County Poised To Set 1985-86 Priorities

By Donna Esten
Herald Staff Writer

County staff directors are gearing up to begin the budget process for 1985-86 but first the county commission must approve a list of county-wide priorities for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

County Administrator Ken Hooper at a commission workshop session at 2 p.m. Tuesday will ask the board to review priorities listed by department directors and then make their choices.

The staff is listing priorities ranging from acquiring Sanlando Utilities water and sewer plants to completing studies on the proposed Seminole County Expressway, slated to connect to the Orange County expressway near Dean Road in southeast Seminole County.

In the meantime, all department directors have been asked to submit their budget needs for '85-'86 by April 30.

Recommendations of priorities by department directors are:

- Transportation — adoption of a five-year work program, multi-year budget, complete fuel tax projects including Maitland Avenue, Red Bug Road, extension of Lake Mary Boulevard, intersection-signal improvements on the county road system from the 4 cents-per-gallon gas tax, complete environmental impact, financial and traffic projections for the proposed Seminole County Expressway.
- Water and sewer expansion —

Greenwood Lakes water and sewer expansion; county participation in the 16 million gallon daily expansion of Orlando's Iron Bridge Sewer Plant; expansion of the county's Consumers' water and sewer plant and to implement plan to spray effluent on the Deer Run golf course; expansion of the Lynwood water plant and the Lake Hayes water system; interconnections of county water systems including Hanover Woods, Heathrow, Greenwood Country Club, Lake Hayes and Consumers; acquire Central V. Sanlando and Lake Monroe Utilities water and sewer plants.

- County administration functions — update all department operating manuals, initiate computerization of purchasing procedures, begin one-step building permitting, review development review committee procedures, construction management of road improvements, new buildings and utility expansion, multi-year budgeting, de-

Showers Of Blessings

While worshippers in Sanford's Veterans Memorial Park take refuge under quilts, raincoats and umbrellas Sunday morning, Hulon Black, in photo, braves the rain directing the Star of Sanford from shore. Black, chairman of Resurrection Celebration '85, had to cut the service short, but some 200 soaked souls toughed it out to the end. The 35-minute late start by the ship, carrying program participants and musicians "center stage" coincided with the deluge. Black said "We just didn't realize how hard the people of Sanford were praying for rain." Undismayed, he will meet with others from the Ministerial Association Tuesday to plan for next year.

Stromberg Guard Attacked, Robbed

By Roger Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

A security guard at Stromberg Carlson Corp. in Lake Mary was knocked unconscious and had several items including his car stolen early Saturday morning while on patrol.

Daniel Carter, a worker with Enforcement Security Corp., a group that provides security patrols for the Stromberg-Carlson facility at 400 Rinehart Road, told Lake Mary police that someone hit him behind the head with an object about 5 a.m. Saturday. He said he was leaving a building in the company's recreational area when he was attacked.

While Carter was knocked out, a two-way security radio, security keys to Stromberg Carlson, a clock, his wallet and his 1973 Mercury Cougar were stolen.

On Sunday, Carter's car was recovered at 103 Vinewood in Sanford. The Seminole County Sheriff's office said a woman told them she spotted the car outside her house about 8 a.m. Sunday morning. The woman left home and returned about 7 p.m. to find the car still parked in front of her house and then called the sheriff's office.

After a check on the license plate number, the car was identified as Carter's.

Neither the sheriff's office nor the Lake Mary police could say whether any of the other items taken were recovered with the car.

Although there were no witnesses to the crime, Lake Mary investigating officer Thomas Taggart said in his report that he believed the theft was committed by transients. He speculated that they observed the security guard's work routine before they robbed him.

Did Woman Jump From Balloon?

From Staff and Wire Reports

An Orlando woman was burned to death in a hot air balloon accident that injured an Altamonte Springs man and a Pine Hills woman, and authorities want to know whether the victim jumped or fell from the flaming craft.

Judy Marsh, 40, died at the scene Sunday near Valencia Community College, west of Orlando, police officer Jeff Peck said. Her sister, Christine Price, 36, of Pine Hills, was in serious but stable condition today with second- and third-degree burns in Orlando Regional Medical Center. The pilot, Paul Pendergast, 54, of 607 Greenbriar Blvd., Altamonte Springs, was treated for burns and released. Pendergast could not be reached for comment today.

The balloon was heading for a landing at 8 a.m. near a VCC baseball field and caught fire, Peck said. Pendergast and Price bailed out of the gondola — the balloon's passenger basket — when it neared the ground, he said.

When they leaped out, the loss of weight caused the balloon to rise. Despite a ground crew's efforts to anchor the craft, it soared up.

Ms. Marsh was carried about 250 yards west when the blazing basket separated from the envelope — the balloon's outer covering, Peck said. She plummeted about 100 feet to the ground, police said. The envelope came to rest in

Soviets Halt New Missiles; Call U.S. Approach Reckless

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev Monday announced a moratorium on deploying new medium-range missiles targeted on Western Europe. He also agreed in principle to a summit with President Reagan.

While Moscow charged Washington with a "reckless approach" to U.S. Soviet relations, a Reagan spokesman dismissed the moratorium as "not enough."

In Santa Barbara, Calif., where Reagan is vacationing, White House officials said the moratorium is a revived move to "freeze in place a considerable advantage."

The Soviets already have "a 10-to-1" advantage in medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said.

"If they want to freeze, fine. But that's not enough. The next step is to move toward reductions," Speakes said.

During an interview Sunday with the Communist Party newspaper Pravda, the new Soviet leader said he was "convinced that a serious impulse should be given to Soviet-American relations at a high political level." Gorbachev's interview was printed across the front of Pravda today and was reported every half hour on official Moscow radio.

However, Pravda also carried an article warning that the "militarist spirit" in the United States was pushing Washington

'The creation of space arms will have only one result — the arms race will become even more intensive.'

—Mikhail Gorbachev

into new military programs instead of progress in the Geneva arms talks.

"Many people here believe that the year 1985 opens certain prospects for bringing relations between the Soviet Union and the United States of America back into the healthy atmosphere of peaceful co-existence," Pravda said. "This will become possible when they in Washington give up their reckless approach and anti-communist Chimeras (fancies) and take a sober look at realities," it said.

In the interview, Gorbachev said he had accepted Reagan's invitation for a summit, which was conveyed by Vice President George Bush while Bush was in Moscow last month for the funeral of Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko.

"The time and place will be the subject of subsequent arrangements," Gorbachev said in his first major foreign policy statement since coming to power on March 11.

Gorbachev also attacked Washington for what he called its "fraudulent" stand at the Geneva arms control talks and for inviting its NATO partners and other allies to participate in the "Star Wars" research project on creating an anti-missile shield.

"The creation of space arms will have only one result — the arms race will become even more intensive," Gorbachev said.

Gorbachev said Moscow, as a "goodwill" gesture to get the disarmament process going, would stop deploying medium-range nuclear missiles aimed at Western Europe until November.

The Soviet Union declared a similar moratorium during previous arms control talks on nuclear forces in Europe. But U.S. officials said Moscow continued to add medium-range SS-20 missiles despite its declared moratorium.

Meanwhile, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill arrived in Moscow heading a bipartisan congressional delegation with "a desire for peace" and hopes of meeting Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

O'Neill, a Massachusetts Democrat, was expected to be the first U.S. official to meet with Gorbachev since Vice President George Bush and Secretary of State George Shultz attended the funeral of Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko almost four weeks ago.

Following their usual practice, the Soviets are withholding confirmation of the Wednesday meeting with Gorbachev until the last moment.

An Orlando man has been charged with DUI manslaughter, possibly in connection with the death of a pedestrian east of Sanford Sunday.

Dead is Albert Sanders Jr., 58, of 2501 Frog Alley, Midway. He died at Central Florida Regional Hospital an hour after being run down on state Road 46.

Florida Highway Patrol officials, who had not today received the accident report, could not confirm that an arrest they made at the same time of the accident was related to the incident.

Wrong-way, Right Move

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Wrong-way" Michael Lewis may have made the right choice after all.

Lewis, 21, a student at Sacramento Community College, flew 6,000 miles in the wrong direction because an Air New Zealand flight attendant pronounced "Auckland" like "Oakland."

He was trying to fly from London to Oakland when he boarded the wrong plane during a stopover in Los Angeles, and wound up in New Zealand 14 hours later.

Lewis' appearance on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show" following the March 31 snafu brought offers from no fewer than 27 producers clamoring to buy the story for a TV movie, said Gil Cabot, of JenStar Productions Inc. He estimated Lewis will receive between $35,000 and $50,000 for the rights to his story.

IN BRIEF

Schroeder Settles Down To Life Outside Hospital

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Artificial heart patient Bill Schroeder enjoyed his wife's home cooking, celebrated Easter with prayers and watched a basketball game during his first full day outside a hospital since his Nov. 25 implant.

Margaret Schroeder said she believes more days like the one the couple spent together Easter Sunday will help her husband's recovery.

Schroeder, 53, of Jasper, Ind., was moved by van Saturday to a specially equipped apartment across the street from Humana Hospital Audubon, where he and Mrs. Schroeder had lived since the surgery last November.

The apartment is outfitted with compressors for the air-driven, Jarvik-7 heart, wheelchair ramps and emergency generators. Nurses from Humana are staying with the Schroeders around the clock, and security guards patrol outside.

Schroeder's move from the hospital had been delayed first by a Dec. 13 stroke, which damaged seven areas of his brain and severely impaired his speech and motor functions, and later by 2½ weeks of unexplained fever in February.

Firefighters Save Gum Neck

GUM NECK, N.C. (UPI) — Five helicopters and hundreds of firefighters who staged a grim last stand at Alligator River won a five-hour battle against a wall of wildfires and saved the town of Gum Neck.

But the wildfire, fanned by gusty winds to a 4-mile wide inferno, devoured 80 square miles of coastal woodlands Easter Sunday before being turned aside at Alligator River just a mile south of the 200-resident town.

"We saved Gum Neck," a jubilant state official said Sunday night. "The fire's still burning and headed northeast, but at this time, it's not threatening any populated areas."

At one point Sunday, the wall of flames jumped the river, flanked the weary firefighters and many residents fled the town.

