

Armistice Date Fixed For Mudonia Tuesday War May Be Averted

BETWEEN TURKEY AND ENGLAND AND LATTER IS TO BE COMMENDED

ENGLAND'S ATTITUDE

Caused Some Surprise and Disappointment But Evincing Great Patience in Avoiding War

(By The Associated Press) CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—An immediate mutual agreement to suspend all movements of troops was expected here today to be the first outcome of the Mudania armistice conference which is to meet here tomorrow.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—The Allied policy at the Mudania conference it was learned this forenoon, will be decided upon at a meeting in Constantinople this afternoon of Allied generals, admirals, high commissioners and military attaches in extraordinary council.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—The conference will discuss the occupation of Eastern Thrace by detachments of interallied troops during the Greek army's withdrawal. Expectation here is that Greek evacuation will begin immediately after conference, permitting establishment of Turkish administrative control. General Harrington, British commander-in-chief, will leave for Mudania tomorrow. Italian, and French generals, who are to attend will also leave tomorrow.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—A band of eight hundred Turkish irregulars crossed the border of Thrace at Sinekli (forty miles west of Constantinople) and attacked Greek outposts. The Greeks were forced to withdraw when reinforcements arrived and the Turks were thrown back across the boundary.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—With the armistice conference definitely fixed for tomorrow at Mudania, the period of war between Great Britain and Turkey appeared less menacing today. Great Britain's recession from the neutral zone controversy caused no little surprise and disappointment but it was generally admitted this step was the only thing which could have stayed Mustafa Kemal Pasha's hand. It is pointed to as another evidence of England's extraordinary patience and earnest desire to avoid war.

Mere theft of the car would not have amounted to much, because of its recovery, but the thieves stripped it of everything movable and set fire to it. It was a total loss.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN TO BE THOROUGH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Determination of the Democratic party to "wage an earnest and aggressive fight in every case where a senatorship is at stake this fall" was announced tonight by the Democratic National Senatorial Committee in a statement by Frank A. Hampton, secretary and treasurer. "The Democratic party in every case," the statement said "offers a candidate whose private life, public career, ability and general equipment command the respect and deserve the support of the people. In some states the Republicans have nominated candidates for the United States senate. This is so in Florida and Texas. They attempted to make a nomination in Texas by a convention, although the law in Texas provides that such nomination shall be made only by primary and the authorities have therefore held there is no regularly nominated Republican candidate for the United States senate in Texas. In Virginia the Republicans have not as yet made a nomination."

It looks cloudy as though the dry spell might be broken.

BANKERS TO CONSIDER PROTECTIVE MEASURE FOR SMALL CONCERNS

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—On the eve of what promises to be the largest and most important—the forty-eighth annual—convention of the American Bankers Association which opens tomorrow, independent bankers representing all sections of the country met in preliminary session, and put the gathering against the establishment of branch banks by the larger national banking houses.

Today's preliminary session assumed the proportion of a mass-meeting with the bankers' delegations present from many cities, and anti-branch headquarters has been established in the Biltmore Hotel by the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' Association.

The bankers at today's meeting decided to attempt to force through the convention a resolution placing their organization on record as against the branch bank plan, by which national banks in the larger cities may maintain establishments in other cities and towns. They also will seek to have the body disapprove by resolution the support of the plan by D. R. Crisinger, comptroller of the treatment, threatens absorption, if not destruction, of state and independent banks, and trust companies in smaller communities, with the result that the metropolitan banks will ultimately dominate the financial conditions in these territories.

Bankers of the larger cities, particularly of New York, are expected to wage a stiff fight to prevent adoption of the proposed resolution.

A poll of financiers gathering for the convention indicates unanimous satisfaction with the nation's progress upward from the valley of post-war depression, and a belief that at least two years of good business lie ahead. That the prosperous era, however, has not reached the proportions of a "boom" was the conviction of the bankers, speakers of conditions in federal reserve districts of the east south and middle-west.

Almost without exception, they expressed a belief that the United States for its own welfare, must concern itself more industriously with the rejuvenation of Europe.

"Tillie" Walker of the Philadelphia Athletics, was second in the American League, with 37, while Ruth, with a forty-day handicap, ranked fourth with 35.

Hornsby's total was 17 short of the record breaking collection of 59 four-base hits batted out by Ruth in 1921.

PENSACOLA JOURNAL LAUNCHES MOVEMENT FOR FREE SCHOOL BOOKS

(By The Associated Press) PENSACOLA, Oct. 2.—The Pensacola Journal has launched a movement in that city whereby children who desire to go to school but whose parents are not financially able to purchase school books may receive them free of cost. The Journal is asking all citizens and school children in the city who have old text books to bring them to the newspaper office to be distributed to children who need them.

