Construction on 17-92 to begin

LONGWOOD — Construction is expected to begin Thursday of the additional turn lanes on U.S. Highway 17-92 at State Road 434. The $136,000 state project will install dual left-turn lanes onto S.R. 434 from both north- and south-bound U.S. 17-92. Work will take from 30 to 60 days to complete. No lane closures are scheduled to occur between 5 a.m. and 9 p.m. weekdays. Lane closures may occur on weekends and holidays.

Baby survives fall from window

SANFORD — A 17-month-old girl who fell from a third story window this weekend was released from Orlando Regional Medical Center yesterday.

The incident happened at 8:13 p.m. Sunday, at the home of the child's mother, 253 S. 24th St., Sanford.

A spokesperson at ORMC said this morning that the girl was "sufficiently recovered" from her injuries and that she was sent home to continue her recuperation. She still had "some scrapes and bruises", but she test for internal injuries came back with a clean bill of health for the child, the spokesperson said.

According to Sanford Fire Department battalion chief William Eilenburg the matter is being considered as an accident and no charges are expected to be filed.

A shotgun wedding?

CAPE CORAL — A man held his ex-fiance hostage in a beauty salon for five hours, demanding that police send in a minister so they could be married.

More than 40 officers surrounded the building late Tuesday afternoon until William E. Young let Bonnie Ribich go, police Sgt. Bill Rivers said.

Young, 44, remained in prison this morning on charges of false imprisonment and aggravated assault.

Police said he walked into the salon with a shotgun demanding that Ribich, 43, marry him. Rivers said Young and Ribich had been engaged, but she recently broke the engagement.

Jet waste slams into house

ORMOND BEACH — A frozen chunk of toilet waste apparently from an airplane crashed through the roof of a house and landed on the living room floor, and the residents want to find the high-flying culprit.

Leo Dowling and family friend Bobby Fogarty were in the backyard enjoying a quiet Mother's Day on Sunday, and Lisa Dowling and her fiancée were upstairs watching a video of the movie "Airplane" when a chunk of blue ice fell through their roof.

It's Supt. Hagerty

Dr. Paul Hagerty

By NICK PFENAU

SANFORD — Dr. Paul Hagerty of Springfield, Missouri, on Tuesday was offered the job as Seminole County's new School Superintendent. The final vote by the School Board was five to nothing. "We had an even better vote here," Hagerty said from his home following the decision. "Our vote was six to nothing to move to Florida." He was referring to the decision made by him, his wife, and all four children. Within minutes after the School Board made its choice, Chairman Nancy Warren phoned Hagerty to tell him of the board's decision. Hagerty said, "We will still have to work out the specifics of a contract." See Hagerty, Page 5A

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's Education Committee tries to do what they can to help students at Seminole and Lake Mary High School students to continue their education. Last night, 34 students received a variety of awards from the committee. The scholarship awards ceremony has grown so much that it had to be moved from the downtown Chamber building to the Fine Arts Theater at Seminole Community College. "With the cost of college rising all the time very few young people and their families can afford the cost," said Dave Farr, executive director of the Chamber. Lake Mary sports park launched

Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — City officials will man their shovels tomorrow afternoon. They will be breaking ground for Lake Mary's new sports complex. The initial observance will launch the start of a $766,000 construction project expected to take approximately six months to complete. "We hope to have it done by November first, or maybe even sometime during October," said Lake Mary Parks and Recreation Director John Holland. He added, "We think we could start a fall baseball league at the park, and we're making our plans based on that assumption."

For a short time, it was believed construction might be held up slightly when gopher tortoises were found on the property. They have since been relocated to new homes at the Seminole County landfill area. Holland said they did not delay the proposed start of work.

"The only thing we were waiting for was our final permit from the St. Johns River Water Management people," Holland explained, "and we got that just this past week."

The sports complex, still unnamed, will be built in two phases. The initial construction will center on four ball fields, two of which will be lit for nighttime activity, a multipurpose field, and restroom facilities.

The work will also include grading of 700 feet of Shealey Road off of Rantoul Lane, to provide an entrance area, and a paved parking lot.

The contract for construction has been awarded to GCI, General Constructors, Inc., of Altamonte Springs. GCI was selected as the lowest bidder from nine bids submitted for consideration.

The city had originally allocated $760,000 in its budget for the development of the sports complex. Additional money however, will now be necessary. The cost for the elimination of the tortoises added $18,000 in expenses. "That was the maximum we had allocated," Holland said, "and even though more were found than originally expected, they held to their original agreement and it didn't cost us any more."

There were also some additional design costs that added another $47,000 to the expense.

"I haven't the slightest idea of what the park will eventually be named," Holland said. "It will probably be up to the City Commission to make that decision, but right now, I don't believe any suggested names have been proposed, or idea devised for finding a name."

No mandatory garbage pickup

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County garbage rates may still increase in October although Monday commissioners rejected a plan for mandatory garbage collection because of prices. "That is something we'll have to look at," said County Manager Ron Rabun. "That may very well be the case."

Monday, county Public Works Department staff placed a proposal before commissioners to raise the current monthly garbage rate from a range of $11.50 to $12.80 to a flat fee of $14.88 for all unincorporated households. The base fee for all residences would be $11.45. To the $11.45 rate, $2.05 was to be added for an increase in dumping fees for haulers and $1.15 to pay for the costs of billing every single family home in the county annually for the service. Service would be increased from limited-garbage collections to unlimited-garbage collections. Yard waste collections would also be included in the rate instead of the current $1 per bag rate. Commissioners questioned the justification for the proposal to increase the "tipping" fee charged to garbage companies from $16 to $37 per ton. They also rejected the proposal because the five county-franchised haulers asked for a four-year extension of their contracts now scheduled to expire in 1995. Commissioners directed staff to prepare an explanation for the need for the increase. According to a staff report, no tipping fee increase has been made since 1984. Since then, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and Florida Department of Environmental Regulation have imposed additional requirements, such as air and water testing near dumps.

County auditors told commissioners in March the county fee needs to be increased so cash reserve requirements of the county's 1990 $23 million bond can be met. Although the county had $906,000 in reserves by Sept. 30, 1991, that was half the amount left over a year before.

The number of participants in a voluntary collection program have averaged about 60 to 75 percent of the total number of unincorporated homes so garbage collections — and therefore tipping fee revenues — may fall below projections. Rabun said he will ask Solid Waste officials to study the garbage projections under the continued voluntary See Garbage, Page 5A

Impact fees considered for new schools

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners set a July 14 date to consider a $1,384 impact fee on new home construction to raise money for Seminole County schools.

Final commission review is scheduled for July 28. If approved, the fee would take effect Oct. 1.

School officials say they need the $44.4 million projected collections from the fee during the next five years to supplement state school construction revenues. The $100 million construction program will start the building of nine schools during the next five years. See Fees, Page 5A

HSN co-founder plans religious station

CLEARWATER — Lowell W. "Bud" Paxson, a co-founder of Home Shopping Network, is launching another cable channel — this one a religious station called Worship.

He plans contemplative music and videos of inspiring nature scenes such as glaciers as a backdrop and periodic Biblical passages flashed on the screen.

The show will be hosted by a minister standing in front of a church before a room filled with telephone operators at computer screens. Viewers will be able to call a 800-number.

Some will talk with the minister, but most will simply talk with operators who will offer references to Biblical passages that might be applicable to the caller's needs.

Nine charged in nationwide theft ring

MIAMI — A man who calls himself "King of the Gypsies" was indicted on charges of running a nationwide theft and money-laundering ring that uses disguises and CB radios during fast getaways.

Mike Marks — who used 11 aliases — and eight other people were charged Tuesday with federal counts of conspiracy to transport stolen property and hide the proceeds from authorities.

The group went on carefully coordinated "road trips," said the indictment announced by acting Miami U.S. Attorney James McAdams.

Men would usually drive four-door cars or vans — chosen for quick access during a getaway — while sending women and children, often in disguise, into stores to steal, prosecutors said.

Property with rivers purchased

HAVANA, Fla. — Nearly 38 miles of river and stream corridors are being purchased in the Florida Panhandle for $4.8 million, water management officials said.

The Northwest Florida Water Management District has negotiated the purchase of 18,920 acres of property from Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, district spokeswoman Georgann Penson said Tuesday.

The district has agreed to pay $305 per acre for a total of $4,825,000, she said. The money will come from the state's Save Our Rivers and Preservation 2000 land-buying programs supported by documentary stamp taxes on real estate transactions.

Wetlands protected

PALATKA — Water managers bowed to environmental concerns in turning down a request by Brevard County to pump water from beneath a wildlife area in neighboring Ocala County.

The 23,000-acre Bull Creek Wildlife Management Area in eastern Ocala County is largely wetlands. It is home to 20 protected plant species.

"This is the worst possible place to put this well field for environmental reasons," Segundo Fernandez, attorney for Ocala County, said Tuesday.

Cities want more taxing authority

Sanford, Lake Mary: No petitions planned

From Staff and Wire Reports

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida League of Cities, unable to convince state lawmakers to eliminate restrictions on taxes cities can impose, is mounting a petition drive to place the issue on the November ballot.

No petitions are expected to circulate locally, Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith and Lake Mary Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore said this morning. Neither city names an official representative to attend league meetings. Smith has attended in the past.

"The city discussed it briefly. We're not opposing it, but we have chosen not to pursue the active support if it," Smith said.

"We meet with other cities in Seminole County, but we don't actively participate in the Florida League," Jore said.

If approved by voters statewide in November, the initiative announced Tuesday would amend the Florida Constitution to allow cities to hold their own local voter referendums on whether to keep, change or abolish local taxes.

"What we're saying is, let the people decide," said Plant City Mayor Sadye Gibbs Martin, president of the league. "We've told people the taxes they are going to pay. Let people tell us how they are going to pay."

The league, which represents 395 Florida municipalities, wants cities freed from the tax restrictions now imposed by lawmakers. Cities now may only levy occupational, property and utility taxes.

If the measure were adopted, cities could begin to levy their own sales or other taxes, and even get rid of municipal property taxes. They could not make any change in taxes collected by the state or county, nor could they impose a personal income tax.

"It's true participatory democracy," said Lauderdale Mayor Ilene Lieberman. "They'd have a say-so in their local government."

To get on the fall ballot, the League of Cities will have to gather 364,000 valid signatures by August. Martin indicated that wouldn't be a problem, but others weren't so sure.

The drive is aimed at least in part at convincing the Legislature to loosen its grip on taxing options such as the sales tax in the special session that begins June 1.

"If they don't give it to us during the special session, we'll go to the petition drive," Martin said.

During this year's regular session, Sen. Fred Dudley, R-Fort Myers, sponsored a similar proposed constitutional amendment.

In appreciation

Chris Cranias, president of the Sanford Historical Downtown Waterfront Association, has presented the Sanford City Commission with a photo of the city clock taken during the 1991 Christmas season. Cranias said it was in appreciation for the downtown lighting work done for the holiday season.

Blue Cross, Blue Shield raises Medigap premium

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida is raising its rates on "Medigap" policies bought by elderly people to supplement Medicare an average of 14.8 percent.

