Computers, Gas Tax Uses Top County Agenda

Purchase of two micro-computers and printers, at a cost of $14,773, will be primary topic for discussion during the Seminole County Commission's first meeting of 1984, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

In the afternoon, in an informal session, commissioners are scheduled to begin work on a transportation plan that would be implemented using local gas tax revenues.

County Administrator T. Duncan Rose said the computers are expected to be the first link in a county-wide computer system.

The computers would be used to tie the judicial system to the clerk of the court and the sheriff's department computers. The money for the equipment has already been transferred from the general fund, Rose said. The computers are manufactured by National Cash Register, Co.

The commission will also discuss extension of Herndon Ambulance's contract with the county on a month-to-month basis. Rose said this is a temporary measure while the county looks at the legal aspects of franchising or accepting bids for an annual ambulance service contract.

Rose said the commission will discuss ambulance service for Casselberry, as part of a continuing program of cooperation between the county and cities to provide fire and ambulance service.

The commission is expected to adopt a resolution authorizing the advertisement for sale of $1,000,000 in library bonds and will schedule a special meeting to award bid on the issue. The purchase of $119,628 worth of county vehicles is also on the agenda.

In a 1:30 p.m. workshop session following the regular meeting, Rose said, use of gasoline tax money will be discussed. It is possible, he said, that the commission will give the go ahead for county personnel to begin to develop a transportation plan that would be acted upon within nine months to a year.

Among the major proposed projects that will be discussed are: The widening of Maitland Boulevard and Red Bug Lake Road; the extension of Lake Mary Boulevard from U.S. Highway 17-92 to County Road 46; the extension of Charlotte Boulevard north to State Road 434 and south to State Road 436; consideration of traffic signal programs and intersection improvements.

If the commission gives the go-ahead for the transportation program study, Rose said, that county staffers would begin to draw up plans for some of the proposed projects as early as next week. —Susan Loden

New Year's First

Lo' Shandlen Lashay was the first baby reported born in Seminole County in 1984. Napping in the arms of her mother, Angela Ashley of Sanford, she seems oblivious to her claim to fame. She put in her appearance at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, at 1:12 p.m. Sunday, flipping the scales at 7 pounds, 2 ounces and measuring 20 inches long.

Homeless 26 Forced From Residences In 3-Alarm Fire

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A Fern Park apartment fire that left 26 people homeless including an infant on a respirator, roared to a blaze while the nearest fire unit was tending an attic smolder at other end of its response zone.

When the call of a fire at St. Johns Village Apartments, 240 Oxford Road, was received by Seminole County Fire District 1 Sunday at about 9:30 p.m., the district's first-response unit, Engine 221, was at a residential attic smolder on Leonard Street, west of State Road 427, just north of State Road 436.

Seminole County Fire Department Battalion Chief Joe Walter said it took the fire unit twice as long to respond from the Leonard Street location, not far from Allamonte Springs City Hall, than it would have from the firehouse at 522 U.S. Highway 17-92. But they were the closest unit.

Walter said although Engine #221 was at the Leonard Street smolder when the apartment fire was reported and had to repack its equipment, Engine #221 was the first unit on the scene at the apartment fire.

When the unit arrived, the fire was "going pretty good," said Walter.

Burned until about 11 p.m., the fire destroyed three of eight apartments in the rectangular building and damage the five other apartments with smoke, Walter said.

He said the fire started in a ground level apartment of the two story complex and consumed its way upward to apartments above eventually destroying three living areas and eating its way through the roof.

Walter said a preliminary investigation shows a faulty extension cord in the bottom-floor apartment caused the blaze.

During the 1½-hour battle, four squads, totalling 30 men, from four engine companies responded. No injuries to either the residents or the firefighters were reported. One man, Gerald Robert Sullivan, Fern Park, was arrested for allegedly interfering with firefighters.

The American Red Cross coordinated activities to find shelter for the eight families Tuesday night.

According to John Weatherholt, local chairman of disaster service of the Red Cross, the organization located two adjoining motel rooms for the family with the ailing infant, along with the respirator infant after the fire. The other homeless victims spent the night with relatives or friends, he said.

Weatherholt said the family with the ailing infant, along with the infant's 24-hour nurse, will stay in the motel again tonight, adding that probably two other families homeless from the blaze will have shelter provided tonight by the Red Cross.

"Once the snock wears off, they begin to realize their needs," he said. Some of the families will probably learn today that they cannot stay with friends and relatives too long, he said.

He said the displaced families have been placed on a priority list to occupy vacant apartments in

No Seminole Fatalities

Traffic Accidents Claim 14 Lives

By United Press International

A 16-year-old Miami boy and a 23-year-old Arcadia woman were among six people killed in unrelated traffic accidents Sunday, bringing the holiday weekend death toll to 14 in Florida, the Highway Patrol reported.

In Seminole County, the Florida Highway Patrol reported 26 traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and today. None involved fatalities.

Following a crackdown on drunk driving, 15 DUI arrests were reported in Seminole County between Friday and Monday morning. Police officials were unavailable for comment on whether arrests were up or down from the same time last year.

The FHP predicted 28 people would die on state roads during the New Year's weekend, which officially began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends today at midnight.

A spokesman for Metro-Dade County police said a Maros Rodriguez, 16, was killed early Sunday in a head-on crash in southwest Miami.

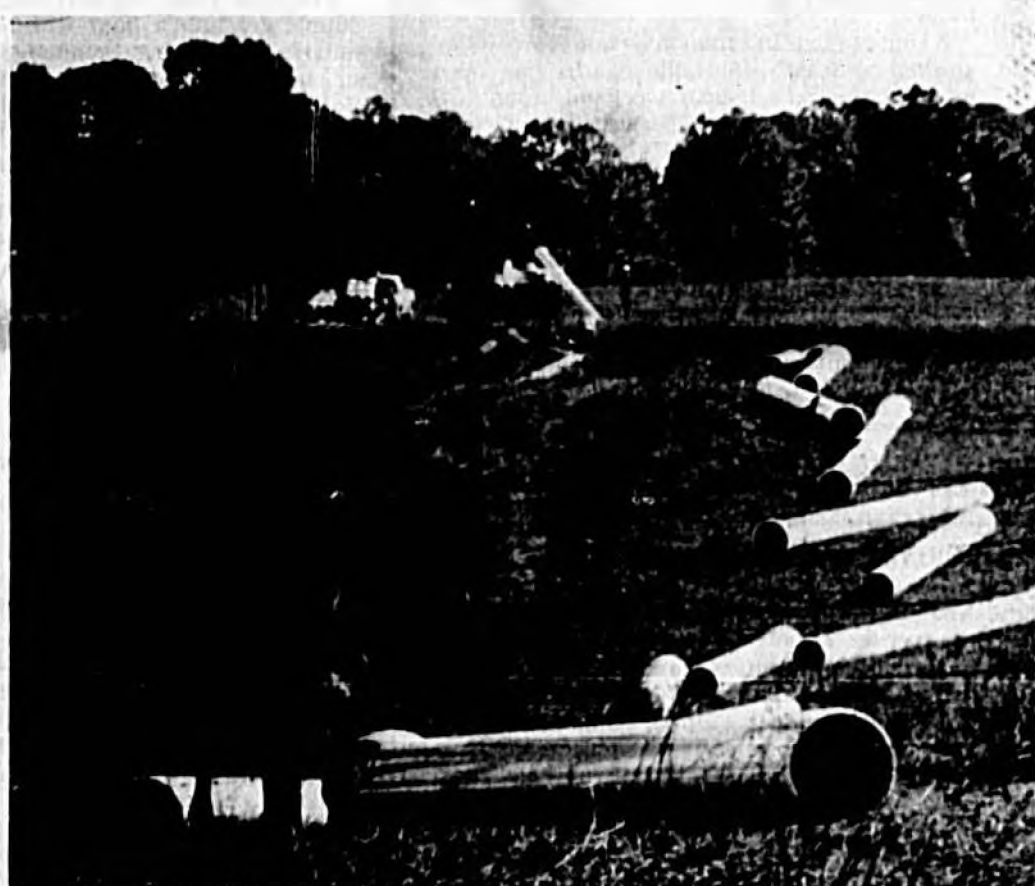

He was driving eastbound in a 1977 Plymouth at 3:30 a.m. when his car was struck head-on by 1973 Pontiac driven by Teobaldo Espinosa, 39, also of Miami, said Officer Rick Diaz.

Diaz said Espinosa was charged with traffic homicide. He said he was listed in fair condition at a local hospital.

In an unrelated incident, Robin Rizzo Hill, 23, of Arcadia, was killed at 2:40 a.m. Sunday when she lost control of her car and it rolled over, a FHP spokesman said.

Four unidentified Florida residents also died in separate accidents Sunday, but their identities and other information was withheld pending notification of relatives, the Highway Patrol reported.

Three people died in auto accidents Friday, and five were killed Saturday in unrelated traffic accidents.

Horse Scents

A horse on Stenstrom property off West 25th Street investigates pipe unloaded by Sanford city workers disrupting his peaceful pastoral scene. While other city employees enjoyed a New Year's holiday, city crews worked all weekend and were still on the job today laying more than two miles of water line to connect private irrigation wells with the city water system. The 12 and 16-inch wells will help alleviate the water shortage caused by the shut down of four city wells at the Mayfair Golf Course because of EDB contamination.

Accused Kidnapper To Give Deposition

A Casselberry man charged with kidnaping, robbery and rape is scheduled to give a deposition Tuesday before a Seminole Circuit Court judge.

