OVIEDO — Coach Paul Mikler is announcing that the Oviedo High School annual Recreation Program began this morning and will continue through July 27.

Registration began at 9 a.m. this morning at the Municipal pool. Any child from the age of 6 through high school age is eligible to participate in this program. It is planned for any child being in the Oviedo school district which includes Chuluota, Slavia, Wagner and Goldenrod. Children who were unable to register this morning may do so anytime during the program.

Coach Mikler will direct the six-week program, assisted by Johnny Jones, a University of Florida student; Miss Nancy Myers, a Florida Southern College student; and Miss Kay Estes, a senior in the Oviedo High School.

Swimming is scheduled for Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in the morning, Tuesday and Thursday mornings are scheduled for the school playground.

An effort will be made to start a Little League age baseball league if enough boys report for the afternoon program.

Damage Is Seen At 2-Car Accident

An accident this morning on First Street, only 40 feet east of Park Avenue, resulted in minor damage to two automobiles.

Edna Kinsey, 54, of Rt. 1, Box 125, Sanford, driving a 1948 Pontiac, stopped in the line of traffic for a traffic light when a 61-year-old Negro taxi driver, Mary Lester Gramblin of 713 Cypress Ave., driving a 1954 Chevrolet, edged on First Street, dropped her glasses and when she bent down to pick them up slammed into the Pontiac.

Damages, estimated by Sanford police Department patrolmen, were estimated at $30 to the Pontiac and $70 to the Ford taxi.

Damage to the 1947 Oldsmobile, driven by Bouchard, was estimated at $400 and damage to the Van Winkle car was estimated at $300.

Patrolmen Leo Rock and Ben Butler investigated the accident.

'Shane' Is Selling In Middle East

NEW YORK — Don't be surprised, if you're ever wandering through a dusty bookstore in Persia or Egypt, to find the weather-beaten mug of a twofisted cowboy staring back at you from a book cover.

The face on the cover belongs to a hombra called "Shane," the hero of one of America's finest Wild West stories. The book, which has been translated so far into Persian and Arabic, is selling like hotcakes throughout the Middle East.

This Western saga is one of about 300 American titles—ranging from popular science to poetry—that have been printed and distributed in six Middle Eastern and Asian tongues in the last three years.

The project is being carried out by Franklin Publications, Inc., a non-profit organization, American scholars, publishers and leaders throughout the Arab and Asian world.

They include the Shah of Iran, Premier Nasser of Egypt, three other prime ministers, seven ministers of education, generals, ambassadors and authors.

One of the aims of the program is to feed the hunger of those yearning to find out about America and the world. This is being done through the living words of our finest writers.

At the same time countries with a low literacy rate but a mounting desire to learn are getting books ranging from "Geography can be Fun" to "The Universe and Dr. Einstein."

In fact one of the biggest hits in Iran is Benjamin Spock's "Baby and Child Care," translated into Persian by Princess Ashraf Pahlavi, sister of the shah.

The program, which began in 1953, was first tried out in the Middle East. A traveler, who had gone to Damascus, reported that a school there had only one ragged volume on elementary science. To make matters worse the book was written in English.

According to the traveler the teacher would hold up the book so the children could see the pictures while he explained the text in Arabic.

This and similar reports showed the need for books was great in the Arab countries. Cairo, the center of Arabic publishing and culture, was then picked for a pilot project. The Franklin firm promised to supply the book but said the final choice would be up to the Egyptians.

At first the Egyptians had a hard time deciding just what books to pick. Although learned in Arab classics and European literature, their knowledge of American books was scanty.

Franklin officials met this problem by having the Arab experts name the subjects they felt were most important to their country. In turn American scholars submitted a list of titles. The copies were then sent to the Egyptians who chose the books best suited to their needs and tastes.

Now, three years later, Franklin has offices in West and East Pakistan, Indonesia, Iran and Egypt. Besides the 300 American titles translated and published, another 350 volumes already are planned. Most of the books sell for around 25 cents, a price within the range of the public pocketbook in Arab countries. For example, the Arabic edition of Charles A. Lindbergh's "The Spirit of St. Louis" cost 23 cents. The English original sold for $5, and $7 when imported to Cairo.