Increasing claims, technology that keeps the elderly alive longer, high medical costs and increasing deductibles led to the increase, according to Bill Simek, director of senior markets for Jacksonville-based insurer.

"People who would have a chronic illness 20 years ago and would have died are now being treated," Simek said.

The increase, approved by the state Department of Insurance last week and effective July 1, will be seen by consumers when the next premium payment comes due. It translates to an annual premium of $1,240, up from $1,080, for almost 228,000 customers.

In December, Blue Cross and Blue Shield's main competitor in the Medicare supplement market, The Prudential, increased its rates an average of 21 percent for 280,000 Floridians, to $1,081, up from $891.

Medicare supplement policies, commonly called Medigap policies, pay for health-care treatments not covered by the federal insurance programs for the elderly, as well as deductibles and coinsurance amounts.

The government increased its deductible for the part of Medicare that pays for hospital bills to $652, up from $628 last year.

"As the government cuts back on its liability as a way to hold down its costs, they pass it along to other people," Simek said.

In January, new federal laws governing Medicare supplement policies took effect. They required every company selling the insurance to introduce standard policies approved by the government. The laws also made it illegal for agents or companies to sell more than one supplement policy to an elderly person.

Trial run

Students generally praise school AIDS testing

By JAMES MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer

FORT MYERS — Students generally praised a trial run of voluntary AIDS testing here and even had a few suggestions for what is expected to be the first districtwide AIDS testing in the nation next year.

"Right now, only seniors are going to be tested. But I think everyone should be tested because it's not just the seniors who are having sex," said Riverdale High school senior Michele Ritter.

Lee County voted last month to sponsor the AIDS testing for seniors 18 and older in the wake of reports that nine teens already have developed full-blown AIDS and another 110 people in their 20s have the disease or have died of it in this Southwest Florida county since 1983.

The first tests were offered Tuesday during a health fair at Riverdale High School. And the tests will be available for all seniors 18 or older in the county's seven high schools next school year.

"Teen-agers think they're immortal," senior Erin Snider said after taking part in the testing. "By getting AIDS tests — even if they don't come out positive — it will change the way some of them behave. At least they will think about it now."

"A lot of kids my age don't know much about AIDS," said Danielle Larmoy, 18. "They just know it's a disease for someone else and they think they're immune. With these tests today I think they learned it's everyone's disease."

In all, 104 seniors signed up for the health fair; 78 of them were old enough to make the choice, but school officials would not disclose how many volunteered to be HIV tested.

School officials only allowed those 18 and older to take the tests to get around the sticky issue of parental notification. When the test results come back in about 10 days, the students are under no legal obligation to tell their parents.

At the health fair — where blood pressure, body fat and other screenings were conducted — counselors talked to each student about the importance of abstinence from sexual activity, how promiscuity increases the risk for HIV infection and how to recognize AIDS symptoms.

Then, it was each teen's choice whether to submit to the test.

To protect the privacy of students who wanted the AIDS test, all went through the same procedure.

School bans Ku Klux Klan project

Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE — Fifth-grader Jeremiah Scarbrough's school project on the Ku Klux Klan may have been politically correct, but officials at his elementary school thought it was too political.

The civics lesson? The First Amendment protects the Ku Klux Klan, but not him.

That's the impression officials gave Scarbrough after they banned his Klan report from Bennett Elementary School's academic competition.

"I didn't think anyone was going to be offended by it," said Scarbrough, 11. "Now I'll never know how good my project would do."

Complaints from school staff prompted Principal Ronald Mayhew to pull the project, which features a 3-foot-high, tri-fold display of a white Klan hood splattered with a trace of fake blood.

Although he liked the report and Scarbrough's anti-Klan tone, Mayhew said it was too controversial for the Fort Lauderdale elementary school's annual academic competition.

"I thought it was well done," Mayhew told the Sun-Sentinel of Fort Lauderdale. "But 700 kids wouldn't read the whole thing. I would have gotten the blame if children got into fights over it."

Scarbrough began studying the Klan in March after watching TV reports about it and hearing about former Klan leader David Duke's run for president.

The reports left him with a question: Why is the Klan allowed to exist if it does all these bad things? That question led to his project, titled "The Ku Klux Klan: A Necessary Evil?"

To make his point, Scarbrough included brochures from Klan and anti-Klan groups in the project.

Although his report did not support the Klan, Scarbrough concluded that the First Amendment gives them the right to exist and spread their ideas.

"They're allowed to say pretty much what they want to say," Scarbrough said.

But on May 4, Scarbrough learned he could not say what he wanted to about the Klan — at least not in Bennett's academic competition where everyone could see it. Mayhew let Scarbrough, who is white, give his report to classmates in his fifth-grade room on Friday.

"I'm not opposed to a child being taught about this," said Deputy Schools Superintendent William Dandy, who supported Mayhew's decision. "But in a social studies class, with kids reading and teachers teaching."

In such a public, open environment, Dandy said, there is no telling who would see it or who would take offense. Mayhew said he did not want to risk any trouble — particularly after the recent riots in Los Angeles. Bennett's enrollment is 40 percent black.

But some free-speech supporters — and Klan foes — said the decision sends the wrong message to students.

POLICE

Grand theft charged

A Sanford woman was charged with grand theft and dealing in stolen property by Sanford police Monday.

Police arrested Violet Petralia, 26, 2615 1/2 S. Palmetto Ave., Sanford, near 26th Street and Palmetto Avenue. She was taken to the Seminole County jail.

Police report on March 31, Petralia pawned a stolen television at a local pawn shop for $60. After her arrest, Petralia was subsequently charged with violating terms her probation for a forgery conviction.

DUI charged

Thomas Ervin Mock, 37, 2427 S. Chase Ave., Apt. B, Sanford, was charged with drunken driving and failure to stay within a single traffic lane by an off-duty Seminole County deputy Tuesday morning.

According to the arrest report, the deputy reported seeing Mock weaving between the eastbound State Road 46 lanes near Interstate 4. Mock then made a "u-turn" and continued westbound, again weaving between the two lanes of travel, the report states.

Steaks lead to retail theft charges

Marion Lee Corey, 40, 2901 Kudson Drive, Sanford, was charged with retail theft by Sanford police.

An assistant manager of the Publix on South Orlando Drive reported seeing Corey place two packages of porterhouse steak in his pants and attempt to leave the store without paying for them.

Woman reports domestic violence

Reginald Leroy Grant, 27, 1822 Harding Ave., Sanford, was charged with domestic violence Monday.

Grant's wife reported to police that he threw her against several walls in their home.

Search reveals crack cocaine

Steven Michael Palumbo, 34, 1475 Corjeus Court, Longwood, was charged with possession of crack cocaine by a Seminole County deputy Monday night.

The deputy reported seeing a van parked in the center of 20th Street near Lincoln Avenue while responding to a suspicious vehicle complaint. A subsequent search of the van revealed a piece of crack cocaine on the passenger seat, the deputy reported.

Warrant arrests made

The following wanted persons have been taken into custody:

• Roderick Doe, 21, 2725-A Georgia Ave., Sanford, was arrested at his home Monday, charged with failure to appear at a hearing to answer to a driving with a suspended license charge.

• Willie Moses Thomas Jr., 22, 1803 S. Oleander Ave., Sanford, turned himself in to Sanford police Monday. Thomas was wanted for violating the terms of his probation for a cocaine possession conviction.

• A car at a North Maple Avenue business was reported burglarized and vandalized sometime between 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and 7:30 a.m. Wednesday. Theft loss and damage totaled $1,500.

• Beverly June Smith, 34, 105 Grovewood Ave., Sanford, in connection with a warrant or uttering a forged instrument. She was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on $1,000 bond.

• Bryant Bridges, 32, 905 W. 16th St., Sanford, on a writ of bodily attachment. He was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility without bond.

• Barbara Gentman Beckhorn, 30, 440 Ridge Drive, Sanford, on a warrant for obtaining property with a worthless check.

• Jeffrey Brian Webb, 25, 113 Weeping Elm Lane, Longwood, for failure to appear in court on charges of driving without a license. He was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on $500 bond.

DUI arrests

• David William Sumner, 28, 514 Orange Drive, Apt. 32, Altamonte Springs.

• Iahmael Diaz, 25, 329 Coachman Court, Sanford.

• Mike D. Weaver, 39, 557 Pasadena Ave., Longwood.

Incidents reported to authorities

The following incidents have been reported to Seminole County deputies and Sanford police:

• $1,280 in irrigation supplies was reported taken from a construction trailer on Lake Mary Boulevard sometime between 5 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Monday.

• A Sanford woman reported her purse containing $20 was taken from her by a man at a State Road 46 grocery store. The man ran into a nearby wooded area the woman reported.

• Seminole County deputies were summoned to a school bus Monday afternoon after the driver reported two Sanford Lakeview Middle School students were involved in a fight aboard the bus.

The driver and a witness said a 14-year-old girl attacked a 15-year-old girl, scratching her face, punching her and biting her back. The girls' parents were summoned and the students were released to them.

• $18 in change was reported stolen from a business in the 2600 block of South Orlando Drive sometime between 1 p.m. Sunday and 5:30 a.m. Monday.

Expressway builders get permission to move nest

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Builders of the Seminole County expressway have received permission from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to move an osprey nest located near the middle of the proposed expressway route — as soon as the four-bird family leaves.

Expressway builders are still waiting for a state permit to move the nest to an artificial "tree" 150 feet away, but no construction delays are anticipated. Meanwhile, clearing and some construction has commenced around the nest tree located within sight of South Sanford Avenue. State and federal regulations prohibit disturbance of a prey bird nest without permission.

"Nothing can be done until the babies have fledged," said Gayle Geddes, spokesman for the expressway construction project. "We don't anticipate any delays, but our concern is they may decide to hang around the nest."

In late February, expressway engineers discovered the nest 60 feet from the centerline of the expressway at a place where expressway lanes will be laid on top of a 35-foot-high pile of dirt. At the time, only two adult birds were seen in the nest. But by April, engineers floating overhead in a hot-air balloon found three eggs in the nest. Since then, two have hatched.

Federal and state regulations prohibit moving a nest until it is completely vacant. Baby osprey typically don't leave the nest until August and federal guidelines discourage disturbing an occupied nest between Jan. 15 to Aug. 1, much of the year.

The Florida Department of Transportation received a Wildlife Service permit March 11 to build a wood and wire-mesh platform atop a 75-foot-tall pole 150 feet away from the present location. Geddes said the Florida Audubon Society's Bird of Prey Center in Maitland has offered to assist with the nest moving.

FDOT also received a permit March 9 from the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission to move an unoccupied nest, but that permit had to be amended when the eggs were found. Geddes said FDOT is awaiting receipt of the amended permit.

According to expressway documents provided by Geddes, the platform is expected to cost $1,718 to build. The total cost of the discovery, including the platform, hot air balloon rides and staff time, will cost $9,338. Construction delays could cost the state an additional $1,025 per day.

