

Tektites Scattered Around

By BELLOUS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—A hot scientific argument of this very moment is over the question of whether or not 1958 pieces of the moon are scattered all about there on the earth's surface.

There are little pieces of something scattered around all right, and if they're not pieces of the moon then what on earth are they? The origin of these strange, glassy rounded bits called tektites have puzzled scientists for generations.

C. M. Varsavsky, brilliant young Argentine astrophysicist who is taking advanced studies at Harvard, started the argument by producing mathematical directions intended to show that tektites are pieces of the moon.

His idea was that meteors colliding with the moon chipped off pieces, which in most plausible, the moon is pock-marked with innumerable craters evidently made by meteors. It is logical to think that collisions of such force would have had to send parts of the moon hurtling off into space.

Varsavsky's mathematics showed how these pieces could have spiraled, even so slowly, down to earth.

But now come three distinguished scientists, including Dr. Harold C. Urey, famous atomic scientist and Nobel Prize winner of the University of Chicago, with arguments designed to shatter his theory into pieces even smaller than tektites.

Urey objected chiefly on chemical grounds. Tektites are largely silica and alumina. They are bits of rocks which evidently were made in extremely hot and long enduring fire. Tektites are moon pieces then the moon's fire-made rocks are quite different from earth's, which Urey thought most unlikely.

The principal objection of Dr. Virgil E. Barnes of the University of Texas, was on the matter of distribution. Barnes, by the way, was the first man to identify a belt of tektite deposits in the United States. It is in Texas. If the theory were correct, he reasoned, you'd find tektites distributed in a wide belt around the earth. Furthermore, you'd find them in all the earth's layers of rocks because the spiraling of moon pieces would have been going on over eons of time.

No Continuum Pattern
But tektites have been found only in widely separated groups—in Indonesia, in Australia, in the Libyan Desert, and among ancient rocks along a 120-mile strip through five Texas counties. And they're found in only a few of the earth's rock layers and these few are widely separated. This shows there has been no more or less continuous rain of moon pieces—or of tektites.

Dr. Edenek Kopal, astronomer of the University of Manchester, England, objected to Varsavsky's mathematics. He granted that Varsavsky had constructed mass-particle trajectories which could bring something from the moon to the earth. But if tektites were chipped off the moon by meteors, the beginning of their trajectories toward the earth would have been different than Varsavsky calculated, and the chips wouldn't have reached earth, Kopal said.

In Kopal's opinion, the origin of tektites "must be sought much nearer to the terrestrial surface than the moon." In other words, science doesn't know where they came from, but they didn't come from the moon.

FSU Seeks Funds To Build 256 Units
TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Florida State University reports that it will apply for $2,000,000 in federal funds to build 256 apartment units for married students. The university currently has 1,400 married students enrolled and on-campus housing for only 99 couples.

F. H. U. Housing Director Jack Rollow estimated the university needs 800 units to adequately serve the enrollment and meet future needs.

The application will be for a self-liquidating loan from U. S. Housing and Home Finance Agency.

If approved, the university expects to have the units available by the fall of 1959.

The housing will be in 16 two-story brick buildings, each with 16 apartments to be located on a several acre tract on the university farm.

Half the units will be one bedroom apartments renting for $55 a month and the other half two-bedroom apartments renting for $60.

Researchers Will Launch Assault Against Alcoholism

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Government medical researchers are preparing to launch their first major assault against a disease which afflicts more than five million Americans.

The disease is alcoholism. It ranks with heart disease, cancer and mental illness as one of the nation's four major health problems.

The government has been spending millions each year to combat the other three. But only piddling sums have been available for research on alcoholism. As a result, medical science knows little about its causes, and far less than it needs to know about treatment.

Congress is about to change that picture. Tucked away in a multi-billion dollar appropriation bill now moving through the Senate is a $100,000 item earmarked for research on alcoholism. It is to be conducted under supervision of the National Institute of Mental Health.

Represents Largest Investment
Although $100,000 is not a lot of money by comparison with outlays for other medical research, it is far more than has ever been invested before in scientific studies of the physical and environmental factors that cause one drinker out of 15 to become uncontrollably addicted.

Even more important than the sum appropriated is the fact that Congress is saying for the first time that it wants the National Institute of Mental Health to do something about alcoholism.

In the past, Congress always has followed this kind of order by granting larger appropriations once the research is underway.

The research funds are included in a $2,067,833,381 bill to operate the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Labor Department, and related agencies during the 1959 fiscal year starting July 1.

The bill already has passed the House and is before the Senate Appropriations Committee. Committee sources said there is no controversy over the item for alcoholism.

Divided On Reason
Scientists are sharply divided on why one drinker becomes an alcoholic and another does not.

Some, like Prof. Roger J. Williams of the University of Texas, believe a physiological imbalance regulating "mechanism creates an abnormal craving for alcohol. If true, it may be possible to work out a special diet or gland therapy that will abolish the craving.

Others explain compulsive drinking in psychological terms, as a symptom of anxiety, inferiority feeling or some other personality conflict. A third school holds that excessive drinking over a long period of time causes changes in the body so that alcohol assumes the characteristics of a foodstuff required by the cells.

All agree that it is a treatable disease—and that an effective medical attack on it is long overdue.

The last great calvary charge in history, that of the Cossacks against the Austrians in World War I, was led by Michael Cantacuzene, 79, who died several years ago in Sarasota, Fla.

'Pacatal' New Tranquilizer

By DELOD SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Illustrating the unknown complexities of body chemistry, one of the newer "tranquilizing" drugs seems to impose so much tranquility upon the restless glands, the labor is set up for a heat stroke in extremely hot and humid weather.

This discovery was made by Dr. E. P. Kat of the Middletown (N.Y.) state hospital and caused him to sound an alarm through the medical society of the state of New York. Extreme tranquility and loss of sweat glands was a brand new "side effect" for any tranquilizing drug.

The new tranquilizer which Kat believed produced it is "Pacatal," representing chemical additions and substitutions to and from the molecule of phenothiazine. Its trade name is "Pacatal" and it comes with hundreds of mental patients have shown it to be an effective drug.

Needs Careful Observation
But the persons who take it and the amounts they take must be watched closely when the weather is hot and humid, Kat said. During a heat spell last summer, there were seven cases of heat stroke among 3,550 patients of the Middletown hospital.

All seven, however, were among the 35 patients who were being tranquilized by the phenothiazine derivative. It should be kept in mind that they were getting daily doses much larger than those prescribed to tranquilize people who merely are untranquil and are not mentally incapacitated.

Like the other tranquilizers, the precise chemical ways by which this tranquilizer produces tranquility are not known. It acts on the central nervous system and on the autonomic nerves. That is obvious from the effects it has. Kat reasoned that it also exerts a blocking effect on chemical discharges from nerve ends which have powerful influence on bodily behavior.

