Sarepta Home Fund Spurred By Donations

(Larry Verbal will be in New York for the holidays and Around The Clock will be written by members of the editorial department.)

During the Christmas rush, Santa came to downtown Sanford and found that he couldn't get a seat. He left a note of thanks to Al Wilson of Wilson-Maier Furniture, who supplied a comfortable seat for Mr. Claus so he could greet area boys and girls.

Kind-hearted service men, Navy first and second class petty officers, Army and Air Force tech and staff sergeants contributed over $700 in cash for the children's Christmas party at the Acety Deucey Club at the Sanford NAS. The Herald gave credit for gifts to Sanford merchants in Wednesday's paper. Generous though they are, the merchants weren't in on this one. All credit goes to the service men and the Acety Deucey Club.

The entire Sanford Kiwanis Club served as honorary pallbearers for the late Fred Wilson at services today as a last memorial to their former lieutenant governor, who was held in the highest esteem by his fellow members.

Big new neon sign went up on the Valdez Hotel Wednesday. The two ladder trucks and hoist attracted a great deal of attention as the huge sign was swung gently and carefully into its appointed niche.

Jaycees were scheduled to tour the Herald plant today, to see all the unseen mechanical forces that mesh, move and roll all those Herald's off the presses.

A birthday cake will be the feature attraction at the next Oviedo council meeting Jan. 7. Clerk Dot Courier's birthday is the ninth and Mayor Lee Gary's is the sixth.

Mayor Gary says the biggest project the town has at hand is getting the ACL or the State Road Dept. to reconstruct the new crossing downtown. If they don't, additional auto mechanics will have to be imported to repair front end damage to cars crossing the railroad tracks, he predicted.

That adjourned meeting of City Commission will be at 8 p. m. today. On the agenda is a discussion of the possibility of the city acquiring the old post office building and using it as a library.

Enterprise residents report they are mighty happy those directional signs pointing the way to the community finally have been put up on the Interstate highway.

Cille's restaurant was broken into Tuesday night and some cigars and 300 pennies stolen. The thing that aggravated the management wasn't the cigars or the pennies, but whoever did it had the gall to eat a box of candy while engaged in their nefarious act.

The late Fred R. Wilson took a great interest in the history of Florida, had done a lot of research in the matter, and made many interesting talks to civic groups on the early pioneering days of the state. At the time of his death, Mr. Wilson was working on his autobiography, which he called "After 60 Years."

For some reason, when it rains out in Casselberry, the fire alarm seems fit to sound off. It happened again this week during the downpour, and all the local fire ladders dutifully turned out to watch Fire Chief Paul Bates turn the howling thing off.

Downtown Sanford parkers are reminded that the free parking on meters went by the boards right after Santa Claus went through. Tickets are being given now.

Sarepta Home director Mrs. Tamar Braden announced today that $232 has been received in donations to the improvement fund and some work on the building will start Saturday.

Members of the Casselberry Lions Club visited the home Wednesday and presented Mrs. Braden with a check for $40 which represents the first of the club's donations to the fund. The presentation was made by Clyde Kerca and Ben Evans, co-chairmen of the organization's sight conservation committee.

Making the donation to the home on behalf of the club, Kerca said, "This project merits the help of the whole county and we hope all the service and civic clubs in the area will get on the wagon and give the Sarepta Home a helping hand."

The most pressing improvement needed by the home is a new steel fire escape to replace the present wooden structure which is in very bad condition, according to A. K. Shoemaker Jr., who is coordinator of the fund drive and advisor on the technical aspects of the improvement. Mrs. Braden reported that number of people have offered to donate a Saturday morning's work time to the cause, and also that material donations are being made, including one for the asbestos to provide a ceiling for the home's furnace.

In addition to the rewiring of the home, the new fire escape and the protection needed for the furnace, Shoemaker said some of the other projects to be taken care of include replastering some of the rooms, replacing screens and a great deal of painting needed around the building.

He said the home easily could use $1,000 in making improvements that are very much needed.

A cost control program will be set up by the coordinator to insure the maximum use of all donations for the home's benefit. He indicated that the current program was the start of a long range plan to upgrade the home, and to eventually make possible the expansion of the facility.

Dr. Frank Leone, County Health Director said today the Sarepta Home is a most important part of the aged care in the county and he urged everyone to "get behind the drive and do all they can to help bring the facility up to standard."

Donations for the fund can be sent to Loring Burgess at the Florida State Bank, and checks should be made payable to the "Sarepta Home Improvement Fund."

Bank Robber Has Short Career

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Richard D. Holtan, 27, Sioux Falls, S. D., robbed a bank with an FBI agent standing behind him Wednesday and was arrested before he could get the money in his pocket.

Broke, hungry and tired from a night of sleeping at the bus depot, Holtan decided to rob the downtown Hibernia Bank.

He wrapped a transistor radio in a newspaper and then handed teller Maureen Laval, 24, a note. It read: "This bomb in the newspaper can blow up the whole block. I want $1,500. Please be careful."

She handed over $1,400.

Then the man behind Holtan in line—FBI agent Monte Hall—asked Miss Laval, "Have you been robbed?"

The flustered teller managed a nod.

Hall collared Holtan before he could step away from the window.

Holtan told authorities he had arrived Saturday night with no money and had been "bumming around" ever since.

Hall said he became suspicious after he noticed the shabby, unshaven Holtan lurking behind the bank's Christmas tree.

Newest Satellite Can Tap Phones

NEW YORK (UPI) — A secret American satellite, so sensitive it can tap Russian telephone messages and pinpoint missile launch sites by their radio guidance signals, now is orbiting the earth. Newsweek magazine reported on Wednesday.

The robot inspector, called "The Ferret," contains electronic and electromagnetic sensors to pickup clear, coded or scrambled transmissions and relay them to United States listening posts, the magazine said. It was developed by Lockheed Aircraft and (RCA), according to Newsweek.

Stocks Higher

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks were irregularly higher in routine trading at the opening today. Many brokers interpreted Wednesday's show of strength in two ways: the beginning of the traditional year-end rally and a sign that the selling for tax purposes has been overcome.

Shopping Center's Bids Set

Bids will be opened Jan. 14 for the construction of 70,000 square feet of store space at the Seminole Shopping Plaza at the corner of SR 400 and Hwy. 17-92, George Pennington of Eastcoast Shopping Centers, Inc. said today.

The unit to be constructed will house a large McCrory's variety store, a Liggett's drug store and nine smaller service stores, he said.

Pennington said a lease had been signed with Trade Winds Cafeteria, but is uncertain whether or not they are to be included in the current plans.

Construction is expected to start before Feb. 1, Pennington said.

The completed shopping center, according to Pennington, will be very much like the company's Parkwood Plaza on West Colonial Drive, Orlando.

There is also included in the planning for the south end installation of a large theater and a department store.

New Cold Wave Drops Mercury 30 Below Zero

By United Press International

A new onslaught of frigid northern air moved into the northern plains today on the heels of a cold wave that sent temperatures to more than 30 degrees below zero.

Temperatures were cold but skies generally clear across the nation today. The mercury was well below the freezing mark from coast to coast in the northern states.

The new cold air mass was not expected to bring readings as low as Wednesday when the official low reading for the nation was 31 below at Craig, Colo., and zero temperatures swept as far south as Oklahoma.

It was 25 below at Viroqua, Wis., 23 below at Dubuque, Iowa, and 20 below at Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., and Duluth, Minn.

San Francisco received one of its rare freezing temperatures. The mercury slumped to 31 in the Golden Gate area.

While most of the nation chattered and shook in the cold, the mercury in Florida topped at 83 above at Fort Myers and 81 at West Palm Beach and Orlando, driving thousands of tourists to the beaches.

Charge Renewed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev today renewed charges that the West was guilty of espionage.

922 More Cubans Land

PORT EVERGLADES (UPI) —The freighter African Pilot, looking like a wartime hospital ship, docked here today with 922 Cuban relatives of the freed Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners.

The black-hulled freighter, a big Red Cross emblazoned on its side, actually was a floating medical clinic. Authorities reported it carried nine cases of communicable diseases aboard. At least four cases were measles among small children.

The sickness aboard the vessel, however, was not severe enough for the African Pilot to be quarantined, the Red Cross said. Three ambulances waited at dockside to carry the sick to hospitals. Besides the nine communicable disease cases, there were two other persons requiring medical treatment.

The passengers, mostly women and children, were in many cases literally sick with excitement at their unexpected opportunity to escape the Cuba of Fidel Castro and get to the United States.