Cocaine mom sentenced once again to treatment

Associated Press

SANFORD — The first woman in the state convicted of delivering cocaine to her unborn children was ordered to undergo drug treatment or go to jail.

"I want to make this loud and clear," state Circuit Judge Newman Brock told Jennifer Johnson during her sentencing Tuesday. "If you don't complete this program successfully and you come back before this court, you are going to prison."

The 26-year-old Altamonte Springs woman was convicted in April of violating her probation by using drugs and not maintaining contact with the court. Drug screenings showed she had used cocaine.

"I am just frustrated with Jennifer Johnson's inability to follow the court order and her inability to quit drugs. How many chances does she get?" Brock told the court before sentencing Ms. Johnson.

In a case that attracted national attention, Ms. Johnson was convicted of delivering cocaine through the umbilical cord to a son born in 1989 and a daughter born in 1987. Both children live with relatives.

Ms. Johnson will be treated for at least 18 months at Operation PAR (Parental Awareness and Responsibility) in St. Petersburg, which specializes in treating women.

Aftermath

Along the corridors of affluence from Beverly Hills to Park Avenue, it is difficult to appreciate the depth of despair in Watts and Harlem. The day-to-day struggle of the so-called underclass rarely intrudes upon the comfortable existence of America's upper-middle-class gentry.

That is, of course, until the fury of America's dispossessed spews over beyond the confines of the ghetto and threatens the quietude of the more-privileged — at which point this upset of the social order becomes a matter of utmost concern.

The seismic eruption in Los Angeles, and the aftershocks that reverberated in other cities throughout the country, was not simply about race. It also was about class. While blacks of all economic strata were almost unanimously outraged by the verdict in the Rodney King beating trial, only the black underclass chose to express its anger through violence and plunder.

What explains this? The answer is simple: Upwardly mobile blacks — better educated, gainfully employed, well compensated — believe they have a stake in American society. Members of the black underclass — poorly schooled, disproportionately jobless, impoverished — believe they do not. That along with a significant degree of greed and a thuggish contempt for respect for other people as well as the law.

Affluent Americans observed with bewilderment the rioting and looting that gutted stores and commercial strips. This is a logical reaction from those who have much to lose from wanton destruction of property. But the underclass is largely propertyless and therefore feels it has little to lose from destroying it.

In fact, in the relativist thinking of a few looter-rioters who put down their VCRs on TVs or whitewalls long enough to explain their actions to camera crews — they somehow were striking a blow for egalitarianism by depriving the more privileged of their property.

And so it is that in 1982, a generation after the Watts riots, America finds itself almost back to square one. Since the inception of Lyndon Johnson's Great Society in 1966, the federal government has spent more than $3 trillion to root out poverty in Watts, Harlem and other poor minority communities. Yet the ranks of the underclass actually have grown over the decades.

If this were not disconcerting enough, the myriad pathologies associated with poverty — single mothers, illiteracy, drug abuse, chronic joblessness and crime — have become more pronounced since 1966.

Most discouraging of all, the level of hopelessness among the underclass — distressingly manifested in the disturbances in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Atlanta, Seattle and New York — has never been greater.

To dispel the hopelessness that produced the rage that produced the riots, the underclass must be made to feel it has a stake in society. This will not be achieved by mouthing platitudes. The underclass has heard enough of that already. Nor will it be achieved by sinking even more money into existing anti-poverty programs. They obviously don't work.

What is needed is a complete transformation of the American welfare state into a system that gives poor people a real stake in society.

It should provide them incentives to stay in school and earn diplomas.

These ideas may seem radical, but they are the key to upward mobility for the underclass. The most significant statistic relating to poverty is this: A two-parent family in which at least one spouse has finished high school and works full time year-round has a 95 percent probability of living above the poverty line. This statistic cuts across racial lines. It applies universally to whites and blacks and browns and yellows.

If we provide the underclass the means to escape their lives of deprivation, they will not wallow in despair, they will not bend toward anti-social behavior. One good thing may yet come out of the riots if lawmakers are forced to face up to the reality that America's welfare system has failed the underclass and requires drastic changes.

Blame liberals but not liberal laws

Not long before they became known as the "party of ideas," the Republicans were known as "the stupid party." They now seem to be working hard to reclaim their stupid designation. (Possibly even beating out the Democrats.)

Uh, duh, they mutter, the riot in Los Angeles, and, duh, lots of other icky things in America, were caused by "the programs of the '60s," and "Lyndon Johnson's 'Great Society' programs."

Republican cavemen are stumbling toward an important idea, but the actual words yield both stupid politics and distorted history. I worked on the Johnson White House staff. Flash! There was no Soft On Crime Act, no Screw Up The Schools Act, no Create Dependency Act and no Permissiveness Act. Not only that, but my sense is that the actual laws that were passed did little to create the permissiveness, criminality and dependency we now see.

The mythology is that the Great Society focused on anti-poverty programs that rewarded radical inner-city activists, poverty pimps and consultants pumping out mindless studies.

That stuff, while very visible, was not very important. The big items were quite different. First were the Civil Rights laws. Then there was the doubling of the Social Security minimum payment, beginning a process that cut the elderly poverty rate from about 40 percent to 4 percent (counting non-cash transfers). There were health care programs. Since 1960, adult life expectancy soared to its highest rate ever; infant mortality for blacks fell from 44 per 1,000 to 18.

There were educational programs. Since 1960, the black high-school drop-out rate fell from 62 percent to 18 percent — roughly the white rate. The number of blacks in college went from 230,000 to 1.4 million. Would a non-stupid party choose to run against civil rights, social security, health and education?

Beyond the human resources programs were many others. Just try campaigning against "heart cancer and stroke," air and water pollution, "wilderness areas," truth-in-lending, age discrimination, highway safety and aid to handicapped children.

Beyond the human resources programs were many others.

Not all the Great Society laws were wonderful. Some were first-class turkeys. But, on balance, they helped address existing problems.

So what got us in the soup? By my lights, it wasn't some liberal laws. More likely, it was some liberals, preaching a distorted version of liberalism. The soft approach to crime was not a legislated program passed by Congress. The soft attitude about discipline in the schools was not a legislated big-money program. Some of the worst changes in welfare rules came from court decisions, not from legislation. Busing and quotas were not legislated by Congress.

All these flowed from a liberal mindset and liberal attitudes, most of which bloomed fully after LBJ left town. Because that mindset had little popular appeal, liberals worked to influence policy mostly through their non-elected strongholds: courts, guideline writers, congressional staffs, regulatory agencies, liberal media.

So: Many of the enacted programs helped. The mindset-derivatives didn't. Therefore what? The problems are different now; so are the solutions. Now is the time to roll back the liberal mindset that played a part in eroding individual discipline and responsibility.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Law and order and opportunity

BOSTON — In California people talk about "The Big One" with a mixture of bravado and inevitability. To be a Californian is to be aware of what lies below the surface. Sometimes two opposing plates of earth slide past each other along the fault line. Other times they collide head on. Sooner or later all hell will break loose.

The Big One is an apt metaphor for the social shock that rolled across the country from its epicenter in South Central Los Angeles. The aftershocks have rattled Americans as far away as Washington.

Few people were truly surprised. For many years, we have been living on the worst fault line in American society, the San Andreas of race and class, black and white, haves and have nots. We have had more than our share of warnings from the seismologists.

All it took was one final unjust decision, and the plates shifted. 56 dead, 2,400 injured, 13,000 arrested, $785 million in damage, 25,000 jobs lost. If it wasn't The Big One, it was big enough.

How it can be then that in merely one week, we have begun again the slow process of choosing sides or, should I say crustal plates, along the same old lines?

In the immediate aftermath of the verdict and the riots, there was less public opinion than public emotion. People felt. They felt dismay, despair, fear, anger, sadness.

There were two videotapes etched in our minds. One of Rodney King being beaten by police, one of the truck driver being beaten by rioters. The first fit the worst black fantasy of white injustice. The second fit the worst white fantasy of black violence.

But with the exception of twelve jurors in Simi Valley, most Americans believed their eyes. Most of them sided with the man on the ground, black or white.

You didn't have to be black to share a sense of bewildered outrage at the verdict. You didn't have to be white to share a sense of horror at the looting and burning, the self-immolation of a community.

You didn't have to be a Democrat to know about the decades-long devastation of the inner cities. You didn't have to be a Republican to know about the slow decay of young lives.

You didn't have to be a liberal to talk about programs. You didn't have to be a conservative to talk about values. In endless interviews, many people shared an instinctive understanding about the need for law and order and hope and opportunity. All of it, together.

The moment when feelings run high, and yet fluid, is a time that needs leaders and makes leaders. Change seems not only possible but imperative. And yet the people who came to the scene with brooms in their hands and the bankers who came to the scene in buses, had more to offer than the politicians.

The White House has become a place where the president's men sit around worrying about what this means — not for country but for their "numbers." They discuss with deep sincere concern what they should say, not what they should do. They take out their campaign strategy books and parse together a sentence from their constituencies.

The president's men made one effort to blame the riots on the L-word, the 1980s for gawdakes, and then even they backed away from this preposterous villain. They sent their man to tour L.A., not to see, but to be seen. To do a fine impression of caring. Good for a commercial.

It's become a cliché to say that the people are ahead of their alleged leaders. But if there was ever an example of the public frustration, the disconnect between the language of people and the language of politicians, it was heard in the aftermath of this quake.

Most of us long for some central unifying list — here are the things we can do, this is what will work. Politicians by and large prefer to have us stationed along the familiar fault lines where they can count us.

White suburbanites over here. Black inner-city folk over there. Fear here, anger there. Each voter targeted according to his or her own sip-coded, clustered, pre-pollied opinion. What is socially dangerous can be politically safe.

But this is one of those rare moments when a terrible collision of forces has released energy. There is a shift in the earth and it won't do sit around rehearsing debates about affirmative action or replaying angry arguments about whether the youth of today are deprived or deprived.

There is too much to do and too much we already agree on. Reach out to children. Rebuild the cities. Law linked with hope. Order attached to opportunity. Don't just wait for next time. The Big One.

The aftershocks have rattled Americans as far away as Washington.

JACK ANDERSON

Kerry says release POW/MIA facts

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., winner of three Purple Hearts, finds himself back in the jungles of the Vietnam War. This time, his mission is to achieve what has eluded more than a half-dozen previous investigations in the aftermath of the costly conflict: account for the uncertain fate of 2,273 American soldiers.

Some of his friends fear he's waging a war that's as unwinnable as the first.

The political factions within the Senate Select Committee on POW/MIA Affairs rivals in rancor any debate that raged while the hot war was still on. Even Kerry told us "What Bob (Smith, R-N.H., vice-chairman of the Select Committee) and I are trying to do is walk our way through this political minefield with 10 other senators."

Some committee staff and senators, and many MIA activists, have been agitating for a decade over what they regard as irrefutable proof that there are living Americans being held in captivity in Southeast Asia.

One Senate aide compared it to MIA "McCarthyism." Those who dispute or show skepticism, are sell-outs to Hanoi or the Pentagon, or dupes of government disinformation.

