ASSURANCE IS GIVEN LINDY'S BABY IS ALIVE

Intermediary Returns Bearing News That He Has Been In Contact With Kidnapers

NORFOLK, Apr. 7.—(A.P.)—Rear Admiral Burroughs, retired, said today Colonel Charles Lindbergh has renewed his request that efforts be continued by three Norfolk intermediaries to recover his kidnaped baby. Burroughs said the negotiators are holding themselves in readiness to leave, if necessary any time on such another mission as was made by John Curtis, who brought back the assurance that the baby was well and that he had made contact with the kidnapers.

Reaching here by plane yesterday afternoon after an absence of four days, Curtis immediately went into conference with Rear Admiral Guy H. Burroughs and the Very Hon. Dean H. DeLoach-Pearce, who are associated with him in negotiations for the return of the baby to his parents.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 7.—(A.P.)—New sweeping denunciations of President Hoover's naval policy was issued today by the Navy League of the United States. The charge was accompanied by an attempt to show that other countries played a major part in the building up of the taxpayer's burden. JACKSONVILLE, Apr. 7.—An industry teeming with possibilities and with uses for its product yet untouched, or at least uncaptivated, with a market already born and waiting for the purchasable product is the conception of the tung oil business that C. C. Concanon has after visiting most of Florida and other Gulf States, where the tung oil tree is being grown.

Stopping here on his return to Washington after the Gulf States tour, Mr. Concanon, chemical division chief of the Bureau of Pesticides and Domestic Commerce, pictured the industry as one of the brightest in the Southeast today. This morning, Johnson said, the pair became heated over the location of a small store, resulting in Myers' declaring that he would move his things out of the one room shack he and Johnson occupied and would locate in a small shack nearby. BRIGHT WATER AND BRIGHT BLUE WAVE

Bright water and bright blue wave, curling around my cheek, moist lip to my lip.

More delicate tissue than flesh, that water is fresher and purer, than blood in the veins' troubled mesh.

And I turn on my back to rest, to lie on your field breast.

Bright water and bright blue wave, I fear your salty kiss—

And I break your dangerous words with strokes like this—like this—Till my feet grate on the sand

And I clutch it tight in my hand.—Ruth Langford Hulberg.

The latest definition of an optimist is a person who doesn't give a whoop what happens just so it doesn't happen to him.

Now that D. Baker, Democratic possibility for the presidency, maintains that our national law-making body should be in session all the time.

According to a high government official in Tokyo, Japan would willingly sign a treaty to guarantee the independence of the Philippine islands in the event the United States should decide to give them their freedom.

It is interesting to note in The Herald's straw vote, that there are nineteen Republicans in Seminola County when it comes to gubernatorial race.

Despite the unexpected vote recorded Mr. Howey in the early returns of The Herald's straw vote, it should ever be remembered that according to The Herald's method of handling the contest, one Republican candidate is pitted against no less than nine Democrats.

Buying Prosperity

Labor unions are being urged to support Senator La Follette's bill providing five billion dollars for public construction with the idea that it will put to work a million men and revive business.

Florida has seen the folly of a building boom. It has seen labor at a premium, construction material almost impossible to obtain so great was the demand, and money flowing as freely as water.

The United States is no different from Florida as to the laws of economy, and if this country should obligate itself to an additional five billion dollars, with a two-billion dollar deficit already staring it in the face, then it can expect the same unfortunate business vicissitudes which struck Florida.

There is also a serious doubt that the government can raise five billion dollars. It would have to be done through the sale of bonds. We know we couldn't buy any, and we don't believe you could.

We believe they would, and we believe Senator La Follette believes they would, but we think the Wisconsin leader is more interested in strengthening his own political fortunes than the government, and has seized upon what he thinks will be a popular appeal to the working man to further his own ambitions.

A Dangerous Situation

The recent testimony of District Attorney George E. Johnson before a Senate committee should be convincing proof to the public of the wide extent of gangland power and the evil effect that power is having on the courts of this country and the administration of justice.

"The district attorney admits that he and the court endeavored to secure pleas of guilty on the promise the gangsters would be let off with easy sentences on charges of income tax evasions. 'Please confess,' says the law to the lawless, 'and we shall be lenient. We know you are guilty. You know it. But it is difficult and dangerous to prove it.'"

"The agreement would have been carried out so far as Al Capone is concerned were it not for the fact that the gangster himself arrogantly boasted of the arrangement. For its own protection the court had to reject the plan and proceed with the trial that resulted in conviction and a heavier sentence. Yet Capone is still fighting for his freedom through the courts. He still has a chance to escape."