Donald Vincent Archambault, 31, of 1442-D Ash Circle, Sundance Apartments, is scheduled to give a deposition at 8:30 a.m. before Circuit Court Judge Dominick J. Saffi. Archambault has been charged with the kidnaping, robbery at gun point, and sexual battery of one woman and the attempted kidnaping, aggravated assault, and carrying a concealed firearm in the foiled abduction of a second woman.

The first victim was abducted Nov.

10 at Butler Plaza on State Road 436 in Casselberry which is across the street from the apartment complex where Archambault lives, according to a Seminole County Sheriff's department report.

An Orange County woman left a store at the shopping mall and a man with a handgun forced her into her car at about 1 p.m. and ordered her to drive to a wooded area near Dodd and Dike roads. The man sexually assaulted her, took $2.50 in cash from her and drove her back to Butler Plaza where he left her, reports said.

Building Boom Expected To Continue In '84 TODAY

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A bullish building industry shook off the recession of the previous year in 1983, which saw both residential and commercial construction booming throughout Seminole County and 1984 is expected to be even better.

"My general impression," said Richard Allison executive director of Home Builders Association of Mid-Florida, "is that all of South Seminole is very active and middle and upper Seminole, including Lake Mary and Sanford, are becoming more active. Nineteen eighty-three was a good year for home building and 1984 will be a better year for both home builders and home buyers."

"The cost of homes is not going down, but the purchase of a home remains a good hedge against inflation as it will continue to appreciate in value," said Allison. Interest rates are lower than in 1980-82 and this has given buyers confidence so they are shopping and making commitments."

"More people are qualifying for mortgage loans because lending institutions have had to face economic realities and have had to throw out the window the old rule of thumb that housing should not exceed 25 percent of the monthly income. Buyers are willing to commit 35-40 percent of their monthly income and scrimp in other areas as they consider housing essential," Allison said. He said a University of Florida survey of building permit activity in the unincorporated areas of Seminole County in the first nine months of this year showed a 123 percent increase in single family housing starts and 225 percent in multi-family construction.

Sanford saw a residential building boom in 1983. There were 521 permits issued for single family homes valued at $16,962,524 in the first 11 months and the city building office expects to process another 200 for December.

This compares to 114 houses valued at $3,928,241 in the first 11 months of 1982. In addition in the January through November period multi-family housing permits were issued as follows: seven two-family houses with a total value of $222,992 (as compared to two at $86,700 last year); 11 3-4 family houses with a total value of $929,000 (compared to one at $75,000 in 1982); one of 5-more family permits valued at $2,827,000 (compared to one at $5,164,150 in 1982) for a total of 540 housing permits valued at $20,741,316 compared to 121 in the same period in 1982 with a value of $9,251,091.

The most active area in Sanford for residential building this year has been Residential Communities of America's Hidden Lake development. Two developments making end of the year applications for permits prior to the 60-day moratorium on new building caused by problems with city wells were Mayfair Meadows, with 50 single family units to be built on State Road 46 east of Oregon Avenue and Creekside Condos with 20 units on Highway 17-92 behind the 7-11 adjacent to Sunland Estates.

There were 26 commercial permits issued in Sanford during the first 11 months of this year with a combined value of $4,357,970 including two shopping centers—Country Club Square at 25th and Alport Boulevard and Center Mall next to Sanford Plaza.

In Lake Mary, construction was also up over the previous year. There have been 67 single family permits issued this year to date for houses valued at a total of $4,927,359. Much of the building was in Cardinal Oaks Phase II. In addition there were three duplexes valued at $159,428 and three multi-family buildings worth a total of $327,448. Though there were only two commercial permits they were buildings valued at $2,826,000 and included the new $2,451,000 Stromberg-Carlson building and the latest phase of the Driftwood Village Shopping Center.

The city of Casselberry issued 109 single family permits in the first 11 months of this year valued at $5,245,242 as compared to only 24 in the same period in 1982 with a value of $1,218,280. Multi-family permits issued through November totaled 148 for a value of $15,484,975, as compared to 38 in the same period last year with a value of $1,420,884. Accounting for much of the multi-family increase were the Carmel-by-the-Lake and Reflections Apartments projects, both in the Lake

Howell area on State Road 436. They will continue to build in 1984 and the Oxford Road apartment complex is expected to start construction.

There were 15 commercial permits issued by Casselberry through November this year with a total value of $2,495,132 as compared to 11 in that period last year for a total value of $4,513,000. The Gooding's Super Market and Gooding's Plaza permits in 1982 boosted the dollar value. The new Indian Hills Village shopping center, also on State Road 436, was included in this year's figures.

In Longwood, the building department was busy issuing permits for a total of $43,683,666 in 1983 as compared to $11,216,656 in 1982. That includes 313 single family homes, 13 duplexes, 45 commercial and industrial permits, and a $20 million hospital-medical office building complex. In 1982, there were 70 single family permits for homes valued at $2,150,288; 8 duplexes at $291,016; and 43 commercial-industrial at $7,031,500.

Longwood Building Official Bud Bryant said major residential construction was in the Florida Residential Communities developments of Coventry, Markham Hills, and The Landings. Coming up in 1984 will be another addition to Markham Hills east of Lake Emma Road, and 200-home Coventry East, west of Lake Emma Road. Major projects included in the commercial

IN BRIEF

Christine Craft Taking TV Firm To Court Again

JOPLIN, Mo. (UPI) — Former television anchorwoman Christine Craft returns to court this week with a $3.5 million fraud suit against MetroMedia Inc., charging she was subjected to a cosmetic makeover after she was hired at a Kansas City television station.

This time, Ms. Craft will not try to prove she was demoted to a reporter in August 1981 because of her sex or that because she was a woman she received lower pay than her male counterparts.

At issue this week in a trial beginning Wednesday is Ms. Craft's claim that employment conditions relating to her appearance were misrepresented to her during contract negotiations at KMBC-TV.

In August, a six-member jury found MetroMedia guilty of fraud and awarded Ms. Craft $500,000. But on Oct. 31, a federal judge overturned that verdict, saying the "excessive" award was partly caused by "pervasive publicity" and scheduled a new trial.

Impeachment Call Fizzles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A New York congressman is trying to keep alive his proposal to impeach President Reagan for the invasion of Grenada but concedes it may be impossible.

"I realize this action does not fit the current mood of most Americans," Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., said. In a letter accompanying a mass mailing on the issue Weiss argued, "The Constitution of the United States was not meant to apply only when its provisions enjoy majority support."

Weiss's impeachment resolution, co-sponsored by seven members of Congress, contends Reagan violated at least three areas of the Constitution in the invasion. He acted without the consent of Congress, ignored treaty obligations and breached the public's First Amendment rights by preventing media coverage, the resolution said.

143 Die On Roads

By United Press International

Drunken driving and a mixed bag of wintry weather helped push the New Year's holiday weekend traffic death toll past the 140 mark today.

A United Press International count early today showed at least 143 traffic deaths had been reported since the holiday weekend began at 6 p.m. local time Friday. The weekend officially ends at midnight tonight.

California reported the most traffic deaths, 17. Texas counted 16 dead, Florida, 14, and New York, 11.

The National Safety Council estimated between 250 and 350 people would be killed on the nation's roads during the 3 1/2 day weekend, and another 12,000 to 16,000 would suffer disabling injuries.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Freezing temperatures lanced into northern Florida today but for most of the country the New Year ended a frigid December that was the coldest ever for 22 cities. The only below-zero forecasts today were in northernmost New England, where it was minus-8 early this morning in Houlton, Maine. Colder air nudged into northern Florida, bringing the temperature down to 27 degrees early today at Tallahassee and 23 at Crestview, in the Panhandle. At least 464 people in 45 states died in the year-end cold wave that began Dec. 16. The victims included 212 dead of exposure and 116 killed in weather-related traffic accidents. The temperature in Omaha, Neb., rose above freezing New Year's Day for the first time in exactly four weeks — but the balmy 34 at mid-afternoon tumbled back to 12 before midnight. Snow flurries lingered over Wisconsin, northern Illinois and lower Michigan today, after Sunday snowfalls from Kansas to Michigan that piled up 3 inches of snow in northern Illinois and as much as 7 inches in Iowa. Atlantic and Oklahoma, Iowa reported 7 inches each and Des Moines 4.5 inches. Strong winds gusting to 40 and 50 mph hit Arizona and Southern California today, and Montana was under a high wind warning for 70-mph gusts on the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies. December was a harsh month for cities around the country as a blast of Arctic air broke records from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico. Amarillo, Texas had an average temperature of 24.7 degrees, and San Antonio, Texas shivered in average temperatures of 43 degrees — the coldest month ever for both cities. Colorado Springs, Colo., had an average temperature of 18.4 degrees, its coldest this century. Records for heaviest December snowfall were set in Colorado Springs, Colo., which had 18.2 inches, and Pocatello, Idaho buried under 33.7 inches. Heavy, wet snow collapsed the roof of a grocery store Sunday in Ogden, Utah, injuring one employee and two customers. Nearly a dozen record lows for the day were set in Georgia, Florida, Alabama and the Carolinas.

Former CIA Chiefs Say

Pull U.S. Troops Out Of Lebanon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three former CIA directors agreed that U.S. Marines should be pulled out of Beirut although perhaps no further away than to U.S. ships on patrol off the coast of Lebanon.

"I think they should be removed," said William Colby on NBC's Meet the Press. "You should not send superpower forces to a peace-keeping mission," he said. "The Marines are not a peace-keeping force."

"If the purpose is to support the Gemayel government, we should be doing it with a military aid system and advisers, not with Marines," the former CIA director in President Ford's administration said.

