and-18 from his own 20. The 1986 Heisman Trophy winner threw for 197 yards after intermission as the Buccaneers downed the Packers for the second

Paths differ for county griders

By CHRIS FISTER
 Herald sports editor

After four weeks of the 1988 season, Seminole County's prep football teams are taking different paths.

Lyman's Greyhounds and Oviedo's Lions have rose to the top with inspired play in the early going. Both are unbeaten going into this week's action.

Lack of consistency has hurt Lake Brantley's Patriots and Lake Howell's Silver Hawks although both are still in the running for 5A-4 district honors.

Bad luck and injuries have been the downfall of Seminole High thus far as the Tribe has lost both of its senior leaders and, most likely, its chances of repeating last year's spectacular performance.

Lake Mary's Rams are the biggest disappointment thus far as they will almost need a miracle now to win the district and conference that it has practically dominated the past three years.

Lyman, 3-0, has been able to roll up some impressive numbers on offense, scoring 92 points in three games. Sophomore running back Cedric Bouey has went over the 100-yard mark in each game while the 'Hounds have one of the best all-around athletes in Central Florida in Steve Jerry.

Defensively, the Greyhounds have held their own, allowing just 26 points in three outings. John Scherpf and J.J. Miller have been instrumental in the success of the defensive unit.

Oviedo, 4-0, has made the comeback its trademark. The Lions have trailed at halftime in Three of Seminole High's wounded players sat on the bench and watched the 'Noles take a 24-0 beating at the hands of Dr. Phillips Friday night. Jerod Jones (left) is expected to miss the season with knee injury while SHS hopes to have Paul Kitner (right) back soon.

each game this season, only to rally in the second half and overtime (two wins in OT).

One of the keys to the Lions' success has been the emergence of quarterback Matt Blanton, who had the best game of his career Friday against Leesburg, throwing for over 200 yards. Led by Frank Diaz, the Lions proved from the start that they can run the ball. With Blanton's improved passing, Oviedo now has one of the most balanced attacks around.

Lake Brantley, 2-2, has been able to come up with its best efforts when it counts the most, in district play. Brantley is 2-0 in District 5A-4 after Friday's 35-3 drubbing of Daytona Beach Mainland.

The Dantzier brothers, Mike and Elroy, along with Clint Johnson give the Patriots one of the most devastating running games in the area. The defense is the area that needs to be more consistent. Last week, the defense allowed just three points, 44 points less than the week

AL playoffs: Bosox, A's duke it out

United Press International

BOSTON — Even though the Oakland Athletics beat the Boston Red Sox in nine out of 12 games this year, including all six in Oakland, the regular season series was hardly a complete blowout.

The A's won four games by one run, including a 1-0 victory that came when a suicide squeeze broke up a pitching duel between Oakland 20-game winner Dave Stewart and two-time Cy Young award winner, Roger Clemens. Two other Oakland victories came by two runs.

Only three games were lopsided (12-7, 16-11 and 7-2 Oakland wins), while most contests were well-pitched games decided in the late innings.

The best-of-seven American League playoffs between the Eastern Division champion Red Sox and the Western Division champ A's begin Wednesday afternoon at Fenway Park, followed by a Thursday night game in Boston and three games at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum.

The big difference in this year's regular-season matchup was hitting, especially hitting for power.

The Red Sox, who led the league in both batting average and runs scored, hit only 254 against the A's, scoring just 43 runs with one home run and leaving 110 men on base. Boston's big RBI man, outfielder Mike Greenwell, batted only .244 against Oakland pitching, with just one extra-base hit, a double, and six RBI.

Oakland batted .285 against Boston pitching, with 13 home runs and 58 runs. Likely MVP winner Jose Canseco hit .333 with five RBI, one homer and six stolen bases — two more than the entire Boston

Howell dominates at Oviedo

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

OVIDEO — Howell was the key word at the Oviedo Invitational Saturday. As in Lake Howell and Kavan Howell.

Lake Howell swept the Oviedo Invitational in impressive style Saturday morning as three of its four teams posted perfect scores of 15.

Senior Kavan Howell ran away with the varsity individual title while the girls title went to Lake Howell freshman Monica Compton.

Both Silver Hawk varsity teams placed the first seven runners across the line en route to their victories. Lake Howell's girls junior varsity placed the first 10 runners across the line while the boys JV outran Oviedo, 21-38, in the closest race of the day.

