

Bond Selling Drive

(Continued from Page One) any measure that can be taken in the fiscal field. Snyder said increased bond sales to individuals would help restrain inflation by soaking up potential buying power. While the Administration was pressing its request to Congress for new anti-inflation weapons, it also sought voluntary cooperation to hold down spending which it contends bids up prices. Banking supervisory authorities appealed to the 16,000 banks to curtail "all loans for speculation in real estate, commodities or securities."

Recreation Plans

(Continued from Page One) announced by Chamber of Commerce Manager Edward Higgins. Shuffelboard and horse shoe courts are being provided with floodlights, and it was decided that these will be kept open evenings for use of Club members except on Sunday evening. A flood light has been installed to light the front of the Tourist Center. Plans were made for shuffleboard, horseshoe, checker and bridge tournaments at the Club also "intercity" tournaments, said Mr. Armitage. Boat rides and picnics are also planned. It was decided to request those attending the covered dish supper to either bring a food combination or to donate 50 cents each toward the cost.

Senator Connolly

(Continued from Page One) fails to reach agreement. Vandenberg suggested the same policy a month ago. Both senators have served as advisers at previous council meetings. Defining the relief bill as an American "must," Connolly said the United States cannot sit by and permit the peoples of France, Italy and Austria to be forced into Communism because of hunger and cold. Leaders called the Senate into session an hour earlier than usual in order to push ahead with the debate. They hope for a final vote by tomorrow night. Several moves were underway, however, to make changes in the measure reported by the foreign relations committee and disposal of these may delay a final vote until after Thanksgiving. One, reportedly gaining headway, is a proposal by Senator Hall (R-Minn) to keep in American hands all buying for foreign relief. Connolly told the Senate that Russia and its satellite states object to the emergency relief proposal, "seeming to prefer friction and chaos in the relations of the people of the earth." He asked why the Soviets should be concerned with the proposal, replying to his own question: "It is because they hope in the confusion and chaos and suffering and uncertainty that accompany physical distress and hunger and hardship, that the political purposes and the ideological concept of Communism will seize upon the imagination of the distressed and suffering."

Big Four Meet

(Continued from Page One) plan-backed campaign to embarrass Bidault and discourage western cooperation with the Marshall recovery plan. A British informant said Bevin and Molotov had a "very friendly" meeting last night and agreed that unanimity is of "the very highest importance" to the future of the world. Bevin also saw Marshall. Bevin was said by the informant to have adopted a line "more moderate" than that of the U. S. secretary. Press dispatches from Berlin and reports from the Moscow radio told of Soviet propaganda barrage against American and British policies in Germany, with emphasis on Russia's demands for a direct hand in control of the Ruhr, key German industrial center in the British occupation zone. These Russian demands are expected to present a major issue here in connection with the Big Four efforts to work out a formula for the economic and political unification of Germany. The first problem for the conference was agreement on a program of work. Marshall and Bevin preferred to give priority to Austria. Russian negotiators, in preliminary planning, opposed this. Associates said that what Marshall and Bevin wanted, mainly was an agreement that, if the conference bogged down on one issue, it would move quickly to another. Both Marshall and Bevin were represented as entering the meeting with a "let's get down to business" attitude. American sources said Marshall went into the session with an open mind and a willingness to do business. Uniformed police guarded the bomb-scarred walls of Lancaster House, a former ducal palace. Plain clothesmen of Scotland Yard's famous special branch guarded the halls and mingled with the crowd outside as the ministers and their advisers arrived. Hundreds of onlookers had gathered along the street when Molotov arrived. He was the first to appear. Marshall drove up last. Molotov's limousine flew from its hood the hammer and sickle of the Soviet Union. He was cheered loudly. He hastened into Lancaster House without recognizing the crowd. His little notice when he drove up directly behind Molotov. The crowd apparently did not recognize him.

The novel concerns the MacLachlans, a numerous family of Alabama sharecroppers who migrate to the cattle raising country of Georgia where they meet the dour hostilities of "Old Man Yerkins."