It is pointed out that while second hand textbooks have a certain value in exchange for new ones, it does not amount to much and those who tender them, for the use of children who have none, will be performing a service of inestimable value.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Andres and son John Oliver have returned from Knoxville and Maryville, Tenn., where they have been visiting relatives friends for the past month.

HAVE FINE FACULTY IN ALL THE SCHOOL BUILDINGS

PRIMARY SCHOOLS

Have Over Six Hundred Enrolled Today With More to Follow

Sanford Public Schools opened today with the largest attendance ever before recorded and the faculty and members of the local school board who have been looking over the situation seem to think that even with the many improvements contemplated it will only be a question of more buildings in the next year to keep up with the growing population of Sanford and the Sanford school districts.

All the various schools had appropriate opening exercises this morning at ten o'clock and then the pupils were dismissed to get their books and school supplies and get ready for the real opening day of school tomorrow. The High School opened with one of the largest crowds of students ever seen in that building before and there were so many freshmen that the sophomores were aghast when they figured what a job they would have in making the "freshies" keep their place by means of the paddle wheels and other modes of correction.

Dr. Brownlee, of the Presbyterian Church; Secretary R. W. Pearson, of the Chamber of Commerce; H. C. DuBose and S. O. Shiholser, of the local school board, spoke on the opening of school and gave encouragement to the teachers. Miss Mary Zachary spoke on Home Economics and Prof. Cooper on Agriculture, the two new departments added to the high school this year over which they will have supervision and Miss Rosamond Radford spoke on Expression of which department she will have charge. Prof. McKay, the proficient and popular principal, was on hand to preside at the opening and see that everything was in readiness to start together with his efficient faculty.

The Grammar School opened on time and many patrons and friends of the school were on hand to witness the opening of this fine department of Sanford schools. Miss Clara Millen and her assistant, Mrs. Babbett, have just returned from a summer's trip and are greatly refreshed and ready for another excellent school year. They have gained a reputation in the land with their grammar school system that is second to none in the state.

The wonderful primary school system of the Sanford schools under Mrs. Stella Arrington, is really one of the most important parts of the school system for here the little tots are first brought into the schools and have to be shown just what it is all about. The primary system here in Sanford has long been touted in the state and in other states as being one of the best in the south and the primary schools under Mrs. Arrington have grown into wonderful proportions necessitating this year a new school house that will be finished about the first of January making three separate and distinct primary schools for the city. It was said this morning that over 600 pupils were in the primary departments alone, making it necessary to have two sessions a day in the east side primary until the new building is completed.

The total number of pupils in the Sanford schools was not obtainable this morning as the opening day was filled with so much excitement and tomorrow the students will be here in numbers, many of them being absent this morning for various reasons. They will all be in their places tomorrow and the total roll will then be given and it will be a revelation to the patrons of the school no doubt being one of the largest enrollments in the history of the schools.

And what a pride we take in our splendid schools here in Sanford.

The Seminole County Fish and Game Protective Association is doing a great work in fish and game protection and their work should be encouraging by all true sportsmen.

All the health rules say to kill the dengue mosquito we have been searching for him everywhere. The only trouble about mosquitoes is that they won't wait until you can examine them.

All that mess in South Bend Indiana has come to an end and the court rules that Prof. Tierman is the father of his child or at least Poulin is not and the court also paid his respects to all parties concerned and said the hardest blow fell on the child. Will Hayes ought to leave the picture show long enough to clean up his own state.

Coal miners are speeding up coal production and if the warm weather lasts long enough the folks up north will not suffer any privations other than being held up and robbed by the coal profiteers where ever the government is lax in its duty. Now that operators and miners have reached an agreement they seem to get more work done in a day—couldn't do it before.

The Sanford Country Club and golf links—the greatest asset of Sanford—for the entertainment of winter visitors and home folks alike—was a scene of beauty yesterday with many visitors to the grounds and those who enjoyed a round of golf. Just to go out there and sit on the porch overlooking the links is satisfaction supreme. It is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful spots of natural scenery in Florida.

The plans of the Herald in having a publicity tax that will take care of all the necessities of city and county are being followed in other counties with good results. And when a real publicity tax is levied by county and city those who have never contributed a cent for boosting Sanford will then be obliged to do their part of the advertising. It is the only fair and equitable way. Most of us have spent our money and time making people rich here in Sanford and they have never turned their hand over to help the town or themselves. You know it.

A SOBERING THOUGHT

Almost it takes one's breath to consider what a boon it would be to common consent, all drivers of automobiles would give practical support to the Careful Crossing Campaign. Hardly a day passes without our hearing about the inauguration of propaganda to remedy this, or that, or the other ill that is supposed to be a menace to public health, comfort, or morals. Every now and then a new wrinkle of this sort has its sponsors and adherents by scores and hundreds. The Grade crossing horror, like the poe, is always with us, but the two glaring faults of thoughtlessness and recklessness, which are the contributing causes of most of these catastrophes, are not meeting with the general public condemnation that would surely eliminate them.