Foreign book publishers are giving a real interest in the success of the venture through their own financial stake in the project.

Explaining the popularity of some American works with a Christian background in Islamic countries, Smith mentions the Arabic edition of Edward R. Murrow's "This I Believe."

Quick Facts about HOUSEPOWER

The average home today uses about three times as much electricity as it did 15 years ago. Many more kinds of electrical appliances are now in daily use and need more HOUSEPOWER. What's more, today's appliances work faster and better—and so use more power than earlier models. The electric utility companies have more than kept up with this increased demand and can supply your home with all the power you need. But four out of five homes are not wired to handle increased appliance and equipment loads. They suffer from low HOUSEPOWER.

These conditions cause low HOUSEPOWER:

1. Inadequate "service entrance." Inadequate service entrance capacity is the basic barrier to full HOUSEPOWER. To meet today's demand for electricity, you should have service entrance capacity of at least 100 amperes. This requires 3-wire service from the street. Also sufficient fuses or circuit-breakers to accommodate all the necessary branch circuits.
2. Inadequate branch circuits. Using too many fuses and appliances on the same circuit overloads it, and none of them get enough power. They work inefficiently. Motors may even burn out—making costly repairs necessary. If the overload is too great, the circuit's fuse will blow, or the circuit-breaker will trip. You should, therefore, have enough circuits to distribute electricity to all your appliances without any one circuit having to accommodate too many of them. Some appliances like ranges and clothes dryers need special circuits just for themselves.
3. Insufficient outlets. Some home owners try to avoid this situation by using extension cords and "Octopus" outlets (2- and 3-way plugs), or by plugging into lighting outlets. Such practices are unsightly and inconvenient and may be dangerous. Rearranging furniture to suit the location of outlets is, of course, no solution either. The only safe solution is to add more circuits and outlets.

These are the symptoms of low HOUSEPOWER:

- 1) Lights dimming when appliances are turned on
- 2) blown fuses or tripped circuit-breakers.
- 3) TV picture shrinking when other appliances are turned on.
- 4) appliances working inefficiently.
- 5) irons, toasters, other heating appliances taking too long to heat up.

"If any of these symptoms are present in your home, you need a wiring check-up! Call your electric company or electrician. In most cases, you can get a wiring check-up without obligation. Adding the wiring necessary to give your home full HOUSEPOWER can often be done in a day; it not only makes your home safer, but increases the value of your home, and equips it for appliances you may plan to buy in the next few years."

Truman Teaches British Salesman How To Sell Tie

LONDON (AP)—Harry S. Truman, a former haberdasher, taught a striped-pants British clothing salesman today how to sell ties.

"Look, friend," said Truman, "Here's the way you do it." William Lewis, clerk in a men's clothing store near Truman's hotel, started with his mouth open when he recognized the customer across his counter as the former President.

"You twist it over the fingers of this hand with the fingers of this hand," explained Truman, picking up some neckwear. "See, now you're showing a tie just like it looks on a man's neck. You can sell more of them this way."

Truman had stepped in to buy a white bow tie for some of the full dress dinners he will attend during his 10-day stay in Britain. He declined the salesman's offer to deliver the tie.

"You'll go broke delivering," said Truman. "Anyhow, it's light and I'm not going far."

Truman ran a men's clothing store in Kansas City with a wartime buddy, Eddie Jacobson. It failed in the early 1920's but every creditor was paid off.

SCIENTISTS are making arrangements for an all-summer study of the planet Mars which, on September 7, will be closer to the earth than it has been since 1924. The "black-light" mural (top), prepared by the American Museum-Hayden Planetarium, New York, shows Mars with its polar "cap" and the faint geometric markings sometimes called canals. Very close approaches occur only when Mars' opposition coincides with its perihelion (P), the point in its elliptical orbit at which it is closest to the sun. When opposition coincides with Mars' aphelion (A), the point at which it is farthest from the sun, the planet's opposition distance from the earth is also the greatest.

U. S. Post Office Dept. Is Improving

The Post Office Department has already installed many of the Hoover Commission's... (The Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government) recommendations to improve postal efficiency. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced today.

Action has been taken in the fields of Budgets and Accounting, Paper Work Management, Legal Services and Procedures, Business Enterprises, Surplus Property and Personnel and Civil Services.