This, he continued, sets up chemical chain reactions that led to increases in body temperature while at the same time causing a "breakdown of the sweating mechanism" by which the body eliminates excessive heat.

Heat stroke represents a complete break-down, he said, and the sweat glands are tranquil to the point of not working.

Kat said all was well with his patients until hot, humid weather imposed an added load which their heat elimination chemistry could not bear. His advice to colleagues was to observe "extreme caution" while in the tranquilizer during heat waves, since the first symptoms can be overlooked in the mentally ill.

This caution also was urged for persons being tranquilized in tropical and sub-tropical climates to which they are not acclimated. Kat mentioned especially members of the armed forces serving abroad. The dosage should be sharply reduced, the fluid intake should be kept high, and activities should be reduced to the minimum.

Quadricentennial Funds Approved

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The Cabinet has approved release of $50,000 in Development Commission funds to be used for promotion of quadricentennial celebrations next year in Pensacola, Jacksonville and St. Augustine.

Chairman Sam T. Dell of the Development Commission appeared before the Cabinet in behalf of a Pensacola delegation pushing the quadricentennial as an attraction to bolster the tourist trade, weakened this season by a hard winter.

Cabinet members approved the request on the condition that the method of accounting for the funds meet with approval of state fiscal authorities.

Dell said the money will be controlled through a contract between the Development Commission and the corporation which will have to meet the approval of state fiscal authorities.

Dell told the Cabinet, sitting at the Budget Commission, the $50,000 is needed for interim expenses until the 1959 Legislature can be asked to establish an official "Quadri-centennial Commission" to supervise promotion of the event.

The money will come from $109,000 in funds earmarked by the commission for a "hard sell" tourist promotion campaign before the Budget Commission whacked off state spending to ward off a possible deficit for the current biennium.

J. McHenry Jones of Pensacola, heading the northwest Florida delegation, said the Spanish government has promised to investigate the possibility of creating a parallel commission in its country to assist in celebrating the settlement of the new world by Spanish explorers.

De Gaulle Plans Meets This Month With World Leaders

PARIS (UPI)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle is planning early meetings with President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, it was reported.

Informed sources said the new French premier would meet with Macmillan around the end of June and that he would meet with Adenauer shortly afterward to determine France's new role in NATO and ally Adenauer's fear that wartime memoranda would be rekindled.

The sources said a meeting between Eisenhower and De Gaulle was a possibility before the end of the summer although there are no preparations now, either in Paris or Washington, for such a conference.

De Gaulle, who was swept into office at the climax of the French political crisis ten days ago, probably will be too busy with France's domestic and Algerian problems during the next few weeks to break loose for a meeting with Eisenhower, the sources said.

What Has Been Done To Strengthen Schools?

By LOUISE CASSELL
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The school year was just beginning and off a national clamor about the weaknesses of American education.

President Eisenhower declared in a nationwide broadcast that strengthening the schools was "the most critical problem" confronting America. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson gave first priority to education in his listing of emergency steps the country should take to meet the Soviet challenge.

Similar speeches were made by thousands of others, from cabinet officers to PTA presidents. The whole country seemed to agree that something urgently needed to be done about the schools.

This week the school year is ending in most U. S. communities. What has actually been done to strengthen the schools?

There has been some action at the state and local levels, according to Dr. Edgar A. Fuller, executive secretary of the Council of Chief State School Officers.

Several state legislatures have voted increased funds for schools, said Fuller. "A survey we are just completing also shows that more than three-fourths of the states have taken definite steps to strengthen public school curriculums, particularly in the fields of science and mathematics."

On the federal level, there has been a great deal of talk but so far, no action.

A House education subcommittee approved a $1,500,000,000 program of federal aid for classroom construction. But the bill ran into a stone wall in the full committee.

Luminous Dial Question

By DELAN SMITH
UPI Science Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The present no-hum scientific attitude toward the luminous watch or clock dial as a potential threat to future generations of people is not justified, because the question has not been finally settled.

BRIG. GEN. K. F. ZYZMAN, USA, of the industrial college of the Armed Forces, enjoying a demonstration of Navy striking power aboard the USS Forrestal (CVA-59) visited himself to qualify as a honorary Savage Son by being catapulted in the air and recovered with an arrested landing in the A-1B. Shown above left to right, CDR L. M. Rowell, executive officer of Heavy Attack Squadron Five (VAH-5), presenting fiveth certificate to Brig. Gen. Zyzman. (Official Photo, USS)

That is the opinion of a scientist who specializes in what radiation from X-rays, radium, natural "background" radiation from cosmic rays, and, of course, from the "fall-out" of atomic and hydrogen bombs do to human bodies, especially their reproductive chemistry.

Dials shine in the dark because they are touched up with radium. The scientific question is: Does such a tiny amount of radium radiate enough gamma rays to mess up the reproductive chemistry of the person wearing the watch?

Since only about three-fourths of the new graduates will actually take teaching jobs, the outlook is for a net shortage of about 135,000 qualified teachers in September. That means schools will have to hire many "substandard" teachers with temporary licenses.

Group To Study Soaring Auto Insurance Rates

MIAMI (UPI) — The chairman of the Legislature's Highway Safety Committee has promised that his group will make a "thorough inquiry" into soaring auto insurance rates when it meets June 13 at Vero Beach.

Libby suggested that the radium on a watch dial was one microcurie, which is an extremely tiny amount, but he doubted that the average watch dial had even that much. The British investigators figured that the average dial had only one-fifth of a microcurie of radium. Thereupon he measured the gamma rays from the watches of eight other scientists in his laboratories and found the amounts of radium on their dials ranged from one-tenth of one microcurie to one and two-tenths microcuries.

But state Sen. Joe Eaton of Miami emphasized that the committee would concentrate its study on the overall problem of high car safety and trying to cut down accidents. He pointed out that was the main purpose of the committee as defined by the Legislature.

The low official British figure "may be substantially correct," he said in a report to the technical journal, "Nature," but "there exist watches containing at least 10 times this average amount of radium." Since one-fifth of a microcurie or even less will make a dial shine in the dark, why should watch-makers use any more, he asked.

Eaton, in announcing that the meeting will be held at 1:30 p. m. in the Vero Beach Court House, emphasized that the committee does not intend to conduct a "witch hunt" against any individual, agency or group of persons.

In itself even the large amount would cause no scientific concern if it were not the atomic age. But it is, and so all gamma radiation which reaches the reproductive glands of people of the reproductive ages, no matter the source, should be reduced to the absolute minimum, he said.

Although Eaton did not say so specifically, he indicated by his promise of a "thorough inquiry" that the committee would apparently look into criticisms made by a Dade County grand jury in connection with the actions of the state insurance department.