But five helicopters swept over the river, scooping up water in huge buckets, and managed to douse the flanking blaze.

Farm Products Are Next

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the Senate Finance Committee, declaring "the rubber band has snapped" in trade relations with Japan, says that nation should fully open its markets to some U.S. farm products to lower the protectionist fever of Congress.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said Sunday it is inadequate for Japan to pursue efforts that would only gradually ease its trade imbalance with the United States. But he argued that recent congressional moves to retaliate might be blunted if the Japanese would completely open their markets to U.S. wood, tobacco, citrus and beef products.

"In those four products, you're talking about maybe 20 states that are concerned and if they did that, that would pull the teeth out of most of the objections," Packwood said Sunday on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley."

Everybody Was Kung Fu Fighting

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A quiet Easter Sunday turned into a violent siege between police and a crowd of moviegoers who went on a rock-throwing, window-breaking rampage after two martial arts movies let out.

Mayor Wilson Goode said police estimated about 5,000 people were in a four-block area in Philadelphia's Center City when the disturbance started about 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Police could not cite a specific cause for the disturbance, but a fight reportedly broke out at the Duke and Duchess Theater where a martial arts movie, "The Last Dragon," was being shown and the fight spilled out onto the street.

Burglary Victim Jailed For Trying To Solve Crime

MIAMI (UPI) — A burglary victim who police say tracked down and kidnapped two men he accused of looting his house was arrested by a Miami SWAT team at gunpoint and jailed without bond.

Antonio Torres, 35, was placed in the Dade County Jail on two charges of armed kidnapping, several charges of aggravated assault, resisting arrest and gun violations, police said Sunday.

He has no prior criminal record, but faces a possible life sentence if convicted. Whoever robbed his Miami home is still at large, police said.

Hialeah Detective Gary Venema said it is possible the kidnap victims burglarized Torres' home but added he is not certain. Both cases are under investigation.

Student Falls From 14th Floor

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — A college student who fell to her death from the 14th floor of a Daytona Beach hotel is the fourth person to die in such a way in the resort town during this year's spring break.

April Trumble, 20, a student at Joliet Junior College, was dead of massive head injuries upon arrival at Halifax Medical Center Sunday, police Cpl. C.N. Mason said.

Authorities think Trumble of Waukegan, Ill., fell from the balcony of her room at the Plaza Hotel and landed on a roof covering a parking area at the fourth floor level.

Mason said the death has been ruled "accidental. There were no witnesses to her fall at about 12:30 a.m.

Being Retried For Trying To Kill Heiress Wife

Von Bulow On Trial Again

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The retrial of Claus von Bulow on charges he tried to murder his heiress wife for money and love of another woman is expected to pit medical experts, family members and friends of the high society couple against each other.

Von Bulow, a Danish-born aristocrat and former aide to billionaire J. Paul Getty, was found guilty of assault with intent to murder his wife, Martha "Sunny" von Bulow, on March 16, 1982, after an emotional and highly publicized 31-day trial.

He was sentenced to 30 years in prison but remained free on $1 million bail until the Rhode Island Supreme Court overturned the convictions in 1984 on constitutional grounds.

Mrs. von Bulow, heiress to a reported $70 million Pittsburgh utilities fortune, has been in a New York hospital since 1980 when she lapsed into an irreversible coma, which the prosecution claims was induced by an insulin injection meant to kill her.

State prosecutors enter the retrial, scheduled to begin with jury selection today, with basically the same case as before. Some 300 people have been summoned as potential jurors.

His defense attorneys say they have a list of 25 new potential witnesses and a sheaf of affidavits filed since the first trial that will prove von Bulow's innocence.

Much of the new evidence, including potential testimony from several former friends of Mrs. von Bulow, was expected to focus on the heiress' alleged alcohol and drug abuse, which the defense claims led to her coma — not any action by her tall, slightly balding, well-dressed husband.

The state will paint a picture of von Bulow as a relatively penniless compared to his wife, a philanderer who wanted his multimillion-dollar share of her vast fortune and to be free to marry his former girlfriend, Alexandra Isles, a soap opera actress.

Von Bulow has since split up with Isles and lives with another wealthy woman in his wife's 14-room Fifth Avenue apartment in New York City.

Easter Marked By Celebrations And A Protest

By United Press International

The nation marked Easter with traditional parades, church services marking Christ's resurrection and egg hunts for children, but a defiant Lutheran minister and actor David Soul ended up in jail after protesting steel industry layoffs at a Pittsburgh church.

About 30,000 Washington area youngsters are expected at the White House today for its traditional Easter egg roll on the South Lawn, featuring clowns, stars of children's shows and balloons. Weekend egg rolls held coast to coast also attracted throngs of children.

President and Mrs. Reagan spent a quiet holiday at their mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., going horseback riding and lunching with members of the family and a friend. They will remain in California until next Sunday.

In Pittsburgh, militant minister Douglas Roth, Soul and two labor activists were arrested Sunday for trying to lay scrap metal on the altar of the affluent Shady Side Presbyterian Church.

Soul, Roth, Mike Bonn and Darrell Becker were charged with disorderly conduct, failure to disperse and defiant trespass and all but Soul were released on their own recognizance.

The actor, jailed on a $50,000 bond, was released after posting $5,000.

Roth and other members of an activist ministers' group — the Denominational Ministry Strategy — blame corporate leaders for contributing to unemployment by shutting down industrial plants and investing overseas.

Soul became involved through his brother, a DMS member, and is making a documentary on the group's efforts.

Traditional Easter parades were the rule in many cities, as the fashionable and not-so-fashionable got a chance to strut their stuff.

Baltimore revived its Easter procession for the first time in 30 years, and New York's annual Easter promenade kept the camera shutters clicking.

"Now that's an unusual hat," said one man to his partner on Fifth Avenue, then quickly corrected himself. "Oh no!" he said after a double-take. "I thought it was a hat but it's just a kid on a guy's shoulders."

Among the "bonnets" were a black sombrero sported by an elderly gentleman and a foot-high red-sequined bonnet in the shape of a big apple, complete with stem, worn by Dolores Edmead of the Bronx.

A poodle in a black and white checked coat walked gamely beside his mistress, dressed in a matching outfit.

In Los Angeles, a knife-wielding man wearing a gas mask and a white suit was arrested after terrorizing a Baptist congregation on Easter Sunday.

Woman Raped After Being Dropped Off At Home

A 20-year-old Altamonte Springs woman told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she was raped by a man who sprang from behind some bushes and grabbed her when friends dropped her off at her home at about midnight Saturday.

The woman said the man dragged her across the road to a neighboring yard and raped her. During a struggle the woman was beaten about her head and shoulders, a sheriff's report said. She was treated for injuries at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs and released, the report said.

LET'S MAKE A DEAL

A Winter Springs man who was charged with driving under the influence after a sheriff's deputy spotted his car weaving on the roadway and a child sitting on the man's lap apparently controlling the vehicle has also been charged with attempting to bribe the deputy.

Seminole County sheriff's deputy C.L. Strickland reported stopping the man's vehicle at about 3 p.m. Sunday on county Road 427, Longwood. A child, about 8 years of age, was sitting on the man's lap and had apparently been steering the car, a sheriff's report said.

Ms. Strickland charged the driver with DUI and the man's wife was called to pick up the child, the report said. As the man was being arrested and during a trip to jail he reportedly asked to make a deal with the deputy, saying he had $700 in his wallet, the report said.

The bribery charge was added and Joe Thomas Peckinpaugh, 41, of 513 Edgemon Drive, was being held today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

The suspect who was jailed is 18. The one not free, because of his age and because his parents are in New York state, is 17, a police report said.

Police were called to the Day's Inn on Douglas Road, Altamonte Springs, by security guards who had nabbed the pair in someone else's Camaro in the motel's parking lot.

The two reportedly explained that they loved Camaros and just wanted to see how that year's model felt, the report said.

Police said some wiring had been pulled out of the car's dashboard. The owner of the car could not be located to determine if the car was in that condition before the pair allegedly entered the vehicle, the report said.

Robert William Justinger, 18, of Cheektowaga, N.Y., was arrested at 3:27 a.m. Friday. He was later released on $5,000 bond.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

At least two thieves raided Big Wheel, state Road 436, Forest City, and took a tractor and a mower with a combined value of $3,385 along with $30 cash. The business was burglarized between 6 p.m. Thursday and 8:15 a.m. Friday. Sheriff's investigators reported finding footprints of two suspects at the scene.

The business' office was hit and a cash box containing $30 stolen. Business records were also examined, a sheriff's report said. Owner Rainey Hooper, 26, of Orlando, reported the break-in and told deputies he had been having trouble with a customer, the report said.

Mary F. Delgado, 30, of 537 E. Oakhurst St., Altamonte Springs, gave deputies the name of a suspect who may have taken $123 from under her mattress between 10 a.m. Friday and 5 a.m. Saturday.

A set of T-tops worth $1,000 was stolen from the Corvette of Thomas Lee Smith, 27, of 39 Lock Cove Court, Sanford, while the vehicle was parked at Longwood Village Shopping Center, state Road 434, Longwood, at about 8 p.m. Friday, a sheriff's report said.

When Gilbert W. Donnelly, 41, of 3100 Osceola Road, Oviedo, arrived home at 9:15 p.m. Friday he saw two thieves leaving his house via the front door. They ran into a wooded area, having carried off $394 worth of items including a fan, a heater, metal clamps two televisions and $60 in change, a sheriff's report said.

Paul and Lucille Cobble of P.O. Box 67, E. state Road 46, Geneva, reported to deputies that their home was burglarized around 10 a.m. Friday. Four firearms and about $60 cash including silver dollars and 50-cent pieces were stolen. Only the areas of the home where those items were kept were disturbed, a sheriff's report said.

A thief ransacked the home of Mack D. Sawyer Jr., 31, of 2080 state Road 46, Geneva, between 7:15 a.m. Thursday and 5:30 p.m. Friday and took jewelry, a camera and a radio-cassette

Electrocutions: Trade-Off Between Power And Safety

MIAMI (UPI) — Seven people electrocuted by a downed wire last month are among 14 who have died from fallen Florida Power & Light Co. lines since 1981 because safeguards did not freeze the flow of high-voltage power, a Miami newspaper reports.