(Continued from Page One) than 1,500 AFL printers employed by Chicago's six daily newspapers were on strike today but spokesmen for the newspapers said publication would continue uninterrupted. The strike became effective at 9 o'clock last night but the three morning newspapers, the Tribune, the Sun, and the Journal of Commerce, already had published early Tuesday morning editions. The three afternoon dailies, the Daily News, the Herald-American and the Times, planned to have normal size editions on the street at the regular time, spokesmen for the newspapers said. All of the dailies planned to publish by means of typewritten copy reproduced by a photo engraving process. The strike is confined to the newspapers' composing rooms. The union planned "token picket lines." Early there was no disturbance at any of the newspaper plants. Spokesmen at the three afternoon dailies said operations in getting out the first edition were "going along nicely." The Times, which like the Sun is of tabloid size, planned to publish a 32 page edition whereas under normal conditions a 52 page would have been printed. The News planned an edition of 34 pages, "about normal," and the Herald American "at least 30 pages, also about normal."

Commissioners will make a personal survey of these areas to determine if the meters should be installed, said Mr. Sayer. Following a number of appeals by citizens of Goldsboro represented by E. F. Ship Wreck

(Continued from Page One) of messages sent in an effort to establish contact. They said the stricken vessel's long silence since she went aground on a reef off Graham Island, in the Queen Charlotte group approximately 140 miles southwest of Ketchikan, may mean: (1) The transport ripped off her bottom and went down; (2) heavy seas caused her to break up; (3) the 49 crewmen aboard have abandoned ship, or (4) a smashup put her power plant out of commission. The Clarkdale Victory, a cargo vessel, was not carrying any passengers. Capt. Gerald R. Laugeson of San Francisco, the skipper, said in his distress call that huge swells were pounding his ship and immediate assistance was needed. An hour later the British Columbia weather bureau at Vancouver, B. C., warned that gale winds up to 45 miles an hour were expected in that area this morning, subsiding to 20 miles an hour by mid-afternoon. Rains and fog also were forecast. First rescue vessel due on the scene is the Alaska steamship company's S. S. Denali, expected to arrive off Graham Island about 8:30 A. M. today. The Denali, a passenger-freighter, was in the mouth of the inside passage just south of Ketchikan when it swung off course and headed at full speed for the Clarkdale Victory. The cutters Wachusetta from Juneau and Citrus from Port MacArthur will not be able to reach the transport until hours later. The Coast Guard said early this morning the Citrus had reported she could not get to the area until 7 P. M. instead of 4 o'clock as first estimated. No recent report has been received on the Wachusetta's running time, but she is not expected to arrive there until late afternoon. The Clarkdale's SOS also was picked up by the General Omar Bundy, an Army transport due in Seattle Wednesday with 2,000 troops from Yokohama. Orders were issued by the Army, however, for the Bundy to proceed here rather than risk heading into the storm area with her heavy load of passengers. A Coast Guard plane is scheduled to take off this morning from the Annette Island field near Ketchikan to fly over the wrecked transport and determine its condition.

United Nations

(Continued from Page One) There appeared little doubt that the partition plan would be approved by the committee, where a simple majority of those present and voting was required. The plan, however, must be voted on later—probably tomorrow—by the same 57 nations in plenary session at Flushing Meadow Park and there it must get a two-thirds majority for approval. Among the amendments approved this morning was one submitted by the United States transferring two chunks of territory from the proposed Arab nation. One was a wedge-shaped extension of the Arab territory southwest of Jerusalem to include the village of Beersheba. The other was a narrow strip along the Egyptian frontier about 50 miles long. The committee rejected a Pakistan amendment which would have discarded all the drafted boundaries of the two proposed countries established a special commission to work out new borders. The committee already had beaten down an Arab-country proposal to make Palestine into a "unitary" (Arab majority) nation. BAGUIO, P. I., Nov. 25 (AP)—Russia lost its first vote today to eliminate consideration of working relations with Korea from the agenda of the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East (ECAFE). The proposal by Soviet Chief Delegate Alexander Stetsenko to eliminate the item was voted down 9 to 2. The Chinese delegate was not allowed to vote pending a decision later in the day on whether to recognize the representative of Siam's new government. Siam was lost by a similar vote a proposal not to consider working relations between ECAFE and the office of special commissioners in southeast Asia. The Russians were successful, however, in tossing out—by unanimous consent—a note from occupation headquarters in Japan relating to its economic objectives there.

