IL DUCE ASKS U. S. REDUCTION OF WAR DEBTS

Half Million Italians Jam Square To Hear Mussolini Talk On Problems Of World

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Premier Mussolini appealed to the United States to cancel or reduce the European war debts in an open air address yesterday, carried by loud-speakers to about a half million Italians jammed in three public squares of Turin.

He declared Germany's armament parity demand was "fully justified," deplored the inefficiency of the League of Nations but said Italy would remain a member, and argued against the debt and money limitation.

Without mentioning France by name, he made what was interpreted as a challenge to the nation—whose frontier is only 40 miles west of here—in his statement that "Turin has never been afraid of war."

Elaborate precautions were taken for protection of the premier in his first visit to this industrial center, long the hot-bed of anti-fascism, in nine years.

He made a promise to Turin citizens that "hereafter contacts between us will be close and frequent."

The premier appealed to the United States in the matter of what he described as "the ship of debts" and said "I hope the people of the great states which carry a large part of the burden of the world's debt will be able to help us."

Shouts of "no" came from the crowd. "I would that your people heard in the other side of the ocean and touch on the heart of that great people," the premier said.

Referring to his speech last year in Naples, he said, "I spoke then of the tragic bookkeeping of the war and in two articles in Popolo d'Italia, which are not forgotten, affirmed that it was time to pass the sponge over this bookkeeping."

Woman's Story Of Shooting Is Found To Be Conflicting

SEATTLE, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—A Seattle newspaper is investigating the shooting of Colonel William Inglis, a World War veteran and one-time candidate for the United States Senate, and the wounding of a woman in his apartment Saturday night, today said his story conflicted with the evidence they discovered.

The woman, who said she and Inglis were recently married but who is known as Miss Mary Nash, is employed as a stenographer by Inglis, it is a hospital with bullet wounds in her leg and abdomen.

Police said the woman told them Inglis fired at her without warning, then fired a bullet into his own head. Police said the bullet entered behind the right ear that there was no sign of a powder burn around the wound, and that it was possible for him to have shot himself in that manner but "most unusual."

Lehmann In Back From State Press Meeting

Back from Hollywood where he enjoyed a two-day convention of the Florida Press Association, Earl Lehmann, secretary of the County Chamber of Commerce, today attended to a series of "closed trade" body activities, and made ready for still another convention.

This one is a meeting of Florida members of the Committee of 100 of the Senate-National Council, to be held at Lake Wales tomorrow morning at 11:00 a. m. Mr. Lehmann will preside at the trade body at this meeting. E. B. Gill, vice-president for membership of the Southwestern Council is the speaker.

Couple Found Dead In Abandoned Field

GADSDEN, Ala., Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Tom Russell, 40-year-old salesman and Miss Velma Groover, 29, were found dead in an abandoned field near the woman's home today. Russell was shot in the chest with a shotgun and the woman was beaten to death with a shotgun found nearby. Officers said they believed the couple was taken in an automobile to the scene and murdered. Russell was married and was the father of three children. Miss Groover was the daughter of W. L. Groover, Methodist minister.

BISHOP MANNING HOLDS SERVICES DESPITE RULING

Says It Is Duty To Administer To People Regardless Of Race

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Bishop William T. Manning helped force an entrance into All Souls' Protestant Episcopal Church, which had been closed to its rector, and delivered a sermon yesterday declaring it the "plain duty" of the church "to minister to the people of the community, white and colored alike."

Despite the statement of some of the vestrymen that anyone who attempted to enter the church might be arrested for trespass, Bishop Manning appeared at the appointed time, ordered a lock smith to pry off locks and force open doors, and assisted the Rev. Rollin Dodd, rector, in holding services amid scaffolding, shavings and plasterer's canvas.

The church had been closed by the vestrymen and the rector deposed of his keys. Dodd said the action was taken because he refused to hold separate services for negroes and whites. The majority of the vestrymen said it was because of repairs.

Bishop Manning declared in his sermon that the action of the vestrymen was "apparently with the purpose of preventing the rector from continuing the policy of admitting colored people to the services."

"This action," he said, "is not only uncanonical and illegal, it is contrary to the central principles of our religion."

