Firing Squad Ends Life Of Gen. Mihailovic. Belgrade, July 17 (AP)—The firing squad this morning, the bullet in the chest ended the life of General Draza Mihailovic, the Yugoslav Chetnik leader who was shot after a long period of resistance movement. Eight co-defendants were executed at the same time. All were convicted on Monday of treason and collaboration with the Germans, and yesterday their appeals for mercy were denied by the Yugoslav parliament. In all, 10 men were sentenced to death by the Yugoslav Military court, and 13 more were given terms ranging from two to 18 years to 18 months. Two of those sentenced to death and eight who were given terms were convicted in absentia. The eight who were shot this morning with Mihailovic included two Chetnik leaders, the former police chief of Zagreb and Belgrade, and three former ministers in the Yugoslav puppet government. The eight who were shot were: Mihailovic, born in Serbia, and rose to high military rank during the first World War. When the Germans invaded Yugoslavia in April, 1941, he was a colonel. After the government fled, he withdrew into the mountains, and there organized the Chetnik resistance movement that captured the imagination of the world as a symbol of revolt against a conquering tyrant. But in 1945, he was captured by the Yugoslav army and taken to a mountain cave, and was brought to trial on June 10. The trial raised a storm of controversy throughout the Allied world. It was liberally sprinkled with references to international law, and the Tito regime refused to allow British aid to half of Mihailovic. Although some claim that he had been saved by the Chetniks to testify in his own defense, Mihailovic himself stoutly denied his guilt.

We are sorry to see where General Mihailovic had been sentenced to death by a firing squad, although we had anticipated that one day what would happen to him in the Russian-dominated Yugoslavian courts. The 50-year-old leader of the Chetniks, who once appeared on Time Magazine's cover as leader of the resistance movement in Yugoslavia, made the mistake of recruiting the Slovenes to the cause, not to mention the collaboration with the Axis, but because he seemed to lead that kind of a detachment he was about as bad as a soldier. Now he must die for his collaboration.

All For A Dime

The dime check locker was considered a great invention when it first appeared. The burdened traveller could stow his suitcase in a private cubby hole in a railroad station, pocket the key while he went about his business, and at train time could get his belongings out without standing in line at a crowded baggage room.

The lockers multiplied in number and sprouted in more public places. People ignored the dingy, ordinary look they gave to the most handsome depots for the sake of the convenience they offered.

Overnight, recently, dime lockers were lifted out of their prosaic role to become associated with adventure and the mystery stories of the day. The fabulous German jewels stolen by an army officer and his wife were left—not in a little black satchel, or the secret compartment of trunk—but in a dime locker.

Now the missing-atom bomb films are said to be lost in one of the thousands of check lockers in New York City. The army courier who left them there has the key, all right, but just can't remember which locker.

There's no telling what an innocent sailor may find next time he drops in a dime to check his seabag.

The Lowdown On Nagging

Turn where they may in literature, ancient or modern, women discover an accusing finger pointed at them. Long, long ago a Hebrew proverb even found its way into the Bible by declaring that "A continual dropping in a very rainy day and a contentious woman are alike."

And in a similar vein, the Boston Post solemnly warned recently that "many a woman has made her own marital grave with a series of little digs."

This business of nagging sounds serious—and it is. But in order to discover "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," we must find out what nagging is.

The dictionary says that "to nag is to irritate by persistent scolding or urging." A modern wit defines nagging as "throwing one's brain out of gear and giving the tongue free wheeling." But regardless of the niceties of definition, you will soon discover that, in practice, nagging is anything your husband doesn't want to hear!

Should a woman, then, always agree with her husband? By no means. Regardless of what he may say, no man really wants to be married to a "yes woman." He wants an active partner who will contribute her ideas and opinions.

The truth is that nagging may do a great deal of harm or a like amount of good. The wife who gently reproves her husband for his mistakes, analyzes his problems, and gives suggestions that spur him on to higher goals is making a real contribution to the partnership. Her husband will tell her he doesn't like her "nagging," but deep down inside he knows he'd be lost without it! —Webb H. Garrison in Your Life.

German Opinions

The poll conducted by the American Military Government in Berlin to determine what Germans in the American sector thought of Hitlerism was significant in two ways.