Golden Age Yields Its Place To The Tenement Project

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Manhattan, always shedding the cocoon of the past, symbolizes not Tennyson's famous line—"The old order changes, yielding place to new." They no sooner put up an amazing building than someone begins to plan to tear it down and replace it with something more marvelous.

But the death of two famous old mansions—the red Vanderbilt stone palace on Fifth Avenue and Charlie Schwab's stately granite chateau on Bleecker Drive—marks the final passing of New York's so-called "Golden Age."

Crashing with the blows of wrecker hammers destroying these two great edifices are the gaudy standards of the nineteenth century financial titans, whose fortunes were so vast the society dandy Ward McAllister coined this rule-of-thumb definition of wealth:

"A fortune of only a million is respectable poverty.

Some antics of the fabulous people of that bygone day are recalled by Andrew Tully, former war correspondent, in his book "Era of Elegance."

Mrs. William Astor—"the" Mrs. Astor—dipped into $50,000,000 to spend $2,500,000 on a renaissance palace. Guests contributed $1,000,000 in gifts at the celebrated wedding of her daughter, Carrie. But when they auctioned off the furniture of society's queen in 1924, a year after her death, the gifts brought only $150,000.

She sent a huge tapestry that had dated visitors for two generations went for $10.

High-living Charlie Schwab poured $8,000,000 of his steel profits into his 75-room, 40-bath Hudson River hideaway. He put in a $50,000 pipe organ and a refrigerator that could hold 20 tons of beef. It cost him $400,000 a year to keep up this overgrown bungalow, and Charlie, who had earned more than $1,000,000 a year, died cheerful—and broke. The final tally: Assets $1,889,508, liabilities $1,727,858.

Isaac Brokaw, multi-millionaire clothier, insisted that his architect put a real moat around his Fifth Avenue castle on the grounds that "There's more robbers in this town than all those King Louises had to put up with" in France. All that ever tumbled into the moat, however, was a runaway horse.

The original John D. Rockefeller, retiring at 56, spent between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 on his 7,000-acre estate overlooking the Hudson. He lived for years on a diet of human milk and built a $24,000 turntable so he wouldn't have to move to keep in the sun.

Andrew Carnegie, who kept eight footmen in the $9,000,000 Scottish castle for the sole purpose of pouring wine, built a $2,000,000 cottage on upper Fifth Avenue also, just to have a headquarters to give away $250,000,000 late in life.

This so enraged his bitter enemy, Henry Clay Frick, that Frick vowed: "I'll make that place look like a miner's shack." So Frick, spent $17,000,000 on his own marble palace, stocked it with $30,000,000 in art treasures and willed the whole thing as a public museum. He thought it would be his name outlast Carnegie's.

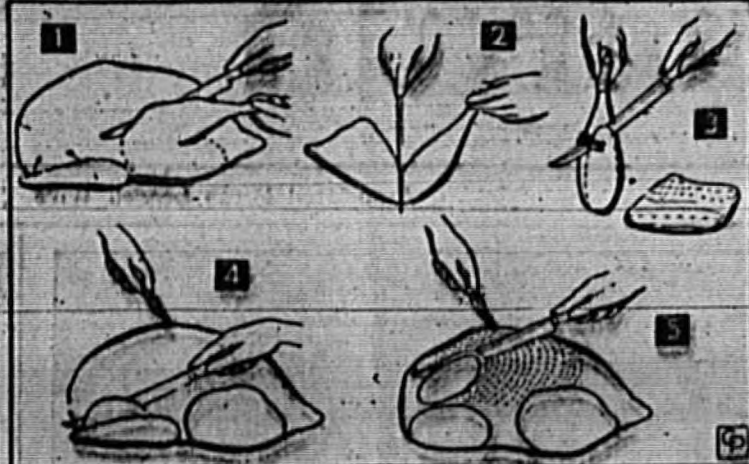

Income and inheritance taxes, the high cost of servants and other factors have led descendants to dispose of most of the moth-eaten grandeur huts built by the American money grubs.