And we know that in them that love God, all things work together into good. — (Romans 8, 28.)

One of the recommendations was that the offices of treasurer and insurance commissioner, now held by J. Edwin Larson, be divided.

Loving Our Heavenly Father with all our heart and soul and mind, we put our trust actively in Him, in His loving-kindness, His mercy and His wisdom. God is all good, and from Him naught but good can come to us. Strong in our faith and trust, we know peace and serenity — and that God's will for us will be for the best.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"And then shall have that I am the Lord and that I have heard of my thoughts."

Apparently-After So Long A Time-We're Getting Somewhere

Apparently we're beginning to get somewhere!

Just about two weeks ago, the United States Supreme Court ruled that state courts have the power to award damages to workers appealing to them in loss-of-work damage suits against unions.

When a worker loses time now because of a union's walkout and of his being prevented from entering a place of business by mass picketing, force and violence, it is possible now to claim damages through courts against the union.

Actually, the Supreme Court, in affirming this decision, held "the power to impose punitive sanctions is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the state courts."

Heretofore, the National Labor Relations Board was limited to recovering back pay. It could not award punitive damages. If the state courts did not have this power either, the Court held, the effect would be to grant unions "substantial immunity from the consequences of mass picketing or coercion."

Striking down the union contention that Federal law prevailed regarding strikes the majority opinion concluded that Congress did not intend for Federal law to have complete jurisdiction over unfair labor practices and declared:

"We conclude that an employer's right to recover, in the state courts, all damages caused him by this kind of tortious conduct cannot fairly be said to be pre-empted without a clearer declaration of Congressional policy than what we find here.

The case in question involved a worker who was ousted from union membership for allegedly making false and malicious statements about a fellow member. The worker sued on the ground that he was unable to get work because of his loss of union membership.

The court ordered the union to pay the worker $6,500 for loss of wages and $2,500 for "grievous physical and mental pain and suffering."

Certainly we're in favor of unions. We do not say 'as such' that the union isn't a good organization.

What we do say is this—and it is emphatic: Americans must have the right, but not be compelled to join labor unions.

An Important Vacation Hazard

Preparing for vacation takes work. Luggage must be checked, clothes bought, reservations booked, milk and newspaper deliveries stopped, electricity and telephone shut off, house plants, gardens, lawns and pots provided for.

If you are going abroad you need passports, visas, guide books and a whole series of vaccinations. This year there should be a new vaccine on your required list—the Salk vaccine.

But even if you're not leaving the country, vacation time is still a dangerous time for polio infection. One reason lies in the nature of the virus.

There are actually three types of polio virus that cause paralysis. They are known as Type 1, or the Brunhilde type, named after a chimpanzee from whom it was first recovered; Type 2, or the Lansing type, from Lansing, Mich., where it was first identified; and Type 3, or the Leon type, named after a Los Angeles boy who died of it.

In different parts of the country one type may, at any given time, be more prevalent than the others. If, for instance, you are going from California, where the Leon type may be most prevalent, to New York, where the Brunhilde type may be most prevalent, your natural immunity may no longer protect you. Or, even if you stay away from home, an influx of vacationers may bring in other virus types heretofore less prevalent in your area.

The virtue of the Salk vaccine is that it protects you against all three types. But unless you have been vaccinated, yourself, you cannot be sure of immunity. Play safe and make vaccination a part of your vacation preparations.

Herlong Reports

The huge Department of Defense appropriations bill just passed by the House holds much interest for those of us in Central Florida inasmuch as it contains $4,000,000,000 for missile development.

The figure should avert any fears anyone might have that the missile proving grounds at Cape Canaveral is of temporary nature. Congress has shown that it believes missiles are here to stay.

The appropriations bill itself called for expenditures of more than $6 billion dollars — more than half of the entire budget for the year beginning July 1. This is an awful lot of money. It is the big reason why Congress can't reduce the excise taxes on telephones, automobiles and other items right now. It is also the reason why you can't get a reduction in your income taxes.

The question is: "Can We Afford to Let Down?" The obvious answer is no. A strong defense is our protection as long as the Russians continue a threat to world freedom. None of us want to see our sons go off to war again.

We have long been accustomed to think of the United States as occupying an unchallenged and unchallengeable position. We cannot afford to make such assumptions today in the face of Russian advances in technology.

This huge appropriations bill was carefully screened before being sent to the House floor. Hearing a subcommittee which held hearings on all phases was Congressman George H. Mahon of Texas whom I regard as the best in Congress on such matters. Mahon told the House:

"This bill does not represent a wild spending spree on the unattainable. It is not an overly ambitious approach to our defense problems; yet it is not a timid approach. It provides funds for many new or relatively new programs that make sense as a necessary defense for this country in the space age."

Those who have seen the great flashes and heard the roar as the missiles are launched at Cape Canaveral realize that our nation is not playing around. They know that this is necessary for the security of America. We are at a critical stage in our history, and we in Central Florida perhaps realize it more than some other sections of the nation, because we are close to the scene.

We ask ourselves frequently how long this spending will go on before we wreck our economy. The only thing I can be sure of is that as long as Russia continues to be a menace to world peace, we must continue to work toward keeping ourselves as strong as

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES E. MACMILLAN
UPI Foreign News Analyst

It looks as if any "summit" conference held within the next few months will be those between the big four Western allied leaders.

This prospect could change, of course, especially if Soviet Russia gave evidence that it really was ready to negotiate once war issues, including the reunification of Germany, at an East-West conference of heads of government.

It is just possible also that French Premier Charles de Gaulle and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev might meet either in Paris or Moscow.

But right now, the only summit conference in sight are a series of meetings of United States, British, French and West German leaders, with De Gaulle as the central figure.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said, in discussing the diplomatic situation with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week, that it was highly unlikely that an East-West summit meeting would be held this year.

Dulles Canceled Little Bit

Dulles' statement got little attention at the time. It runs counter to the view strongly expressed in all allied capitals that a summit conference this fall is almost certain. But the Dulles statement undoubtedly was a deliberate one. And Dulles is in such a strong position just now that his attitude could be decisive.

As for allied conferences, a number seem to be in prospect. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is winding up Wednesday a very important three-day conference with President Eisenhower in Washington. They discussed about every international issue there is.

Incidentally, British-American relations are closer than they have been for a number of years. Soon after he returns home, Macmillan is most likely to go to Paris to see De Gaulle.

This meeting, too, will be most important. Macmillan will report to De Gaulle the results of his talks with Eisenhower. He also will be able to sound out De Gaulle on foreign policy and seek his attitude on various issues, including the East-West summit conference, allied relations with Russia generally, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

German-French Meeting Likely

Next is likely to be a meeting, probably in Paris, between De Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The future of French-German relations is second only to that of allied relations with Russia in importance.