To be sure, we have, at the present time, a nationwide campaign for Careful driving at railroad crossings. Safely bureaus or railroad Chambers of Commerce, supported by numerous other agencies of a semi-public nature, are enlisted in the good work, but there is still lacking the support of that greatest force, the power of Public Opinion.

And so unfortunately, the loss of life and the maiming of limbs, due almost wholly to forgetfulness of danger, continues almost unchecked.

It is a sobering thought that the remedy is so simple as to be quite overlooked. A man of our acquaintance who has spent many hours observing the methods of motor car drivers at grade crossings, declares that he has noticed an apathetic disregard of rudimentary Safety precautions.

Hosts of drivers approach railroad crossings with no apparent thought of possible danger. This is not due to ignorance, but forgetfulness; another remedy of what Franklin said, that "More mischief is caused by lack of care than by lack of knowledge."

Public opinion is against chance-taking at crossings, what we need now, is a crying one, is for the people of a nation to speak in terms of strongest condemnation of every act of carelessness that contributes to the already burdened list of crossings fatalities.

Your voice is an integral part of the Voice of the People; so why not speak right out in no uncertain words and join in a protest which shall be so universal as to prove irresistible?

BRUISED FEELINGS.

Dr. Brownlee, of the Presbyterian Church, preached on the subject of "bruises" in his sermon yesterday morning and he opened up a line of thought hitherto left closed by all except the newspapers. We have often called attention to the fact that people make themselves miserable by supposing things about the newspapers, about their friends and especially about their so-called enemies. Dr. Brownlee said so many people made themselves miserable by the fanciful slights that are enlarged upon and made from mole hills into mountains. That what are supposed to be slights are nothing more than instances of forgetfulness on the part of people who are not trying to injure anyone but who happen to forget them here and there. People can worry over some fancied slight until they become fanatical over the subject. They can have bruised feelings over all sorts of conditions and they can make themselves miserable over nothing for the rest of their lives. There should be none of these fancied wrongs in the world. Come clean with everyone and cease to make capital out of every thing that tends to hurt your feelings. Anyone can have bruised feelings if they wear them out in the open ready to be bruised and on the other hand the free spoken person can save a lot of sensitive people much sorrow by curbing their sharp tongues. There is work to do along this line. Dr. Brownlee is right.

PAPER MANUFACTURING IN FLORIDA

The beginning of operations by the Grass Fiber Pulp and Paper Corporation at Leesburg is not only a matter of more than local interest but also of more than state interest. Locally the undertaking is one of great importance to the section in which it operates. It proposes to use a new material for making paper and this will make valuable a Florida product that his heretofore been worthless. The pay roll will add to the prosperity of Leesburg and will extend its beneficial effects beyond that city.

The concern is of interest to the state not only in making valuable a hitherto valueless product but also in setting a good example that will be followed if it proves successful. The owners of it have confidence in it—a confidence they have shown by the investment of a large sum of money in it. It will certainly be a success as far as the ability to make first paper is concerned for it has made it. The paper it has made has stood a number of tests and has been found of the best quality.

We have high hopes that this plant will succeed so completely that it will attract attention to the profit of manufacturing in Florida. This state produces raw materials abundantly but, in failing to turn them into finished products, it leaves a very large part of the value of Florida products in the hands of people of other states. The wages that should be paid in it is frequently the case that industry in Florida are paid in other states and tries engaged in turning Florida materials into finished products are not highly successful because of the cost of hauling the material a long distance and hauling the finished product back for consumption here or in other states nearer to Florida than to the establishments where the manufacturing plants are located. Materials for manufacture should be made into finished products near the place where they are grown. If the finished product is to be shipped the freight on it will not be as great in proportion to its value as that on the raw material would be.

The whole country is interested in the success of this undertaking, for the supply of pulp woods in the United States is almost exhausted and the making of paper of grass fiber furnishes to the country a new supply. Publishers remember the enormous prices they were compelled to pay for paper a few years ago and while the prices are not so high now as they were then they will be glad to have the assurance that this new source of supply furnishes that they will never be called on to pay such prices again.—Times Union.

CONGRATULATIONS.

THE LIVE CITY OR THE DEAD ONE

Some men will tell you every now and then there is too much progress going on in Florida; that the people have all they want to live on and be comfortable with; that there is no need for opening up territory for development until all that is now open is settled and developed; that this thing of taxes is getting to high; and as for them, they had rather live in a town that had no improvements and no taxes than in one which had all the modern utilities and conveniences and had to pay high for them.