The sermon was delivered under strange circumstances. A police sergeant and 10 patrolmen stood outside. Bishop Manning, a rector, and a locksmith had made a tour of the church, unloading or forcing open doors.

The rector and the bishop because of the latter were forced to stand in the aisle about a third of the way from the front. The organ was screened with a "patent" canvas so the choir sang without accompaniment.

The congregation was part white, part negro, with a scattering of children.

"I am here not to assert my rights as bishop, though these exist," said Bishop Manning, "but to give my full support to your rector. . . in his right and Christian purpose to make this church a center of spiritual ministrations to all the people of this neighborhood who wish to attend its services without distinction of race or color."

"Until a few years ago this community and the congregation of this church was one almost entirely of white people. In recent years however the community has changed more and more to a community of colored people until at the present time the great majority are of them and members and many of them are members of our own church who wish to attend the services here at All Souls."

Although no attempt was made to interfere with Bishop Manning and the rector yesterday, Vestryman Rowe said he would consult a lawyer today to see what steps could be taken to stop services in the future.

SMALL BLAZE

A cigarette, carelessly thrown from an upstairs window in the First National Bank building this morning destroyed a portion of one of the large lower floor windows, creating considerable excitement as one of the City's fire trucks was driven to the small blaze. The damage will not exceed $25, it is reported.

HOOVER GIVES ANOTHER TALK IN MID-WEST

Describes Roosevelt Unemployment Relief Plan As Fantastic, Unworkable

DETROIT, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—President Hoover last night asserted Franklin D. Roosevelt, his Democratic opponent, had sponsored a "fantastic and unworkable plan for the relief of unemployment and that he had recently broadcast statements "amazingly removed from the truth" concerning the administration's fiscal policy.

Standing in the hall where a year ago he successfully appealed to the American Legion against the bonus, the President opened his address with a statement that the nation's economic "tide has turned."

"The gigantic forces of depression are in retreat," he said. "Our measures and policies have demonstrated their effectiveness."

Then, while listing 18 recommendations made by him as the "Republican program," the chief executive devoted much of his address to an attack upon a statement made by Democratic leaders during the campaign and to what he called "the destructive Democratic program" proposed during the last session of Congress.

The Democratic candidate for president, he asserted, "has refused to renounce or disavow the destructive measures, or to give the country the assurance it deserves that he will not be a party to these measures including the preparation of the bonus."

"Observing this, and recognizing the dominant elements of its party under the leadership of the" (Continued on Page Three)

Stuck Whistle Of Train Engine Stirs West Side People

Virtually one-half of the residents of Sanford and practically all of those residing on the West Side, including Lake Monte, were startled from their sleep at about 2:30 o'clock this morning by the shrill wailing of a locomotive whistle that became stuck while Southern passenger train No. 75 left Beacon Springs Junction.

Trainsmen made every effort to dislodge the screaming steam-propelled whistle as the train continued across a trestle bridge and through that town, but efforts were unavailing. Running on a short line, the engineer did not stop the train but continued on into the local passenger yards where after much attention, the noise was finally silenced.

But, for the next hour, train dispatchers, the police station and the telephone office were kept busy answering telephone calls from sleepy citizens all of them clamoring for information. Nearly 100 persons dressed hurriedly and motored to the depot, thinking that something important had happened. One person said that he thought that war had been declared; another thought that the whistle was a warning against a cyclone or tornado that was approaching in the dark and dead of the night, while still another thought that one of the larger cities was afire and was being wiped out.

Train whistles are often blown at length to call together members of the local working crew whenever there is a wreck in this division. It is generally the practice to blow train whistles if there is a fire of considerable intensity in that or other sections of the city.

Alabama And Georgia Request Quarantine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—State entomologists of Alabama and Georgia today requested the federal bureau of plant quarantine and control to establish a quarantine in Northern Florida cotton growing counties in which the pink boll worm was recently found. Conclusions of the department will be announced after a study of testimony. The worm was found in a field in Columbia county and in gin trash at High Springs and Lake City. The hearing was conducted by Les Strone, chief of the bureau.

