Jurisdiction Request Faces Tough Battle

Sanford Eyes Adjacent County Land For Planning

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford will ask Seminole County to grant the city planning jurisdiction for all unincorporated county land adjacent to Sanford's borders. Seminole County will in all likelihood refuse the city's request, according to County Administrator Ken Hooper.

Sanford's request for city Planning and Zoning Board authority over "the Sanford urban area," which includes the county land, forms the basis of a 15 page "joint-planning concept" presented by city staff to Sanford commissioners at a Monday work session.

The proposal would enable both governments to meet "the general goals and objectives" of a cooperation clause contained in the state's 1985 growth management act, according to City Planner Jay Marder, who said if granted planning authority, the city would continue to acknowledge the county's legal jurisdiction over these areas.

Hooper said today although he had yet to see the proposal, he felt planning efforts for the Sanford area should be undertaken through the creation of a "truly joint" committee containing representatives from both governments.

"I don't see how the county could relinquish planning authority over its own land," Hooper said. "The county and the city should work together to come up with something that acknowledges both governments' responsibility to the growth management act."

The Sanford proposal will be sent to county commission chairman Bob Sturm later this week. It was developed by Marder, City Engineering and Planning Director Bill Simmons and City Manager Frank Faison.

Prior to Monday's presentation to the city commission, Marder was asked how he felt the proposal would be received by the county. He declined to "speculate," although he said if county planners "were relieved of responsibility" for these unincorporated areas, "they'll have that much more time to concentrate on county-wide land use plan concerns such as transportation and sewage."

According to Hooper, however, "County-wide" means just that. We've got to plan for all areas and all the services that are to be provided to them."

Under the state's 1985 growth management act, counties have until October of 1987 to develop new comprehensive land use plans.

Sanford also intends to complete its plan by then, although the act's deadline for cities' compliance is December of 1989, Marder said.

A suggested "urban planning area" map contained in the city proposal includes the so-called "corridor of growth" that lies west of Sanford, along State Road 46. This area consists of unincorporated county land as well as some 230 acres the city annexed last fall and the county filed a still unresolved suit to win back. The Sanford urban planning area's western boundary falls approximately 4 miles short of Yankee Lake. It does not extend within the municipal boundaries of Lake Mary.

Land disputes between the city and the county are openly acknowledged in the cover letter Mayor Betty Smith wrote to accompany the

Police Chiefs Challenge FDLE Crime Statistics

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Two city police chiefs in Seminole County question the amount of crime reported in their cities by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, an agency which uses a 51-year-old reporting system to assess crime rates in Florida.

The chiefs, Steve Harriett of Sanford, and William Liquori of Altamonte Springs, made their comments during a press conference Monday in Orlando called by the Crime Commission and attended by 14 police chiefs, sheriffs or their representatives from Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties. The commission is a non-profit group of civic groups, businesses and law enforcement representatives in central Florida. Seminole County Sheriff John Polk did not attend.

In addition to Harriett and Liquori, attending the conference from Seminole County were acting Lake Mary Chief Lt. Sam Belfiore and Lt. Frank Taylor, Longwood.

Harriett said he wants to verify with Sanford police department records FDLE's reported 6.8 percent increase in crime in the city. Liquori said the crime rate attributed to his city — 14.1 percent — is completely wrong. He said Altamonte Springs had a 11 percent decrease in crime last year and blamed the discrepancy on a state computer error.

The Uniform Crime Report, an annual assessment of crime in the state by FDLE, is a system of information gathering that was devised in 1935 and is being studied for updating in about 1990 because the statistics it generates are not believed to be always accurate or specific enough about various types of crime, according to comments made by the lawmen at the conference.

Further, it was not designed to accommodate various types of drug crimes, said Orange County Sheriff Lawson Lamar, even though illegal drugs are the prime cause of crime mentioned by the chiefs.

The conference was called by the commission so the officers could air their views on the statistics released by FDLE Friday and its reported overall crime-rate increase in the state.

Lamar and Orlando Police Chief Fred Walsh used the conference to criticize lawmakers and make pitches for more money to fight crime. Seminole Sheriff Polk said he was not at the press conference because, "I just had other things to do." The statistics showed the crime rate in Florida was 11.4 percent during the 1985 reporting year. In 1984 the rate was up 0.2 percent and in 1983 a decline of 8.8 percent. The report said crime was up 12.5 percent in Seminole County in the 1985 reporting period.

High Court To Consider Citizens' Right To Flee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide if citizens become suspects by running away at the sight of police, a question that tests the Constitution's ban on unreasonable searches.

The justices will hear arguments next term in an appeal by Michigan officials, who say Askia Shabaz was arrested properly by Detroit police for carrying an illegal weapon.

The Michigan Supreme Court ruled last year that police seizure of Shabaz's gun was illegal because the officers lacked "suspicion of criminal activity based on objective observation" before they began following him.

Under Supreme Court precedents, police may stop and briefly question someone if there is "reasonable suspicion" he has committed a crime, but cannot detain the person until meeting a higher standard of "probable cause."

In other actions, the justices: Paved the way for a new trial for actress Robyn Douglas, who appeared in nude photographs in Playboy but later claimed that Hustler magazine invaded her privacy by publishing the photos.

Announced they will consider, in an environmental conflict from California's Big Sur area, whether a state agency can regulate a mining operation in a national forest.

In the Detroit case, the officers, who were wearing civilian clothes and driving an unmarked car, said they saw Shabaz leave an apartment building known for drug deals, look in their direction and stuff a bag into his vest or pants.

As their car slowed down, Shabaz began running, at which point the officers got out of their car to pursue him. Before he was captured, Shabaz threw a bag into a storefront doorway. Police picked up the bag and found a revolver inside.

The charges against Shabaz were thrown out by a trial court, which said the gun was found as the result of an illegal search since Shabaz's running away did not give the officers reasonable suspicion to believe he had committed a crime.

Appealing to the justices, Michigan officials argued police had good reason to suspect Shabaz. "The unprecipitated flight of (Shabaz) after leaving a building at which narcotics and

To Meet Liability Crisis

Reagan To Propose Jury Award Limits

From Staff and Wire Reports

To meet a perceived liability insurance crisis, President Reagan will propose limits on jury awards in liability cases to reduce the cost of insurance and increase its availability, a senior administration official announced Monday.

"This definitely points out that we are on the right side," Sanford physician Luis Perez said this morning. Perez is co-founder of the Florida Coalition for Liability Reform, which is planning a rally later this month in Tallahassee.

Medical, business, and professional organizations from across the state will meet with legislators in hopes of getting relief from the crisis, in lobbying for a $250,000 cap on non-economic damage awards.

Of the president's proposals, Perez said, "It just shows that the problem is national and very serious, and the only solution is to limit tort awards."

"Attorneys have told me that the $250,000 cap we are seeking is too little, while the president and attorney general say that a $100,000 cap is more than enough," Perez said.

Perez, president of the Florida Medical Association, said Reagan's proposal is a definite boost to the coalition, and expects it to spark even more interest in the April 21 Tallahassee rally. He said over 50 state business organizations plan to participate.

The Reagan administration spokesman said the average medical malpractice suit award has risen from $220,018 in 1975 to $1,017,716 in 1985 and the number of federal product liability suits rose 758 percent in 1985.

The liability crisis, he said, has resulted in $25 billion in industry losses in the past year due to "explosive growth" in damage awards, and has severely affected local governments, business and professionals.

The official said Reagan has accepted a number of recommendations from his Domestic Policy Council and will ask Congress for legislation "toward reform that could make insurance more affordable and more available and take certain steps that would limit the size of claims and the size of awards" in civil suits.

"The situation we face is one of availability, affordability and adequacy of coverage" of insurance, said the official, speaking to reporters in Santa Barbara on condition he not be further identified.

As an example, the official said that the roller coaster at Coney Island did not operate over the weekend because the owners could not get insurance.

"Insurance companies were still profitable, but the margins were smaller, so now they're faced with having to get more income from insurance rates," the official said.

A second problem to be addressed by the legislation, he said, is the current state of tort law, which he said often penalizes companies that are not at fault in a liability case.

Wildfires Burning In 13 States

By United Press International

Wary firefighters, aided by convicts, volunteers and National Guardsmen, faced walls of flames, lung-searing smoke and in one case live bullets to control fires raging in parched woodlands from New England to Dixie.

Forecasters offered little hope of rain today to dampen the wildfires burning in Massachusetts, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Officials said at least 70,000 acres of woodlands — some torched by arsonists — have burned in the 13 states in the past two weeks, claiming the lives of three firefighters.

About 700 Ohio firefighters have worked with little rest for 10 days battling flames that have charred 15,000 acres.

"The volunteer firemen and our people are just dead tired," Ohio forester Tom Berger said Monday.

Firefighters battling a 100-acre blaze in a firing range at the Camp Edwards National Guard base on the Massachusetts Military Reservation faced an additional danger — unexploded ammunition.

"Initially the firefighters couldn't get in close enough to fight it because it is an area where there is live ammunition that doesn't explode during firing practice," Maj. Richard Sherman said.

Authorities blamed arsonists for starting fires in several states, but particularly in east Tennessee, where federal investigators joined a search for the culprit.

National Guard aircraft joined the battle against wildfires in remote areas of Kentucky and Alabama, where Forestry Commission spokeswoman Cynthia Page said 900 separate fires in the past week were creating a logistical nightmare.

"There are only so many people you can shift around," she said. "We feel we can handle the situation at this point, but if it continues to worsen we may not be able to."

Volunteers from two Job Corp centers and specially trained "Hot Shot" teams, including an all-Apache Indian crew, were flown from Arizona and New Mexico over the weekend to fight four fires raging in the Boone National Forest in Kentucky.

Volcano Eruption: 'It Looked Like The End Of The World'

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — A curtain of volcanic ash blocked the midday sun and brought darkness at noon to the fishing town of Homer after the erupting Augustine Volcano unleashed its biggest blast of gas and grit in 10 years.

Monday's eruption — the latest in a series that began Thursday — sent ash billowing 8 miles high and spread a sooty cloud that appeared 40 miles wide and 60 miles long on satellite weather maps, meteorologist John Elise said.

One Homer resident said, "It looked like the end of the world," and another compared the ash to "a black thunderstorm." Three people in the town, all with previous respiratory problems, were treated at a hospital for ash inhalation.