Yes, there are some people like that. Tampa has some, Jacksonville has some, Orlando has some, and Squeezer Hollow has some. Some of them talked out in meeting in Jacksonville recently when a play ground proposition for the children was up. He made a mighty "appeal to the common people" for exemption from any more "taxes." "Why we will have to pay 25 mills if that goes through," he cried, or words to that effect; and then he sat down expecting tumultuous applause. Did he get it? He did not. Here's what he got from one man—a live one—who calls the money paid for such as that an "investment" instead of a "tax." "I would rather live in a city and pay 25 mills than live in a dead one and pay only 5 mills."

And the man is right. Why, even the ones who oppose paying for improvements, have and enjoyed those improvements, and would be—, they are—the first to raise a howl if anything goes wrong and they cannot find a bench to sit on in the party, or if the gas gets out of commission for an hour, if the lights go off for ten minutes, or if the water gets a bad taste for a day. They wouldn't live in a dead town for a week, not if they could help it. They want to live somewhere so they can make a living!

The St. Augustine Record says this remark of the Jacksonville man is something for every live growing town to consider and live up to. It says:

"Take your choice—pay low taxes, and live in the Styx, or come across with the tax money and get good streets, municipal sewerage, and other things which will enhance the value of your property and make life more worth living."

The Tribune has spoken before of the conversion and the consequent growth and development, of a city in another state which for a long time had as its boast, "We don't own a dollar and we don't owe a dollar." "Yes," shouted a live wire trying to interest it in municipal improvements, "and you ain't worth a damn!" It was "a dead town paying only five mills tax." Today it is one of the liveliest for its size in the state and it never asks how much additional tax an improvement is going to cost, but "How soon can we get it after we vote the bonds?"—Tampa Tribune.

Herb Felkel, editor of the St. Augustine Record, has been appointed a member of the staff of Gov. Hardes, with the rank of Lieut-Colonel. He and his friends appreciate the honor. But then there's the title of "colonel." It will stick to him, in spite of himself, to the bitter end.—St. Petersburg Times.

Well, of course if Herb is going to wear the title to the "bitter end" it would be well to keep the uniform on all the time. If a dog ever bites him there it would fatal.

FROM OTHER SANCTUMS SAVE BOB WHITE

Sportsmen may deride the Youngstown, Ohio, man who wants Bob White quail left off the game bird list not only because he is valuable to agriculture as a devourer of insects, but also because:

We crave his voice and presence in our landscape to enrich and make more inspired our country life for ourselves and our posterity.

To the sportsmen the whir of the wings of a rising covey is the best music quail can make. It is inspiring music to autumn and early winter when the fields are brown. The singularly beautiful and cheery call of Bob White to his mate is heard of tene in spring and early summer, accompanied by "the song of the wind to the rippling wheat," an element of a summer sympathy described by the late Madison Cawein.

Among the millions of Americans who were reared upon farms when quail were so numerous that they were killed without compunction at any time of the year there are one to whom the call of Bob White is not music. Music valued not only because it awakens memories long dormant, but also because of intrinsic merit?

Bob White does not sing. But into his call to his mate this strict monogamist puts a distinct articulation which suggests what the "magic of words" of which poets talk, might be if orators possessed the magic of Bob White.

The wood thrush is a warbler, a cousin of the nightingale and the Persian bulbul and the luebird. Bob White is not, but his joyous proclamation of his presence in thicket or wheat field is music which cannot be as nearly imitated as the notes of the wood thrush or the nightingale; such music as inspired a critic to declare, "God is its author."

"Let us have Bob White by thousands all over the Buckeye State," says the writer of a letter to the Youngstown Vindicator, "and all over the United States, unbarred and unafraid."

That is not to be. In strict justice it could not be asked. The sportsmen have done more than farmers have done to avert the calamity of the extinction of quail. They deserve their sport for the calamity of the extinction of quail. They deserve their sport for their service. But low bag limits, brief open seasons, strict enforcement of game laws which provide penalties for killing game out of season and appreciation of the value of quail as aids to agriculture would give the Buckeye State, and all other states, plenty of quail. The music of Bob White's voice and the music of rising coveys, and the table delicacy that quail constitute, would be perpetuated.

In the attic of many an old farm house there can be found today a quail net. Into these nets, made like the hoop nets fisherman use and fitted with wide wings leading from the front hoop, farmers used to drive quail in wet weather, when they would run rather than fly. Boys trooped them in pen traps made of laths or tobacco sticks, set upon "figure-four" triggers. Gunners shot coveys on the ground in the snow. Their nests, containing often between two dozen and three dozen eggs, arranged neatly with the point of each egg toward the center of the nest, were robbed and the eggs cooked.

Sportsmen came forward to save the quail, for their own amusement of course. If given a good chance quail will so multiply that the farmers can get the benefit of any value they have as insect killers—doubtless they are as valuable as Chinese pheasants in that respect—during the crop-growing season. Hunters may shoot them, always on the wing and in the open season, when the last crop has been harvested.