There is talk in Washington and Paris of a possible meeting between Eisenhower and De Gaulle. Such a meeting most probably would be held in Washington.

Amery Houghton, United States ambassador to France, is due in Washington Wednesday to report to Eisenhower and Dulles. He had a conference with De Gaulle Monday.

It has been made known that Macmillan, in his conversations with Eisenhower, said he would be glad if the President could be in London in November to attend the unveiling of an American War memorial in the Church of England Cathedral of St. Paul.

If Eisenhower did visit London with the congressional election out of the way, it seems not inconceivable that Eisenhower, Macmillan, De Gaulle and Adenauer might hold a summit conference in preparation for a later one with Russia.

Washington See-Saw

By Wm. Friedman
Free Press—When the 83 members of the Jasper High School senior class toured Washington, they found the regular guide service in the Capitol shut down because of the ceremonies for the "unknowns." But, their congressman, Billy Matthews, was on hand to serve them. He took time out from his office work and gave them a personally conducted lecture tour. Besides seeing a few spots that the regular guides skip, the Jasper seniors saved two-bits each. And after all, $2.00 is $2.00.

Live Oak Commemorate—The cry of the Elk will be mingled with the voice of politics this week-end in Live Oak. Elk from three counties, Suwanee, Lafayette, Hamilton, will gather for a huge Flag Day celebration. Senator Edward Holland will deliver the principal address. Elk Club No. 1185 will be host to the other Elks and the affair will be held on the Suwanee High School Football field. Chairman J. L. McMullen, Live Oak, is in charge of arrangements.

Ask for Jane—This is just to end the confusion in Congressman Pascoe's office. John Buckley is his official secretary. But, Mrs. John Buckley (without the "y") also is a secretary in Pascoe's office. Their phone calls are constantly getting mixed—and any number of folks somehow receive the impression that Mrs. Buckley is the wife. So, to settle it once and for all—when you want Mrs. John Buckley, just ask for Jane.

Surely, John Buckley won't answer to that one.

Better Luck Next Time—Congressman Charlie Bennett's boy, Bruce, aged 13, lost his first political campaign last week when he failed in his try for the job of Treasurer of the student body at Kramer Junior High School here. Bruce already has been elected to the Student Council and his bid for the treasurer's job was for an added honor. He had practiced his speech under the direction of the Congressman, but when he gave it before 1,000 fellow students it was not as convincing as it had been in his own living room. But all who know politics and political speaking also know that this is the kind of a start that could lead to greater things.

Have A Cigar—That blue haze in the "smoke filled" cloak room of the House last week came from Tampa made "All-Havans" cigars. Not all members of the Congress smoke, but somehow those who do managed to accept more than 100 complimentary samples of Tampa's best smokes from Congressman Bill Cramer. The cigars were sent to Cramer by the Cigar Manufacturers of Tampa. They were placed on the tables in the House dining room for all members to take—and most of them did. There is something about accepting a free cigar—few folks ever turn one down. Even non-smokers usually accept one and say, "I don't smoke, but I know a fellow who does." This year, Congresswoman Marguerite Blitt Church, (R-Ill.), (a non-smoker of cigars) said to Cramer, "I had a friend who thinks your cigars are the very best—I'd like to take him a few," and away went a hand-full. Cramer also reports that Vice-President Nixon received his share—given to him personally at a dinner at the Republican Chowder and Marching Club, (a Capitol Hill spot where nobody ever eats chowder or does any marching.)

Pretty New Face—Mrs. William Drolsbach, of Winter Park, has joined the secretarial staff of Congressman Syd Herlong. She fills the vacancy left when Carole Weatherly resigned last month to be married.

May We Brag—Only four pounds more. Then we'll be down to 138. That's how we weighed in for Uncle Sam in 1942. It has taken two months to drop from 160. Some depression, huh?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERR

MRS. JONES arrived at the usual hour to do her shopping at Gumbelheimer's general market. "What does that sign on the window: 'Under New Management' mean?" she asked a friend. "There's Mr. Gumbelheimer sitting next to me like he always does."

"Yes," agreed the friend, "but what you don't know is that Mr. Gumbelheimer got married yesterday."

A slick chick from the night club circuit says that dancing is the thing that keeps her figure in trim. "They tried to tell me swimming is good for the figure," she said, "but what has it ever done for me?"

She reported that a lady who had been in Istanbul had called her. "The lady's cousin had a dream Turkish towel."

The Sanford Boat and Ski Club wishes to make known a change of address. Instead of meeting in the "little green hut" in Ft. Mellon Park as in the past, meetings will be held in the Agriculture Building behind Seminole High School.

Members are reminded of a meeting this tonight.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ronald Wiley, Kansas University outfielder, has been signed by the Philadelphia Phillies to a contract with their Tulsa affiliate in the double-A Texas League. Wiley, 22, bats and throws right-handed.

By OSCAR FRELEY
United Press International

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Baseball's minor leagues face swift extinction, Grayle Howlett of the Tulsa Oilers predicted today, unless the major leagues "do something—and do it quickly."

Howlett is well qualified to sound the clarion call to action. His club — in a state which produced such major league stars as Carl Hubbell, the Waners, Pepper Martin, Alie Reynolds, Dale Mitchell and Mickey Mantle — is the last of the 15 organized baseball franchises which Oklahoma once boasted.

His plea is that the major league clubs pay the freight for players which they send down on the farm and share "invasion" TV and radio income.

Gives His Reasons
 "Major league baseball must carry the load on their players," Howlett explained. "Here in the Texas League we have a 19-man player limit. We own eight of our players and the Philadelphia Phillies, with whom we have a working agreement, own 11."

"Last year it cost us $175,000 to operate the Tulsa club," he adds. "We broke even only because we were lucky enough to sell two of our own players to major league teams due, primarily, to the fact that our players' payroll ran $78,000."

That's where the major leagues should come in, according to his plan.

"We have no equity in the players they send us," he explains. "We polish them and pay their way while we are doing it. It's time that the majors started subsidizing the training of their future major league stars."

Howlett, a member of the Major-Minor League Fund Committee which the majors set up to distribute $500,000 in aid to the minors, feels that the majors should "pay the travel expenses here for farmed out players as well as their training expenses and their salaries."

There is no doubt in Howlett's mind but what the weekly TV casts into his territory "adversely are chipping us away, little by little."

George Weiss and Gabe Paul, general managers respectively of the Yankees and the Cincinnati Redlegs, are on the major-minor league committee and their reactions to the minor leaguers' plight obviously annoy the Tulsa owner.

"Weiss seems to think that the problem is lazy residential operators who don't know how to promote people into the ball parks," Howlett says with some heat. "This isn't so, because we in the minors have done and are doing everything we know how, working more hours than the major leaguers do. Paul says the minors have always had a problem and always will be up and down. The difference is that now we are down in the deepest valley in which we've ever been and there are new problems such as we never faced before."