Augustine rises from a barren island 70 miles west of Homer, population 3,000. Officials said new ash clouds threaten Kodiak, an island community of 6,000 people about 100 miles south of the volcano. Seward, a fishing town of about 2,000 people, also reported an ash haze.

Gramm-Rudman Cuts Vets' Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Veterans' education and job-training programs are being cut today by as much as 13 percent — the latest reduction under the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law.

The Veterans Administration said a single veteran who is a full-time student will lose $33 per month and a single veteran getting vocational rehabilitation subsistence payments will lose $41 a month, beginning with the checks that come out today.

Details of the veterans' reduction were announced Monday as college students protested cuts under the balanced budget law and President Reagan's new budget.

In a news release, the VA said education and training benefits will be reduced 8.7 percent and subsistence allowances for vocational rehabilitation trainees will be cut 13.1 percent.

Medicare III, Social Security O.K.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Social Security is enjoying robust financial health that should carry it well beyond the turn of the century, but Medicare is so sick it could be bankrupt by 1993, an administration report concludes.

The annual study from the Social Security Board of Trustees, released Monday, said that in order for Medicare's hospital insurance fund to remain solvent for the next 25 years, it may need benefit cuts of 22 percent or a 28 percent increase in its income.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Supreme Court Rejects Appeal of Convicted Florida Inmate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court rejected Monday the appeal of Florida death inmate Jacob Dougan, convicted of murdering the son of a policeman in a crime involving the militant group, the Black Liberation Army.

The justice, without comment, refused to hear arguments from Dougan that his jury was conviction-prone because it lacked opponents of capital punishment.

Dougan was a member of a Jacksonville Beach karate club that sent taped messages to the news media saying "the Black Liberation Army" wanted to ignite a race war with the random slaying of a "white devil."

Dougan was found guilty of the June 1974 murder of Steven Orlando, 18, the son of an East Brunswick, N.J., policeman Orlando had been hitchhiking and was picked up by five gang members who stabbed him and shot him.

Secret Shuttle Salvage Continues

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The crew of the USS Preserver found time to rescue an injured bird amid more wreckage from the shuttle Challenger's crew cabin.

The cryptic transmissions Monday may have been in reference to continued efforts to recover more remains of Challenger's seven astronauts.

The Preserver planned to return to port late today after six days at sea to unload crew cabin wreckage and deliver the injured bird to wildlife officials.

Lt. Max Allen, a Navy spokesman, said the bird "somehow got injured and they don't know what kind of bird it is but they're bringing it in on the ship."

Education Commissioner Candidate To Speak At Sanford Chamber

State Senator Betty Castor (D-Tampa) will be the guest of honor at a personality coffee and luncheon at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 400 E. First St.

She is president pro-tem of the state senate and a candidate for the office of state commissioner of education. The senator will speak on her views on education and the proposed state lottery and be available for questions, according to Chamber President Jack Horner.

The coffee is free and open to the public. A continental breakfast will be served.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Heavy rain driven by high winds doused a four-day heat wave across the nation's midsection today, while rain in northwest Colorado was blamed for a rock slide with boulders the size of trucks. Wildfires fueled by record temperatures and dry conditions raged on in 13 states in the eastern third of the nation. Forecasters said a massive cold front, which reached early today from the Great Lakes to the Texas panhandle, would bring an end to the summer fun across much of the Midwest today. Heavy rain and high winds riding on the front "will bring temperatures down a good 15 or 20 degrees, back to the 60s for most areas," said Bill Barlow of the National Weather Service. Early morning temperatures were in the upper 20s and 30s from the Northern Plains to western parts of Kansas and Nebraska, with 30s common from upstate New York to northern New England. Temperatures soared to a record 83 degrees in Minneapolis Monday before a brief thunderstorm.

Five Americans Reported Aboard 166 Dead In Mexicana Crash

MARAVATIO, Mexico (UPI) — Soldiers and Red Cross teams returned to the mountains of central Mexico today to remove the bodies of more than 130 people killed in the wreckage of a Mexicana Airlines jet that slammed into a side shortly after takeoff from Mexico City.

Mexicana Airlines Flight 940, carrying 166 passengers and crew members, had been airborne 14 minutes when pilot Carlos Guardarrama States radioed flight controllers and requested permission to return to Mexico City.

Five minutes later, the Boeing 727 crashed in the rugged central Sierra Madre mountains. All aboard were killed — the worst air disaster in Mexican history.

An airline official confirmed that there were at least five Americans aboard, including two young women vacationing in Mexico from Buffalo, New York. The spokesman said only two passengers — a son and daughter of the pilot — were bound for Los Angeles. The rest, including nine French citizens and a still undetermined number of other foreigners, were heading to Puerto Vallarta and Acapulco.

Lt. Col. Carlos Garcia Priani, assistant army chief of staff in the area, said the tail section of the Boeing 727, with some 20 bodies inside of the plane, fell over the crest of the hill into a crevice, leaving a trail of metal shrapnel, pieces of broken seats and human remains.

"Up to now I cannot tell you the official crash but it seems that there was an explosion in the air before (the plane) crashed into the crest of the hill, breaking into two parts," Priani said.

The plane took off from Mexico City's Benito Juarez International Airport Monday morning bound for Los Angeles, with stops at the Pacific Coast resorts of Puerto Vallarta and Mazatlan.

A Mexicana Airlines spokesman said the crash was the worst in Mexican history. The deadliest previous crash was on June 4, 1969, when a Mexicana Boeing 727 rammed into a mountain near Monterrey, killing 79. Mexicana Flight 940 went down near the isolated town of Maravatio, in the rugged Sierra Madre mining region, some 90 miles northwest of Mexico City.

Rescuers were flown by helicopter to a mountain clearing but still faced an hour-long hike up a steep, dusty, pine-needle-covered red dust made the footing slick — 9,000 feet above sea level and 9 miles from the nearest road.

Workers carrying bodies on stretchers back to the landing site to be loaded on the waiting helicopters sometimes lost their footing and fell.

Lake Monroe Woman Abducted And Raped

A 27-year-old Lake Monroe woman reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was raped by a man who forced her from her home and abducted her into a nearby abandoned building.

The attacker was inside the woman's home when she returned home from work at about 12:30 a.m. Saturday. The man, who is believed to have been wearing a stocking over his face, dragged her to an abandoned building south of her home, a sheriff's report said.

After the attack the woman was tied up and left at the scene. Longwood police dogs were brought in and searched unsuccessfully for the man. The suspect had apparently cut a screen and opened a window to enter the woman's home, the report said.

Cemetery Maintenance Bid Approved

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford Commissioners acknowledged responsibility for the memory of city forebears by approving a $30,000 bid for maintenance for city owned cemetery property lying off 25th Street and Park Avenue.

Commissioners also offered their support to the installation of two plaques commemorating the efforts of city forefathers in the cemetery maintenance and brush clearing and be undertaken at the city's Evergreen lot, as well as the Sanford owned cemetery behind it. City Manager Frank Falson said.

Falson said the city-owned Evergreen lot has been maintained through an annual program which, this year, involved the $32,000 bid award commissioners made to Lawn Systems of Sanford.

Commissioners have also responded favorably to requests for the local re-installation of a plaque commemorating the founding of Rollins College in Sanford and the installation of a new plaque recognizing the accomplishments of Seth French, who served as a state representative and the city's second mayor.

The 30 by 30 inch bronze Rollins plaque had been situated on the median between Park Avenue and the old Sanford City Hall, but is now located at the Seminole County Historic Museum, according to representative of the Sallie Harrison chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who have requested the plaque be re-installed at the corner of 1st Street and Park Avenue.

The plaque memorializes a meeting of local clergy on April 28, 1855 to discuss the formation of Rollins, which is the oldest private college in Florida.

The Sallie Harrison chapter representatives would like to see the plaque re-installed during a ceremony on April 28 to mark the college's 101st birthday.

Commissioners supported the proposal when they met last week, although they said they felt the matter should first be addressed by the Sanford Historic Preservation Board because the installation would be undertaken in a section of the city's historic district.

The request will be placed on the agenda for the historic board's April 10 meeting, and then the matter will be returned to the city commission for final review in time to effect the plaque's installation on April 28, commissioners said.

The French plaque was requested by the Sanford forefather's grandson, Adrian Boyd, who told commissioners he has also contacted State Representative Bobby Brantley to assist in procuring it.

Boyd said he would like to see the marker placed on French Avenue, which was named after his ancestor by General Henry Shelton Sanford.

Mayor Bettye Smith endorsed the request and told Boyd it will receive further review at a coming city commission workshop.

SCC Wins 1st Place In Business Meet

Seminole Community College business students took ten schools in the Florida Phi Beta Lambda Leadership Conference in Orlando recently.

Winners included Amy Todd in Job Interview, Corinne Sini in Economics, and Barbara Warman in Business Communication.

Other winners in the one hour business contests were William Carter in Marketing and Economics, and Ms. Warman in Economics.

Ms. Todd was elected to serve as vice president, representing ten schools in the Florida Phi Beta Lambda district. The chapter advisors are Sharon Fear, Lucinda Coulter, and Nancy Collier.

Phi Beta Lambda is the largest post secondary business organization in the nation, according to Mrs. Fear. She said the organization conducts activities which promote community service, academic excellence, and leadership development.

Surplus Food Distribution

Surplus food will be distributed in Seminole County by the American Red Cross on April 2, 3 & 4. Distribution sites remain the same as last month, with recipients being asked to report only to the site serving their zip code. Boxes or bags to carry commodities are helpful.

Zip codes 32748, 32771 and 32779: Crooms High School, 2200 West 13th Street, Sanford, on Wednesday, April 2 from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Zip codes 32701, 32703, 32707, 32708, 32714, 32730, 32733, 32750, 32751, and 32792: Altamonte Community Chapel, 625 Highway 436 in Altamonte Springs on Thursday, April 3 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Zip codes 32732, 32768 and 32769: Chuluota Fire Hall, 7th and E Streets in Chuluota on Friday, April 4 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Seminole County residents who have not yet registered for the commodities may do so at the appropriate location for their zip code and will receive food on the same day. For additional information, Seminole County residents may call the office in Longwood at 894-4141.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire Department has responded to the following calls:

SUNDAY
—1:11 p.m., 1102 1/2 West 10th Street, rescue. A 64-year-old woman suffering from pain in her right side and shoulder declined hospital transport.