Country life will be enriched by the presence of plenty of quail. The music made by Bob White, as liquid as "the lilt of the brooks under rock and vine," as clear and as cheery as the cry of "Chuck Will's Widow" will be heard again upon every farm.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

TIME TO CALL A HALT

The Florida Tax Collectors' Association in session in Jacksonville reported "considerable difficulty" in the "collection of levies on luxuries," "such as automobiles."

When the Brahmin first invented his clumsy wooden wheel cast, doubtless the cry of the tax collectors of his day was for a heavy levy on that luxury. When the first kerosene lamp, a crude open-wick affair of brass, began to succeed the tallow candles of our great grandfathers, the cry was for heavy taxation of that luxury.

Webster defines "Luxury" as: "Anything which pleases the senses and is costly or difficult to obtain; an expensive rarity," also something which is "marked by lack of utility." By no stretch of the imagination can the automobile of today be classed as a luxury under any of the Websterian definitions, any more than the electric light, city water, street railways, or paved streets can be classed as luxuries.

The time is at hand when the owner of an automobile must no longer be looked on as a prey for taxation purposes, beyond the limit which any other property-owner may be. Because one cannot hide an automobile from the tax collector is no reason why it must be made the scapegoat to bear the sins of the whole host of personal property tax delinquents.

The automobile is the heaviest taxed article of personal property in this state today. It pays a heavy license to operate, a heavy personal tax as property, and on it rests most largely the weight of the gasoline tax which is sought to be doubled by those who regard automobile owners merely as luxurious sources of greater tax possibilities.

What Florida needs is not more tax on automobiles, but a law compelling the owners of other personal property to declare it and pay tax on it. With a fair adjustment of the personal property tax, which means making every possessor of personal property pay his just part of the tax, we will not be forced, as some say we are, to tax those tangibles which it is impossible to hide from the collector's eyes, and we will not be compelled under a false classification to list our common necessities as "luxuries."

The thing has already gone too far as it is; and yet there are advocates in this state of such a thing as making the automobile, and the gasoline it needs, pay for the building of roads through undeveloped lands which will be benefited a hundred fold more than anything else, by these roads, yet without levying a cent of tax on the lands to be benefited.

There is too much political floundering about this "luxury" business, anyhow. Those who are advocates of a luxury tax on the automobile are going on the theory that the "common people," the "country vote," will be pleased, because the automobile is the "luxury of the city man," and it is supposed that any one who can do the city man will receive tumultuous applause from the country man. But such is not the fact. Taking the country over, the country man, the farmer, is riding in automobiles far in excess of the number of city folk who have that "luxury." Some of the statistics quoted by advocates of making the automobile pay more than any other State—in Florida, the automobile for every eight persons in the United States is not used. They are not used either. They are actually used, either so as is the type of the telephone and telephone, or the tile drain.

If the Florida Tax Collectors' Association wants to be of real value to the state let that body get busy on a law, one without which it, to force out of hiding the millions of concealed personal property in Florida, ranging all along the gamut from household and kitchen furniture, to the notes and mortgages of the millionaire.

Health Almost Ruined By Ravages of Indigestion

Would Have Been Dead Without "Ferraline's Remedy" Mr. Dougherty Says Today in Letter Recovered and Franco Ferraline Meets Highly.

Mr. F. W. Dougherty, Bowdoin, is of the opinion that without Ferraline he would be dead today. In a recent letter to the Ferraline Medicine Company, he says: "I am sending you the names of some people. I think will be benefited by Ferraline. I carry Ferraline in my stock at all times, and it has done SO MUCH FOR ME PERSONALLY that I feel I can honestly recommend it in highest terms."

Indigestion had so nearly ruined my health that I really believe I would have been dead had I not used FERRALINE, but since using several bottles of Ferraline I am now entirely recovered. No one is in better position to recommend Ferraline than I, for it has done so much for me. —Mother Eve must have carefully dull time if Eden re-her home in the South Seas, to Mrs. W. W. HAS ICE AT ALL SEASONS

Montana Indian, Digging Well, Seemingly Came Upon Most Remarkable Peak of Nature.

More than eight years ago John Spotted Wolf, an Indian of the Cheyenne reservation in eastern Montana, decided that he should like to have a well near his log cabin. So he and his wife Mary chose a spot near a large pine tree, perhaps 20 rods from the door, and then John began to dig. By noon of the second day he had dug down ten feet. Although the weather was mild, he had complained of being cold while at work. After eating he put on an extra coat and went to work again. He kept Mary and her brother Rolling Bull busy hauling up and carrying away the dirt that he loosened. But in spite of John's extra clothing he still was cold. On the third morning he added more clothing; but when night came and the well had reached the depth of 18 feet he was almost frozen.