The Post Office Department's latest report on Hoover Commission recommendations tabulated a total of 53 recommendations applying directly to the Postal Service. Of these, the Department agreed with 46, or more than 85 per cent. Action has been taken already on 37 with implementation of six more of the recommendations planned for the near future. The balance requires no additional action on the part of the Post Office Department.

The Postmaster General outlined some of the action taken as follows:

1. The Department's budget is now based on functions, activities and projects supported by information on program costs and accomplishments, which coincide with major organization units.
2. The Department has sponsored a simpler and less expensive method for determining the postage cost of individual government agencies which will save the agencies approximately $3 million annually. This has been enacted into law.
3. The Post Office Department has set up a complete program for the protection of vital records, coordinating the program with the Office of Defense Mobilization.
4. A survey has been made to eliminate or reduce non-essential reports within the Department and to other agencies. In 1954 a Records Management Program was started, whereby studies are continuously made to reform the Department's records procedures

A BUNCH of raw recruits lined up regally at the rifle range, and listened impassively to a tough old sergeant until he barked, "Now, men, when I blow this whistle, I want you to start firing at will."

At this, one rookie broke ranks and ran for the woods. The startled top kick stammered, "What? Where? Who the blank-blank is that?"

"That's Will," a sad sack explained.

FORD sets 500-mile record at Indianapolis Speedway

Again proves nobody outperforms Ford

... dramatic demonstration of the kind of performance and roadability that makes all your driving more fun in a Ford!

A Ford V-8 hurtled across the brick and asphalt surface of tough and testing Indianapolis Speedway... whirling through the tight turns and flashing over the straight stretches... to set a mark that no stock car ever reached before!

Previous to Ford's record run, no other stock car had gone over one lap at Indianapolis at 100 m.p.h., but one of Ford's laps was timed at the electrifying speed of 113.7 m.p.h. And Ford averaged 107.136 m.p.h. for the full five hundred miles... close to the average set by the extremely costly, specially-built racer which won the Memorial Day '500!

Ford fully realizes that the writer of claims and counter claims about "racing victories" (many of them completely contradictory) must be confusing and disillusioning to the public. Ford ran this race against time, over the true "Classic" distance and at the most famous track in America, in order to dispel this cloud of doubt and disbelief and prove that no one outperforms Ford!

Pete de Paolo, leader of the team of drivers that piloted the winning Ford, states flatly: "No other stock car could have equalled this performance!" And Pete de Paolo should know, for he was the first driver to win the "500" Classic with a better than 100 m.p.h. average. And now he comes back with a group of drivers to establish a stock car record with the great '56 Ford!

Yet, this was no mere race against the stop watch. Ford's alert responsiveness and sheer roadability proved more than a match for the treacherous turns... taking them smoothly and giving the great Ford V-8 a chance to use its blazing acceleration in the straightaways.

Ford wrote this new mark large and bold in the record books. And the whole Ford did the trick. From the head-full of thrilling horsepower to the road-hugging rear end, Ford demonstrated that it has what it takes to make your driving more enjoyable. Convince yourself that driving a Ford can be real fun. Test drive a '56 Ford. There's a set of boys waiting for you, so come in and see us soon.

Big Crowd In Sanford Friday Proves 'It Pays To Advertise'

We think that it's time to crow a little bit. Last Friday, the crowds that were downtown shopping and taking advantage of values offered in a two-page advertisement which appeared in The Sanford Herald, were described as "greater than any since the 1935 Christmas Parade."

One of Sanford's popular department stores was packed to the front door from the opening hour throughout the day and there's no doubt that the hundreds of automobiles parked on First Street and all of the streets thereabouts, including the popular Municipal Parking Lot, brought throngs to their way through Sanford's many stores and shopping spots.

Yes, we believe that advertising brought thousands of people downtown last Friday.

A look into the store that was featured in the two-page advertisement revealed many customers with dresses over their arms, selected from the displays; shirts, trousers, and other bargains chosen from the stacks of merchandise on display swooped up as shoppers milled about taking advantage of the money-saving opportunity.

The importance of advertising is brought out in the fact that when something of real value is to be offered—folks must know about it in order to know where and when to shop.