Of the persons questioned by German college students 53 per cent said they thought Hitler's ideas were good but they were not carried out well. Another 37 per cent expressed disapproval of Hitlerism, and the other 10 per cent did not respond.

If indications of the poll are accurate, and more than half of the Berlin people picked at random still believe in the Nazi ideals, the United Nations have one more proof of the difficulty of promoting democratic ideals there for many years to come.

But the fact that so large a percentage dared to disagree openly with the standards of their present governments is of some importance in itself. In Hitler's day, disagreement meant a risk of life.

Inside WASHINGTON

Government Control On Rents Seems Sure Remolider of OPA Is Anybody's Guess

Special to Central Press WASHINGTON—The OPA fight in Congress after President Truman's veto is touch and go. Two straws in the wind, however, provide these apparent certainties:

1—Federal rent controls will be continued for another year despite the contention of administration spokesmen that both rents and prices must be held.

2—Congress is overwhelmingly in favor of a "reasonable" price control bill.

The presidential veto placed the burden of holding prices down on businessmen and any disposition on their part to let them go may mean more rigid controls than were proposed in the vetoed bill.

UNDER THE SURFACE, all is not serene at the Labor department. Outwardly, Secretary Schweinhart appears to have restored harmony in his agency. But his bureau chiefs are far from happy. They object vigorously to the fact that they are now isolated from the secretary's office.

Frances Perkins maintained close liaison with her bureau heads and sought their ideas. But Schweinhart remains aloof, preferring to act through his assistant secretaries. This led one bureau chief to remark that it was like operating in a vacuum.

BEST GUESSES NOW is that Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson will leave when and if the peace treaties for Europe are signed. Observers think that is the earliest he can get out, although he has wanted for some time to return to his law practice in Washington.

Secretary of State Byrnes has been out of the United States during about half of his tenure in office and Acheson has been his chief minister. Now it appears that Byrnes will still have to attend the Paris peace conference and probably the Rio De Janeiro and American foreign ministers' meetings.

OPA IS CONSIDERING an increase in the retail price of coconuts to add to the costs already granted for beer, milk and coffee. But you can still get tea at present prices. In fact, OPA says no price rise is contemplated for tea.

RUSSIA AND ARGENTINA have given the 23 member nations on the new international emergency food council a slight case of stiffer by their failure to join the organization.

Both nations occupy a key role in the supply and distribution of food. These are two of the chief functions of the council, and lack of Russian and Argentine participation may hamper its effectiveness.

DEFINITE MOVEMENT is afoot in the House to attach a Palestine rider to the $3,750,000,000 British loan bill. Observers believe the rider, which will be offered by Sir George Curzon, will make the loan conditional probably with an OPA rider (immediate approval for the entry of 100,000 displaced Jews into Palestine). Have a Catch Administration leaders think they have enough votes to defeat the provision, but the current undeclared war in the Holy Land may alter the ultimate result.

POLIOMYELITIS

By Frank L. Quillman, M. D. County Health Officer

A short time ago we gave you a short description of the pertinent facts about poliomyelitis. As there are new cases being reported from various sections of the state every day, and due to the fact that the Georgia State Health Department has placed a ban on travel of both children and adults from the state of Florida to the state of Georgia, we thought it would be well to bring this up to date.

The incident of poliomyelitis, according to leading authorities, has not reached epidemic proportions at any time in any part of Florida during the present year. There have been more cases than would be anticipated this early in the season. The geographical location of Florida may be the reason for the incidence to be as high as it is at the present time, and this may drop during the period the states further north have their highest incidence.

The majority of cases have been in the southeastern portion of the state. For all the state, to July 1, 1946, 280 cases have been reported. I am sorry I do not have the number of deaths at my disposal at this time. Two-thirds of the cases have occurred in three counties.

It was further emphasized that forty-five out of forty-eight states have had cases of poliomyelitis up to this time this year, and every state has a substantial number of cases every year. According to figures of the United States Public Health Service there were reported 12,450 cases in 1943, 19,029 in 1944, and 13,514 in 1945, throughout the United States. Last year 17 states had more poliomyelitis than Florida has had reported to date, and 9 of these had more than twice as many. There is evidence of a downward trend in the number of cases being reported the last ten days in June.

Restrictions on travel are not necessary so long as over crowding is not allowed. As a matter of fact, persons to person infection is such a negligible factor that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, suggests that cases be treated in general wards. Very rarely is there more than one case developed in a family.