The next morning he again descended the well and worked as rapidly as his many layers of clothing would permit. After a while water began to appear. Suddenly he shouted: "Pull me up! Pull me up!" John had barely reached the surface before the well filled to within a foot of the top and then began to freeze around the edges. In a short time only a small opening perhaps a foot in diameter remained.

The well remains the same way year after year, the Youth's Companion states. "During the day in summer the sun melts the ice around the top, but at night it freezes again. The well, which furnishes a permanent ice supply for the people in the neighborhood, is a strange freak of nature of which there are so many in the western part of the state. Tourists who visit the reservation regard it as a great curiosity.

BETTER THAN DISH WASHING

Student Finds Occupation of Driving a Taxi Allows Him More Time for His Books.

The passerby stopped beside the taxicab parked near Bryant park, remarks the New York Sun. He had passed the same driver several times and had noticed he was reading. Once it was Plato's dialogues, another time John Ruskin's "The Stones of Venice," and now his interest was spurred to the questioning point by observing the driver was delving into Aristotle.

"I'm working my way through college," he said. "I heard about students who washed dishes and all that sort of thing. But taxi driving is the ideal job for the student. I don't start to work until late in the afternoon. I have a rush at only certain hours. The rest of the time I spend studying. You get plenty of time in between fares to learn the Euclid, the history of the pyramids, and why Ruskin is dead against too much purple in painting. I suggest taxi driving any time instead of waiting on tables."

Thought Photographed.

Commandant Darget of the French army and a noted military criminologist as well as a psychologist, experiments in thought photography, resulting in pictures of objects suggested mentally, which, when projected from the mind to a highly sensitized photographic plate held against the forehead of a subject, leave a tangible impression of the object thought of at the moment.

If a criminal fears talking in his sleep, what double-distilled horror will he not know when he comes in realize that the very thoughts of his waking hours may be read at police headquarters as if in cold print, perhaps even more clearly than if he himself were present trying to evade questions?

Fish's Vision Limited.

To the fish the surface of the water, seen from below, presents a circular window surrounded by mirrors, according to Edward Ringwood Hewitt, author of "Secrets of the Salmon," soon to be published by Scribner's. It seems that a fish can see out into the air only through a limited aperture; everywhere else the surface reflects the contents of the stream, or (if it be a shallow one) the bottom. This is because the light rays passing from water to air are bent, and when the angle of the light ray from the fish's eye with the vertical becomes great enough, it is bent backward so that it does not enter the air at all, but is directed downward toward the bottom.

In Your Garden.

It is truly wonderful how many birds will visit modest gardens during a year. They will, during the spring migration, be most in evidence from early daylight till breakfast time, and then again as evening comes on, says the American Forestry Magazine. When autumn approaches, the migration that takes place is equally interesting. In winter we may look for various fancies, sparrows, crossbills, hawks, owls, and not a few other species that come to us during that time of the year.

JUDGE C. E. DAVIS IS CALLED BEFORE PRESIDENT HARDING

FLORIDA'S AGRICULTURAL SITUATION

An analysis of the discussions of the recent annual conference of Florida's county agents in Gainesville shows that within the following nine subjects are probably to be found the most outstanding or serious agricultural problems facing the farmers and farm people of this state:

1. Marketing.
2. Boys' agricultural club work.
3. Organization.
4. Citrus culture, referring particularly to the control of diseases and insect pests.
5. Trucking.
6. Fairs, or advertising.
7. Fertilization.
8. Dairying.
9. Poultry.

These subjects, at least, received a major portion of the agents' consideration and study during their conference. It can be stated that most of what was said at this conference was directly about or centered around these nine questions.

The agents in some cases offered solutions for the various problems, but in a great many cases they frankly said that much more time is necessary in order that proper solutions may be worked out. Falling particularly in this group were the questions of marketing and organization.

However, the agents took definite action on some of the problems. County Agent C. D. Kims, of Orange County, has summarized this action as follows:

"We took steps to investigate more economical marketing.

"We desire to secure accurate data on methods of handling commodities and produce by shippers and sellers, and to plan for further expansion.

"We moved to extend and continue on a larger scale disease and pest control work on citrus truck.

"We took steps to improve boys' club work from an educational standpoint.

"We moved to endeavor to correlate practices in spraying, cultivating and fertilizing citrus."—Ext. Agri. News Service.

FLORIDA'S AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION WORK GROWS

If the employing of more county and home demonstration agent is any sign of returning good times, then good times are ahead of us here in Florida. October, 1922, finds the state and counties employing at least eight more of these extension workers than during the last fiscal year. And others are to be added within a few weeks.

Speaking at the opening session of the recent annual conference of extension workers of Florida at the state university in Gainesville, President A. A. Murphree said, "Florida is fundamentally an agricultural state. Thru the great work you agents are doing the commonwealth will soon come into its own as the market basket and the garden spot of the nation."