Babson Sees Importance Of Better Business Profit To Give More Employment

By ROGER BABSON
BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—It is just as important to the unemployed as it is to investors that corporations earnings should soon begin to improve. No company dates increase its working force when operating at a loss, or with steadily diminishing earnings. The company that has jobs to offer is the one whose profits are going ahead.

In a company's profits, as in the family budget, surpluses or deficits are determined as much by the size of the income on the way down as by the income on the way up. In 1929 to August, 1932 the costs of doing business lagged behind the drop in prices. Now, however, the drop in costs has generally caught up with the drop in prices and prices are moving slightly upward. In reality the most profitable time during the present cycle is very short. That is because costs lag behind business and prices on the way up, just as they lag behind on the way down. For example, large unit profits were made by industry in 1918 and 1923. Neither of these years was the top of a boom, but were periods following depression when prices were running ahead of costs.

Business under the capitalistic system is conducted for profit. When profits disappear business stagnates. When costs have been reduced, but some profits can be made, even on lower volume, business begins to revive. My advice, to invest in the one thing and the unemployed on the other, is to search for these conditions and companies, which through public management, are bringing their business to a profitable basis. There are a few firms whose securities will advance first and last, and will be the most likely to take on new workers. In trying up with a company, either as a partner through investment or as an employee, we should look first to the character of the management, second to the character of the product it renders to the public, and finally to its ability to withstand all the profitable levels of present conditions.

HOARDED MONEY DUDLEY MALONE IS FALLING OFF, DESERTS PARTY REPORT REVEALS TO BACK HOOVER

Bank Suspensions Are Also Off, Figures Of Reserve Board Show

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—A decrease of $250,000,000 in money hoarded, an increase in gold stock and reserves, funds of surplus banks and a drop in bank deposits, the Federal reserve board reported yesterday by the federal board in its monthly report.

The board said national banks under the Glass-Steagall amendment in the June bank law had reduced $100,000,000 in new national bank currency.

During recent weeks, the bank holdings of government securities had been practically unchanged, the board said, adding that in between June 15 and September 15, 1932, the amount of government securities held by banks had increased by $1,275,000,000. The amount of gold stock, including the $1,250,000,000 of the reserve board, increased by $1,200,000,000.

"Since July 15, there has also been a surplus of currency from hoarding estimated at $2,000,000,000," the board said. "This estimate is based on the fact that the amount of money in circulation is held by over $130,000,000,000, more than $110,000,000,000."

The inflow of funds to surplus banks, the review continues, added them to reduce their indebtedness to the reserve banks from recent weeks by $200,000,000, the lowest level since September of 1931. (Continued On Page Two)

Entzmingers Brand As False, Rumors They Will Support Any Republicans

Denying that he and his brother, C. W. Entzminger, were supporting some of the Republican candidates for various state and national offices, W. S. Entzminger, long wood rector, today made a pointed statement which indicates that "regardless of religious and political prejudices, we have at large been democratic in our attitude and are still true to that faith."

In a short introductory statement, Mr. Entzminger declares that the rumor "was used in the recent primary to my hurt, and has been used not only by supposed Democrats, but has been used by those who are working especially for Mr. Hoover."

Mr. Entzminger concludes his statement with, "I am convinced that Mr. Shultz is thoroughly sincere in his determination to put our ship of state in shape. I could not conceive of any improvement in the state or national ticket as they now stand."

"His statement in full is as follows: 'To the People of Seminole County: "It was reported in the recent primary and has been recently stated that I am supporting some

THOMAS HITS AT ROOSEVELT AND BACKERS

Socialist Candidate Points To Tammany, Astor, Hearst, And Young As Henchmen

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, today made a scathing attack on the Roosevelt administration and its backers, pointing to Tammany, the Astor, Hearst, and Young as the main forces behind the administration.

In an address before a Socialist club in Baltimore, Thomas said that the Roosevelt administration was a "reactionary administration" and that it was "a government of reactionaries."

Free Clinics Will Be Held Tuesday, Friday Mornings

A mark I decrease having been noted in the number of persons coming to the free medical clinic in the City Jail during the past few weeks, the Board of Health has decided to hold free clinics on Tuesday and Friday mornings instead of three times weekly. Clinics will be held between 10 a. m. and noon on these days.