They have staked out positions on the POW/MIA issue that will make reconciliation difficult. Kerry has pursued what might be called a big tent theory for achieving closure: Give every conspiracy theory a hearing, track down every lead, and examine every grainy photograph and live sighting.

But his gamble may backfire. The select committee's work, which winds up at the end of the year, could turn into a carnival, a shooting arcade in which the conspiratorialists throw up theories or targets faster than Kerry's investigators can shoot them down.

Some sources say that the "minimum demand" among the activists on and off the committee will be an acknowledgment of living Americans who were knowingly left behind and remain in captivity today.

Kerry told us: "There's lots of folks out there with big investments on all sides of this issue. DIA (Defense Intelligence Agency) has big investments, 20 years of saying x, y and z. And frankly there are documents that contradict their investment. Likewise there are people on the activist side who have big investments."

Kerry points out that all this is a recipe for things occasionally getting "wacky." Although he wasn't directly referring to a closed-door briefing before the Select Committee last month, some committee sources believe it stands as a perfect metaphor for the MIA muddle.

One of its architects was former North Carolina congressman Bill Hendon, who has waged a decade-long crusade to prove the existence of living MIAs, and government cover-up. Smith, a long-time MIA activist, recruited soulmate Hendon for work on the Select Committee.

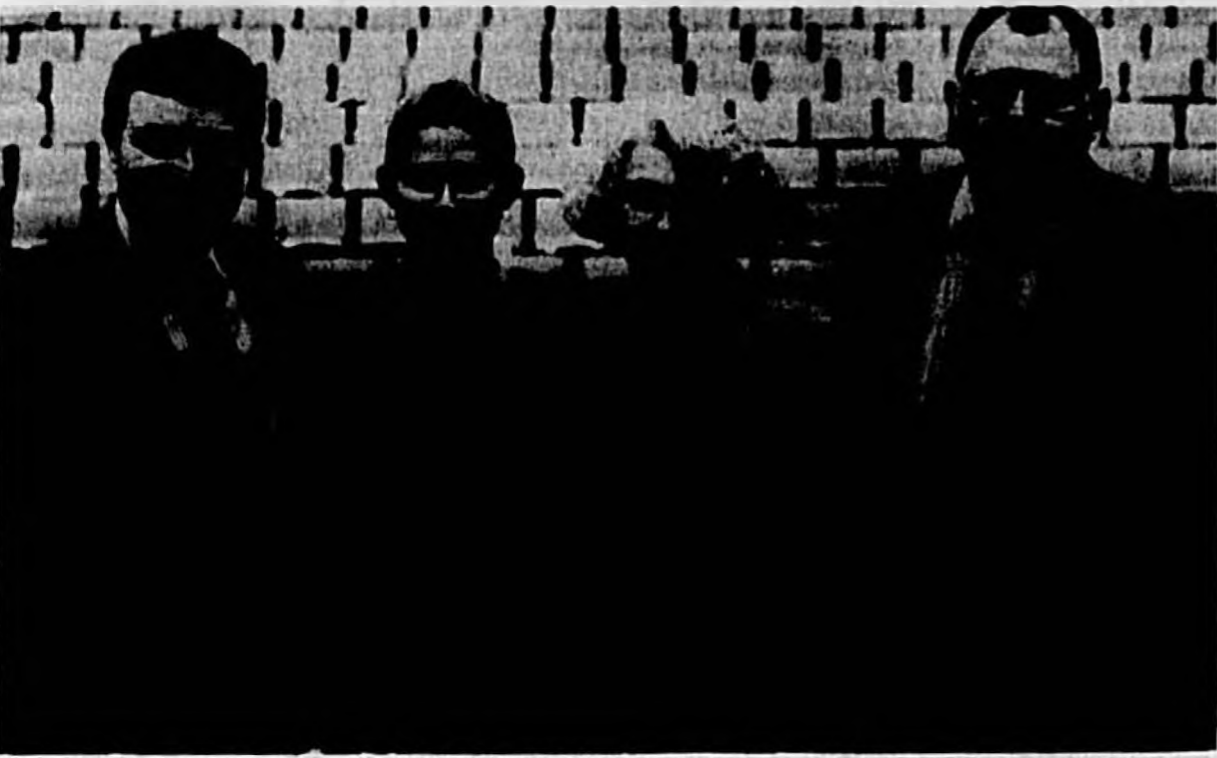

Drawing on classified materials, the April 9 briefing promised to unveil compelling intelligence that Americans were held in captivity in Vietnam between 1973 and 1980, validating the darkest suspicions among MIA activists that there were living Americans left behind who had been forsaken or forgotten by their government, and raising the specter of a cover-up that would dwarf Watergate.

A political firestorm erupted even before the approximately four-hour session was underway.

The committee staff, which had invested time and prestige in the briefing, was visibly rankled.

The select committee's work could turn into a carnival.

Bobby Douglas, president of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, presents a $1,000 scholarship to Amy Williams, Seminole High School, who was joined by parents Judy and Eugene Williams.

No decision on new TV

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The school board of Seminole County does not want to even consider any new programs for the schools until Dr. Paul Hagerty, the new superintendent of schools, arrives for work next month.

So, discussions about Whittle-Channel One, a controversial commercial-sponsored current events study aid for middle and high schools, have once again been put on hold.

Two years ago, the district staff decided that due to the controversial nature of the commercial sponsorship, they would not be interested in the program.

"We just never even pursued it," said Gary Becker, director of media services for the school district. "It was too controversial."

Whittle-Channel One has once again contacted the school district about their program. This time, however, they also contacted secondary school principals and Richard Wells, the acting superintendent.

"They believe they have a program that will benefit our students," Becker said.

The board is unwilling to even discuss the program until Hagerty arrives. A program with such controversial content, they told Becker, must be reviewed by the new superintendent.

According to Marion Dailey, the assistant superintendent for instructional services, many of the secondary principals are interested in the program because of the technological advantages.

Districts which contract with Whittle-Channel One receive, free of charge, satellite equipment through which they can pick up the company's programming. In exchange for watching 10 minutes of the programs per day, about a third of which is commercials, the schools are free to use the equipment for other purposes.

"In a time when the school district is strapped for dollars," said Dailey, "it is something that is of interest to the schools which are trying to build technology programs."

After Hagerty begins work this summer, Becker said, a representative of Whittle-Channel One will be invited to a school board meeting to make a presentation on the product.

The board has not expressed an interest, or a lack of it, on the programming.

"It's just on hold for now," Becker said.

Scholarship

Farr said that the members of the Chamber contributed the more than $14,000 that was given away last night.

This was the ninth year that the education committee has sponsored the event. In all, nearly $150,000 in scholarships have been given away in that time.

The scholarships may be used for college or vocational school training.

"However they choose to continue their education," Farr said, "the money can be used to do that."

Farr said that a non-profit foundation is being created by the chamber in order that the donations can be invested. It is hoped that the fund will later be self-perpetuating.

Thirty-four students were given awards at last night's ceremony.

From Seminole High School: Lis Sandra Aviles ($300), Demetry Michael Beamon ($750), Debra Ann Bernosky ($500), Randall Matthew Bowlin ($250), Jennifer Anne Campbell ($250), Cedric Lemar Coleman ($750), Cynthia Lynette Coleman ($250), Deanna Marie Cote ($250), Raymond E. Garbage

In other direction, commissioners asked staff to consider doing away with the five franchise boundaries and allowing the five authorized garbage companies to compete openly. The request was made as a result of one of the most frequent garbage complaints: lack of choice.

Commissioners also asked staff to study the costs of starting a garbage collection service for business customers to compete with private companies, not replace their service.

Rabun said the service would give the county first-hand experience with operating a garbage company, which will aid in the review of franchise hauler rate negotiations.

Rabun said the study will take 30 to 60 days to complete.

Fees

School board officials began preparing the fee after the Florida Supreme Court approved school fees for new construction last year.

Fees of $639 would be charged on each unit in a new apartment or condominium complex and $955 would be charged for each new mobile home.

In other action, commissioners approved issuing a permit for a 12-foot slip dock at Sanford Boat Works on Celery Avenue. County Natural Resources Officer Tim Clabaugh discovered last summer the dock had been constructed without a permit. Boat works owner Archie Smith was required to pay double the normal fee for building the dock without a permit.

Commissioners also approved the transfer of the county's ambulance contract from Atlantic Ambulance Service to LifeFleet Ambulance Service. Terms and services of LifeFleet will remain the same, according to a county spokesman.

Commissioners also set a June 23 hearing date to consider condemning a home at 3515 Washington Street in Midway. A county inspection found the walls, roof and foundation piers of the abandoned structure damaged beyond repair. Owner of record Ruby L. Hamilton will be given an opportunity to state what she intends to do with the property before the condemnation is declared.

Hagerty

offer, but I'm sure we can work out all the details." He added, "I have no doubt we'll reach a satisfactory agreement."

According to School Board Community Relations Coordinator Dick Hofmann, "Contract negotiations will remain to be worked out with Mr. Hagerty." He said, "They will probably be handled by phone calls, and if the contract is approved, the Board may approve it at the May 26 meeting."

Hofmann explained the various parts of the contract offer. They included a base salary of $97,000 per year, with an annual tax-free payment into a retirement account of $7,500. He would receive 18 days vacation per year. Sick leave would start at 12 days, and be expanded by one day per month.

Hagerty would be supplied with life insurance and disability insurance, and the Board would pay up to $15,000 of the cost for moving Hagerty and his family to Florida.

Hofmann said transportation would be paid for by either a monthly amount for the use of his own vehicle, "or the Board may supply him with a mid-size car."

The board had selected Dr. Gary Mathews, of Spring Branch Independent School District in Houston, Texas as its second choice, to be considered if Hagerty would not accept the appointment.

Hagerty made it through all the hurdles, starting as one of 153 applicants, being narrowed down to one of the five finalists by a screening committee, and coming out number one.

As the School Board met to make its final decision, each of the members spoke on their preferred choice, although each agreed any of the five would probably make an excellent Superintendent.

During the initial round of discussion, various board members gave their observations of the candidates. Jeanne Morris commented, "I see Hagerty as having good experience in large districts and curriculum similar to what we have here." She did have some concern that he had little experience in year round school systems.

Board member Joe Williams said his decision was a toss-up between Hagerty and Mathews. "Mr. Hagerty's experience is very high," he said, "his work with people and individual groups seems exceptional. I found he had many other good points as well."

"I found him very impressive," said Sandy Robinson. "During my discussion with him, I found he likes to listen, and seems to be involved in many of the processes we've been dealing with here in Seminole County."

In making the final decision between Hagerty and Mathews, Warren commented, "I look at Mr. Mathews as a young man who is really on his way up in his profession." She added, "But what we should be looking for is stability, not someone who may be lured away." She observed, "We need someone with Hagerty's presence of mind."

In the first round of comments, Robinson selected Phillip McDaniel as her number one choice. Member Barbara Kuhn selected Mathews. Warren selected Hagerty. Jannie Morris selected Dr. Diana Cabbage and Hagerty. Joe Williams said he had a toss-up between Hagerty and Cabbage.