In the girls varsity race it was Compton taking top honors with a time of 12:36. Junior Sheryl Palumbo was second at 12:42 with sophomore Michelle Cook right on her heels in third place at 12:43. Senior Jenny Bolt finished fourth overall with a time of 12:46 with freshman Natalie Newberry rounding out the top five with a 13:09 clocking.

The Lady Silver Hawks added insurance to their perfect score when sophomore Jessica Cardarelli placed sixth at 13:11 and junior Tricia Frost took seventh at the 13:29 mark.

"We wanted to use this meet to accomplish a few things and I felt we did what we came here to do," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammonree said.

"I didn't feel we could accomplish very much if we went to the Beach Run or the FSU Invitational so I decided to run in a smaller meet which turned out to be the best thing for us."

Oviedo's girls team was led by Ashley Erhart who placed ninth at 14:24 followed by Gwyn Long who took 10th at 14:25. Becky Kovac took 11th for the Lady Lions, who finished second in the meet with 50 points, at 14:45. Nichole Tolbert was 12th at 15:00 and Adrienne Wood was 15th at 15:35.

In the boys meet Howell and Jason Springhart went out and left the field and finished one-two, respectively, and both came in under the 16 minute barrier. Howell finished with a fine time of 15:39 compared to Springhart's 15:43. David Burson took third for the Silver Hawks with a 16:33 clocking as Brandon Lowenthal clinched fourth at the 16:57 mark. Rob Morris secured the perfect score with a fifth place finish at 17:24. Lake Howell's Mark Ritchie placed sixth at 17:38 with teammate Ralph Caban finishing seventh at the 17:39 mark.

Oviedo was led by Derek Bates who finished eighth overall with a 17:53 clocking. Brad Bolton placed ninth at 18:37 with Eric Polatz claiming 10th place at 18:43. Zack Ely took 13th place for the Lions, who finished second with 55 points, at 18:59. Jason Dancy took 15th place at 19:03 to complete the scoring for Oviedo.

"The meet went real well and I think everyone enjoyed it," Oviedo coach Ed Bolton said. "We ran this for teams who weren't running at FSU and everything seemed to go fine."

MITCHELL WINS AT FSU

Teddy Mitchell cruised to the individual title as he blew away the field this past Saturday in the prestigious Florida State Invitational in Tallahassee.

Mitchell, a junior at Lyman High School, went out and was never challenged, leading his team to a close second place finish to last year's class 3A state champion Niceville.

Mitchell finished the 5,000 meter course with a fine time of 15:33 and beat his nearest competitor by more than 20 seconds. Mitchell went through the mile mark at 4:39 and 20 yards in front of the field. Mitchell extended his lead and passed through the two mile mark around the 9:35 mark and eased in for the victory.

The Greyhounds finished with 131 points compared to Niceville's 130, but not after some controversy. The race had over 300 runners and a mix up in the chute caused a few runners to get out of place. The mix up apparently helped Lyman and hurt Niceville and Lyman was awarded the first place trophy.

A video camera showed the mix up and meet directors changed the out come and gave Niceville the championship trophy.

"We're not upset about it, we feel the better team won," Lyman coach Fred Finkle said. "We have a couple of kids that don't feel like they ran their best, but they will and they know this isn't the most important meet of the season."

Esiason, Bengals rip Raiders, 45-21

United Press International

The Cincinnati Bengals, winners just four times last season, improved to their best start in 13 years by dominating the Los Angeles Raiders.

Boomer Esiason threw for 332 yards and three touchdowns Sunday to help the Bengals rout the Raiders 45-21 and raise their record to 5-0, their best start since being 6-0 in 1975.

Esiason, who completed 21 of 28 passes, had scoring throws of 14 yards to Rodney Holman, 9 yards to Tim McGee and 15 yards to Ira Hillary.

"We'll be happy until Tuesday morning," Esiason said. "We must keep things in perspective."

Patriots 21, Colts 17

At Foxboro, Mass., Doug Flutie, who entered the game at the start of the fourth quarter, hit 6 of 8 passes for 41 yards on a final drive, capped by his 13-yard scoring run with 23 seconds remaining to lift the Patriots.