The Miami Herald reported Sunday that at least 52 people have been electrocuted by downed utility company lines in the last four years.

Seven members of the Troy Fulk's family died March 23rd from a line that fell outside their West Jupiter trailer, Palm Beach County Fire Marshal Robert Bean is focusing his investigation of the accident on why commonly used safety devices did not cut off the power to the 7,620-volt wire that killed the family, the newspaper said.

Bean said the power line remained live for an estimated 30 minutes, long after it had sagged to the ground.

FPL, the state's largest utility, serves 2.5 million customers. It has reported 52 electrocutions since 1981, not including employees, said FPL spokesman Mel Kline. State Public Service Commission records show 53 deaths.

During the same period, at least two FPL employees were electrocuted.

By comparison, New York's Consolidated Edison, which provides electricity to 2.8 million customers, has recorded only one electrocution since 1981.

Boston Edison, which serves 600,000 customers, has had two deaths by electrocution since 1981. A spokesman for the Nashville Power Co., a publicly owned utility serving 222,000 customers, said the company has not recorded a single electrocution since 1981.

Spokesmen for Consolidated Edison, Boston Edison and

Nashville Power told The Herald all three used protective circuit-breaking devices.

E.J. Polasek, an electrical engineer hired by the Fulk'ses' lawyer, said circuit-breaker-like devices that could have stopped the current flow were not installed for the line that killed the family, although they are used elsewhere in Palm Beach County.

Oil circuit breakers are commonly used to interrupt the flow of electricity when relay switches indicate trouble on the lines.

FPL officials acknowledged that in order to avoid excessive power failures, they deliberately set safety devices designed to trip troubled power lines at a level that will not always detect downed lines.

"It's a matter of balancing concerns," said Kline. He said cutting the power to downed lines can endanger as many lives as it protects.

"There are other safety concerns raised when the power is not available," he said, citing traffic light failure as an example.

Kline said utility companies nationwide face a dilemma when they decide at what threshold to set relay switches. FPL conforms to standards set in the National Electrical Safety Code, he said.

By comparison, New York's Consolidated Edison, which provides electricity to 2.8 million customers, has recorded only one electrocution since 1981.

Spokesmen for Consolidated Edison, Boston Edison and

Deputies have the name of two suspects who may have stolen a .22-caliber handgun worth $50, a $295 radar detector and a $100 speaker from the vehicle of Mark Fairweather, 19, of Branch Wood Apartments, Red Branch Lane, Winter Park, on Thursday or Friday.

Kevin George Sullivan, 28, of 328 E. Alpine St., Altamonte Springs, reported to deputies that his home was burglarized between 9 p.m. Thursday and 2 a.m. Friday. Among the items taken were a $300 gold watch, two gold chains with a combined value of $450, five video tapes worth $40 each, a $500 video recorder and an $850 stereo.

Vet Group: Award Plan A 'Slap In The Face'

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A veterans group, stunned by the death of its Agent Orange committee co-chairman only two weeks after his appearance before a New York federal judge on behalf of Agent Orange victims and their families, is trying to get the government to review how money awarded to victims exposed to the defoliant has been distributed.

The Vietnam Veterans of Central Florida, which held a memorial service Monday for 34-year-old Thomas Radon of Orlando, has appealed to Judge Jack B. Weinstein to have a study done on how $180 million awarded in a class action suit to help 3,002 Agent Orange victims and their families will be distributed. The group is urging that the study be done in memory of Radon. There are about 7,000 veterans with disabilities connected with the defoliant.

Weinstein, assigned to the Eastern District of New York, is scheduled to rule this month on a proposed plan for distribution of funds awarded in suit.

Among other things, the five inch thick proposal calls for awarding $5,000 to the family of a veteran who dies because of exposure to Agent Orange. Payment would be spread over 10 years.

Bruce F. Fowler, chairman of the local Agent Orange Committee, said "The proposal is a slap in the face of all Vietnam veterans and for those who are suffering, whose families and offspring are suffering, the distribution plan is literally worse than nothing."

"When the owner of a poisoned bull is awarded $8 million and the family of a deceased Vietnam veteran poisoned while serving his country, is awarded $5,000 we can't afford to sit by quietly," Fowler said.

"We feel that the settlement is totally inadequate and should be put into an escrow account until a better study is made as to the proper disbursement of the Agent Orange settlement. Therefore, it is the recommendation of the VVCF that the Feinberg proposal be set aside and a new study be made to establish a better criteria for the disposition of the funds."

Radon, who was awarded some of the nation's highest medals for bravery, knew first hand the results of exposure to the toxic chemicals sprayed on the jungles of Vietnam, where he spent a year fighting as an infantryman.

He came out of the war unscathed, but at age 32 he learned he had soft tissue sarcoma, a form of cancer afflicting many veterans exposed to Agent Orange. After chemotherapy to combat the cancer one of his legs was amputated.

Radon and other Central Florida veterans are a party to a class action suit against Dow Chemical, Monsanto and other chemical companies which manufactured Agent Orange, of which Dioxin, a cancer-causing chemical, was a by-product.

"Tom was only worried about his daughter Kara that she would be cared for and have money for college when he was gone," said friend and fellow Vietnam veteran Michael Galyean, a Seminole County school teacher. "They are allotting $30 million for organizations to provide counseling for Agent Orange victims and not giving it directly to veterans who need it. For instance they are only awarding $5,000 over a 10-year period for a deceased veteran and that hardly pays for the funeral. They are allotting $25,000 for someone totally disabled over 10-years and it cost about $2,500 for a weekend in the hospital."

"They are determining who is eligible by those who were in the areas where the Agent Orange defoliant was dumped by planes. They are not taking into consideration the spills, the hand spraying we did around our own areas.

Senators Push For More Radars In Drug War

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Saying 18 months is too long to wait, five Gulf Coast senators wrote to President Reagan urging him to cut some corners to close a radar gap that's letting drug smugglers.

The Coast Guard is being "outsped, outmanned and outgunned by drug traffickers," according to the letter written by Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., and signed by Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., Sen. Russell Long,

D-La., Thad Cochran, R-Miss., and J. Bennett Johnston, D-La.

The senators' letter points out that money has already been appropriated for the purchase of additional Aerostat radar balloons to supplement the one they say has been used by the Coast Guard to "choke off various drug smuggling routes."

"We cannot afford to wait the year to 18 months required under the normal bureaucratic procedure," said the letter.

which urged Reagan to take executive action to "expedite" procurement.

"At this time, we have no coverage from the Yucatan Peninsula to Puerto Rico," the senators said. "This is a blind spot through which drug traffickers can move at will."

The senators also asked for an increase in personnel, and cite a high dropout rate of Coast Guardsmen due to the work load.

In addition to the Coast Guard, military bases have been using their radar to help track potential drug traffic. Formerly, federal law prohibited the military from intervening in civilian law enforcement, but now the military is encouraged to help.

The Air Force, for example, notifies drug enforcement officials whenever planes entering the air defense identification zone can not be identified within two minutes.

Graham Seeks To Free Road, Bridge Money

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A proposal by Gov. Bob Graham could mean rescue for state road and bridge projects endangered by a lawsuit over an airline fuel tax — or else a $250 million windfall for the Department of Transportation.

The U.S. Supreme Court will indirectly determine which it will be when the justices decide sometime within the next two months whether to get involved in the lawsuit by a group of airlines that has already held up $80 million in transportation money.

Graham's proposal is for a four-year, $250 million surcharge on the gasoline sales tax as part of a plan to make up an anticipated $618 million shortfall in the state's transportation budget.

In a speech Friday to the Florida Economics Club, Graham said he will ask the Legislature to tack an extra cent onto the state's five-cent sales tax on gasoline to replace most of the $266 million in airline fuel taxes held ransom due to the lawsuit.

Graham conceded the surcharge could mean a huge windfall for the Department of Transportation.

But he said the surcharge is necessary to help preserve the credibility of state leaders who promised the public a host of transportation projects in 1983 — promises those leaders might find it difficult to keep because of the shortfall.

"The purpose of the surcharge is not to raise additional revenue," Graham said. "The purpose of the surcharge is to fill the gap."

Graham added: "We intend to deliver the specific projects from the 1983 plan as close to their original schedules as possible and maintain major transportation plan objectives such as the completion of the interstate system and preservation of our other highways and bridges."

Graham said he will also seek to:

- Continue to tax gasoline sales as if the average price in the state were still $1.14 per gallon to raise $25 million.
- Refinance Florida Turnpike bonds to free $64 million.
- Operate the Department of Transportation more efficiently to save $24 million.
- Shift $279 million from Florida's advanced interstate construction fund to the department's general fund for road and bridge work.

The state has won every legal round in the airline fuel case thus far, but the high court will not decide whether to hear the issue until the U.S. Solicitor General decides whether to enter the fray within about two months.

The transportation budget is also endangered by falling gas prices. The state still taxes gas sales at the 1983 price of $1.148 per gallon but lawmakers are scheduled to peg the tax to the pump price this year. Graham said he will ask them to delay that readjustment.

PACs Speech Even Freer

One can only wish that the Supreme Court of the United States were as solicitous of free speech and First Amendment rights generally as it is of the free speech of well-heeled conservative political action committees (PACs). Still, it's hard to argue with the court's logic in its 7-2 decision striking down legal limits on the amount of money any PAC can spend independently on behalf of a presidential candidate.

To uphold the $1,000 limit that Congress enacted in the wake of the Watergate scandal would, in effect, protect an abstract right to speech and association but destroy the power to circulate the resulting expression of opinion. As Justice Rehnquist put it, it's like "allowing a speaker in a public hall to express his view while denying the use of an amplifying system." If the prohibition stood, would there be any way fully to protect political expression by other groups for similar purposes or any way to limit large expenditures by PACs disguised as something else?

None of this mitigates the great hazards about which Justice White spoke in dissent, particularly the fact that "independence" in the expenditure of PAC money for a presidential candidate may be — and often has been — more a matter of form than substance. Thus, while existing limits on "coordinated" expenditures — expenditures in coordination with the candidate — are upheld as direct contributions, unlimited "independent" spending, which may be as effective as buying influence and as conducive to corruption, are struck down.