4-H Work Important

The importance of 4-H youth work as "thoroughly American" in organization and activities on county, state and national levels was stressed last week at Florida State University during the 41st annual Florida 4-H State Short Course.

Individual initiative and the American way of life were urged by those who spoke vigorously of the organization's work.

There were two representatives from the county organization from Seminole County attending the five-day event.

It is from such organizations as the 4-H that we get the leadership to maintain America's freedom and courage.

Don't Give Farmer Short Count

BY SAN DAWSON
DON MOORE, 40 — Don't give the farmer a short count. He may be bruised but he isn't knocked out.

But you can't whack 15 per cent out of the farmer's one-time income without him, and the rest of the Midwest hanging in spite of the diversification since the end of the war.

"The good farm operator isn't crying and he isn't crying," says a county banker in daily touch with the farmers. "In the big years after the war he took his grain—and he took care of it. The poor operators got the grain too, but none of them didn't take care of it. Now the marginal farmers are crying hard."

"This judgment isn't right and slumping farm prices have hit hard and hard. And although many a farmer is buying, it's chiefly the marginal one."

The farmer is still the big wheel in the economy of Iowa and the Midwest, even if the wheel has a smaller diameter than it used to. Since 1929, the dollar volume of Iowa's manufacturing output has topped that of agriculture—and that span takes in good years and bad.

But when the farmer's income drops, trade flows to it. The effects can be illustrated by store sales. Some City's purchasing are done largely from farm income. Don Moore, on the other hand, has other income — manufacturing plants, insurance companies' profits. Over-all, in Youkers' about it in order to know where and when to shop.

The huge crowds in Sanford last Friday makes us sort of "stick our chests out" and brag.

There's an old adage we fall back on — one that must be very true — "it pays to advertise."

Salk Polio Vaccine

One particular item in the latest report from the Florida State Board of Health came to our attention.

There was only one case of polio in Seminole County reported in the entire 1955 twelve-month period.

That prompts us to bring out some of the standard facts about the Salk Polio Vaccine.

First is the fact that the vaccine is safe. The vaccine's effectiveness surpasses early hopes for it. In 1955 it cut paralytic polio by about four-fifths among the children who received one or more injections. In 1956 it is expected to do even better.

Leading medical authorities in the United States are unanimous in endorsing vaccination polio. They hope that immunization beginning in the second six months of life will become routine and standard prophylactic practice in pediatrics.

Vaccination is more important in some age brackets than in others because polio hits hardest in these brackets. It is most important for children from five to nine years old, and almost as important for all others between one and fifteen. It is twice as important for pregnant women as for other women of the same age.

The sooner everyone is vaccinated in conformity with priorities that have been set up, the greater will be this year's progress toward final conquest of polio.

Parents can speed the progress of immunization by keeping themselves informed, being patient, complying with procedures of the local health authorities, and above all — acting as soon as possible for the protection of their children.

Practical Gift

Most commencement speakers, as in being proved throughout the land these June days, give their young listeners reasonably sound advice on the world they are coming to grips with.

Generally the remarks are optimistic. Some of them are worth hearing. Now and then, a speaker even offers something of practical value. Of this select group, our favorite so far this season is a Florida man, Louis E. Wolfson, a financier.

Wolfson, who recently achieved some fame by almost winning control of a big mail order firm, addressed the University of Georgia's class of 1956. What he said was doubtless sound as a dollar. But it's what he did that intrigues me. He gave each of the one thousand graduates one share of common stock in a Georgia Corporation.

What could have been more practical than that?

Irregular Teeth

(This article is published as a public service by The Sanford Herald in cooperation with the Seminole County Dental Society.)

Children who are not endowed with properly spaced teeth and well shaped jaws can be helped by modern dentistry. Irregular teeth and poorly shaped jaws are unsightly and do not function properly, but these defects may be overcome.

Most cases of malformation of the jaws can be corrected successfully by a dentist who specializes in that field. He is known as an orthodontist. Most cases of irregular teeth can best be straightened between the ages of 7 and 16, the most favorable age depending on the nature of the case, but it is possible to straighten the teeth of persons over 18.

If a child breaks a permanent front tooth, the dentist should be consulted at once. He can protect the broken edge of the tooth if such protection is needed. If the needed protection is not given, the pulp, or nerve, may die necessitating long and expensive treatment to preserve it.