The ship that brought them back was the same one that took a shipment of the ransom supplies to Cuba to buy the freedom of captives taken 30 months ago during the abortive attempt to storm Cuban shores by an invasion force.

The 14-hour, 10-minute voyage during the warm night was over calm seas.

Crewmen of the freighter were moved at the sight of the refugees they carried. "After seeing them, I do not think I can ever complain again," one crewman said.

Although some of the refugees slept peacefully, many others nervously paced the deck or sat about talking about their good fortune in getting away.

As the ship pulled out of Havana some Cubans crowded by the dockside shouted "Cuba si, Yanqui no," the anti-American chant of Castroism. But others openly cheered.

Processing of the passengers by immigration, customs and public health authorities was expected to take about two and one-half hours here, after which the relatives were to travel by bus to Dinner Key Auditorium in Miami, about 25 miles south, for a mass reunion with the 1,113 invasion prisoners who were airlifted to Florida Sunday and Monday.

There were reports in Miami that another 2,500 Cubans related to the prisoners were waiting for their chance to leave their country for exile in the United States.

Also still in Cuba, but apparently with a chance of being freed, are 21 Americans jailed for various charges. Prisoner negotiator James B. Donovan said when he returned Monday night that Castro had given him a firm pledge on early release of the Americans, pending further discussions on which Donovan declined to elaborate.

Board To Hear Loan Request

A resolution authorizing reports for a loan of $30,000 from the Commercial Bank at Winter Park, will be presented to the Altamonte Springs town council at their meeting Wednesday night, according to Mayor W. L. Swofford.

The money will be used to purchase the Southern Gulf Utilities, Inc., plant now serving the Hillcrest section of the city.

A purchase price of $22,500 was negotiated several weeks ago with the utilities company officials in Miami. The additional $2,500 will come from funds already available to the town.

Opposition Cited To Cities' Move

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) —The City of St. Petersburg has been threatened with a suit if it allocates tax money for use in a big-city fight for better reapportionment of the State Legislature.

State Rep. Charles R. Holley of Pinellas County notified Mayor Herman Goldner by letter Wednesday that he would oppose any use of tax money in the fight.

A group of representatives from larger cities in Florida met recently in Tampa to discuss such a court fight for reapportionment. At that time, Goldner was named to head a committee to draft possible action by the cities.

The St. Petersburg City Council later gave tentative approval to an expenditure of tax money if such action was determined to be legal.

Indian Won't Tell Where $645,000 Is

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI)—Joe Suazo, a Santa Clara Indian who presumably knows where $645,000 in gold bullion is hidden on his reservation, was in jail today because he won't tell where.

A grandson of Missouri's notorious bandit Jesse James claims that James hid the gold—1,200 pounds of it in 90-pound ingots—on the Santa Clara reservation in northern New Mexico after the Civil War.

Jesse L. James of Manitou, Colo., said his grandfather gave him the gold before he died, and told him how to find it. The gold was not looted from robberies, he said, but was collected by James to help finance a hoped-for second rebellion in the South.

James convinced U. S. District Judge Waldo Rogers at

Skybolt, Tax Cut On President's Panel Agenda

PALM BEACH (UPI) — President Kennedy and his top defense officials met today for a final decision on the huge military budget for fiscal 1964 which will write the controversial Skybolt missile out of the nation's arsenal.

The Pentagon delegation arriving here from Washington was headed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara who said "a decision will be made today" about Skybolt.

White House officials said the series of pre-Congress conferences got off to a good start Wednesday when Kennedy met with Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon and other top fiscal and economic advisers. In this conference, the president approved the basic structure of the tax reform program, including a top-to-bottom tax cut.

The White House said today's conference had a dual purpose—a year-end review of the military situation and a final look at the military budget for the next fiscal year.

The fate of the Skybolt weapon was a foregone conclusion; it can be saved only by a complete reversal of announced policy on the part of Kennedy and McNamara. Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, was expected to battle until the last possible moment for the Skybolt program.

Before seeing the defense group, Kennedy met at his oceanfront holiday headquarters with the Israeli foreign minister, Mrs. Golda Meir.

1 On Castro List Already In U. S.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The mother of one of 23 Americans Cuban Premier Fidel Castro is listed as holding in his jails for counter-revolutionary activities said Wednesday night her son is safe and well in Miami.

Mrs. Dorothy L. Rundquist said her son, Howard L. Rundquist, 37, talked with her several days ago and expressed hope he might visit her for Christmas. However, she said Rundquist has not yet arrived in San Antonio.

Mrs. Rundquist said her son was held in Cuban prisons for about two years prior to his release and has been in the United States since last June 19.

The State Department in Washington released the list of 23 Americans Wednesday. It said they were being held for counter-revolutionary activities against Castro's Communist government.

Accident Sends Man To Hospital

An accident this morning three miles south of Osteen, resulted in minor injuries to Robert Morris, Osteen, and the hospitalization of Garvey Samson, Orlando.

The mishap occurred when Morris attempted to pass another car in the dense fog and hit a pickup truck driven by Samson head on, the Highway Patrol said.

Morris suffered bruises and abrasions and Samson was brought to Seminole Memorial Hospital with lacerations on both knees and an undetermined chest injury.

Morris was charged with improper passing by Trooper James R. Hooks of Volusia County, who investigated the accident.

Fluoride Benefits Pointed Out

Fluoridation of drinking water reduces tooth decay by 50 to 75 percent in children, Dr. Howard Hays and Dr. Veda Foster said Thursday at their meeting.

Dr. Hays spoke to the club on the benefits of fluoride in water, saying that in New York City alone about 100,000 children have been saved from the ravages of tooth decay by the use of fluoride. He said that in the United States, 100 million children are now in the greatest danger of dental caries.

The American Medical Association, the American Dental Association, the Public Health Service and the American Water Works Association have all endorsed the fluoridation of public drinking water as the most controlled, the safest and most economical method by which the amount of decay can be controlled, Dr. Hays said.

The amount of fluoridation is not as great for adults but is beneficial, he added.

Dr. Foster, a pediatrician, said that the greatest benefit to the health of children by the use of fluoride is accomplished in the last three months before birth and the first year of life.

Fluoride works through the process of hardening the enamel of the teeth to prevent the decay by almost acids that cause decay, Dr. Hays said.

He noted that in the past when man-made fluorides were used, the amount of fluoride was controlled by the amount of fluoride in the water. This is not the case now, he said.

He emphasized that many other commonly used chemicals are also poisons when used in excess, but noted that they are used every day with great benefit under proper control.

"The cost of fluoridation is only about one cent per person per day," Dr. Hays said, and added that the Seminole County Medical Society as well as all dentists have given their whole-hearted approval to the question of fluoridation of Seminole's public water supply.

In questions of infringements of personal rights, Dr. Hays pointed out that all courts have supported the cause of fluoridation and the Supreme Court has five times upheld the lower courts.

"This is not something new," he said. "The fluoridation was discovered in 1901 and clearly research has been going on for more than a quarter of a century. In 1952, five cities started to fluoridate. In subsequent years the people who lived in the city with fluoridated water showed more than 60 percent reduction in tooth decay."

He pointed out that all other organs of the body were checked to determine if any harmful effects had occurred and none were found.

"This is a bargain in public health," he said. "Fluoride is a nutritive element needed in the body for the building of strong teeth enamel. But it is not a medicine—it makes up for a deficiency."

Dr. Foster played an audio tape, received by him from a Harvard University nutritionist, which pointed up the need of the body for minerals, vitamins and amino acids in order to be well nourished and the need for fluoride to build strong, decay-resistant teeth.

In the business session of the club, Dr. John Deary was elected second vice president and it was announced that the meeting of Jan. 2 will be held at 7:25 p.m. at the Civic Center and include installation of new officers.

Chairman George Andrew Spear announced that the Kiwanis Club raised more money for the Salvation Army before than both the Rotary and Lions Clubs, so they had to accept the challenge to do.

Total raised by the Kiwanis was $282.33. Lions raised $244 and Rotarians $48. Spear noted that Rotarians had a bad day, with bitter cold and rain, so were unable to come up to the financial standards of the Kiwanis and Lions.

India Opens Talk On Kashmir Issue

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (UPI)—India opened talks with Pakistan on the Kashmir issue today with criticism of Pakistan's friendly attitude toward Communist China.

A. B. Singh, leader of the Indian delegation, indicated that a settlement of the 11-year-old Kashmir question could open the way for relations to all the problems existing between India and Pakistan.

He called for new approaches based on friendly cooperation.