OTTAWA SIGNS WHITE
OTTAWA (UPI) — The Ottawa Rough Riders have signed their ninth new import when they came to terms with tackle Bob White of Uterbein Ohio College. White, a 6-2, 235-pounder, had been a Baltimore Colt draft choice in 1957.

ARCARDI SCORES TRIPLE
ELMONT, N. Y. (UPI) — Eddie Arcardi, Belmont Park's leading jockey this season, scored a triple Tuesday. He won aboard Knight O'Erin $64.30 in the fifth race, scored on Restless Wind $2.50 in the seventh and booted home Nassau.

MONMOUTH OPENS
MONMOUTH, N. J. (UPI) — Monmouth Park's 30-day meeting opened Tuesday with champion jockey Bill Hartack scoring three winners. The triple was Hartack's best outing since his pre-Kentucky Derby injury. True necktie won the meet's first stakes race by taking the $17,000 Oceanport Handicap.

Whatever Happened To Sarah Palfrey

By United Press International
 Sarah Palfrey, who won 26 national tennis titles over a span of 20 years, had a sound game that made her equally at home on a singles or doubles court. She completely dominated the junior girls field in her earliest campaigns and in 1939 made the top 10 in the national rankings for the first time as No. 4. She was a "top tenniser" 10 different times. In doubles and mixed doubles she won national titles with such stars as Helen Jacobs and Alice Marble, Fred Perry, Don Budge and Jack Kramer. In 1941, as Sarah Palfrey Cooke, she beat Pauline Betz for the U.S. title and after a retirement came back to end the 1948 title at Forest Hills. Whatever happened to Sarah Palfrey? Now 46, she is Mrs. Jerry Danzig, wife of a broadcasting network vice president in New York. She still plays tennis occasionally but not in competition.

Football Clinic Opens Today In Tallahassee

TALLAHASSEE — (Special) — Football took over the spotlight in Florida's Capital City today as Florida State University opened its 5th annual football clinic.

Several hundred high school and college coaches from Florida to Minnesota are on hand for blue-ribbon instruction from head coaches noted for success. The five headliners are Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama, Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State, Ed Gillman of the Los Angeles Rams, Eddie Erdelatz of Navy, and Murray Warmath of Minnesota.

Originated in 1954 by Athletic Director Tom Nugent, Florida State's popular clinic opened at 9 a. m. with a welcome from FSU President Robert M. Strozier.

The clinic runs through Saturday noon.

In the interim, a steady diet of football will be served up with accent on modern trends and new ideas in the game. The program includes more than 30 hours of lectures, panel discussions, question-and-answer sessions, a 4 movies.

First up Thursday was Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty, who discussed the running phase of his Spartans' celebrated multiple offense. Gillman was next with tips on building a passing game. Erdelatz, Bryant, and Warmath were scheduled for afternoon sessions.

The majority of the clinic will be staged in the air-conditioned State Theater in downtown Tallahassee.

Coaches from nearly every Southern state, with heavy concentration from Alabama, Georgia, and Florida, enrolled at West Hall on the Florida State campus. Visiting coaches are staying in West Hall, FSU's modern 11-story men's residence building.

The five clinic headliners will be assisted during the clinic by FSU's coaching staff of Bob Harrison, Frank Tomney, Hugh Adams, Charlie LaPrade, Paul Odum, Lee Corso, and Herb Hughes.

Films of the 1958 Gator Bowl, Orange Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Cotton Bowl, and Rose Bowl games will be screened.

More than 30 newspaper, radio, and television representatives from Florida and Georgia are expected. The Florida State Sports-writers Association held its annual summer business meeting this afternoon in conjunction with the clinic.

Boy Scouts Have Boating Program

Boating, on the whole, seems to bring out the best in people, probably because it is an activity which has no room for either the careless or the selfish. It teaches respect for nature and its forces; it develops resourcefulness and self-reliance, a sense of fair play.

In a word, boating builds character. It helps to build good Americans. Boy Scouts are good Americans, and they are learning to be good shipmates, too.

In their outboard boating program, the Boy Scouts of America extend the theme "Safety Through Skill" to an area that is growing rapidly as a wholesome outdoor sport, and an area which is packed with natural interest for boys.

As the sport of boating grows, and more people take part, it becomes necessary that education be provided in safe boat handling, rules of the road and courtesy afloat. To meet this need for boatmanship training, the Boy Scouts of America, with the help of the Evinrude Boating Foundation, have embarked on an educational program that is now in the third year.

A succession of seven specially-produced motion pictures, stressing conservation and outboard boating safety, have been released to more than 400 television stations. Each of the films is a one-minute public service feature on boat skills, safety float and respected conservation practices.

The films were shot on location near Toms River, N. J., off the grounds, pier and boat fleet of Admiral Farragut Academy, and at Dinner Key, Fla., near the municipal headquarters of Miami. Ted Peit, conservation director of the Boy Scouts, directed the films, with the help of the Evinrude Boating Foundation.

Complementing the outboard boating films is the 84-page booklet published for the Boy Scouts of America by the Evinrude Boating Foundation. "Outboard Boating Skills," available free of charge to all scouts.

The Scout Boating Code, which appears in this booklet, could well be adopted by any boatman as a code which would lead him to safer and more pleasant outboard boating. This code reads:

As a boatman I will do my best to maintain my boat and its equipment in a seamanlike manner.

I will at all times keep my boat clean inside and out; the bilges free of water and dirt, the waterline and bottom free of marine growths, the topides free of marks and damage, the cockpit and decks free of loose gear.

I will dry and coil all lines properly before stowing and see that all equipment is neatly stowed in its proper place when not in actual use.

I will take pride in keeping my boat shipshape.

Practice safety afloat:

I will not overload or overpower my boat.

I will carry a Coast Guard approved life preserver for each person on board.

I will carry a Coast Guard approved fire extinguisher and know how to use and maintain it.

I will be alert to weather changes and head for shelter when storms threaten.

I will not throw garbage, rubbish or other waste where it will become a nuisance to others or cause pollution.

I will operate my boat in accordance with my responsibilities as a helmsman and with consideration for the comfort and safety of others.

I will render assistance promptly to those in trouble or distress and in all respects be faithful to the customs and traditions of the sea.