X-ray pictures are among the most valuable aids in dentistry, both for children and adults. Patients should have x-ray pictures made of the mouth at frequent and regular intervals, as their dentists advise, in order to detect dental disorders.

X-ray films are particularly valuable in preventive dentistry. They reveal the beginning of decay in first teeth and enable the dentist to correct the condition before the teeth are seriously damaged. They also are used to determine whether the permanent teeth are in normal position beneath the first teeth and to examine the teeth before corrective appliances are placed on them.

Small hidden cavities not otherwise visible may be detected through x-ray pictures and filled. This would eliminate the need for more extensive operations later.

X-ray films also are valuable in locating tartar or calcareous deposits, in detecting the beginning of pyorrhea, and in disclosing the extent of pyorrhea pockets. They reveal the presence of impacted teeth, malformed tooth roots, cysts and other foreign bodies that may be present in the jaws. They are essential to the treatment of fractured jaws.

Eye Specialist Says Wrap-Around Windshield Hazard

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
CHICAGO (AP)—An eye specialist has assailed wrap-around windshields in autos as a visual "hazard of the first magnitude."

"All basic optical principles have been completely ignored" in this windshield design, said Dr. Dupont Guerry, ophthalmologist of the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, Va.

He said they could cause driver fatigue that might indirectly result in accidents, and called them "the most blatant example" of "allowing style and so-called beauty of design to supersede safety and function."

Dr. Guerry said the windows distort vision from a prismatic effect, increase glare by the way light is focused, and create double vision and ghost images. Chrome trimmings exaggerate the problem, he said.

He was one of 11 physicians discussing medical aspects of highway accidents and means to reduce deaths and injuries, at the close of the American Medical Assn's 105th annual meeting.

Highway accidents are a medical problem because they kill some 35,000 persons a year and injure another 1 1/2 millions, the physicians said.

Highlights of their suggestions of methods to reduce the toll:

A committee of eye experts should evolve uniform eye tests for drivers' licenses, because the various state tests now are "a hodgepodge." This committee could consult auto makers on visibility designs. The auto makers "are at last becoming safety conscious" — Dr. Guerry.

EXPLOSIVE PAIR
EAST LANSING, Mich., (AP) — Michigan State's explosive half-back combination of Clarence Peabks and Walt Kowalczyk averaged nearly six yards per carry each during the 1956 football season. Both are back for the 1956 campaign.

Auto makers, police, safety organizations and others deserve credit for safety measures that have drastically reduced the death rate per millions of miles driven since 1928. Speed and drunken driving are main factors in deaths and injuries said Dr. Fletcher D. Woodward, Charlottesville, Va.

Safety belts and body harnesses could help prevent injuries and save lives. More study is needed to learn why some people have more than their share of accidents. Needed too is better training of young drivers.

Seat belts look convincing for increased safety, but more studies are needed to complete factuality. Nations from behind, Dr. Woodward said.

People eventually should be willing to agree to periodic medical check-up to keep their drivers' licenses — Dr. Seward Miller, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

Autos should be designed around the human driver, "with instruments and controls considered as extensions of his nervous system and body appendages," rather than sitting him in it "without due regard for his requirements and capabilities," said Dr. Ross McFarland, Harvard School of Public Health, Boston.

Any controls unnecessarily hard to reach and operate, instruments difficult to read, seats inducing poor posture, or any unnecessary obstruction to vision may contribute to accidents, or increase fatigue, Dr. McFarland said.

But human error is very important, he said, for a "man drives as he lives." More study is needed to learn why some people have more than their share of accidents. Needed too is better training of young drivers.

Seat belts look convincing for increased safety, but more studies are needed to complete factuality. Nations from behind, Dr. Woodward said.

Patricia Collins, E. Estridge Are United In Marriage June 16

In a lovely candlelight ceremony Miss Patricia Inez Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Leroy Collins and Irvin Eugene Estridge III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Eugene Estridge II were united in holy matrimony Saturday, June 16, at 5 p. m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Angus G. McInnis. The couple exchanged wedding bands fashioned from the gold wedding band 40 years old belonging to the groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Dobbins. The vows were exchanged against a background of pure white accented by fern and palms. Six candelabras were banked against the greenery accented by two white urns containing white arrangements flanking the altar. Each candelabra held a burning white taper. At the entrance of the church was a creation of white gladioli and chrysanthemums while the family pews were marked with arrangements of white and green.