Browns 23, Steelers 9

At Pittsburgh, Matt Bahr kicked three field goals and Cleveland forced five second-half turnovers. After trailing 9-7 at halftime, the Browns intercepted starter Bobby Brister twice and backup Steve Bono twice, including one pass strong safety Brian Washington returned 75 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Jets 17, Chiefs 17

At East Rutherford, N.J., Freeman McNeil fumbled in a driving rain with 38 seconds left in overtime to stall a New York drive on the Kansas City 15-yard line and help the Chiefs earn the tie. Kansas City's Steve Delberg hit Emile Harry with an 8-yard scoring strike with 51 seconds left in regulation to cap a 14-point comeback and tie the score. The Jets missed a chance to win with 5:09 left in the extra session when Pat Leahy's 44-yard field-goal attempt went.

Broncos 12, Chargers 0

At San Diego, Rich Karlis kicked four field goals to help Denver break a three-game losing streak. Denver's John Elway had his worst game of the season, completing 17 of 29 passes for 184 yards. San Diego's Babe Laufenberg completed 11 of 21 for 104 yards before being replaced in the fourth quarter by Mark Malone.

Seahawks 31, Falcons 20

At Atlanta, fullback John L. Williams, playing with a cracked rib, scored on three 1-yard runs to spark the Seahawks. Williams was aided in the backfield by Curt Warner, who rushed for 109 yards, including a 12-yard TD run. Rookie Kelly Stouffer completed 11 of 21 for 164 yards in his first start for Seattle.

Hungry 'Fridge'
William "The Refrigerator" Perry and his Chicago Bears' defensive unit totally shut down the Buffalo Bills Sunday afternoon, knocking the Bills from the unbeaten ranks of the NFL.

McMahon heats up, Bears dump Bills

United Press International

CHICAGO — The Buffalo Bills learned the hard way why the Chicago Bears are a great team when quarterback Jim McMahonison.

McMahon gave his best performance of the season on the way to a 24-3 victory Sunday over the previously unbeaten Bills, who could only watch as McMahon threw two touchdown passes amid a 260-yard aerial attack.

McMahon's 20-for-27 day included a 4-yard scoring strike to Emery Moorehead late in the first quarter and a 63-yard touchdown pass to Ron Morris early in the second quarter that gave the Bears a 14-3 lead.

The Bears built their lead to 24-3 by halftime on a 22-yard field goal by Kevin Butler and a 58-yard touchdown run by Dennis Gentry.

Giants 24, Redskins 23

At Washington, the Giants got into the end zone on a 28-yard pass from Phil Simms to Odessa Turner and on touchdown runs of 1 yard by Otis Anderson and 3 yards by Maurice Carthon. But the Redskins killed their own chances, as they failed to score any points after twice driving inside the New York 20-yard line late in the game.

49ers 20, Lions 13

At San Francisco, Detroit Coach Darryl Rogers' world was closing in Sunday, moments after the San Francisco 49ers had come away with a 20-13 victory over the Lions.

The loss dropped the Lions to 1-4 and cranked up the heat on Rogers a few more degrees. Last week, Detroit's owner William Clay Ford called the team "boring."

This week, Rogers tried to stem some of the criticism with a uniquely designed 46 defense. For the most part, it worked. Joe Montana was held to just 163 passing yards. The always dangerous Jerry Rice caught just two passes, but did manage to score on an 11-yard reverse.

Eagles 32, Oilers 23

At Philadelphia, Randall Cunningham ran for one touchdown and threw for two others to rally the Eagles. Cunningham ran 33 yards for one score and threw touchdown passes of 38 yards to Cris Carter and 16 to Gregg Garrity to help the Eagles recover from a 16-0 deficit and snap a three game losing streak.

Cardinals 41, Rams 27

At Anaheim, Calif., Neil Lomax passed for 342 yards and two touchdowns and Rod Sadtler returned a fumble 16 yards for a touchdown to lead the Cardinals over the previously-unbeaten Rams.

and was not sacked. Minnesota had registered eight sacks in a victory last week over Philadelphia.

Kramer was removed in the third quarter in favor of Rich Gannon, but returned in the fourth after Gannon injured his knee. Kramer's normal backup, Wade Wilson, is sidelined with a separated shoulder.

The Vikings averted a shutout when Carl Lee intercepted a Marino pass in the fourth and returned it 48 yards for a touchdown with 5:33 left.

"This is the poorest offensive game in three years," said Minnesota Coach Jerry Burns. "They kicked out butt. We were never in the game. Their defense is basic, but aggressive. They had a pretty good pass rush and we had trouble getting anything going against them."