—4:21 p.m., 1508 South Sumner Avenue, auto accident. A 1974 Ford driven by Greg Church, 21, 1313 Pine Avenue, collided with an auto. Church suffered a laceration on his wrist and multiple abrasions on his back and knees. He was immobilized and transported to the hospital.

—7:33 p.m., 2006 Hartwell Avenue, rescue. A 27-year-old Sanford man who suffered a bloody nose and facial contusions during a possible assault declined hospital transport.

—8:33 p.m., 606 East 1st Street, 11:42 p.m., 2585 South French Avenue (Village Inn restaurant), rescue. A 58-year-old Sanford man who had suffered a possible seizure declined hospital transport.

—11:30 a.m., U.S. Highway 17-92, Seminole Community College parking lot, fire. The fire went out upon arrival. Sanford firemen left the scene to the jurisdiction of the Seminole County and Lake Mary Fire Departments.

County To Buy Land

Seminole County has elected to pursue the purchase of property for a central transfer station.

The county will proceed to negotiate prices and receive appraisals on two possible locations for the facility, County Environmental Services Director Jim Bible said.

One site, a 35-acre parcel, is located within the city of Lake Mary, on the west side of U.S. Highway 17-92 south of the Five Points complex. The other site, a 40-acre parcel, is located on the north side of County Road 419 near the 17-92/419 intersection, Bible said.

The county would close its existing Sanlando and Upala facilities by implementing the central transfer station, he said.

The central station would serve the entire county except for the eastern portion, which would be served directly by the Ocoee landfill, Bible said.

He estimated the facility will result in a $300,000 per year savings to the county. The other facilities, slated to be closed in 1987, could be used as ballfields or possible library sites, Bible said.

The central facility, projected to cost around $4.5 million, is part of the county's plans to upgrade its solid waste management program.

Shabaz's lawyer told the justices the police pursuit of his client amounted to a detention. Amenovici said he was free from unreasonable search and seizure.

To say that the police, without identifying themselves as such, may detain a citizen about whom they have only a suspicion, is to make the right of a citizen to walk away and not respond to the police a meaningless right," he said.

It's Crisis Of Decency

The scene played out each night along sections of this country's 1,800-mile border with Mexico is becoming an oft-told tale: One of high drama, of danger and violence, of desperation and hope. It reflects a broader crisis now but hardly an unprecedented phenomenon. The current wave of Mexicans entering the United States illegally is but the latest in a series of Mexican migrations that began more than a century ago.

Most often, these migrations served both nations. An expanding American economy needed labor, and Mexico needed both a safety valve for social unrest plus the hard currency earned by workers crossing the border into El Norte. In some ways, the mutual benefits still apply today; all the more so given the juxtaposition of steady economic growth in the United States and wrenching economic contraction in Mexico.

And yet, the rising tide of undocumented aliens pouring across the U.S. border also represent a crisis of vast proportions.

There is, first of all, what might be called the crisis of decency. It is nothing short of scandalous that thousands of undocumented aliens employed as agricultural workers exist amidst the most appalling squalor, living in cardboard huts and holes in the ground. Add to the spider holes of countless squalid camps across the United States, the thousands of flyspecked apartment, motel rooms and safe houses crammed wall to wall with illegal immigrants, and the true dimensions of this crisis of decency begin to emerge.

Consider, too, the nightly indecency along the border. Uncontrolled immigration has turned certain border stretches into virtual war zones with armed bandits preying on aliens and shooting at the U.S. Border Patrol. Thefts, beatings, rapes and murders are regular, almost routine, occurrences along a border that has long since slipped out of control and become part of the crisis of decency.

And then there is the crisis of control. One measure of sovereignty is a nation's control over its own borders. On any given night, the U.S. Border Patrol apprehends more than 5,000 aliens attempting to enter the United States illegally from Mexico. But by the Border Patrol's own estimate, nearly as many aliens evade detection. That adds up to about 1.5 million undocumented aliens entering a nation in which undocumented aliens already constitute roughly 4 percent of the population. And the numbers of aliens entering illegally are rising steadily as Mexico's economy deteriorates and Central America is convulsed by political upheaval and violence.

After four long years of debate, Congress may at last be coming to the same conclusion. The Senate has once again passed Wyoming Sen. Alan Simpson's immigration reform bill, complete with provisions for 350,000 guest workers per year and sanctions against employers who knowingly hire undocumented aliens. In the House, Judiciary Committee Chairman Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey is pressing ahead with his own immigration-reform bill. At the moment, it lacks the crucial guest-worker provision, but that could be added as part of a final House-Senate compromise. Most encouraging of all, President Reagan now appears personally committed to supporting reform and getting his administration to pull together as one on this vital issue.

Reforming an immigration system that is now ineffectual, if not in a state of outright collapse, cannot happen quickly enough.

Nancy Denies She's Power In White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nancy Reagan says it is not true that she is the power in the White House.

The first lady was interviewed about her role by ABC-TV's Barbara Walters for broadcast before the Academy Awards program.

Asked what she thought her influence was, Mrs. Reagan said:

"He (President Reagan) never thinks that anybody is taking advantage of him, or end-running him, and ... I don't know whether it's being a woman or just being more intuitive about those things, but I can usually spot pretty well and all the little antennae go up."

Asked if she thought people feared her, Mrs. Reagan said, "I guess if they do fear me it's because they think that I might say something that might be true about them to my husband."

Mrs. Reagan also said she does not feel that she had to give up a lot in terms of her own career to be a devoted wife. "I'd done pictures (in Hollywood) that I enjoyed."

But she added that when she found "the man

I wanted to marry, that was what I wanted to do, and that brought me great happiness."

"I thought I was marrying an actor," Mrs. Reagan said. "Little did I dream that he would become president of the United States."

Reminded of her many difficulties, including her husband's cancer operation, Mrs. Reagan was asked what stands out in her mind. She said there had been "so many, so many tragedies that happened one right after the other. You just would finish getting over one and then another one would come along."

"I think the last one, the Challenger (space shuttle) was maybe particularly hard to get over because of the visual part of it. I was watching (when it exploded). I just couldn't believe it."

As for her husband's illness, Mrs. Reagan said she thinks the public is entitled to know "if there is something wrong. If he has cancer, or in his case had a malignancy. Certainly, they're entitled to know that. The thing that upset me before was doctors who knew nothing about the case ... were not connected with the case, going on television and talking about it."

"Ah, it's very difficult. You know, to be in the hospital room with your husband and having some doctor come on television and say, 'Well, I'll give him about four days.' And he doesn't know anything about it."

Asked how Reagan felt about it, she said: "He just got, well ... it's upsetting."

Does she still have "that same terrible fear" as when an attempt was made on the president's life? "Well, it's back there in the back of your mind."

As to whether she had any advice for a future first lady, Mrs. Reagan said: "Be yourself."

In the same interview, Reagan was asked what he would do when his White House years are over.

Asked if he would return to the motion picture business, he said: "It seems hard for me to believe that I could."

"And I think I'd have a feeling that it would look like I was exploiting the office that I'd held."

Can They Justify Junkets?

By Robert Shepard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Try as they may, members of Congress have a difficult time convincing people that congressional travel to other countries — called junkets by the critics — is really justified.

The so-called fact-finding visits to Central America are particularly hard to justify when you consider that hardly anyone who goes down there ever stumbles on information that alters his position.

Those who support aid to the Nicaraguan rebels invariably come back from their trips still convinced such aid is essential. Opponents return equally certain that what they believed when they boarded their airplane to fly south is indisputably correct.

A recent example of this kind of dubious quest for information occurred when nine House members flew down to Nicaragua and El Salvador on a Friday and came back the next day.

The nine Republicans made the trip just a few days before the House was to vote on President Reagan's request for $100 million worth of aid to the Contras and there was little doubt how the group felt about the issue. They were all primed to vote for the aid.

Not surprisingly, the trip drew fire from House members on the other side of the Contra issue. Rep. Gerald Kleczka, D-Wis., called it "a 19-hour, taxpayer-funded junket for jingoism. ... Nine partisan conclusions in search of rationale and justification."

Included in the group was Rep. Robert Dornan, R-Calif., one of the most ardent anti-communists in Congress and an unwavering foe of the Marxist Sandinista regime in Nicaragua. It would take something on the scale of a miracle to persuade Dornan the United States should abandon the Contras and let the Sandinistas go their merry way.

Also on the trip was Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Texas, who told the House on his return he knew how he was going to vote before he left, but now was even more committed, "having been to Managua, even for a brief tour, (and) having been lied to by a communist leader."

Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa., in his brief report to the House, cited some wrong-thinking on the part of aid opponents.

Walker, who is forever chastising Democrats for being big spenders, did not mention that the jaunt to Nicaragua and El Salvador on a government plane cost the taxpayers just over $69,000.

Others Stepping Up Space Travel

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — While Washington's second-guessers and handwringers anguish over the Challenger tragedy, other nations are scrambling to overtake the United States in space. Here's what has happened since the shuttle explosion immobilized the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

— The Soviet Union launched a space station, which will become the core of a huge space complex, with laboratories, manufacturing facilities and living quarters. By contrast, there are mutterings in Washington about canceling the U.S. space station project — which couldn't be deployed, in any event, until the mid-1990s.

— The Soviets have offered the use of their Proton rockets, at a launching price of $24 million, which customers may use if they get tired of waiting for the U.S. shuttles to take off again. The Soviet price per customer is less, incidentally, than it costs for a shuttle-launched satellite.

— The European Space Agency has launched two satellites into orbit since the shuttle disaster. Shuttle customers, left stranded by NASA, have been invited to sign up with the European agency. It has offered to add four more Ariane rocket launchings to its 1987-88 schedule.

— Britain, France and the Soviet Union have intensified work on manned spacecraft. The Soviets have already tested a small spaceplane that would ride into space atop a booster rocket, spring into orbit and then return to Earth. The Japanese are also rushing ahead with plans to operate in space. Even the Chinese have let out word that their Long March rockets are available to commercial customers.