President Carter's CIA director, Stansfield Turner, also called for the Marines to be withdrawn.

"The president has an option for pulling out gracefully. He can move those Marines back to the Navy ships just offshore," Turner said.

"The Long Report just issued says we are putting too much emphasis on the military... that the Marines have been left there unwisely since their position became increasingly vulnerable as the political situation deteriorated," Turner said.

The Long commission, headed by retired Adm. Robert Long, faulted military commanders for lapses in security that led to the Oct. 23 bombing in Beirut that killed 241 U.S. servicemen.

Former CIA director James Schlesinger, who directed the agency during the Nixon administration, said the worst policy for the United States in Beirut is to "hang in there," and let Syria "play cat and mouse" with U.S. forces.

"Unless we are prepared to change the balance of forces in the region... the Syrians can play cat and mouse with us to their heart's content and even to the content of the Soviets who stand behind them," Schlesinger said in an interview on ABC's This Week with David Brinkley.

"The worst of all policies is probably simply to hang in there," said Schlesinger, who also served as Secretary of Defense under Presidents Nixon and Ford.

Schlesinger said it was "probably a blunder to have gotten in" to Lebanon. He described U.S. involvement in Lebanon as lacking public support and "distracting from other objectives of the administration, particularly our Central American policy."

Cities Starving For Tax Revenue

SOURCE: Census Bureau

Property taxes, long the major source of income for U.S. towns and cities, have declined in importance in recent years. A study of municipal revenues totaling $105.4 billion in fiscal 1982, showed property levies accounting for 22 percent, down from 33 percent a decade earlier. The share from federal, state and other government sources had risen to 36 percent, up from 32 percent in 1972 to take over first place.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite the economic recovery, nearly half of the nation's cities are cutting services because they are unable to borrow at current high interest rates and can't raise taxes because of tax limitation laws, a survey shows.

A National League of Cities study of municipal budgets of 275 cities across the country showed many of them expect to miss out on the recovery next year.

"Normally, the second year of an economic recovery finds local governments expanding and helping push the recovery along," the survey report said. "This does not appear true for the cities in the survey."

Instead, "Nearly half of the cities responding to the survey expect to reduce services in 1984 and more than one-third of the respondents expect to cut the city work force," league Director Alan Beals said.

Examples of such cutbacks are taking place in Vancouver, Wash., Allentown, Pa. and Salem, Mass., he said.

The reasons vary but most cities complained of both high interest rates and restrictions on property taxes voted by citizens in recent years.

"It means we have to defer our capital investment," Beals said. "It means that we're not going into the money markets, we're not borrowing money to repair our bridges and streets, our water plants and our sewage facilities."

Vancouver's spending problems include a statewide limit on tax increases.

Allentown's budget figures for 1984 were not yet available but the city already experienced a decline of 2.4 percent in 1983, a trend that may continue.

Salem, Mass. was forced to cut its 1984 budget 7.3 percent.

The survey showed 46 percent of cities that responded expect to cut their capital budget, financed out of current revenues, below fiscal 1983 level.

Another 47 percent of the cities are in far better circumstances and expect to increase their spending by more than the expected rate of inflation.

All sources of local revenue, sales taxes are the only ones expected to grow in 1984.

Orlando City Hall For Sale

ORLANDO (UPI) — The Orlando City Hall is for sale, but only to a buyer who can come up with $15 to $20 million plus a plan to stimulate the downtown area.

There are no "For Sale" signs in sight, but there have been discussions of selling the nine-acre site to developers of a downtown project.

In order to be eligible to buy City Hall, a developer must show the city "a good offer and a good high-quality development plan," said Rick Bernhardt.

"Right now, we're not at all interested in putting it on the market," he said. But interest could be revived if someone came in with a development proposal that would "really stimulate downtown."

Sun Banks Inc. is planning a major development just north of City Hall, said City Administrator Lex Hester. Coral Gables Federal Savings and Loan Association is expected to do the same eventually on five acres it owns across the street, he said.

Sun Bank has talked to four companies hoping to develop the proposed $150 million Sun Bank Center project, said Buell Duncan, chairman of Sun Bank N.A. Any decision to buy the city property would depend on which developer is selected, he said.

A few of the developers who have expressed interest in the Sun project "have gazed over at the territory there from the top of our building," said Duncan. But it would be premature to speculate on Sun Bank's interest in the City Hall site until a developer is chosen, he said.

Lantana Couple Arrested In New Year's Brawl

The New Year was only hours old when a Lantana couple got into a fight with another group of people outside a southwest Seminole County club and wound up in jail charged with aggravated assault with a firearm. The man was also charged with aggravated assault with a vehicle.

The pair posted $5,000 bond each and were released from the Seminole County jail.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies said the couple was at the Sweetwater Club on Country Club Drive near Apopka around 3 a.m. Sunday with another man. The trio allegedly began yelling at three people leaving the club and the man with the Lantana couple and a man from the second group reportedly got into a fight.

Deputies did not say what provoked the yelling and fistcuffs.

During the melee, the Lantana woman reportedly took a shotgun from the truck she had entered and threatened the victims with it.

The victims left the scene and said they were followed to Wekiva Springs Road by their antagonists who reportedly rammed the victims' vehicle several times from the rear.

The victims stopped at Wekiva Springs Road at State Road 434 and told a deputy sheriff what had happened. The suspects reportedly drove into the parking lot of a convenience store at Wekiva Springs Road at State Road 434 while the officer was talking to the victims. The officer confronted the suspects and found a BB gun and a shotgun in their possession and dent and scorch marks on the victims' vehicle.

Reid Paul Callahan, 19, and Karen Rochelle Stengel, 19, both of 6053 Pine Drive, Lantana, were arrested at 3:01 a.m. Sunday.

DRUG BUST

A Winter Springs man faces a charge of possession of a controlled substance after an Altamonte Springs policeman reported that he spotted a small plastic bag of cocaine along with a straw and a razor blade in the man's car which was parked at San Sebastian Square on State Road 436.

Garland Guy Deluca, 25, of 733 Woodhaven Drive, was arrested at 4:55 a.m. Sunday. He posted a $8,000 bond and was released from the Seminole County jail the same day.

TRESPASS-BATTERY
A Casselberry man charged with trespassing, resisting arrest with violence and battery to a police officer is being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

The man was spotted by sheriff's undercover drug agents as he entered Season's restaurant at Dog Track Road, Casselberry, at 9 p.m. Friday. The officers reported that they recognized the man because he had been arrested at the same restaurant on a drug charge several months ago.

After the prior arrest, he had been warned not to return to the restaurant, the officers said.

When the officers confronted the suspect, he reportedly shoved an agent in the chest and struggled with the officer until he was subdued and handcuffed.

Willard Eugene Thornhill, 24, of 1404 Carlisle Drive, was arrested at 9:09 p.m.

WALLET STOLEN
A North Carolina woman reported that she left her wallet on the counter by the cash register of Denny's restaurant on State Road 434, Longwood, around 10:20 p.m. Friday.

Phyllis L. Jacobs, 52, said the wallet, which contained about $180, was gone when she returned to pick it up, a sheriff's report said.

CONSTRUCTION THEFT
Roof shingles and a drip edge valued at $500 were reported missing from a home construction site at 5347 Orange Ave., Winter Park. Property owner Monte May of 174-B Springwood Drive, Winter Park, said the items disappeared Wednesday or Thursday.

French Troops Attacked For 2nd Time In 24 Hours

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — An unidentified gunman fired a rocket-propelled grenade at French peace-keeping troops in Beirut today, causing minor damage to the French ambassador's compound but no casualties, a French spokesman said.

The attack on the troops was the second in 24 hours against French facilities in Lebanon and the third since Christmas.

In the Kharoub district, 20 miles south of Beirut, rival Christian and Druze militiamen fought mortar and heavy machine gun battles, military sources said.

They said Druze militiamen also fired at Lebanese army positions on the hills southeast of Beirut. There were no immediate reports of casualties, and government sources said efforts were underway to stop the fighting.

Terrorists Sunday bombed the French cultural center in the northern port city of Tripoli in the second of three attacks against the French in a week, destroying the building but causing no casualties.

Rebels Blow Up Bridge

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist rebels blew up El Salvador's main bridge in a bold attack that disrupted highway links to the eastern part of the nation and much of Central America.

The rebels said in a broadcast on their clandestine Radio Venceremos that the attack on the bridge across the Lempa River began with a mortar assault at 12:50 a.m. Sunday that "rapidly annihilated the troops who were in the command post and casements, as well as the trenches and fortifications."

The Salvadoran Defense Ministry said the guerrillas detonated high-powered explosives on the support pylons of the half-mile-long Cuscatlan suspension bridge across the Lempa River at 2 a.m.

The Cuscatlan route along the Pan American Highway has been the only paved road for heavy trucks and buses passing through El Salvador and Central America since the Golden Bridge to the south was destroyed in a similar attack Oct. 15, 1981.

No Clues In Bombing

MARSEILLE, France (UPI) — Several callers claimed responsibility for the bombing of a railway station and a highspeed train that killed four people, but police took none seriously and said they had no clues to the terrorists' identity.

Bomb experts arrived in Paris to analyze fragments of the bomb, while others searched the debris in the Marseille train station and on the tracks near the town of Tain-l'Hermitage where the blasts occurred. Riot police patrolled the Marseille and Paris train stations.

In the attacks Saturday, terrorists left one bomb in a suitcase on a baggage rack between two first class cars on a TGV high-speed Paris-bound train as it stood in the Marseille St. Charles station. The second bomb, also in a suitcase, was placed in a locker in the station luggage room.