Local Grower Drops Dead In Barber Shop

Ernie Lowe, well known Sanford grower and trader, died while talking to a friend in Smith's Barber Shop on First Street Saturday afternoon at about 4:30 o'clock. He had been in poor health for some weeks, but his sudden death came as a distinct shock to many friends.

Funeral services will be held from the First Baptist Church tomorrow afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. Rev. J. B. Hood of the First Congregational Church will officiate and burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Members of the Celery Camp Woodmen of the World, will set a pathos and a cord of brief services at the grave side. They are W. T. Fidda, Barney Beck, Earl Schoenman, and A. S. Hawkey.

Mr. Lowe was born in South Carolina on Oct. 6, 1878. He came to Sanford about 12 years ago and has been a grower since that time. Surviving him are two daughters, Miss Bernice Lowe and Miss Bernice Lowe, of Sanford, two sons, Mr. H. Lowe of Sanford, and A. W. Lowe of Detroit, and a half sister, Mrs. Laura Lowe, of Langley, R. C.

WOODMEN TO MEET

Consul Commander C. C. Collins, of Celery Camp, Woodmen of the World, this morning asked all members of the local lodge to meet at the lodge rooms tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 o'clock for the purpose of attending the funeral of Sovereign Elijah Lowe, who died suddenly Saturday afternoon.

Roosevelt Cheered In Atlanta During Ride Through City

O'NEAL AND OPIE READ TALK HERE FOR G. O. P. TICKET

ATLANTA, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Governor Franklin Roosevelt waved his battered campaign hat to thousands of enthusiastic Atlanta school children crowded at strategic centers today for a glimpse of the Democratic presidential nominee in a parade through the city.

The automobile ride started upon his arrival from Warm Springs where he was greeted yesterday by other thousands. Following the parade he had a series of conferences with Democratic leaders from the South-east.

Tonight he will make a campaign address in the city auditorium before departing for Raleigh. Among those here to greet him were Governor Gordon of Florida, Senator Fletcher, Dave Shultz, gubernatorial nominee, former Governor Hardie, John Taylor, Democratic national committeeman, Mrs. Hurlstone Wells, national committeewoman, James Hodges, chairman of the Florida Democratic Executive Committee, Alvinson General and Mrs. Vivian Collins, George DeLoe, Sanford, Larry Baker, state forester, State Senator Franklin King, Orlando, Victor Morgan, editor of Clearwater Sun, and A. W. Jordan, Clearwater attorney.

Governor Roosevelt told a cheering throng on the moon (Atlanta) that he would be glad to see the people of Georgia. "We will all stand on our own feet," he said, "and I don't care how tall the tree is in Georgia."

The Democratic presidential nominee said he would be glad to see the people of Georgia. "We will all stand on our own feet," he said, "and I don't care how tall the tree is in Georgia."

DeLand Prepared To Give Welcome To Miss Van Wie

DeLand today is prepared to give a royal welcome to the Virginia Van Wie, one of America's outstanding golfers, who recently won the coveted trophy which is annually awarded the winner of the National Women's Amateur Golf match.

Miss Van Wie, who resides in Duluth, Ga., for the last eight months of every year, will arrive in DeLand tomorrow morning and will be met by the Chamber of Commerce and a group of citizens.

A special dinner will be given at the Hotel DeLand, beginning at 2:00 o'clock. A special dinner will be given at the Hotel DeLand, beginning at 2:00 o'clock.

Miss Van Wie is well known in DeLand and has often played on the Sanford City Golf course. Her scores are said to be among the most consistent turned in by a woman golfer in America, and she is said to be one of the country's most capable players. She will be seen here during the winter as she keeps in shape for several forthcoming events which will test her ability against some of the crack players in the ranks of women golfers.

WOODMEN TO MEET

Consul Commander C. C. Collins, of Celery Camp, Woodmen of the World, this morning asked all members of the local lodge to meet at the lodge rooms tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 o'clock for the purpose of attending the funeral of Sovereign Elijah Lowe, who died suddenly Saturday afternoon.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

SHALL WANT NO GOOD THING: For the Lord God is a sun and a shield; the Lord will give grace and glory; no good thing will be withheld from them that walk uprightly.—Psalm 84: 11.