All the while, the investigation of the Challenger explosion, fanned into a national scandal by an aggressive press corps, has demoralized NASA and bogged down the U.S. space program.

Reporters have jumped on NASA for ignoring warnings that should have been heeded and taking risks that may have been unwise. But NASA's files are full of self-serving memos routinely written by cautious officials to absolve themselves from blame. If a launch is successful, they can bask in the acclaim. If it should fail, they can cite their I-told-you-so memos.

NASA would never have landed men on the moon if the managers had heeded all the negative memos. Some of the warnings now being cited were written by these chronic objectors. Since they object to every launch, the managers don't know when to take them seriously.

The top people at NASA have

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

A Mistaken Scheme

The armchair generals in the Senate Armed Services Committee have come up with a new study of the nation's defense structure — the 23rd such study since the end of World War II — which would be disastrous for America's security if enacted into law.

Among other things, the study would abolish the Joint Chiefs of Staff and replace them with an advisory board — the Joint Military Advisory Committee. In other words, military advice and responsibility for translating advice into military action would be separated — the worst possible design one can imagine. Commanders responsible for the service forces would be isolated from the advisory and decision-making processes.

Another feature of this ill-conceived scheme is that the Chairman of the "Joint Military Advisory Council" would be "the sole command voice of higher military authority." He would have the authority over plans and policy that the head of the Prussian general staff had over the German Army during two world wars. The President and the Secretary of Defense would be denied access to a diversity of viewpoints and counsel based on operational experience in different military fields.

This type of centralization of defense planning and operations isn't in the national interest. It isn't compatible with America's more flexible military tradition. It is a denial of America's wartime experience.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, USN (Ret.), former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has given a candid appraisal of the defense reorganization plan and the processes involved.

In a recent interview, Adm. Moorer pointed out a highly significant fact, namely that "none of the people who prepared that report have ever heard a gun fire." When it comes to national defense, the United States should be guided by people who have been tested in combat, not by politicians and academics who pose as "defense experts." Adm. Moorer puts it very forthrightly, saying: "I was shot down during the war and was on a ship that was sunk the same day. So my perspective undoubtedly is quite different from the people who have put together the recently published staff reports for the Senate Armed Services Committee."

The Committee's key allegation is that there is infighting among the services, which must be suppressed. Adm. Moorer says, to the contrary, that "I never gave an order, or even made a request, to a man in uniform that he didn't respond immediately." True, the services have different perspectives on missions, but that's normal and healthy. The country and the national command authorities need to have the respective views of advocates of air power, land power and sea power. In wartime, however, Americans in uniform work together as one. The admiral rightly said that "the service chiefs are stumblebums who think more of their individual services than they do about the security of their country." Yet that's what this Senate Armed Services study implies.

There's nothing wrong with the JCS system or the overall organizational structure.

Bats Are In Big Trouble

By Jan Ziegler
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The banana you eat with breakfast cereal and the avocado you serve at lunch probably got to your table courtesy of a bat, the same furry creature associated with Halloween and vampire legends.

This winged wonder is necessary to survival of many tropical plants, is a whiz at insect control and can even be cute and friendly depending on the species, yet millions of bats are slaughtered every year, says bat scholar Merlin Tuttle of the University of Texas at Austin.

The slaughter is decimating large bat populations worldwide, eliminating the seed and pollen distribution system thousands of different kinds of plants rely upon and thus endangers cash crops and tropical rain forests, Tuttle says.

Curiously, says Tuttle, "bats are in bigger trouble in places where people like them than where people fear them. They eat them all. At least the bigger ones, the flying fox bats, are considered a delicacy."

"On Guam, one of the island's only two flying fox species was made totally extinct recently. The other is seriously endangered. The problem is that the Chamorros (a native tribe) on Guam enjoy eating bats on festive occasions no less than we enjoy eating turkey on Thanksgiving."

"No one has ever bothered to recognize the important game status of these animals and no management was ever planned, so bats are slaughtered in unregulated harvest."

In Guam, 40 percent of the forest trees rely on bats for seed dispersal and others for pollination. In the Pacific, plants ranging from breadfruit to pandanus, a source of leaves woven into hats and placemats rely on bats.

Bats are also valued as food in Southeast Asia and parts of Africa, he said.

In Australia, however, the government has dismissed protests from conservation groups and set out to wage war against bats, specifically flying foxes under the mistaken notion they are decimating the fruit industry.

But Tuttle says many, if not most of the important Australian hardwood trees are bat-pollinated. Farmers' complaints were largely misconceptions: the flying foxes seldom eat anything but fruit missed by pickers or fruit that is overripe. Fruit used commercially must be picked green.

Ellison Rebuffs Duke's Dream

DALLAS (UPI) — A team that worked its entire college career for a shot at the national championship climbed within sight, only to be rebuffed by a skinny freshman known as "Never Nervous."

In college basketball's championship game, Pervis Ellison certainly lived up to his nickname.

Ellison, who a year ago was playing on the high school basketball courts of Georgia, emerged Monday night as not only the hero of the NCAA title game, but as a potential collegiate superstar.

Standing in the midst of a floor full of experience, the 6-foot-9 center dominated the final moments of the 1985-86 season — propelling the Louisville Cardinals to a 72-69 victory over the Duke Blue Devils.

Louisville became the first team to win two NCAA crowns in this decade and in so doing knocked off a team that was ranked No. 1 and won more games in a single season than any club in major college history.

With Ellison scoring 25 points and being named the tournament's outstanding player, Louisville ended its season with 17 straight victories and a 32-7 record. Duke had a 21-game winning streak snapped and closed its season with a 37-3 mark. The Blue Devils became the first NCAA Division I team to play 40 games.

Duke, with four seniors and a junior in its starting lineup, was a 1 1/2 point favorite.

"It was maybe not a thing of beauty," said Louisville coach Denny Crum, who enhanced his reputation as being one of the leaders in his profession. "But it was awfully sweet. I think this one was more fun than (the Cardinals' previous title) in 1980."

Louisville's victory was certainly not a work of art. The Cardinals were almost overwhelmed in the early going by the acrobatic shots of Duke guard Johnny Dawkins, who scored 24 points, and the steals of the Blue Devils' Tommy Amaker, who picked off 7 Louisville passes.

When Duke wasn't forcing turnovers, Louisville was turning the ball over on its own. The Cardinals threw the ball away 14 times in the first half and were fortunate to come away with only a 37-34 deficit at intermission.

Known throughout the NCAA tournament as a team that held its poise, the Cardinals were severely tested in the second half.

With 7:19 to play Duke's David Henderson grabbed a loose ball, scored on a layup and put his team up by 6 points.

Only twice all night had Louisville managed to score more than 4 points in a row and Blue Devils defense seemed destined to bring Duke its first team national championship in any sport since the school was established in Durham, N.C., in 1892.

Enter Ellison, who was a key in Louisville's game plan but who had been slowed by Duke's efforts to cut off the Cardinals' inside game.

Over the final seven minutes of the game Ellison scored 8 points, grabbed the two most important rebounds of the night and calmly made both ends of a 1-and-1 free throw situation with 27 seconds remaining. Those 2 free throws gave Louisville a 5-point lead and all but clinched the game. A hint of suspense remained until the final two seconds, when guard Milt Wagner made 2 free throws to put away the Blue Devils.

While Ellison was establishing himself as a household name, Duke went through a seven-

'Patriot Pounders' Hope To Reverse Brantley's Record

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Any other year the hard-hitting trio of Mark Coffey, Mike Davis and Mike Beams would be tagged the "Brantley Bombers" or the "Patriot Pounders." They would hog the headlines of the local newspaper and fill the 11:20 p.m. time slot of the local television station.

Any other year when three Lake Brantley players combine for 19 home runs, 73 runs batted in and a .422 batting average at this juncture of the season, reservations would be made for the district championship game and other post-season honors to follow.

This year, however, isn't like any other year. While Coffey, Davis and Beams have powered the Lake Brantley Patriots to a .325 team batting average, two other areas — defense and pitching — have been woefully weak.

Even with the great offensive output of the "3 M's," plus good seasons from Andy Dunn (.344) and Dan Beatty (.317), Lake Brantley has compiled just an 8-13 record.

Last year, the Patriots finished 17-13 under embattled coach Gary Smith. They did it with predominately a junior team. Expectations were high for '86. Mike Smith, a sound fundamentalist from Orlando Bishop Moore, was hired when Gary Smith resigned under pressure from Brantley's vocal baseball parents.

All indications pointed toward Brantley and Lake Mary battling it out for District 4A-9 — and maybe State 4A — supremacy in 1986. The indications took a turn for the worse, however, when ace pitcher Kenny Chapelaine quit school and Mike Pinckes, a quality third baseman, defected to Lake Mary.

When No. 1 starter Tim Smith dropped a sledgehammer on his pitching finger in pre-season drills, it further muddled the pitching department.

The Pats further depreciated when Zac Maddox, a hard-throwing lefthanded pitcher, was lost on an eligibility technicality. Smith said Maddox passed a course but a teacher incorrectly marked that he had failed. Smith said by some peculiar Florida High School Activities Association standard, the grade could not be changed and Maddox was ineligible the first nine weeks.

The Patriots got off to a poor start, losing seven consecutive games at one point while floundering along with a 2-10 mark. Smith had to turn his relievers into starters.

"We had guys who could close games out," he said about his hurlers. "But they ended up starting our games."

Through it all, however, the bats of Coffey, Beams and Davis have exploded. Even though the Patriots couldn't outslug their defensive and pitching woes, they are still a team to be reckoned with. Any club which can send up Beams, Dunn, Davis, Coffey and Beatty is capable of double-figure run production each time out.

Coffey, Beams and Davis, all seniors, each said the season has been somewhat frustrating. None of three, though, is ready to throw in the aluminum. They are positive it will end positively.

"If we don't make errors and get halfway decent pitching, we'll be all right," Coffey, a right-handed hitting first baseman, said. "We have been playing better and we hope it continues."

Coffey, a product of the Seminole Pony Baseball program, has been a major part of two big winners. As a 12-year-old, he was a hard-hitting first sacker for the Seminole Broncos, managed by his father Richard Coffey, who finished second in the 11- and 12-year-old World Series in Louisiana. Two years ago, Coffey was filled a similar role on manager Gene Letterio's Altamonte Springs Seniors, who won the World Series championship at Gary, Ind. Smith said Coffey's success is directly attributed to his father. "He's the product of a coach in the family," Smith said. "There was always someone to throw batting practice or play catch with Mark."