What is the old order yielding place to?

Well, the most dramatic change now taking place in Manhattan's ever-changing face lies in the field of community housing.

One insurance company is along the East River. It won't contain any European art treasures and it won't have a moat. But it will have trees, playgrounds and room for 25,000 middle-income people on land where slums sprawled before.

That is the new pattern into which Manhattan is growing.

ART OF TURKEY CARVING is simple if you follow these basic steps: (1) Hold the drumstick firm and slice directly down. (2) Then cut to the second joint and separate the leg. (3) Slice meat off both sections. (4) Cut to the wing joint with blade slanted in. (5) Carving the breast is easy with a sharp knife. (International)

UNESCO Head Gives Report On Functions

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26 (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, U. S. delegate to UNESCO's second general conference, today reported that it is UNESCO's function to build the framework of understanding in which the United Nations can function.

Eisenhower, President of the U. S. National Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, asserted that UNESCO "is now a somewhat squally infant, and it is going to grow up to full manhood as a powerful organization for peace."

"We are going to have to have very far-reaching political and economic changes, but no political agreement, no military agreement, no economic agreement is going to be worth the paper it is written on without understanding," he said.

"It is UNESCO's function to build the framework of understanding in which the United Nations can function."

Eisenhower, President of Kansas State College, summarized at a news conference the achievements of this UNESCO meeting. He said it had demonstrated three things:

1. "The effective role of national commissions is a new and healthy development in international relations to close the gap between the realities of people and the policies of their nations. National commissions have been set up in 15 of the UNESCO members.
2. "Correlation between budget and program," comparing this session with the first general conference when the UNESCO secretariat was called upon to implement a $25,000,000 program with a $6,000,000 budget.
3. "General acceptance by the conference of the whole program in mass communications and free flow of information across national boundaries."

Post Office Says It Cannot Handle More War Parcels

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Post Office Department, now handling the greatest volume of mail in its history, said today it cannot handle with its present facilities a heavy increase in war-torn countries.

Paul Aiken, second Assistant Postmaster General, told the Senate Civil Service Committee that heavier relief shipments abroad will require additional manpower, trucks and facilities.

The committee is studying legislation proposing to make such shipments postage free or to cut in half the present rate of 14 cents a pound on overseas packages.

Aiken cited increased mail expected during the Christmas holidays and said at any rate the department will not be able to work out details required by a cut-rate service until after Jan. 1.

He testified the 400,000,000 of international parcel post for the fiscal year 1947 represents an increase of 16 times the 1939 volume, and the overall volume of mail is greater than in the department's history.

"It is impossible to estimate how much this great quantity of parcel post would jump if reduced rates or no postage is charged. Various opinions by experts of the department run from a doubling in volume on up," he said.

Aiken and other post office experts said it was impossible to estimate in relief mailings which would probably follow a cut in rates.

The post office now operates its international parcel at approximately cost.

"Any loss in revenue," Aiken said, "must be replaced to enable the department to carry out the stupendous task of greatly expanded service."

He urged legislation to enable the Post Office Department to get additional space and facilities from government agencies without cost, suggesting that Army, Navy and War Assets Administration facilities be used.

You, Too, Can Be A Glamour Girl Just Pluck A Magic Irish Harp

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK—This is the story of how an Irish harp transformed a youngster who thought she was an ugly duckling into a glamour girl.

This winter, as she plucks her harp or cradles a zither, you may hear her singing ballads of Scotland, Ireland, England and the southern Appalachians in concert, in movies or on a record. Watching her copper-colored hair flowing over the shoulders of her simple frock, noting the golden freckles that dust her nose and the curve of her round young arm, listening to her clear voice as it sings the simple songs, you may think of cool crystal waters splashing in green dells and suddenly find your eyelids stinging with tears.