White Officer On Trial For Killing Black Man

MIAMI (UPI) — A lawyer defending a white police officer charged with shooting to death a black man in the Overtown ghetto of Miami says jurors may fear new riots if the defendant is acquitted.

Police officer Luis Alvarez is scheduled to go on trial Tuesday on charges he fatally wounded Nevell Johnson Jr. on Dec. 28, 1982. Three days of racial violence followed. The possibility of renewed violence was presented to Circuit Judge David Gersten during a 6½-hour hearing Dec. 22. During the hearing, defense attorney Roy Black petitioned to have the trial moved out of Miami.

Gersten rejected the argument.

Elderly Sisters Murdered

CRYSTAL RIVER (UPI) — Police are looking for a murder suspect who cut through a screen to gain entry into the home of two elderly sisters, then slashed their throats as they slept.

The bodies of Ethel Lynch Reynolds, 86, and Freida Lynch DeMougin, 84, were discovered Saturday by Mrs. Reynolds' daughter, Virginia Robbins, police said.

The victims' throats were slashed and one of them was partly undressed, said Citrus County Sheriff Charles Dean. But he could not say whether either had been sexually assaulted until after autopsies were complete.

Dean said there were signs of a struggle inside the women's yellow brick home.

No suspects had been arrested, and police had no leads to the identity of the killer, a spokeswoman for the Crystal River Police Department said Sunday.

Pilgrimage To Damascus

Jackson, Assad Meet; Flyer's Fate Uncertain

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Jesse Jackson met Syrian President Hafez Assad today and reported his effort to free captured U.S. airman Robert Goodman Jr. is "at a very sensitive stage" and hopes for an answer on Goodman's fate later today.

"We are in a sensitive stage and our mission remains alive," the Democratic presidential candidate said after his 1½-hour meeting held with Assad under extraordinary security in a villa 30 minutes from Damascus. "Hopefully before this day is over, we will have an answer."

Photographers at Assad's yellow stucco villa in the hillside outside the capital said Jackson told Assad there was a "growing consensus" in the United States that America would withdraw its troops from Lebanon.

Jackson said to Assad as he left to return to town. "Reagan will be there for only one more year."

Assad, who has been reported ill since November, appeared in good health and smiled repeatedly.

At one point, the members of the Jackson party who accompanied him to the meeting left Jackson and Assad alone for 10 minutes.

Jesse Jackson ...trying to talk Syria's president into freeing U.S. airman Robert Goodman Jr.

The Rev. Wyatt Walker, a member of the Jackson delegation handling logistics, said that discussions with the Syrians had covered only whether Goodman would be released and not how, but he said he expected it would be through American authorities.

Jackson drove to the meeting without the U.S. Secret Service agents assigned to protect him after a tense confrontation between the agents and the Syrian security officers.

At the meeting, Jackson reportedly planned to ask Assad to make an uncharacteristic conciliatory gesture and send Goodman home.

Jackson said Sunday that he thinks he can talk the Syrian government into releasing Goodman into his control. "We remain hopeful to get him out by the time we leave or at a date certain."

Plans have been made for Jackson and his delegation of U.S. religious leaders to fly to the United States Tuesday, 24 hours later than originally scheduled. The group visited Goodman in a dramatic meeting Saturday at an armed military camp.

Goodman, 27, a Portsmouth, N.H., native, was captured by the Syrians Dec. 4 when anti-aircraft gunners downed the A-7 Corsair in which he was the bombardier-navigator.

"It's been a real good year, we're way ahead of the previous year," said Seminole County Building Official Don Flippen. "The past year has been so active in building applications that we got behind in issuing permits and in inspections. We're about to catch up now. The Board of Commissioners approved overtime payment for our inspectors so that they could catch up and hired two temporary clerks for the front office."

Flippen predicts as good or better a year in 1984 for construction with projects such as the $500 million Heathrow planned unit development near Lake Mary scheduled to get underway and the $20 million life care facility in the Sabal Point development, the plans for which are now going through the county's approval process. He said that growth is widespread throughout the county.

Jay Bolton, Oviedo building official, calls the past fiscal year which ended Sept. 30, probably the highest for building permits in the city's history, at least for the past decade. There was $5 million in new construction during the year as compared to $2,948,459 the previous fiscal year.

"Construction activity is stronger than ever," Bolton said, "as people are starting to move into this area."

With the start of the 782-acre Alafaya Planned Unit Development at State Road 520 and Alafaya Trail in early spring, he said 1984 promises to be an even bigger year.

Red Cross damage estimate team will be at the scene today to evaluate the damage.

The Fern Park man who was arrested for allegedly interfering at a fire scene faces additional charges of assault on a law enforcement officer.

The suspect reportedly refused to step back from the scene of a fire. Firemen and a highway patrolman subdued the man at the scene at about 10 p.m. and transported him to the Seminole County jail.

At the jail he was placed in a holding cell to calm down and when he was removed from that cell to be booked Sgt. R.I. O'dell reported that the man became violent, stuck his fingers in the officer's face, refused to sit, and when made to sit jumped up and struck O'dell in the chest. He was reportedly subdued and returned to the holding cell.

Gerald Robert Sullivan is being held in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond. He was scheduled to appear in court at 1:30 p.m. today.

AT & T After The Break-Up

Phone Repair Is Customer's Responsibility

Second in a Series

Editor's note: In the following, Southern Bell answers some of the most commonly asked questions about the AT&T divestiture.

TELEPHONE EQUIPMENT: REPAIR

1. Q. What happens if a customer finds a problem with his telephone service is caused by a telephone set?

A. First off, if it's a telephone that is now being rented through Southern Bell, the customer should call one of two telephone numbers. If it's a residence customer, the number is 1 800 555-8111. If it's a business customer, he should call the number listed on his bill for equipment inquiries.

2. Q. Isn't that a long distance number?

A. The number is a toll-free 800 number for centralized repair offices which will operate day and night, seven days a week.

3. Q. What if a telephone that needs repairing was bought from a department store or electronics shop. Who does the work?

A. The customer has the responsibility for the repair of his equipment. Repair questions should be referred to the store or company where the equipment was bought. If there is a warranty in effect, the customer should follow instructions or contact the supplier.

4. Q. What if the equipment was bought from Southern Bell?

A. Equipment bought from Southern Bell before divestiture will be repaired by AT&T after divestiture. The customer should take the equipment to an AT&T Phone Center for repair. AT&T will repair the set at no charge if it is covered by a warranty or service contract and for an appropriate charge if it isn't covered.

TELEPHONE EQUIPMENT: INSTALLATION

1. Q. What does a customer do about moving in a new house or building where there has never been telephone service?

A. If the house or other building has never had service — and the builder has not already done the inside wiring for telephones — Southern Bell will provide this service for a charge. Or the customer can arrange with a contractor to do the wiring. Or if the customer wants to do the wiring himself, the material needed can be bought at most telephone and electronic equipment outlets, such as phone specialty stores and department stores.

2. Q. What about the line from the pole to the house: who installs that?

A. Southern Bell will continue to make and maintain the connections from the customer's premises back to our central office.

OSHA's Unsafe Direction ...

During the 1980 presidential campaign, Ronald Reagan promised to abolish the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, deriding the nation's worker-safety agency as a needless nuisance to business. As president, Mr. Reagan has found a less visible and less controversial way to achieve essentially the same objective: OSHA survives, but without the clout needed to be effective. The federal cop no longer patrols the industrial beat.

Mr. Reagan's choice of Thorne Auchter to head OSHA signaled his determination to gut the agency, for Auchter — head of a Florida construction company that was cited by OSHA for 48 violations during the 1970s — had no evident qualifications for the job other than his active involvement in the 1980 campaign. Auchter's first initiative — ordering the destruction of 100,000 copies of a booklet on black lung disease which he hadn't read — has set the standard for OSHA's subsequent activities.

The number of OSHA inspectors has been cut by 30 percent since 1980 to 1,077, and the inspectors' jobs have been redefined, making them at most advisers, not monitors. In many locales, inspectors are now instructed to examine company logbooks, not the actual worksite where health and safety violations are likely to surface. Those firms that break the rules are often asked to report on their own compliance, rather than facing follow-up inspections.

The number of "serious" violations cited has been halved and fines dramatically reduced under this administration. In 1980, there were 98 fines of $10,000 or more; two years later, there were just 18. One incident suggests how this has come about. A Wisconsin construction firm that had its laborers working in trenches that could easily cave in was fined $4,999 and cited by the OSHA inspector for a "willful" violation of the law; following an informal conference with an OSHA supervisor, the penalty was dropped to $100 and the citation changed to "non-serious."

OSHA administrators have also tried to throttle the process of setting standards to govern the myriad hazards that workers confront. One attempt to weaken the rules aimed at protecting workers from brown lung disease by insisting upon a cost benefit analysis was struck down by the Supreme Court as inconsistent with the law's intent. And earlier this year, a federal appeals court ordered OSHA to issue an emergency standard for ethylene oxide, a hospital sterilant and known carcinogen to which 100,000 workers are exposed; the agency has yet to comply.

"Cooperative regulation," Auchter calls the present direction of OSHA, and while cooperation among industry, labor and government is far better than needlessly adversarial relations, the prevailing approach is more aptly described as self-regulation. But self-regulation is neither an adequate response to work-place dangers nor consistent with Congress' mandate.

Under Thorne Auchter, OSHA has degenerated into as much of a national embarrassment as the Environmental Protection Agency when Ann Burford ran the show.