Coffey takes it one step further this year. Nicknamed "Pork" because "I guess I used to be kinda hefty," Coffey has grown to 6-1 and 185 pounds. He said, along with his father, brother Marty, a catcher at the University of Central

Crum: Credit A Tough Schedule

DALLAS (UPI) — According to NCAA computers, Louisville played the toughest non-conference schedule in the country. Coach Denny Crum says that helped the Cardinals become national champion.

"I think playing those games (against the likes of Kansas, St. John's and Kentucky) prepared us for the second half of the year," Crum said Monday night after the seventh-ranked Cardinals beat top-rated Duke 72-69. "We peaked at the right time for a number of reasons, but that had a lot to do with it."

What also had a lot to do with it was a switch Crum made in the championship game. Aiming to stop Duke All-America Johnny Dawkins, the Louisville coach took Milt Wagner off Dawkins in the second half in favor of Jeff Hall.

"Jeff was a little fresher," Crum said. "He hadn't had to dodge him or guard him all game. Dawkins is a great player and he's very difficult to guard because he's a good outside shooter and he's so quick a penetrator."

"We put Jeff on him and we did two things — we told him to deny the ball the best he could, then we went to the 1-3 zone and put a man on him to keep the ball out of his hand. Both those things really helped us."

Dawkins, who finished with 24 points, was on the court when Duke could not score a field goal for seven minutes down the stretch.

Pervis Ellison, voted the most outstanding player in the game, had 25 points and dominated inside against the Duke trio of Jay Bilas, Mark Alarie and David Henderson.

"There are times I get nervous, but I can't tell you when," said the freshman. "Coach never told me I would start this year, but I thought I would because the team had a bad year last season."

Crum admitted the game wasn't the most artistic he has seen.

"It was maybe not a thing of beauty," he said. "Things were not working for both teams. Both teams played well defensively, both took away what the other team liked to do. Their quickness forced a lot of turnovers in the first half (14)."

"But the thing about our team all year long, and what has made it so fun to coach, was when we went through with the tough schedule, it didn't make any difference who we played. They worked hard, and did everything anyone could ask of them. That's why they earned the win."

COLD SPELL COSTS BLUE DEVILS

The Duke Blue Devils finished their best season with a cold spell that cost them the national championship.

Duke fell short in its bid to cap a near-perfect season Monday night, dropping a 72-69 decision to Louisville in the finals of the NCAA Tournament.

"You can talk about our great year, but we didn't win the big one," said guard David Henderson. "We felt positive about our game. But the shots didn't fall and that's what counts."

Through 32:41 of the game, Duke shot 46 percent from the field. A layup by Henderson put Duke ahead 61-55, but the Blue Devils would go the next seven minutes without a field goal in 9 attempts.

"You have to give Louisville credit," said Duke's two-time All-America guard Johnny Dawkins, who finished with 24 points. "They broke us down at the end."

SAC Softball Race Draws Crowd Of 5 At The Top

With four games completed it's pretty crowded at the top of the Seminole Athletic Conference softball standings. Of the six teams in the conference, five are still right in the thick of things.

Lake Brantley (18-4 overall) and Lake Howell (11-7) are tied for the lead at 3-1 with Oviedo (9-5), Lake Mary (6-9) and Seminole (5-8) all at 2-2. Lyman (4-8) would just about need a miracle to get back in the running as the Lady Greyhounds have an 0-4 SAC record.

With the second half of the season ready to start up, there are some things the leaders would like to continue and some habits some teams would like to break. Call this the SAC wish list:

Seminole — The one thing the Lady Tribe needs to stay in the running is solid defense in every game instead of every other game. Seminole proved against Lake Mary that it can beat anyone if it plays strong on defense as it committed just one error in that game. Shortstop Vikki Oliver and second baseman Buffy Osborne have been the strongest defensive players thus far with catcher Shelly Sanders one of the best at that position. Consistency from pitcher Jackie Bugge is another key.

Seminole has the offensive firepower with seven hitters with a .300 or better average led by Bobbie Osborne and Marcie Tooke, both at .400. Seminole, a relatively young team, will also look for leadership from senior outfielder Jackie Farr.

Lake Mary — In a word — offense. The Lady Rams have been shut out three games in a row, managing just two hits in each of the last two. While other teams have as many as eight players hitting over .300, Lake Mary has three. The only Lake Mary hitter who has been consistent from the beginning of the season up to now is Suzanne Rummel who ranks fourth in the county with a .478 average.

Defensively, the Lady Rams are solid but need senior Karen Deibetter to display the same kind of leadership at shortstop as she did in the outfield a year ago. Pitcher Beth Watkins has struggled a bit of late but don't expect that to continue. Lake Mary also has two of the best and most underrated defensive players in the county in outfielder Amy Adams and third baseman Laurie Leifer.

Lake Brantley — If there is anything more coach Renny Betris could ask for it would probably be that the Lady Patriots stay hungry. If they do, there's no telling how far they can go. And Brantley is a team of mostly freshmen and sophomores that are just beginning to whet their appetites.

The Lady Patriots have eight players hitting .300 or better, are solid at every defensive position, have three pitchers who could start for anyone and plenty of talent on the bench. Leading the way so far are outfielder Heather Meyer (.437, 23 RBIs) and shortstop Tracy Brandenburg (.408, 20 RBIs) with Michelle Weston (.444 in nine games) coming on strong. Weston was selected as Burger King Player of the Week for her performance in the Lady Hawk Tournament.

While the young players are performing well, Brantley looks to seniors Kim Wain and Laura Davis for stability.

Lake Howell — When everything is going right, Lake Howell is as good as anyone. The key for the Lady Hawks is not to panic when things start to go wrong. Last year, that wasn't a problem with a senior-dominated team, but this year's squad starts just one senior.

Lake Howell has the top two hitters in the county in Christy Tibbitts (.530) and Iandson Jonas (.523) and five others hitting .300 or better. Defensively, Lake Howell is anchored up the middle by Tibbitts at pitcher, Erin Hankins at shortstop and Valerie Montco at second base. Jenna and Tammy Lewis lead the way in the outfield with Brooks Burns, who can play just about anywhere, the top defensive player off the bench. Ava Gardner has been a spark with the bat after coming back from shoulder surgery.

Oviedo — If the Lady Lions regain the form of a year ago, they will be contenders for the conference title. And that shouldn't be too hard since Oviedo has eight starters back from last year's squad which won the district and regional titles.

What Oviedo needs in the second half is more production from Mikki Eby, Caroline Chavis and Dee Dee Benaley. Jodie Switzer practically carried the Lady Lions offensively the first half.

Lyman — The Lady Greyhounds could probably use a rabbit's foot and a couple four-leaf clovers. When it comes to luck, Lyman had little, if any, in the first half of the season.

Of the four SAC losses for the Lady Greyhounds, three were by just one run and one was a 3-2 loss in 14 innings to Lake Brantley. To win the close ones would be Lyman's goal if it is to get back in the running and, to do that, it needs production from other players besides Denise Stevens, Lori Helms and Kristie Kaiser.

Gainey, Derr Run Seminole By Trinity, 8-4

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Alonzo Gainey and Gary Derr had just one hit between them Monday afternoon, but they accounted for four runs with some nifty base running which was the difference as Seminole upended Trinity Prep, 8-4, in nonconference prep baseball at Trinity Prep.

The victory avenged an earlier setback to the IA Saints and pulled the Seminole record to 9-11 entering today's Seminole Athletic Conference matchup with Lake Brantley at home. First pitch is 3:30 p.m.

"Gainey's doing a good job leading off," Seminole coach Mike Ferrell said about his speedy leftfielder. "He might not be hitting for a great average but he's getting on base and that's his job."

"Derr is starting to come around. Hopefully that hit he got will help his confidence."

Gainey walked to open the first inning and moved to second when David Rowland grounded into a hit-and-run ground out. Brian Sheffield singled him to third and one out later, Dave Rape walked to load the bases.

Joey Coral, whose starting to show signs of shaking his slump, socked a single to left field to score two runs against loser Perry Teague.

In the second, Gainey drew a one-out walk and stole second. Rowland also walked and the two pulled a double steal. Sheffield followed with a drive to center field to score Gainey. Ron Blake singled to left field to chase home Rowland for a 4-1 lead.

Trinity, 4-6, pulled within 4-2 but Seminole added a run in the fifth when pitcher Mike Edwards singled hom Derr who had singled and stole second. Trinity came back with two in the fifth before Seminole put the game away with three more in the seventh.

Derr started the seventh with a walk and moved up on a wild pitch. Roy Jensen slammed a single off the fence in left to score Derr. Pinch-runner Roy Rivers came around when Edwards was hit by a pitch. Gainey walked and Greg Pond bounced into an RBI force out. After Sheffield walked, Ron Blake plated the final tally with a ground out.

Edwards picked up his first victory in three decisions by striking out five and walking six and allowing three earned runs.

Sheffield led the hitters with a pair of singles. Gainey and Derr each stole a pair of bases.

Spectator Knight Reacts After Call Against 'Boy'

Milton Richman
UPI EDITOR Sports

DALLAS (UPI) — Bobby Knight, who never did anything halfway in his life, came flying out of his seat full bore to give the referee holy blue devil for his "awful" call against Duke.

Knight's team wasn't even in the game. That didn't matter. His "boy" Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski, was. Pete Newell, sitting alongside Knight a few rows up from the court, tried to get his buddy to back off a little.

"Will you sit down and shuddup," he hollered at Knight, striving to make himself heard above the ear-splitting roar of Reunion Arena's capacity crowd.

"Yeah, but did you see that lousy call?" Knight persisted, still hot because he felt Duke was being victimized by a horrible decision.

"Never mind. Just sit down and forget it," Newell said.

Not many people can talk that way to Bobby Knight, one of the most successful college basketball coaches in history, leader of the 1984 U.S. gold medal Olympic team and much more than merely a living legend at Indiana University where he coaches now.

Peje Newell can talk to Bobby Knight that way not only because he knows him so well, but also because of the special relationship between them. They go back a long way together.