And yet it's impossible to accept Justice White's reasoning that expenditure limits would have done no great harm to free speech because "everyone was free to spend as much as they chose to amplify their views on general political issues, just not specific candidates." The Constitution makes no such distinguished distinctions, nor, if speech is to be protected, can anyone else.

It's not a comfortable decision, particularly in light of the fact that it leaves prospects for campaign finance reform, both at the state and federal levels, in even more of a shambles than they already are. Letting "independent" committees operate while limiting expenditures by candidates and their committees is likely to put those not favored by such committees — almost invariably Democrats — at a considerable disadvantage. And that, in turn, is likely to reduce even further the already low prospects at the state level for meaningful spending limits of any kind.

Common Cause, one of the prime backers of the now-void PAC spending limits, correctly points out that public financing of presidential election campaigns remains intact and, as such, constitutes a major device for mitigating, if not neutralizing, the influence of PACs.

But the court's decision will nonetheless make it harder to check the influence of big money, particularly at the state level, where it tends to talk even louder than it does in presidential races. At the same time, it's hard to know what the court could have done without throwing a large and dangerous cloud over what should be unfettered political speech.

Warning: Tax Simplification Ahead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NOT-SAFE, an organization that believes in leaving no dollar unspent where safety is concerned, has come forth with a plan for tax simplification, which clearly is a dangerous issue.

Over the years, as all 1040 filers know, the tax code has been simplified to the point where only a Certified Public Accountant can understand it.

Now relief is just a swallow away, provided Congress can gulp down any of the assorted changes that have been proposed.

NOT-SAFE has drawn up a flat-tax plan that, if not the flattest yet offered, at least would flatten most pocketbooks. It claims the plan has 10 linchpins, which may itself be a record.

However, I notice that some of the linchpins actually are keystones, which may render them ineligible. Anyway, following are the mainstays. You can decide for yourself what cliché to apply.

Smart Tax — Since smart people tend to earn more than their slow-witted brethren and sistren, tax rates would be based in IQ scores. "This plan would either balance the budget in 15 years or confirm that we are a nation of idiots," NOT-SAFE avers. "Those with no brain waves would be exempt."

Dumb Tax — See above. "A flat tax of 30 percent would be placed upon those who could not solve a simple quadratic equation or rewire an IBM computer."

Fax Tax — Wager-earners unable to run 3 miles in under 15 minutes would be taxed $5,000 per year.

Brat Tax — Instead of "rewarding" parents with deductions for children, they would be assessed a $1,000 tax for each offspring. "Money extracted by this plan could only be used for diaper research and family counseling programs."

Tramp Tax — Special deductions of up to 25 percent of gross income would be granted to homeowners who "adopt a bag lady, transient or homeless person." Failure to participate would leave homeowners subject to "late night telephone calls" and a "100 percent tax on everything you earn and own."

Pre-death Tax — Would provide incentives for paying inheritance taxes in advance.

Sun Tax — Would be paid almost entirely by "abusers" who fail to heed warning labels on bikinis, tanning lotions, sunglasses, picnic baskets and large towels. "To avoid this tax, stay indoors."

Moon Tax — See "Brat Tax." "The number of hours spent in moonlight is directly proportional to the number of babies born out of wedlock, except in the above-60 age group." Also would require reporting of income gained by "moonlighting."

Pro Tax — "For movie and sports professionals who are paid exorbitant salaries." Would benefit "less fortunate" members of the team.

Tax Tax — "Based on the theory that if you did not borrow any money to pay taxes, you probably were under-taxed." In which case, a "special assessment" may be indicated.

NOT-SAFE also offers a slogan, "Don't mess with the IRS," which it proclaims as a "catchy motto."

Now back to catching drunken drivers.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Prophet Who Was Ignored

In the mid- to late 1950s, American conservative journalists were desperately short of outlets. Almost all the magazines were liberal in orientation and closed to opposing views. It took real intellectual courage and stamina to persist in attempting to get intellectual conservative views across to the public.

One of those who persisted was Alice Widener, who died recently at age 79. In this critical period, she launched a small publication entitled USA Magazine which gave her a means of reaching the public. It also provided a useful forum for other writers concerned about U.S. domestic and foreign policies.

Mrs. Widener was a remarkable woman whose achievements should not go unremembered. A brilliant, superbly educated woman who had lived abroad, she had wide-ranging interests and was outspoken in her views. She focused on America's export of hundreds of billions of dollars in foreign aid, on the weakness of U.S. fiscal and monetary policies, and the disastrous turnings of American foreign policy, especially in this hemisphere.

From the moment Fidel Castro seized power in Cuba, Alice Widener realized the nature and scope of the Cuban threat.

Mrs. Widener also was the first writer to discern the coming reactionary crisis on college campuses in the 1960s. She predicted the turmoil in brilliant articles published in Barron's Financial Weekly. Her magazine was also ahead of its time in warning of a future missile crisis.

Mrs. Widener helped many writers, including this writer. She had an impact on important circles of conservative intellectuals whose ideas have been incorporated in the policies of the Reagan administration. It's unfortunate, however, that she wasn't better known among a wider circle of Americans and that her warnings on policy matters weren't heeded by officialdom in the 1950s and 1960s. She was a prophet who was ignored by the people then in authority.

Alice Widener was the victim of the kind of preemptive liberal censorship that exists to this day in the television networks and Washington and New York papers and in the major universities. To break down this preemptive censorship is perhaps the best way to honor the memory of Alice Widener.

Pentagon Devoted To Useless Weapons

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — If some latter-day Diogenes were to seek the truth about the Pentagon's obstinate devotion to expensive weapons that don't work, the Air Force's LANTIRN program would be all the illumination he'd need.

In fact, an internal report by the Pentagon's own Defense Science Board states bluntly that any expectation LANTIRN will ever do the job it's supposed to is "a fantasy." Yet the Air Force continues to bumble along, lurching from one multi-million-dollar patch job to the next in the desperate hope that finally the system might work.

We first warned about the probability of a fiasco last August when we reported on serious cost overruns and poor quality control. Not surprisingly, government inspectors found serious problems with the quality of some LANTIRN components.

The warning went unheeded, and the problems with LANTIRN have

JEFFREY HART

Deservedly A Hero

Ex-Marine Andy Frederick, a black, was in the Broadway-Nassau Street station of the New York subway system recently and saw two men stealing candy from a subway newsstand. They were also menacing and cursing at the man running the stand.

"I was alarmed — everyone was — by the profanity and the menacing." The former Marine spoke to the two thugs, Felix McCord, 28, and Ali Peterkin. "I said to them, 'Why don't you leave the man alone and act like a human being?'"

The two turned on Frederick and hit him over the head with a bottle. He pulled out a knife he uses in his wire-stripping work, stabbed McCord in the heart and killed him instantly.

A number of years ago Kitty Genovese was beaten, robbed and murdered on a Queens, Long Island Street while a score of people watched from the windows of their nearby apartment houses. Genovese screamed for help but none arrived, and she soon lay dying of multiple knife wounds. The Genovese affair has been cited ever since as an example of the breakdown of community, of the isolation of the individual, of people's capacity to turn away from a fellow human being in trouble. And, after all, if 25 people had poured out of those apartment houses into the street they almost certainly could have routed the attackers and saved Genovese. They chose not to get involved.

On March 28, Andy Frederick was cleared by a grand jury on grounds of self-defense. His response was to pray for forgiveness for an occurrence that "will be with me for the rest of my life."

This decent and courageous New Yorker need feel no remorse. In the New Testament parable of the Good Samaritan, a man traveling on the Jerico Road is beaten and robbed by thieves and left lying in the dust. The Jerico Road in those days was infested by hoodlums, and was the Judean equivalent of the New York subway system. At some risk to himself in such an environment, the man from Samaria helps the victim to an inn and comforts him. The primary meaning of the parable is that we should help the afflicted.

But suppose the man from Samaria had come along a few minutes earlier, while the thieves were beating up the victim. We are permitted to think, I believe, that his obligation would have been to intervene, to try to prevent the crime from occurring. Perhaps if such intervention had been wildly imprudent his obligation would have been modified, get a description of the thieves.

Andy Frederick, however, intervened — very effectively. Unlike those spectators in the Genovese case, he cared enough. Mr. Frederick acted in the tradition of the Good Samaritan, and he is deservedly a hero to New Yorkers today.

For the fact of the matter is that one out of every four New Yorkers is at some point a victim of the crimes that police call "mugging," many of which would more properly be called "armed robbery."

ROBERT WALTERS

Tax Reform Redux

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Comprehensive reform of the federal tax code, an initiative consigned to oblivion several months ago by the purveyors of this city's conventional wisdom, could soon stage a remarkable comeback.

When the Treasury Department unveiled its tax simplification proposal last November, a cynical consensus promptly decreed that the concept was a noble one but its chances for success ranged somewhere between slim and none.

The skeptics argued that the broad-based overhaul almost certainly was doomed to defeat because it called for depriving too many powerful interest groups of their cherished tax loopholes.

Now, however, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has signaled his inclination to back the proposal. Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is reported to be moving closer to supporting it.

The plan calls for whisking the legislation through Congress so quickly that special interest groups will not have time to mount extensive lobbying campaigns.

Knowledgeable sources familiar with the tax reform proposal say that two especially controversial elements of the Treasury Department's initial version have been eliminated to make the package more appealing.

The first involves the tax treatment of capital gains — profits reaped from the sale of assets held for more than six months. Under the current law, they are taxed at a preferential rate. The original reform proposal would have treated capital gains as ordinary income, but that now apparently has been abandoned.

The second change involves charitable contributions, which are fully deductible under current law. The initial proposal would have allowed deductions only for donations in excess of 2 percent of a taxpayer's income. That approach reportedly has also been scrapped.

Being retained are numerous other provisions mandating the long-overdue elimination of loopholes and special tax breaks relied upon by corporations and wealthy individuals.

If Reagan, Rostenkowski and Packwood can transform the reform package into law, they will be performing a valuable public service by stripping dozens of unwarranted provisions from the tax code.

continued. Its testing is far behind schedule, and its currently estimated cost — $2.31 billion — is more than double the projection of four years ago.