Elizabeth Bouvia

Elizabeth Bouvia is so depressed that she wants to die. Because of a profound physical disability, she is unable to take her own life except by fasting. Neither the hospital in which she is a patient nor the court to which she appealed for help will let her do it.

Is this a necessary denial of freedom? Does the government have to tell Bouvia it knows better than she does what she should do with her own life?

Suicide is a crime that our society can neither condone nor prevent. We cannot condone it because of our strong Judeo-Christian belief in the sacredness of human life. We cannot prevent it because some individuals under some circumstances have always chosen to commit it. If they could, and usually such people can find a way.

Elizabeth Bouvia has a right to die in her own way. All of us do. But, as a matter of law, we don't have the right to have anyone else help us do it. That was the judge's decision and it was correct.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I know JUST how Burt Reynolds FEELS. I want to be taken seriously, too."

By Diane Petryk

As a rule I don't check bills that come to the house. I just groan and pay them. 'Til the other day I got a whopping phone bill I knew was impossible. What happened?

The phone company's new hot-shot computer will flag your account if long distance charges go beyond what you estimated when having the phone installed and will spit out a bill. Never mind it's two weeks from your regular billing time. And if you don't pay it in a couple days, they pull the plug.

Well, I paid mine. But the hot-shot computer isn't all that quick. The payment didn't register by my regular billing time. If I hadn't been looking I would have paid for three or four calls twice. Maybe it would have gotten straightened out eventually, but who needs to part with more money than necessary?

The moral is, watch those bills. Mistakes can and are being made.

According to the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration in Washington, D.C., it is important to know what your legal protection is concerning billing mistakes and what steps you must take to get it successfully straightened out.

Take credit card bills. Suppose you discover a charge on your bill from a service station you've never been to or a restaurant you've never entered. According to information in a booklet (this one will cost you 50 cents) entitled Fair Credit Billing, available from the Information Center, you can challenge anything you believe to be a billing error on your credit card statement. The Fair Credit Billing Amendment to the Truth in Lending Law defines a billing error as any charge made by an unauthorized person, a charge for something you didn't accept on delivery or that was not delivered according to agreement. Billing errors include mistakes and transactions where you've asked for an explanation or need more information to identify the purchase.

Fair Credit Billing also tells you what to do about defective merchandise or services purchased with your credit card.

If you ever think your bill is wrong, here's what to do:

Write to the creditor within 60 days of the date the bill was mailed. Be sure to include your name and account number, say you think there's an error, what the error is and why you believe it is an error.

While you are waiting for an answer you don't have to pay the amount in question or finance charges that apply to it. But you must pay all parts of the bill that are not in dispute. The creditor is required to acknowledge your letter within 30 days, unless your account is corrected sooner. Within two billing periods — but never more than 90 days — either your account must be corrected or you must be told why the creditor believes the bill is correct.

If the creditor made a mistake, you certainly don't have to pay finance charges, just the amount you owe. In such a case, however, the creditor may include any finance charges that have accumulated and any minimum payments you missed while you were questioning the bill.

A related publication, Fair Debt Collection, (also 50 cents) tells what a debt collector can and cannot do. For instance, a bill collector can't call you in the middle of the night asking for a payment. That's good to know!

Neither can they contact you at work if your employer disapproves.

And then there's the secret to getting debt collectors to stop contacting you at all. Both pamphlets are obtainable by writing to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 403L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. You'll also get the Consumer Information Catalog free with any order.

DICK WEST Then Let Them Eat Applesauce

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suspicions are growing in the White House and elsewhere that some taxpayers who write off meals as business expenses are only looking for a free lunch.

"I've never seen any reliable statistics to indicate that anyone would go hungry if Congress repealed the three martini lunch deduction," one well-fed tax expert told me.

"Thirsty maybe, but not hungry."

"It appears that certain guests accept lunch invitations of this type mainly because someone else is picking up the check."

I, quite frankly, was shocked by the allegation, which seemed to betray a certain insensitivity to the needs of the downtrodden taxpayer, not to mention the downtrodden freelancer.

On the other hand, I can see how abuses of tax shelters and loopholes could cause concern at the Internal Revenue Service.

What would be helpful at this point is yet another presidential commission to investigate the federal tax structure and determine exactly the extent to which taxpayers are dependent on loopholes.

Congressional hearings, to date, have extracted testimony to support almost any position you might take on the issue.

One position is that the federal tax code currently provides more shelters and loopholes than at any previous time in American history. Thus it may be argued that people who go hungry because of high taxes do so out of ignorance. They simply are unaware that the loopholes exist.

Any good tax lawyer will tell you that what taxpayers should do is hire a good lawyer to steer them into the right shelters. Fees that are paid for legal aid in finding loopholes are themselves deductible, recipients of the fees are quick to point out.

That position has been challenged by various taxpayer groups, however. These organizations insist that many taxpayers have nothing left to buy food with after forking over what is due the IRS.

Given the history and tradition of tax cheating in this country, it is not unreasonable to assume that some hosts and hostesses chisel a bit on expense account lunches.

Perhaps the between-drinks conversation does not include enough shop talk to qualify the lunch as a business meeting.

Demo Senate Recapture Not Certain

WASHINGTON — The quadrennial hand has come around again to a presidential year, which for a political reporter is the time of maximum stimulation. It is the time when public interest in political reporting reaches that high plateau normally reserved for sports news and sex crimes.

But in 1984, the presidential-year fever may not spread far beyond the political partisans and activists. The voters at large are not sufficiently frightened by Ronald Reagan or stimulated by Walter Mondale, the two likely contenders, to run up a temperature.

The outlook on this opening day of another campaign year is that President Reagan will be re-elected. Mondale appears destined to become the latest in a succession of undistinguished, uninspiring Democratic candidates of the Jimmy Carter and George McGovern genus.

The Democrats' dream of winning back a Senate majority is also fading. "My judgment now is that a Democratic majority is about a 50-50 proposition," says Brian Atwood, director of the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee.

It had been thought that the retirement of Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., would dampen Republican prospects. But Cici Cole of the National Republican Senatorial Committee now believes,

Looking At 1983 News

Some thoughts on several turns of the year news items that caught my attention:

YOU'VE GOT TO hand it to Yasser Arafat in one respect. When it comes to giving a surprising new twist to an old truth, no one else now operating in the major crisis league can touch him.

He has managed to convert his second rout from Lebanon under fire in less than a year into another triumphal procession.

His first stop was Egypt, and I learn from a Wall Street Journal dispatch that the visit and warm reception could signal rapprochement between Egypt and a number of moderate Arab states. Jordan has already reopened trade relations severed when Egypt came to terms with Israel four years ago.

That last point is important. Egypt has been ostracized by the rest of the Arab world for precisely that reason, thereby deserting the united front against Israel in the cause of Arab Palestine.

So what do we have now? The would-be leader of the cause and the deserter making common cause.

Arafat's procession continued down the Red Sea to North Yemen, but he won't be staying there long.

Early in the year, he's due in Jordan, from whence he was routed under fire before he went to Lebanon, but whose King Hussein is now reported to be eager to do political business with him.

Clearly, as Arafat works it, nothing succeeds like failure.

HERE'S ANOTHER item dealing with success and failure — although mostly the latter.

Do you recall the great SST controversy of a decade ago? Both the European and American aircraft industries had supersonic transports on the drawing boards and the future domination of the skies was thought to be riding on which got into the air first, no matter how great the subsidized development cost. Congress, after furious debate and a lobbying blitz on both sides of the issue, opted not to pay the price in federal funds.

The British and French proceeded at great cost and succeeded with the Concorde, unquestionably a technological achievement that cuts the trans-Atlantic flight to three hours from the standard seven.

It is an achievement that has been unable to pay its way, however, and Air France now announces that it is taking three of its Concorde out of service.

They are to be cannibalized for spare parts to keep the other four flying. A great saving over buying new parts.

Having previously canceled scheduled flights between Paris and Washington, Rio de Janeiro, Mexico City and Caracas, Air France thinks it may just about break even on Concorde service this year.

If so, the French may at last be on to something. If next year they should also decide to fold the one remaining Concorde route — Paris-New York — and use the remaining planes only to taxi tourists around Charles de Gaulle Airport, they just might end up solidly in the black.

FINALLY, THE GOOD tidings of a food price war in New York City during the holidays brought great joy to some consumers.

But not many. The product was top-of-the-line Beluga caviar.

The markdown duel between leading purveyors, in which the price at last report had dropped from $149.95 to $119.95 for the large economy 14-ounce tin, was considered of sufficient public note that it made the editorial columns of the New York Times.

Beluga comes from the Caspian Sea, which is fished by both the Soviets and Iranians. The latter, according to some reports, have increased their exports in order to pick up additional foreign exchange.

Making It Easier No Help

By Arnold Sawilak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postcard registration has been touted in recent years as a way to improve the abysmal American voter turnout record. Does postcard registration increase turnout? An expert on the subject says not much.

Curtis Gans, who has been studying the American phenomenon of non-voting for several years, says merely making it easier for citizens before elections does not guarantee better turnout.

But allowing voters to register on election day or dispensing with registration altogether apparently does help turnout.

In a summary of detailed research into 1982 voting patterns, Gans, director of the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, says turnout increased in the one state without registration — North Dakota — and the four states which permit registration on election day — Maine, Minnesota, Oregon and Wisconsin.

At the same time, the 20 states with postcard or mail-in registration laws had a mixed turnout record. Thirteen of them had higher turnouts in 1982; seven had lower showings at the polls.

"This tends to show that the principal procedural problem in improving turnout is eliminating the two-step process of registering and voting, rather than simply making it easier to register," Gans says.