TRIOLET

This is the end of all our songs: Sorrow and death and a lonely grave; Whether with rich or poor he throngs; This is the end of all our songs: Whether for love or fame he longs; Whether he's cowardly, shrewd or brave; This is the end of all our songs: Sorrow and death and a lonely grave.—By Robert Metcalf Harwell.

Do you believe we should have another judge on the state supreme bench or not?

"Norris Calls Hoover Jonah" says a headline. Let's see now, he was that boy that even the whale couldn't stomach.

It's pretty difficult to find out what's going on in the world, with nothing but political speeches in the papers these days.

We can understand from the financial statements of the city of New York just why Jimmy Walker was so popular.

The spread of the Nudist cult received a serious setback the other day when McGill University students in Canada, went to the three naked figures in Mrs. Payne Whitney's stately decorating a fountain on the campus and covered them with pairs of shorts. Great interest centers in the possibility of police being called upon to undress the figures.

Senator Norris joins Senator Borah in urging a policy of currency inflation as the solution for the country's financial ills. It should be interesting to those gentlemen to know that the currency of this country has been increased by over one billion dollars since the boom days of 1929, while business has declined since then about one-half. How much would it decline if inflation amounted to Borah's five billion dollars?

French political leaders are concerned over the payment on the French debt which is due this country in December of this year. At the risk of immediate overthrow, Premier Herriot is remaining mum on this vital question, hoping to get better terms after the election in this country. France is the one country which could pay its debt to this country without serious consequences. Possessing something like $3,218,000,000 in gold, it is the world's richest country in monetary gold next to the United States.

The "Unnamed Person" in the Walker outer proceedings has returned to this country seeking asylum. Miss Betty Compton admits she received seven thousand dollars from the "financial agents" of the Mayor, but declares it was in payment of a bet. She and the Mayor were just friends. That was all. And she left this country and lived in France during the trial, just because she likes the foreign atmosphere.

A graduated income tax starting on incomes in excess of $25,000 at five percent and increasing until in the higher brackets the rate would amount to about 95 percent, would produce between $1,000,000,000 and $1,500,000,000 a year for this government, says Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president and leading advocate for a new deal in a big way. This is interesting. Particularly in view of the fact that the national income has already dropped from about $20,000,000,000 to $14,000,000,000.

The Socialist Party

When Eugene V. Debs ran for president in 1920, he made a record for strictly socialist candidates in any presidential election in the history of this country with his popular vote of 819,709. When Norman Thomas ran in the prosperous year of 1928, his 267,420 votes looked pitifully small and gave ample indication of the waning popularity of socialism. Today, however, with the Literary Digest poll giving him five percent of the total, and with this poll confined largely to telephone directories, and with thousands of unemployed, having no telephones, expected to vote for socialism, the Thomas vote may well run between three and five millions.

Socialist though he is, Norman Thomas is not more radical than many a member of the more conservative parties. His social reforms he would accomplish by the ballot and frowns upon all manner of physical strife between classes. He is forty-eight years of age, born in Marion, Ohio, educated at Princeton University, and was once an assistant pastor of a New York Presbyterian Church. His running mate, James H. Maurer is sixty-eight years old, lives in Pennsylvania, served for sixteen years as president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, as well as three terms in the state legislature where he helped to put through many social reform measures.

Nor is the platform of the Socialist party altogether bad. Among other things it proposes: the six-hour day and the five day week, a system of free unemployment agencies, health and maternity insurance, improved systems of workmen's compensation and accident insurance, the abolition of child labor, government aid to farmers and small home-owners to protect them against mortgage foreclosures (which, incidentally, we already have), federal legislation to enforce the First Amendment to the Constitution so as to guarantee freedom of speech, press and assembly, and to penalize officials who interfere with the civil rights of citizens, the enactment and enforcement of drastic anti-lynching laws, the cancellation of the war debts, and the prohibition of the sales of munitions to foreign powers.