Now our associates Indy Badhwar and Donald Goldberg have uncovered the latest bad news about LANTIRN. Here's the story:

LANTIRN — Low Altitude Navigation and Targeting Infrared System for Night — is supposed to allow American attack pilots to zero in on enemy tanks during close-support missions with ground forces at night or in heavy fog. Never again would troops be left without tactical air support because of bad weather, as they were during the Battle of the Bulge in World War II.

The problem of "flying blind" at low altitude was solved with an infrared navigation pod, described by one expert as "no more than expensive infrared goggles mounted onto the bottom of the plane ... to prevent you from smashing into a mountain."

But the attack planes' Sunday punch — their Maverick missiles — have proved to be a much tougher problem. The Maverick is a heat-seeking air-to-ground missile, but it can't distinguish between an American and an enemy tank — or between a tank and a burning tree, burning haystack, or decoys of burning coal pits.

There's another peculiarity of the Maverick that has caused trouble. It stabilizes in flight and so must be fired from at least a mile away to be effective. But a pilot has to be within 500 yards of a target to make sure he's not firing his missiles at an outhouse or a tank-shaped mock-up.

To overcome these obviously crippling drawbacks, LANTIRN requires an automatic target recognizer (ATR) that will identify the enemy tanks for the pilot and a targeting pod that locks the missile onto the tank he fires at.

The locking device works after a fashion, but needs the ATR to identify a target without the need for repeated passes over the battelfield. Unfortunately, the computers needed to make the ATR work have yet to be invented, and may never be. The Defense Science Board report states:

"It is extremely unlikely that current approaches ... will lead to a target autorecognition system on which one can rely. To the extent that the LANTIRN program depends upon the expectation that this will happen, it is a fantasy."

The scientists then did their best to extinguish LANTIRN. They conceded that computers might be invented that could do the necessary identification, but warned: "The performance of the system, even at its best, is likely to be fragile and susceptible to primitive countermeasures."

But the ever-optimistic Air Force spenders are going ahead with purchase of the two components that do work, even though LANTIRN — as well as the $6 billion Maverick program — will be useless without the essential target-recognition device.

Pinckes Didn't Quit, Classroom Effort Restores Baseball Privilege

One of the biggest things I see wrong with athletics in this day and age is the frequency at which a young man or woman quits. If something doesn't go their way in a particular sport, they find no problem with giving it up.

It's much easier for them to quit instead of to take their lumps and come back stronger than ever. It's a cliché, but when the going gets tough, the tough do get going.

The correlation is that if a person quits a game, then he may quit a sport. The next thing they quit may be a class, then a job, then a career and so on. The quitting becomes a habit and it is a very hard one to break.

Anyway, there is a young man who attends Lake Brantley High School who had one of the most important things in his life taken away from him this spring. Because of poor grades, Mike Pinckes wasn't allowed the privilege to play baseball. It was — I must point out — entirely Mike's fault. A good C-plus and B student all of his academic career, Pinckes let things slide during the winter semester and he didn't qualify under the 1.5 (out of 4.0) grade point average.

People always told me to put academics before athletics," he said Saturday. "But I guess I ignored it. I didn't realize how important the nine weeks exams were and I didn't study."

And he didn't play. A fine third baseman and hitter last year as a sophomore, Pinckes and fellow teammate Ken Chapdelaine, were relegated to the sidelines. It hurt them and it hurt the Patriots. Lake Brantley can hit with just about anybody but it needed Pinckes' defense and Chapdelaine's arm to contend for the conference.

"I missed 25 games," lamented Pinckes. "It was tough watching the guys game after game. I wanted so much to play."

The fact that Pinckes went to every game and cheered on his teammates tells you something about the young man. The fact that he never mussed a practice while ineligible tells you something else. Some players might have quit and said what's the use for two or three weeks of the remaining baseball season.

"I'd take extra fungos, too," he said. "I'd go over to a batting cage at night and hit. I wanted to be ready if and when I did get to play again."

But more importantly, Pinckes worked overtime in the classroom, too. He brought his average back to a B. For his hard work, Pinckes will play his first game tonight at Lake Brantley against the Seabreeze Sand Crabs.

But most importantly, Mike Pinckes learned something. "I learned school work comes before baseball," he said. "I didn't feel that way before. But I wanted to prove to people that I wasn't a screw up."

"And I won't ever let it happen again."

Paul Alegre, Lyman's fine center fielder, will sign with Murray (Ky.) State University Wednesday, according to Russ Whittington, a scout and former player for the school.

"I'll be very surprised if Paul doesn't challenge for a starting job as a freshman," said Whittington.

Mike Pinckes will play for the first time tonight after missing 25 games due to poor grades.

Alegre led the county in hitting last year and has a 445-foot home run to his credit this year. The left-handed slasher is hitting .400 with four homers and a county leading three triples.

Another former county standout, Lake Howell's Van Goltmont is making his bid to become Murray State's top hurler. Goltmont is 1-1 for Murray. His victory was a complete game effort in which he struck out seven and allowed four hits.

Ussery's HRs Stymie Rams

Baseball

ORLANDO — It's not every year that a team gets a chance to win the Colonial Classic. So when faced with the option of saving unbeaten Anthony Laszale for today's crucial Five Star Conference battle with DeLand or sending the sophomore right hander at Apopka's Blue Darters in the Classic title game, Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle chose the latter.

"After we'd gone that far, we might as well go after it with our guns," said Tuttle. "It might have had something to do with Sonny didn't want to come out and shake my hand after the first game. Sonny definitely doesn't like to lose."

And neither does Tuttle. His gamble didn't pay off Saturday. Keith Ussery was the reason. The rangy Apopka first baseman/pitcher solved Laszale (8-1) for two three-run homers — the second a game-winning blast in the sixth inning — to erase a 4-3 Lake Mary lead and give Apopka a 6-4 win for its second straight Colonial Classic title at Colonial High School.

"It sure would have been nice to win it but I can't be happier with our guys effort," said Tuttle about the Rams' six straight losers' bracket wins. "If we keep hitting the ball, we'll take care of DeLand Monday."

"The way I see it, we have to beat DeLand Monday and win one of two (Lake Howell Wednesday and Lake Brantley Saturday) the rest of the week to win the Five Star championship. But Monday is the key game. DeLand, which has to also play Lake Howell, Seminole and Apopka, is 1 1/2 games behind the Rams in the conference standings. Apopka and Lyman are 2 1/2 games behind.

Tuttle was uncertain who he would pitch in Monday's game but said he was leaning toward Colonial Classic all tournament pitcher Eric "The Whip" Hagen or sophomores Sean Elaherty and Kelly Hysell, both of whom turned in complete game triumphs in the Classic.

Pitching, nevertheless, has to be an after thought for Tuttle. The way his ballclub swung the bat in the Classic, it might not matter who goes to the mound. Lake Mary (22-6) reeled off five straight wins after an opening tournament loss to Oak Ridge and batted .450 in those six games.

That figure dropped somewhat

Hauck's A Hit

Lady Seminoles' Senior Excels On Field, In Classroom

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Seminole High's Janet Hauck is a fine example of the term "student-athlete." In fact, the senior outfielder is leading the county in batting average and is pretty high up there in grade point average, too.

Hauck, a standout in three sports for the Lady Seminoles, is hitting at a .559 clip so far this season to lead the county by 50 points over Lake Mary's Kim Averill (.509). The hard-hitting senior also carries a hefty 3.9 grade point average.

It is her grade point average, just as much as her athletic ability, that has paved the way for her college career. Hauck will attend Stetson University in DeLand.

Of the three sports she plays (volleyball, soccer and softball), Hauck said she would probably choose softball in college although she is also considering volleyball.

"I could be a walk on in either sport," she said. "But, if I had to pick one, it would probably be softball. I could probably play both sports, but they like you to concentrate on one."

Academically, Hauck said she is thinking about majoring in accounting but may change. As far as academics go, Hauck said

Prep Feature

County Softball Averages, 6A

Stetson has a lot to offer. "They have very high academic standards," she said.

Academic excellence runs in the Hauck family. Janet's younger brother, Jerry, carries a 4.0 grade point average as a Seminole High junior.

Hauck is in her third year as a mainstay on the Seminole softball team. Although she didn't play in any recreation leagues prior to high school, her athletic talent enabled her to fit right in from the start. "Basically, I went out for the team because I like sports in general," she said.

"My parents (Richard and Isabelle) have been great," added Hauck. "They let me do my own thing. There's no pressure coming from them."

In 13 games this season, Hauck has 19 hits in 34 at bats for a .559 average. She also leads the team in runs batted in with 16 (sixth in the county) and is tied for the county lead in doubles with four.

Seminole has three important Five Star Conference games remaining and the Lady Tribe could possibly finish as high as fifth in the conference and district. Seminole hosts Lyman Tuesday afternoon, then goes to Lake Howell for a non-conference game Wednesday. The Lady Seminoles return to conference action Thursday when they host Seabreeze and their final Five Star game is the following Monday at Spruce Creek.

To maintain her lofty batting average, Hauck would have to stay hot at the plate the remainder of the season as other county standouts such as, Lake Howell's Eileen Thiebauth and Sandy Gilles, Lyman's Denise Stevens and Oviedo's Caroline Chavis and Mikki Eby have all been hitting impressively lately.

As far as grade point average goes, Hauck has proved for many years that she is a leader in that category. But which of the two is harder to maintain, GPA or BA?

"Right now it's my batting average that's harder to keep up," Hauck said. "School work isn't easy, but right now it seems easier. I put in as much time as I think I need on it."

Janet Hauck — a hit in the classroom and on the softball field.

Raines: Expos Can Win Without Carter

CINCINNATI — On paper the Montreal Expos were always rated as the team to beat. They had power, pitching, speed and defense. It wasn't uncommon for the experts to pick them to win the National League East during the past five years.

That paper prophecy turned to brittle parchment this year. The Expos traded away slugging catcher Gary Carter and will start an infield which features four former third basemen. They will miss his power and the infield defense has to be labeled as suspect.

Despite all of these apparent shortcomings, Tim Lincecum, who begins his fifth season today against the Reds, says the Expos will finally satisfy their fans and bring a pennant to Montreal. "I think down the lineup offensively, it's one of the strongest since I've been here," said Raines. "We've had some good clubs but we've never had the hitting from our middle infielders. We have that this year."