There is another statistic to bolster Gans' tentative conclusion. The study shows that states which have permanent registration — once a voter is on the rolls, he or she remains eligible — have a higher than average turnout record on election days. Specifically, of 13 states with permanent registration, 11 had bigger than average turnouts in 1982; two fell below the average.

Of the 32 states that purge their rolls and require periodic re-registration, the study showed, 18 had larger than average turnouts in 1982, but 14 were under the average.

That leaves the policy question: is registration before election days really necessary?

The argument for registration is obvious and simple — it gives authorities a good check on voting fraud. It not only permits officials to look into the qualifications of potential voters but also locates them by precinct.

Thus, in theory, unqualified voters never will get on voting rolls and anyone who tries to go from one polling place to another to cast more than one vote will be prevented from doing so.

ocrats hope to court moderate Republicans by painting Jepsen as a puppet manipulated by Reagan. Harkin is ahead.

Tennessee: Sen. Howard Baker's withdrawal left the Republicans in bad shape, and Democratic Rep. Albert Gore should be an easy winner. He has the name — his father was an immensely popular senator — and solid backing by the party hierarchy. State Sen. Victor Ashe is the GOP front-runner, but he'll need big help from Reagan to upset Gore.

Some other states to watch: — Minnesota: Republican incumbent Rudy Boschwitz holds a commanding lead, but his support could erode if native son Walter Mondale heads the Democratic ticket.

West Virginia: Democratic Gov. Jay Rockefeller looks like the next senator, but ex-Gov. Arch Moore would make it a real race if he runs.

Illinois: Republican incumbent Charles Percy should be re-elected. The Democrats' best hope is for conservative Republican Rep. Tom Corcoran to beat Percy in the primary.

Colorado: Republican incumbent William Armstrong's New Right views have stirred up the opposition, but he'll probably win anyhow. Likely challengers: Lt. Gov. Nancy Dick or attorney Carlos Lucero.

Retracing The Steps From Springstead High

It was January of 1977. I was a 5-7 1/2 sophomore guard for the Spring Hill (near Brooksville) Springstead High junior varsity basketball team. We were joined for the second half of the season by a 6-0 eighth grader by the name of Luis Phelps.

While I was at the peak of my basketball playing days, Phelps was just beginning to learn the game that he would later excel at.

Now, seven years later, I'm a 5-8 sports writer and Phelps is a 6-6 center-forward on the Seminole Community College basketball team. My playing days ended in 1977, but 1984 will be a new beginning for Phelps. In seven years, Phelps sprouted up six inches and took the form of a good strong ballplayer. I grew half an inch and am starting to take the form of a lot of other sports writers. Although I have a long ways to go to take the form of most of my counterparts.

One of the best junior college players in the state, Phelps is headed for a major college team where he has a chance to start if he plays up to his potential. Two of the more notable teams that have been recruiting Phelps are the University of Hawaii and Tennessee-Chattanooga.

"I've been pretty satisfied with my performance," Phelps said. "But I still have a long ways to go."

That's what the coaches said about him at Springstead. As far as the physical part of the game went, Phelps had all the tools, but, as far as the mental part of the game went, he indeed had a long ways to go.

Getting him out for the team in his sophomore year in high school was the goal of first-year coach Greg

Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

O'Connell and that was a difficult task.

O'Connell finally convinced Phelps that he could play a year later and, in his senior season at Springstead, he was one of the top big men around. Last season, as a freshman at SCC, Phelps proved he was one of the top Junior College players as he was an All-State selection after averaging 15.7 points and 8.5 rebounds per game. Phelps has been erratic at times this season, but he has also been outstanding. One of his best games of the season came Dec. 16 against Manatee Junior College when he scored 29 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. The assistant coach from Tennessee-Chattanooga was in the stands that night and had to be impressed.

As far as playing major college ball goes, the same holds true for Phelps as when he first started out. He has all the physical tools, but has to keep in the game mentally. Phelps has a tendency to lose his concentration at times and get into foul trouble. Phelps is going to have to keep his intensity, especially in the second half of the season when the Raiders play all of their Mid-Florida Conference games.

"When he concentrates, he can do it," SCC coach Bill Payne said of Phelps. "But, sometimes he's hard to figure out. He can play great one game and come out and not be a factor at all in another."

FISTER ON PHELPS — How good Luis Phelps can get depends on Luis Phelps himself. He would make a good power forward for a major college team and has a chance to start for one next season if he plays like he can. If he keeps his head on straight, he will go far.

PHELPS ON FISTER — He was what we called a "chucker" in high school. That is, when he got the ball, he had one thing in mind — shoot. He shot 30 times in one game, the guys on the bench used to sit there and count how many times he shot.

Yes, but I made a good percentage of those 30 shots, six of them. I just said a good percentage, I didn't say a good and high percentage.

Luis Phelps on his way to a slam.

Rams, Hawks Turn In Solid Soccer Efforts

By Lou Stefano
Herald Sports Writer

Orlando — Both the Lake Howell and Lake Mary High School soccer teams made good use of their idle time over the Christmas break. Both teams played impressively in the Pizza Hut Invitational High School Soccer Tournament.

Pizza Hut Invitational

The tournament ended Saturday with defending state 3A champ Clearwater Central Catholic defeating

Lake Howell, 3-1. In the finals to give them the Marauders the championship. Lake Mary ended the tournament in fine fashion by defeating Edgewater in overtime, 2-1. Elsewhere, defending 4A state kingpin Miami Killian bombed Bishop Moore, 5-2, on the five-goal performance by All-American Mark Barnett.

The tournament did more for the Rams, 7-3, and Silver Hawks, 6-2, than give the players something to do to keep them out of trouble. It was an opportunity for both teams to play against some of the very best teams in the state and see how they match up. Overall, both teams matched up well.

The Silver Hawks had three, 1-0 victories before falling to Clearwater. More impressive was that two of those victories came against state-ranked teams, Boone and Bishop Moore. Add that to the fact that the Hawks went into the tournament minus their top scoring threat, junior Jeff Schlecker, and had another top scorer, Mike Serino, playing half speed due to an injury, and you can gauge just how successful Lake Howell can be this season.

The same goes for the Rams as they also won three games against one defeat. Along the way, Lake Mary defeated state-ranked schools Daytona Beach Seabreeze and Boone. The Rams showing in the tournament gives both teams the momentum both will need as they enter the heart of their schedules.

The Rams played the Eagles on a frigid morning that saw the mercury rest in the 30-degree range. Lake Mary scored first as Andre Sanders, a junior, took a pass from All-Tourney selection Don Kelly and poked in a goal.

Edgewater's Dave Schwartz scored at the 14:00 mark of the second half to tie the score, 1-1. The game ended that way and forced a shootout. Lake Mary's Eric Zimmerman boomed the deciding shot as Lake Mary won the shootout, 4-3. The victory was good for a fifth place trophy.

In the battle for the championship trophy, Clearwater defender Ed Kelly blasted a penalty shot over a Lake Howell wall of defenders with 21:22 left in the first half to give the Marauders a 1-0 lead. The goal was the first scored off Lake Howell goalie Jeff Spraker in the tournament.

That lead stood until the second half when Clearwater's Mike Hernandez, tournament most valuable offensive player, scored past an out of position Spraker.

Three minutes later, Marauder Ken Jewell was credited with the third Marauder goal when Lake Howell defender Paul Palido accidentally kicked the ball into his own goal as Spraker was once again out of position.

"I thought we had a chance to win," said Silver Hawk coach Norman Wight. "But two silly mistakes killed us. The foul outside the penalty area (in the first half) and being out of position defensively."

"But we have a young team and the tournament has given them some good experience," the coach added.

Down 3-0, the Hawks' Serino took over. With 14:32 left in the game, Serino took Mike Osterim's pass and stormed down field to score past Marauder goalie Bill Twaite. It was only the second goal scored against Twaite in twelve previous games this season.

The goal seemed to inspire Lake Howell as it traded defensive strategy and pressed offensively. But each time down the field offensively, Serino would dribble deep and be smothered by the Clearwater defense before another Lake Howell teammate would show up to pass to.

Overall, Wight felt positive about his team's performance. "I feel beautiful," Wight said. "We did very well and they (Clearwater) are a very good team. I would like to play them again when we are healthy."

Seminole county took five of the eleven spots on the All-Tournament team. Lake Howell led the way with three selections: Serino, James Phillips, and Jim Morrissey, all juniors. Lake Mary placed junior scoring ace Don Kelly on the team. And Lake Branley junior Mo Moghaddam also made the team.

Because of the county's strong showing in this year's Pizza Hut Tournament, look for more of the county's schools to be invited to future tournaments.

'Immaculate Deception' Of Raiders Brings Hammer Down On Steelers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Some play for glory. Some play for pride. Some play for the love of the game.

Todd Christensen is playing for diapers.

"I've got a new son," the burly tight end of the Los Angeles Raiders said. "The kid needs shoes. He needs clothes. The $64,000 would come in handy."

Christensen and the Raiders took a big step towards that huge Super Bowl payoff Sunday by hammering the Pittsburgh Steelers, 38-10, in an AFC semifinal playoff game before 90,344 fans, the largest crowd ever to watch an NFL post-season game, excluding Super Bowls.

Christensen played a major role in the rout, catching seven Jim Plunkett passes for 88 yards, to lead all receivers. He executed perfectly a game strategy that was designed to fool the Steelers.

Eleven years ago, Franco Harris and the Steelers beat the Oakland Raiders on the famous "Immaculate Reception" touchdown in the final seconds. Sunday, the Raiders returned the favor.

Call it the "Immaculate Deception."