The Dolphin's set a team record by not allowing a touchdown pass for 23 consecutive quarters dating to the final game of last season, against New England. Kramer was 13 of 33 for 220 yards, with the four interceptions.

The last time the Dolphins intercepted four passes was Sept. 9, 1984, against the Patriots.

"That was some guilty defensive performance," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "I'm just proud of the way they hung in there. We lost three people (John Bosa, Hugh Green, and Paul Lankford), but they just stayed in there making plays."

Bosa has a groin injury. Green injured a wrist, and Lankford sprained an ankle. The extent of the injuries was not immediately announced.

Miami Linebacker Mark Brown had two interceptions off tipped balls, both of which came deep in Dolphin territory. The first came late in the first half when a Kramer pass bounced off tight end Steve Jordan.

time in three weeks.

"I don't have much to say," said Green Bay Coach Lindy Infante. "We will figure out a way to win. Vinny did a nice job of throwing the ball in the holes. He is a good quarterback, a first-round draft choice who will prove himself."

Rookie Sterling Sharpe provided the key plays on Green Bay's go-ahead drive late in the fourth period. The Packers took possession on their own 36 and Sharpe caught consecutive 11-yard passes from Randy Wright. On third-and-3 from the Buccaneer 35, the first-round draft choice from South Carolina got behind Ricky Reynolds for a 34-yard gain. Wright then faked a handoff to Brent Fullwood, rolled right and just made it to the goal line from the 1 before he was tackled with 4:37 left.

The Packers forced five turnovers and intercepted Testaverde four times before their late defensive collapse. Wright hit on 26 of 51 for 341 yards but was intercepted twice. Walter Stanley had six receptions for 107 yards.

Ed West caught a 14-yard TD pass from Wright and Fullwood scored from a yard out for Green Bay. Max Zendejas added a 44-yard field goal but missed on attempts of 32 and 43 yards.

Rookie Lars Tate scored on a 1-yard plunge and Tampa Bay linebacker Kevin Murphy returned a deflected Wright pass 35 yards for a Tampa Bay touchdown. Igwebuike kicked a 45-yard field goal in the second quarter.

Carrier dropped two apparent scoring passes in the first half as Tampa Bay managed just five first downs through two periods. Despite Tampa Bay's four turnovers in the half, Green Bay had to settle for a 10-10 tie at intermission.

Iowa's Fry wants instant replay

United Press International

IOWA CITY, Iowa — Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said Sunday Jeff Skilleit's missed field goal at the close of Saturday's 10-10 tie with Michigan State points up the need for the use of instant replay film in college football.

Fry, who said after the game he thought the kick was good, reviewed the game film of Skilleit's 51-yard field goal with 7 seconds left that was ruled wide right, but said he would not comment publicly whether he thought the ball went through the uprights.

"If somebody wants to put it on slow-mo like we have and look at it, they can evaluate it but I'm not going to comment on anything publicly," Fry said during a teleconference. "If somebody wants to look at the film, they can form their own opinion just by watching the official."

Fry said he has always supported the use of instant-replay film to review controversial calls made by officials, similar to a rule enforced in the National Football League. But he said referees don't want it and many schools say they cannot afford it.

"It's been pursued for years and it always gets down to financing. (Schools) don't make enough money and they don't have it in their budgets and that's always been the reason for rejection," said Fry. "I don't think you'll ever see it in NCAA football. I've always thought we should have it."

At his post-game news conference Saturday, Fry said, "Everybody on our football team thought it went through, every player to the man, and it certainly looked like it from here and I talked to the people in the press box and they said it looked like it went over from there."

Bethune rallies to defeat Delaware St.

United Press International

DAYTONA BEACH — The Bethune-Cookman Wildcats scored 10 points in the fourth quarter to overcome a 9-0 halftime deficit, edging the Delaware State Hornets 10-9 Saturday night before a crowd of 4,700 at Municipal Stadium in Daytona Beach.

Wildcat quarterback Anthony Thomas, who did not start the game because of a knee injury hit Leborne Sumpter with a 7-yard touchdown pass with just 4:30 remaining in the game.

Thomas completed six passes in nine attempts on the final drive for 75 yards. Three of the completions were to wide receiver Stevie Thomas, including a critical 10-yard connection on fourth down and three from the Hornet 22-yard line.