Hubie Brooks, acquired for Carter, will play shortstop. The former Mets' third baseman had his troubles defensively but the Expos hope he'll come around with the glove. Brooks is coming off his best season which included a 24-game hitting streak.

Law, who played third base with the White Sox, will handle second for the Expos. "He can hit with power," said Raines. "Law and Brooks should provide us with a lot of offense we didn't have before."

Schowonda Wins 400

She was untouchable as a senior in high school, and now she's starting to put some distance between herself and her collegiate foes. Allamonte Springs' Schowonda Williams, a freshman at Louisiana State University, blazed to a first place in the 400 meter hurdles Saturday night in the 58th Texas Relays. Williams, a 1984 Lyman High graduate, devastated the rest of the field with a time of 57.80 compared to 58.30 for Texas' Mimi King. Arnita Epps of Texas Southern, the 100 meter hurdle champion, finished a distant fifth at 59.40.

Great Memories Bring Bamby Back As Brewers' Skip

By nature, George Bamberger trusts people. Mostly because that's how he was brought up. Everything considered, he hasn't been hurt much that way.

He not only trusts people, he trusts his memory, too. Nothing wrong with that. In baseball as in so many other enterprises, you're only as smart as what you can remember. That in itself speaks pretty well for Bamberger. He can still tell you some of the pitches he made in his very first professional game for Erie, Pa., 39 years ago.

Curiously, of all the managers I ran into this spring the one who was most relaxed wasn't managing. His name was Billy Martin. Remember him? I'm sure you do.

George Bamberger could've been equally relaxed, just like his buddy, Earl Weaver, but he chose not to be. Instead, he's back managing the Milwaukee Brewers, doing a job he once quit and some people are having trouble understanding what's making him do it.

On June 2, 1983, the day he resigned as manager of the New York Mets, Bamberger told everyone he'd never manage again anywhere. There really was no reason for him to. He had a nice home and a big boat in St. Petersburg and the Mets were going to pay him handsomely for three more years.

But then that memory of his got in the way and he began trusting it again.

He remembered how much fun he had managing the Brewers for nearly three seasons from 1978 through most of 1980. He recalled how he'd always stop off and have a couple of beers with the fans after the Brewers' home games, how much he enjoyed that and how much the fans in Milwaukee enjoyed his company and companionship. Oh, what delightful memories they were.

So even though he had meant it two years ago when he said he'd never take a job managing again, here he is back again piloting the Brewers a second time. You don't have to tell him these are the same Brewers who finished dead last 36 1/2 games back last year. He knows that.

"Go ahead, say it, I'm probably nuts, but Milwaukee always treated me like a million bucks and that's what brought me back," he says, maybe rationalizing a little.

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, managers never quit. They're fired. Even when the club announces a manager is resigning, the chances are he was let go. Bamberger is the exception. He has managed two clubs, the Brewers and the Mets, and he resigned both times.

But Selig, the Brewers' owner and president, thought so much of Bamberger, he offered him a lifetime job with the club when he resigned in September of 1980.

Bamberger admits that Selig and Brewers' General Manager Harry Dalton, whom he worked with in Baltimore, are two more reasons he came back.

With Robin Yount moved to left field because of shoulder surgery, third baseman Paul Molitor something of a question because of an elbow operation and a pitching staff that shows no one who was in double figures with Milwaukee last year, the Brewers generally are being tabbed to finish near the bottom of the pack again this year.

Bamberger doesn't go along with that. "I think we're gonna be able to compete with Detroit, Baltimore, Toronto, New York and Boston," he insists. "Our division is tough. If (Willie) Hernandez doesn't have the kind of year he had last year, Detroit could drop to fifth place. Look what happened to Milwaukee when Molitor and Yount didn't have the years everyone expected from them."

Bamberger has to have both Yount and Molitor in his lineup for the Brewers to go anywhere. He isn't worried about Yount making the switch from shortstop to the outfield.

There is some question, however, about the position Yout has vacated, shortstop. When Yount originally went to the outfield this spring, Bamberger said Brian Giles and Ed Romera would be competing for the shortstop job. But Giles has won the spot and will be holding it down when the Brewers open against the White Sox at home next Tuesday.

Part of the reason for that is Giles out-hit Romera all spring. Bamberger also remembers Giles the first time he saw him in camp with the Mets three years ago.

"I liked those hands of his," says Bamberger. "He's got those soft hands that have a way of turning bad hops into good hops. Mark Belonger had the same kind of hands. Look, Romera is an excellent utility man. He can sit down two weeks and then come right back and play for you, which a lotta players can't do. But Giles is an every-day player."

The Brewers' brightest spot all spring has been left-handed swinging, 26-year-old Doug Loman, who had figures like .324 and 102 RBI with Vancouver last year and hit at a .350 clip for most of the spring. Loman has won the Brewers' center field job from Rick Manning.

"The way he's been hitting. I have to make room for him," Bamberger says.

Which merely shows he trusts his eyes as well as his memory.

Rose Eyes Mark — Tigers Miss Spark

Baseball

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Today not only marks the beginning of the 1985 baseball season but also the start of a one Pete Rose hopes will be one of his most memorable.

The spirited Cincinnati Reds' player-manager fully expects to break Ty Cobb's all-time hit record of 4,191 late this summer.

Rose scheduled himself to start at first base in today's (2:05 p.m. EST) National League opener against the Montreal Expos and he plans to play at least 125 games this year.

Rose, who turns 44 in a week, begins his 23rd season with 4,097 hits. That means he needs just 95 to break Cobb's record and he's already predicted the record will fall on Aug.

Rose insisted his pursuit of the record doesn't take away from either of his two general goals — to be a good overall player and to manage his team in the best way possible.

"The Cobb record is not taking me away from my job as a ballplayer," he said. "It's not like I'm concentrating on anything I shouldn't be. I'm concentrating on getting hits — and isn't that what I'm supposed to be doing out there?"

"And as a manager, I can use the record to good advantage for my young players. I can show them how to handle the pressure of going after the record, yet still relax, enjoy the game and get along with people. I'm going to break the record in a way that shows youngsters how to cope with pressure."

The first pitcher Rose faces in 1985 is expected to be Montreal's Steve Rogers (6-15 last season). Cincinnati's scheduled starter is Mario Soto (18-7).

TIGERS HOST CLEVELAND
DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers may begin their defense of the world championship without Manager Sparky Anderson.

Doctors were expected to decide this morning whether to allow Anderson to attend Detroit's first game of the 1985 season today, against the Cleveland Indians.

Anderson has been hospitalized since late Saturday with swelling in his left leg caused by inflammation in the vein, nerve and knee-joint structure, said Tigers physician, Dr. Clarence Livingood.

X-rays showed no sign of a blood clot, Livingood said, but other tests to determine the origin of the inflammation were being made.

If Anderson is unable to attend today's opener, he not only will miss the Tigers' first game, but will not be able to take part in the presentation of championship rings to the 1984 team members.

Azaleas, Dogwoods In Bloom At Augusta

Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The golf season has "officially" opened. It's Masters Week.

The azaleas and dogwoods are in bloom at the Augusta National Golf Club where Jack Nicklaus arrived early, as usual, and where Gene Sarazen, who rode a double-eagle to victory a half century ago, will be holding court on the magnolia-shaded clubhouse porch.

There are golf tournaments with bigger purses, stronger fields and more demanding courses. But this is the Masters, the legacy left by the legendary Bobby Jones.

Tournament play doesn't begin until Thursday, but many of the expected 50,000 spectators will be on hand for the Monday-to-Wednesday practice rounds as a Mardi Gras spirit prevails throughout the week.

Despite efforts by PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman to gain the title for last week's Tournament Players Championship, the Masters remains the first "major" of the year; the first step to the never-attained "Grand Slam" of golf that includes the U.S. Open in June, the British Open in July and the PGA Championship in August.

Unlike the other three, the Masters has only one home, the Augusta National — founded by Jones and played by Presidents.

"It's the first of our four majors," said Nicklaus, who includes five Masters titles among his record 17 Big Four championships. "Only the man who wins here has a chance at the Grand Slam so it carries a special meaning beyond its own mystique."

Top performers in the Masters seem to go in cycles... Sam Snead and Ben Hogan in the late '40s and early '50s... Arnold Palmer in the late '50s and early '60s... Nicklaus, now 45 and unable to win here over the past decade, from the early '60s to the mid-70s. So based on their track record over the Augusta National, you have to include Tom Watson, Seve Ballesteros and Tom Kite on this week's list of favorites.

Watson, five-time British Open champion and the 1982 U. S. Open champion, has won the Masters twice (1977, 1981), lost in a playoff (1979), and finished second twice (1978, 1984) over the past eight years. He was fourth (1983) fifth (1982) and 12th (1980) the other three times during that span.

Ballesteros, from Spain, also is a two-time Masters winner, 1980 and 1983, and finished third in 1982. He failed to make the cut last year, but won the British Open for a second time three months later.

Kite, a 35-year-old Texan who has earned nearly $2.5 million on the pro golf tour, has never won the Masters. But he has been a constant threat for the past decade, tying for second in 1983, third in 1977, for fifth in 1976-79-81-82, and for sixth in 1980 and 1984.

If you go by the way the pros have been playing so far this year on the Tour, you'd have to lean toward Strange, Calvin Peete, Lanny Wadkins and Mark O'Meara — all two-time winners already this year. But Strange, who has won $337,000 so far this year, and Wadkins have never been better than a tie for seventh at the Augusta National and O'Meara even earn an invitation last year.

Peete, who had his best Masters showing last year when he tied for 15th, picked up $162,000 last week when he won the Tournament Players Championship and vaulted into second place on the money list at nearly $70,000.

"I'd never won a major championship before," said Peete, who has won 10 tournaments and $1.5 million within the past six years. "I feel this (the TPC) is just as much a major championship as any of those we call major. It certainly puts me in the right frame of mind for the Masters."

"My goals now are to win some more major championships — and another million dollars."

Livernois, Hersey Square Off; Metz Increases Homers, Ribbies

LONGWOOD — It will be smoke vs. heat tonight at Lyman High School when Sanford's Fighting Seminole and Lyman's Greyhounds square off in a Five Star Conference baseball game.