"We expected them to throw deep and the didn't," said cornerback Mel Blount, one of the last remaining Steelers from that 1972 team. "Instead, they threw short and they ran the ball extremely well. They fooled us."

While Christensen was the key to the short passing attack, Marcus Allen led the rushing game with two touchdowns, one on a dazzling 49-yard run.

NFL Playoffs

The victory moved the Raiders into the AFC championship game next Sunday in Los Angeles against the Seattle Seahawks, who beat the Raiders twice during the regular season, and boosted the AFC West champions' record to 13-4. It was the Steelers' worst playoff loss in their 50-year history. The AFC Central champions finished the season at 10-7.

"It was an emotional time for me," Allen said of his TD run, the longest of his two-year pro career. "It felt good."

It felt good for all of the Raiders, who simply overpowered the Steelers on offense and defense. In addition to Allen's two touchdowns, Los Angeles scored on an 18-yard interception return by Lester Hayes, a 9-yard run by Kenny King, a 2-yard run by Frank Hawkins and a 45-yard field goal by Chris Bahr.

Under tremendous pressure all day, the Steelers produced only a 17-yard field goal by Gary Anderson and a 58-yard TD pass from Cliff Stoudt to John Stallworth that came late in the third quarter after the game was decided. The touchdown was Stallworth's 10th in the playoffs, tying the NFL record set by former Raider Fred Biletnikoff.

Stoudt was sacked five times, three times by Lyle Alzado, in addition to throwing the interception that was returned for a touchdown. He finished with only 10 completions in 20 attempts for 187 yards and was also Pittsburgh's leading rusher with 50 yards on nine carries.

"The Raiders' pressure on third down didn't let us do very much," said Pittsburgh head coach Chuck Noll. "It was as simple as that. He ran over, around and through us."

Noll said his team may have been tired from a week of grueling workouts, but Los Angeles coach Tom Flores had a different opinion.

"I'd like to think we won because we were very good today," said Flores. "Pittsburgh didn't win 10 games by not playing well. Their defense hadn't given up a lot of points and they had been running the ball well. But we overcame that."

The Raiders enjoyed the victory, celebrating as perhaps only the Raiders can. But they also understood that they really haven't won anything yet. And they all want to get their hands on the Seahawks. The word "revenge" was thrown around in the locker room.

"We have about an hour to enjoy this victory, then we have to start thinking about the next game," Flores said. "We're in the championship game, and it's right here. The Seahawks have got to come to us."

Even the normally reserved Plunkett had Seattle on his mind. "We've got something to prove," he said. "Everybody wants to win. We've all got a lot of pride and a lot of intensity."

And, according to Christensen, a lot of bills to pay.

Redskins Destroy Los Angeles, 51-7

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Displaying more fervor than any lobbyist on Capitol Hill, the Washington Redskins staked their claim for NFL greatness at frigid, frenzied RFK Stadium. If you're looking for skeptics, don't bother calling the Los Angeles Rams.

In a breath-taking first-half performance that television commentator and ex-Raider coach John Madden termed "The most thorough domination of a club I have ever seen," the Redskins grabbed a 38-7 advantage en route to a 51-7 triumph, inflicting the worst beating in the 38-year history of the Rams.

With their 10th straight victory and 30th in the last 33 games, the Redskins advanced to the NFC title game at RFK Stadium against the San Francisco 49ers next Sunday. In the last meeting between the clubs, the 49ers won a 30-17 decision in 1981 during their championship season. Since that setback, Washington is 35-6.

"If we play like this again, it's gonna be tough for anyone to beat us," said Redskins' free safety Mark Murphy after Washington forced four turnovers and ran up their highest point total in 35 years.

The Redskins, 15-2, set an NFL record during the regular season by scoring 541 points and they scored on their first five possessions against the Rams, 10-8. John Riggins, who ran for 119 yards, plunged for three first-half touchdowns and Joe Theismann threw for 250 yards by intermission, including a pair of scoring strikes to Art Monk.

All-Pro wide receiver Charlie Brown — who braced the Rams for 140 yards on eight catches in Washington's 42-20 rout six weeks ago — had six receptions for 171 yards Sunday.

"We were mentally ready and excited about today's game, but we got our butts handed to us and we have to be man enough to accept it," said Rams' guard Dennis Harrah, part of a standout offensive line that was manhandled by Washington's defensive front.

NFC Player of the Year Eric Dickerson, the league's rushing champion, ended his sparkling rookie season on a frustrating note. Held to a season-low 37 yards by the Redskins Nov. 20, Dickerson managed just 16 yards on 10 carries in the divisional playoff.

"When that scoreboard went to 44 that felt pretty good," admitted Theismann, who didn't deny he has reached agreement with club owner Jack Kent Cooke to double his present $315,000 salary.

"It still isn't enough," he said with a grin. "We won the championship last year and the 49ers won it the year before ... It should be very interesting Sunday."

Mark Moseley added field goals of 42, 36 and 41 yards and rookie cornerback Darrell Green — tested repeatedly without success by Rams' quarterback Vince Ferragamo — capped the scoring with a 72-yard interception return 50 seconds into the fourth quarter off a pass deflected by Dickerson.

The Rams, who converted just 3-of-14 third down attempts, were limited to Ferragamo's 32-yard touchdown pass to Preston Dennard in the second quarter.

"How good are they?" pondered Los Angeles coach John Robinson. "I don't know, but I've had enough of them. The 49ers have a chance next week, but the Redskins are such a great team and their quarterback I fell is the best player playing football today. They could have beaten us in the parking lot or an ice skating rink."

A crowd of 55,363, the 131st straight RFK sellout, braved temperatures of 36 degrees and dotted the stadium with banners and signs.

The Redskins, who have scored 27 or more points in 15 straight games, averaged 13 yards per pass attempt and forged a 24-0 lead before the Rams even had a pair of first downs.

In raising their playoff record at RFK Stadium, to 6-0, the Redskins outgained the Rams 325-105 in the opening half to once again virtually take Dickerson out of the game.

A 28-yard strike to Brown, set up Riggins, who carried four consecutive times before scoring on a 3-yard run for 7-0 lead at 6:11.

After the Rams punted, Monk got 10 yards behind LeRoy Irvin and snared a 40-yard TD pass at 11:28.

The Rams then paved the way for the Redskins' next score as Anthony Washington stepped in front of Ferragamo's sideline pass intended for Dennard at the Washington 31. Seven plays later, Moseley made it 17-0 on a 42-yard field goal with 49 seconds remaining in the period.

Riggins personally outgained the Rams 88-31 in that opening quarter and Washington continued to pour it on.

Nick Giamonte broke up the middle, veered left and returned a punt 48 yards, with Misko's 5-yard facemask penalty moving the ball to the Rams' 11. Riggins, who scored an NFL-record 24 touchdowns during the regular season, made it 24-0 just 73 seconds into the second quarter by plunging over from a yard out.

Dennard's TD catch did not faze the Redskins. On the first play following the ensuing kickoff, Theismann and Brown connected on a 28-yard gain to the Los Angeles 48. Three plays later, on third-and-11, Brown got open on a slant for another 28-yard catch to the 21. Theismann then faked a pass to the right sideline and found Monk on a post pattern from left to right for a 31-7 lead at 5:26.

Brown forced Irvin to interfere with him on a slant, putting the ball on the 1 to set up Riggins' next score.

Ted Letak, window washer at the Seminole County Courthouse, hangs suspended from his own innovation — a special swinging pipe armature that fits into holes on the building's roof and allows him to swing more freely and do the job faster than with traditional harness. But don't bother to ask to borrow the gizmo — it fits into the courthouse.

Barnett Bank Donation

Swings, Slides, Monkey Bars Slated For McKibbin Park

The City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department will receive a donation from Barnett Bank toward the purchase of playground equipment for a new city park, according to R. Michael Strickland, president of Barnett Bank of Central Florida, which includes Seminole County and Sanford as well as Orange and Brevard counties.

Barnett Bank will donate $10 for every new account opened during January at their permanent facility at 3094 Orlando Drive in Sanford, which was completed approximately one month ago, Strickland said.

With the donation, the City plans to purchase for the new Clifford W. McKibbin, Jr. Memorial Park, W. 25th Street, such equipment as a swing set, four-way climber, small slide and four rodeo ponies, according to Recreation Superintendent Jeff Monson.

"Barnett's Sanford manager Wade Nield approached the City with the idea for donating funds to a deserving area," says Monson, "and it was mutually agreed upon that playground equipment is much needed in McKibbin Park, as it would have taken the City much longer to allocate funds for this area."

Monson adds that McKibbin Park, dedicated this past summer, is conveniently located to several neighborhoods so that many children can have access to a play area.

"We're happy that now the children will have a fully equipped park and safe area in which to play. It was much needed," he said.

Barnett Bank of Central Florida is part of Barnett Banks of Florida, Inc., which has 253 offices serving 128 cities throughout Florida and is the state's largest banking group.

Orbiting Telescope Finds Mysterious Object In Space

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An orbiting telescope has located a mysterious object in space that could be a giant comet, a protostar, a young galaxy or the 10th planet astronomers have searched for in vain.

The Washington Post said the mysterious body, which could be as large as the planet Jupiter and as close to Earth as 50 trillion miles, was located twice this year near the constellation Orion by the orbiting Infrared Astronomical Observatory.

The object defies classification. Astronomers do not know whether to call it a planet, a giant comet, a protostar or a distant galaxy.

Some scientists think it might be a huge gaseous planet. If the object were 50 trillion miles away, it would be the nearest planet to Earth beyond the outermost member of this solar system, Pluto.