Singh, a member of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's cabinet, said he suggested an anti-Indian press campaign in the Pakistani newspapers in recent weeks.

The talks, brought about by the diplomacy of the United States and Britain, were partly overshadowed by a surprise announcement Wednesday night that Pakistan has joined its border dispute with Communist China "in principle" including agreement to fix a provisional boundary between China and the part of Kashmir controlled by Pakistan.

Singh said India recognizes that Pakistan values and enjoys friendship with Communist China, "but we cannot but regret and deplore the fact that our efforts to defend ourselves against China are misinterpreted as preparations to attack Pakistan in the future."

Singh said India also once enjoyed and valued good relations with Communist China.

"No government could have done more than mine to try to establish and develop such relations," he said. "In return, we were first misled, then our territory was encroached upon surreptitiously, and when we tried to protect ourselves, we were attacked in force and have been deprived of vast areas of our country."

Kashmir became an issue soon after the 1948 partition of the Indian subcontinent into predominantly Hindu India and predominantly Moslem Pakistan. India controls about two-thirds of Kashmir; Pakistan the rest. But the population is 77 per cent Moslem and Pakistan feels a plebiscite would go in its favor.

Dog Bites Hand Of Girl Exposed To Cold, Eyes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A policeman moving through rush-hour traffic glanced up Wednesday and saw a young lady in her underwear struggling with a dog on an ice floe in the middle of the Potomac River.

He really did. He saw a college coed braving exposure, both to the elements and passerby, only to get bitten for watchful policeman, Thomas K. Barber, she was "scarcely clad."

The girl was Barbara Foster, 20, a junior at the University of Illinois. She said she was sight-seeing at the Jefferson Memorial when she saw a dog on an ice floe about 80 feet offshore.

Although the water temperature was near freezing, Miss Foster stripped to her slip and swam out to the dog. But the dog bit her.

Miss Foster, thinking quickly, yanked off her slip and threw it over the dog's head. At this point, according to the embittered dog were struggling away when the ice floe began to break up. Barber called for the harbor police and the fire department, and threw Miss Foster an inflated inner tube.

Miss Foster scrambled ashore in her underwear at the same time a flock of eager rescuers covered on the scene. She was taken to a hospital to be treated for exposure and dog bites on each arm.

The dog disappeared in the confusion. "Ingrate mongrel," muttered a policeman.

Check Postage Methods, Allen Tells Businesses

With new postage rates due Jan. 8, it is especially important now that local businessmen should "take a close look at their mailing practices to determine if they are operating with maximum economy and efficiency," Postmaster D. Guy Allen said today.

"Businessmen should search diligently for more efficient and economically sound methods of handling their mail because they may be able in many cases to offset the postage adjustments effective Jan. 7," he explained.

Proper use of postage scales and meters, in particular, can prove to be a good source of postage savings, he said. Specifically, he explained, businessmen can minimize losses by making certain that mail—particularly first-class and air mail—is correctly weighed and the correct postage carefully applied.

Individuals unfamiliar with the meter machines can add more postage than is necessary—which results in a direct loss to the business. The Post Office certainly wants correct postage but is anxious to encourage the development of mail "know how" to make certain that postal patrons pay not more than is fair.

During the past two years the Post Office Department, he said, has placed special emphasis on devising new techniques and "know how" to assist business in mailing operations.

"For example, all post offices, including ours," Allen said, "have special mail technicians who are available upon request to assist businessmen in fostering better mailing practices."

'Don't Go There,' Disgruntled American Says Of Australia

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Walter Padell, 30, an angry young man arrived back in the United States Wednesday from Australia where he lived three years and had some terse advice for Americans: "Don't go there."

Padell said he was lured to Australia in the winter of 1959 by what he called the Australian government's "enthusiastic talk" about jobs, climate and Australians in general.

Instead Padell said he found the weather unbearable—"summer too windy and winter too cold."

"I never realized how lucky I am to be an American."

One reason for this statement, he conceded, is that the American government lent him the money to return home.

Auxiliary members conducted an exchange of gifts and both groups enjoyed Christmas music and carol singing.

President Gets Whale Tooth For Christmas

FAIRHAVEN, Mass. (UPI)—President Kennedy's wife gave him for Christmas a whale's tooth inscribed with the presidential seal, it was reported today.

Milton Delano, artist and engineer, etched the seal on the whale's tooth at Jacqueline Kennedy's request and delivered it to her at the summer White House at Hyannis Port in October.

The president is a collector of scrimshaw, as such items are known.

There's No Telling About Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Remember that nursery rhyme about the girl with the curl who "when she was good, she was very, very good, but when she was bad, she was horrid."

Well, apply it to the Florida football team this year. It's about as apt a description of the Gators' performance prior to Saturday's Gator Bowl clash with Penn State as one could hope to find.

Just what the Gators will do against the Eastern champions, nobody knows. If the game goes as Coach Ray Graves plans, the favored Nittany Lions will feel the teeth of the Gainesville Gators and the classic title will return to Florida.

Anxious to prove their ability, the Floridians worked hard before final exams, took a week off for school chores, then wrapped Christmas at home for the practice field. Hard workouts resumed Monday and will continue through today, with a fade-out practice scheduled Friday.

The Nittany Lions worked out at Annapolis, Md., for several days before flying to St. Augustine, for final practices. Coach Rip Engle is satisfied his boys are in good shape, but he's not making any predictions. Over-confidence can be as deadly as inexperience, and Engle knows it.

Florida's hot-cold football was demonstrated best in the games against Duke, Auburn and Miami. The Gators racked up a 21-0 halftime lead against the Blue Devils, then relaxed while Duke roared back to win 28-21.

Against favored Auburn, Florida moved like a well-oiled machine to a surprising 22-3 win.

Florida's best football comes on the ground where All-Southeastern Conference choice Larry Dupree, pre shines. The 190-pound sophomore was the SEC's leading rusher by a margin of 126 yards, even though he didn't run behind the first team until the seventh game of the season.

Big junior tackle Frank

Australia Takes Doubles To Get Cinch For Cup

BRISBANE, Australia (UPI) — Rod Laver and his sidekick, Roy Emerson, teamed with steady efficiency to overpower a Mexican tandem today and enable Australia to clinch the Davis Cup for the fourth straight year.

The world's foremost amateur tennis stars needed only 66 minutes to subdue Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4, in the challenge round doubles match and give Australia an unbeatable 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series.

Emerson actually outshone Laver, the grand slam king of the courts who reportedly will turn professional at the conclusion of Friday's final and meaningless singles matches. "Roy played terrific tennis," said Aussie captain Harry Hopman, whose teams now have won 11 of the last 13 challenge rounds.

Hopman added that Laver "didn't play so well," but it didn't matter too much considering the heights Emerson reached. Jaunty Roy scored 20 key placements and added 15 winning volleys.

Aging Tittle Is Player Of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Y.A. Tittle of the New York Giants only two years ago on the scrap heap of pro football, today was voted United Press International Player-of-the-Year for the 1962 National Football League season.

The Giants to a man agree that they could not have won the Eastern Division title in the NFL this season were it not for their bald 36-year-old quarterback.

Tittle set a league record by throwing 33 touchdown passes, in addition to providing the brainy play-calling and inspired leadership requisite of a championship quarterback.

And despite his advanced age, he risked his limbs by carrying the ball 17 times, averaging 6.4 yards per rush and scoring a pair of important touchdowns.

Tittle won the honor by a close margin over fullback Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers. Tittle received 19 votes and Taylor 17 in a poll of 42 writers who covered the NFL campaign. Defensive tackle Roger Brown of the Detroit Lions attracted two votes and four players had one vote each.

BEST SHAD FISHING IN FLORIDA

THREE REGULAR shad fishermen, Fred Salokowitz, Harry Ginsberg and Ben Cohen, caught these 10 nice ones, which included four roe. Biggest weighed three and a half pounds.

By Jack Trim
The shad season is with us. Catches haven't been the greatest yet, but there apparently is a fair sized run of the shad up the river now and several severe cases of shad fever have started to respond to the medication. Some of the regular shad fishing visitors from up north and around have arrived and are having at it. The catches reported so far have been about a dozen each, which is pretty good, although the roe percentage is low yet. It would be hard to point out the best place to catch shad, but most people who have fished in the favorite spots around Lemon Bluff, the cutoff and the river near Jessup have caught some.

It's good to see that the winter visitors are coming to see us, since it isn't likely that the shad crop will freeze up. What with the citrus and vegetable crops badly hocked by the cold, our county should appreciate this business even more.