One by one, three of the candidates were eliminated. Gene Dentlar, Phillip McDaniel, then Diana Cabbage.

Board member Williams made the final motion to accept Hagerty, with seconding by Barbara Kuhn. The move also included contact with Mathews for second choice, should Hagerty not be able to agree on a contract.

The unanimous vote by the members of the School Board drew a large round of applause from approximately 120 persons who had gathered in the Board meeting room to hear the final decision.

"This is an important day for Seminole County," said Warren. "It's five board members, 5,000 school employees, and 50,000 students." She added, "The prospect of hiring our first non-elected School Superintendent gives all of us great excitement and great responsibility. It's the most important decision we have ever made as members of the School Board."

Sports

Mayor Randy Morris commented, "This is the largest park project in the entire history of Lake Mary, and the first major activity center for the youth of Lake Mary." He added, "All we have had up to this time is a few tennis courts and open fields, so I'm looking forward to this project."

The ground breaking will be held at 2:45 tomorrow afternoon, near the entrance to the future sports complex, just west of Country Club Road. The event is open to the public.

Companies Catering More to kids who are environmentally-minded

By Associated Press

GRANTS PASS, Ore. — Kids' concerns about the environment are beginning to show up in their parents' shopping baskets, and the marketplace smells the blossoming of a new trend.

To cultivate favor with young conservationists, businesses are using recycled products, forming alliances with environmental groups, and trying to understand kids like never before.

After kids wrote in telling the company to save trees, Archie Comics in Mamaroneck, N.Y., began printing its strips on paper made completely from recycled magazines, said David Silberkleit, vice president of marketing.

"That's who we listen to here," he said.

Archie also ran a special environmental issue, featuring Archie and Jughead's misadventures with composting. It's too early to see a payback on the bottom line, but Silberkleit said the return in good will has been big.

"I know I'm contributing to recycling," said Cosimo Sherman, 13, an Archie reader from Los Angeles. "When I bought it, I wouldn't be wasting any paper at all. No trees would be cut down for that comic."

Amy Ingalls, 13, another Archie reader from Brooklyn, Conn., frequently tells her mom and dad which cereal or hair spray to buy.

"If it says it can be recycled, I tell my father he should buy it so he can recycle it," she said. "As far as like hair spray cans and stuff, I try to buy the non-aerosol kind and the pump so it will be better for the ozone layer."

"Clearly, children are having an impact, and a growing impact, on their parents' purchasing because of environmental information," said Anthony Casale, president of Environmental Research Associates in Princeton, N.J. "This is something that is definitely not going to go away."

Environmental Research's sister company, INFOCUS Environmental, is interviewing 1,000 kids and their parents and 300 teachers to figure out what it takes to appeal to their green side.

In a recent survey by Environmental Research, parents said they didn't buy Dove Bars because their children said the ice cream used too much packaging. But the parents did buy Arm & Hammer detergent because their kids told them it was nontoxic.

"We decided this is something we needed to know more about," Casale said.

Some toy makers tried a green hook after the 20th anniversary of Earth Day in 1990 created an explosion of environmental consciousness, particularly among children. A few succeeded, such as Hasbro's GI Joe Eco-warriors, but many found it takes more than an environmental theme to sell a toy.

Playmates Toys Inc. of La Mirada, Calif., dropped its Toxic Crusaders action figures when sales didn't measure up.

"I thought it would strike a responsive chord, but I guess the chord was not as responsive as we thought it would be," said President Richard Sallis.

Kids, environment influence purchases

Associated Press

GRANTS PASS, Ore. — People want to be more environmentally sensitive when they go to the store, especially if their kids are along to nag them, marketing surveys show.

In a telephone survey of 1,006 adults last October, 70 percent told the Hartman Environmental Report that their environmental concern had increased in the past two years. And 87 percent said their environmental activities had increased.

The number of people who said they would switch brands to get a recyclable container went from 54 percent in 1988 to 80 percent in 1990. But only 50 percent said they actually bought more environmental products.

In another telephone survey, this one of 1,000 adults last December, Environmental Research Associates of Princeton, N.J., found a third of all parents made a purchasing decision based on something their children had said about the environment.

Mattel is taking an indirect approach. Last year, it created a new position of vice president of environmental affairs.

"Kids are telling us they want certain things," said Maki Papavasiliou, whose new responsibilities include reviewing Mattel's packaging, products and manufacturing plants at home and abroad to be sure they meet environmental standards. Mattel also had drafted an environmental mission statement.

"We are convinced that good business and being sensitive to environmental issues are perfectly compatible," he said.

The toy maker also plans to sponsor programs to teach children to be good environmental consumers.

"These are groups that will indirectly spread the environmental message for Mattel," he said. "Research out there shows some healthy skepticism on the part of the consumer public to environmental claims made by manufacturers. Going out there and waving a green flag in many ways is not the best way of delivering a message about our concern about the environment. So we want to do it in cooperation with a respected, recognized organization that has environmental interests."

The Hartman Group in Newport Beach, Calif., tells its clients to support school programs, youth environmental groups and environmental projects, and to buy ads on environmental shows on TV, because that's where kids learn about the environment. "We find companies are very nervous about moving forward," said Harvey Hartman, whose company sells advice on green marketing.

FBI crackdown on rioters

LOS ANGELES — The FBI subpoenaed videotape and photos from news organizations as a crackdown on rioters gathered steam. Meanwhile, the governor ordered thousands of National Guard troops to pull out today.

Some news organizations turned over information willingly; others said authorities were going too far.

Four black men with alleged gang ties were arrested Tuesday in the attack on white trucker Reginald Denny, whose beating was shown on live television and came to symbolize police paralysis during the riot's opening moments.

The four were identified in part from news footage and video taken by bystanders, said Police Chief Daryl Gates, who arrested Damian "Football" Williams himself.

LA officers disenchanted

LOS ANGELES — Hollywood vice Officer Tony Yancey thought he'd seen it all in his 22 years on the force. But nothing, he says, compares to the thankless job of a Los Angeles police officer today.

Disenchanted with the top brass, accused of brutality and racism and condemned for a slow response to the riots, street cops say they're taking a bad rap for the city's ills and politicians' failures.

"Some days you don't want to get up and deal with it anymore," Yancey said. "You develop that attitude where nobody loves you but your partner."

Police officers have worked 12-hour shifts since rioting erupted April 29 with the acquittals of four white officers accused of brutalizing black motorist Rodney King. They have endured hostility from both the public and politicians.

Candidates look at the Inner City

WASHINGTON — The recession must be over. You barely hear the "R" word these days from the leading presidential candidates. Their attention has migrated to the Inner City.

In the flash of the nation's most violent civil unrest this century, the economy has slipped into the election-year shadows.

President Bush now is devoting his days to his "urban agenda." Democrat Bill Clinton is stressing his own remedies for inner-city woes. Even Ross Perot is talking about how to revitalize the cities.

The Los Angeles riots and a lull in political contests have combined to divert political attention away from the overall economy, at least for the time being.

Robertson may be UPI's 'white knight'

RUTLAND, Vt. — Religious broadcaster Pat Robertson successfully bid $6 million for beleaguered United Press International and said he won't convert it to a Christian news agency.

A bankruptcy judge Tuesday approved the bid but accepted Robertson's condition that he be allowed 30 days to look at UPI's books, during which time he could lower the offer or back out altogether. Robertson promised enough money to keep UPI going in the meantime.

UPI, which sought bankruptcy court protection in 1985 and again last August, had said it would not meet Friday's payroll without a buyer.

Spacewalkers try to catch stubborn craft

By SUSAN HENNINGER
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Endeavour's astronauts got the OK for the first three-man spacewalk in a go-for-broke effort today to bring in a wayward satellite.

"I have my toes, my fingers and my eyes crossed waiting for the mission," NASA Administrator Daniel S. Goldin told the crew Tuesday. "The one thing I ask you all to keep in mind is crew safety has got to be our first objective."

Never have three people walked in space together; spacewalkers usually go in pairs for safety. Spacewalking astronauts risk puncturing their spacesuits, which in the vacuum of space can be fatal.

Astronauts Thomas Akers and Richard Hieb were to help crewmate Pierre Thuot try to capture a $157 million Intelsat-6 satellite that was left in a useless low orbit by a miswired rocket two years ago.

On Sunday and Monday, Thuot failed to snare the slowly revolving satellite with a 15-foot tool called a capture bar. His efforts caused the 17-by-12-foot, 4.5-ton communications satellite to wobble dangerously close to the shuttle.

Today, on the count of three, each spacewalker was to grab onto can-sized projections on the side of the satellite and help wrestle it to a halt. Then Thuot and Hieb were to try to lock on the capture bar.

The operation was expected to take six to eight hours.

The satellite will be a total loss unless the astronauts retrieve it, attach a rocket motor and release it, boosting it to a working orbit 22,300 miles high.

Sanford commissioner's help paves way for school project

By INCK PFEPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Goldsboro Elementary School will hold a book club banquet at the Sanford Civic Center later this month. City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan is helping make it possible.

The entire student body of the school has had the opportunity to participate in a reading club called Golden Eagle Book Club. Students who have read 100 books or more are to be honored at a banquet.

Janice Miller, chairperson for the Goldsboro school's reading committee explained, "Due to the increased number of enthusiastic readers, our cafeteria will no longer accommodate us." She had requested the use of the Sanford Civic Center for the event, scheduled on May 28th.

Miller had also requested the Commission to consider a reduced cost for the use of the facility. Under the guidelines established for the Civic Center rental, the cost for the night time gathering would have been

A.A. McClanahan

$222, plus the cost of the kitchen facility beginning at 2 p.m.

"We've outgrown the school area where we've had this during past years," Miller said, "but our budget just doesn't allow us the cost of the Civic Center rental fee."

According to Recreation and Parks Director Mike Kirby, "All school functions are normally charged Class B rates, which would have been $126 for the event."

He added however, "This would be a special use and not open to the general public, so I doubt if our rules would allow the reduced rate." Mayor Bettye Smith asked if the school would be able to meet the lower charge of $126. Miller responded that it would be possible, but she did not believe the higher amount could be obtained.

With the recommendation for denial of the reduced fees from Kirby as well as City Manager Bill Simmons, Mayor Smith called for the vote.

Just before a vote was called, Commissioner A.A. McClanahan spoke up. "Oh let's help them out. I'll vote for the higher rate, and donate the additional difference between the two amounts."

With appreciation for the support expressed by Miller on behalf of the school, the City Commission voted unanimously to lease the Civic Center for the Book Club banquet at the regular price of $222. Commissioner McClanahan will pay the $96 difference.

Sheriff hopeful sets fundraiser

SANFORD — Tickets are on sale for the June 20 fundraiser for Seminole County sheriff's candidate Charles Fagan, who retired in March after 28 years with the Sanford Police Department. Fagan is a Democrat.

The barbeque will be held from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. at Lake Golden near the Central Florida Regional Airport. Chicken, baked beans, cole slaw and beverages will be served. Live music will be offered. Tickets are $10 per person or $25 per family. Tickets are available at the entrance or by calling 348-5511 or 565-2893.