The victory improved the Wildcats' record 2-3 overall and 2-1 in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, while Delaware State fell 0-4 overall and 0-2 in the MEAC.

The game was a duel of placekickers and defense for the first three periods. The Hornets scored on their first possession when Dave Parkinson hit a 42-yard fieldgoal. After BCC's Manny Manolas missed on a 46-yard attempt, the first period ended with Delaware State holding a 3-0 advantage.

Parkinson came back with field goals of 28 and 52 yard in the second quarter, the latter coming on the final play of the first half.

After a scoreless third period, the Wildcats finally got on the board when Manolas capped a 78-yard drive with a 22-yard field goal to slice the Hornets' lead to 9-3.

Gators' victory over LSU marred by key injuries

By MIKE DAME
Herald correspondent

GAINESVILLE — The University of Florida may have come away with its biggest victory of the young season Saturday, but the key injuries that occurred during the game may prove costly as the season progresses.

Junior wide receiver Stacy Simmons suffered the most serious injury with a ruptured anterior cruciate ligament on his left knee. Dr. Pete Indelicato performed reconstructive surgery on Simmons' knee Sunday morning, and announced that he will not return this season.

All of them except Thomas are expected to be back soon, but exact time frames were unknown Sunday afternoon.

"We are a bumped and bruised football team right now," said UF head coach Galen Hall. "This was a very physical game, (and) we've got to get healthy."

For Simmons getting healthy will take a long time and his injury could cause him to miss spring drills, Hall said.

Following Saturday's game, before the extent of Simmons' injury was known Hall expressed his sympathies for Simmons and hoped he might return this season.

"(Losing Simmons) is something you wish you didn't have to think about," Hall said. "I feel very sorry for the young man, but lets not get him out of here yet. Hopefully he can come back."

Hall's optimism for Simmons was turned sour Sunday, however, when he received the worst of news from Indelicato.

"He's a big play guy for us and he will be missed very much," Hall said Sunday afternoon. "It's a serious injury."

The injury occurred during a third quarter kickoff return at the 3:04 mark. Following an Louisiana State field goal which cut the Gators' lead to 13-6, Simmons fielded the ensuing kick at the three-yard line. Simmons ran toward the center of the field but quickly cut right, toward the Gator sideline. LSU's Jimmy Young tackled Simmons at the 28-yard line with a crushing blow from his helmet to Simmons' knee, ending the Gators star's season.

The injury could prove very damaging to the Gator offense and special teams for the remainder of the season because Simmons had established himself as UF's biggest scoring threat.

Against LSU, the 5-10, 178 pound speedster collected five passes for 54 yards before leaving the game. He also returned that one ill-fated kickoff for 25 yards and returned three punts for 20 yards.

Those numbers brought Simmons' season total for receptions to 12 catches for 310 yards, both tops on the squad. Earlier this season, he connected with redshirt freshman quarterback

Kyle Morris on the third and ninth longest scoring passes in U.S. history, 93 yards and 77 yards, respectively.

As a kickoff returner, Simmons has electrified fans throughout the season with his twisting and turning style of running. Against Ole Miss, he returned the opening second half kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown to ignite the Gators to a 27-15 road victory.

While the Gators will be without Simmons' services for the remainder of the season, Hall said fans can look forward to his return next season.

"Our doctors do not think it's a career-ending injury by any means," Hall said.

Aside from Simmons' injury the next most serious injury is Thomas'. The extent of Thomas' injury was not known Sunday afternoon but Indelicato will scope the left knee Monday to determine what type of injury Thomas suffered.

Thomas was injured while playing special teams.

Limping Gibson will play

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Dodgers may have to go against New York in the National League playoffs Tuesday with just limited help from their offensive leader, Kirk Gibson.

Gibson reported to Dodger Stadium with only a slight limp Sunday. He vowed to play when the postseason begins Tuesday at Los Angeles, but even the highly competitive left fielder admitted he doesn't know what's going to happen.

"I'll play, I'll guarantee you that," Gibson said. "But after I do I have no idea how I'll be."

Dr. Frank Jobe, the Dodgers' team physician, examined Gibson on Saturday when he could barely walk and said there was some irritation in Gibson's left knee.

"It's because I went all out Friday night," Gibson said. "I wanted to test it."

Behind Mitchell for the "Hounds" was senior Nick Radkewich who placed sixth overall with a time of 16:14. Radkewich got off to bad start and was never able to fully recover as the crowded course prevented him from getting into proper position.