Knight led his Hoosiers to the NCAA title for the first time in 1976 and in 1981 again, but Newell has some pretty impressive credentials of his own. He coached the University of California for years and then the Golden State Warriors in the pros. He's still chief scout for the Warriors.

Knight admits Newell and Ohio State's Fred Taylor were two of the men he learned the most from in basketball.

"Clair Bee (former Long Island University coach) was the third," Knight says. "He once told me that losing some games doesn't hurt you. Making your players figure out some things on their own never hurts them, either, but there are times when you have to make your move."

Basically, that's what Knight was doing at the NCAA. He was watching Mike Krzyzewski try to kids me that I wouldn't let him shoot when he came to Army," Knight laughs.

"You're here to guard people and pass it to guys who can shoot, you SOB," I told him. He became an outstanding defensive player. When we played South Carolina in the NIT, he held John Roche, who was MVP in conference that year, to two buckets."

Knight isn't sure whether or not he said "nice going" to Krzyzewski after that fine performance. He admits he might've forgotten to tell him.

"We had another game two days later."

Before Duke's 71-67 semi-final win over Kansas, Knight had dinner with Krzyzewski and walking out to their car, he told him not to be afraid to call time out early, even in the first few minutes, if he thought the occasion demanded.

"You're not playing a regular season game," Knight said. "If things get off to a bad start, call time out right away because you can't let your kids play their way out of it in a thing like the Final Four."

The Blue Devils didn't really get off to that bad a start, but with the Jayhawks leading, 3-2, after only 3:31 gone, Krzyzewski remembered and called time out.

Some touted the Duke-Louisville final a contest of sorts between Knight's brand of basketball and that of John Wooden, the former UCLA master, since Krzyzewski embodied so many of Knight's principles in his coaching and Louisville's Denny Crum worked under Wooden.

"Mike really teaches how to play basketball as well as anybody coaching today," Knight said. "He's his own person. He's not trying to be like me. Mike has a much better way of using the rod and the sugar cube than me. He can get on someone when he has to and he can be warm. I wish my personality was more like his."

Galloway's Hit Sounds Winning Note

Mike Galloway, better known for his harmonica than his hitting, singled home the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning Monday night as Six Flags Nursery nipped Panta USA, 6-5, in Sanford Men's Softball League action at Pinehurst Field.

Six Flags' victory knocked Panta from the unbeaten ranks and forced a three-way deadlock at the top. The Tim Raines Connection and the Brown Boveri Company are both 2-0 while Panta is 3-1.

In other games Monday, Brown Boveri outslugged McKee Development, 16-14, and Central Florida Regional Hospital dumped Bill Knapp's, 14-8. Bill Stoudenmire singled to open Nursery's seventh and Mark Whigham reached on an error. Tony Dunkinson followed with a single to load the bases and set the stage for Galloway's game-winning blow.

Galloway and Stoudenmire each had three hits for the winners while Dunkinson chipped in two. Carl Lee homered and singled while Don Causseaux had a pair of hits for the losers.

In Hospital's win, Scott Milson, R. Dunn and Steve Letchworth each rapped three hits while Gary Snell added two.

Harry McCarty had two singles and a double for the losers. Phil Rinkavage and Joe Grestina each rapped a pair of hits.

In the Boveri-McKee clash, Boveri erupted for six runs in the top of the seventh to offset an 11-run explosion by McKee in the bottom of the sixth for the victory.

Ronnie Smith stroked two doubles and two singles while Willie Merckson had a homer and a double for the winners. Joe Santora had a single and a double and Otis Raines produced two sacrifice flies.

Brett Von Herbulis homered and doubled for the losers. Terry Russi had an inside-the-park homer while Pete Harrison and Bernie Von Herbulis each plated two runs.

Rogers Goes Wire To Wire For End-Of-Month Victory

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — On his way to another super season at the wheel of the Wayne Denach Budweiser/Gambler Bass Boats, 1986 Firebird, David Rogers led every lap but the first to win the 50-lap End of the Month Late Model Championship on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Lee Faulk, who now has the new Ed Howe-built, Champion TV machine dialed-in right, finished strong second. Third to fifth were LeRoy Porter, Tom Price of Buffalo, N.Y., and Phil Weipert.

From his sixth starting spot on the grid, young Casey Hawthorne took over first place on lap four. Casey then pulled away from the field to win the extra cash/extra-distance event for the thundercar division.

Coming out on top of a tough three-way battle for the runner-up spot, John Cochran finished second, beating Bill Kinley, Joey Warmack and James Carter.

Gene Van Alstine drove under early leader Guy Lingo on lap five, and went on to win the End of the Month Championship for the four-cylinder division. Lingo held on for second, followed by defending track champion Bobby Sears, Jerry Symons and young Billy Hoovan.

The roadrunner feature went to Gary Salvatore.

This coming Saturday, a 100-lap Enduro for the big gas guzzlers will be presented in addition to the regular program of late models, thundercars, four-cylinders and roadrunners.

Connors Takes Suspension, Fine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Connors announced Monday that he has waived his right to appeal and is accepting a 10-week suspension and $20,000 fine assessed by the Men's International Professional Tennis Council last week.

Connors' suspension began Monday and will end Sunday, June 8. He will be ineligible to participate in any MIPTC-sanctioned or recognized event, including the French Open Championships, which will begin in Paris on June 2.

The suspension marks the first time a player will be barred from one of the four Grand Slam events.

The suspension and fine stem from Connors' refusal to complete his semifinal match against Ivan Lendl at the Lipton International Players Championships in Boca Raton on Feb. 21. During that match, Connors was defaulted after delaying the fifth set of the match following a dispute with the chair umpire.

Women's Draw: Good Enough

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Although empty seats were in abundance at the Women's NCAA Final Four at Rupp Arena, the games drew enough to satisfy tournament organizers.

Friday's semifinals brought 9,800 fans, a semifinal attendance record, to watch Texas and Southern Cal advance. Sunday's crowd of 5,700, treated to the Lady Longhorns' 97-81 victory to cap an undefeated season, brought the total attendance 800 shy of the record set in 1983 in Norfolk, Va.

Lexington tourism officials said if the tournament brought 16,000 fans, the city would net $2.5 million. Manager Sue Feamster said the tournament also offered a great showcase for women's basketball.

Feamster noted the semifinals were televised nationally for the first time and that Sunday's matchup between Southern Cal and Texas was likely to produce good television ratings.

Fulginiti's Prince Is Tops

LONGWOOD — Francis Fulginiti's super puppy Prince Proper earned the distinction of being the top puppy breaking in this winter at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club when on Friday night the son of Placid Ace and Maid's Day Off was a runaway winner in the championship finals of the Young Champion Stakes competition.

Prince Proper, who with the trip to the winner's circle became tied with Hughes Kennels, Inc., Mother's Jen for the victory lead with nine apiece, broke quickly out of the 5/16ths of a mile starting box and was never headed, finishing 9 1/2 lengths ahead of the competition.

"Prince really came on tonight," trainer Don Marino said. "He was sick a while back but he came around to run a couple of tough seconds during the qualifying rounds and tonight he was just super."

Paul Paulk's Run All Night came off the pace to finish second in the Young Champion Stakes finale, while Sooner Kennel's Sallisaw Boaz round out the top three.

Women To Play On Wednesdays

A women's softball league will be sponsored by the City of Casselberry Parks and Recreation Department. Games will be played on Wednesday evenings at Wirz Park at 808 Mark David Boulevard.

Interested area team managers and individual resident players looking to be placed on a team are invited to attend an organizational meeting on Wednesday, April 9, at Wirz Park beginning at 6 p.m.

For information on league fees, call Softball Commissioner/Recreation Leader Sandy Lomax at 830-8579 or 831-3551 (ext. 260) Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The season will begin Wednesday, April 16.

Men's Softball To Begin April 7

The City of Casselberry Parks and Recreation Department announced that it will have a spring men's softball league with games played at Secret Lake Park West. The league will begin the week of April 7.

An organizational meeting for all team managers and individual resident players wanting to be placed on a team will be held on Monday, March 31 at Wirz Park on 808 Mark David Boulevard beginning at 6 p.m.

For information on team fees, call League Commissioner Sandy Lomax between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. at 830-8579 or 831-3551 (ext. 260). The league is sanctioned by the USSSA.

Ruland May Return For Playoffs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington Bullets center Jeff Ruland underwent arthroscopic surgery to repair torn cartilage in his left knee Monday and could be back in time for the playoffs, a team spokesman said.

Ruland, who has missed 45 games this season with a variety of injuries and 16 of the last 18 with the bad knee, will be out from three to six weeks, meaning he could be in uniform by the middle of the first round of the playoffs, the spokesman said.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Stalin's Daughter Appears To Want To Return To U.S.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Svetlana Alliluyeva, the daughter of Josef Stalin, apparently has changed her mind about living in her homeland and wants to return to the United States with her American daughter, a Soviet journalist said.

Journalist Victor Louis said Monday Alliluyeva's chances of getting permission to return to the United States — which she left 16 months ago — were slim but that her daughter, Olga, appeared to have a good chance of getting permission to return because she is a U.S. citizen.

Louis, who in the past has been a reliable conduit of information to the West, said Alliluyeva and her 14-year-old daughter visited the U.S. Embassy, apparently seeking exit visas.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Jaroslav Verner confirmed Alliluyeva was in direct contact with the embassy but declined to say whether she sought to leave, citing her right to privacy.

Alliluyeva and Olga were living in Tbilisi, Georgia, the southern Soviet republic where Stalin was born.

Fire Sweeps Through Palace

LONDON (UPI) — A dawn fire Monday swept through Hampton Court Palace, the sprawling 18th-century castle of King Henry VIII on the banks of the Thames, killing one person and damaging irreplaceable art treasures.

Firemen rescued six people, some in nightgowns, but later found the body of a badly burned person believed to be Lady Gale, 86, widow of Gen. Sir Richard Gale, a D-Day commander and later in 1958-60 deputy supreme allied commander, Europe. She lived in the palace apartments.

The Tudor-era palace is owned by Britain's royal family and is said to be haunted by three of Henry's wives — two of whom were beheaded.

Queen Elizabeth II, her son and heir Prince Charles and Princess Margaret visited the scene assess damage.