We have had opinions from many persons of authority throughout the United States as to benefits of area quarantine. All say that it is ineffective, unwarranted, and places unnecessary hardships on many.

So far there have been no cases reported in Seminole County. Data every individual should continue to do their part to prevent any cases developing. We believe the best way to do this is to continue to keep premises clean, do not have any trash accumulated in the yards, alleys, or vacant lots. Spray for flies and mosquitoes. Avoid crowds, avoid undue fatigue, eat correctly, and keep clean.

WHITTEN-BROWN who with a companion made the first trans-Atlantic flight in 1919 will fly across it again. He'll be surprised how much smaller the new planes make the big drink look.

Back in 1919 the airplane was still a reasonable facsimile of a motorized box kite.

Planes had two sets of wings then—upstairs and down. But this didn't make them any safer.

The world is general regarded as an airplane pilot as a sort of reckless cousin to the fellow whose idea of a pastime was to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

WHITEN-BROWN'S plane, back in 1919, was the latest word in flying machines. And his friends feared it was the last one, too.

Today no one would dream of risking a flight in one of those sky-gang jollopers across a pool of rain water in the gutter.

Even so, one should remember that those sky giants that skim the clouds across oceans in record time wouldn't be there if it hadn't been for the Whitten-Browns who took the main chance—and won.

At first, the open-mouthed passengers, jammed the aisles more than ever, but once they catch on, Smore says, "they're much more obliging than when you bare your teeth."

Smore runs a steady program of "Virginia Reel," "Irish Washerwoman" and "Turkey in the Straw," improvising words to fit the occasion. To get slow-moving women to the back of the trolley, he tells them there is a nylon counter by the rear door.

HEALTHY OPTIMISM IS NOTED AMONG FARMERS; IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED

A general spirit of optimism prevails among Florida farmers, and it's a very satisfactory and encouraging development, it is sure.

Folks have had so many serious problems and troubles during the past five years that many of them have been rather slow to perk up after the end of the war, but, at last, they are showing a tendency to smile a little more often at their work and to make definite plans for achievement in peace.

It isn't that things are "back to normal" (and that expression is somewhat dubious in meaning), but the prospect is much, much brighter than it has been in a long time.

Of course, the outlook for their crops is a continued heavy demand for the next year or two, at least—has much to do with their brighter and more optimistic attitude, but farmers are making plans and working in ideas that they hope will give a long and profitable future to their enterprises.

They are growing more crops than ever before to such and are maintaining the productivity of their soil; they are showing more interest in trees as a crop; they are using more pure bred animals to breed on their farms, and this means better stock and they are going in for more diversification than ever before.

They are finding out as much as they can about the soil and the starting their work of improvement and development.

Farmers are getting ready to "go places" in their work. They are improving their crops, their stock, and their homes and health, and they have just made a start.

That's the idea you get from after talking with farmers.

Islets Cop 3-2 Tilt Over Celery Feds

Sanford Opens Crucial Series With Saints At Municipal Park Tonight

The Sanford Celery Feds enter a crucial series tonight at 8:15 P. M. at the Municipal Park when they are holed to Manager Bill Steinbeck's St. Augustine Saints. Manager Ed Levy announced this morning that he will send Jim Schantel to the mound to stem the tide of Fed losses and protect their second place berth in the loop standings. Schantel has been out of active duty for approximately a fortnight due to an ailing right arm. However, it is believed the ailing arm has been cured and the little speedball merchant should be up to his par for tonight's contest.