James Houck, of Cornell University's Center for Radio Physics and Space Research and a member of the IRAS science team, told the Post, "If it is really that close, it would be part of our solar system."

The orbiting telescope located the body twice when it scanned the northern sky from January to November, the Post said.

The second observation occurred six months after the first, suggesting the body had not moved from its original location.

The telescope aboard IRAS can detect objects in space that are only 20 degrees above absolute zero, which is 456 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

Houck calculated the body's highest temperature is no more than 40 degrees above absolute zero.

He speculated the body could be a distant galaxy, so young its stars do not shine or so covered by dust that its starlight cannot penetrate the thickness.

After the first sighting of the object, there was some speculation it might be moving toward Earth, the Post said.

"It's not incoming mail," said Gerry Neugebauer, IRAS chief scientist for California's Jet Propulsion Laboratory and director of the Palomar Observatory for the California Institute of Technology.

"I want to doubt that idea with as much cold water as I can."

Neugebauer told the Post the 100-inch diameter telescope at Cerro del Tololo in Chile has begun looking for the object and the 200-inch telescope at Palomar Mountain in California will search for it several nights next year.

Average U.S. Income: $16,732

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American made $16,732 in 1982, 6.6 percent more than the year before, and workers in Alaska continued to draw the highest average check while those in South Dakota drew the lowest, the Labor Department says.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said Wednesday the figures are based on the pay of more than 88 million workers in 50 states and the District of Columbia covered by state and federal unemployment insurance, as reported by employers.

New Hampshire workers had the highest rate of increase for the year, with their average pay rising 8.8 percent to $14,616.

Michigan's pay increase was the smallest, only 3.8 percent, even though average pay for the year was far ahead of most states.

According to the report, workers in Alaska had the highest average annual paycheck, $27,904, followed by the District of Columbia, with $22,537. Alaska and Washington held the same top two positions in 1981 as well.

Next in line were Michigan workers with an average of $18,809, followed by New York with $18,530, and Wyoming with $17,990 — all above the national average.

The lowest pay for 1982 was received by workers in South Dakota, who averaged only $12,702. They were followed by Mississippi with $13,429 and Maine with $13,466.

The bureau said average pay varied widely by industry, with workers in the mining and oil and gas extraction industries earning the highest pay at $27,626.

Not surprisingly, the industry average was only a little under the average of the Alaska workers — many of whom work in the high-pay industries.

Not included in the figures were most agricultural workers on small farms, members of the armed forces, elected officials, railroad workers, most domestic workers and the employees of some small non-profit organizations.

Genetic Engineering Detects Cancer Early

BOSTON (UPI) — Leukemia and lymphnode cancer can now be detected and identified early using genetic engineering and the technique offers vast potential for improving the treatment of most cancers, government scientists say.

"In the past we've been limited to looking at the surface of the [cancer] cells. Now we can look directly at its DNA before the effects are even expressed," Dr. Ajay Bakshi, a National Cancer Institute researcher said.

"This new technique makes it much easier to rationally plan therapy and detect recurrences early," said Bakshi.

Cells rearrange their genes during the formation of cancer. The new technique, reported by NCI researchers in the New England Journal of Medicine, search blood and other tissue for the cancerous gene sequences.

The technique is sensitive enough to detect cancer when only 5 percent of the cells being tested are cancerous, he said.

Although it is still experimental, Bakshi said he does not think it will be long before it becomes widely available in medical centers nationwide.

Bakshi said the technique has identified cancers in some cases where cancer experts have been unable to identify the growth by looking at it through a microscope.

It has also been used to detect the recurrence of cancer in patients long before there were any physical signs, he said.

Currently the technique is only being used to detect leukemias (a blood cancer) and lymphomas (cancers of the lymph glands), but Bakshi said many cancers have specific gene sequences that can be detected and eventually the sequences will be determined so that most cancers can be identified.

Fertility Drugs At 50+ Not Advisable

DEAR DR. LAMB - I understand that fertility drugs are frequently prescribed for women who have difficulty having babies. I read that many women who take these wind up with twins or triplets. Are the drugs the same as the hormone pills that are taken during menopause?

DEAR READER - No, the fertility pills are not the same as the hormones used for women after menopause, which are estrogens or combinations of estrogens with progesterone. The fertility pills stimulate the ovaries to release ova. If only one ovum is released, a one-child pregnancy results. Sometimes they cause two or more ova to be released at the same time resulting in multiple births.

This makes it difficult for a woman to know when she has stopped ovulating. The oldest reliable record of a woman giving birth to a child is at 57. It is hard to know what effect stimulating the ovaries with the fertility pill on a woman in this age group would really have. It might not be wise because it may stimulate the release of ova that are not entirely healthy and it could increase the risk of having a child with a birth defect.

In any case, you will be interested in reading more about normal ovulation, discussed in The Health Letter 17-2, Female Reproductive Functions.

DEAR DR. LAMB - As a child and as a young woman my friends and I shelled and boiled apricot seeds. Then we dried and roasted them and used them as a substitute for almonds.

Later we were told that apricot seeds were poisonous, even cancerous, so we quit. What is the truth?

DEAR READER - There is no evidence that apricot seeds cause cancer. In fact, Laetrile was extracted from apricot pits supposedly to cure cancer. But the results from studies done under controlled conditions by reputable scientists failed to demonstrate any curative powers from Laetrile.

However, apricot pits may contain cyanide and there have been reports of deaths from apricot pits on that basis. I would consider the practice you describe as dangerous and would advise anyone to stop using apricot pits in any manner. This is a good example of how natural substances can be dangerous. Just because a substance is natural does not mean it is safe.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JANUARY 3, 1984
There is a chance your objectives will appear a bit too grand to associate this coming year, yet you'll know what you want and how to get it.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An important project can be moved a few notches forward today because you're not likely to wait on others for things which you can handle yourself.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be a bit more introverted than usual today because you won't feel as comfortable around people as you usually do.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Rather than build yourself up for a possible letdown, temper your dreams with realism today.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll thrive on competitive developments today.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your greatest asset today is your ability to trim away frills and get to the heart of the matter.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to get old obligations out of the way today.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) You can sidestep opposition today if you make an effort to see and understand others' viewpoints.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unless you spend your time constructively today you are likely to feel guilty later.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The edge will be taken off your fun today if you start wishing to be elsewhere with other people instead of fully enjoying your companions.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try to devote as much time as possible today to finishing projects with loose ends before starting anything new.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have the ability to recognize a good idea if you hear it today.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sometimes you can be a rather indifferent spender, but you are not apt to be tagged with this label today.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your greatest asset today is your ability to

WIN AT BRIDGE

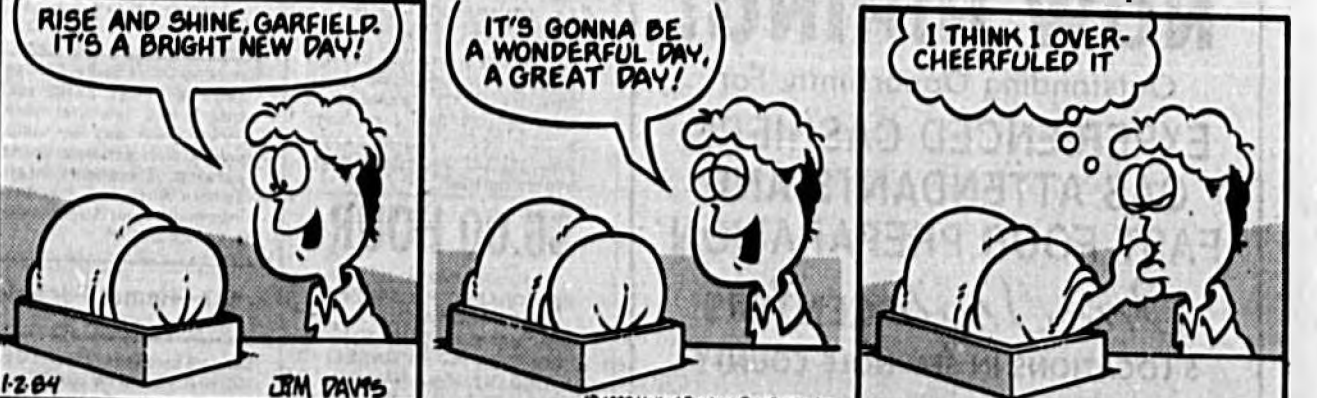

Table with bridge bidding information including North, West, East, South, and vulnerable/dealer status.

Jim: "The bidding was not elegant, but the final six no-trump contract was sound indeed. All I had to do to make it was to develop a simple squeeze against West."
Oswald: "The squeeze depended on West's honesty. He had opened the bidding and he needed both major suit kings for his opening bid."
Jim: "I had a trifle more going for me than that. His ace of clubs lead was obviously an effort to avoid being thrown in with it later. Anyway, I dropped my king under it and he continued the suit."
Oswald: "I still remember how fast you played. You took both the queen and jack of clubs while discarding your six of hearts."
Jim: "Then I cashed my ace of hearts and ran off all my diamonds. My last two cards were the Q-3 of spades. West's last three were the king of hearts and K-J of spades. He had to discard before dummy, and since he couldn't chuck the heart king, he had to unguard the spade king. The ace and queen of spades were my last two tricks."

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby
Oswald: "Let's start the new year with some no-trump alarms."
Jim: "Here's one that goes back to when I was just getting started - the National Board-a-Match Team of Four, which we won with George Heath, Paul Hodge and Benny Pain."
Oswald: "I was the oldest member of the team, and you were by far the youngest."