"Nick (Radkewich) was a little upset with the start of the race but that's just one of those things," Finke said. "He's not in the best of shape right now and he knows it, he'll be there when we need him."

Kevin Padgett was the next for Lyman placing 14th at the 16:44 mark. Darren Marshall followed with a 36th place finish at 17:20. James Flint and Gabe Rhodes were next for the Greyhounds placing 74th and 75th with times of 18:03 and 18:04 respectively. Charlie Schmalmaack rounded out the Lyman varsity placing 153rd at 18:55.

Lake Brantley's boys turned in an impressive performance, placing fourth overall with a score of 178 points. Darrin Boston's best batters in the season rivalry were second baseman Marty Barrett (.292, four doubles, five RBI) and shortstop Jody Reed (.375, two doubles). Oakland's big bats were shortstop Walt Weiss (.389), outfielder Dave Parker (.361, six RBI) and third baseman Carney Lansford, a former Red Sox standout, who burned his old teammates with a .444 average, four doubles, four RBI and 13 runs scored.

bright spot was the play of freshman nose guard Ken Times. Seminoles, 2-2, has already had to do without Ralph Hardy and now may have lost Jerod Jones for the season as well. Hardy, who was expected to lead the defense, was declared ineligible to play this season because he is one month too old (according to FHSA rules). Jones, the senior leader on offense who gives everyone on the team looks up to, injured a knee against Lake Mary and underwent arthroscopic surgery last week.

That is why the limited availability of Gibson is important to Los Angeles even though he hit just .222 against New York, which won 10 of 11 regular season meetings.

"You don't know what's going to happen," San Francisco Manager Roger Craig said. "Everything's speculative. The first game is key. If Hershiser wins the first game, it turns everything around for the Dodgers."

New York slugger Darryl Strawberry hit his league-leading 38th and 39th homers on the season's final day to reach 100 RBI for the second straight year. Mets first baseman Keith Hernandez hit .341 with 10 RBI against Los Angeles this season.

"It's a whole different story now," said Tim Belcher, a rookie who will pitch the third game for Los Angeles. "It's the second season."

Tugman led the Patriots with an eighth place finish at 16:30. Matt Jewell placed 28th at 17:12 with Andy Ogilvie taking 38th at 17:23. John Feola was 47th at 17:35 and Ron Gordon was 57th at 17:16 to complete the Brantley scoring. Pat Easton was 65th at 17:59 and Craig Streetman placed 81st at 18:18.

"We're coming along real good and I'm real impressed with the way the boys handled themselves and the way they ran," Lake Brantley coach Charlie Harris said. "We had a real good trip and everyone ran well, we're still about four weeks from being a good team but we're moving in the right direction."

Lake Brantley's girls were the only Seminole county team to run in the event and they came away with a third place finish with 195 points. The Lady Patriots were led by senior Heather Camino who placed ninth overall with a personal record time of 12:19. Joyce Beth Schaefer was next for Brantley placing 48th at the 13:37 mark. Amy Ginnette was right behind at 13:38, good for 50th place.

"Those two (Schaefer and Ginnette) really made a big move," Harris said. "They'll need to keep improving and get closer to the front two for us to be competitive."

Pam Powers was next for the Lady Patriots in 73rd at 14:01 followed by teammate Chelsey Trotter who placed 74th at the 14:01 mark. Kristie Avery rounded out the varsity with a 98th place finish at the 14:42 mark.

players, relief ace Dennis Eckersley (five saves in five appearances against the Red Sox this year), designated hitter Don Baylor and outfielder Dave Henderson, who had two homers and seven RBI against his former teammates this season.

The Red Sox are 1-14 in their last 15 games in Oakland, including this year's 0-6 whitewash. Oakland won last season's matchup 8-4, while the Red Sox were 7-5 against the A's, including 3-3 in Oakland, in Boston's pennant-winning 1986 campaign.

Southern: Frost triumphs

United Press International

COLUMBUS, Ga. — David Frost of South Africa birdied the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday against Bob Tway to win the $400,000 Southern Open, his first PGA victory.

Frost and Tway battled in intermittent rains to finish at 10-under-par 270 after 72 holes. Frost's birdie on the first playoff hole earned him $72,000 and moved him into ninth place on this year's PGA Tour money list with $511,320.

With the victory, Frost also qualified for the $2 million Nabisco Championship to be played at Pebble Beach, Calif., Nov. 10-13.