"It's disastrous. What is burned out totally is irreplaceable," said the palace works officer Gerald Drayton.

...Chiefs

At the press conference, the chiefs agreed that drugs, the state's 2 1/2-year-old sentencing guidelines system and public apathy were to blame in the reported crime increase.

"Drugs impact other crimes," said Harriett, referring to burglaries and thefts. Further, "You got to put drug abusers into jail because it is a crime." He said education has not lessened drug abuse and related problems and the only immediate answer is tough enforcement.

He said drugs and drug-related crimes "stretch police resources," by taking up a lot of police time and money.

Harriett was also critical of the accuracy of some of the statistics in the report attributed to Sanford. The reports shows there were 129 arrests for possession of narcotics and only one arrest for the sale of narcotics in Sanford during the reporting period. He said that was inaccurate; there were many arrests for sale of drugs.

Harriett also criticized the overall crime rate statistic which counts a petty theft equal with murder in determining the crime rate.

He suggested there should be an overall crime rate statistic that would make a distinction between violent and non-violent crimes or at least reflect that difference in the overall crime rate.

He said that as the system is now set up, a city with a low murder rate and a lot of petty thefts could be listed as having the same crime rate as a city with many murders and few petty thefts.

Ligon said his department is working closely with FDLE to identify the cause of the error that gave his city a crime-rate increase instead of decrease. He said the crime rate is down in his city because citizens are cooperating with police and that police are doing a better job.

The chiefs generally agreed that public interest in lessening crime is waning and the participations in neighborhood crime watch programs down.

The statistics that showed an increase in the crime rate in Florida also showed police are making more arrests and doing a better job of making arrests which hold up well through the prosecution system, according to Walsh, who spoke for the group as well as Lamar.

Lamar said that the new sentencing guidelines, which unified throughout Florida penalties for breaking the law, is resulting in "prison-class criminals spending time in county jails and jail-class criminal on the street."

He said the guideline system, with sentencing recommendations that some critics have called lenient, takes the responsibility and expense of confining criminals from the state and places it on city and county governments.

He asked for more funding from the state to fight local crime.

proposal's submission to County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm. In the letter, the mayor also views the proposal as possible catalyst for solving these differences.

The mayor writes, "As you undoubtedly realize, Seminole County and the City of Sanford are having difficulty in resolving issues of mutual concern. The (Yankee Lake) wastewater issue represents a symptom of an underlying problem, the lack of a coordinated planning process...Ad hoc discussions (between staff) and special meetings (between city and county commissioners) on a random basis have proven to be inadequate to resolve our differences. Such informal communication occurs after, rather than before, commitments are made.

"We believe the (proposed planning) concept represents a balanced approach that maintains our respective jurisdictional responsibilities. The concept appropriately focuses on the comprehensive land use process and is intended to provide the avenue through which we can resolve issues of mutual concern by preventing such issues from becoming problems."

Specifically, the proposal calls for Sanford to "prepare a plan that is acceptable to the county," while also "recognizing the city's need to anticipate growth through the annexation of additional land."

It targets "areas of mutual concern," which the state's land use legislation cites as necessitating "intergovernmental coordination" of planning efforts to address, Marder said.

Although the city's proposal would formally grant the Sanford Planning and Zoning board with authority to prepare land use and urban service guidelines for these unincorporated areas, respective determinations regarding their adoption would be made by the county and city commissions.

If county commissioners accepted the proposal, they could then adopt its subsequent results, refuse them or request they be amended, Marder said.

Selection of Sanford's P&Z board to spearhead the project is the result of the city's "having recognized and committed itself to the planning of its total environs," the proposal states. "In order to develop a joint city-county comprehensive plan, prime responsibility for plan development must be delegated to a single agency."

"In this relatively simple and straight-forward manner, a more effective and efficient planning process can be accomplished," according to the proposal.

The Sanford P&Z has already given its nod to serving in this capacity, Marder said.

County acceptance of the proposal would enable a "cementing" of the comprehensive planning programs both governments have undertaken to comply with state land use mandates, Marder said. "It would be a balanced approach to planning for the area."

"The city needs to plan for annexations and the county would be given a 'window' into the city's overall planning process," he said.

Of the governments' informal discussions of a joint-planning concept, Simmons said, "We just kept talking and nothing ever happened. The proposal adopts an affirmative action and at least says the city formally tried."

"It would be really irresponsible of us to not try and make an attempt for joint planning with the county," Mayor Smith said during the workshop.

In addition to the western area on the proposed Sanford urban area planning map, the city designates its northern boundary at the intersection of I-4 and the St. John's River, its southern at the intersection of U.S. Highway 17-92 and County Road 427 and its eastern at the Osteen Bridge and State Road 415 crossing.

The official said the moves, not yet specified, does not amount to a bail-out of the insurance industry. "It's essentially consumer protection that continues to make insurance available at a reasonable cost," he said.

Although federal relief for the insurance industry goes against the grain of Reagan's philosophy favoring state control, the official said, "The other alternative to avert a crisis ... would be some federal subsidies and that is a worse violation" of the president's beliefs.

"The ultimate victim of this crisis is the consumer who either faces exorbitant rates ... or it is the company that cannot get insurance," the official said.

Reagan's proposal was welcomed by James Coyne, executive vice president of the 4,500-member American Consulting Engineers Council, who said the organization "no doubt will be behind the president on this crucial issue" despite minor differences. Coyne also heads the American Tort Reform Association and said it also supports Reagan's proposals.

Commission Okays Expansion

Sanford City Commissioners have approved a local insurance company's request to expand a Park Avenue structure that is already out of sync with city zoning requirements. Another would-be developer, however, did not fare nearly as well when she asked commissioners to grant her proposed project a conditional variance from the city's paving requirement for off-street parking.

Commissioners told the developer her paving variance request would not be considered until the project's site plans had been reviewed by the Planning and Zoning board and they further cited a staff evaluation that the project, as currently proposed, falls short of complying with several Sanford building requirements.

June Porzig, who had requested the variance for her realty firm, reacted with surprise when told of the project's shortcomings at last week's commission meeting. She said the firm "just wants to get in" its new headquarters at 219 French Avenue.

City Manager Frank Faison, however, said the site plans she submitted to the city commission had "opened up more than a parking variance request."

Faison said usual procedure calls for P&Z site plan review and approval prior to the plans' submission to the city commission to accompany a building exemption request.

Shortcomings cited during the commission meeting were the proposed project's parking spaces being smaller than those required by city law, a proposed traffic lane providing insufficient space for vehicles to maneuver and the parking lot's alley needing one foot of additional paving along its border to bring it into compliance with city requirements.

Also recommended for the parking lot was a stormwater retention system to prevent discharge onto French Avenue.

Ms. Porzig said she would follow the city's recommendation to work with the P&Z to correct the project's deficiencies and then, if still desired, return to the commission and ask for the paving variance.

The insurance company's expansion request for a structure at 720 South Park Ave. was unanimously approved by commissioners after a public hearing at which one resident vehemently opposed the proposal and 10 residents supported it. Two of those in favor expressed their sentiments during the session, while the other eight offered their endorsements through a petition the insurance company presented to the commission.

Harold Christensen, however, said the expansion was "illegal" and would serve as harbinger for subsequent commission approved commercial development in that area. Christensen based his position on the structure's being considered a non-conforming property use in a single family zone.

City Attorney William Colbert told Christensen the proposal could be legally sanctioned.

The building, an old filling station that was converted into a medical office in the 1970's, was grandfathered in as an acceptable non-conforming property use when the area it lies in was rezoned from multi-family residential to single family residential in 1983.

Prior to approving the insurance company's request, commissioners told Christensen the structural modifications to the presently vacant building will be undertaken in tandem with an overall restorative effort, and will compliment the intent of the 1983 rezoning, which was viewed as means of upgrading the area.

Like sentiments were expressed by the two residents who spoke in support of the project during the hearing.

McClain, Pierce and Associates President Chet Pierce said his company will move its West First Street headquarters to the Park Avenue structure later this summer.

Report: Tax Dollars Translate Into $788.5 Billion For States

By David E. Anderson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California topped the list — receiving $98.7 billion — of the $788.5 billion in federal tax dollars disbursed to states in fiscal year 1985, a Census Bureau study says.

Vermont, which received $1.5 billion, was at the other end of the scale, according to the study.

The Census Bureau's study of expenditures of the 1985 federal dollar, made public Sunday, covers all federal spending in the United States except for interest on the federal debt.

It showed the government spent $349 billion in direct payments to individuals in such programs as Social Security, Medicare and food stamps, $194.1 billion in Pentagon contracts, $115.5 billion for federal employee salaries, wages and benefits, $105.5 billion in grants to state and local governments and $24.5 billion in other spending, such as research grants and agricultural subsidies.

That amounts to spending for each person in the United States of $3,253, ranging from a per capita high of $4,858 in Alaska to a low of $2,399 in North Carolina, the report said.

States where the most in direct payment funds went included California, $35.4 billion; New York, $27.7 billion; Florida, $22.5 billion; Pennsylvania, $20.4 billion; and Texas, $18.6 billion.

California also received by far the largest amount of defense procurement dollars — overall up by 10 percent — with $35.2 billion. It was followed by Texas, with $12.1 billion, New York with $11.5 billion, Missouri with $8.6 billion and Massachusetts with $8.3 billion.

California also received the largest dollar volume of funds for federal workers' salaries and wages, with $14.4 billion, far outstripping the $7.5 billion paid to residents of the nation's capital in the District of Columbia. The district's southern neighbor, Virginia, had $8.1 billion in federal wages and salaries.

A separate report on counties said 49 of the 3,138 county areas had a total federal payroll of more than $500 million, topped by San Diego County, $3.4 billion; New York City area, $2.4 billion; Los Angeles County, $2.3 billion; Honolulu City and county, $1.9 billion; Norfolk, Va., area, $1.8 billion and Cook County, Ill., $1.7 billion.

The bureau said the relatively minuscule $24.5 billion in other federal spending was, nevertheless, 48 percent higher than in fiscal 1984.

In that category, California again was the winner, with $2.2 billion of federal dollars flowing into the state, followed by Missouri, $1.7 billion; Texas, $1.5 billion and New York, $1.4 billion.