Germans to begin fourth year of captivity

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Their last image seen by the world was a short video of them sitting next to a Christmas tree in December. On Saturday the last two Western hostages held by Shiite Muslim extremists start their fourth year in captivity with no sign that freedom is near.

German aid workers Heinrich Struebig, 50, and Thomas Kemptner, 30, remain imprisoned somewhere in Lebanon, possibly unaware that they are the only Westerners still held captive by the pro-Iranian militants.

In their homeland, they're almost forgotten men — their plight rarely rates a mention in the German media. Germany refuses to give in to demands and the U.N. envoy in Lebanon is frustrated in his efforts.

The hostage-holders have said they will free Struebig and Kemptner once German authorities either free two Lebanese Shiite brothers convicted of terrorist crimes or reduce their prison terms.

Torgersen watches over Norway's kids

OSLO, Norway — Trond Viggo Torgersen, hired by the government as the official watchdog for Norway's kids, often snaps at the hand that pays him.

"My job is to be a free-speaking person who works exclusively for children, with no other goal," said the 39-year-old father of three.

Along with Save the Children and the United Nations Children's Fund, Torgersen will be host to more than 600 experts from 70 countries attending a conference opening in Bergen today, titled "Children at Risk."

Tampa airport boss earns more than chief of busiest

From staff and wire reports

Tampa International Airport's George Bean, chief of the country's 37th-busiest airport, earns a salary near double that of the head of Chicago's O'Hare International, the nation's busiest airport.

Bean's salary is $192,300. Jay B. Franke, commissioner of aviation at O'Hare, is paid $100,663, according to city payroll sheets last November.

Bean also earns more than the airport director in Orlando and more than twice as much as the director in Miami, the Tampa Tribune said in Tuesday editions.

In Sanford, Steve Cooke, director of the Central Florida Regional Airport, is paid $68,000 per year.

In Tampa, the aviation authority's annual budget of about $70 million does not come through tax revenues, but from airport revenues.

Bean oversees a staff of 275 at TIA. He also supervises operations at three smaller airports in the county.

The executive director of the Greater Orlando Aviation Authority makes $190,000 per year, said spokeswoman Carolyn Fennell. Orlando International was ranked 18th in the nation in 1990 with 18.4 million passengers. Tampa had 10.6 million passengers the same year.

In Miami, the Dade County Aviation Department is a county department, and the director makes about $90,000, said spokesman Marc Henderson. Miami International Airport ranked 15th in the nation in airport traffic in 1990.

Bean earns more than any county or city manager or county or city attorney in the state, traditionally the highest-paid employees of local governments, according to the Florida League of Cities' Cooperative Salary Survey of October

Why A Business This Big Runs A Yellow Page Ad This Small.

Actual Size

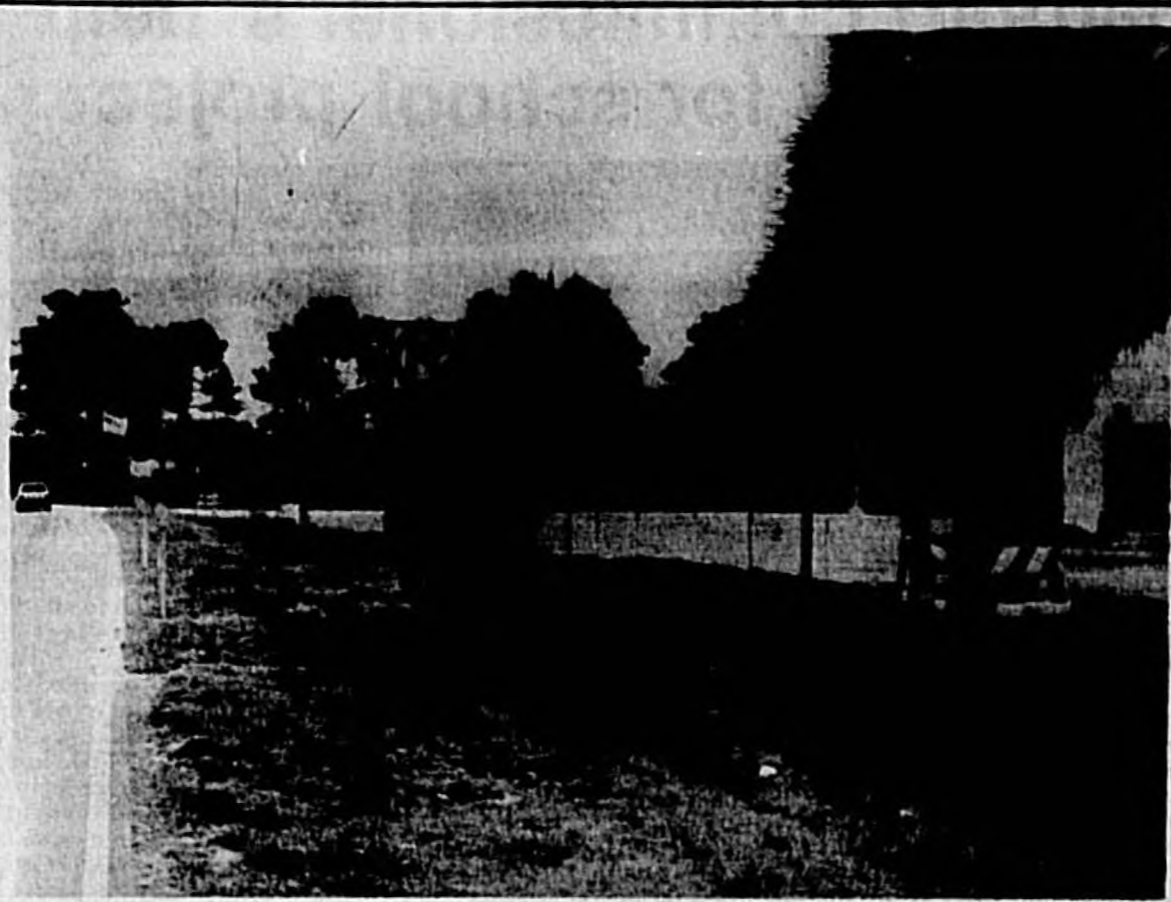

When people start reading the Yellow Pages every evening, we'll start running big ads in it. Until then the Yellow Pages is no more than a directory . . . that the average person seldom reads. Which is why we run our ads in the newspaper, and we suggest you do the same.

Your Yellow Pages salesperson can't tell you how many people see your ad every day in his directory. But we can tell you that over 7,000 households receive the Sanford Herald daily and 30,000 households receive the Herald Advertiser every week. That kind of coverage can lead to sales. Especially when you use the Herald to tell people about competitive pricing, a new location or service, or illustrate a clear advantage over the competition. You're not allowed to do any of these things in the Yellow Pages.

And another thing . . . you can't be flexible in the Yellow Pages. You're stuck with the same ad for a whole year. So what do you do when you need to respond to the market? Or promote a sale? Or build your image? You advertise in the newspaper.

So let us talk to you about opportunities in newspaper advertising. Our number is in the Yellow Pages, but remember, what just sold you on us was the newspaper.

AAA-Florida critical of way county uses tourism taxes

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

HEATHROW — American Automobile Association Florida has criticized tourist tax spending in Seminole County and elsewhere in the state, saying spending for zoos and amphitheaters do not really attract tourists.

"The state has handed the counties a huge cash barrel," said Tom Schroder, spokesman for AAA-Florida here.

AAA-Florida is asking all 37 counties in the state who collect the two, three or four percent tax to review their spending. Schroder said the auto club plans no action against those counties.

"Right now, we want to raise the consciousness of the public to what is being done," said Schroder. "When you tax tourists, the money you collect should be spent for tourists. We feel the same way about gasoline taxes and other kinds of taxes too. It shouldn't be an open cash register."

Schroder questioned the county's use of taxes for the Central Florida Zoological Park, which is receiving $150,000 per year, $50,000 spent for a light and sound system at the Lake Mary City Hall amphitheater, $150,000 to be spent for a swimming complex at Lake Brantley High in Longwood and $3,000 spent to restore a theater organ at Lake Brantley High.

"That money could be used to promote tourism and generate more revenue," said Schroder. "I question whether these projects meet the original intent of the legislation."

Seminole County's tourist director, Jack Wert, said those and all proposals considered for grants from the county's two percent "bed tax" are closely reviewed by county attorneys to assure they meet the state law requirements.

"All of those facilities improve facilities that attract tourists," said Wert. "The zoo is clearly our largest tourist attraction and one that promotes our theme of 'natural Florida.'"

Although the optional county tourist tax was designed by the state to attract tourists, Seminole County officials stated in 1988 that the county's own two percent tax would be used to enhance life for Seminole County residents.

"I don't see any language in the legislation that addresses quality of life for local residents," Schroder said. "The AAA believes that's an admirable goal, but not one for tourist tax dollars."

City nixes new sign for video store

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The City Commission Monday night, held firm to its sign regulation. It refused to grant a waiver for a special sign at the entrance to Sanford Towne Square.

David Watkins, Jr., president of Financial Realty Services, who is handling the leasing for the property, informed the commission that BlockBuster Video would be a new tenant at the Square, in the 1500 block of French Avenue, and would require a sign near the entrance for advertising purposes.

Watkins had projected that the new business would occupy 18,000 square feet of space. "It would generate about $40,000 in sales taxes and over $7,000 in local taxes," he observed.

According to a statement Watkins supplied to the city, the business would employ 15 persons, allow free membership and be interested in sponsorship of community events.

Being located next to the Sanford Middle School, the plans also stressed that the store would be family oriented with no X rated videos.

Regarding the opening of the business at the Towne Square, Watkins was requesting a waiver of the city's sign code. He asked for approval to allow a free-standing pylon sign at the entrance to the square.

He commented, "As you are probably aware, Sanford Towne Square has over the past several years, had two video stores which were unable to be profitable in the center, and closed their door."

Watkins continued, "This is the concern of BlockBuster Video and they feel that inadequate signage may have been a contributing factor to those failures."

Mayor Bettye Smith said, "I disagree that the lack of signs had anything to do with the other business failures."

City Manager Bill Simmons suggested, "There are probably alternatives that could be worked out such as the wall sign used at BlockBuster Video in Lake Mary."

Simmons had recommended the commission comply with the sign ordinance and not allow any waivers. His suggestion was approved by the commission.

Student conduct to be discussed

TALLAHASSEE — College students accused of serious crimes shouldn't automatically be suspended, a state panel has recommended.

The Board of Regents is scheduled to consider adoption of the first statewide policy on student conduct during its Thursday meeting.

City title a win away

Perkins pitches, slugs Red Sox to playoff win

Terrance Perkins tossed a five-hitter and launched two home runs to lead the K-n-D Trailer Hitch Red Sox to a win over the Korg U.S.A. Expos in the opening game of the Sanford Little Major City Championship Series.

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Deja vu? Like a bad penny, Terrance Perkins keeps coming back to haunt the Korg U.S.A. Expos.