One stroke behind the playoff contenders were former Masters champion George Archer, who will be joining the Senior tour next year, Dan Forsman and Dave Barr, who Friday tied a tournament record with a round of 61.

Chemical peel process may not be successful

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've decided to get a facelift. What is your opinion of the chemical peel process?

DEAR READER: When a woman (or a man) decides on a face-lift, the motivation is a desire to get rid of sagging skin and wrinkles. These facial changes are the result of aging during which both the skin and the subcutaneous tissue change. As collagen - the skin's supporting material - fragments, wrinkles appear. However, deeper alterations are also taking place: With less elasticity, the inner layers of skin sag. Also, fat deposits accumulate under the skin.

Therefore, a face-lift usually includes removal of excess skin, as well as "tightening up" the tissue that has become inelastic. Chemicals that cause shedding of the skin's outer layer are often used to smooth out the skin, but they have no effect on subcutaneous tissue or fat.

Before giving a specific answer to your question, I'd have to know the reasons you decided on a face-lift. If you are troubled merely by excessive wrinkling, the chemical peel would be appropriate. On the other hand, if you are like the rest of us, the wrinkles are only part of the problem. Hence, plastic surgery may be necessary to achieve the goal you desire.

Not being a plastic surgeon, I'm not qualified to offer more than general advice. In most cases, chemicals alone will not do the trick, without some surgery to re-sculpt the shape of the face. I suggest that you seek a consultation with a qualified plastic surgeon. Such a specialist can provide the particular information you require, describe the procedure, explain the possible complications and give you an idea of the cost.

This last point may not seem important, but it can be. Plastic surgery is expensive, and many insurance plans do not cover purely cosmetic surgery; therefore, you may have to pay irrespective of insurance, for the expense. Carefully examine your options before committing to a procedure, and get a second opinion if you have any doubts.

WIN AT BRIDGE

by James Jacoby
Today's deal was badly misplayed in a Canadian regional last July. After spades were raised, South bid game immediately. He might have first bid three hearts, since North might hold five hearts as well as spade support. If so, four hearts would be the superior game contract. But he was lucky - his side did belong in spades.

The contract is easily made if declarer simply refrains from drawing trump. At trick two, let him play ace and a heart. No doubt East will over-take the jack to lead a trump, but South is in control. He can win the ace and ruff a heart. Whatever he chooses to do, he cannot be prevented from taking enough ruffing tricks to make four spades, as long as he does not play A-K of spades before letting West gain the lead.

Though South erred, he did not let his mistake throw him. In fact, he and his partner won that event. So today's lesson in bridge psychology is: Don't let a bad error on one deal keep you from having a positive attitude about the hands to come. But do remember to play carefully.

What the day will bring...

By Bernice Bode Ozel
YOUR BIRTHDAY
October 4, 1988

Good things are in the offing in the year ahead through already established friendships. Friends will play prominent role in your affairs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Depart from your usual routines today and participate in something that can be shared with someone you like. The change will be good for both of you. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're presently in a cycle where larger strides than usual can be made where your career is concerned. Don't let these valuable days slip past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may learn something through a friend today that is speculative but not all that far out. Study the proposal carefully. It might be worth a risk.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your financial prospects look encouraging at this time, especially if you're involved in a side venture that's beginning to show marketing possibilities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Others will find you a desirable companion today because there is a strong aura of luck about you. They'll expect something good to happen, and it probably will.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things could develop for you today that you may not be totally aware of. However, you will definitely recognize the opportunities when they surface.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take the initiative today in situations that are of importance to you. Your interests can be advanced if you are enterprising and daring.

Unbeknownst to one another, two people to whom you were generous in the past may try to reciprocate today. Surprisingly, their gestures will have something in common.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions are moving into a hopeful phase. You could now be quite lucky in situations that previously held little promise.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't waste your time on frivolous activities today. The stage is set for you to pick a plum of real significance. Think big and think win.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Arrangements you have with friends today should work out fortunately for all concerned, especially if it's with those you feel are lucky.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Joint ventures offer greater promise today than those accomplished single-handed. Concentrate on situations where you can contribute to an ongoing enterprise.

To protect, inspect smoke detectors

DEAR READERS: It's Fire Prevention Week again. The theme this year: "A Sound You Can Live With... Test Your Smoke Detector!" I have good news and bad news.