The continual increase in the number of agricultural and home economics workers, means but one thing: That the people of Florida are waking up to the truth of Florida are fig up to the truth of Dr. Murphree's statement and are falling in line to place the state up in the front rank where it belongs in a second to none position.

TIME BEST PLANNED FOR FLORIDA ROAD

(By The Associated Press.) JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 30.—The Atlantic Motor Club has advised the Jacksonville Motor Club that an attempt will be made soon to lower the record for the run from Atlanta to Jacksonville over the Dixie Highway. The distance is 343 miles and the present record is nine hours fifteen minutes, a fraction more than 37 miles an hour.

The object of the speed test, it was stated, will be to demonstrate that the highway between Atlanta and Jacksonville is in condition for fast traveling.

The run, so far as known here, will be made by a single car. A pilot car from this city will meet it at the town of Jacksonville.

NEWS OF THE TALLAHASSEE COLLEGE GIRLS

A delightful social event of Tuesday evening in Tallahassee, was a buffet supper and "shower" given for Miss Barbara Knight of Tampa by members of the Gamma Chapter, Chi Omega Sorority, of the Florida State College for Women, at Mrs. Dodd's cozy tea room in that city.

As there were quite a number of visiting members of this sorority in Tallahassee at the time, this courtesy in honor of one of their most popular members, proved one of the largest and most enjoyable affairs of its kind in the history of the college, although there was a tinge of sadness due to the fact that Miss Knight will not be a student at the college this year.

Among those present were: Miss Barbara Knight, honor guest, Misses Mary Wallace Lambright, Martha Nelson, Emily Lucas, Mary Louise Dickinson, Katherine Broadus, Marion Reed, Ellen Hobbs, Mary Weedon, Elizabeth Copp, of Tampa; Misses Ella Williams, Bertha Snyder, Catherine Bettis and Prudence Moore, of Jacksonville, Misses Norma Griffin

EDITOR HAD KEY TO CITY BASTILE AND WAS WANTED

(By The Associated Press)
MIAMI, Oct. 2.—There is something doing all the time in Hialeah, one of Miami's hustling suburbs, and the most recent excitement resulted from the disappearance of the key to the city jail at Homestead. A. C. Graw, editor of the Hialeah Herald, makes his home at Homestead. Homestead officials tied up all the telephone wires between that place and Hialeah in an effort to locate Graw and insisted that he return to Homestead immediately. Graw, they said, has the key to the Homestead jail.

No one knows how Graw happened to have the entering wedge to the Homestead bastille or why it was needed so hurriedly. Some folks believe people were clamoring to get into jail while others thought a prisoner had to catch a train and couldn't get out. Graw finally returned the key.

TY COBB IS HOLDING THREE STICK MARKS OF MAJOR LEAGUES

(By The Associated Press) DETROIT, Oct. 2.—Three major league batting records were tied by Ty Cobb, in the season that closed yesterday. The Georgian has hit 300 or better for seventeen years, equaling the record of Hans Wagner, has 200 or more safeties to his credit in eight seasons and has batted .400 or better in three seasons.

His single at Cleveland yesterday, assured him of a tie for the .400 per cent record, the hit making his average for this season slightly above that mark. The feat ties the record of Jess Burkett. Burkett, however, set the three records before the foul strike rule became effective.

Sporting Page Will Be Feature of Daily Herald

Charlie Britt Has Agreed to Take This Work and Will Give the Readers a Page of Good Dope

The sporting page will now take its rightful place in the Daily Herald as Charlie Britt has agreed to look after this department for the Herald and Charlie needs no introduction to the people of Sanford or of Florida for his Diamond Dust in the years gone by has pleased thousands of readers. Charlie really missed his calling when he settled down to prosaic business instead of writing for newspapers. He has the gift of writing sports and he has contributed some good stuff for the Herald from time to time. It gives us great pleasure to announce that he will have full charge of the sporting page of the Daily Herald from this time forward and expects to have all the local sports of football and basket ball and bowling and tennis and golf and everything. He will also have all the world sports and keep up with athletics and sporting events everywhere making the Sports Page of the Daily Herald one of the best in the state. Send your stuff into the Herald in care of the "sporting editor" and it will receive space and due recognition at all times. This is one of the many new features of the big Daily Herald that will soon be issued from a new press and will be twice as large and better than it has been in many ways. Watch the Daily Herald and if you are one of the two people that are not now taking the Daily Herald get busy at once. The big league games break next Wednesday and you will want to keep up with all of it as well as the local sports.