In the first game of the 1992 Sanford Little Major League City Championship, Perkins hurled a five-hitter and hit two home runs as the K-n-D Trailer Hitch Red Sox knocked off the previously unbeaten Expos 6-2 at Ft. Mellon Park's Roy Hoiler Field Tuesday evening.

Game two of the best-of-three series will be Thursday at 6 p.m. with the third game, if necessary, Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m.

Perkins, who won two games and hit three home runs as the Red Sox won last year's city championship, was outstanding, allowing no earned runs while striking out nine and walking only one in the route-going performance. He also retired the leadoff batter in all six innings.

The game was much closer than the score indicated as the Red Sox only led 3-2 going into the bottom of the fifth inning.

The Expos took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning when, with two out, Mike Evans reached on an infield single, moved to second on a passed ball and scored on a single by Danny Harrison.

The Red Sox came back to take the lead in the bottom of the first inning when Justin Erickson walked on a full count and Perkins drilled a line drive over the left field fence that barely got high enough to clear the fence.

The lead was short lived as the Expos answered back in the top of the second. Chas Lytle reached on an error, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored when Mike Robinson's infield hit got through the Red Sox defense for an error.

The winners retook the lead for good in the third when Perkins drilled a long home run to straight away center field.

Table with 2 columns: Team Name, Score. Rows include K-n-D Trailer Hitch Red Sox (6) and Korg U.S.A. Expos (2).

The Expos had chances to tie the game or take the lead in both the fourth and fifth innings.

The National Division champs had runners on second and third with one out in the fourth but Perkins got a grounder back to him and a strike out to end the threat.

In the fifth they had runners on first and second with one out but Perkins struck out the No.'s three and four hitters to end the inning.

The Red Sox put the game out of reach in the bottom of the fifth inning by sending nine men to the plate and scoring three runs.

Trellis Smith started the inning with a ringing double to center. Erickson laid down a perfect bunt and got a single when on one covered first for the Expos.

Perkins was walked intentionally to load the bases before Antonio White singled to center to score Smith. The Expos avoided further damage when Erickson was thrown out at the plate.

The next batter struck out, but a walk reloaded the bases. It looked like the inning might end with just one run scoring when the next batter hit a fly to left, but the ball was dropped for an error and two runs scored.

Perkins took care of the Expos himself in the sixth as he snagged a line drive back through the box, got a strike out on an attempted bunt and made a nice play on a chopper over the mound to end the game.

Doing the damage offensively for the Red Sox were Perkins (two home runs, three runs scored, three RBI), Smith (double, one run scored), Antonio White (single, one run scored, one RBI), Erickson (See City, Page 2B)

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE NATION

Munoz leads SunRays

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Oscar Munoz limited the Chicks to two hits over seven innings as the Orlando SunRays beat Memphis 5-1 Tuesday in Southern League action.

Munoz (3-0) allowed only one run off Tim Lelper's RBI double in the third before leaving after seven innings for a reliever who secured the victory.

Orlando gave Munoz a run in the second off a run-scoring single by Chris Delarwell, and Paul Russo capped a three-run third inning with a RBI double for a 4-0 SunRays' lead.

Huntsville hammers Suns

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — Scott Lydy had three hits, two RBI and two stolen bases as the Huntsville Stars defeated the Jacksonville Suns 8-1 Tuesday in a Southern League game.

Craig Paquette contributed three hits for the Stars, including a pair of doubles, and scored a run. The Stars had six stolen bases and 13 hits.

Bronswell Patrick (2-2) got the win for pitching the first six innings. He allowed seven hits, one run and no walks with nine strikeouts.

Suns starter Clint Zavaras (1-1) received the loss after working the first five innings.

FSU alive in ACC

GREENVILLE, S.C. — Jim Rushworth out-dueled Shawn Senior in a classic pitching duel as Florida State beat North Carolina State 1-0 Tuesday to stay alive in the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball tournament.

The Seminoles' victory left three teams — defending champ Clemson along with Florida State and N.C. State — with one loss in the double-elimination tournament going into the final day Wednesday.

Under the tournament format, a draw was held afterward to determine which team would advance to the title game. N.C. State (44-17) won the draw, which means top-seeded Clemson will meet No. 2 Florida State at 5 p.m., with the winner advancing to meet the third-seeded Wolfpack for the title.

The Seminoles (41-17) struck in the first to take a lead that held up. Link Jarrett doubled to lead off, went to third on a wild pitch by Senior and scored on Chris Roberts' sacrifice fly.

Miami topples Tampa

CORAL GABLES — Miami rode the pitching of Pedul Arrieta and took advantage of five Tampa errors to down the Spartans 5-1 Tuesday night at Mark Light Stadium.

Arrieta went four innings, allowing a run on three hits and striking out five. Danny Graves pitched four shutout innings in relief, while Gus Gendarillas pitched a scoreless ninth.

Miami (45-7) scored two runs in the fourth when Alex Miranda doubled and scored on a single by Juan Llanes. Llanes later scored on an error. Four of the five Hurricane runs were earned.

Wednesday's game between Tampa (35-18) and Miami will be moved to 6:15 p.m. to accommodate Tampa's travel plans.

Olympic b-ball team complete

NEW YORK — With the additions of Clyde Drexler and Christian Laettner, the U.S. Olympic team is complete. Maybe.

Drexler, the star guard of the Portland Trail Blazers, became the 11th NBA player selected. Laettner, the 6-foot-11 Player of the Year who led Duke to the last two national championships, is the only college player on the squad that will play in the Tournament of the Americas in Portland, Ore., where it must finish in the top four to qualify for Barcelona. Both were added Tuesday.

Some of those great players, such as Magic Johnson, Larry Bird, David Robinson, Chris Mullin and even Michael Jordan, could be questionable for the Olympics because of injuries.

The selection committee said it also will consider all pro and college players as alternates in case current members drop out, and it will not have a specific list of alternates.

Johnson top rookie

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Larry Johnson didn't plan on being the NBA Rookie of the Year, and when he was late for the Charlotte Hornets' training camp, most people felt he wouldn't have to worry about it anyway.

Johnson, who averaged 19.2 points and 11 rebounds a game, got 90.5 of a possible 96 votes in a poll of sportswriters and broadcasters to join such NBA greats as Michael Jordan, Patrick Ewing and Larry Bird, who also were named the league's top rookie.

Denver's Dikembe Mutombo, an early favorite for rookie honors after a great start and All-Star recognition, received 3.5 votes and Billy Owens of the Golden State Warriors got two.

Hopkins moves into first alone

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The calm before the storm. In the opening game of the Sanford Recreation Department Women's Spring Softball League at Pinehurst Park Tuesday night, Beer:30 scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to defeat Lake Mary Veterinary Clinic 10-4 for its first win of the year.

But that well-played, quick game was just a teaser as the last two games turned into marathons.

Hopkins Meat Packing scored 11 runs in the top of the first inning, then went on a scoring drought and let "D" Outcast cut the lead to 14-9 after five innings. But then Hopkins sent 19 batters to the plate in the sixth with 17 scoring to give the defending Polar Bear champions a 31-9 triumph in the battle of unbeaten.

Greenleaf Landscaping tried to do Hopkins one better by scoring 15 runs in the bottom of the first inning of the late game, but they too went on a scoring strike and had to play five innings before beating Mid-FI OB-GYN 16-4.

Hopkins leads the league with a 3-0 record while "D" Outcast and Greenleaf are both 2-1. Lake Mary Veterinary Clinic and Beer:30 are both 1-2 and Mid-FI OB-GYN is 0-3.

Pacing Beer:30 to their first win were Sue McRae (three singles, two runs), Sue Sojka (three singles, run), Lori Poe (triple, single), Sharon Glass (two singles, two

Crossroads, Ameribuilt still unbeaten

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Crossroads Paint & Body came on late, while Ameribuilt Construction cruised as the duo remained unbeaten in Sanford Recreation Department Men's Tuesday Night Class C Spring Softball League action at Chase Park.

Crossroads scored five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to erase a 6-5 deficit and went on to defeat Riptide 10-6; Ameribuilt scored at least three runs in each inning to pound Myers Tree Service 23-9 and Weichel & Howard outscored the Willa Springs Merchants 19-14.

Crossroads and Ameribuilt are both 3-0 to top the league. Trailing the leaders are Weichel & Howard (2-1), Riptide (1-2) and Willa Springs Merchants and Myers Tree Service (both 0-3).

Riptide scored two runs in the fifth inning to take a 6-5 lead but Crossroads came back with Jay Crutchfield singling in the tying run, Barry Hysell driving in the go ahead run, Greg Hensley tripling in two insurance runs and Tommy Gracey also singled in an insurance run.

Pacing Crossroads to victory were Tommy Gracey (three singles, run, RBI), W.L. Gracey (double, single, two runs, RBI), Crutchfield (two singles, run, two RBI), Hysell and Billy Griffith (two singles, one run and one RBI each), Hensley (triple, run, two RBI), Kurt Tabor (double, run, RBI), Robert Stevens and Billy Gracey (one single and one run each) and Lloyd Wall (single, RBI).

Getting the hits for Riptide were Donnie McCoy (double, two singles, run), Tom Clark (two singles, two runs), David Jones (two singles, RBI), Arthur Barnes

(two singles), Frank Turner (single, run, RBI), Todd Morgan and Mark Bolton (one single and one run each), Wayne Walker (single, RBI) and Wayne Oager (single).

Weichel & Howard and the Willa Springs Merchants were tied 5-5 after four innings but the winners scored five in the sixth and seven in the sixth to take a 17-7 lead and held on for the win.

Doing the damage for Weichel & Howard were Cary Keefer (home run, two doubles, single, four runs, three RBI), Bobby Rowe (triple, three singles, three runs, four RBI), Ricky Eckstein (triple, double, single, run, two RBI), Brian Howard (triple, two singles, run, three RBI), Chris Wargo (home run, single, two runs, RBI) and Jeff Futrell (triple, single, two runs).

Also hitting were Vince Howard (single, three runs), Eric Johnson (single, two runs, RBI), Denny Clayton (single, run, RBI), Mike Dick (single) and Otis Raines and Anton Grooms (one RBI each).

Leading the Willa Springs Merchants offense were Kevin Lavigne (home run, three singles, two runs, four RBI), Tom Yealey (four singles, three runs), Alan Terrell (three singles, two runs) and Carl Tipton (three singles, run, two RBI).

Blue Jays overtake Royals

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Security National Bank Blue Jays continued the upset trend with a 14-13 victory over the Rotary Club Royals in Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Baseball League action at Sanford Memorial Stadium Tuesday evening.

The upset was the second in as many days, coming on the heels of Monday's Templeton Roofing Expos win over the Hungry Howie Cubs. It also was the second loss in a row for the Royals, who appear to be playing very lackadaisical baseball since clinching the American Division title.

Trailing the Royals (8-4) in the division are the Kiwanis Club Orioles (5-6), the Woodman of the World A's (4-6) and the Blue Jays (3-8).

Both teams will conclude the regular season Saturday, with the Blue Jays playing the Orioles at 8 a.m. and the Royals taking on the A's at noon.