"Thus the federal government was aware that its investigation and prosecution for income tax frauds were responsible for the greater crime of murder. It could look into statistics about dividing the spoils with Uncle Sam. But it could not stop killing; it could not detect, convict, and punish the killers."

"Such an admission of futility by the government is the astounding fact. It should be enough to arouse the public; it should be enough to stir Congress and the administration and every law agency in America. Or are we whipped, beaten asleep, afraid to fight for the safety of our own land?"

"There should be an end to soft methods with the lawless, an end to technicalities, an end to legal protection for gangsters. 'No quarter' ought to be the cry hereafter. They should be dealt with as they deal with others."

ASSURANCE IS GIVEN LINDBY'S BABY IS ALIVE

(Continued from Page One) began their efforts to recover the child on Mar. 9. Once before, there was a statement that at the time of a previous contact with persons believed to represent the kidnapers there has been an assurance that the child was well and on week-end before last, Curtis made a mysterious trip on which it was announced he had made a contact and that negotiations were in a "semi-final stage."

Throughout last week, however, Admiral Burrage in his daily meetings with the press described their activities as "watchful waiting" and no information about Curtis' second mysterious trip was given out from the time of his departure on Saturday until his return yesterday, although Mrs. Curtis, who was away for several days, said on her return that she saw her husband on Sunday.

The deepest secret shrouded Curtis' entire trip, but unconfirmed reports here were that he had gone to Martha's Vineyard and these rumors checked with reports that a plane containing Colonel Lindbergh and several other men had been seen there and at nearby points on the Massachusetts coast.

Admiral Burrage said last night he would announce it immediately if the Lindbergh baby had been returned, "unless Colonel Lindbergh had requested us not to do so, and he has not made such a request." The spokesman for the negotiators said it might be assumed the negotiations are proceeding as rapidly as possible but that he did not know when the next step would be taken nor how much longer it would take to complete their work.

HOPEWELL, N. J., Apr. 7. — (A.P.)—A description of a new "contact" with kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby reached here yesterday as an unexplained wave of optimism for the child's safe return enveloped the Secorland count-

Back home from a mysterious four-day airplane trip, John Hughes Curtis, one of three Norfolk intermediaries, told briefly of establishing the new contact, and said he had been informed the baby was well.

This for the first time connected the activities of the Virginia trio with the two unexplained trips made early this week by the famous flier.

On both occasions—Sunday and Monday—Lindbergh was reported seen in a plane near Martha's Vineyard, Mass., the former day in company with three unidentified men.

Curtis returned to Norfolk in a navy plane—piloted by the same officer who flew another of the intermediaries here to see Lindbergh several weeks ago.

Meantime, a report came from Falmouth, Mass., that a man, a woman and a child had been seen in a boat in Waquoit Bay, only a short distance north of Martha's Vineyard.

The boat was said to be heading toward Great Neck, Mass. State police began a search of the wooded region in that section.

Although it was possible the report was only another of the thousands of wild leads turned up in the 88-day investigation, interest attached to it because of Lindbergh's trips to that section and the possibility Curtis also had been there during the past four days.

Rumors the missing child already had been returned to his parents or to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, at Englewood, spread from coast to coast during the day.

There also were persistent reports, one attributed to a person connected with the investigation, that the return of the child was only a matter of hours distant.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, in vigorously denying the 21-month-old boy was back, said "when the baby is returned the news will be released through Trenton."

At Trenton newspapers kept a 24-hour vigil in the state capital, which is connected by direct

New Gatchel Store Will Be Opened On Saturday Morning

After being in the grocery business on Celery Avenue for over 20 years, M. D. Gatchel, local business man, has decided to seek a more centrally located site and is opening his new Better Food store at 311 and 313 East First Street Saturday morning.

For almost two weeks workmen wire with the Lindbergh home.

In Hopewell a small army of reporters and photographers was increasing as a result of the optimism prevailing that success would soon crown the five weeks of investigating and negotiating.

Gov. A. Harry Moore, who has expressed confidence in the baby's welfare in the past, conferred with Colonel Schwarzkopf during the day.

"It is my sincere hope," said the governor, "that the baby is alive and well. That he is alive and well is also my sincere belief. However, I have no definite knowledge that he is."

A new and modern electric refrigerator show case has been installed for the meat department. J. M. Wilson, Jr., local youth, will also be connected in the new store.

Mr. Gatchel called attention to the fact that while his new store will be a Better Food Store it will be owned and operated by himself. He explained that the Better Food Store movement was organized mainly to create a greater buying power among individual merchants.

The store at Celery and Sanford Avenue will be closed and the entire stock moved to the new location on First Street, it was explained. Mr. Gatchel first started in the grocery business, in Sanford, in the building now occupied by Martin's Grocery at Melonville and Celery Avenues.