Lyman's Derek Livernois and Seminole's James Hersey, a pair of flame-throwing senior right-handers, have waged a strikeout duel most of the season.

Lyman coach Mike Ferrell, who had his Saturday game at Evans rained out. "Both those guys can really throw so there should be a lot of strikeouts."

Elsewhere today, Lake Mary hosts Deland. Lake Brantley entertains Seabreeze and Lake Howell journeys to Spruce Creek.

In the county leaders, Oviedo's Eric Shogren had his 10 consecutive hit streak stopped by Livernois but retained his batting lead with a .525 average.

Oviedo sophomore Mark Merchant increased his stolen base lead to 31. Scott Underwood, MVP of the Colonial Classic, took over the runs lead with 32.

For the pitchers, Lake Brantley's Brad Dunn is 8-0. Lake Mary's Anthony Laszalk is 8-1. Livernois is 7-2 with three saves and Eric "The Whip" Hagen, an all-tournament pitcher at the Classic, is 6-1.

Hana Loses Twice To Chris

PALM BEACH GARDENS (UPI) — Hana Mandlikova was forced to lose twice to Chris Evert Lloyd in the finals of the 275,000 Challenge Cup.

Playing at match point Sunday Evert Lloyd hit to the baseline for an apparent winner, but the linesman called the ball out to make the score deuce instead of ending the match.

Mandlikova, however, refused to accept the call. "I had to go with the linesman's call," said chair umpire Stu Tadlock. "It was too close. But when Lloyd agreed with Hana and then suggested to replay the point, I felt it was the only fair thing to do."

On the replay, Mandlikova, of Czechoslovakia, missed a backhand volley, giving Evert Lloyd her 134th career victory.

Evert Lloyd, who earned $100,000 for the 6-3, 6-3 triumph is now unbeaten in four events at the PGA National Resort where the Challenge Cup was held.

Walt's Way Wins For Generals

United Press International

This season, Walt Michaels has seen his New Jersey Generals do things that in years past would have made him shudder.

He has smirked from the sideline as his offense assumed formations straight from a sandlot playbook. He has winced in trepidation as his $7 million quarterback ran naked bootleg. He has, beyond his own belief, used his center as a pass receiver.

Sunday, his forebearance was repaid. The New Jersey Generals won one "Walt's Way." Herschel Walker ran the ball 34 times for a USFL-record 233 yards, leading the Generals to a 31-25 victory over the Houston Gamblers.

In other games Sunday, Baltimore beat Los Angeles, 17-6; and San Antonio beat Birmingham, 15-14. Saturday, Tampa Bay defeated Jacksonville, 31-17; and Portland defeated Oakland, 30-17.

Monday night, Arizona plays at Denver at 9 p.m.

Connors Injured, McEnroe Wins

CHICAGO (UPI) — There was little doubt Jimmy Connors was injured when he withdrew from his match with John McEnroe in the final of the Chicago Grand Prix tournament — but he could not avoid questions about his advanced age.

Connors, 32, suffered a tear in a back muscle that forced him to default the match Sunday to McEnroe. That gave McEnroe an easy $50,000, with Connors, who was having difficulty walking, getting $25,000.

The tournament was sponsored by Volvo. In his 14th year as a professional, Connors was the first to admit the schedule could have had something to do with the injury. He took a month off prior to a tournament in Florida last week.

"I played a long match against (Brad) Gilbert Friday night and was a little stiff," Connors said. "In the Saturday semifinal against Andre Gomez, toward the end of the match, I came up a little lame. This is the worst it's been in a long time."

Miller Ecstatic Over Victory

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — When it was all over and she took the winner's check on the 18th green, a form of deja vu swept over Alice Miller. This was vujay de — a strange feeling that she had never been in that position.

"I'm so pumped up I can hardly think straight," the bubbling Miller said Sunday after beating the heat and a fast-closing Jan Stephenson to capture the $400,000 Dinah Shore tournament.

Miller has won before, three of them, in fact, in her seven years on the LPGA tour. But she had managed to finish second, third, fourth and fifth in tournaments this year without a victory. And she had never won anything as big as the Dinah Shore, the richest event on the tour and the year's first major tournament.

She did it by weathering scorching 100-degree desert temperatures and shooting a 5-under-par 67 to hold off Stephenson, who used a putter as hot as the sun to carve a 6-under 66, the best round of the tournament.

Sindelar Wins Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Joey Sindelar will play with golf's elite next week at the Masters Tournament after coming from behind Sunday to claim his first PGA tour victory at the Greater Greensboro Open.

Sindelar, 27, started the final round at even par, four strokes off the pace, but went on the offensive even through gusting winds and rain to earn first prize of $72,000. The tour victory gives him an automatic berth to the Masters.

"It's fantastic to have had my first victory here in Greensboro," Sindelar said.

...Raines

Dan Driessen, who began his career as a third baseman with the Reds, will open at first base. He was acquired by Montreal from the Reds on July 26 of last year. Driessen beat out Terry Francona for the first base job.

Tim Wallach, the only third baseman playing third base, fills out the infield. Wallach started quickly last year, hitting 18 homers and driving in 62 runs by Aug. 16. He faded miserably, though, going homerless and driving in just 10 runs the final 42 games.

Raines, coming from his most spectacular season, will return to left field to make room for Herm Winningham, who was also involved in the Carter deal. Andre Dawson, who still provides a lot of punch, takes care of right field, Mike Fitzgerald, the third ingredient of the Carter deal, handles the catching.

Raines, who feels the Expos can win the division, is not perturbed by the experts picking them to finish in the lower division. "A lot of people feel we're going to finish fourth, fifth or sixth, but we're a lot stronger than that. If we get off to a good start, we can have a real good ballclub," he pointed out.

Carter, Raines says, will be missed for his offensive production but not for his personality. A lot of the Expos, Raines included, felt that Carter paid more attention to his outside interests than he did to his baseball.

"I don't think Carter will be missed around the clubhouse," said Raines. "But when you have a player who can hit 30 home runs and drive in 100 runs, you have got to miss him."

Nevertheless, Raines said the Expos will march on. "With the type of club we have here, we can go without Gary Carter," said Raines. "Carter had one of the best years of his career and we finished fifth." "By trading him we received a little more offense (Brooks) in the middle of our infield and speed in the outfield (Winningham). The overall attitude around the clubhouse will make this team a lot better."

Raines says the only problem the Expos face is unfamiliarity. "We only return three guys (Dawson, Wallach and himself) who were in the opening day starting lineup last year," Raines said.

...Rams

against the Blue Darters (20-6), who have better pitching than the other teams in the Classic, but it still was quite an impressive display of putting the bat on the baseball.

Scott Underwood, Lake Mary's stocky center fielder, was the most consistent Ram and earned the tournament's most valuable player award for his performance. Underwood, also a member of the all-tournament team, had a hit in each game and finished with 14 hits in 29 at-bats for the eight games.

The first game — a 5-4 Lake Mary win — was vintage baseball. Apopka, which lost a 10-game winning streak with the setback put on a hitting, fielding and baserunning clinic while forging a 4-1 lead.

The Blue Darters bunched just four hits against hard-luck loser Neal Harris but they made each one count and scored half of their runs without a hit. Apopka took a 1-0 lead in the fourth on an infield hit and a groundout then built it to 2-0 in the fifth with a walk, two stolen bases and a throwing error.

The Rams came back for one in the fifth when Ron Natherson singled moved to second on an error and scored on consecutive balks by Ussery. A diving catch by right fielder Brian King and a nifty scoop at first by Tim Oxley prevented further damage.

Those two plays followed a brilliant one by center fielder Mike Hinde in the fourth inning which took away two sure Lake Mary runs. After Underwood singled and Mike Schmit drew a two-out walk, Donald Grayson slugged a liner to left center. Hinde backpedaled a few steps, then made a superb stretching grab near the fence to rob Grayson of extra bases.

Apopka used four more stolen bases in the sixth — including a shrewd double steal — along with two more Lake Mary errors to add a pair of runs and take a seemingly safe 4-1 advantage into the final frame.

Seemingly, Grayson led off the seventh with a homer over the left field fence to draw the Rams within 4-2 but all-tournament third backer Kevin Hill grounded out and Natherson rapped back to the pitcher.

Brett Molle, representing the last hope, battled reliever Oxley to 3-2 and then took ball four. Ryan Lisle was next and he didn't waste a pitch. He picked on Oxley's first fastball and hammered a dramatic game-tying homer over the 379-foot mark in right center field.

"I knew Oxley always throws smoke," said Lisle. "And he always pipes the first pitch. I got all of it." Laszalk, who relieved Harris after the seventh, retired the side in order in the eighth, striking out two with a sharp-dipping curveball. Underwood grounded out to open the eighth but Kelly Hysell, who was inserted when catcher Rod "C.J." Metz was ejected for pushing Brian King, walked to set the stage. Schmit flew out to left but Grayson walked on a 3-2 pitch after Hysell had stole second.

That brought up Hill, one of the Rams' hottest hitters the past two weeks. The slim third baseman took a ball and then rifled the next offering into right center field for the game-winning hit.

"I was going up there looking for a fastball," said Hill. "He piped it and I did what I had to do."

Lake Mary's win set up a winner-take-all final. Apopka's Skip Cousins, who three-hit the Rams earlier this year, and Laszalk, matched goose eggs for three innings before Ussery followed a single by Oxley and a walk to Tony Johnson with his first three-run homer in the fourth.

"He was holding his right thumb straight up the bat," said Lisle, who caught the second game. "I thought we could throw a fastball by him inside but he just got around on it."

Apopka, which turned two double plays to keep the Rams in check in the first four innings, saw its lead disappear in the fifth when Lake Mary broke loose for four runs.

Hill socked a two-bagger to left center to open the frame and after Natherson popped out, Molle drew another 3-2 walk. Lisle then took a pitch on the hand to load the bases. Shane Letterio followed with a clutch single to left to score Hill and when the left fielder kicked the ball, Molle and Lisle also scored as Letterio scooted to third base.

IN BRIEF

Germans Stage Protests Of American Nuclear Weapons

HEILBRONN, West Germany (UPI) — Thousands of demonstrators gathered today near a U.S. Army Pershing 2 missile training ground for the climax to four days of nationwide protests against American nuclear weapons.