Today at the Stadium, the top two teams in the National Division, the Knights of Columbus Cardinals and the Moose Lodge Pirates, will go after the division lead at 5:45 p.m. A victory by the Cardinals will all but lock up the division, while a Pirates win will throw the division into a tie.

The Royals took a 10-2 lead after the top of the second inning, but the Blue Jays refused to quit and began pecking away at the lead. The Blue Jays scored one run in the second, six in the third, three in the fourth and two in

Longwood's Burkett bros. tear up Orlando SpeedWorld asphalt

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Longwood's Burkett brothers, Ronnie and Jeff, dominated Florida Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing (FASCAR) action Friday night at Orlando SpeedWorld.

Ronnie Burkett survived a flag stand mishap as the checkered flag was thrown to win the Late Model feature while Jeff Burkett won a hard-fought battle in the Limited Late Model main event.

However, if you ask Ronnie Roach or Dave Debellus, each would say they won the 25-lap Late Model feature.

Debellus, the winner of the first heat, started on the pole of the main event and shot off into the lead, which turned out to be the safest place to be as wrecks began to take their toll behind him.

On the 12th lap, while challenging Jack Cook for second, Ronnie Burkett tapped Cook's Lumina, sending him into a wild spin into the infield. For the restart, Cook and Burkett were sent to the rear of the field, only to get caught in a multi-car melee two laps later in turn one. Cook pitted for repairs and again restarted at the back of the pack.

Debellus continued to lead, but had second-heat winner Ronnie Roach on his bumper. As the laps wound down, they were joined by Ronnie Burkett.

When the white flag flew, signifying that there was one lap of racing remaining, Debellus looked as if he would score his first win of the year. But as the high-flying trio approached turn three, the slower car of Lynn DiCandio became a factor.

Debellus went high to lap DiCandio as Roach tried to make a hole between them. As that hole closed, Debellus and Roach tangled, Debellus going into a sideways slide, Roach spinning into the infield and third-running Ronnie Burkett driving high against the wall, all three cars crossing the finish line almost simultaneously.

As the drivers expressed their opinions and the fans were expressing theirs, track official Charles Hudnall was called upon to review video of the finish, shot by Carl Mobely from turn one.

Hudnall determined that the highest car on the track — Ronnie Burkett's — had crossed the line first with Debellus second and Roach third. David King was fourth while Jeff Burkett placed fifth.

Keeping it all in the family, Jeff Burkett took over the wheel of younger brother Jason's Limited Late Model ride, started dead last in an 18-car field and won a wreck-strewn 30-lap Limited Late Model special, worth $500.

Fast qualifier Ron McCreary lasted only two laps as he crashed hard with Tank Tucker in turn one while Mike Todd, who had the second fastest

Ingersole wins Mini Stock clash

Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — In most areas, Mini-Stocks are the Rodney Dangerfield of racing; they get no respect.

That wasn't the case at New Smyrna Speedway this past Saturday night. The excitement and close-quarters racing in the Mini-Stock feature event brought the division to the forefront, at least for this past weekend.

Buddy Ingersole took the lead with five laps remaining in the race and, after a succession of lead changes, charged to victory lane for his second win of the season.

"This was the best race I've been in and one of my greatest wins," said Ingersole. "Everybody raced hard and it was a race that was decided when the flag dropped. Nobody ran away with this one."

At the drop of the green flag, Ted Vulpius, the outside pole sitter, took the point with Richard Newton and Ingersole hooking up in a battle for second place.

Bobby Sears, the Florida Association of Stock Car Automobiles (FASCAR) champion, started the race in the seventh position. By lap three, Sears was challenging Newton and Ingersole for second place. The following lap, Sears used a down low move to get around the lead duo and take the lead.

Once on the point, Sears immediately pulled away from the field. It appeared that he would once again go unchallenged to victory lane. However, that wouldn't be the case as Sears slowed, then dropped out of the racing groove and pitted.

"We were running real good, and all of a sudden, nothing," said Sears. "I guess it was the carburetor again. We have had problems with it at least five times this year."

With Sears out of contention, Newton took the lead and was followed by Ingersole. A few passes later, Ingersole got to the inside of Newton to take the point with five laps to go.

The remaining four laps brought the crowd to their feet as the lead flip-flopped two more times between Newton and Ingersole. Ingersole gained the advantage on the checkered flag lap coming out of the fourth turn and beat Newton to the stripe by less than a car length.

Rounding out the top five were, in order of finish, Mike Noglec, Butch Carr and Ted Vulpius.

"The crowd got their money's worth with this race," said spectator Dan Kincaid. "Everybody raced hard and clean right to the finish line."

Jacksonville driver Guy Thomas survived a late race crash between leader Ronnie Burkett of Longwood and Jack Cook to score his first ever Late Model feature event win.

"It was a win I'll remember for a long time," said Thomas, who has been racing Late Models for three years. "There was action going on all around me. I was trying to stay out of trouble and run my own race. All of a sudden, the leaders wreck and I have the lead with four laps to go. I concentrated on what I had to do and here I am."

Burkett led the first 21 laps of the event with Cook running a close second. Cook and Burnett made contact the following lap with Burkett nailing the outside retaining wall. Cook and Burkett

DeLeon Springs' Hunter scores second straight Late Model feature win

BARBERVILLE — Mike Hunter of DeLeon Springs advanced from his eighth place starting spot this past Saturday night to win his second Late Model Stock feature event in as many weeks in NASCAR Winston Racing Series action at Volusia County Speedway.

"At first (when Tuck Trentham was leading), I was hoping for a yellow," said an elated Hunter. "But then I was hoping for no yellows."

Trentham, of Orange City, broke from the pack of hungry Late Model Stock guns to grab a commanding lead in the 30-lap main event. He appeared to be on his way to his first win of the season as he began to nearly 10 car lengths between himself and Hunter, who was running second.

As the laps wound down, Hunter and St. Augustine's David Showers, who was running a close third, began to reel in Trentham and were right on the leader's bumper with only 10 laps remaining.

On the 23rd circuit, Trentham went high, enabling Hunter to make a move to the inside to take over the point with Showers passing Trentham a lap later to move into the second spot.

Hunter tried to pull away, but Showers continued to apply the pressure. On the final lap, Showers took one last shot on the high side, but Hunter held on for the victory.

Like a bullet, Jim Winks of Edgewater shot to the front of the pack in the 20-lap Sportsman feature. In hot pursuit was Bunnell's David Clegg, who gave it his all to try and catch Winks. But despite several cautions working in his favor, Clegg had to settle for second as Winks added another victory to his credit.

Change drugs to avoid side effects

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm taking Tegretol for mild seizures. When I take 300 mg daily, I experience side effects of mental confusion, dizziness, double vision and I walk like a drunken person. My doctor wants me on 600 mg. a day, and I dread finding what that dosage would do to me. Any suggestions?

represent a transient adjustment to starting Tegretol; many patients experience temporary problems at the beginning of therapy. However, I worry that your symptoms may 1.) mean that you are going to have a significant idiosyncratic drug reaction and 2.) so affect your normal life that you cannot

DEAR READER: Tegretol (carbamazepine), a drug for seizures, is useful therapy for many patients. However, the medicine may cause many side effects, to be outlined below, and patients must have periodic blood tests to monitor the level of Tegretol in the system, as well as to check for liver damage.

Furthermore, because the drug can affect the eyes, ophthalmologic exams are advisable. Tegretol should not be administered to patients with liver or kidney disease. The medication reacts adversely with other drugs, including Coumadin (an anti-coagulant), calcium channel blockers (for heart disease or hypertension) and doxycycline (an antibiotic). Tegretol has occasionally produced psychotic behavior in patients predisposed to severe mental illness.

The major side effects of Tegretol are bone marrow depression, anemia, susceptibility to infection, dizziness, drowsiness, rash, heart failure, aggravation of high blood pressure, jaundice and kidney damage. Gait disturbances, confusion, headache, hallucinations, abnormal involuntary movements, and a host of other neurological problems can occur.

In short, while Tegretol is useful in treating seizures, it is associated with health risks. If you are having symptoms at 300 mg. a day, I would be inclined not to double the dose because such an imprudent decision could well lead to more serious consequences.

Your doctor has probably taken the position -- and properly -- that your symptoms function independently. This is for the birds. Other safer drugs, such as Dilantin, are available. Insist your doctor make a change.

The best declarers anticipate bad breaks and plan how to overcome them. Arguably the player who is best-known for this ability is Benito Garozzo, an Italian who has lived in the United States for several years.

To match with Garozzo, cover the East-West cards in the diagram. Against your contract of two spades, West leads the club nine; two, 10, queen. How do you continue?

The deal occurred at the Sunday Times/Macmillan Malt Whisky Pairs Championship in London last January.

The natural line is to cross to dummy with a heart at trick two and take a spade finesse. However, West wins and continues clubs. Then the 13th club from East effects a trump promotion for West. If South ruffs low, West overruffs. If South ruffs high,

West discards. And if South sheds the diamond two, West throws his second heart and receives a heart ruff.

Anticipating this, Garozzo won trick one and immediately played three rounds of hearts, discarding a club from his hand. West threw a club too. East switched to the spade three: queen, king. West returned his last club, East winning with the jack and leading the club ace. Declarer ruffed low and West overruffed with the spade seven.

Now, though, West had only spades and diamonds left, and whichever card he led would cost a trick in that suit. He selected a diamond, but Garozzo ran it to his queen and held his losses to five tricks: three spades, one heart and one club.

In a star-studded field, Garozzo was the only declarer to make two spades on this hand.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 14, 1982

Events and circumstances might draw you closer in the year ahead to an individual you've previously known only casually. A warm bond will bind this relationship, and this new friend may become your most loyal pal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Where your career is concerned today, don't place too much dependence on individuals who are usually around to back you up. To gratify their own self-interests, they may have to oppose you. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll be a productive performer today, provided you're permitted to think for yourself and do things at your own pace.

Excessive outside interference could slow you down to a crawl.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Your judgment is likely to be better today than the advice of a well-intentioned friend. Listen to what this individual has to say, just don't be overwhelmed by it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to put off important assignments until the last minute today. Your probabilities for success are best early in the day, when you're not only more productive but luckier.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A prudent course of action today would be to guard your own interests before trying to handle things for others. This can be done without being selfish, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is no valid reason to share your good fortune today with those who had no hand in it. However, be generous with those who did.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your power to evaluate correctly might not be as effective for you today as your luck will. Try to operate in the area where you have the greatest strength.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Today could be profitable for you -- so long as you don't feel the need to fix what isn't broken. One of the ways to ensure failure is to make impulsive, last-minute changes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you can organize your priorities in a methodical manner today, success is likely. If you can't, then you might end up with the other "also rans."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Guard against doing things today in a way where you take two steps forward and one step back. This procedure could deny you the achievement of important objectives.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your first thoughts are likely to be your best ones today, but, unfortunately, you may put more stock in less accurate revisions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The stretch in your commercial dealings could have definite limitations today. Holding out for extra concessions might be all that's needed to snap the rubber band.