But the socialist party would also enact legislation appropriating $5,000,000,000 (five billion) from the federal treasury for immediate relief of impoverished people, another $5,000,000,000 appropriation for additional public works and roads for the purpose of relieving unemployment, the enactment of old age pensions, unemployment insurance, minimum wage laws, public ownership and control of mines, forests, oil and power resources, as well as banks, and all other public agencies, and steeply increased taxation on inheritances, and all incomes, particularly in the higher brackets, and a constitutional amendment authorizing the taxation of government securities now tax exempt.

A simpler method of accomplishing this last objective might be to repudiate the federal bonds altogether. From a moral standpoint that would be no worse than to repudiate the tax exemption clause. It is difficult to understand, however, the method by which the federal government would dispose of additional issues aggregating ten billion dollars, in order to provide for the relief and public works program, in the face of such repudiation of existing securities. It is also difficult to understand by what process of taxation on big incomes the funds would be derived for the payment of unemployment insurance, old age pensions, and so forth, if the big incomes are to be obliterated by the socialization of banks, railroads, public utilities, and other large industries.

If, however, there is some mumbo-jumbo by which all this can be accomplished, why not go one step further and guarantee everyone in this country a minimum wage of say five thousand dollars annually and let the government pay it? Why not, in fact, start the government printing presses going, putting everybody on the federal payroll and have a real period of prosperity!

Individual Charity

That business recovery has gotten under way is generally recognized but that the resumption of commercial activities can not possibly relieve the unemployment situation to a very appreciable extent this winter is also apparent. The best that can be hoped for is that the ground lost in the number of men laid off in the past year will be made up by the time winter begins in earnest.

This leaves a more serious condition facing the country than existed last year, for, as it has been pointed out, the longer a man remains unemployed the less he has with which to support himself. The problem of providing assistance for those who have been thrown out of work becomes increasingly difficult, what with individual and business incomes falling off, with taxes increasing, and with demands for every kind of charity mounting.

The task is further complicated by the human tendency to "let George do it". The prospect of federal help diminishes the incentive of states to act; the prospect of state help reduces the efforts of municipalities; and the prospect of municipal aid tends to destroy the responsibility of individuals.

To expect any greater help from the federal government, the states, or the municipalities to any appreciable extent is almost to expect the impossible. In order for any of these governmental agencies to do any more than they are, it would be necessary to increase taxes, already at the point of stifling business. This then leaves the burden upon individual charity, and it is in this field that the greatest work can be done.

There is scarcely anyone who would not rather give to some cause where he can see the immediate results of his giving, and to some agency which understands local needs. If every individual, who has something left out of the storm of financial difficulties, would take it upon himself to help someone less fortunate, actual want and suffering can be greatly relieved and the trend towards governmental doles will be slackened.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

The following officers and members of the executive committee of the Wednesday Club met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George L. Maris, Lake Onaro: Mrs. George L. Maris, president; Mrs. Mae Dickins, vice-president; Mrs. S. O. Chan, secretary; Mrs. A. D. Key, treasurer; Mrs. L. R. Philps and Mrs. M. H. Bowler, members of the executive committee; and Mrs. Henry Wight, Mrs. C. E. Walker, Mrs. George Waldron, and Mrs. F. S. Dutton, members of the program committee. When the business of the meeting was concluded Mrs. Maris, assisted by Mrs. Dutton, served delicious cake, crackers, and punch.

Mrs. M. L. Bryan returned home Monday after spending several days at Winter Garden, the great of Leslie Bryan. J. B. Lawson will open his pharmacy and cold drink establishment tomorrow after a vacation of several months. The bright lights will again twinkle after night in the Garner-Woodruff block. Police Lieutenant Charles Becker was found guilty tonight of murder in the first degree by the jury who has been trying him for instigating the death of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. The verdict was pronounced at 12:00 o'clock this morning in New York City.