The good news: Since smoke detectors first became available in 1970, 75 percent of the homes in the United States have been equipped with them.

Now for the bad news: One-third of the smoke/fire detectors are inoperative—in plain English, they don't work! Why? Dead batteries.

Your friendly neighborhood firefighters respectfully suggest that when you change your clock batteries, also change your detector batteries. And, don't store oily paint rags in your basement, don't smoke in bed, and keep your chimney clean.

ABBY

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, a young girl in our hometown named our son as the father of her unborn baby. (This is what she told the welfare department.) Needless to say, the town gossips had a field day. Our family couldn't go to a restaurant without a lot of heads turning and mouths running a mile a minute. You could see people whispering behind their hands.

Cookie cruise tickets on sale

SANFORD — Tickets are now on sale for the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford's annual cookie cruise with Ronald McDonald on the Rivership Romance.

The cruise will take place Oct. 29 on the Rivership, docked at Lake Monroe Harbor. Boarding time is 12:30 p.m. and the ship will leave port at 1 p.m. and return at 2 p.m.

In keeping with this year's Halloween theme, parents and children are encouraged to wear their costumes aboard the ship. During the cruise, children will be able to tour the ship with Ronald McDonald and enter costume contests while parents enjoy the peaceful St. Johns River.

Cookies and drinks will be served to everyone on board.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Junior Woman's Club for $5 each. All proceeds will go to the Ronald McDonald House.

For more information, contact Cathy Marshall after 5 p.m. at 365-4938.

We suffered through this humiliation for the duration of this girl's pregnancy and for six months after her baby was born. We even hired a lawyer to protect our son's rights.

The welfare department said our son had to take a blood test in order to determine whether he was the father or not, then he had to wait until the baby was 6 months old to make sure that nothing went amiss with the blood tests. Well, sure enough, the blood tests proved conclusively that our son was not the father!

Abby, how can the welfare department put just anybody's name down before it has any proof? Can anything be done about this? Our friends say, "Forget it. The more you stir it, the more it stinks."

ANGRY PARENTS

DEAR ANGRY: The welfare department did not name your son as the father—the young girl did. Your son's lawyer will know what can and should be done about this false accusation. Your friends may have given you good advice.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a business executive, but every once in a while he will make a grammatical error, so I correct him. He blows up like you wouldn't believe and doesn't speak to me until the next day.

Should I just let it go when he makes mistakes in grammar? I only want to help him and he knows it, but he can't take any kind of criticism. Please tell me how to handle this.

MEANS WELL

DEAR MEANS WELL: I hope you do not correct him in the presence of others. If you do, he can't be blamed for reacting in a hostile manner.

When he's in a good mood, have a heart-to-heart talk with him. Tell him you love him and ask him if he wants to be corrected (privately, of course) when he makes a mistake in grammar. If he doesn't, bite your tongue and let it go.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new "lazy way" to lose weight has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" to help you steadily lose fat and reduce calories by simply taking their tested and proven new "fat-magnet" pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally" Best of all, you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising.

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles and calories from food that you have just eaten. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body, reducing the calories you absorb "before" they can turn into ugly bulging body fat and cellulite.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, the new fat-bonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug.

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Each participant will receive a packet of materials, a certificate and an ID stating they have completed the course.

Refreshments will be served. To register or for further information, call Holy Cross Lutheran Church at 321-7797 between 9 a.m. and noon.

Now Available to the Public
If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W246, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee (not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) Babysitting survival skills to be taught

LAKE MARY — A "Super Sitter Seminar" for youngsters 11 years and older will be held from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Oct. 8, at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 760 Sun Drive, Lake Mary.

The free session, sponsored by the church and HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital, will teach young people and refresh others in safety skills in dealing with babysitting duties.

Featured will be Dr. Marisa Pastis, a CFRH pediatrician who will address first aid and emergency situations; Tom Dutko, a crime prevention officer from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, who will provide personal safety tips; and a Seminole County Firefighter-Paramedic, who will explore the issue of fire safety.

Basic care of babies and small children will be discussed by Joni Altomose, a nurse in the CFRH obstetrics department, while Betty Hoyer will spotlight crafts that can be made to entertain children.

Each participant will receive a packet of materials, a certificate and an ID stating they have completed the course.

Refreshments will be served. To register or for further information, call Holy Cross Lutheran Church at 321-7797 between 9 a.m. and noon.