In this regard, some recent reading has got the value of our outdoor recreation back on my mind. I was much impressed by an article by the highly articulate Dr. Caleb King Sr., editor emeritus of the Jacksonville Times Union, who did a statistical roundup on the value of fishing and hunting.

He quoted the most recent survey by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which revealed a 24 percent increase in the economics of sports fishing and hunting in five years.

Probably the most significant national figure is the one which shows that more than twice as much money was spent on hunting and fishing as in the total of expenditures on baseball, boxing, basketball, football, movies, theater, concerts and other spectator events.

Packers 'Lot Looser' For Title Tilt With Revenge Minded Foe

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Coach Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers knows the New York Giants "have a lot of things going for them" in the National League title game Sunday.

"But we're a lot looser than we were during the final games of the season, so the mental aspect of this game should be about even," Lombardi said. His boys were under great pressure because "everyone was shooting for us," Lombardi said. The two week lull after season play has helped the players to unwind.

Lombardi conceded that the Giants will be higher than usual because of the 37-0 beating handed them by the Packers in the big game here a year ago. Also, they'll be playing before their own folks in Yankee Stadium.

But, most important, Lombardi said, "they're a better team than a year ago, and they were good then."

"Who the hell could have forecast last year's outcome? It was one of those things," Lombardi said.

So the Packers head into this showdown with nothing but respect for quarterback Y. A. Tittle, end Del Shofner and the rest of the Giants, who won the Eastern Division title with a 12-2 record. The Packers repeated in the West with a 13-1 mark.

Lombardi refused to say whether Paul Hornung will start at the running back spot. Last year Hornung was the star of the championship game, scoring a record 19

Second Greyhound Schooling Race Slate Scheduled Tonight

Thirty-two races send 196 greyhounds to the post in the second official schooling session tonight at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club as the track readies for its 28th opening Jan. 5.

The program starts off with a bang as seven top speedsters go to the post in the initial race of the evening. They are Wade Tray, Cliff Orth, Artistry, Lashes, Brandish, Rapid Roy and Reline.

Both Cliff Orth and Rapid Roy belong to Carl Tracy, owner of last season's winningest kennel with a total of 119 firsts. Orville Moses, owner of Artistry, Brandish and Lashes, was in second place at the end of the 1961-62 campaign with 114 winners. In 1961, Artistry won the Taunton Inaugural and finished second in the famed Taunton Derby that same year.

Fred Whitehead's Wade Tray, a veteran trophy collector, triumphed in the King and Queen Championship here last February and chalked up 12 wins, four seconds and one third in only 21 tries. He also

Spring Of Hope

For many people, a certain feeling follows Christmas, something that doesn't happen after any other holiday.

They complain that they were overjoyed at presents, that the card has got out of hand, that Aunt Harriet's story is what she got, that the day has been a waste of time and trouble that won't last.

They're thankful, they say, that it is over.

It may be inevitable that this be so, for no other holiday is thought about so much, talked about so much, and planned for so far in advance. It seems as if the importance of Christmas, having almost passed Thanksgiving, is slowly growing back on the calendar to cast its shadow even on Halloween.

Christmas may be getting too much holiday.

Still, it is not just the exploitation of Christmas that causes the letdown. In fact, this need not bother us if we won't let it. Nor is it the hectic and hectic, the social obligations, the emotional strain. These are shallow reasons.

A more basic explanation — at least for those who are affected by the true meaning of the season — may be that the very idea of Christmas revives around intangible things like happiness, love, good will.

Friends and all the rest are only the visible symbols of Christmas. The true Christmas is a general feeling of optimism for life and great, vague expectations that culminate on this one special day when our love for friends and family overflows onto all humanity and when every man has the right to be greeted with a cheery "Merry Christmas."

Then, after Christmas, comes a feeling that there is less happiness in the world than there should be, that good will to men is still just the aim of the few. The decorations suddenly look tarnished and drooping.

It was fun, this Christmas thing, but we were only kidding ourselves. The real world is down other months, not this one month or this one day, Christmas is for the kids.

Yet wise and disillusioned adults would not do away with Christmas, nor even the post-holiday reaction. For that, too, is part of Christmas. It reminds us that even though our spirits may have overreached themselves, they did search for something better. Simply, we went out again in search of the Star of Bethlehem.

And while we may not have found it, or discovered that it was only tinsel, we know the fault was ours—that there is a real star, that we will look for it again.

Jelen Fuller Says

Kennedy Scores A Plus

President Kennedy scored on his mid-term report to the nation on December 16 with the thought that "we ought to be rather pleased with ourselves this Christmas." He was referring to the effort this nation has made to strengthen the entire free world in recent years.

When Kennedy left Nassau five days later after a historic meeting with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, he had reason to be pleased with his own performance this Christmas as well. Largely due to his effort, the Nassau meeting produced and reinforced the Anglo-American Alliance which has been shaky of late. It also opened up a new prospect for better coordinated and unified defense of Western Europe on equal terms with our allies.

Gathering fire from this, the President turned the stormy Skybolt affair into a plus for the Alliance—certainly if results occur. The first if being whether Macmillan can survive the Labor Party storm in England.

Great Britain has stashed her nuclear weapons capability on a 1000-mile, air-to-ground missile to be used by British V-bombers. The U. S. has spent approximately $500 million trying to perfect this Skybolt missile—without success to date. In the doubt over that Skybolt could be perfected, Defense experts figure it could cost another $2.5 billion over the next few years. The President, on the advice of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, therefore decided to cancel the Skybolt project and rely on other weapons systems—the Polaris missile fired from nuclear-powered submarines in particular.

The British, who expected to purchase Skybolt missiles from the U. S., had been advised all along of the slow rate of progress on their development. But final word of the cancellation was a political as well as military shocker to the Macmillan government. Without Skybolt, Britain would be without independent nuclear capability. Without power to assure that capability, Macmillan was a sitting duck for the Labor Party opposition.

At Nassau, President Kennedy formally told Macmillan that the U. S. was dropping Skybolt from its own defense plans but would be willing to carry it forward jointly on a share-the-cost basis if Britain desired. The prime minister declined; the price was too steep for his pocketbook. The President next offered the shorter-range Polaris missile. The British doubted that it would work with their type of bomber; that too was declined.

Then Kennedy proposed and Macmillan accepted what can be a constructive alternative. The U. S. agrees to supply great Britain with the Polaris missiles with which we have equipped our own nuclear submarines. Macmillan will undertake to build British nuclear subs (there is only one at present) to carry the weapons, and to supply the nuclear warheads for them. He agrees on behalf of his government that the Polaris bearing submarines will be assigned, not as a separate British force, but as part of a NATO multilateral nuclear force. In other words, the new British submarines for which we would provide Polaris missiles would be the beginning of one united nuclear force to defend Europe.

This has been the U. S. goal for a long while of course. The great obstacle has been French President De Gaulle, who has refused to relinquish an ounce of French sovereignty to the Atlantic Alliance. But the Nassau pact includes a new proviso not previously suggested in proposals to De Gaulle and Kennedy and Macmillan have formally invited De Gaulle to subscribe to their agreement.

The Nassau pact specifically states that the new Polaris forces will function for purposes of international defense in all circumstances except where Her Majesty's government may decide that supreme national interests are at stake. This condition is designed to blunt the criticism that will undoubtedly descend upon Prime Minister Macmillan for delivering Britain's nuclear initiative into other hands. But if President De Gaulle considers this concession a sufficient face-saver to permit him to join in a joint force, that will be a far more important effect.

In any case, the pact of Nassau was an unusual display of constructive diplomacy for which we can all be pleased.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Augusta Stevenson glorifies our illustrious American pioneers in her many books for school children. She urges young readers to pursue one such volume every week to buy more TV time for themselves. Such children will then become so indoctrinated with Americanism that no Communist brainwashing will ever disturb them hereafter!

CASE O-422: Augusta Stevenson is one of America's greatest women. At present she is retired from active teaching and writing. But she is still much interested in educational trends.

When she started teaching in Indianapolis many years ago, she says there were many books glorifying foreign children and placing a halo on distant lands.

But she came from patriotic American ancestry, so she decided our school children should have access to books that glorified American boys and girls of the past.

Augusta felt that unless youngsters learn loyalty and devotion to ideals, plus patriotism, they will become wishy-washy.

That wishy-washy morale was clearly demonstrated in the way the Communists brainwashed our young men during the Korean War.

So Augusta Stevenson picked out the many heroes of our pioneer history, including George Washington, Myles Standish, Anthony Wayne, Ben Franklin, Molly Pitcher, Nathan Hale, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Daniel Boone, Clara Barton, Booker T. Washington, George Carver and many others.