THE SUPREME COURT TAMPA TIMES

The people of Florida are having supreme court justices have been it urged upon them that the supreme court docket needs to be expedited. Nobly familiar with the facts will deny that such is the case. As a remedy for this condition Floridians are being told that they should on Nov. 8 ratify by their ballots, a proposed constitutional amendment creating an additional justice of the supreme court. They will hardly do this, for the reasons that it is not apparent that what is presented can possibly work "supreme court relief" and that there is no mood to create a new constitutional officer at an added expense of $10,120 per annum to the taxpayers' burens.

While "relief" is needed for the supreme court it seems that it might be better and more effectually accomplished by changing the system, or procedure, under which the supreme court operates than by increasing the number of the court's justices, in any event. There is, as any lawyer knows, great room for improvement along this line.

A press dispatch out of Tallahassee the other day related that "candidates of the Communist party in Florida today appealed to the supreme court to force Secretary of State Gray to certify their names for a place on the printed ballot for the November general election." This is a matter of importance to the members of the Communist party. It is something that calls for early determination if any good is to come from its being determined. The legal date for certifying candidates has already passed. The election will be held in twenty-three days, including Sundays. Yet the same press dispatch told us that "the supreme court did not act immediately in the application for a mandamus writ because only two of the justices were in the city today."

It would make no difference if the supreme court had seventy-seven justices, instead of the proposed seven, if enough of those justices to act on matters coming before the court did not stay in Tallahassee. This is not the first time that

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Tribulation After Death" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, Oct. 23.

The Golden Text was from II Corinthians 6:2, "Behold, now is the day of salvation."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and said unto them, Peace be unto you. And he said unto them, Why are ye troubled? and why do thoughts arise in your heart? Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself, handling flesh and bones, as ye see me have." (Luke 24:36, 38, 39).

The Lesson Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus' unchanged physical condition after what seemed to be death was followed by his exaltation above all natural conditions; and this exaltation explained his ascension, and revealed unmistakably a probationary and progressive state beyond the grave" (p. 46).

Supper To Be Served To Assist Orphans

Women of the Upsala Church will give a "Down on the Farm Supper" in the home of Mrs. Halinger in that element next Thursday afternoon from 4:30 o'clock to 8:00 o'clock. It was announced today. The supper, costing 25 cents will be home-cooked, and furnished by various members of that church. All proceeds will be sent to the Children's Home at Jacksonville, which is reported as being in real need of funds. Pies, cakes, sandwiches, and other articles will also be on sale. The public is invited.

Hoarded Money Is Falling Off, Report Reveals

(Continued From Page One) last year, and at the same time to increase their reserves in excess of legal requirements to approximately $400,000,000. The growth in member bank reserves balances was accompanied by an upturn in total loans and investments of member banks in lending cities amounting to $775,000,000, or 3 percent, the board asserted.

Boarding, the review said, was first loosened by organization of the National Credit Corporation, also declining $250,000,000 when the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was established last February.

The board said that in September 25 banks with deposits of $100,000,000 suspended compared with 85 with deposits of $30,000,000 in August.

In September 14 banks with deposits of $1,000,000 were reported while in August the 22 banks that reported had a total of $1,000,000. The number of bank suspensions in September was the smallest since the 17 last March.

Dudley Malone Deserts Party To Back Hoover

(Continued From Page One) Malone said in my opinion, it is not likely that the President will be able to get on his feet until the fall of 1933. Malone said he had planned to visit Republican headquarters in Tallahassee on Monday for a schedule.

Malone, who was associated with Governor Dawson in the "South on Trial" at Dayton, Tenn., in 1925, served as assistant secretary of state and editor of the post of New York under the Wilson administration.

candidate was welcomed back to his adopted second home state by loud and frequent cheering crowds in the half dozen towns he passed through this morning on his way to Warm Springs.

A brief talk, expressing his pleasure at being back in Georgia, made from a platform under the pines to a crowd in which there were many in rolling chairs and others holding crutches, preceded his departure from Warm Springs to return by automobile to Atlanta.

After the talk at Warm Springs, Roosevelt, accompanied by his son, James Roosevelt, went to the cottage of A. E. Carpenter for lunch statesman of great ability.

Governor Hoagwell waved his hat to the crowd and said he had just one superstition. "That is not to charge hate during a campaign," he explained. "This one is beginning to look a little shabby on one side, but I am going to stick to it."