Florida State Game and Fish Protective Association Will Meet

At Lakeland on October 10th to Put Over Big Business

Whereas, the Hillsborough County Game and Fish Protective Association recently addressed an open letter to the sportsmen of Florida, calling their attention to the threatened extinction of wild game and the diminishing supply of fresh water game fish of this state; and,

Whereas, said open letter urged the sportsmen and people of Florida to organize protective associations in each county, so that constructive legislation securing proper conservation of the wild game and fresh water game fish in the state of Florida, could be more quickly secured, they being two of the state's greatest natural assets; and,

Whereas, said open letter was sent to the various newspapers and periodicals published in the State of Florida; and,

Whereas, said newspapers not only published said open letter as a news item, but gave to the cause of game and fish conservation much of their editorial space; and,

Whereas, this organization has been greatly encouraged and helped thereby and has received in response to said open letter many communications from individuals throughout the state, of an inspiring nature; and

Whereas, this organization appreciates the fact that it is through the press of the state that a quickened conscience and an enlightened public opinion must be built up to effectively secure game and fish conservation; Therefore, be it resolved by the Hillsborough County Game and Fish Protective Association, in regular meeting assembled, that we do hereby express our deep appreciation to all the newspapers and other periodicals of the State of Florida who have so generously aided us thus far in our work by their publication of the said open letter and the editorial items based thereon; and,

Be it further resolved, that the publishers of said newspapers and periodicals be invited to attend a meeting of the Florida State Game and Fish Association to be held at Lakeland, Florida, at two o'clock in the afternoon on the 10th day of October, 1922, and,

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the newspapers and periodicals of the state.

Dated this 25th day of September, 1922.

TWO KILLED IN A BATTLE WITH POLICE

(By The Associated Press) ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 30.—Moonshiners, an unidentified man of 45 and a barefooted boy of 13, were killed in a pitched battle staged within a few blocks of the heart of the city tonight, when fire was opened on the county sheriff, a deputy and two city police officers who were acting on a tip that a consignment of illicit liquor would be brought as a part of a regular weekly shipment, delivered every Friday night.

Late tonight police declared that three persons had identified the dead man as W. A. Hudnell and the boy as his son. Persons claiming to have identified the two said that Hudnell was an Orange grower living north of Largo, about 20 miles from this city.

Hiding behind bushes that concealed them from the street, Sheriff W. A. Lindsey, accompanied by deputy Joseph Bennett and city patrolman W. A. Moody and Kenneth Stewart, waited for an hour for an automobile bearing license number C-51714.

When the machine put in an appearance, Patrolman Moody stepped into the center of the road flashlight in hand and ordered the car to stop. The man at the wheel stepped out on the running board with a gallon jug. He quickly thrust it back into the car and grabbed a high powered rifle which he aimed at the officer and fired, the bullet tearing the patrolman's hat from his head.

Moody whipped his revolver from a holster, strapped around his waist and shot the older man through the thigh. The wounded moonshiner whizzing by his face, and the patrolman fired again at the officer, the bullet whizzing by his face, and the patrolman shot a second time, sending his man to the ground. The moonshiner fired a third time and missed and then fell a victim of the officer's gun.

The boy who was in the rear seat of the automobile is supposed to have been killed by a stray bullet during the battle. Five gallons of moonshine in jugs was found in the bullet-riddled car. The automobile was identified as one reported stolen from a constable in Pinellas Park a village near here.

AUTHORITIES MAY IGNORE KILLING OF BUNNELL BOY

BUNNELL, Fla., Sept. 30.—The authorities had taken no action tonight in the case of Elliott Smoake, 15, who yesterday stabbed and fatally wounded Finn Stanish, 21, during a quarrel at the school grounds here, and it was said unless the Stanish family filed charges against the younger boy, the incident probably was closed.

The affair occurred during the noon hour. Smoake and a younger brother of Stanish were tussling when the Stanish lad was hurt in some way, children who witnessed the affair said. The Stanish home adjoins the school lot and Finn Stanish walked over to investigate. Witnesses said he struck the Smoake lad twice, and young Smoake, who had in his hand a pocket knife with which he had been peeling a parsnip, lunged at him with the weapon. Stanish was slashed in the left side and stabbed in the chest. He was rushed to a hospital in Daytona where he died on the operating table while under the influence of an anesthetic.

WORKING NAMES INTO COMBINATIONS PLAY OF WORDS

(By The Associated Press) CLEARWATER, Oct. 2.—The fact that many negroes pronounced "Dunedin" in a manner to resemble "dune eating" has prompted plays on the names of the principal cities of Pinellas county with some startling results.

The most recent was worked out by Judge H. Blaine Peacock, who asked the Clearwater Sun: "If you dine in St. Petersburg, eat Tarpon and drink Clearwater, will you be Dunedin when you get to Largo?"

The query of the judge was answered promptly by a local citizen who replied: "You will be Dunedin, all right, but what will you Ozona?"

At last accounts the youngsters were attempting to work "Largo" into a combination, bearing in mind the translation of the word as it is used by musicians.