The singer is 20-year-old Susan Reed, daughter of playwright Dan Reed and leaders Bennett of the American Theatre Wing. She grew up in the South, where her father was the director of the Columbia S. C. Tower Theatre, and with him she rode through the sand hills on Sunday afternoons to hear her New York singing teacher.

She began to sing then, adding songs to her repertoire every year.

"But I never expected to be a singer," she said the other day, tucking one foot under her as she sat in her New York sitting room. "I was going to be an artist. After we moved to New York I kept studying. I was a sad girl those days. I read too much. I'm afraid I think—your know—now kids are when they're young."

"And anyway I was so plain. I was plump. And I had freckles and braces on my teeth. I would never—because I couldn't bear to show my teeth and I was always wanting to hide. I would have been awfully unhappy if I hadn't been so busy singing and being in school plays."

"Then one day," she went on, "a friend gave me an Irish harp. It's a magic harp—green with gold designs on it. It transforms me. When I take that harp in my arms and play I don't feel plain any more. It changed the whole world for me."

Soon, to the strains of her Irish harp, Susan began to sing for friends when they came to the house, and then for soldiers in hospitals. In time she began serious study. One day a friend told the manager of the night club Cafe Society downtown about her and, without telling her parents, Susan took her harp and went—in her dimly dress and her hair in a braid—to play for him. She sang one song and then five or six more.

Result was a six week's engagement there, and later an 18 months' engagement at Cafe Society Uptown.

After that things began to happen fairly fast. Recently Susan completed her first movie "Glamour Girl," made in nine days, she says. This winter she will sing in concert in 30 American cities. As soon as she can find time she will make 80 recordings of her ballads for The Library of Congress.

Between times she hunts second-hand shops, adding to her collection of harps, zithers and lutes, which now totals 29. In the summer she travels down South making her own recordings of mountain folk songs to add to her repertoire.

A Tasty Liver Pie

Cream of Celery Soup
Liver Pie with Vegetables
Tossed Green Salad
Chocolate Peppermint Cake

(Recipes Serve Four)
Liver Pie with Vegetables
3 slices bacon
1 pound liver, cut in small pieces
1 1/2 cups sliced onions
1 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves
1 cup diced carrots
1 beef bouillon cube
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups boiling water
Dash of sage
Dash of paprika
1/2 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup milk (about)

Fry bacon. Add liver and onions and brown slightly. Add the celery and leaves, carrots, bouillon cube and salt to the boiling water and cook until the celery and carrots are tender. Drain. There should be about 2 cups of liquor, if not, add water to make the required amount. Add meat mixture and vegetables to liquid, then add remaining ingredients down to the flour. Place in a greased casserole, 8x11 inch, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening and milk. Stir carefully until the dough forms a soft ball. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead for 30 seconds. Roll 1/4 inch thick and fit over the casserole. Slit top to allow the steam to escape. Bake in a 450 degree oven for 20 minutes, or until the crust is nicely browned.

Frances R. Lefils Chosen As 1 Of 7 Florida Delegates

Frances Rita Lefils, 16, daughter of G. C. Lefils, of Geneva has been chosen as one of seven Florida 4-H club girls who will attend the National Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 30 to Dec. 5. It was announced today by Mrs. Ouida Wilson, county home demonstration agent.

Miss Lefils was selected for the trip because of her achievement in the 4-H club Dress Revue contest. She won second place in the 1946 State Clothing Achievement Contest and has completed a total of 129 projects.

Next to her dress making and sewing, Frances regards poultry work as tops on her list of 4-H club work. Starting with 100 chicks, she raised, cared for, and sold them, realizing a profit of $25 on the lot. Out of one lot of 600, she had luck enough to raise 100 per cent. She entered the poultry contest sponsored by Sears Roebuck and Company in 1946 and won first prize of twenty dollars on her pullets and a prize of 100 chicks in the egg contest. Miss Lefils has also engaged in dairying projects.

She is a student at Seminole High School where she takes courses in home economics. In 1945-46 she was Class Athletic Manager, and a member of the school band and orchestra. This year she is on the staff of the school newspaper. For the last 4 years her name has appeared on the school honor roll. She was elected this year as queen of the homecoming rally in connection with the Winter Park game.