Alas, some of our modern educators have now bowed to Europe so long they probably don't even recognize those illustrious names.

For many modern teachers are boot-lickers for anything foreign! They disdain rugged Americanism!

In one of our big state universities, for example, American History has been eliminated from the required courses for freshmen.

And do you know what has been substituted? Russian and European History!

And do you know the reason why many colleges are soft-peddling courses in American History but glorifying European and Asiatic History?

Bob Teddy Roosevelt vigorously demolished this silly notion when he said: "The professional internationalist usually sneers at nationalism, at patriotism and at what we call 'Americanism.' He bids us forswear our love of country in the name of love of the world at large. We nationalists answer that he has begun at the wrong end; we say that, as the world now is, it is only the man who ardently loves his own country first, who in actual practice can help any other country at all."

If you believe in Teddy Roosevelt's attitude, then you will relish prescribing Augusta Stevenson's historical adventure books that glorify our great pioneers.

And you will be happy to know that her superb books are the most widely used volumes in the juvenile field, despite the modern trend to disdain Americanism!

So let your children read one of her books each week to buy extra time before your family TV set, a la Prof. Ehrlich's plan as outlined yesterday.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 6-cent stamp, addressed envelope and 30 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Dick West Says

Reflections On Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The period between Christmas and the new year traditionally is a time for journalistic reflection.

Many newspapers use it to review the events of the past 12 months, to choose the 10 biggest news stories of the year and like that.

Not wishing to feel left out, I offer below a resume of my own "Highlights of 1962":

January—Rep. John W. McCormack, (D-Mass.), is elected as speaker. He describes House of Representatives as "the greatest deliberative body in the world." This is taken to mean that Congress is in for a long session. (See October.)

February—Moon shot misses by more than 20,000 miles. Rep. Eugene Siler, (R-Ky.), complains this is like "missing an elephant's south end while swinging at it with a big base fiddle." Space officials retort that it's more like missing a baboon with a bassoon.

March—Rep. Carl Vinson, (D-Ga.), releasing CIA report on the US incident, holds world's first do-it-yourself news conference. Not only provides the answers but asks all the questions. On certain points, however, he is unable to pin self down.

May—Cornerstone is laid for $100,000,000 congressional office building and Rep. L. Mendel Rivers (D-S.C.), gets a haircut. Rumor is that Rivers had flowing mane trimmed so a lock could be placed in cornerstone. Rumor not confirmed.

June—Astronaut John H. Glenn, who rode in 13th space capsule launched by United States is honored by anti-supernatural society. Society says belief that 13 is unlucky is mere superstition. Glenn agrees. Says 13 has always been his lucky number.

July—Women demand part in space program. Mrs. Philip A. Hart, wife of Michigan senator, tells House committee that role as mothers shouldn't keep women from becoming astronauts. Mrs. Hart has eight children.

August—Congressional adjournment rush begins.

September—Congressional adjournment rush continues.

October—Congressional adjournment rush ends. (See January.)

November—President Kennedy attends dedication of new Dulles International Airport. Dulles is first airport built for jet age. Many spectators miss ceremony because of traffic jam.

December—Internal Revenue Service, with equanimity, ushers in Christmas season by holding hearings on new expense account regulations. Consensus of taxpayer testimony is that IRS shot Santa Claus.

WASHINGTON—(NSA)

A few Washington lawmakers were disappointed recently by Mrs. Kennedy's shopping habits. The story goes that Mrs. Kennedy ordered some very nice and hard-to-get items for the White House Christmas, which the storekeepers had to say for in advance. The store didn't come in by the time Mrs. Kennedy reported and when the White House was notified of their late arrival, no reply was made.

While merchants reportedly were waiting for a thank you note, at least, for their efforts things took a turn for the better. The items were a complete call-out to Washington social climbers who heard about Mrs. Kennedy's original selection.

Washington newsmen are trying to unravel the case of the "missing jewelry."

Cognac producers put on display at the National Press Club an empty jeroeban—nearly-a-gallon cognac bottle—as a prize to be drawn for by NPO blood donors. The very first day the jeroeban went on display it mysteriously disappeared from the premises. To solve the mystery, cognac producers now are offering another bottle of cognac as a reward, if the cognac fancier will return the missing empty jeroeban and will donate one pint of blood.

An NPO spokesman promises the identity of this donor will be protected.

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, reportedly one of the "howls" in the recent Cuban crisis high level White House discussions, is said to be talking people to go easy on ripping apart and investigating the ways things are being done in foreign policy. He says, "If you want a plant to grow, don't go pulling it up every day to see how the root system is doing."

As an aftermath of the troubles that Defense Department spokesman Arthur Sylvester jumped into during the Cuban affair, various assistant spokesmen in his shop are now saying:

"Many a person who talks like a big wheel is merely a spokesman"

Gov. Mike LaBalle of Ohio, defeated for re-election in the November elections, called at the White House to see about a job with the Kennedy administration, which he probably will get.

"People are giving too much credit to James A. Rhodes for defeating me, and to Republican State Chairman Ray Bliss, who managed his campaign," Mike told the White House reporter. Then he explained that "I had a good bit to do with that, too."

Sen. Kenneth E. Keating of New York has been getting letters from his constituents back home saying they hope their votes contributed to his winning the election this past November. And then they go into asking him for favors. The trouble is, says Keating, he wasn't even seeking re-election this year. He last ran for office in 1960 and won't be up for re-election until 1964.

At a House subcommittee hearing on jet plane noise control, Chairman Owen Harris of Arkansas found he had some pretty sharp competition.

WASHINGTON—(NSA) — A few Washington lawmakers were disappointed recently by Mrs. Kennedy's shopping habits. The story goes that Mrs. Kennedy ordered some very nice and hard-to-get items for the White House Christmas, which the storekeepers had to say for in advance. The store didn't come in by the time Mrs. Kennedy reported and when the White House was notified of their late arrival, no reply was made.

While merchants reportedly were waiting for a thank you note, at least, for their efforts things took a turn for the better. The items were a complete call-out to Washington social climbers who heard about Mrs. Kennedy's original selection.

Washington newsmen are trying to unravel the case of the "missing jewelry."

Cognac producers put on display at the National Press Club an empty jeroeban—nearly-a-gallon cognac bottle—as a prize to be drawn for by NPO blood donors. The very first day the jeroeban went on display it mysteriously disappeared from the premises. To solve the mystery, cognac producers now are offering another bottle of cognac as a reward, if the cognac fancier will return the missing empty jeroeban and will donate one pint of blood.

An NPO spokesman promises the identity of this donor will be protected.

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, reportedly one of the "howls" in the recent Cuban crisis high level White House discussions, is said to be talking people to go easy on ripping apart and investigating the ways things are being done in foreign policy. He says, "If you want a plant to grow, don't go pulling it up every day to see how the root system is doing."

As an aftermath of the troubles that Defense Department spokesman Arthur Sylvester jumped into during the Cuban affair, various assistant spokesmen in his shop are now saying:

"Many a person who talks like a big wheel is merely a spokesman"

Gov. Mike LaBalle of Ohio, defeated for re-election in the November elections, called at the White House to see about a job with the Kennedy administration, which he probably will get.

"People are giving too much credit to James A. Rhodes for defeating me, and to Republican State Chairman Ray Bliss, who managed his campaign," Mike told the White House reporter. Then he explained that "I had a good bit to do with that, too."

Sen. Kenneth E. Keating of New York has been getting letters from his constituents back home saying they hope their votes contributed to his winning the election this past November. And then they go into asking him for favors. The trouble is, says Keating, he wasn't even seeking re-election this year. He last ran for office in 1960 and won't be up for re-election until 1964.

Phil Newsom Says . . .

'Smiley' Is Austere

When grim, chain-smoking Gen. Park Chung Hee moved up to take over control of South Korea's military dictatorship, some Americans in Seoul promptly tagged him "Smiley."

It was appropriate only for his irony.

For Park is an austere man dedicated to a new Korea which for the last year and a half he has been attempting to mould in the image of his own dedication and austerity.

By virtue of a vote which approved a new Korean constitution by nearly four-to-one, Park now plans to transfer the government back to civilian rule around August of next year.

The government framework thus may be altered but there seems little doubt that in Park sees himself as the new civilian president, possibly a civilian president who still wears his army uniform.

Park was almost a mystery man in May 1961, when he master-minded the coup which overthrew the regime of Byungnam Rhee which had grown corrupt with power.

Although he once had been under death sentence as a Communist collaborator — which he described as a "mistake" — no such tendencies have appeared in the Park who now rules South Korea.