THE CLUBHOUSE

By BUS HAM AP Newsfeatures. WASHINGTON — During the war years, when promising young boxers were mighty scarce, the average fight fans and to wait until the boys came home. They'd have some real champions. But it hasn't turned out that way. In the first post-war year, the failure of these young men to smash their way to the front has been a major sports disappointment. The same old names are dominating most divisions. This condition caused Col. Harvey L. Miller, National Boxing Association executive secretary, to Marine and quite a fighter in his own right years ago, to turn to the records for an answer. Miller discovered that the seven have produced only seven world champions, dating back before the turn of the century—four from the Navy, two from the Marine Corps and one from the Army. Corporal George Lellanche was the first champion developed by the services. He knocked out the original Jack Dempsey, "The Nonpareil," in 32 rounds in San Francisco Aug. 27, 1889, for the middleweight title. Lellanche, from the Marine barracks at Mare Island, Calif., "jumped ship" for the champion ship fight. He was a native of Point Levis, Quebec, Can., born in 1856, and died at Lawrence, Mass., May 3, 1914. Johnny Ruff of the Navy won the world's bantamweight belt from Fete Herman Sept. 23, 1921. His right name was John Leahy, USS Hines Island, and he fought his first professional fight at 29 years of age. Gene Tunney, king of service-produced champions, came out of the Marine Corps after the first World War to win Jack Dempsey from the heavyweight title, Sept. 22, 1926, in Philadelphia. Jack Sharkey, the Boston territorial name Josef Paul Cocksack of the USS Denver—defeated Max Schmeling, the German, for the heavyweight title, June 21, 1932, in New York. It was the Navy again when Eddie Blake—real name Henry Pytkowski, USS Nevada—took the middleweight crown from Freddy Yarnoz in Pittsburgh on Oct. 1, 1934. Ken Overlin, five letterman from the USS Hines, defeated Cesar Garcia for the middleweight championship in New York May 24, 1940. The only Army product who ever won a world title was Lew Jenkins, ex-Texas cavalryman, who knocked out Lew Ambers for the lightweight title in New York May 10, 1940. "Maybe the boys back from service haven't had time to get started in the fight game," Miller said. "After all, it took Tunney six or eight years to get ready for Dempsey."

Murray Says Change Made In PAC Set-Up

CIO Arm To Operate Under 5-Man Group Headed By Former Hillman Assistant

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The entire set-up of the CIO political action committee has been changed. The political arm of the union organization will be the over-all responsibility of a group of five men instead of being in the hands of one man as it was before Sidney Hillman died.

CIO President Philip Murray today announced that five-year-old Jack Krull will be the administrative head of the PAC. Krull, who had been Hillman's assistant on the PAC, will handle day-to-day supervision and direction. Top level policy will be formulated by a five-man executive board. Its members will be the secretary-treasurer of four CIO unions—David McDonnell of the Steelworkers, Julius Emspak of the Electrical Workers, George Addes of the Auto Workers and William Pollock of the Textile Workers. Krull will be the fifth member and chairman of the board.

The new PAC set-up not only eliminates the necessity for naming a one-man successor to Hillman but it probably will make the committee more dependent than ever on Philip Murray in top policy matters. The committee itself has been enlarged from 7 to 11 members and one of the new members is Murray. Under the old PAC set-up, Murray had only been ex-officio chairman of the group. CIO leaders had urged that Murray take over the PAC leadership himself. He asserted that the board had duties in the CIO prevented that.

Strikes Keep On Spreading Today Throughout Italy

ROME, July 18, (AP)—Strikes continued to spread throughout Italy today and Premier Alcide De Gasperi called upon the Army, Navy and police to end—if necessary—a petroleum strike that had developed to a point deemed by the premier as a national emergency.

De Gasperi's call to the armed forces and police to intervene in the strike if necessary was the most vigorous action the premier has yet taken. A cabinet minister said De Gasperi's action had the support of the Socialists, but that the Communists position was not known.

The strike involves some 7,000 workers throughout Italy and has tied up vital operations and paralyzed UNRRA transport.

De Gasperi conferred with labor leaders in Rome last night and asked them to get their men back to work. De Gasperi directed local police throughout the country to arrest and fine any responsible labor leaders who refused to order their men back on the job.

Latest Returns Show Talmadge Increasing Lead

Carmichael, However, Still Leads State In Popular Vote

ATLANTA, July 18, (AP)—Former Governor Eugene Talmadge is increasing his lead in his fight for the democratic nomination for governor in the Georgia primary. The vote yesterday, which counted in the white-supremacy platform, gave Talmadge 234,000 votes, compared with 224,000 for James Carmichael, who is leading in the popular vote. He was 200,000 against Talmadge's 178,811. But under the new system Georgia's 100 counties have 110 total votes, with 206 required for election.

The Democratic Nomination is equivalent to election, and the return of Talmadge may mean the return of the white-supremacy primary which the United States Supreme Court has ruled must go. Yesterday negroes voted for the first time. However, Talmadge campaigned on a white-supremacy platform and promised to bring back the state primary by putting it beyond state control, just as South Carolina did two years ago. By removing the Democratic primary from state control, Talmadge contended that it would be a private organization subject only to its own rules and regulations.