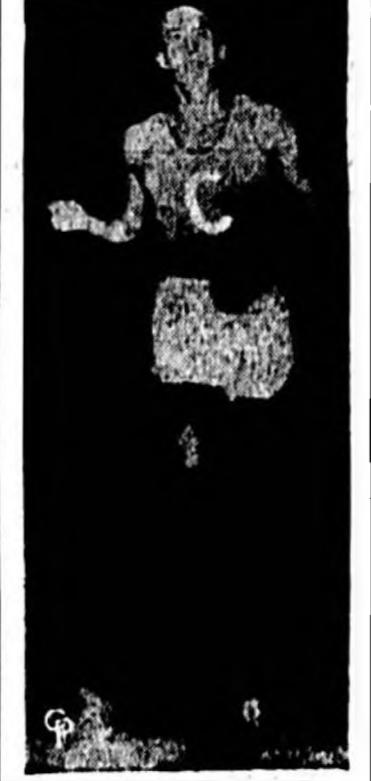

Be considerate and courteous: sea.

Player Of The Day

By United Press International
 Bob Friend never has won 30 games but nevertheless is one of the recognized star pitchers of the National League.

A powerful right-hander, Friend is the first NL pitcher to reach nine victories this season and may help pitch the Pittsburgh Pirates to their highest finish since 1948. No. 9 for Friend Tuesday night was a 5-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The 27-year old right-hander, who attended Purdue University, had a 17-17 record and led the league in innings pitched with 214 in 1956. He was 14-18 with 277 innings pitched last season and has an 82-98 career record including 9-4 this season.

I will not drive my boat at high speeds through crowded anchorages or swimming areas.

FLORIDA EGGS HAVE DROPPED

...to a NEW LOW PRICE!

Now's the time to buy more eggs . . .

Serve 'em every day!

Florida egg prices are lower because of the normal increase in production that occurs every year in late Spring. More eggs mean lower prices.

Eggs are good at any meal, and can be used as the main dish not only at breakfast, but lunch and dinner as well. Serve them creamed, baked, scrambled, in salads, sandwiches, souffles, omelets and dozens of other ways.

Eggs are good for you, and contain biologically complete protein. That's why they are included in infants' diets so early, and why doctors often include generous portions of egg in convalescents' diets.

Everybody should have two eggs every day for glowing good health.

Buy Florida Grade A eggs! Look for the orange label on every carton.

Check For Faulty Prop To Avoid Motor Damage

A faulty propeller can damage outboard motors and a boating foundation advises boatmen to check the prop periodically.

A bent or nicked prop will set up vibration in the engine which may have damaging effects on the operating parts. Blades should be kept in proper pitch with all nicks removed or repaired.

New York state law requires that all boats powered by inboard or outboard motors be registered and that they display the assigned identification numbers.

Public Hearing Set On Fund Disbursement

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Legislative Committee on Public Welfare will hold a public hearing in Palatka June 21 to discuss disbursement of funds to the needy.

Rep. James N. Beck of Palatka, chairman of the committee, said the group will try to determine why there has been a delay of almost a year in starting the "vendor payment for prescribed medicine" plan.

The plan was suggested by the Welfare Department, and the 1957 legislature appropriated the funds with view to obtaining its immediate initiation.

Beck said many welfare recipients are in need of money for medicine and drugs prescribed for them, and he felt that sufficient time had elapsed for the program to be in operation. The vendor plan provides for direct payments of medical and drug bills by the Welfare Board to those eligible for such payments.

Other members of the committee are Sens. H. H. Hair, Live Oak, W. E. Bishop, Lake City, Harvie Belser, Bonifay, and Reps. Ray Mattox, Wintz and E. C. Rowell, Webster.

ARE HIGH PRICES STRANGLING THE PAINT INDUSTRY?

In the extraordinary trend of paint prices nationwide, the U. S. Department of Labor, paint prices increased 18 times as much as the material used in making it from September, 1947-1957. Linseed and soap oils, primary paint ingredients, are actually down 64% and 59%!