Mrs. George Touhy was organist for the event playing the traditional wedding music and marches while Miss Caroline McInnis was soloist. During the wedding she rendered "The Lord's Prayer," "I Love Thee" and other appropriate selections.

The Bride
The former Miss Collins, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in the traditional white wedding dress of Rosepoint chantilly lace over gleaming satin. The skirt swept to a magnificent fullness and showed a fitted waistline. The bride's blond beauty was enhanced by a scalloped and embroidered Queen Anne's collar and long sleeves coming to points at her wrists, accented by covered buttons. Her hair was of coronet shape and displayed a scallop of tiny delicate seed pearls and sequins. A silk illusion finger tip veil cascaded to her waist. She carried an old fashion nosegay of rose buds, baby's breath and greenery accented by tiny silver butterflies on the petals. White satin streamers, breath from the lace-covered stems of the flowers. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a tiny gold cross and chain given by her paternal grandmother.

Wedding Party
Maid of honor, Miss Junie Snider, Miami and Stetson classmates of the bride wore a dress of dusty rose crystalite over tulle. Of waist length the creation featured harmonizing lace dramatizing a figure curving torso and a "v" neckline. The skirt stretched into a sweeping fullness. On her head she wore a bandeau of crystalite matching the dress accented on one side by a tiny bunch of flowers. Around her neck she wore a single strand of pearls. Her nosegay consisted of sweetheart roses and baby's breath along with chrysanthemums and harmonizing ribbons.

Miss Joni Saunders and Miss Ellen Lyon, bridesmaids, wore gowns similar to that of the maid of honor of pale pink. They also carried the nosegays of sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Edward McCall acted as best man while groomsmen were Jimmy Kider and Robert Sauls. Ushers were Al Collins, brother of the bride and William Jennings. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Collins chose an embroidered cotton sate dress of pink with a matching hat. She had white accessories and on her left shoulder pinned a corsage of white asters.

Mrs. Estridge wore a blue linen dress with a matching hat and also had white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The Reception
A reception was held immediately after the rites in the Woman's Club.

A green and white theme was used in the decorations throughout the room. The punch table was overlaid with an imported lace cloth and held silver appointments. Two gleaming silver epergnes were used on each end of the table and held arrangements of sweetheart roses along with burning white tapers. The large punch bowl, centering the table, was accented by a nosegay of white roses and baby's breath. Nuts and mints were served from silver dishes.

The bride's table was overlaid with a satin and lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a wedding bell. Nosegays of sweetheart roses and baby's breath tied with satin ribbons were pinned, loop fashion, around the cloth. Three branch candelabras holding burning tapers were also used while the cake was surrounded by a pastel pink ruff.

Mrs. Roy Mann led the guests to the receiving line which stood in front of the large mantel banked with magnolia blossoms and leaves and centered with a creation of gladioli and magnolias. Miss Martha Owen kept the bride's book which was placed on a table overlaid with a lovely cut work cloth. On one side was a silver epergne holding five arrangements of white gardenias and greenery along with burning candles.

Mrs. E. S. McCall, Mrs. George Harden, Mrs. Grady Herman, Mrs. Roy Mann and Mrs. Fred Ball were in charge of the reception while floating hostesses were Miss Nancy Rountree, Miss Peggy Wright, Miss Patty Walker, Miss Grace Marie Stinescoper, Miss Shirley DeBuck, Tampa; Miss Neva Steley, Eustis, and sorority mother and Miss Paulette Cason. Mrs. E. B. Peterson, Jacksonville cut the cake assisted by Mrs. S. O. Shinholar Jr. while Mrs. A. E. Shinholar poured the punch assisted by Mrs. L. L. Peterson, Jacksonville.

Wedding Trip
For a wedding trip to southern Florida the new Mrs. Estridge wore a Chinese printed sheath dress topped with linen duster lined with matching dress material. Her accessories were champagne and she wore a white flowered corsage.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Collins, Mr. H. T. Collins, Steve Collins, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Peterson, Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Mrs. Ashdown commented "the bridesmaid and best man at our wedding were supposed to come down for the celebration but were unable to attend."