"Rockets out. For Freedom and Jobs," said banners carried by protesters from all over southern Germany who converged at the Waldheide military exercise ground near Heilbronn, 50 miles north of Stuttgart.

Other big rallies were scheduled in Hamburg, where organizers expected between 15,000 and 20,000 demonstrators, and in Dortmund, Cologne, Bremen, Hanover, Frankfurt, Nuremberg and Munich.

Organizers said about 50,000 protesters were on the streets in every West German state for anti-nuclear demonstrations Sunday, many of them directed at U.S., West German and NATO bases. But witnesses and police put the total at closer to 25,000 demonstrators.

Under NATO's nuclear deployment program, West Germany is installing 108 Pershing 2 rockets at three bases and 96 cruise missiles at another base.

Fighting Spreads In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Fighting broke out in Beirut, the mountains east of the capital and the southern port of Sidon today, pushing the nation closer to an all-out war between Christian and Moslem militias.

Prime Minister Raahid Karami met U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew, but both men declined to comment after the brief session at Karami's office in Moslem west Beirut.

Rival factions blamed each other for the sudden escalation of violence which quickly spread from Beirut to Sidon and then to the mountains overlooking the capital.

The fighting around Sidon, like that in Beirut, was between Christian and Moslem militiamen, while the battle on the hills east of Beirut pitted Lebanese army troops against Druze Moslem forces.

Worried that the fighting may spread further, Sidon's Christian and Moslem community leaders arranged for crisis talks today to discuss ways of halting the violence, Beirut radio said.

Israel May Join 'Star Wars'

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin support Israeli participation in research on President Reagan's "Star Wars" program, government sources say.

Israel was one of 17 countries invited to join the multimillion-dollar research effort in a March 26 letter from Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger that reached Jerusalem only last week.

Government sources said Sunday that Peres and Rabin supported accepting the invitation to join the research project, but any final decision would be up to Israel's Cabinet.

The response among top Israeli scientists has also been positive because it could give Israel access to the latest technology and help check the emigration of scientists whose jobs are being threatened by the country's economic crisis.

Normalcy Returning After Sudanese Coup

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — Thousands of people spilled into the streets of Khartoum today to demonstrate support for the new military regime and the arrests of government officials who served under deposed President Jaafar Numery.

The official Sudan News Agency said eight people were killed in the "popular uprising" Saturday but it was unclear whether the news agency was referring to the weeklong demonstrations over food-price hikes that preceded the military takeover.

Diplomats said they had no confirmation that any deaths occurred during the actual seizure of power by the military in a palace coup Saturday.

The news agency blamed the State Security Police for the deaths. The unit has since been disbanded by the new government and its members arrested.

Businesses reopened and soldiers stayed out of sight as thousands took to the streets for the third day today to demonstrate their support for the new government two days after Numery was overthrown while he was in Cairo, Egypt, on his way home from a trip to the United States.

The demonstrations began Saturday only hours after the military takeover was announced on radio and have continued almost unabated since then.

Telex and telephone links were restored today and officials said the airport would probably reopen Wednesday for commercial flights. The airport had been closed since last Thursday.

Sudan's new military rulers Sunday ordered the arrests of all former ministers under the ousted Numery but freed hundreds of political prisoners jailed by the deposed leader.

The new Sudanese government, headed by Defense Minister and Armed Forces Commander Abdul Raham Swar al-Dahab, promised reforms based on "freedom of expression and the basic rights of individuals," the official Sudan News Agency reported Sunday.

Khartoum was reported quiet, with near normal attendance at shops and offices, but the streets were littered with crumpled and half-burned portraits of Numery. Martial law remained in effect.

Fair To Be A Blast From The Past

Historical Groups, Schools To Hold Events At SCC

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

"A Day in the Past" will be the theme of the first Seminole County Historical Fair to be held 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 20 on the campus of Seminole Community College in conjunction with the county's annual social studies fair.

Co-sponsored by the Seminole County Historical Commission, the SCC office of Community Instructional Services and the Seminole schools, the fair will begin with a parade which will assemble in the parking area of the Adult Education campus at 9:15 a.m. and begin at 9:45 a.m., moving to the outside amphitheater on the main campus, according to Commission Chairman Alex Dickison, who is heading up the planning committee.

"We hope people will feel that visiting the fair will be a good family outing," Dickison said. "Citizens with little or no past interest in history still should have fun during their visit."

The parade will feature the Oviedo High School Band, the Longwood Elementary School Band, horses, Scouts and dignitaries. After the parade there will be a short introductory ceremony and introductions followed by a demonstration by the Florida Militia at 10:30 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

At 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. folk singers Frank and Ann Thomas from Lake Wales will sing. At 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. there will be cloggers dancing in the mall area.

At noon, the SCC Community Band will present a "turn of the century" concert in the outside amphitheater.

At 2 p.m. the choir of the Altamonte Chapel, which is celebrating its centennial, will give a special concert in the Fine Arts Concert Hall.

Throughout the day there will be exhibits of old photographs and artifacts by the various communities and historical groups in the county in the cafeteria, talks and slide presentations in the Science Building, craft demonstrations, and food.

Some of the crafts demonstrations and exhibits will include spinning and weaving, soap making, basketry, quilting, cane chair making, duck carving, hide tanning, old tool working, bottle collections, Seminole Indians and the Florida Militia encampment.

Activities and displays will be in and around buildings L.S.E. and C.

The Social Studies Fair, with its theme "Triumph or Tragedy," will be held from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the SCC Fine Arts Building. Hundreds of county students are expected to compete in debating, project displays, speeches, dramatic and musical presentations, extemporaneous essays and current events.

a park about a mile away from the college.

Peck said an autopsy showed Ms. Marsh died of burns she received in the fire rather than injuries from the fall.

He added that police are not sure whether she jumped or fell from the gondola.

The National Traffic Safety

Board will investigate the fire and crash, Peck said. Police found two fuel tanks in the craft had ruptured. They are unsure whether the fire burst the tanks or whether the rupture led to the blaze.

The balloon had taken off from the Central Florida Fairgrounds in Orlando, three miles from the crash site. Police said the sisters enjoyed riding in hot air balloons and had been on an Easter outing with several other crafts when the mishap occurred.

Cancer Risk Not Found To Be Too Worrisome

NEW YORK (UPI) — People should be told about any increased risks they may have for developing cancer because research shows such knowledge will not create added stress, researchers say. Family life is not disrupted and there is no increased anxiety or stress in people informed of having been exposed to a chemical linked to cancer, the scientists from the Medical College of Georgia in Augusta reported in the latest issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Using the concern for inducing stress as a rationalization to avoid disseminating risk information is probably unwarranted and contrary to the civil rights of citizens," Horowitz wrote.

J. Larry Hornaby and his colleagues at the Medical College of Georgia studied how being informed of the risk for cancer affected the family life and personalities of 140 workers exposed between 1949 and 1979 to a chemical for making dyes for fabrics and leather. The workers were tested within a month of being told about the cancer risk, then 128 were questioned again six months later. Few changes were noted.

"These findings indicate that the subjects were not thinking or worrying about bladder cancer a great deal," Hornaby wrote.

Tight-Fitting Shoes Can Cause Ugly Corns

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first column by the Herald's new medical columnist, Dr. Peter H. Gott. Dr. Gott, who writes with a fresh and sensitive consumer-oriented approach to health care, replaces Dr. Lawrence Lamb.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have read a lot about the benefits of a high-fiber diet. I've recently started eating six pieces of fruit, two bowls of bran cereal and two large salads per day. Unfortunately, I am now suffering an increase in intestinal gas. Did I add too much fiber too quickly?

DEAR READER: High-fiber diets are reported to protect against breast cancer and tumors of the large intestine. Some investigators have claimed fiber may actually bind cholesterol in digested food so that less unwanted fat enters the body. High fiber is now recommended for various bowel disorders, like diverticulitis. All in all, bran and fiber appear to be generally beneficial. Experts encourage all Americans to eat more.

Unfortunately, however, fiber commonly causes intestinal gas. This unpleasant but entirely predictable consequence is due to the amount of indigestible material in the diet, not to a sudden change from low-fiber foods. Accept your new-found gas as the happy result of a more healthful diet. Incidentally, your problem may tend to diminish with time.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I enjoy running, but I have heard that if you run when the temperature is below 32 degrees Fahrenheit, your lungs will freeze. Is this true or just an old wives' tale?

DEAR READER: Your lungs will not freeze when you run in sub-freezing temperature, because the air you breathe is warmed by body heat as it enters the lungs.

Running in really cold weather, however, can be uncomfortable. When the temperature is below zero degrees F., the air can cause pain in the lungs. Asthmatics will often have difficulty breathing in sub-zero air because frigid inhalations can cause airway constriction in susceptible individuals. If you choose to run when the outside temperature is very low, I suggest you wear a light mask over your mouth; such devices are readily available in most sporting-goods stores.

Old wives' tales aside, you are probably at greater risk of finger or ear frostbite than of any significant lung damage. Naturally, as in any cold-weather sport, you will need to take extra precautions on especially cold days when you run.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

In the chemistry lab, the processes of distillation and condensation are used. The same processes can occur at the bridge table when an alchemist declares for one opponent's high-card winner to be played on the same trick as the other opponent's high trump.

South was a bit pushy to jump to two hearts after his partner's takeout double. North cue-bid three clubs, and then jumped to five hearts to invite slam. South quickly passed.

The nine of clubs was ducked to East's queen. East returned a low spade to dummy's king. Declarer played the heart ace and another heart. When East showed out on the second heart, the contract was in jeopardy.

South won the trump king, played a spade to dummy's ace, which he threw a club, and trumped a diamond. Now he ruffed a spade in dummy and trumped still another diamond.

At this point, declarer led a club toward dummy's ace. West could not gain by trumping (a low club would then be played from dummy), so he discarded a diamond.

Dummy's last diamond was ruffed, and now the fourth spade was led. Once again, if West ruffed now, declarer would simply discard dummy's losing club. So West discarded again, and now, on the thirteenth trick, the king of clubs in East's hand and West's good queen of trumps crashed.

It may be more common in the chemistry lab, but I call that condensation.