Even his critics agree that he is a man of unquestioned integrity and high moral principles. An American described him as "so dedicated, he scares me."

As Park and his fellow officers in the military junta have had difficulties, so the new regime will have difficulties although strengthened by the nearly unanimous decision of Korean voters.

Austerity measures announced in a bewildering series of decrees have not been notably successful. The latest drive has been to discourage drinking — to cut down on public malbehavior and save money.

The ballooned program for officials to wear sackcloth uniforms and to carry lunch boxes to their offices flopped almost at the start. Few of the uniforms can be seen nowadays and most officials take their lunch at cheap restaurants which mix barly with their rice.

A hold-over austerity measure is against Western cigarettes. Citizens caught smoking them may be arrested and their names published in the newspapers.

The switch to civilian rule is expected to bring no change in United States policy toward Korea.

Korea got about $200 million in economic grants and loans in the last fiscal year and is expected to get about the same in the next. Similarly no change is expected in the U. S. policy which pays almost the entire cost of South Korea's 600,000-man army.

Matter Of Fact

Speakers of American English often poke fun at the mode of speech of their British brethren. This sport is no less popular in Britain. "I guess" was the Englishman's comic stereotype for Yankee speech until an English scholar pointed out that Chaucer used it regularly.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm stupid, but I would appreciate a simple rule for introducing people properly. Whenever I have to introduce people to each other, I get all flustered and make a mess of it. I've looked through etiquette books but it's so complicated I can't get it straight in my mind.

OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW BETTER

DEAR OLD ENOUGH: Don't feel stupid. Yours is a problem common to many who are old enough to know better. Just remember when introducing a lady to a gentleman to mention the lady's name first. ("Jane, may I present Billy") In introducing someone to an elderly person, mention the elderly person's name first. ("Grandma Jones, this is Peggy, my classmate.") When introducing a very important person use his name first. ("Bishop Pike, I'd like you to meet my father.")

DEAR ABBY: Our son married in a church wedding and all our friends and family sent very nice presents to the couple. Four years later they were divorced and now he is dating a girl who has never been married. If he should marry her, and she wants a church wedding, what do we do about wedding invitations? My husband and I feel we should not do a repeat job on our family and friends. He thinks one wedding present per child is enough. What is the correct way of handling this?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: If your son

marries a girl who has never been married and she wants a church wedding, invite your friends and family as though it were your son's first, too. The matter of the gifts is up to the guests. It's a ticklish business, but why should the bride be penalized?

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about guys who kiss and tell?

DEAR SYLVIA: Consider yourself lucky. Most guys kiss and exaggerate.

DEAR ABBY: We are two nurses who wish to comment on a common problem dealing with children. Why don't parents tell their children the truth regarding visits to the doctor? When a child is brought in for a shot, if he is told in advance that it will "hurt a little," he isn't half so hard to handle as the child who is told "it won't hurt a bit." By knowing the truth the child is prepared. But when the child learns (as he surely will) that he has been lied to, he grows to hate doctors, nurses and to distrust his parents.

Highlights

TV Time Previews

7:30-8:30 p. m. (NBC) Wide Country. "Journey Down A Dusty Road." (Rearm). There is a growing trend toward midwestern reruns which isn't bad if they are as good as this one. It's the story of Mitch's ride with a family of impoverished Minnert farmers and how he is drawn into their lives and difficulties. The hospital scene is particularly strong and memorable. Wallace Ford and Nellie Hurt are featured with stars Earl Holliman and Andrew Price.

8-9:30 p. m. (ABC) The Donna Reed Show. "Jeff Stands Alone." A bit overly sentimental, but warm nevertheless, is this episode in which young Jeff Stone (Paul Petersen) starts out on his own, without help from anyone, and finds the going too tough in a neighboring town. His parents (Donna Reed and Carl Betz) are sympathetic to his plan but he leaves, but seem relieved when he returns "a failure."

8-9:30 p. m. (NBC) Dr. Kildare. "A Time For Every Purpose." Veteran actress Betty Field takes on the tough portrayal of a tasteless mother who is psychologically maiming her daughter. Kildare gets the girl in the emergency ward after an accident that may result in the loss of an eye. Her mother's sympathy includes the dark possibility of a loveless and marriageless life. Jude Morton is featured with stars Richard Chamberlain and Raymond Massey.

9-10 p. m. (CBS) The Nurses. "Image Of Angela." There is a good deal of story to this one that should be chewed and digested for its total benefit. A young girl's biggest problem in life is her nose and having it reshaped to enhance her attractiveness. While waiting for the operation, she meets a jockey injured in a horse race, and liable to lose the use of one leg. Angela D'Ambrosia and Jerry Dodge are featured, making their dramatic debuts on TV. Skril Conway and Zina Bethune star.

High Nutrition Making People Have Greater Height, Weight

By Debra Smith

NEW YORK (UPI)—Newborn babies are no larger than they were a hundred years ago yet school children and even adults are taller and heavier. To explain this phenomenon, one of the world's most respected authorities on human physiology offered a two-part theory.

Nutrition has improved, said Dr. R. A. McCance. "But this is not the whole story." During the past century there have been remarkable declines in infectious diseases. You can't prove anything in people themselves, McCance conceded. But if you keep pigs, dogs, rats and many other animals on a "high nutritional plane" from birth onward and if at the same time you prevent bacteria and viruses from infecting them, you get a stepped-up growth rate. You can easily believe the principle applies to people, he said.

There are still many mysteries for science to explain in human nutrition. For instance, he continued, the nutrition of a human being before it is born "consists of amine acids, glucose, a limited amount of protein, but apparently no fat."

Once the human being is born it goes onto a milk diet and "all milk contains fat, some nearly 50 per cent, and this probably reaches the blood stream partly as triglycerides but how it is metabolized is by no means clear." Triglycerides are incriminated in artery-hardening. But regardless of the "nutritional plane," the large newborn "tends to become the large child and often an obese one."

9-10 p. m. (ABC) McHale's Navy. "The Day They Captured Santa Claus." This is a happy little Christmas story in which McHale plays Santa for native children, and throws in a bit of Robin Hood. To give the children a turkey dinner, Gruber makes off with the turkeys meant for the officers' club. Enroute to the children, McHale and his crew are caught in a Japanese ambush, where they are soon joined by the captain and his party, looking for the lost. Ernst Borgnine stars with Carl Ballantine and Joe Flynn.

10-11 p. m. (NBC) The Andy Williams Show. Color. A slowly paced but pleasant musical hour has host Andy Williams sharing his time with guest Tennessee Ernie Ford. Ernie introduces a song and sings his classic "16 Tons," but with "different" lyrics. Aside from a fun bit, where Ernie teaches Andy how to milk a cow and Andy's introduction of Pasadena's Rose Bowl Queen and her court, it's practically an all-song show with Andy getting his best vocal klicks with "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and "You Stepped Out Of A Dream."

Jacoby On Bridge

One test of a good player is his ability to make the best of a bad contract.

West's two spade opening was one of those weak two bids that are popular in expert circles. This time it gave North and South a bidding problem. Left to themselves they would have stopped at a comfortable four hearts.

The impetus of the weak two bid got them to the five level.

South won the opening spade lead and took stock. He had a spade loser and two possible diamond losers. Of course, if East held the king of diamonds there would only be one diamond lost, but

South saw how to make the hand even if West held that king.

He cashed dummy's ace of clubs and ruffed a club. He entered dummy with a trump, then ruffed the last club. Another trump led to dummy pulled the opponents' last trump.

Now he led a spade from dummy and put in the eight spot. West won with the nine and found himself end-played.

A spade lead would set up South's jack for a discard of a diamond from dummy. A club lead, if he had one, would allow a ruff and discard. West led a diamond. South allowed this to run around to his queen and cashed up his dangerous contract.

We The Women

By Ruth Millett

I'm worried about the next astronaut to go into space.

It's true our space planners have proved they are capable of putting a man into orbit and bringing him back safe and sound.

Everything has worked fine so far. But now I read that the next man into space will likely have sippers across the arms and shoulders of his space suit.

The sippers are to be relieve pressure and, according to the news story, "Test runs by Manned Spacecraft Center and the School of Aerospace Medicine at San Antonio have shown astronauts can close up the suits in time to save their lives if the Mercury spacecraft springs a leak."

Okay, so the sippers work fine in tests. But then sippers always do work—except in emergencies. It's when you're always running late and are frantically trying to get dressed on the double that the darned old sipper hangs on a thread or fold of fabric, or goes off the track, or the stitching holding it in place starts to rip.