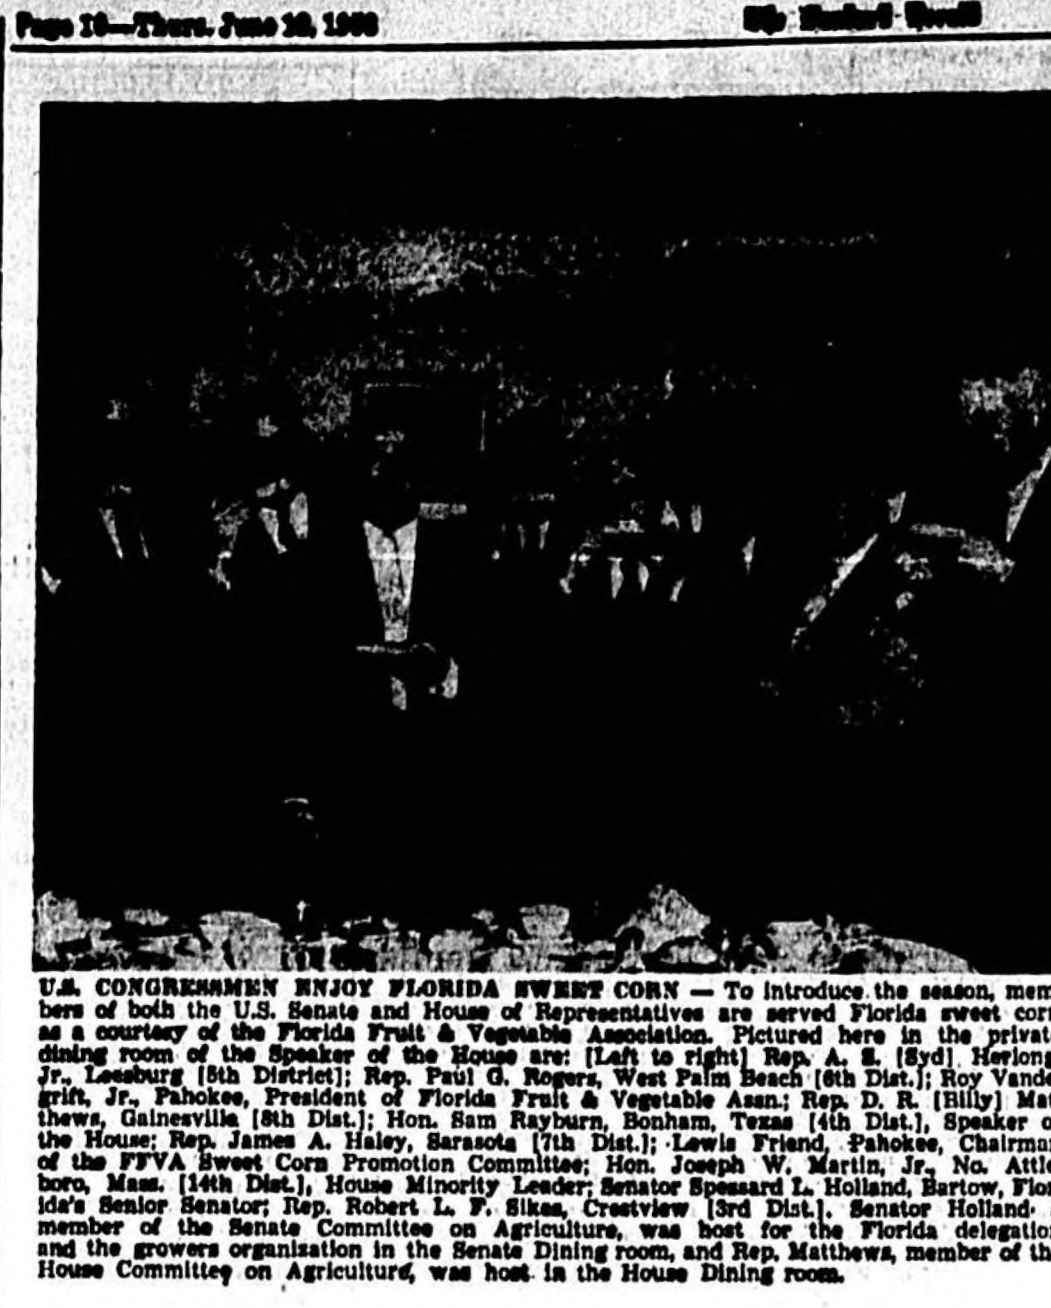

Is there responsibility? No! Automation and new equipment advances make it possible to produce even better quality products than in 1947, even with increased production volumes!

My company eliminates or reduces 18 profits and costs that amount to more than cost of the paint itself. Then I share all these savings with my huge family of friends!

U. S. Retailers Giving Free Gifts

By FRED DANZIG

New York Times International NEW YORK (UPI)—Watch out, Santa Claus.

On your guard, Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr.

When it comes to handing out free gifts, retailers across the United States can give you both competition.

A United Press International survey reveals that many merchants are going in for some old-fashioned showmanship and new-fangled gimmicks to woo the consumer and stimulate sales.

They're giving away stockings and subway rides, Cadillac and cabriolet cruises, ladders and lubrication, and just plain money.

Perhaps the most intriguing sales gimmick came up last week when the New York City Transit Authority announced a plan to let subway and bus riders get free rides for certain soap coupons. Three coupons equal one free ride.

Airliner Trade-ins

This offer came shortly after manufacturers of jet airliners said they'll arrange for trade-ins on piston-powered jobs such as Boeing Strato-cruisers and DC7s.

A car dealer in Detroit offers buyers free lubrication services for the life of the car. Another dealer in Langhorne, Pa., duplicates this offer and throws in a free dinner for two. A lucky customer in Dallas received a boat, outboard motor and boat trailer.

A paint store in Dallas gives away a free ladder to those who purchase enough paint to cover the house.

A drug store in Albany, Ga., daily gives away aprons to the first 100 lady shoppers.

A department store in Ulca, N. C., keeps a giant bingo game going. Shoppers get free bingo cards as they enter and numbers are announced on the loudspeaker system while they shop. Prizes include phonograph machines and nylon.

Home Improvement

A home builder at Park Forest, Ill., opens a $1,000 bank account for each purchaser. Home purchasers who deal with one Cleveland builder get $800 which they must spend within six months for landscaping or home equipment.

Many other builders offer such gimmicks as free hi-fi sets, color TV, home appliances and wall-to-wall carpeting.

This summer, "operation ping pong" is expected to put more bounce into business at Knoxville, Tenn. Airplanes will drop ping pong balls that contain gift certificates.

In Miami, a new grocery store sent out engraved invitations that offered free one dozen eggs, a pound of coffee, plus a silver dollar, for every $5 spent.

An appliance store in Macon, Ga., gives away a free wash 'n' wear' suit with every purchase of automatic washer.

And a sign painter in Cleveland recently advertised: "Free—Help Wanted" signs.

State's Non-Farm Employment Gain Told By Board

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Industrial Commission says Florida is the only state in the Southeast with non-farm employment gains in the latest available figures, compared with year-ago levels.

Chairman James T. Vocelle said non-farm employment in April was 1,153,000, or 5,500 above last April.

Seven other Southeastern states all trailed below their year-ago levels during the same period.

Vocelle said Florida's position "has been remarkable to be ahead of last year levels in spite of the aftermath of the severest winter in Florida history and the effects of the national recession."

"This is more than anything flatter and has elapsed for the state's healthy industrial and business growth and the opening up of new employment opportunities through industrial expansion," he said.

Ike Rejects Congress Demand To Fire Adams

Negro, Mother Are Suspects In Murder For Insurance Plot

MIAMI (UPI)— Authorities checked the story today of a young Negro man and his mother, suspected of teaming up in a slay murder for insurance plot in which at least three persons allegedly were killed.

Officers said Thursday George W. Milton, 32, admitted that he drowned his 22-year-old sweetheart, Minnie Claybourne, after taking out a $10,000 insurance policy on her life.

They said Milton also told them he shot his father in 1946 at Trail Lake, Miss.

Milton's mother, Lena Jefferson, 40, operator of a night club in Haines City, is free under $20,000 bond on charge of attempt to murder and conspiracy to murder.

Miss Claybourne drowned when the car she was in plunged into the Miami River June 1. Detectives said Milton told them he left her unconscious, started the motor, then headed the car toward the water.

He was also quoted as saying he killed his father after his mother told him the father was planning to kill all of the children. At the time, the woman was reported to have a $500 insurance policy on her husband.

Mrs. Milton was arrested several weeks ago in Bartow in connection with the death of Walter Henderson, 45, of Haines City. She also allegedly attempted murder of Johnny Lee Brown, 22. Both Henderson and Brown were Negroes.

Mrs. Milton held a $2,500 insurance policy on Henderson, found bound to death in Vicksburg, Miss., Oct. 12, 1957, officers said. They added she also held a $10,000 life insurance policy on Brown, who narrowly missed death when he was dragged and hit on a railroad track.

The engineer of an approaching train spotted Brown's car on the track and stopped in time to prevent a collision.

Story On Former SNAS Officer Seen In Magazine

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Eisenhower today rejected a congressional demand that he fire Sherman Adams, his top aide.

White House Press Secretary James G. Hagerly made the President's position clear in answer to a reporter's question.

The reporter noted that Rev. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill.) had said Eisenhower should demand Adams' resignation because of the presidential assistant's action in behalf of millionaire industrialist Bernard Goldfine, from whom he accepted favors.

He then asked Hagerly could say whether the President had any intention of firing Adams.

"Sure I can," he said. "The answer is of course not."

Hagerly declined to answer further questions concerning Adams.

Nothing Planned

"The governor sent a letter yesterday to Mr. Owen Harris (D-Ark.) and that is all he expects to have to say," Hagerly said. "He is not going to have a press conference and I have not heard any talk about his going up to Capitol Hill to testify."