Miss Lefils is a member of the Geneva Senior 4-H Club, in which organization she served as president in 1946, and as secretary in 1945. She was elected vice-president of the Seminole County Council in this past year. Beginning 4-H club work when she was 9 years old, she has now been 7 years in 4-H work. Mrs. W. L. Sieg of Geneva, is the adult leader of her club.

Frances' trip to Chicago will be sponsored and financed by Simplicity Pattern Company.

R. W. Blacklock, state 4-H leader, and Mrs. Edith Y. Barrus of the State Agricultural Extension Service will accompany Miss Lefils and 14 other Florida 4-H winners to Chicago, where they will be with 48 other Florida 4-H clubs from 48 states and Canada for a week of educational exhibits, inspirational talks, and visits to points of interest.

Wanted, Buy Or Rent, Dictionary On Wives' And Women's Vocabulary

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Wives often wonder out loud why their husbands never listen to them. The reason is very simple. They quit listening because they can't understand their wives.

Why? Don't their wives speak English? No, they don't speak English. And if their husbands are Chinese, they don't speak Chinese either. Nor do they speak bird words if their husbands are stool pigeons.

Women—and particularly wives—develop a language of their own which bears about the same relation to the language of men as a fog does to a clear day.

There are many theories as to this, but I have my own. I think it is because of shock. A woman generally makes only one clear cut decision in her life. That is at marriage time when she replies to the minister's question with an emphatic "I do!"

When she discovers what a life-long stew this simple declarative sentence has gotten her into, she retreats into herself and becomes a delphic oracle. You will have a hard time getting her ever to say anything definite again. She has learned the cost of clarity.

So, knowing how terribly final decisions are, she begins to hedge. Her mind is clear as a bell, but she forever hates to commit herself on questions of choice.

Gradually her language becomes particularly a cross word fusing to men, who understand words only in their dictionary meanings.

His wife's vocabulary had become particularly a cross word puzzle to one literate-minded young husband I know. When she asked him prettily one morning, "Don't you want some more bacon, dear?" He reached over and speared the last slice on the plate, complimenting himself on her interest in his welfare.

"But when he glanced across the table he met an angry glare. "You selfish thing, you!" she said. "Always thinking of your own stomach."

The surprised young man had learned to draw back into his mental mist for shelter. He ceases to listen, or pretends to.

In 5,000 years of civilization male inventiveness has come up with only two expressions to cope with the mysterious language developed by wives.

To be safe, you can say "Uh-h-Or—even better—"If-in-m-Anything else may get you in trouble.

I will give you another example. If a wife casually mentions that the girl next door is "Really quite pretty, don't you think?", she may mean any of the following things:

- (1) Merely that she does think the girl is pretty. (This simple explanation is highly unlikely.)
- (2) That it is too bad the girl is really so homely.
- (3) "Oh, you have been giving her the eye, you two-timer."
- (4) That she is considering marrying the girl off to one of your bachelor friends in an attempt to break up your Friday night poker games.
- (5) That the girl is pretty, but her mother plays a lousy hand at bridge.
- (6) That it has been a long time since you said that she herself (your wife) is pretty.

Beware Coughs That Hang On

Cremulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm; and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Cremulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly abates the cough or you are to have your money back.

Auto Production

It that even if capacity production can be achieved next year it probably will not catch up with the accumulation of unmet passenger automobile orders.

Although in the present market where demand is far in excess of supply the manufacturers will not have to explain price advances, a sizeable part of the increases can be "sold" on such things as curved glass windshields, larger generators, improved gasoline mileage and numerous other items.

BANKS NATIONALIZED

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Labor government's bill to nationalize Australia's private banks, already approved by the House of Representatives, passed the Senate today.

CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE Foreign Relations Committee, Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) listens attentively as Assistant Secretary of Interior William E. Warne (right) explains to the committee, in Washington, a chart of U. S. exports and re-exports. Vandenberg later decided that the U. S. may request atomic energy from Europe as partial payment for aid to Europe under the Marshall Plan. (International)