In another Georgia election, Democratic Representative Helen Douglas Mankin announced that she will claim renomination on the basis of popular votes. Mrs. Mankin appeared to be leading in the popular vote, but not in the unit ballots.

Efforts To Revive OPA Mired Down Again As Conferences Fail To Agree On Removing Price Bans On Food

Mary Gwynn Is Main Speaker At Jaycee Luncheon

Outlines Operation Of Central Florida Blood Bank System

Mrs. Mary Gwynn, executive secretary of the Central Florida Blood Bank, today declared that Seminole County was tops in blood bank activities. Mrs. Gwynn made the statement as she addressed the regular weekly luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce which was held at the Motor Inn.

Mrs. Gwynn, following her introduction by President Jack Ragan, asserted that the Central Florida institution was the only blood bank, so far as can be determined that is operated strictly by a donor system. She revealed that since the organization of the bank that between 6,000 to 7,000 transfusions have been given.

While outlining the organization of the bank, Mrs. Gwynn said that Seminole County donors had given a total of 191 transfusions. She added that since the war, 37 whole blood transfusions had been given patients and 65 bottles of plasma given.

In discussing opportunities of whole blood, Mrs. Gwynn said that while it can be kept only for a maximum of three weeks.

She expressed the value of the blood bank not only to patients from Sanford and Seminole County but from other communities in counties within central Florida. She revealed that there is a plan upon which action is anticipated shortly which will provide food transfusions for a total cost of $10 each. This means, she explained, that the hospitals will be asked to charge $2 for giving the transfusion while the blood bank's service charge would be set at $8.

In outlining various expenses of the operation of the bank she asserted that after each transfusion there remains approximately $3 worth of unusable bottles.

Lee Samuels, representing the Seminole Growers Association and the Seminole County Farm Bureau appeared before the luncheon today and requested the Jaycees to take an active part in a current program to obtain more and better living quarters for imported negro laborers. The group voted to have the matter taken up before the board of directors for further investigation.

New Draft Set Up Made Hard, Tight By S. S. Officials

College Youths Won't Be Deffered Without Special Reasons

By ASSOCIATED PRESS—Selective Service has made the new draft set-up tight and tough. Postponements, known as "deffers," which once were easy to get, now can get deferred, but not college men. If the college youths are called they won't be allowed to finish at a quarter or semester unless their draft boards make some special exceptions. Also, a man will not be deferred because of dependents. Fathers will not be deferred of course, and men considered extreme hard-liners will not be deferred.

The rule on occupational deferment is particularly tough. Every man in the 18 to 24 age group who is now exempt will be re-examined. Selective Service will not be so lenient in granting occupational deferments as it has been in the past. It will be particularly strict in the case of men who are employed in the national economy. That means that about 90 per cent will now have occupational deferment. Men who are not considered deferment eligible will be called for military service. A special category of the draft law provides for them. They will get the same period of deferment they got during the war.

Men who have been exempted from military service until now because they are in the armed forces will have their cases reviewed. If the doctor says they're improved enough for service they will be drafted.

Other eligible for the draft are war veterans who did not serve in the armed forces during the war. They will be called for military service if they are not in the armed forces.

The bacteriological report stated that the lake was safe for bathing. It also stated that the lake was safe for drinking purposes unless boiled. Dr. Quillman said.

CIO Asks President Truman to Summon Labor - Industry Wage Conference

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Congressional efforts to revive the OPA appear to have ended in a stalemate.

Senate members of the conference committee today rejected a proposal by House conferees that would have removed the Senate from further price ceilings for meat, milk, eggs and other foods. Also turned down was a suggestion to delete from the Senate bill a provision that would result in price increases for a large number of manufactured articles.

In an effort to end the deadlock, a subcommittee was named to study the situation overnight. It is hoped that agreement can be reached on a formula for bringing some food price controls back.

President Truman's appointment of Chester Brown as labor-industry director when he signed an OPA under which a wage-price control function. The OPA would have meant that such wage increases would be necessary in view of a long period of price control. President Truman said he would also ask that the conference committee means of establishing a wage-price control system.