Those attending were the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ashdown and son, Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bryant, Tampa; Mrs. F. W. Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ross, Jacob De Brine, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Clichequennel and son, Brian.

Miss Edna Mae Jenkins, niece of Mrs. J. P. La Roche was wed to Milton Ray Hannar, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hannar Friday at 8 p. m. in the Central Baptist Church with the Rev. J. W. Parham officiating.

Just the families and close friends were invited to the simple ceremony at which the bride wore an embossed cotton street length dress. It featured a full gathered skirt and a portrait neckline. She wore a fingertip veil which fell from a simple headpiece and carried a white Bible topped with white flowers. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

A reception was held after the rites at the home of Mrs. O. P. Wade. White gladioli along with roses decorated the rooms throughout the home.

The traditional three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was served by Miss Hilda and Miss Brenda Ergle of Ft. Pierce.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Elder Springs. The bride attended school in Sanford and is a member of the Central Baptist Church. The groom was born in Alabama and attended school here. He is employed by the Flamingo Water Company.

Summer School Is Underway At FSU

TALLAHASSEE, — More than 3,000 students are expected for summer school at Florida State University.

The campus' newest building, the $2,100,000 library, is open for the first time and students registered in the comfort of its air conditioning.

Many of the number, according to Charles H. Walker, the registrar, already have registered and paid their fees.

Those with registration details yet to be completed take their 1946 registration cards to the front entrance of the new FSU library at the time indicated on the card, he said, while those who have no registration material should inquire at 102-A Westcott for further information.

The summer student body is expected to be largest in the history of the university, he said.

A FINE THING!
CADIE, Ohio, (AP) — A mistake that Donald Johnson and Albert Everett fine of $200 and costs each. Police said the two stole five gallons of fuel for their car from a coal company. As they left, the car stalled and they were arrested.

The mistake: They stole diesel oil instead of gasoline.

STEAM LOCOMOTIVES SCARCE
KEARNEY, Neb., (AP) — There appears to be a brisk demand for used railroad locomotives, the Kearney city council learned.

The council asked the Union Pacific Railroad for a retired engine to be placed in one of the city parks. The railroad replied that because of previous demands from other cities, the supply of old engines is exhausted.

Ocean House Will Soon Be No More

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ocean House will soon be no more. Thus will be the most notable reminder of Hollywood's splendorous era.

That was the roaring 20s, when the booming film industry made millionaires out of movie stars.

That was when you could live like a millionaire, too, as did Marion Davies. She poured $3,250,000 into a beach home that has been called the Versailles of Hollywood, after the lavish palace of French kings.

Now the huge manor is to be torn down. It will be replaced by a more up-to-date feature of American culture: a motel.

What a place it was! Fifty-five bathrooms and 37 fireplaces. Entire rooms from famous English mansions. A 110-foot swimming pool lined with Italian marble.

These were the surroundings in which the blonde actress entertained the movie greats and visiting royalty. The place consisted of five colonial houses nestled between the Santa Monica palisades and the Pacific sands. The present owner, Joseph Drown, plans to tear down the main house and two others to make room for a drive-in hotel.

The other two buildings and the pool will remain as a beach club.

Recently I paid a last visit to the Davies mansion. It was a grey day, and no one was around the huge swimming pool, which operates as part of the Sand and Sea Club nowadays. Manager Thomas Huber said this will be the third summer that Ocean House has been closed.

On the main floor I found one ornate room after another. The dining room, reception room and drawing room came from Burton Hall, County Clare, Ireland, and all of them are 60 feet long.

The gold room is the most dazzling. Antique mirrors line the walls and the columns and ceilings are still bright with the gold leaf that took New York craftsmen six months to apply. But some of the ceiling paint has cracked from leaks. Also on the main floor is a labyrinth of kitchens and pantries, each room as big as the average tract house.

The feature of the upstairs is the Marion Davies suite. The marble mantle, carved with wine-drinking cherubs, was from a 1760 Georgian mansion at Sutton, Surrey. The mural wallpaper cost $7,500. The suite has twin bathrooms of colored marble.