This was Hagerly's answer to all further questions about the matter, including a report that Goldfine had given a $700 vicuna coat to Adams.

Adams denied Thursday that he had used his position to seek government favors for Goldfine, New England textile tycoon. He said he only made, or directed others to make, phone calls to get information for Goldfine or to arrange an appointment for him.

Congressional Democrats denounced Adams' conduct as "highly improper."

Pilot's Good Judgement Saves 17 From Injury

KEY WEST (UPI)— A pilot's "good judgment" was credited with saving 17 persons from injury when a National Airlines plane skidded in on its belly during a heavy rainstorm.

The landing gear of the two-engine Lockheed, snapped as it touched the ground but the airliner skidded safely to a stop without injury to any of the 14 passengers or three crew members.

The plane was enroute from Miami to Key West on National flight 1337 Thursday when Capt. Blair Archer, the pilot, decided the weather was too rough to try to land.

He circled the field above the heavy squall for 20 minutes, then attempted to land. But while taxiing on the runway he decided the wind and rain was too rough and applied the power again for a quick takeoff.

He said the winds pulled him off the runway to the left and he had to turn it more to the left to avoid a building. The landing gear collapsed in the maneuvering and the plane skidded to a halt.

Witnesses at the airport said the winds were about 25 miles an hour at the time. They said Archer's "good judgment" prevented possible injury to those aboard plus further damage to the plane.

E. F. LUNDQUIST retires after 32 years with local firm (Staff Photo)

"Yes sir, I've worked right here in this same place for 32 years," said E. F. Lundquist, when he announced his retirement on June 28.

"Right now I'm just thinking about doing some gardening and fishing when I turn loose here the end of this month," he said.

Lundquist is retiring after spending 32 years with Hill Implement Co. on Oak Ave. Of course, R. A. Newman Jr., manager of the firm, said, "he'll be around once in a while just to stay in touch with those he has known for so many years."

"Well, you know," Lundquist said, "I was born around here for 18 years — and when he (glancing out of the corner of his eyes at R. A. Newman Jr.) used to come around, I'd run him out."

He was just a little shaver then, explained Lundquist, and lived right there across the street.

"Things are sure different now," commented Lundquist as he reminisced back through the early days of his Hill Implement Co. employment. "We had no tractors back then and there were at least a thousand mules in Seminole County."

We sold plows, and horse collars, plow points and plow bolts, plow line and all such as that," he said.

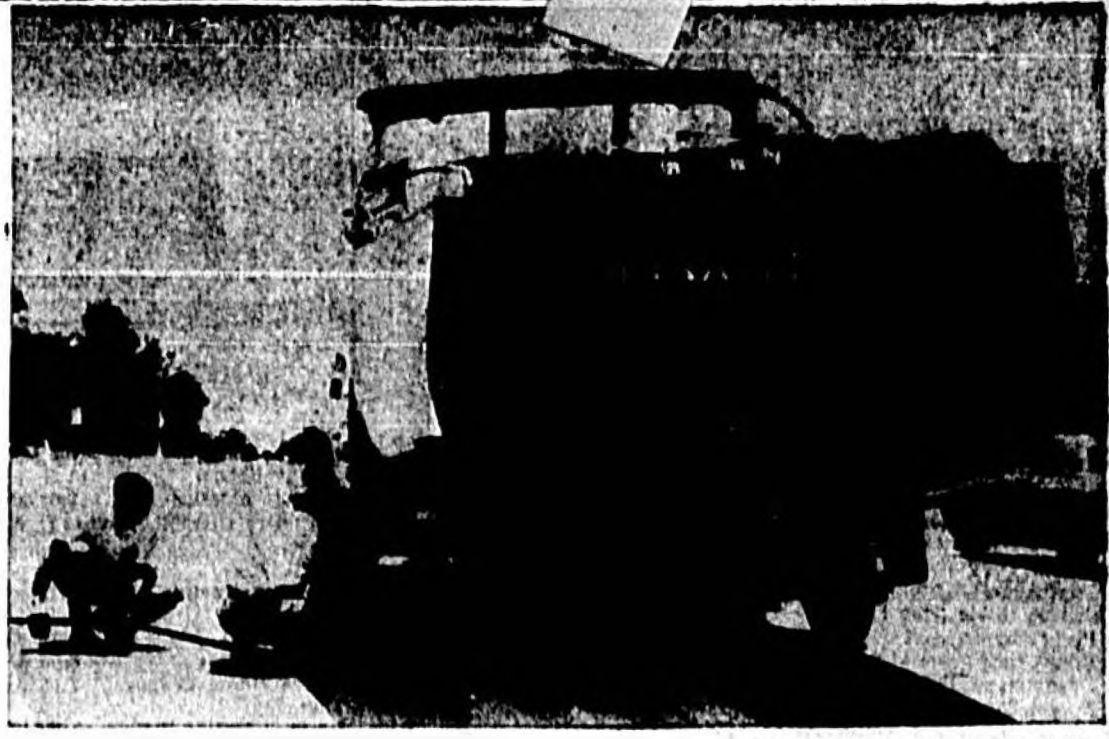

"Why I remember unloading a solid cartload of mowing machines and a cartload of wagons," the tall, hardy plain spoken hardware man said.

And then casually, Lundquist added "Work's not near as hard now as it used to be — but I've enjoyed being here all of these years."

Lundquist was born and raised in the Sanford area. "My father came here when there wasn't any town," he said. "There was just a small dock down there."

Putting his keen memory into action, Lundquist recalled meeting the Duda's, Mr. Chase — all of the early pioneers of the Sanford area — even when a "five acre farm was all a man could handle."

Lundquist recalled his marriage in 1918, 40 years ago, he said. "And we have seven fine children — six girls and one boy." Then he named them off — a boy in Cordell, Ga., a daughter in Athens, Ga., one in Yale, Mich., New

President Proposes New Aviation Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Eisenhower proposed today creation of a new federal aviation agency to make air travel safer.

The new agency would absorb the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the Airways Modernization Board which have been taking emergency measures to stop collisions of planes in flight.

In a special message to Congress, the President asked that legislation setting up the new agency be passed "at the earliest practicable date."

"Recent mid-air collisions of aircraft, occasioning tragic losses of human life have emphasized the need for a system of air traffic management which will prevent, within the limit of human ingenuity, a recurrence of such accidents," Eisenhower said.

The "Federal Aviation Agency" would be a part of the executive branch in contrast to the Civil Aeronautics Board, which is an independent agency.

The FAA would take over the CAB's function of issuing safety regulations but would report to the CAB all facts about civil aviation accidents.

The CAB would review FAA reports and would continue to be responsible for determining the probable causes of accidents.

Under the President's proposal the CAB also would continue to exercise its present economic functions, such as allocation of air routes and control of rates.