— Here is a state-by-state list of the distribution of federal funds for fiscal year 1985 and in parentheses the per capita expenditure for the state as compiled by the Census Bureau:

Alabama: $12.5 billion ($3,101); Alaska: $2.5 billion ($4,858); Arizona: $10 billion ($3,150); Arkansas: $6.9 billion ($2,914); California: $97.8 billion ($3,710); Colorado: $9.8 billion ($3,032); Connecticut: $13.5 billion ($4,238); Delaware: $1.7 billion ($2,771); Florida: $22.5 billion ($3,253); Georgia: $17.5 billion ($2,936); Hawaii: $4.8 billion ($4,334); Idaho: $2.9 billion ($2,655); Illinois: $28.4 billion ($2,463); Indiana: $14.4 billion ($2,614); Iowa: $7.6 billion ($2,651); Kansas: $6.6 billion ($3,256); Kentucky: $9.7 billion ($2,609); Louisiana: $12 billion ($2,687);

Maine: $4 billion ($3,432);

Interest Rate Ceiling Lifted

By T.R. Eastham

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting Tuesday, banks and other financial institutions will be given a free hand to offer any rate of interest they choose on all personal savings and checking accounts, and most commercial accounts.

The April 1 interest rate deregulation, expected to give depositors better rates of return on some accounts and a broader choice of savings instruments, is the final phase of a six-year process that began in 1980 with an act of Congress.

Deregulation has already given banks much wider latitude in the kinds of accounts they can offer, allowing them to attract customers through such instruments as money market savings accounts and checking accounts that bear interest.

Also beginning Tuesday, penalties for early withdrawal from institutional certificates of deposit will be cut back to a maximum of one month's interest. On personal certificates, the penalty will be a seven-day interest loss on certificates withdrawn within the first week.

Probably the most significant effect of Tuesday's final phase deregulation will be more competitive rates of return on passbook savings accounts, although banks and thrift institutions are not likely to offer interest rates much higher than the current 5.5 percent in the near future.

"You may see gradations of passbook accounts ... where if you have a certain minimum balance of say $100 you get 5.5 percent and if you maintain $1,000 you get a little higher rate," predicted Mark Clark, senior vice president of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, which represents most of the nation's savings-and-loans.

"The trend is toward developing a new version of the MMDA called a 'money market passbook,'" commented Robert Heady, publisher of the Bank Rate Monitor, North Palm Beach, Fla. "This is a tiered product (higher rates for larger deposits), priced against the passbook account in an effort to attract all that cheap money without cannibalizing their own passbook base."

"The battle lines haven't been formed but with more than $300 billion up for grabs, I don't see this as the non-event some have been calling it," Heady said. "It has enormous implications for banks because of the market share of consumer money that is at stake."

"Come late April or early May you'll see banks and thrifts begin a high-wire act trying to attract new money without endangering their own low-cost passbook base," he said, predicting that banks will impose new charges and fees to counterbalance the costs of higher rates of return.

But Clark and other industry observers said a sharp rise in interest rates was not likely because the money market rate is currently not much higher than the conventional savings rate.

Money market accounts have hovered in the 7 percent range in recent weeks, the lowest in about six years.

"The bulk of the impact took place with the earlier lifting of rate ceilings on all the other accounts," Clark said. "From our reading there is going to be fairly little change in the make-up of passbook accounts."

Perhaps the most significant past step in the deregulation process came on Dec. 14, 1982, when the government authorized the creation of money market accounts for small savers who maintained a balance of over $2,500.

The minimum required deposit level on money market accounts, now the most popular single form of savings instrument, was reduced to zero on Jan. 1.

The latest figures from the Federal Reserve show $304.5 billion in 5.5 percent passbook accounts — $179.5 billion in savings and loans and $125 billion in commercial banks.

After Tuesday's deregulation, the only remaining interest rate prohibition will be a ban on the payment of interest on commercial checking accounts.

Oil Prices Dip To $10 Range

By Rex Lister

United Press International
Oil sank to the $10-a-barrel range Monday after Saudi Arabia's oil minister said his OPEC kingdom has no plans to reduce the surplus production that has engineered the oil price collapse.

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, West Texas Intermediate — the benchmark U.S. crude — was down 99 cents to an all-time low of $10.45 a barrel at mid-afternoon Monday. The crude began trading on the exchange in March 1983.

Domestic oil prices have not been at the $10 level since 1978 before the Iranian revolution set the stage for the near tripling of OPEC prices.

Oil prices have plummeted by about 60 percent from an average $28 a barrel in December as the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, led by Saudi Arabia, flooded the already glutted world market in a bid to force outside producers to prop up prices by restraining their output.

Saudi Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, in an interview with the Middle East Economic Survey, said his nation has no intention of lowering current oil output from its OPEC quota of 4.35 million barrels a day.

"Our policy is not to cut production from the present level," Yamani told the Nicosia-based oil journal, which has close ties to Saudi Arabia.

Saudi Arabia also is intent on enforcing discipline within OPEC, whose bitterly divided members deadlocked over how much oil each member should produce at the March 16-24 summit in Geneva and suspended talks until April 15.

"The Saudis are playing a very astute game and want an agreement limiting production with the major producers within OPEC and Britain outside OPEC," said David Mizrahi, editor of the New York-based Middle East Report. "They are trying to flush out producers, such as Britain, whose production costs are high."

Yamani told MEES that even if the Saudi government decided to reduce production under "very abnormal circumstances," the cutback would have to be shared equally on a pro rata basis by OPEC's 12 other member nations.

"I am not implying that we would change it or that there are reasons to do so," Yamani said. "But let's see what will happen. I am not ruling out anything because so many countries in OPEC are already exceeding their quotas."

He reiterated his view that Britain, the key non-OPEC producer, is the essential ingredient in OPEC efforts to reach a global production pact with non-members to stabilize oil prices, MEES said. Britain has refused to cooperate with OPEC.

In Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Mansour bin Saeed Otaiba warned Sunday that oil prices could fall to as low as $8 a barrel if OPEC members failed to agree on measures to defend their market share before reconvening in mid-April.

Leg Discomfort Normal After Heart Operation

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I underwent quadruple-bypass heart surgery six months ago. A vein was removed from my leg; I don't think it's healing properly. My ankle remains excessively swollen, and the inside of the leg is leathery and almost without feeling from ankle to knee. Is this normal?

births of large babies can stretch the vagina to a point where the tissues do not return to their original size. The situation can often be corrected through exercises, like Kegel exercises, which strengthen the pelvic floor and vaginal muscles. Surgery is also an option if the vaginal tone has deteriorated to the extent

DEAR READER — The symptoms you describe are quite common following coronary bypass surgery. When the vein from your leg was removed to make the bypass, small nerves to the skin were destroyed. Also, it takes months for the leg to adapt to the change in venous circulation caused by removal of a major vein. Check with your doctor to make sure no infection is present, but if the leg wound is healing well, your symptoms should improve with time. Your leg may never return completely to normal, but that is a small price to pay for knowing that the vein is being put to a more important use: supplying blood and oxygen to heart muscle.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I took hydralazine (50 mg.) for five years and had a positive lupus test. My doctor said the drug sometimes induces lupus, and he put me on Darvocet. Is there any other medication that will help eliminate the lupus from my system?

DEAR READER — Although it is a useful drug for treatment of hypertension, hydralazine is reported to cause a condition resembling lupus (rash, fever, joint pains and positive lupus blood test) in some patients. Once the drug is discontinued, the lupus-like syndrome usually diminishes. However, in rare cases, the symptoms persist and doctors have to consider using cortisone to treat the ailment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had five babies, from 8 to 10 pounds. Does this cause a woman's vagina to be large? How can this be corrected?
 DEAR READER — Repeated

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
 Arne Mohr of Denmark got off to the wrong opening lead, although he later made up for his mistake. Why is the opening spade lead wrong? The bidding suggests there may be a long diamond suit in dummy and West's Q-10 suggests that declarer will be able to run diamonds. So the best chance for the defense is to lead a suit that can be quickly established. With the club ace as an entry, West hopes his side can later cash out to set the contract. It is easy to see that North jumped to three no-trump on brute strength rather than a long suit, but West still had to try to defeat the contract. On the opening lead East played the spade five, starting a high-low signal to give count. Then, when clubs were played from dummy,

East further cooperated by signaling with the club eight. West ducked the first club but won the second as East played the deuce. Arne Mohr reasoned that there was no real chance of beating the contract if declarer had the heart ace. If South did not, he probably held the diamond king, which would give him nine tricks unless the defenders could take five tricks first. So West took what seemed to be his best chance. He thrust with the queen of hearts. That would be a winner whenever East held A-J-10-x or A-J-9-x, and it did set three no-trump this time. Maybe South should have responded two diamonds. Now North would be declarer at three no-trump. Then even if East leads from his best suit, hearts, nine tricks will be easy.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...
YOUR BIRTHDAY APRIL 2, 1966
 In the year ahead, much progress can be made and important goals achieved but only if you align yourself with the doers of the world. Screen out those who merely talk a good story.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't permit morning moodiness or self-doubts to permeate your being today. You'll attract trouble if you don't shake off depression. Major changes are ahead for Aries in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Should you go along with a pal's irresponsible actions today when you know better, don't be surprised if you get your fingers burned.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) By appearing weak, you may think you'll be able to entice another to do a favor for you today. Unfortunately, about all you'll accomplish is embarrassment.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't depend on anybody to do any of your work for you today. Chances are they'll let you down, and you'll have to pay the consequences.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you end up feeling like you're being treated unjustly today, chances are the feeling can be traced to overreactivity on your part.
VERGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) All you're going to gain today is a pouting spouse if you throw cold water on a matter your mate is enthusiastic about. Be supportive instead.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a bit of a rebel in you today. You could take the opposite view merely for the sake of being a non-conformist.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Leave your credit cards at home today. Because of your strong streak of extravagance, you might want to go on a wild spending spree.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sometimes those who labor at our sides can be quite exasperating on occasion. But unbridled displays of displeasure could shut down the entire production line.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Some bad financial news you might hear today could be grossly exaggerated. Before you try to bail out, check all of the details.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Attempting to keep up with the Joneses today could have costly repercussions. Others may think you're rich enough to pick up the tab.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Indecisiveness today would extinguish any hopes you might have to fire up the force necessary to accomplish anything of real value.