So even though the sippers on the new space suits work perfectly in tests, can they be trusted not to turn flimsy in an emergency?

And wouldn't it be ironical if the worst moments the next man into space has to face are the moments when space suit sipper gets hung up and refuses to go either forward or backward?

Of course, the designers of the new space suit may have designed a foolproof sipper. If so, we'll all benefit.

You won't feel guilty about reading Ruth Millett's, "How To Have A Happy Husband."

Santa Visits Tots At NAS

LITTLE MISS KATHY FITZGERALD receives a present from Santa Claus who made a special trip in an A3B Skywarrior to attend the party given by Detachment Eight of Heavy Attack Squadron 11 at the Sanford Naval Air Station. (Herald Photo)

Santa Claus arrived at the Sanford Naval Air Station, Friday afternoon, in an A3B Skywarrior in time for a Christmas party. It was an express flight from the North Pole, piloted by Lt. Col. Ken Cosley, who just recently received his promotion from lieutenant.

Detachment Eight of Heavy Attack Squadron served as hosts for the officers, men and dependents of the parent squadron and the detachment at the party. The squadron is presently deployed in the Mediterranean.

The party was held at the NAS Ballroom and officers and wives present included: The officer-in-charge of Detachment Eight, Cdr. Robert M. de Lorenzi and his wife, the former Miss Elizabeth Ann Hall, of Jacksonville; Lt. Col. and Mrs. William E. Bassett, the executive officer, and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Neal J. Johnson, operations officer. Lt. Col. Johnson was in charge of the party arrangements.

More than 200 children were on hand with their parents to greet St. Nicholas (Leading Chief, J. M. Young ADRC) when he flew in for the party. The Skywarrior was provided especially for the occasion by Detachment Eight.

Well, the big day has come and gone for another year. But there is still New Year's Day coming up. Have several excellent recipes given to me this past week. First let me make a correction on a recipe printed last week. In the Alaska Minicrust Cake where it said combine 2 cups of sugar it should have been 2 cups water. We are very sorry for the misprint.

Here is a New Year's Punch. This will make about 30 punch cup servings.

4 cups water
3-2 inch cinnamon sticks
1 tsp. whole cloves
1 tsp. whole allspice
2 bottles (1 pint each) cranberry juice cocktail
2 bottles (28 oz. each) ginger ale, chilled
1 can (3 1/2 oz.) mandarin oranges

1. Combine water, cinnamon sticks, cloves and allspice in saucepan; cover, simmer 10 minutes, strain into large bowl or pitcher; add cranberry juice cocktail; stir to blend; chill.

2. To make ice ring: Pour 1 bottle gingerale into a 4 cup ring mold; freeze until firm.

3. When ready to serve, combine juice mixture and remaining three bottles of ginger ale in punch bowl; unmold ice ring, float on punch, flat surface up; garnish ring with oranges and twisted lemon slices.

The practice of dieting dates back 2,500 years to the ancient Greeks. Hippocrates, the father of medicine, advised that a healthy diet be neither too filling nor too meager. He probably would have to recommend that weight watchers eat halibut because it is low in calories yet rich in high-quality proteins.

I want to wish everyone a very Happy New Year. Make a good resolution and promise to send in your favorite recipe or hint or some problem needed to be solved or one you have solved. Share them with others. Send to me, care of Box 136, Lake Monroe.

Garden Gate

THE STORY OF THE CRECHE

The Christmas Crib is the subject of much research for no one knows just when the picturing of this holy scene began and lasted throughout the years.

However, it is believed that palms and tropical flora abounded in the vicinity of Bethlehem, for Nazareth, Galilee is still known as a rich agricultural district. The also well known Ewing Galloway painting shows clumps of broad spathed cacti interspersed with lush vegetation and olive trees in abundance.

Grebes, gulls and pelicans from the nearby sea of Galilee lived in this section as well as tortoises, crayfish, turtles and sand hoppers. So the very scenes adjacent to Bethlehem are of interest to our garden club members who specialize in the study of horticulture.

Devout followers of Christ have recalled His birth in paintings of their own times, in sculpture and local miracle plays. Then, from the 12th, 13th and 14th centuries there followed in Italy the construction of the Crib, beginning with the Nativity scene only. From this humble observance, the adoration spread to Germany where elaborate carvings, many of them movable and outfitted with costly fabrics impressed and interested royally, leading to life sized models of Mary, Joseph and the shepherds with their flocks, worshipping the holy Babe.

History tells us that Giuseppe Sammartino (1720-1793) and his pupil, Gori, were the most famous Neapolitan crib makers. In Germany, too, whole families expressed their devotion in recording the Nativity and from year to year, repaired and added to the figures.

In the south of France cribs made by Laurent are shown in the Marseilles Museum.

The beloved St. Francis of Assisi is credited with the use of the Crib as a part of Christmas Eve worship. He included in his Bethlehem scene live animals for a reverent celebration of the Christ Child's birthday. On each holy Eve it is said torches burned brightly in Greece, Italy. Fresh hay was brought to the Crib, animals were tethered near by and the hillside rejoiced with songs of love and devotion leading to a solemn Mass.

At the top of the flight of steps leading to the towering Capitoline Hill in Rome it is a time honored custom to hold the Children's Sermon at the famed church of Alta Coeli. The Bambino is a carved statue, swaddled in fine linen and crowned with gold. Before the church Crib young people sing each year and tell poetic stories in honor of the infant Jesus.

To the U. S. colonists brought customs from the mother countries, Holland, Germany, Sweden and Italy. Settings of the shrine became more sophisticated in the landscape and figures of excellent material with robes of beauty. In Bethlehem, Pa., known as The Christmas City, there is a Putz displayed throughout the entire Christmas season. This is in seven scenes, historians relate, with Herod's temple, for instance, faithfully reproduced and its figures, carved from mahogany, link the past with the present service of adoration. Atop South Mountain is a 100 foot electric cross.

The Putz is a form of poetry in its essence which connotes beautifully with the elegant simplicity of the Creche. Adding to the religious happiness of the season, families show their Christmas Gardens in Baltimore from which they no doubt emerge to the Holy Night Vigil.

For the source material of this edition of the Garden Gate by the Palm Circle of the Sanford Garden Club we are indebted to the Bible scholar, Professor Frederick B. Cleveringa, formerly Professor of Library Science at Western Michigan University, presently making his retirement home in DeBary.

$800,000 In Suits Filed By Firm

City, Manager Named Defendants In Action

M. L. Saxon, of Saxon Title Control Company of Holly Hill, through his attorney, Maurice Wagner, filed two suits on two counts, each in Circuit Court Thursday against the City of Sanford and City Manager W. E. Knowles.

One brief concerning a news story which appeared in the Sanford Herald, Dec. 21 charged that statements attributed to Knowles were "false, wickedly and maliciously intending to injure and destroy the business, good reputation and credit of the plaintiff in his individual and business capacities" and asked $150,000 on the first count, which was against Knowles and $250,000 on the second count against the City of Sanford.

A second brief was filed, with the same charges and suit, because of a story which appeared in the Orlando Sentinel-Seminole, Volusia edition, bringing the total demand judgment to $800,000 — $300,000 against Knowles and $500,000 against the City of Sanford.

The plaintiff denied each and every statement, charge and inference attributed to Knowles under Public Law 3478 on making "false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory libel and slander, in statements made to reporter(s)."

The suits quoted the stories printed by both papers, in their entirety, categorically denying each remark, charge and statement.

President Puts Personal Touch To Cuban Action

PALM BEACH (UPI)—President Kennedy has decided to step personally into a highly emotional situation in South Florida to dramatize this country's intention to help upset the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro.

The chief executive will fly to Miami Saturday by helicopter to speak to the assembled survivors of "Brigade 2506," the military organization of Cuban refugees as badly routed in the abortive 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion.

More than 1,100 of the men were ransomed from Castro prisons this week with an estimated $70 million worth of medical supplies, food and credit for the Communist government of Cuba.

The formation of Brigade 2506 for inspection by the president will take place at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the 80,000-seat Orange Bowl stadium where families and friends of the recently liberated captives are expected to gather by the thousands.

The chief executive will speak at the end of what promised to be an emotional ceremony. Arrangements for his appearance were made late Thursday by a delegation representing the prisoners.

The men members of the group, most of them lean and gravafted after 20 months of Cuban prison squalor, spent 15 minutes talking with Kennedy at the Palm Beach residence where he and his family are spending the holidays.

The men fresh from prison and suffering resembled a group of mourners in new black suits and unsmiling faces. The president did his best to make them feel at home, serving tall cool drinks in the patio of his residence and presenting the men to his wife, Jacqueline, who spoke with the delegation in fluent Spanish.

Manuel Artimo, 30, was the ranking civilian officer representing the Cuban Revolutionary Committee in Brigade 2506. He was such a firebrand that Castro demanded $500,000 special ransom for him.

Another Hole Blasted In Wall By Berliners

BERLIN (UPI)—A home-made bomb blasted a 10-foot square hole in the Berlin wall early today, shattering 600 windows but injuring no one.

West Berlin police said the windows broke from the concussion of the blast within a radius of 200 yards. Damage to the wall was negligible. No refugees escaped through the hole.

The blast occurred shortly after midnight at the Burger of Zimmerstrasse and Lindenstrasse in West Berlin. It failed to dent a second thicker wall a few feet behind the site. The East Berlin side in that area is vacant land and war-torn ruins.

A wooden police observation platform on the west side of the wall was damaged. The door and show-window of a tobacco and liquor store nearby were smashed and stock spilled into the street.

During the night a 22-year-old East German border guard fled in uniform to West Berlin. He crossed the barbed wire barricade into the northern section of the city, unnotified by his fellow guards. West Berlin police said.

At least 17 refugees reached Berlin safely since the beginning of Christmas week, including eight members of two families who crushed through Communist barriers in an armor-plated bus.

Author Adopts 60-Year-Old Secretary As Son

NICE, France (UPI)—British author Somerset Maugham, 88, legally adopted his 60-year-old private secretary Alan Searle as his son, court records showed today.

The aged author went to a local notary last April 12 and had legal adoption papers drawn. They were formally recognized by a court here June 7.

Neither Maugham nor his secretary was available for comment at Maugham's residence on the Riviera.

Maugham recently started a court action here to gain a declaration that gifts made to his 47-year-old daughter Elizabeth, now Lady John Hope, were illegal. The sum involved is reputed to be in the region of $1.4 million.

Theragen Industries Corp., located in the Industrial Park three miles south of Oviedo in the Lake Charm area, is expected to get into full swing next week. The business, which will manufacture 110 volt AC generators and will open with eight to 10 employees, hopes to have at least 50 persons at work within the next three months.

Don McNeil, who has been Breakfast Clubbing it all these years, will put the Sanford area in the spotlight Sunday on Channel 9 TV when he stages the "telling of the exciting story of Mackle Bull Deltona." The program is scheduled for 7 p.m.

When Oviedo Gets A Siren, It Goes All Out

At the height of the Cuban crisis when everybody was extremely Civil Defense conscious, the Oviedo Town Council ordered a new $1,000 siren to replace the now almost worn out device which has served the community for years.

A few days ago it arrived and the town fathers are in a state of consternation over what to do with it. It stands in the firehouse, still crated, while town talk goes on over whether to hire a bridge building company to make a stand for it, or whether to even try and put the thing up in the air at all.

It stands over four feet high, four feet in diameter, weighs over 700 pounds, and the council proudly asserts it is the largest fire siren in Seminole County.

There are seven tone openings and it will have separate oscillations for fire call and Civil Defense warnings. It is equipped with a 10 horsepower motor.

The council men all declare they had not anticipated receiving such a big item when they lightly told Fire Chief Bo Lingo to go ahead and order a new siren.

By Hospitalized By Fall Off Truck

Charles (Rickey) Esclavon, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Esclavon of Longwood, was seriously injured Thursday afternoon when he fell out a pickup truck driven by his brother, Robert, 18, near Sanlando Springs, the Highway Patrol reported.

Rickey was standing in the back of the truck when they entered a curve and the right wheel of the vehicle went off the road. Robert tried to straighten out and as the truck swerved his brother fell from the truck.

He landed on his shoulder and the back of his head, suffering a suspected fracture of the skull and severe lacerations of the head, according to Tpr. C. E. Tomlinson, who reported the accident.

The boy was taken to Seminole Memorial Hospital and transferred to Orange Memorial Hospital, Orlando, where his condition was reported as "fairly good" this morning.

Medicare, School Aid Push Eyed

PALM BEACH (UPI)—President Kennedy swung his legislative planning for 1963 today to consideration of how to get Congress to approve two politically significant programs it spurred this year.

Medical care for the aged under Social Security financing was understood to be high on the agenda for talks by the president today with Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze. So was federal aid to education.

The administration will try again next year for federal aid to public schools, as well as to higher education. This proposal has been batted down twice in Congress, but administration experts believe each passing year reduces some of the opposition.

Much the same thinking was behind the president's decision to push again for Medicare. He and his advisers sense what they regard as slowly growing public support for the plan.

This was Kennedy's third day of talks on the vacation White House with cabinet officials and other high administration aides on next year's budget, reported at an all-time high in excess of $99 billion and the 1963 legislative program.

Compensation Tax Cut Set

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The Industrial Commission expects to cut the minimum unemployment compensation tax rate more than one-half during 1963, Chairman Wesley Brown revealed today.

Auto Licenses To Go On Sale

The new 1963 automobile license plates will go on sale Wednesday at the tag office in the Seminole County Court house, Tax Collector John L. Galloway said today.

Galloway, who serves as agent for the state motor vehicle commission, called attention to the fact that mail service is available for those who do not have time to call at the courthouse for the tags.

"To obtain a tag by mail, all that is necessary is to mail in your 1963 auto registration card with the remittance for the cost of the tag plus 50 cents mailing cost and the tag will be mailed to you," Galloway pointed out.

In other action, the commission denied free use of the Civic Center by the Sanford Male Chorus.

Designated the Florida State Bank and Sanford Atlantic Natl. Bank as official depositories for the coming year.

Approved payment of a total of $13,300.61 on estimate number five to the contractor for the sewage disposal plant.

City To Proceed On Acquisition Of Old Post Office

The City Commission voted Thursday night to proceed with its effort to acquire the old post office building for use as a public library.

The problem of a library certification requirement was pointed out as a possible factor in halting the city's effort to acquire the building for this use, but commissioners decided to proceed.

City Manager W. E. Knowles told the commission that he thought the details for acquisition of the building from the General Services Administration can be worked out.

Ball Rolling To Get State's Rights Rule

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Former House Speaker William V. Chappell says a state-backed ball is rolling to amend the U. S. Constitution to prevent federal courts from interfering with legislative re-apportionment.

Chappell said Thursday he will ask Gov. Farris Bryant to call a one-day special session of the Legislature Jan. 16 to form plans to have Congress create a supercourt to rule on federal court jurisdiction in cases involving states' rights.

A constitutional amendment creating a supercourt would simplify state-backed changes in the federal constitution, Chappell said.

The plan being kicked around would allow a constitutional convention to be called upon approval by the legislatures of two-thirds of the nation's 50 states. Changes in the constitution would become law upon approval of three-fourths of the state legislatures.

The former House speaker said there is a "possibility" the Legislature will already be in re-apportionment special session on Jan. 16.

He said if the Legislature is in session but has not agreed on a re-apportionment settlement, he will ask the lawmakers to devote one day to states' rights.

Chappell said there is still hope the Legislature can re-district itself before the regularly scheduled April session.

The former speaker said he would go along with statutory re-apportionment—if a constitutional amendment followed in 1963, or 1965 at the latest.

But, he added, "the last time I checked, there weren't enough votes committed to the statutory approach, though it was close enough that a concentrated effort could throw us over the top."

Help Is Asked In Refuse Pickups

The recent freeze has created some problems for Sanford refuse collectors and the City Commission voted Thursday night to ask the cooperation of residents in solving one of them.

Residents having damaged citrus fruit from dooryard trees or groves are asked to place such fruit in some sort of box or container when putting it out for the collectors.

There is so much fruit being piled out for collection by the refuse trucks that it gets scattered and is difficult to clean up when not in some sort of container, the city manager pointed out.

The refuse department expects about two more weeks of extra work in cleaning up frozen shrubbery, fruit and other freeze-created rubbish.

Skybolt Effort Still Studied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force insisted today that last Saturday's test of the Skybolt missile was a success, but informed sources indicated the performance was considerably less than 100 per cent.

The military services customarily describe such a test as a success if it provides information sought in a particular experiment. But this does not always mean that a missile hit a target.

In Saturday's test near Cape Canaveral, it was reported, the Skybolt did not carry a nose cone for protection on re-entry into the atmosphere, and therefore burned up.

Moreover, according to informed sources, it would have missed the target by approximately 100 miles if the nose cone had been in place.
